Even John Peeler is mentioned in there

craig-oxley - January 21, 2009 12:46 PM (GMT)

Something interesting:

QUOTE

"Since it began in January 1997, more than 40 search warrants have been executed, 19 boiler room operations closed, 17 people arrested in federal and local fraud cases, and $1.57 million impounded from suspect companies, said Tim White, an FBI special agent in Santa Ana."

http://articles.latimes.com/1998/jun/28/news/mn-64388

notice that's california where gunderson was an fbi boss.

QUOTE

FBI Asks Public's Help in Finding Two Bank Robbers

[Orange County Edition]

Los Angeles Times (pre-1997 Fulltext) - Los Angeles, Calif.
Author: TINA NGUYEN
Date: Apr 20, 1996
Start Page: 7
Section: Metro; PART-B; Metro Desk
Text Word Count: 249

Abstract (Document Summary)

FBI investigators are seeking the public's help in locating "the B-52 Bandit" and "the Bucktooth Bandit," two serial bank robbers.

The B-52 Bandit is so named "because he's heavy-set and large like a B-52 bomber," FBI Special Agent Tim White said. The man is suspected of robbing three banks in Costa Mesa, Huntington Beach and Corona del Mar between April 4 and Monday, White said.

http://pqasb.pqarchiver.com/latimes/access...rs&pqatl=google

QUOTE

Fraud Squad of Sly Seniors Helps FBI

[Orange County Edition]

Los Angeles Times - Los Angeles, Calif.
Author: JEFF LEEDS
Date: Jun 28, 1998
Start Page: 1
Section: PART-A; Metro Desk
Text Word Count: 1435

The 58-year-old woman--call her Susan--was perhaps the most prolific operative among the dozens of volunteers from the American Assn. of Retired Persons who work undercover for the FBI, posing as victims to catch telemarketers on the prowl.

While their real identities are a closely guarded secret, the little-known squad of volunteers has produced some 11,000 recordings of conversations with scam artists in the past five years, revolutionizing the prosecution of phone fraud.

A consortium of law-enforcement agencies in Orange County--a national hot spot for "boiler room" scams--runs its own leg of the operation. Since it began in January 1997, more than 40 search warrants have been executed, 19 boiler room operations closed, 17 people arrested in federal and local fraud cases, and $1.57 million impounded from suspect companies, said Tim White, an FBI special agent in Santa Ana.

http://pqasb.pqarchiver.com/latimes/access...BI&pqatl=google

More at:
http://news.google.com/archivesearch?hl=en...im+white%22+fbi

craig-oxley - January 22, 2009 04:15 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

Final note: I wish to quickly respond to a Craig Oxley who lives in England and is currently smearing me on various blogs and websites around the internet. Oxley is a stooge of FBI Division 5 and takes his orders from KHAZARIAN Jew, British Intelligence stooge Tina Brown.

You, along with Jeff Fisher and FBI Division 5 assassin Tim White, are committing felonies. We have documented those felonies, and along with your physical threats against year 2000 duly elected President Albert Gore Jr., and are now in possession of the incoming Barack Obama Justice Department

Tina Brown appears regularly on MSNBC as a mouthpiece for both Bill and Hillary Clinton. Tina, being British, likes the idea of royal families.

Tina Brown, along with TIME magazine's Joe Klein, have for years covered up the extent and criminal activity of the Bush-Clinton-Mossad-Gary Best "TRUE COLORS" assassination teams, which includes the assassination of Caroline Kennedy's brother and son of the late President, John F. Kennedy Jr.

John F. Kennedy Jr. was ready to challenge Hillary in the year 2000 New York Democratic senatorial primary and was about to publish the secrets of the Bush-Clinton "TRUE COLORS" assassination teams in his George magazine.

So you see, folks, why the KHAZARIAN Jew-British Intelligence media filth are afraid of Caroline Kennedy since she is not a crook and would immediately bust the Bernard Madoff-Mossad money laundry ponzi scheme.

Craig Oxley, along with Tim White, both of whom are anti-Catholic bigots, have used an FBI Division 5 stooge, Jeff Fisher, to actually create phony email addresses in my name, and actually forge letters and briefings that are not my writings or work.

Craig Oxley's email address is and one of many of Tim White's email addresses is ..., aka 'radar runner'.

Direct message to British monarchist Oxley:

You, along with Jeff Fisher and FBI Division 5 assassin Tim White, are committing felonies. We have documented those felonies, and along with your physical threats against year 2000 duly elected President Albert Gore Jr., and are now in possession of the incoming Barack Obama Justice Department.

So your time is up,punks. It will not be long before all of you are in handcuffs and facing justice.

Special message to Eric Jon Phelps:

You are a scumbag and a fraud and we know now that you have been on the Bush-Clinton Crime Family Syndicate payroll for years. It is about time you get a real job, maybe the Vatican can hire you as an altar boy.
…

We live free or die as we continue to identify the enemies of the American Republic and the 2nd American Revolution in the 21st Century and eradicate them.

TOM HENEGHAN'S EXPLOSIVE INTELLIGENCE BRIEFINGS
International Intelligence Expert, Tom Heneghan, has hundreds of highly credible sources inside American and European Intelligence Agencies and INTERPOL--reporting what is REALLY going on behind the scenes of the controlled mainstream media cover up propaganda of on-going massive deceptions and illusions.

GOD BLESS AND SAVE AMERICA
LAND THAT WE LOVE
ONE NATION UNDER GOD

http://blog.myspace.com/tom_heneghan_intel

Patriotic,God-loving, peaceful Jewish People are NOT the same as the war mongering ZIONIST KHAZARIAN Jews.

First of all Thomas G. Heneghan, I do yes live in England and this is no secret whatsoever. I don't smear you on blogs and websites at all. I expose you on a forum and nothing more, my forum infact. I'm a stooge of nobody and certainly not the bloody FBI Div #5 or incase you claim this one CIA Div #4 either. I know no Tina Brown and only ever known two Tina's in my entire life one was at high school. Can you explain this? You talk about Royal Families as if their the scum of the Earth. Remember on the Reformation. Remember on who is the oldest Monarchy on Earth, yes the Pontifex Maximus Pope of yours. I really wish I had these big friends you claim Thomas, I'd be rich instead of poor. The Assassination teams against John F Kennedy were Secret Service, ONI, CIA and FBI tied in with Permanent Industrial Expositions. You call us anti Catholic bigots whilst being the biggest bigot against these Khazarian Jews as you claim. Funny you miss out the Sabbatean Frankists and how that all connects back to Rome. I've often asked people including Eric and I think Nelson who this Jeff Fisher was. A guy who kept emailing me promoting Al Gore Jr all the time. In the style of yourself Thomas, so don't claim now I'm emailing myself please. You like to associate people with such bunkum its incredible and makes me now not believe an utter word of your bigoting against Khazarians. So now I'm the kingpin of not only the anti-Vatican movement but also against Albert Gore Jr. I couldn't give a shit about treasonous Al Gore Jr. I care not for people who are Club of Rome and wish to depopulate the planet. I care not for people who drink AdrenalChromaffin coming from only live sacrifice. You go on and on about these Khazars yet your Al Gore Jr is related to them through marriage. Al Gore Jr is low down dirty sneak lying and cheating son of a bitch who should be shot by American real Sheriffs for his treason upon the united states of America for his beloved United States corporation. A stooge of Prince Philip and one whos pushing on of the greatest frauds in history called Global Warming! Give me a break Thomas Heneghan. So the big bad mulatto Barry Davis Soetoro is going to get me huh? Well he should be shot by American Sheriffs for being a non U.S Citizen stealing the Presidency off Senator John McCain or Hillary for that matter. The sooner all you filthy scum of the 14 Amendment are gone the better take that Roman Catholic boy back to your Pontifex Maximus. Is your great stooge Patrick Fitzgerald going to come and get me in jolly old England? Like he did Bush and Cheney? Great I'll sit back and keep slurping my herbal tea then. So now you come out once again with false accusations against suppressed truthsayer, Eric Jon Phelps. Once again Thomas you've proven your little worth in this arena, unless of course we want diversionist idiot nonsense. Be careful about using the term intelligence as that word and Thomas G Heneghan doesn't go together one bit. -CRAIG OXLEY

AntiSionist - January 22, 2009 06:15 PM (GMT)

At least he got your name right this time, Craig. Last time he called you Chris.

Tom I know you are reading this so you better watch your fucking mouth. We have documented evidence that you called Eric Jon Phelps a pedophile from the FBI. If you ever THINK about going after Eric Jon Phelps in court or something like that, you are TOAST. DO YOU UNDERSTAND???

craig-oxley - January 23, 2009 01:43 AM (GMT)

WELL...now we ALL know why NELSON THALL (aka "Lenny Bloom") has this LYING ALCOHOLIC ASSHOLE Tom Heneghan on WWW.CLOAKANDDAGGER.DE (aka CROAK and STAGGER) ..it's for the COMEDY that "Lenny Bloom" is sooooo PROUD of coming out of TORONTO....YUP FOLKS !...DRUNKEN LYING JESUIT ALTAR BOY TOM HENEGHAN IS A LIVING-DRUNKEN-LYING JOKE !...Heneghan--who lives at 1036 GARFIED AVE in VENICE CALIFORNIA,has a "girlfriend" by the name of ANN J GEORGE who has the SAME 1036 GARFIELD AVE in VENICE CALIFORNIA address show up in a quick Google search...JESUIT ALTAR BOY CLOWN Heneghan has the middle name of GEORGE and this is why there is G and G in his email address gangbrokerage@msn.com more on all of this HENEGHAN COMEDY REAL SOON ! ! ..this SLIMY LYING ALCOHOLIC is just PATHETIC in the EXTREME.....this DRUNKEN CLOWN has the sum total of ZEEEERO "credibility"...I sure HOPE that NSA's "RED DOG" is proud of HIS JESUIT BOY !

Tim White,Viet Nam Vet(USAF)Concerned Citizen,Researcher,Investigator,Whistleblower

AntiSionist - January 23, 2009 05:27 AM (GMT)

Hmmm. If Lenny Bloom, aka Nelson Thall had a madeup name, how do we know that Tom G. Heneghan is this guy's real name? Did he perhaps steal it from the Tom Heneghan that writes for Reuters on religion?

craig-oxley - January 23, 2009 07:34 AM (GMT)

You will not find thee Lenny Bloom with a private investigative typical study. You will find Nelson Thall only. You will on the other hand find Thomas down in Venice!

craig-oxley - January 28, 2009 12:44 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Jan 21 2009, 12:46 PM)

Something interesting:

QUOTE

"Since it began in January 1997, more than 40 search warrants have been executed, 19 boiler room operations closed, 17 people arrested in federal and local fraud cases, and $1.57 million impounded from suspect companies, said Tim White, an FBI special agent in Santa Ana."

http://articles.latimes.com/1998/jun/28/news/mn-64388

notice that's california where gunderson was an fbi boss.

QUOTE

FBI Asks Public's Help in Finding Two Bank Robbers

[Orange County Edition]

Los Angeles Times (pre-1997 Fulltext) - Los Angeles, Calif.
Author: TINA NGUYEN
Date: Apr 20, 1996
Start Page: 7
Section: Metro; PART-B; Metro Desk
Text Word Count: 249

Abstract (Document Summary)

FBI investigators are seeking the public's help in locating "the B-52 Bandit" and "the Bucktooth Bandit," two serial bank robbers.

The B-52 Bandit is so named "because he's heavy-set and large like a B-52 bomber," FBI Special Agent Tim White said. The man is suspected of robbing three banks in Costa Mesa, Huntington Beach and Corona del Mar between April 4 and Monday, White said.

http://pqasb.pqarchiver.com/latimes/access...rs&pqatl=google

QUOTE

Fraud Squad of Sly Seniors Helps FBI

[Orange County Edition]

Los Angeles Times - Los Angeles, Calif.
Author: JEFF LEEDS
Date: Jun 28, 1998
Start Page: 1
Section: PART-A; Metro Desk
Text Word Count: 1435

The 58-year-old woman--call her Susan--was perhaps the most prolific operative among the dozens of volunteers from the American Assn. of Retired Persons who work undercover for the FBI, posing as victims to catch telemarketers on the prowl.

While their real identities are a closely guarded secret, the little-known squad of volunteers has produced some 11,000 recordings of conversations with scam artists in the past five years, revolutionizing the prosecution of phone fraud.

A consortium of law-enforcement agencies in Orange County--a national hot spot for "boiler room" scams--runs its own leg of the operation. Since it began in January 1997, more than 40 search warrants have been executed, 19 boiler room operations closed, 17 people arrested in federal and local fraud cases, and $1.57 million impounded from suspect companies, said Tim White, an FBI special agent in Santa Ana.

http://pqasb.pqarchiver.com/latimes/access...BI&pqatl=google

More at:
http://news.google.com/archivesearch?hl=en...im+white%22+fbi

on your website....that I am NOT the "TIM WHITE..an FBI SPECIAL AGENT in SANTA ANA"...I've NEVER EVER BEEN TO SANTA ANA !...I have spent the sum total of 7 DAYS in California since 1969 and Santa Ana is a place I HAVE NEVER BEEN TO....the LAST THING I NEED is for these 2 VICIOUS LIARS HENEGHAN and WEBB to SPIN this into MORE LIES ABOUT ME !

Tim White from Denver-now in Vancouver BC

....NOT the FBI Special Agent Tim White in Santa Ana California...I NEVER KNEW THIS GUY EXISTED UNTIL 3 DAYS AGO !

craig-oxley - February 23, 2009 02:15 AM (GMT)

CHRISTOPHER STORY - REBUTTAL TO RECENT TOM HENEGHAN ASSERTIONS

Posted By: hobie
Date: Friday, 13 February 2009, 5:43 p.m. Hi, Folks - Tom Heneghan posted on Wednesday, Feb 11, an article with this intriguing headline:

Warrant Issued for Greenspan's Arrest - Madoff-Gate Update

I began reading, and found that within the body of the article there were also some intriguing assertions being made regarding Michael C. Cottrell. Long-time RMN Readers will be aware that Christopher Story has quite often mentioned Cottrell and has indicated that he considers Cottrell to be a man of high integrity. In earlier articles by Story, Cottrell was often mentioned in connection with references to Leo Wanta. Story's estimation of Wanta eventually underwent a considerable change - but his view of Cottrell remained unchanged. These three articles by billym, while not the complete story, would bring you up to speed if you'd care to read through them - it's a complex story, and these articles are pretty lengthy: WANTA TRILLIONS DIARY TIMELINE: DEC. 2006 (views: 1618) billym -- Tuesday, 2 January 2007, 10:11 a.m. WANTA TRILLIONS DIARY TIMELINE (CONTINUED) (views: 1133)
billym -- Tuesday, 2 January 2007, 10:14 a.m. WANTAGATE THOUGHTS: CHRISTOPHER STORY BREAKS WITH WANTA (views: 53)
billym -- Sunday, 11 May 2008, 8:37 a.m. I'll include a relevant segment of Heneghan's article below. First, however, here's Christopher Story's rebuttal to Heneghan's assertions, received by e-mail and posted here with Story's permission: =====

(1) Michael C. Cottrell, B.A., M.S., is at his residence and office in Erie PA. He has not been arrested. (2) No warrants have been issued for the arrests of Michael Cottrell and Colonel Dana Wilcox and no investigations of either of them have been undertaken or are intended (3) Your communication has been forwarded to the Badges. (4) Aspects of the matter have, I understand, been vigorously dealt with by authorities behind the scenes. (5) Michael C. Cottrell, B.A., M. S., may be contacted on 814 455 9218. Anyone calling him must identify themselves fully. (6) All other assertions in the referenced Heneghan segment, with which I am familiar, are also totally false. (7) The scurrilous attack by innuendo represents a response by Wanta, who remains a convicted felon, to our revelation for the first time, in the recent report, of the status of Mr Michael C. Cottrell B.A., M.S., with respect to the G-7-Approved Refunding Programme. (8) I have been briefed on the matter in detail and will add substantially to this rebuttal of these scurrilous lies and libels in the forthcoming report, which is currently in preparation. Christopher Story FRSA, London, 13th February 2009.

===== And here's a segment of Tom Heneghan's article, found at fourwinds10.com , here: http://fourwinds10.com/siterun_data/govern...hp?q=1234479100 =====

P.S. We can also reveal tonight that warrants have also been issued for the arrests of East German Stasi DVD-U.S. CIA agent and ex-Naxi, Colonel Dana Wilcox, along with former Leo Wanta colleague Michael Cottrell.

Reference: The ex-Nazi, current East German Stasi DVD agent Wilcox has, at varied times, actually tried to misrepresent himself as Ambassador Leo Wanta by using a voice enhancement machine to mimic Wanta's voice. Both Wilcox and Cottrell recently tried to illegally represent themselves as representatives of Ambassador Leo Wanta in regards to implementation and settlement of the Wanta-Reagan-Mitterrand Protocols. At this hour, Cottrell and Wilcox have been acting as collection agents for the British Monarch Queen Elizabeth in regards to a $6.2 TRILLION loan given by her majesty to former White House occupunk George W. Bushfraud. Both Cottrell and Wilcox represent a noted money laundry called Pennsylvania Investments, which has been linked to the Bernard Madoff Ponzi Scheme in disguising bogus oil derivatives that were used by both Greenspan and Madoff in the illegal trading of oil futures and options on the Russian Exchange.

===== --hobie

AntiSionist - March 22, 2009 04:23 AM (GMT)

Here is Jeff Fisher.

Taken from an indymedia page that carries some Heneghan articles. One of which connects the Mossad to the Mumbai attacks.
http://ambazonia.indymedia.org/en/2008/11/1981.shtml

http://ambazonia.indymedia.org/en/2008/08/1860.shtml

QUOTE

Jeff Fisher Philadelphia
Author: Jeff Fisher | 10.08.2008 15:01

The Google of all Googles
Jeff Fisher Eternal Love Jane Bowell

Wedding Invitation (London) & The Ultimate World Peace Protest
(Love Park, Philadelphia, U.S.A.) Now from July 26th 2008 to September 11th 2008

Alicia Keys - Like You'll Never See Me Again (Full Song)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vXjJupEPbww&
Enjoy the video and read the comments by AlGoreJeffFisher2008 et ChadDavisErwin et GodBlessGoreFisher et GoreFisherFreedom

GoreFisher2008@gmail.com

Google: American Patriot Jeff Fisher Albert Arnold Gore Jr
Google: Jante Degaul Whizkid1983_1986

??content.section.comments??

Youtube posting from Jeff Fisher to Al Gore
author:: Jeff Fisher

Mr. President,

I spoke with Tom Heneghan last night.

I now have a place on Rutland Street that I can call home until the Freedom March from Love Park to Washington D.C.

Cynthia McKinney made the front page of Black Star & that is great news for everyone in America & World-Wide.

Everyone needs to know how fantastic she really is.

Google Jeff Fisher Cynthia Ann McKinney
& Google Jeff Fisher Cynthia Ann McKinney Dream Team.

Everyone spread the word ASAP to The Final Call as well plus many others.

Jeff Fisher World Peace Patriot

eMail: gorefisher2008@gmail.com URL: http://www.NoMoreFraud.blogspot.com

http://ambazonia.indymedia.org/en/2009/02/2160.shtml

QUOTE

The Court Case that changes the Entire World
Author: Jeff Idol Maker Fisher | 26.02.2009 23:55

This case will put George W Bush and Richard B Cheney for high crimes against mankind.

I will never stop seeking absolute justice for the 35 black teenagers killed at BayPoint School that also was where the Iraq War, 9-11, Stolen Elections, the war in Afganistan and so much more were planned, financed, orchestrated by AIPAC and the Bush Clinton Crime Syndicate mainly. I will win for God loves peacemakers and those who fight for We The People freely praising God always. Thank you HBO for making RECOUNT and being in NYC also.

Now watch this video. This guy's got his nose up the backside of Al Gore Jr and Mel Roman Catholic Jew Hating MPD Gibson.

Jeff Fisher addresses the world, part I http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=P9YtVQCu-Ww Here are some screenshots of that flier he has posted outside of said Bay Point school. Look who he has his picture beside in that flier. Gibson and Gore. Fisher is an associate of Heneghan and Webb remember.

Ken Ardel - March 22, 2009 01:54 PM (GMT)

The first and only time I heard this Heneghan guy speak was on the Cloak and Dagger show.

I thought he sounded like an Romanish alcoholic bullshitting Irish con man.

AntiSionist - July 30, 2009 05:25 AM (GMT)

Our message has spread to rumormillnews. Right on.
http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/forum...mes;read=146522

craig-oxley - August 22, 2009 03:39 PM (GMT)

[DOHTML]
<CENTER>[/DOHTML]

VIVA LA FRANCE

[DOHTML]</CENTER>[/DOHTML]

I've had to ban a certain individual recently. I noticed him questioning me within just his first few posts. This usually is a sign of an operative or trouble maker in the making. So I banned this character. I know where he's coming from and which clique he's from. You made a big mistake which made it so obviously to me. All I'll say is Viva-La-FRANCE shall I? If I'm wrong then I'm wrong. I believe I'm on the right track. I will not have my authority questioned regardless legit or deviously unless I know you well and its deserving. Signs of questioning in certain ways some individuals like this one do can promote disconfidence in those who don't bother to research enough. Those who do can find all the data out I have and maybe more if they would get off their butt. If I could provide a link for every little thing I've learnt and heard I would but it would be endless. Either take my word for it or dig around and put the hours in yourself till you hear the same elsewhere. Its your choice people! Now this guy is about to attack me like allllllll the rest, how scarey. So this is a warning to those who are new and think they want to try it on or work for the intelligence agencies. If you play with me then your rolled very quickly. I do not tolerate people like this on this site. I tend to have decent intelligent and trying to be intelligent people on this site. I have no bickering threads etc constantly going on this site between members unlike other forums. It will stay this way. Now to this intel operative I suggest you stick back with your Myspace and new radio show. By the way as you know Knight of Malta, Rupert Murdoch controls Myspace. Again Viva-La-France!!! Remember folks that French Intelligence works for the GREY & BLACK JESUITS and is the true greatest intelligence agency on the planet as British Intelligence found out many a time in days of old! Both of them are fully controlled by the Sovereign Military Order of Malta overlord guided by the Grey Jesuit control from Borgo Santo Spirito.

[DOHTML]<CENTER>[/DOHTML]

Direction Generale de la Securite Exterieure

Notice the eye of Saturn, Osiris/Horus & Al-Deberan

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/sQz-CZvkY8k&hl=en&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/sQz-CZvkY8k&hl=en&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]
[DOHTML]
</CENTER>[/DOHTML]
[dohtml]
 [/dohtml]

[dohtml] [/dohtml]
My friend I had a feeling you'd reply to this. Who do you think it was then? I know who it was and where it was stemming from. They made a really really big mistake when trying to contact me. It was one word which gave it all away infact. Now below heres the next clue:
[dohtml] [/dohtml]

> QUOTE
>
> IP country: United States
> IP Address state:California
> IP Address city: Santa Barbara
> IP postcode: 93101
> IP latitude: 34.4194
> IP longitude: -119.7072
> ISP: Cox Communications

[dohtml] [/dohtml]
Who do we know who lives down in California exactly?

Why its good old ROMAN CATHOLIC,

THOMAS HENEGHEN!

My god Thomas I sniffed you out quick smart even before the IP haha.

Hows OTIS L. JOHNSON (NSA/CIA) these days?

Has he stopped assassinating people yet?

Reference:
LINK

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/4K1q9Ntcr5g&hl=en&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/4K1q9Ntcr5g&hl=en&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

HEY TOM MAYBE I SHOULD BE FRENCH INTELLIGENCE

WITH MY SNIFFING OUT SKILLS I COULD HAHA
[dohtml]
 [/dohtml]

AntiSionist - August 23, 2009 11:40 PM (GMT)

You won't see Lenny Bloom, excuse me, Nelson Thall talking about Heneghan's latest attempts to infiltrate Oxley's FBI Division 5 network run by British Intelligence MSNBC queen Tine Brown. :lol:

http://blogs.myspace.com/index.cfm?fuseact...logID=465387004

P.S.
F*&# YOU HENEGHAN! I called Thall's trickery back in 2007 when he took an email of Phelps' that was posted on this board and claimed as his own that came from a cloak archive show which never did. And you also exposed yourself as a fraud for attacking Phelps and falsely calling him a pedophile months ago. Funny how you would call Phelps an anti Catholic bigot out of one side of your mouth and then out of the next side talk about how the Jesuits do in fact rule the monarchs in Europe.
http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...showtopic=61902
http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...10#entry6789825

So why the cognitive dissonance? Too much alcohol? Or maybe you're just doing what Otis tells you and Webb (MPD according to White) to do. Kind of like how Alex Jones trashes Vatican blamers in one breath, and in the next claims he has always exposed the jesuits.

YOU'RE A JOKE!!!

Ken Ardel - August 24, 2009 12:51 AM (GMT)

That Cloak and Dagger show is getting very repetitious.
It must be down to a formula by now.
Just keep repeating the same well known info,play a bit of Skolnick tape from 2004, and hear Sexy Steele interject with stupid remarks while Bloom/Thall is talking about the usual stuff.. and once in a while mention the Chair of Peter jetting around.

Total waste of time, always the sizzle never the steak.

AntiSionist - September 21, 2009 11:54 PM (GMT)

Finally in closing, I have a direct message for Chris Story, a British Intelligence operative and now wanted financial terrorist:

You and your Denver, Colorado FBI Division 5 stooge Tim White should know that it is illegal to put someone's driver's license number up on the internet along with their home address. I now know you two thugs are trying to get me assassinated.

You are both now being monitored directly by the U.S. Marshal Service.

Chris Story's colleague Denver FBI Division 5 stooge Tim White is wanted by the U.S. Secret Service for threatening the life of former Vice President, now year 2000 duly elected President Albert Gore Jr.

- Tom Heneghan, Sunday September 20, 2009

craig-oxley - September 22, 2009 12:24 PM (GMT)

So is Robert Heneghan trying to call me Chris Story? Why does he have a fascination with calling me Chris? Now whos this Story guy? So I'm still supposed to be British Intelligence am I Robert? Whys this? Is it because I live on the sovereign land of England part of the once Blessed Isles of Albion? How pathetic is this man? Oh yes lets remember how he claimed I'm a monarchist too haha. Thats why I won't even buy any bullion coins with the treasonous Elizabeth II whore's face upon them? Do I sound a monarchist? I don't think so! Whilst he slags off the false Queen of England or should I say Jesuit E.U he forgets something. His big buddy Al Gore Jr is their loyal slave and fully controlled by Prince Philip. A cretin pushing 'The Agenda' and 'The Great Work' onto the World.

So he believes someone putting his address online is going to get him assassinated haha. If he was a true opposition to the Order then don't you think the Knight of Malta, Intelligence Network would have his address in the blink of an eye? If Tim White can access his address then FBI Division Four/Five can in a millisecond of pressing enter on their keyboards haha. I don't want anyone assassinated although I'd love you just to tell the truth Robert and come to the good side fully. You have an agenda for a certain intelligence network tied in with the NSA and CIA and FBI Division #4. Stop the deceiving but I guess if you did then you might be assassinated like all true real truthsayers of old.

May I also point out to you Robert that I do not go for your 'color of law' promotion. Yes your 'legal' 'illegal' trash which is a fraud. Color of Law meaning appears to be. Therefore IT ISN'T! I follow God's, Common Law from my great nation of England. The Law of the Land not Roman Civil Law and the Uniform Commerical Code superemposed over it covertly.

Threatening Al Gore Jr? Oh that load of bunkum again. Al Gore Jr is a treasonous traitor to the united states of America. He is no different to the treasonous whore called Elizabeth II who I will no longer call Queen as she's a Teutonic Germanic, Knight of Malta fraud stealing the thrown from the Spencer's. Whilst assassinating one of the Spencer family in 1997, the Goddess Diana.

Haha the U.S Marshal Service? Ah ahhhhh maybe your in leagues with that cretin and deceiver Marshal Warp who I deleted from this board for his trickery. A complete lying cretin like most of you guys. You talk about being a patriot Heneghan yet boast and promote the U.S Marshals Service. First off a true patriot does not support the U.S, they should support the united states of America. Only false opposames tied in with the FBI as you are support the Roman United States. Funny enough your Roman Catholic aren't you Robert? The U.S Marshal Service are a bunch of traitors to the united states of America. They protect the Jesuit controlled nation stolen in 1868 from the American people now debt slave U.S Citizens. All under the control of the unratified 14th Amendment unHoly Roman 'U.S' Empire. A nation simply being used for its military potential and might and nothing else. A used corporation U.S for the bringing about of the New World, the United Order should we say! So don't talk to me about being a damn patriot whilst supporting the U.S/United States/UNITED STATES/U.S.A/u.s. Your a treasonous traitor to your nation and the people looking for truth.

Talking about people wanting you assassinated whilst you associate and are handled by a Roman stooge who's ordered assassinations. Yes that OTIS L. JOHNSON of the National Security Agency and Central Intelligence Agency. I should also once again point out I have very little dealing with Tim White infact. Infact me and Tim White rarely get on and have our differences which sometimes result in very big problems between us.

You also once again promote this Al Gore Jr whos about to cripple the World with taxes and controls via his bullshit Climate dribble given to him thanks to The Iron Mountain Report. A traitor once again to the united states of America and a supporter of the drug trade. Also a cretin trying to steer smokers away from Tobacco with extra fearmongering. All whilst we find out how Nicotine is a great anti-inflammatory which fights Cytokine Storm created by the immune system during Pandemic. Check out the ties with the Club of Rome and Al Gore Jr and work it out Robert what he's trying to do. Start looking at the closeness between the anti-smoking campaign and the operations Cloverleaf, Raindance and Redsky. Making sure the correct pollutions are in place within the body to produce the cell detoxification known as flu whilst spreading various bio-agents on top in order for the desired effect. All as the host must be polluted and the correct environment created for the virus to be created both naturally and non naturally. People who want to smoke should smoke pure organic non-tainted tobacco. For people reading this then study the herbs Eupatorium perfoliatum L. and Pneumus boldus, immediately

May I point out that the FBI is a Roman treasonous traitor that only services the corporation of the U.S. Created by a Knight of Malta called Charles Bonaparte controlled by the Jesuit Order. Just as you funded Hal Turner's show and he being a FBI handled stooge.

So this Chris Story is a financial terrorist? Can't be me then cause I have no financial business haha. Seems Robert makes things up as he goes along. In your case I definately believe you have a screw loose somewhere.

AntiSionist - September 23, 2009 03:22 AM (GMT)

He is not calling you a British intel agent named Chris Story. He is talking about Christopher Story of worldreports.org who used to be the main writer about the Leo Want thing back to 2007.

AntiSionist - September 25, 2009 07:40 AM (GMT)

http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/forum...mes;read=156338

QUOTE

TOM HENEGHAN BITCH-SLAPS CHRISTOPHER STORY

Tom Heneghan has reacted to C. Story's recent report about Leo Wanta by giving him a big slap in the face in his own most recent report. Heneghan still believes Wanta is a great "patriot" long long after Story saw through him and went through "a one-eighty" regarding the man who is partially credited with "bringing down" the old Soviet Union. One wonders what Story's reaction will be to Heneghan's reaction.

The Story report which triggered Heneghan's potshot was "WANTA: A FINANCIAL TERRORIST WORKING FROM WITHIN" which can be read here at World Reports:
http://www.worldreports.org/news/232_wanta...ing_from_within

The above report contains an appended libel threat against Story from a lawyer alledgedly representing a crazy entity called "The Principality of Snake Hill" AND/OR Leo Wanta himself. Snake Hill?? My first thought was "at least these guys are keeping a sense of humor." I couldn't resist resist the absurdity of Lee (Leo) Wanta involved in something called "The Principality of Snake Hill" in Australia and so yesterday I did a couple hours' research looking into it. More about that below. First let's look at what Heneghan said:

Source: Heneghan's MySpace page
http://blogs.myspace.com/tom_heneghan_intel

Sunday September 20, 2009
We can now divulge that noted internet blogger Christopher "Chris" Story aka British Intelligence operative, with the assistance of his partners-in-crime, Bush-Clinton Crime Family Syndicate stooges Michael Cottrell, noted neo-Nazi and Bush-Clinton Crime Family Syndicate 'black ops' specialist, Colonel Dana Wilcox, and his bagman brother Don Wilcox, conspired with current Federal Reserve Chairman Bernard Bernanke, former Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan and current U.S. Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner, to launder TRILLIONS of dollars of STOLEN U.S. Treasury funds tied to the Delmarva Timber Trust that were parked in a secret offshore Cayman Island hedge fund controlled by former Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney back into the United States to the accounts of the noted terrorist brokerage house J. P. Morgan aka the Queen of England's bank.

[snip]

The financial TREASON scheme, which reaches to the actual doorstep of Buckingham Palace and the delusional British Monarch Queen Elizabeth II as well as sociopath, former President George Herbert Walker Bush aka daddy Bush, was to STEAL the already stolen funds tied to the Wanta-Reagan-Mitterrand Protocols, to give the Queen of England back the $6.2 trillion that she and the Saudi Royal Family had loaned to former illegal White House occupant George W. BushFRAUD and then to pay a massive commission to Senator Charles Schumer, Chris Story, Michael Cottrell, Dana and Don Wilcox, former President George Herbert Walker Bush, along with Bernanke, Greenspan, Geithner.

Calling the editor and publisher of numerous respected financial tomes a "blogger" was the first slap, and in typical Heneghan style (excessively name-calling yellow journalistic style). The next slap is to call him a "British Intelligence operative" and then he goes on to say that Story is a "partner-in-crime" with the "Bush-Clinton Crime Family Syndicate," which is about as upside down as you can get, the kind of impotent taunt more likely heard on a grade school playground than in a written venue where someone expects to be taken seriously.

Later on Heneghan says:

French Intelligence has recently been monitoring cell phone calls between British Intelligence operative Christopher "Chris" Story and Eva Telege aka Teleke aka Teleki.

Story just recently engaged in a libelous smear against American Patriot Ambassador Leo Wanta.

This whole terror alert was no coincidence since it coincided with the now failed attempted Financial Black Op of both daddy Bush and British Intelligence aka the delusional British Monarch.

And toward the end of his piece Heneghan adds this final slap in the face to the editor of World Reports:

Finally in closing, I have a direct message for Chris Story, a British Intelligence operative and now wanted financial terrorist:
You and your Denver, Colorado FBI Division 5 stooge Tim White should know that it is illegal to put someone's driver's license number up on the internet along with their home address. I now know you two thugs are trying to get me assassinated.

You are both now being directly monitored by the U.S. Marshal Service.

Chris Story's colleague, Denver FBI Division 5 stooge Tim White, is wanted by the U.S. Secret Service for threatening the life of former Vice President, now year 2000 duly elected President Albert Gore Jr.

At last report on Friday of last week, Chris Story left his New York City apartment in a taxi cab that took him to JFK Airport in a desperate attempt to return to the United Kingdom before the U.S. Marshal Service could arrest him.

have often thought that Heneghan, in all his writings, seemed to be just begging for someone to hit him with a libel suit. For example, to Heneghan nearly everyone he dislikes is either a "homosexual in the closet" or a "lesbian in the closet" and is publicly labeled as such.

I have always destested Heneghan's style which is any number of steps below the worst of the tabloids. It is a style that shoots itself in the foot every time, denigrating its own message by appearing unprofessional and clearly trying to appeal to the worst aspects of everyone's human nature, just as the tabloids do. I have often wondered if he is actually on the opposite side of those he appears to be against, perhaps assigned to "poison the well" of the very criticisms he makes. If he is not so assigned he is doing it anyway. Why else would someone work so hard to destroy their own message?

With Heneghan's absurd attack on Story I have lost all respect for him. Story is working for Bush/Clinton crime family? That is just preposterous, a step too far.

This cat-fight began, no doubt, in an earlier Story report, which you can read here:

http://www.worldreports.org/news/115_are_t...ed_in_real_time in which Story calls Heneghan an "operative" and his website a CIA website:

"Now for an interesting new insight on Deutsche Verteidigungs Dienst (DVD), Dachau [please see our report dated 22nd January 2008]. It surfaces on a Black (literally) CIA website, where, on 25th January, the well-known operative Tom Heneghan dropped some information which connects with something that this Editor knows about."

In another reference he refers to a Heneghan bit which, despite it being a CIA site, might have some truth to it, something of a backhanded compliment.

Now for Tom Heneghan's latest leak. Normally one has to take what these people leak on Agency-controlled sites with a large packet of salt. But since the Editor has background information on this matter, he believes that the leak is accurate, or ballpark.
Tom Heneghan referenced the fact that the proprietary Marvelous Investments Limited (MIL) (a corporation owned and established by Ambassador Wanta and which held/holds massive funds of which Lee Wanta remains the sole principal - Editor), is today 'headed by a counterfeiter, check bouncer and alleged terrorist Eva Telege… Telege forged Ambassador Leo Wanta's signature to ILLEGALLY take control of MIL while Wanta was FALSELY imprisoned in Sayre, Oklahoma, from 1997 to 1998. [Note: Ambassador Wanta was shunted around the US GULAG in part so that his mail was always delayed and rarely caught up with him, before being dumped in the hideous Wisconsin State manifestation of the Stalinist US GULAG - Editor].

[snip]

Heneghan deliberately spells this woman's name incorrectly. Of Hungarian origin, her name is spelt Teleki. By spelling the name incorrectly, Heneghan may well have intended that parties would get in touch so as to correct his spelling, while divulging further relevant information at the same time: an old intelligence community trick.

[MORE HERE]

==========

Finally, regarding the weird "Principality of Snake Hill"

My two hour search for "The Principality of Snake Hill" was a total parallel to Story's search, which he recounts in detail in his last report.

The links you will find are all self-referential and point back to the two websites here:

http://snakehillprincipality.webs.com/

http://members.lycos.co.uk/snakehill/

One is "newer" than the other. Both are at "free" generic website providers, a tipoff from the beginning. The next tipoff is that there is NO INFORMATION at either of these sites. The next tipoff is, as Story correctly describes in detail, that these websites are as badly made as you can create a website, links don't work, you learn nothing, and searching anywhere else just brings you back to them. It does indeed look as no such thing really exists except in a virtual world.

I had started out simply to know where it is, since, as a GoogleEarth lover I wanted to look at the area. Here from my notes is as close as I got:

The Principality of Snake Hill, founded in 2003, is located 45 km from the regional town of Mudgee, northwest of Sydney, Australia. The principality is roughly 1.6 km² in size, establishes Prince Paul as the ruler of the land, his wife as Princess Helena and his daughter as Crown Princess Paula.
http://tripatlas.com/Micronation

I could find nothing in that area, but a 1.6 square mile area is in fact almost nothing. A farmhouse and a barn? Certainly nothing as described on their silly websites.

Here are some more links I found, some of them about the whole topic called "Micronations."

==========
from facsimile at http://www.freewebs.com/snakehillfacts/

"3. The said Mortgage was registered at the Land Titles Office as No. U580317 ('the Mortgage')."

==========
Australia figures prominently in the history of the micronational movement, possibly owing to the rich streaks of utopianism and anti-authoritarianism in the country's history. Situated in a flat in Sydney's suburb of Kings Cross, the Empire of Atlantium was founded in 1981 and claims more than 900 virtual citizens. The principality of Snake Hill, northwest of Sydney, seceded from Australia after a threat to repossess the two Sydney properties of Prince Paul and Princess Helena raised their revolutionary ire. The constitution of Snake Hill is based on the 10 commandments, and lawyers are not welcome.

Micronations walks the line between humorous romp and serious social commentary and it is up to the reader to do with it as they will. The philosopher John Locke asserted that human beings have basic, inalienable rights, which it is the duty of the state to protect. If this pact is broken, individuals or social groups have a right to revolt. Or secede, in this case. It might sound subversive but Locke is expressing the Enlightenment spirit that inspired the birth of modern nations such as the US.

Micronations could offer a panacea for our age of political apathy and discontent. Creating your own country surely beats the donkey vote.
http://www.theaustralian.news.com.au/story...5003900,00.html

==========

"Princesses Paula and Helena of Snake Hill claim to be the only Principality since Prince Leonard of Hutt's in 1970 that has been formally recognised in Australia. (7) They never received letters back from the Australian Prime Minister or the Governor-General, rejecting their claim to independent sovereignty upon notification, and after a certain period of time, in international law, this amounts to recognition. Paula and Helena established the Principality of Snake Hill (in rural Mudgee, with a consulate in suburban Sydney) on the 2nd of September 2003 after they were defrauded of property worth half a million dollars by corrupt solicitors. They, too, were never listened to in court. Indeed they told me, 'when we got to the courts the judge has put it quite straight, 'the facts of the case are irrelevant''; here Princess Helena laughs, and Princess Paula continues Helena's recount. 'The facts of the case are totally irrelevant, he said, and he dismissed our appeal as being vexatious and without substance' (8) "

http://www.transforma-online.de/deutsch/tr...ers/lattas.html

==========
Lonely Planet Article - Oct, 2006 by Jo Sargent

There are also some micronations on very our own doorstep, for example Sealand, a country built on top of a gun turret in the English channel and presided over by the splendidly named King Roy. And you can't help but feel cheered by the family who run the principality of Snake Hill, Australia. When the lender on their two properties decided to reclaim the buildings, despite the fact that they were ahead on their payments, the family turned to the courts for recourse. Unbelievably, the judge found in favour of the lender so, feeling that justice had failed them, the family seceded their properties and became the principality of Snake Hill. Currently unchallenged, they have managed to retain possession of both homes, a fact that should leave anyone who has fallen foul of the perils of small print or property fraud with a satisfied smile. But despite these few saving graces and initial promise, Micro-nations falls flat.

http://findarticles.com/p/articles/mi_hb31...8/ai_n29297743/

==========
wrongful suit (09/04/04)
Jurisdiction/Place:

We were one year ahead with an interest only mortgage loan when we were sued for being one year behind. We filed Defence to the Claim, included copies of receipts, loan statements and letters from lender that all was ok, but they continued. It took 3 years to get to hearing, and then Judge said he didn`t need to hear from us, and awarded our properties to other party, even though they had just filed an affidavit admitting that we were in fact ahead when they began the litigation. We tried to appeal, but Judge said we had no right as "facts of case are irrelevant".

Other party then gloated that as they had sued us without cause and won, gaining 2 of our properties in the process, they had just decided that they would now take our remaining properties from us as well.

We were terrified that they would, and get away with it, so we seceded. Our letter of secession was ignored by some politicians, but acknowledged by the Head of State and Queen Elizabethh II. We just celebrated our first anniversary, but have still not recovered the stolen properties. Our website is http://www.snakehillprincipality.uc.m n I have read that wrongful suit judgements can be overturned with proof that it was fraud, but so far have not been able to learn how to do that.

The police`s fraud squad have finally admitted (in writing) that we were sued without cause, but they don`t dare to take on these corrupt lawyers either.

Any suggestions?

http://www.thelaw.com/forums/showthread.php?t=3125

[pjensen]

==========

Wikipedia:Votes for deletion/The Principality of Snake Hill
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Wikipedia:Vot...y_of_Snake_Hill

The Principality of Snake Hill was proposed for deletion. This page is an archive of the discussion about the proposed deletion. This page is no longer live. Further comments should be made on the article's talk page rather than here so that this page is preserved as an historic record. The result of the debate was DELETE. 14 votes to delete, 1 vote to keep. Postdlf 02:50, 3 Nov 2004 (UTC)

The Principality of Snake Hill was proposed for deletion. This page is an archive of the discussion about the proposed deletion. This page is no longer live. Further comments should be made on the article's talk page rather than here so that this page is preserved as an historic record. The result of the debate was DELETE. 14 votes to delete, 1 vote to keep. Postdlf 02:50, 3 Nov 2004 (UTC)

==========

http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/forum...mes;read=156385

QUOTE

Re: TOM HENEGHAN BITCH-SLAPS CHRISTOPHER STORY

Posted By: billym <Send E-Mail>
Date: Wednesday, 23-Sep-2009 00:49:29

In Response To: TOM HENEGHAN BITCH-SLAPS CHRISTOPHER STORY (billym) Here are three comments sent in by readers:

****

Re: TOM HENEGHAN BITCH-SLAPS CHRISTOPHER STORY

billym,

I regret ever promoting this guy, because he was including Christopher Stories writings in his Hal Turner rants. It became quite clear that he was just leveraging Chris's writings for his own agenda. Him calling Christopher Story an "Internet Blogger" was beyond insulting it was actually comical. I actually sign up in my-space so I could comment on his articles, but was denied access. Then I tried to find a picture of him on the internet with no luck, only some professor with the same name. I actually talked to him once through a friend, but decided not to go that route again. He also stung my friend with disinformation. Thanks for putting this out there.

Gary

****

Re: TOM HENEGHAN BITCH-SLAPS CHRISTOPHER STORY

Well, Heneghan is an operative who slobbers all over "Prince Albert" Al Gore, a member of the world government/global warming/carbon credit "make the plebes pay for breathing our air" crowd. So you know whatever he writes serves the NWO agenda, even if it is done in a twisted manner.

Pot, Kettle, Black . . . blablabla

****

Re: TOM HENEGHAN BITCH-SLAPS CHRISTOPHER STORY

I can inform you MUCH further regarding lying,libeling,slandering,lunatic alcoholic Heneghan and WHO is his and Stew Webb's handler-NSA/CIA controller...BTW...Heneghan and Webb I exposed LONG AGO and I KNOW that P.O.S. Webb personally...he's a walking deadman if I get my hands on him..and BTW - this is NOT anykind of a bitchslap to Chris - I'm waiting on a reply from him at this time...I told him I knew that Wanta was a CIA/ Bush psyop as soon as I read the first crap about it...finally after nearly 3 YEARS - Chris now sees the whole thing was smoke and mirrors and CIA/ NSA disinfo A-holes like Heneghan and Webb keep pushing it further discrediting themselves...and with Gore they keep pushin' being a member of the CLUB of ROME ..ha ha...yea - right !

T.W., Viet Nam Vet(USAF)

Concerned Citizen,Researcher,Investigator,Whistleblower

****

http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/forum.cgi?read=156509

QUOTE

Story vs. Heneghan: Story Will Just Ignore It

Posted By: billym <Send E-Mail>
Date: Thursday, 24-Sep-2009 13:55:53 Heneghan vs. Story: Story Will Ignore the Lies Story Calls Heneghan's Report "Giga-Drivel"

Tim White (mentioned in Tom Heneghan's last last report) sent in the following email exchange concerning Heneghan's silly attack on C. Story in that report.

(see previous post: TOM HENEGHAN BITCH-SLAPS CHRISTOPHER STORY) http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/forum.cgi?read=156338

First of all Tim White sends this email to Christopher Story:

From: Tim White Date: Tue, 22 Sep 2009 08:56:40 -0700 (PDT) To: cstory@worldreports.org Subject: MORE DRUNKEN LUNATIC LIBEL and SLANDER from TOM
"FBI" HENEGHAN

Chris, Do I really need to tell you just how MUCH brain damage this pathological lying ass Heneghan has from extended abuse of gin ?....this was excerpted from the long drivel nonsense he posted on 9-20 and I thought you'd not only get a kick out of it but make some appropriate comment....I myself have NO idea where he comes up with the crap he accuses me of....COMPLETE BULLSHIT....

Tim White

Then Story replies that the whole thing is just so absurd and preposterous he intends to just ignore it.

Re: TOM HENEGHAN BITCH-SLAPS CHRISTOPHER STORY
RE: MORE DRUNKEN LUNATIC LIBEL and SLANDER from TOM "FBI" HENEGHAN Tuesday, September 22, 2009 9:51 PM
From: "cstory@worldreports.org" <cstory@worldreports.org>

Dear Tim

The decision is we aren't going to comment. It's such giga-drivel that nobody is taking it seriously.

I am still in New York City. That statement about me fleeing is intended to get me to respond.

He gave the game away by mentioning the $6.2T. Our report stopped them stealing it via Wanta, see. You have to read what he says back to front. They lost out. Hence the thunderstorm.

Best, CS.

A wise choice I would guess. By going way too far, like schoolboy reacting to a taunt, Heneghan has simply made himself less credible to anyone familiar with the whole situation. A disinfo artist must understand the line beyond which he must not go, the line beyond which he becomes blatently unbelievable.

http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/forum.cgi?read=156521

QUOTE

C.Story ADDENDUM TO CURRENT ARTICLE

Posted By: hobie <Send E-Mail>
Date: Thursday, 24-Sep-2009 15:09:10

In Response To: Story vs. Heneghan: Story Will Just Ignore It (billym) Hi, Folks -

Christopher Story has added this to his report for Sept 20:

=====

(2): THE EDITOR REMAINS IN NEW YORK AND DID NOT 'FLEE THE UNITED STATES'
The fantasmogorical allegation by a notorious US disinformation operative exposed in this report, that the Editor of this service fled the United States on Friday 18th September in order to escape arrest by the US Marshals Service, is inconsistent with the fact that the Editor is working 'as we speak' in his New York City office premises. There is no need to labour the point that, given this stupid invention, none of the dogmatic statements that this notorious disinformation operative posts can ever again command any respect. The fabrications of this and other US disinformation artists have long since destroyed their 'credibility', making them a laughing stock and suggesting that the CIA disinformation apparat needs to review its operations and close many of them down. Their counterintelligence tradecraft seems to have become permanently counterproductive.

=====

Chris Story's full current article, here:

http://worldreports.org/news/232_wanta_a_f...ing_from_within

--hobie

Ken Ardel - September 25, 2009 01:51 PM (GMT)

All mixed up Heneghan sounds like a drunken Irish papist bullshitter.
Plenty of those are around.

AntiSionist - October 10, 2009 08:33 AM (GMT)

http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/forum.cgi?read=157594

QUOTE

Reader: "C.STORY IS BACKED UP BY GERALD CELENTE AND TIM BARELLO"

Posted By: hobie <Send E-Mail>
Date: Friday, 9-Oct-2009 23:31:09 (Thanks, JS :)

Reader JS writes:

****

Hobie,

Story's Testimonials page at www.worldreports.org was recently updated with an URL to a new Oct. 8 article by financial writer Tim Barello, which refers extensively to Gerald Celente, a futurist who backs up C. Story. It's a REALLY good article, and I put the link below for you (because unfortunately, the URL that is currently on the Testimonials page has typos in it; I alerted Mr. Story, and he says he plans to fix that shortly.)

This entire Barello article is worth reading. There are 2 large sections in it about Story, including the part at the end of the article.

http://www.examiner.com/examiner/x-9341-Ma...can-Renaissance

Oct. 8 article by Tim Barello

QUOTE

Gerald Celente explains ‘Obamageddon’ forecast amid call for The Great American Renaissance

October 8, 7:12 AMManhattan Headlines ExaminerTim Barello

Gerald Celente, founder of The Trends Research Institute and publisher of the quarterly Trends Journal, is a staple of news and Internet media. Dubbed “The Martial Artist of Trend Forecasting,” Celente is world-renowned for his authoritative forecasts on events in financial markets and socio-political movements. Over the past 30 years, Gerald has been interviewed and extensively quoted around the world; in the US, he has been featured in every major newspaper, and has been a guest on CBS Morning News, Glenn Beck, Good Morning America, NBC Nightly News, and The Oprah Winfrey Show, among other TV shows.

Equally prominent in the blogosphere, Gerald can also be followed on social media networks like Facebook, Twitter and YouTube. I’m of course a fan of Gerald on Facebook – Nouriel Roubini and Peter Schiff, too – but let’s not get off topic. On the Internet, Celente has generated a high level of public interest; his forecasts are commonly discussed at prominent forums, as well as on websites that support conspiracy theories.

Celente publishes Trends Journal four times each year; this respected publication is read by a wide variety of people, and is available through subscription. Well-written and easy to follow, its audience includes politicians, businesspeople, researchers, journalists – even Joe & Jane Twelve Pack. Offering forecasts on worldwide trends, including all things Wall Street to all things Main Street, this expert analysis is informative and empowering to the individual reader; furthermore, it is backed by the research and credibility of The Trends Research Institute, and thus, it comes highly recommended.

Since 1980, Celente has made at least 40 accurate predictions about major world events. In 1986, he forewarned of a major global stock market crash, which occurred the very next year, and is now commonly known as Black Monday. Throughout the 1990’s, many other forecasts came true, including the collapse of the Soviet Union, surges in global terrorism, the popularity of spiritual and new age philosophies, public backlash against globalization, upsurges in online shopping, and the 1997 Asian financial crisis, to name a select few. In the new millennium, predictions-turned-real are the correction of the dot-com bubble, the 2001 recession, emerging bull markets for gold, the rise of alternative energy, the collapse of the heavily-inflated real estate bubble, and unsurprisingly, the ‘Economic 9/11’ that we are currently witnessing.

After thoroughly reviewing the recent summer edition of Trends Journal, I learned that Gerald is now forecasting “the greatest depression” for the rest of the world, while in the US, he believes we may experience “Obamageddon.” As the definition of this witty concoction is easily apparent, its implications are thoroughly conveyed within the opening paragraph:

Here we are in 2012. Food riots, tax protests, farmer rebellions, student revolts, squatter diggins, homeless uprisings, tent cities, ghost malls, general strikes, bossnappings, kidnappings, industrial saboteurs, gang warfare, mob rule, terror.

In late July, I spoke exclusively with Gerald, whose research I have been following for several years. My personal interest in his work materialized when I was serving as a publicist for a boutique securities brokerage. In that role, I often read niche financial publications, and discovered the Trends Journal, which inspired me – a former intern to the CEO of a multibillion-dollar credit union, for whom I collected intelligence on the banking industry – to further research the interconnected world of finance and politics.

Never one to mince words, Gerald kicked off our conversation in his no-nonsense, tell-it-like-it-is approach, which millions have warmed up to over the years. A team player, he answers on behalf of his colleagues at The Trends Research Institute.

“We want to make it very clear that the policies leading to the decline of ‘Empire America’ have been long in the making,” he said. “What has happened in the Obama Administration is that they have taken policies far beyond even what Bush took with the TARP program; for example, with his stimulus package, with the buyouts, with the bailouts, the rescue packages, these are unprecedented in American history.”

"Never before has so much phantom money been printed out of thin air, backed by nothing, producing practically nothing," Celente continues. “You don’t even have to be a student of history to know the outcome of this. All you have to do is have your eyes open, and start thinking for yourself.”

Like many, Gerald is disturbed by our government’s record-breaking creation of new fiat dollars – Federal Reserve Notes – that are literally produced “out of thin air” on behalf of a quasi-public corporation known as the Federal Reserve. These worthless pieces of paper are not backed by any commodity, such as gold or silver, even though the US Constitution mandates their use as tender in the payment of debts. As this happens, a bailout bubble is being created, and when the “monster explodes” there will be dire consequences for all of humanity.

“When this bubble bursts, unlike the financial/real estate bubble that burst, the dot-com bubble before that, and the ’87 stock market bubble before that” US taxpayers will now be on the hook for trillions in losses as our “government is [a major] equity holder in private corporations. That never existed before.”

What will cause the bailout bubble to burst? “There are a lot of wild cards that can change the game, but what I will say is that you can’t keep printing phantom money – produced out of thin air, based on nothing, producing practically nothing – without destroying the currency.”

Many other economists, including Peter Schiff – who will hopefully unseat the pretentiously-corrupt Senator Christopher Dodd in 2010 – have joined Gerald in forecasting a massive devaluation of the US dollar. Just last week, Schiff posted an entry on his blog under the aptly-titled heading “The US Dollar is the New Peso,” wherein he notes “the dollar is going to fall sharply.” In 1994, the Mexican peso crisis led to the sudden devaluation of that nation’s currency; furthermore, as events unfolded, there was widespread political violence among citizens. Mexico also experienced hyperinflation, which causes sharp increases in consumer prices, and the rapid loss of currency value. Celente believes “we risk” hyperinflation here in America.

Believe it or not, there is actually some good news: you can protect your savings by purchasing physical gold and silver assets, but interested parties should execute such transactions without delay. Recently, China advised its 1.3+ billion citizens, for their financial security, mind you, to purchase these commodities. The IMF has also announced it will be selling one-eighth (403.3 metric tons) of its gold holdings, which many nations are reportedly seeking to acquire; concurrently, there are rumors swirling that Middle Eastern nations, in tandem with China, France, Japan and Russia, plan to abandon the use of our dollar in oil trading. These developments have caused a surge in the demand for gold, as it is an obvious safe haven against the floundering dollar; accordingly, gold has now surged to record-breaking highs, just under $1050 an ounce as of press time. Celente is forecasting the price will double from where it stands today, while Schiff believes it may hit $5000 an ounce over the next few years. In either scenario, these massive value increases will generate a hefty ROI for savvy individuals.

"No one will be able to deny it…once people begin to get into gold, all fiat [will] currencies decline, particularly overseas," said Gerald.

Another distinct possibility is that a multinational coalition – with the assistance of the IMF and World Bank – will dictate the creation of a new global reserve currency. Indeed, recent events confirm that such moves are currently underway, as China, Russia and the UN have all come forward to support a new international reserve currency in lieu of the dollar. Should these efforts prove successful, Celente says it will cause a "devaluation of the dollar." That's putting it mildly, because if the dollar collapses, US living conditions will deteriorate rapidly. Gerald notes that in this scenario "it will only be a matter of time before a rebellion happens again. When people lose everything, and they have nothing left to lose, they lose it."

The seeds for a second American revolution have already been planted, and now, it appears they are blossoming. Last December, Russian Professor and former KGB agent Igor Panarin – who has infamously predicted that the US will collapse for more than a decade – was the subject of a Wall Street Journal article; in it, he warned of a civil war in the US during 2010, and in the aftermath of that, he believes our nation will ultimately be divided into six respective regions, each controlled by foreigners. Many fear that, in line with Panarin's theories, the racial tensions presently being exploited by mainstream media will only exacerbate an already fragile situation.

Celente believes there is a possibility for a civil war, "but we predict that it will end with the breakup of the Empire, which can't sustain itself," adding that his team originally forecast this back in fall 2002. Ultimately this means that the US "will look like [post-Soviet] Russia."

So what could this mean for Main Street America? "Well, just drive around Detroit. Look at all the blown out houses and empty neighborhoods. Look at the violence that's increasing around the nation. Look at the types of heinous crimes [already] being committed by people – some blowing their whole families away, wiping them out – these murders, we've never seen this kind of thing before."

Right now, there is a robust amount of public outrage as everyday Americans are suffering, while "the money, as far as anybody can see, is going to the too big to fail," he said, before asserting, "Their mothers are not better than mine…let them fail. That's what America is about, success and failure."

We briefly discussed the lucrative bonuses that are continuing to flow at Goldman Sachs like water taps – undeniably through some use of taxpayer funds – and while doing so, I interrupted Gerald to say that this is disgusting. He immediately agreed with me.

"Goldman Sachs is running Washington, look at the fingerprints, they are all over the place," he said. "It is disgusting; they are robbing the nation blind. In fact, this is what we are writing about in the autumn issue of the Trends Journal. This is the greatest heist in US history, happening in broad day light."

That assessment, while very serious, is nonetheless accurate. Of late, Rolling Stone's Matt Tiabbi has fearlessly – and continually – taken on Goldman Sachs, as new reports emerge about this firm's influence on our government, in addition to yet another round of billion-dollar bonuses that it plans to dish out.

"You know, I'm of Italian descent, and if what was [happening] on Wall Street [was being done by people] with names like Celente, Caruso, Rossini, Mondavi, Torchini, or the likes, they'd call it the mafia. Oh, and there would be a firestorm, the media would be filled with it…but you can't call the white shoe boys crooks."

Well, Gerald, you can gladly add Barello to the aforementioned list. As a fellow paesano I am going to join you – and break the absurd rules of politic correctness – by asserting that Wall Street and Washington D.C. are being run by psychopathic serial criminals. For those that feel this declaration is overzealous, please read the recent commentary of Jim Kouri, vice president and public information officer at the National Association of Chiefs of Police, wherein he likens the personality traits of politicians to serial killers.

The mortgage market collapsed due to massive, unprecedented frauds. More people would realize this if mainstream media outlets properly exposed such crimes; granted, investigative journalism has been pushed aside, and in its place, we find an array of pseudo-celebrity, nonentity imbeciles like John and Kate Gosselin, desperate for their 15 minutes of shame. Either way, most mortgage frauds were facilitated by both lenders and borrowers – many of whom knowingly agreed to terms they could not afford. Through the process of securitization, these bad loans have been turned into hot potatoes for tossing, often with the help of Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac, and Ginnie Mae; this has allowed lenders to deceitfully transfer risky loans to unsuspecting counterparties. Ratings agencies aided and abetted the racket by claiming these junk assets are safe; accordingly, corporations, municipalities, and a plethora of worldwide investment vehicles have purchased toxic garbage, and many risk collapsing under the weight of such. As this has happened, unregulated, over-the-counter derivatives have allowed the same criminals to secretly hedge bets against portfolios – knowing full well that many of them would indeed go sour – and when credit events occur, they collect truly absurd bounties. Accordingly, Gerald is no fan of derivatives. "They are ponzi schemes," he said, before quipping that the term should really be "Madoffs" from now on. "Ponzi was a piker compared to Madoff, [which] is more appropriate, because they make off with all your money."

Per the latest assessment by the Bank for International Settlements, as of last December, the OTC derivatives market encompasses $592 trillion in notionally valued contracts. One should wonder how this is even possible, when the World GDP was estimated at a shy $61 trillion in 2008. This would also suggest that – when taken at face value, anyway – the potential liabilities for outstanding derivatives may exceed the entire world's real wealth almost ten times over. With those odds, it sounds like another major financial disaster is just waiting to happen.

In August, Harry Markopolos – the Madoff whistleblower that was ignored by the SEC for over a decade, while fearing for his own safety – stated that the derivatives market will fully collapse, and when it does, it will make Madoff "look like small time." Despite this dire warning, the mainstream media has since ignored Markopolos, just as the SEC so prudently did for more than ten years.
Bob Chapman of The International Forecaster recently wrote about the possibility of Chinese firms unilaterally defaulting on derivatives contracts; he notes that China may in fact consider these fraudulent assets to be de facto acts of economic warfare. In consideration of this purported viewpoint, it is interesting to note that Warren Buffet has been quoted as saying derivatives are "financial weapons of mass destruction." Would you care to elaborate any further, Mr. Buffet?

Another key derivatives critic is Christopher Story FRSA, editor of the UK-based International Currency Review, which he has been publishing for 40 years; Story counts central banks, sovereign treasuries, and government intelligence agencies around the world among subscribers. Noted as a former occasional adviser to Margaret Thatcher, he has long maintained that the entire derivatives sector is centered on fraud. His website also presents a chronicle of very serious allegations – tantamount to charges of ongoing, worldwide economic terrorism – against high-level individuals within the US government and financial sectors, including current and former presidents, cabinet secretaries, intelligence agents, as well as Federal Reserve and banking officials.

It is common knowledge that severe consequences accompany the willful publication of libel in the UK; per Mr. Story, Britain's Head of State, Her Majesty the Queen, and many other world leaders, are fully aware of these allegations. As he has not been prosecuted for disseminating libelous statements, one can only assume that these charges, spanning back at least six years, are indeed based on facts. Granted, I am in no position to individually authenticate purported crimes, but I can enlighten others on what is being published over an international landscape; after reviewing this catalogue of analysis – which forecast most of the events that are happening today – some will certainly be inclined to contact US law enforcement agents, and demand an investigation into these shocking claims. If that is the case, please do so in a civil manner. (Note: this report has been submitted directly to American authorities.)

I mentioned Mr. Story's stance on derivatives to Gerald; the other allegations were not specifically referenced during our conversation. "Story is one-hundred percent right…these are con games," he said, in regards to derivatives.

Clearly, the people running this nation are "out of control," Celente continues, noting that as economic conditions further deteriorate "people are going to start losing it," he said. "But, they are going to lose it in different ways: our greatest fear for the future [is] rampant crime, and the society breaking down." He pauses briefly, and then offers a truly frightening thought. "When we say food riots, it's going to people rioting just to eat."

Given these horrid possibilities, I ponder the following thoughts: up to $24 trillion of taxpayer funds will be used to subsidize a financial system that is reported to be in worse shape than it was one year ago – and per TARP watchdog Neil Barofsky, a lot of that money will never be recovered – while food riots may be approaching for many others?

You have got to be kidding me. The aforementioned, perverse statements have no place in this world; my ancestors did not immigrate to America so that dilapidated thugs could become empowered by the fruits of their labor and create "the greatest depression" for this entire planet. Furthermore, it is important to point out that I inherited my blood from men that were the "Oath Keepers" of their respective heydays; indeed, my Great-Grandfather, Willard J. Kirchmer, 1st Lieutenant, US Army, World War 1, and my Grandfather, Mario Rocco Barello, Fireman, Second Class, US Navy, World War 2, took their oaths to support and defend the US Constitution exceptionally serious. As a descendent of these gentlemen, I can assure you that their oaths will continue to live on, unabatedly, through me. That being said, as a truly pivotal moment in our nation's history approaches, We the People must assert our non-negotiable authority over what rightfully belongs to us: our government.

"Politicians don't care," Gerald prudently concluded, before adding, "the only thing they are interested in is themselves, and if anybody thinks that a politician is losing sleep because they are losing their house, they had better grow up."

It is clear that people are in fact wizening up; the massive, ongoing 'Tea Party' protests are surely a sign of it. More importantly though, critics of these events must be fair, and recognize that the movement started long before the debate on healthcare reform entered the picture – it formed in response to the absurd bailouts of Wall Street criminals. Celente forecast the ongoing continuation of politically-charged protests several months ago, saying "we're calling, of course, for an intellectual revolution: that people understand, become knowledgeable and not rise up against the government in an armed way, but in an intellectual way." He also believes "we need a new, third [political] party."

As America wakes up, those in power are doing everything they can to discourage us. Protesters are being labeled radical for utilizing their God-given, constitutionally protected freedom of speech to petition the government for a redress of grievances. Be that as it may, public officials would be very wise to respect the words of John F. Kennedy, who once said, "Those who make peaceful revolution impossible will make violent revolution inevitable."

American Patriots must peacefully band together in this intellectual revolution – and embrace the principles of civil disobedience over violence – to force changes within our Federal Republic and its governing structures. By doing so, our nation will be empowered to foreclose on the ethically, morally, and financially bankrupt cesspool of corruption, which is destroying the entire world with it. In short, we need a change we can believe in; we need a new era – The Great American Renaissance – and we need it right now.

"The whole system is breaking down and something new will be born, but if we use our intellect, rather than continue along the same path, we can create a better future," says Celente. "We don't need Wall Street, we need Main Street. We don't need Wal-Marts, we need Mom & Pops. We don't need agribusiness, we need family farms. We need to bring America back to when it was at its most, when it was the most egalitarian nation in the world, when the quality of life was at its highest. That was the model [for success]."

"For America to regain its greatness, it has to regain its dignity. It has to bring back the model that worked in the past and push it forward…it's a rediscovery…we have to go back to quality, and quality is the basis for success," while at the present time, "we're a junk food nation [that is fed] junk news." We are also being crippled by outlandish, across-the-board corruption, and it must be stopped.

In light of Gerald's comments, I must note that research indicates a majority of Americans do not trust mainstream news outlets. Although many will not want to hear it, this degradation in confidence is partially attributed to lingering questions about 9/11; in the absence of any mature discourse on the subject, an unstoppable, ever-growing assortment of conspiracy theories have emerged within the public domain. At the same time, international media outlets are beginning to question the "official story", while in the US, Truthers™ are unwittingly exploited by hoodwinks, which causes politicians and media to shun them; out of respect for the near 3,000 victims of 9/11, this state-of-affairs is collectively inexcusable.

Over the past eight years, the media has also demonstrated a perceivable complicity in promoting lies to rally Americans behind ill-fated policies, such as the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq; furthermore, some outlets now appear to unapologetically support President Obama in every action, as if he is our best friend – and not a politician. Media executives should recognize that few will continue tolerating the brainless assumption that news outlets exist to merely report what the government tells them; such ignorant evasions will not validate the continued existence of organizations that are derelict in their mandated duty, which is to objectively question every alleged fact. Perhaps that is precisely why the oligopoly of media conglomerates is now impotent in mitigating the collapse of many sub-entities?

If ever there was a time for the mainstream media to prove its worth, the time is now: a whirlwind of major political scandals are ripe for exposure, and they cannot be suppressed. Any outlet that demonstrates fortitude, and accurately reports on these emerging "gates" – particularly in the financial arena – will reap the massive benefits associated with public trust; in short, your audience shares will increase, along your advertising revenues.

Directors at Fox News are ecstatic that the network's viewership continues to grow, so bear with me as I state the obvious: political conspiracies offer an unparalleled level of appeal. To prove my point, one of this conglomerate's most successful recent TV dramas – Prison Break – thrived due to its sharp, ongoing integration of high-level political conspiracies; at the same time, the show was obviously a smash because of its handsome breakout star, Wentworth Miller, a brilliantly talented man. Either way, imagine the ratings that Fox News would generate – and the income for its shareholders – if it were to integrate a model-of-the-sort in its news programming. Obviously, your exposures of ACORN have been groundbreaking, so why not have Glenn Beck, Sean Hannity, Bill O'Reilly, and/or Greta Van Susteren look into the following?

Recently, 60 Minutes exposed the true nature of derivatives and how they have been used to manipulate markets in recent years; furthermore, right in this very article, Gerald Celente – whom Bill and Glenn have had on their shows – is on the record acknowledging rampant derivatives frauds, which if left unchecked, may destroy the US capitalist system as we know it. Glenn, I know that the collapse of capitalism is something you fear greatly, is it not?

In the following, heavily underreported clip, Steve Kroft fearlessly addresses these de facto scams known as derivatives – primarily credit default swaps – and notes that they are:

A form of legalized gambling that allows you to wager on [financial] outcomes without ever having to actually buy the stocks, and the bonds, and the mortgages [that they are written against]. It would have been illegal during most of the 20th century under the gaming laws, but in 2000, Congress gave Wall Street an exemption and it turned out to be a very bad idea.

http://www.cbsnews.com/video/watch/?id=5274961n

After viewing this explosive video, you will have seen Harvey Goldschmid, a Columbia University law professor, and former commissioner and general counsel of the Securities and Exchange Commission acknowledging that the provisions of the Commodity Futures Modernization Act of 2000 were made into law "at the height of Wall Street and Washington's love affair with deregulation, an infatuation that was endorsed by President Clinton at the White House and encouraged by Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan." At the very least, both gentlemen owe the American public real explanations as to why they supported such moves, and while we have their time, let's ask about the allegations being directly lobbied at them by Mr. Christopher Story FRSA.

In all fairness, though, it would not be right to lay the political blame for this disaster solely on the shoulders of former President Clinton, his administration, and Mr. Greenspan; no, we must give a fair share of attention to former Senator Phil Gramm, who is now vice chairman of the investment banking division at UBS, a criminal organization that recently agreed to pay nearly $800 million in fines to settle any US prosecution of its role in facilitating tax evasion.

Mr. Gramm, whose utter contempt for the American public has been thoroughly demonstrated time and again, can also be thanked for sneaking the unmitigated, disastrous CFMA provisions – which were unlikely to have ever passed through Congress in a stand alone bill – into a Christmas-season appropriations bill that most House representatives clearly failed to read. The Senate later approved these toxic addendums in a unanimous vote, which coyly allowed CFMA to be signed into law.

Obviously, many aspects of CFMA – particularly all clauses that provide legal certainty for unregulated OTC derivatives – must be rescinded immediately; however, this alone will not lead us, and the entire world, out of the financial crisis. As all of us know, the belief that some firms are too big to fail is, in-and-of-itself, an abject failure; accordingly, we must reverse this policy and dismantle every insolvent, transnational, all-in-one financial institution that has come to life – and collapsed – over the past decade.

At this process unfolds, we need to examine why the Financial Services Modernization Act of 1999, also known as the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, was passed by Congress and signed into law by President Clinton. This rubbish-encrusted non-improvement repealed key aspects of the Glass-Steagall Act of 1933, which became effective during the height of the Great Depression, and prohibited any one financial firm from partaking in commercial banking, investment banking, and/or insurance at the same time.

A quick reflection brings two thoughts to mind: the first is that the use of the word modernization in finance bills tends to serve as an indicator that future problems will arise, so let's refrain from using such terminology moving forward. Secondly, Mr. Gramm has once again demonstrated how connected his own hands are to this financial crisis, hook, line and sinker. With friends like you, Phil, who needs enemies? I urge investigators to keep that question in mind, especially as they continue to uncover the actions of Gramm and others, who literally believe they can do whatever they want, whenever they want.

To be fair to the former senator, who has received a decent portion of this writer's indignation, we should also pay close attention to the following 155 present members of Congress – 101 in the House, 54 in the Senate – that voted in favor of FSMA one decade ago. Thanks to the Center for Responsive Politics, we are able to deduce exactly how much money each of them have received in financial contributions, through 2008, from the very same industry that directly benefited from these changes.

We need to reform our campaigning and election laws, and in doing so, we should adapt a more European model, which shuns the use of private funding, and severely limits overall campaign seasons, typically to around six weeks. The previous list, which totals into hundreds of millions of dollars, hammers the nail on why the influence of corporate funding is dangerouos, while the years 2007 and 2008 in America speak to the latter. Elections are not meant to be elaborate, multi-media rock concerts; they are supposed to be elections, plain and simple.

Dr. Ron Paul – perhaps the only true, remaining Statesman in Washington, D.C. – deserves much gratitude from the American public; his courageous, uninterrupted opposition of the Federal Reserve spans back many years, and it ultimately proves why he is a major ally for those of us seeking The Great American Renaissance. Congresscritters should note his leadership skills, and follow them to the tee.

Personally, I believe The Creature from Jekyll Island should have been instantaneously abolished earlier this week, when it emerged that the Fed has committed a fiduciary perjury against Americans (and the rest of the world) – the Treasury Department has, too – but something tells me that once the books and activities of this parasitic fiend are exposed, by audit, or otherwise, Dr. Paul will ultimately get his way, and we will finally End The Fed, once and for all.

I cannot understand why any politician or businessperson would support the continual operations of a privately-controlled central bank that has caused the US dollar to lose an estimated 95% of its value over the course of its near 100-year reign. That's just me though, and while I am an advocate for a return to the gold standard, at the very least, the elimination of the Fed would provide one giant leap forward for all of mankind, and one hell of a kick start for The Great American Renaissance.

The final key to our economic recovery, if published reports are true – and a much-needed lifeline for the US dollar – may be provided to America by our greatest and most important ally, the UK. As many foreign nations now appear ready to flee the dollar, we must investigate the sincerity of a purported offer – apparently on the table now for several years – that is directly attributed to Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, among others. God willing, the Dollar Refunding Operation is indeed a bona fide pro bono offer from the British Monarchy. I cannot – and will not – claim to know what the full story is behind these proposals, but if any official US sources are willing to comment on this, they are encouraged to do so without delay. Our entire nation is on the brink of collapsing, as demonstrated herein.

I am fully aware that by raising certain topics in this article, my life might be placed in jeopardy. I am also aware that when I say God Almighty directs my actions, it will provoke cynical feedback from certain parties; regardless, that is indeed the fact-of-the-matter from my perspective, and thus, no one can tell me to believe otherwise. I will not stand idle as this Great Nation risks unimaginable suffering, especially when there are numerous ways for us to mitigate, or prevent that from happening altogether.
In the end, as they move to rebuild their nation's finances, leaders around the world should follow the very wise advice of His Majesty King Jigme Khesar Namgyel Wangchuck of Bhutan, who has so prudently said, "I care less about the gross national product and more about the gross national happiness."

AntiSionist - October 12, 2009 03:12 AM (GMT)

More bullshit from Heneghan. He attacks Tim White and Eric Phelps YET AGAIN.

Wanta-Reagan-Mitterrand Protocols Blocked Again Olympics-Gate and Federal Reserve Broke

by Tom Heneghan
International Intelligence Expert

Sunday October 4, 2009

P.P.S. Now folks, I do not like to get into personal back and forth but it is important to understand that this sociopath, cross-dressing, homosexual in-the-closet, former Denver based FBI Division 5 informant Tim White is mentally ill.

A little background on Tim White so you can ignore him in the future.

He is a former Roman Catholic who converted to evangelical Christianity and is obsessed in re-fighting the Vietnam War. White, like his hero, former illegal White House occupant BushFRAUD, believes God ordered us to fight the Iraq War.

White is also assisted by British Intelligence asset and Hillary Rodenhurst Clinton stooge, homosexual in-the-closet FBI Division 5 informant Craig Oxley as well as FBI Division 5 informants Eric Jon Phelps and Jeff Fisher.

As I have mentioned in the past, Timothy White is a closet homosexual and a cross-dressing transvestite, and thinks everyone is a Communist and has made direct physical threats against former Vice President, now year 2000 duly elected President Albert Gore Jr. and his family.

Of course, Tim White is a coward and would last about 10 seconds with Al Gore in the ring. White is also a contributor to British Intelligence disinformation artist, blackmailer and conman Christopher Story.

It is just a matter of time before the U.S. Marshals or the Royal Canadian Mounted Police grab this punk.

Tim White operates out of the Vancouver suburb of Burnaby, British Columbia, Canada

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: "HAL TURNER WAS A PAID INFORMANT"

Title: "HAL TURNER WAS A PAID INFORMANT"

REAL Crusader - August 14, 2009 03:40 PM (GMT)

TURNER HAS BEEN DENIED BAIL. I SUSPECTED HE WAS A PAID INFORMANT, AND THIS IS HOW THE GOVERNMENT TREATS THEIR INFORMANTS HAHAHA..

http://www.suntimes.com/news/24-7/1709890,...ogger11.article

Man accused of threatening judges was a paid informant for the FBI
Blogger is ruled danger to the community, can't leave jail now
Comments

August 11, 2009

BY NATASHA KORECKI Federal Courts Reporter nkorecki@suntimes.com

A lightning-rod Internet blogger and radio host out of New Jersey was a paid FBI informant, once turned over a silencer to the feds and even passed on information about a threat against President Obama.

But none of that is enough to get him out of jail now, a federal judge ruled Monday.

U.S. District Judge Martin Ashman said Hal Turner -- accused of threatening to assault and murder three federal judges -- is still a danger to the community.

Ashman said the fact that Turner from his New Jersey prison cell managed to record and post on the Internet a telephone conversation that included the names of his arresting FBI agents "tells me something about the disposition of Mr. Turner." Ashman denied Turner's request to have FBI agents testify at his bond hearing. Ashman's ruling came despite Monday's revelation by Turner's lawyers that the FBI paid Turner "tens of thousands of dollars" to work as an informant from 2002 to 2005. Last year, Turner told a U.S. marshal of a threat by someone to lob mortars into Grant Park during Obama's election celebration.

Turner, 47, of North Bergen, N.J., is accused of attempting to instigate violence against three 7th Circuit judges after they authored an anti-gun rights ruling earlier this summer.

He posted a headline saying, "These judges deserve to be killed," followed the next day by, "Judges official public work addresses and a map of the area are below. Their home addresses and maps will follow soon. Behold these devils."

He posted the judges' names, photographs, phone numbers, office address and room numbers, according to charges.

One of his lawyers, Michael Orozco, said Turner was just a "shock jock" whose on-air rhetoric was out of line with the man who went home to his family at day's end.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William Hogan called Turner's role as an informant a "sideshow," saying Turner simply passed along tips and rumors to the FBI.

craig-oxley - August 20, 2009 02:13 PM (GMT)

A stooge of the Maltese Knights and FBI founder, Knight of Malta Charles Boneaparte. No wonder he hated me talking of the Knights of Malta on his site and banned me numerously. -Craig

Attorney: FBI trained NJ blogger to incite others

Published on 08-19-2009 Email To Friend Print Version
http://www.breitbart.com/article.php?id=D9...&show_article=1

A New Jersey blogger facing charges in two states for allegedly making threats against lawmakers and judges was trained by the FBI on how to be deliberately provocative, his attorney said Tuesday.

Hal Turner worked for the FBI from 2002 to 2007 as an "agent provocateur" and was taught by the agency "what he could say that wouldn't be crossing the line," defense attorney Michael Orozco said.

"His job was basically to publish information which would cause other parties to act in a manner which would lead to their arrest," Orozco said.

Prosecutors have acknowledged that Turner was an informant who spied on radical right-wing organizations, but the defense has said Turner was not working for the FBI when he allegedly made threats against Connecticut legislators and wrote that three federal judges in Illinois deserved to die.

"But if you compare anything that he did say when he was operating, there was no difference. No difference whatsoever," Orozco said.

Special Agent Ross Rice, a spokesman for the FBI in Chicago, said he would not comment on or even confirm Turner's relationship with the FBI.

Orozco spoke to reporters after a court hearing in Hartford on Tuesday. Turner, 47, of North Bergen, N.J., did not appear, because he is in federal custody in Illinois. His arraignment on the Connecticut charges was rescheduled to Oct. 19.

In June, Turner urged his readers to "take up arms" against Connecticut lawmakers and suggested government officials should "obey the Constitution or die," because he was angry over legislation—later withdrawn—that would have given lay members of Roman Catholic churches more control over their parish's finances.

He wrote in Internet postings the same month that the Illinois federal appeals judges "deserve to be killed" because they issued a ruling that upheld ordinances in Chicago and suburban Oak Park banning handguns. He included their photos and the room numbers of their chambers at the courthouse.

Orozco officially joined Turner's defense team in the Connecticut case on Tuesday, with approval from Superior Court Judge David Gold. Orozco said his Newark, N.J.-based firm has been representing Turner for the past five years, including during his FBI informant years.

Turner's Connecticut attorney, Matthew R. Potter, said it's too early to tell which trial will move forward first. Orozco said he plans First Amendment defenses in both cases.

Randall Samborn, a spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office in Chicago, said the office would not comment on Orozco's statements.

Aurora025 - August 21, 2009 05:43 PM (GMT)

Hal ist just one sand grain of a whole beach working as FBI informants in the alternative media. You can be sure of that.

"His job was basically to publish information which would cause other parties to act in a manner which would lead to their arrest," Orozco said.

This IS the reason why there are so many.

craig-oxley - September 8, 2009 12:19 PM (GMT)

Hal Turner “Informant” Revelations 08/31/2009

This statement has been approved for distribution by the Hal Turner Group, with complete attorney approval.

Hal Turner was recruited by the FBI Join Terrorism Task Force in around 2002.
The FBI was concerned about terrorism after 9-11. They wanted as many sources of information as they could get to prevent innocent people from being killed. Like any other normal person, Hal wanted innocent people protected from madmen bent on bombing shopping malls, hospitals, schools, or flying planes into buildings.

The FBI Joint Terrorism Task Force offered to become an “Anonymous Benefactor” to pay for Hal’s radio show-related travel expenses if he agreed to keep his ears open. Hal felt that it was fair, so he agreed.

Later, he was approached by supervisory people who were higher up in the FBI. They wanted Hal to be an “Intelligence Operative”. They pointed out how radical, Marxist-oriented left-wing liberals, their politicians and their judges were destroying the fabric of America. Liberal Legislation was socializing the land, Liberal Immigration policy left our borders wide open, and Liberal Judges were shredding the Constitution. Hal fully agreed with that analysis. These FBI higher-ups spoke to Hal about how Conservatives were too modest to resort to “street activism” and how the reluctance of the right to go out in the streets is causing us to lose the culture war. (Such remains the case to this very day.)

They spoke to him about the need to use the tactics of the Left - - - to DEFEAT the Left, by:
1) Infiltration of Left-Wing Groups
2) Demonization of the Enemy
3) Sabotaging Left-wing meetings/projects
4) Fomenting Street Action

Hal jumped at the chance to do this. Hal felt like a kid in a candy store! Finally, those on the right would be doing what needed doing! They operated under the notion: “ The end justifies the means”.

The higher-ups in the FBI told Hal that he would be paid in cash – through the Confidential Informer Budget – “which is the one pile of cash that Congress won’t audit!” – They ACTUALLY said that!

The higher-ups made it clear to Hal that NO ONE could ever know; NOT EVEN the guys that were “handling him” on the JTTF. Hal agreed to this. Not even his family had any idea that this was happening.

During Hal’s on-again/off-again 6 years with JTTF Hal was given many tasks, among them:

Flush out the ADL/AIPAC “moles” within the FBI and US Dept of Justice (USDOJ). According to the FBI, the ADL has a long criminal history of accessing police files. The FBI knew it had information leaks which had impaired many investigations of Israeli, Jewish, and other suspects. The FBI wanted to plug up those leaks.

Hal was tasked to viciously, internationally, and savagely assail jews. He was told to hurl invective bigotry, anti-semitism and outright hate at Israeli jews, jewish groups, judges, legislators, and businesses. These were not his views, but the image he was ordered to project.

The FBI knew (and still know) that as soon as these groups identify a new “threat”, they first research everything they can get their hands on about that ‘threat’, regardless of the legality of the search. This includes grabbing FBI files. They look for ‘dirt’. The FBI had installed a special symbol in Hal’s file. Whenever his FBI file was accessed by ANYONE, ANYWHERE, a report of the inquiry was generated directly to the JTTF. This way the FBI could find out who, in what office/agency, was looking at Hal’s file immediately after he launched his anti-semetic, anti-Israel verbal onslaught.

In less than one month, this operation uncovered more than 240 ‘moles’ in the FBI, CIA, USDOJ, NSA, House of Representatives, the US Senate, the White House, various State Police, and even overseas governments!

This operation was a stunning success!

Countless “leaks” were plugged. Inside the FBI, people were cut off from certain information access, re-assigned, urged to retire, or fired. Agencies, like the Pennsylvania State Police, had their access to certain information severely curtailed. Similarly, the US Capitol Police had to be discretely cut off.

Hal’s work for the FBI helped secure out national law enforcement information from people using it to advance their criminalistic goals. He is proud of the work he’s done to help his country.

Unfortunately, these groups somehow found out about this when President Obama came into office.

Hal is jailed on false charges –payback for what he did/said. The ADL was even quoted by the Assistant District Attorney as he argued before the judge in New Jersey that Hal should be denied bail! They obviously wanted Hal to know who is doing this to him, and WHY! Judge Ashman, the Judge that presided over the bail hearing(s) in Chicago is also the judge that signed the Search warrant for Hal’s home. Coincidence? Not likely.

The higher-ups in the FBI were so pleased with Hal’s work they gave him more to do, much more. Hal will ultimately tell it all – here’s one more sample of what he was TOLD to do: Target the Southern Poverty Law Center (SPLC).

The FBI believed (and still believes) that the SPLC had one or more informants inside "Elohim City" where the bombing of the Murrah Federal Building was allegedly planned. The FBI believes that the SPLC KNEW about the bomb plans but DELIBERATELY CONCEALED that knowledge so as to let the bombings happen! The SPLC then used the bombing to raise $100 Million to battle such "HATE".
The FBI executed a 'Sneak Peak" "FISA" warrant on SPLC headquarters to copy computer data, install keystroke loggers, audio listening devices and more. Once all that was in place, it was time for a "Rally". Hal got together with other pro-whites and staged a big rally outside the SPLC headquarters in Montgomery, Alabama.

Thanks to the FISA warrant, and telephone taps via the USA Patriot Act – every contact, informant, media lackey, attorney, client and vendor to SPLC was identified, cataloged, researched, and listed. Got them all --- but cannot go after them for a misprision of a felony relating to Oklahoma City. The FBI knows that the SPLC is guilty, they just can't prove it!

Hal was proud to be able to do this to the SPLC. To his thinking, they are an Un-American, subversive group that deserves what Hal helped the FBI do.

When the media in Chicago heard in open court that Hal was an Intelligence Operative, they sat in stunned dis-belief. When they heard Assistant US Attorney Hogan ADMIT it was true, the media exploded with news coverage --- using the term 'informant'. They are simpletons.

Now you all know that what Hal did was far different from being a 'rat'. He WAS NO 'SNITCH'!

NOT ONE right-wing or "pro-white" group was ever investigated, searched, probed, arrested, indicted or jailed because of Hal's activities. NOT ONE! ANYWHERE! EVER!

The people in the FBI that Hal worked with are all right-wingers and devout Christians like Hal. They all grew up in a very different America. They are all patriots who see the writing on the wall - like Hal.

They have element throughout every branch of government, fighting for America every day. This fight is not merely taking place in cyberspace. It is a real fight, with real people, like Hal, actually out on the front line, putting everything they are, everything they hold dear at risk.

The enemy are evil people. It is not a matter of political disagreement or ideological difference. This is a fight between good and evil.

Those of us on the good side fear God, trust in the individual to do the right thing on his own, embrace freedom and free enterprise.

Those on the evil side trust no one but themselves. They plan to control your life, your property, what food you eat, what you can say and do. They are FIENDS who must be stopped.

Hal did what was asked of him, and they have now retaliated by making a false “threat” out of legally protected free speech. They have him jailed as a --- a “high level threat” --- in Total isolation 24 hours a day! At the Metropolitan Correctional Center in Chicago where Hal is being held, there are murders, rapists, armed robbers, mobsters, drug king-pins, gang-bangers and child molesters; THEY all get to leave their cells to watch TV and movies, play board games, cards or read. Hal CANNOT! He is kept in his cell – ALONE – 23 hours a day on weekdays, and 24 hours a day on weekends. Hal may call his family once a month!
When these murderers, etc., get their daily “recreation” they are taken out on the roof of MCC. Hal cannot go. Instead, he is walked, handcuffed, 20 feet from his cell to a 10’ by 10’ room which has a broken exercise bike and a pull-up bar. He says in that room for one hour, cuffed again, and walked back to his cell.

He is allowed to shower on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, he is walked, handcuffed, to the shower, give 5 minutes to wash and given clean underwear (but NOT a clean jump-suit) cuffed again and walked back to his cell. Hal’s bed linens are weeks old – no clean sheets or blankets for Hal!

Although Hal has some money in his commissary account, he can not use it in the same way those other prisoners can use it. They can buy all commissary items, while Hal cannot! All the criminals that have been mentioned here have been TRIED and CONVICTED! Hal HAS NOT!

This is what it’s like to be a political prisoner, held and abused by the left. They outright lie to make up false charges, jail you without bail, and then restrict you in prison worse than they do a murderer. This is the kind of thing we used to hear about in the former Soviet Union. Now, it’s happening here in the USA.

Hal hopes you have a better understanding of who Hal is and what he did. He is no traitor. He is a Patriot, a proud, right-wing Conservative Christian.

Hal never abandoned the cause or our country. Please do not abandon Hal! Hal needs your help to fight these charges. Hal and his family are wiped out financially with legal bills.

Please contribute whatever you can by using the “CHIPIN” link on this page, or send cash, check, or money order, payable to P. Turner to:
P. Turner

P.O. Box 1103
Secaucus, NJ 07096-1103
OR
K. Diamond
P.O. Box 881
Tunkhannock, PA 18657

AntiSionist - September 8, 2009 08:00 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE
>
> The FBI believed (and still believes) that the SPLC had one or more informants inside “Elohim City” where the bombing of the Murrah Federal Building was allegedly planned. The FBI believes that the SPLC KNEW about the bomb plans but DELIBERATELY CONCEALED that knowledge so as to let the bombings happen! The SPLC then used the bombing to raise $100 Million to battle such “HATE”.

The FBI was in on the goddamn operation. They planted the bombs in the wtc with Israeli help in 1993, and they planted the bombs in the Murrah building in 1995. This is obviously the lower down FBI, not the higher ups. Higher ups of course have to blame the Jews to cover for the Maltese. In other words, this is FBI Division 4 blame the Jew for Iraq lies and Oklahoma tactics - Heneghan style.

AntiSionist - December 7, 2009 07:04 AM (GMT)

Records show feds used ultra-right radio host for years

Hal Turner says he feels betrayed by the FBI after spying on white supremacists. He now is facing charges of making threats against judges.

Sunday, November 29, 2009
Last updated: Thursday December 3, 2009, 2:36 PM
BY MIKE KELLY AND PETER J. SAMPSON
http://www.northjersey.com/news/Records_sh...s.html?page=all

They called him "Valhalla."

But it was more than a nickname.

For more than five years, Hal Turner of North Bergen lived a double life.

The public knew him as an ultra-right-wing radio talk show host and Internet blogger with an audience of neo-Nazis and white supremacists attracted to his scorched-earth racism and bare-knuckles bashing of public figures. But to the FBI, and its expanding domestic counter-terror intelligence operations in the wake of the Sept. 11 attacks,

Turner was "Valhalla" — his code name as an informant who spied on his own controversial followers.

Turner's clandestine past was confirmed this past summer when he was jailed on charges that he made threats on his blog against three federal judges in Chicago. In court after his arrest, federal prosecutors acknowledged Turner's FBI ties but downplayed his importance and even described him as "unproductive."

But an investigation by The Record — based on government documents, e-mails, court records and almost 20 hours of jailhouse interviews with Turner — shows that federal authorities made frequent use of Turner in its battle against domestic terrorism.

As Turner took to his radio show and blog to say that those who opposed his extremist views deserve to die, he received thousands of dollars from the FBI to report on such groups as the Aryan Nations and the white supremacist National Alliance, and even a member of the Blue Eyed Devils skinhead punk band. Later, he was sent undercover to Brazil where he reported a plot to send non-military supplies to anti-American Iraqi resistance fighters. Sometimes he signed "Valhalla" on his FBI payment receipts instead of his own name.

His dual life of shock jock and informant offers a window into the murky realm of domestic intelligence in the years after the Sept. 11 terror attacks — in particular, the difficult choices for the FBI in penetrating controversial fringe groups with equally controversial informants.

In interviews, conducted before Turner was released on bail, he said the FBI coached him to make racist, anti-Semitic and other threatening statements and now he feels double-crossed by the bureau after his arrest. The documents reviewed by The Record, however, show repeated instances of federal agents admonishing Turner for his extremism.

Federal prosecutors in Newark and Chicago declined to respond to Turner's claims, as did FBI officials. "We do not comment on matters before the courts and will not address Mr. Turner's allegations in the press," said the FBI's Weysan Dun, who runs the bureau's Newark field office.

Turner's "Valhalla" life will likely be on display this week when he is scheduled to go on trial for his alleged blog threats against three federal appeals court judges in Chicago who upheld a law banning handguns. The trial, originally set for Chicago, was switched to Brooklyn, with a judge flying in from Louisiana.

The trial may have its share of political intrigue. Turner's defense attorney, Michael Orozco, said he plans to subpoena Governor-elect Chris Christie to testify about whether he advised the FBI about Turner while Christie was U.S. attorney in Newark.

On Friday, Orozco filed a motion to dismiss the case, accusing the government of "outrageous conduct."

But the center of the court battle will likely be the story of Hal Turner and his FBI connections, which began in 2003 with the Newark-based Joint Terrorism Task Force, and continued on and off until this year.

Rumors of Turner's FBI work surfaced two years ago after unknown Internet hackers electronically broke into his Web site and found e-mails between Turner and an FBI agent. Turner never acknowledged his FBI role until after his arrest in June — and then with a mix of anger and chagrin.

"Imagine my surprise," he wrote in one of several letters from jail to The Record, "when agents from the very FBI that trained and paid me came to my house to arrest me."

In a memo only two years earlier, the FBI said Turner "has proven highly reliable and is in a unique position to provide vital information on multiple subversive domestic organizations." The memo went on to say that Turner's "statistical accomplishments include over 100 subjects identified, over 10 acts of violence prevented and multiple subjects arrested."

"I was not some street snitch," Turner said in one of several lengthy interviews at the Hudson County Jail, where he was kept until the terms of his bail were worked out in October — terms that prevented him from talking to reporters after his release. "I was a deep undercover intelligence operative."

Misgivings on both sides

Whatever his role, one thing is clear: The relationship between Turner and the FBI often was rocky, with both sides cutting ties several times.

In March 2005, Turner abruptly quit. In a letter to his FBI handlers, he cited a "complete failure" by the agency "to achieve the goals for which I began the relationship," the "dismal lack of arrests," the failure to track down a "threat to kill me and my family" and "exploitation" by the FBI "to interfere with content of my Internet Web site."

By June, however, Turner was again on the FBI payroll. The FBI, meanwhile, harbored its own doubts about Turner.

Five days after Turner's March 2005 letter, an internal FBI memo summarized rising concerns that his rhetoric was too controversial and possibly dangerous.

"Is he a big mouth? Yes," the memo said. "Does he say really deplorable things? Yes. Is he a physical threat to anyone? I don't think so."

Records show the FBI continued this kind of questioning throughout its connection to Turner — valuing his ties to right-wing hate groups, but also worrying that his audience might follow up on his violence rhetoric.

In a July 2007 memo, Turner's primary FBI handler, Special Agent Stephen Haug, wrote that Turner "will continue to be admonished in the strongest possible terms and on a periodic basis about his rhetoric and the potential of it inciting acts of violence."

Haug went on to say that Turner would be "instructed to utilize his celebrity status to insure he continues to remind those who follow his rhetoric that such rhetoric is not intended to incite violence."

"In balance," Haug wrote, "this source's value outweighs the discomfort associated with source's rhetoric. Source's unique access provides important intelligence which, if lost, would be irreplaceable."

Turner, meanwhile, often tried to assure the FBI that his shock jock rhetoric was not serious. "The audience loves the rip-roaring radio psycho," he wrote in one e-mail to the FBI. "They literally throw money at it. Just be confident that the personality you hear (or hear about) on radio is not real life. I have zero intention of doing anything stupid."

Nonetheless, Turner's statements were closely watched.

In February 2008, in the midst of the presidential primary season, Turner attracted the attention of federal officials when he turned against then-Democratic candidate Barack Obama.

"I'm starting to come to the realization that it may be up to a sole person, acting alone, to make certain this guy is never allowed to hold the most powerful office in the world," Turner wrote on his Web site. He later removed the statement.

But later that year, court records show that he contacted federal authorities to say that he had heard of a possible assassination plot by white supremacists against the president-elect.

"I didn't like Barack Obama," Turner explained in an interview. "But he won the election."

Seven months after the possible threat to Obama, Turner was in FBI handcuffs — for allegedly threatening the Chicago judges.

"Let me be the first to say this plainly: These judges deserve to be killed," Turner wrote on his blog on June 2. "Their blood will replenish the tree of liberty."

Turner also posted photos of the judges, their work phone numbers and office addresses as well as a map of the courthouse that pointed out "anti-truck bomb barriers."

"The word 'deserve' is just an opinion," Turner later told The Record. As for posting the photos of the judges, he added: "I can't tell you to this day how sorry I am."

Even if he wins his federal case, Turner's legal problems will not be over. In June, Connecticut authorities charged Turner with inciting violence against state officials who supported a proposed state law to give Roman Catholic parishioners greater control over church finances.

In each case, Turner contends his words are protected as free speech under the First Amendment. Turner's attorney, Orozco, adds that other federal prosecutors routinely ignored his outlandish statements. "He has made other controversial remarks about judges, none of which have ever been prosecuted," wrote Orozco in a legal brief.

"I never intended for anybody to feel threatened," Turner said.

Longing to be heard

Whatever his intentions, it remains unclear who the real Hal Turner is.

A fraud? A serious threat to homeland security? A white supremacist? A loyal citizen trying to help the FBI? A radio showman trying to build an audience — and income — with shocking statements?

After he was arrested by FBI agents in June, Turner was sent on a journey that took him to jails in Newark, Oklahoma and Chicago — often in solitary confinement. By late September, he was transferred back to New Jersey and sent to the Hudson County Jail in Kearny. In all, he spent 119 days behind bars.

In the interviews at the Hudson County Jail, Turner offered many glimpses of his personality and motivation.

"My country needed me," he said when asked why he accepted the FBI's offer in June 2003 to become an informant. "I'm a loyal, patriotic decent American citizen."

But why did he say — or hint — that some judges and other officials should be killed? Turner blames the FBI, saying that while agents never said he could threaten judges, they coached him on the limits of what he could say. As a result, Turner said he felt he had wide latitude.

"I was given specific instructions," he said. "Here, I am in prison, betrayed."

In one of his more controversial statements, Turner gloated over the murder of the husband and mother of a federal judge in Chicago in 2005. But Turner described his rhetoric as fake, arguing he hoped it "would solidify my anti-government credentials" among ultra-right-wing groups he was spying on.

As for hanging out with neo-Nazis and skinheads, Turner said, "That's not me. It never has been."

Raised in Ridgefield Park, the 47-year-old Turner labored more than a decade in a variety of positions with several moving-van companies. In 1988, while working for a moving company in Atlanta, Turner was arrested on a drug possession charge. In interviews, he said he had a cocaine addiction at the time and checked into a rehab program.

By the early 1990s, Turner moved to North Bergen and worked as a real estate agent. Within a few years, however, he began to dabble in politics, trying to beef up the Republican Party in overwhelmingly Democratic Hudson County. He also was a campaign manager in New Jersey for Republican presidential candidate Pat Buchanan.

Politics seemed to offer Turner something he never realized he had — a voice and a need to speak out on hot topics. Now, however, several close associates question whether that voice is authentic or just the work of someone looking for the limelight.

In 1997, when Ramapo College Finance Professor Murray Sabrin ran for governor on a libertarian platform, he hired Turner to manage his campaign. Turner was a frequent caller on WABC's popular talk radio shows with Bob Grant and Sean Hannity — "Hal from North Bergen," as he came to be known.

Turner surely had a conservative flair, especially on such issues as abortion and immigration. But Sabrin noticed a complete shift after Turner started his own talk radio show. In particular, Sabrin, who is Jewish, found some of Turner's remarks to be anti-Semitic.

"People have a public face and a private face," said Sabrin. "Everything that he is doing now is a complete 180-degree shift. It's totally opposite from what I knew. I don't know where this is coming from. I certainly wouldn't have tolerated it."

For several years, the Southern Poverty Law Center, an Alabama-based civil rights group, has regularly monitored Turner's radio broadcasts and blog. Indeed, the center was one of the first organizations to raise questions that Turner might be an FBI informant.

Hearing now that Turner admits to being an informant, the center's director of research, Heidi Beirich, was especially critical of the FBI. "We've never seen anything like this with informants. It's essentially idiotic on the part of the FBI. Anybody who spent two seconds looking at Hal Turner's Web site would know he is a wild hare," she said.

Indeed, Turner's own recounting of his life with the FBI does not always mirror what records show he did.

Turner, for example, says the FBI asked him to participate in a mission to plug leaks of information inside the Department of Justice to a variety of groups including the Southern Poverty Law Center and the Anti Defamation League. Turner also says the FBI asked him to specifically criticize such African-American leaders as Jesse Jackson and Al Sharpton.

"I was supposed to be a counterbalance to Sharpton," Turner said.

Officially, the FBI declined comment on those unproven stories by Turner. The documents bear no trace of those operations.

Expedition to Brazil

Unofficially, FBI and other federal officials expressed a mix of dismay and outright anger when told of Turner's claims of being coached to make provocative statements.

"Absurd," said one. Another added: "And pigs will fly beginning with the next full moon. It never happened."

During interviews with The Record, Turner was at times unclear on some details. FBI records indicate, for example, that he did not become an informant until June 2003; Turner originally said he was recruited by federal agents in 2002, but later said he was mistaken.

Along with Haug of the FBI, his other regular contact was Leonard Nerbetski, a New Jersey State Police detective assigned to the FBI's Joint Terrorism Task Force.

Requests to interview Haug and Nerbetski were turned town by the FBI and by the state police.

In an early communication, Turner reported to the FBI about a meeting in Elmwood Park by the National Alliance. A few months after that, FBI records show that Turner was reaching out to several national leaders of the alliance.

FBI memos indicate that the bureau had appropriated as much as $100,000 for Turner's work as an informant.

"It was good money," said Turner, who would not say how much he was ultimately paid by the FBI.

Turner said he was earning about $15,000 a month from his suddenly popular radio show and blog.

As 2004 wore on, Turner found himself reporting to the FBI about a possible theft of evidence in a Bergen County drug case and about an attempt to set up a chapter of the Aryan Nations in northern New Jersey.

A year later, with the FBI paying for his visa and passport renewal, Turner embarked on his most ambitious mission — to confer with a wealthy white supremacist in Brazil who was considering making a $1 million donation to his American counterparts.

While in Brazil, Turner also reported meeting a World War II German Luftwaffe flying ace and linking up with a representative of the Brazilian Arab Society, who discussed a plan to ship $10 million in consumer goods to anti-American Iraqi resistance fighters.

After Turner returned to New Jersey, the records show that the FBI investigated the Arab Society representative and even reached out to U.S. officials in Brazil for help in monitoring his activities. But it's not clear if the $10 million shipment was attempted.

The $1 million donation also never materialized, records show. The Brazilian benefactor backed out of the deal when an American white supremacist did not accompany Turner on the trip.

Records indicate the FBI wanted Turner to return to Brazil to spy on white-supremacist training there. But Turner never went. While in Brazil, Turner said, he carried a gun for protection, which was not authorized by the FBI.

Only a few weeks after returning to the United States from Brazil, Turner again found controversy. In a radio broadcast, he targeted African-Americans.

"A full day of violence against blacks would be a really nice thing," he said.

Turner went on to call for "lynchings, church burnings, drive-by shootings and bombings to put these subhuman animals back in their place," according to a report complied by the Anti-Defamation League.

The episode illustrates the complicated relationship between the FBI and Turner. Despite Turner's racist radio rhetoric, the FBI also valued his undercover work — and was apparently willing to take a risk with him again — and pay him, too.

For example, a July 2005 memo by the FBI said Turner had been paid $10,365 in the previous fiscal year and that he "provided information which continues to be highly accurate and sensitive."

Turner continued to reach out intermittently to the FBI — with tips including a possible KKK murder plot — until June 2, 2009, the day he posted the alleged threats on his blog about the Chicago judges.

In an e-mail that day to the FBI, Turner says he has heard reports that agents had interviewed skinheads and others about him.

"Am I unapproachable?" Turner asked in the e-mail. "Geez, I'd think by now I would have proved myself. It's not like I'm gonna go postal or anything."

Three weeks later, Turner was arrested.

Four months after that, Turner, unshaven and wearing frayed green prison garb and fumbling with a loose tooth, sat in an interview room at the Hudson County Jail and pondered his journey — from shock jock to FBI informant to inmate charged with a serious federal crime.

"I can't believe this is happening to me," he said.

AntiSionist - December 7, 2009 07:05 AM (GMT)

Fast facts
In court this week
Hal Turner was charged June 24 with posting Internet threats to assault and murder three federal appeals court judges in Chicago who upheld handgun bans.
If convicted, Turner faces as much as 10 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.
His trial is scheduled to start Tuesday in federal court in Brooklyn.
Timeline
1992: Serves as the North Jersey coordinator for Pat Buchanan's presidential campaign.

1994: Organizes a rally in Trenton, attended by members of the white supremacist Nationalist Movement, in support of WABC radio host Bob Grant.

1996: On Curtis Sliwa's radio show, reveals the name of a sex offender who had moved to Englewood, thus violating the confidentiality restrictions of Megan's Law.

1997: Manages the New Jersey gubernatorial campaign of libertarian Murray Sabrin.

2000: Enters elective politics and comes in last in a three-way primary race for the Republican nomination to challenge U.S. Rep. Bob Menendez.

2002: Begins broadcasting daily radio show; speaks at rally of the Aryan Nations in north-central Pennsylvania.

2003: Recruited by the FBI as confidential informant "Valhalla"; attends National Alliance meeting in Elmwood Park and its leadership conference in West Virginia.

2004: Provides information on the National Alliance, Aryan Nations and Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, as well as on a white supremacist plotting to bribe a judge and steal the evidence in his cocaine trial in Bergen County.

2005: Designated an extra-territorial source by FBI headquarters, travels to São Paulo, Brazil, and meets a noted white supremacist who wanted to donate up to $1 million to the American National Alliance. He also reportedly meets a member of the Brazilian Arab Society who proposes a venture to ship U.S. consumer goods to the Iraqi resistance.

2006: Travels to rallies around the country and warns FBI about pending attacks on two white supremacists suspected of being informers, and a television news reporter.

2007: Citing serious control problems, the FBI's Detroit office closes Turner as a confidential informant after he refuses to call off a "Rally Against Black Gang Terrorism" he organized in Kalamazoo, Mich. "While source's closing may negatively impact the timeliness of future receipt of information concerning potential extremists, this information is not so valuable as to outweigh source's uncooperative and renegade behavior." It is not the end of his relationship with the FBI.

2008: Hackers break into Turner's computers and post an exchange of e-mails between him and his FBI handlers. He is warned to close down his show and Web site or other e-mails would be made public.

2009: Turner is arrested in separate cases for allegedly posting threats against Connecticut lawmakers and three federal judges in Chicago.

Sources: Record archives, government documents

AntiSionist - December 8, 2009 11:29 PM (GMT)

http://www.wired.com/threatlevel/2009/12/h...ogger-mistrial/

Mistrial in Case of Hate Blogger Charged With Judge Threats
By David Kravets December 7, 2009

A federal judge declared a mistrial Monday in the case of a notorious New Jersey hate blogger charged in June with threatening to kill judges.

According to court documents, after a three-judge panel of the Chicago-based 7th U.S. Circuit of Appeals upheld a Chicago handgun ban in June, Hal Turner blogged at turnerradionetwork.blogspot.com that the judges should be "killed."

“Let me be the first to say this plainly: These judges deserve to be killed. Their blood will replenish the tree of liberty. A small price to pay to assure freedom for millions,” the 47-year-old blogger wrote.

A day later he posted addresses, photos, maps and other identifying information about Chief Judge Frank Easterbrook and Judges Richard Posner and William Bauer, the authorities said.

The mistrial was declared after jurors, deliberating their second day, said they were hopelessly deadlocked. A retrial was set for March 1.

Turner, who claimed he was an FBI informant paid to disseminate right-wing rhetoric, maintained at his trial last week that his speech was protected by the First Amendment.

The Associated Press reported that the sole juror in the case to speak to reporters said panelists had voted 9 to 3 to acquit, saying jurors believed the government’s case was weak.

State charges are also pending in Hartford, Connecticut, where Turner is accused of inciting readers to “take up arms” against state lawmakers.

AntiSionist - December 21, 2009 04:34 PM (GMT)

Friday, December 11, 2009
Brazilian Newspaper Cries "Foul" Over FBI Operative Hal Turner

UPDATED SUNDAY, DECEMBER 13, 2009

Sao Paolo, Brazil -- This Sunday, the largest newspaper in Brazil, "o Globo" will be running a major front-page story about the continuing U.S. criminal case involving radio host Hal Turner. According to sources with knowledge of the pending story, the newspaper Fohla de S. Paolo, which is the Brazilian version of the New York Times will report this week that the United States sent ". . . . an American spy, Hal Turner . . . . to spy on Brazilians."

As reported by "The Record" newspaper of New Jersey two weeks ago, Turner was a highly trained intelligence operative for the FBI Joint Terrorism Task Force. During a three month investigation, the newspaper revealed it had seen government documents, e-mails, reviewed court records proving that Turner was, in fact, working for the FBI since at least the year 2003, but other government documents reveal Turner was with FBI since 1993.

Among the revelations by the newspaper, Turner was sent overseas by the FBI. One country specifically named in the newspaper was Brazil, where Turner uncovered a plot to ship non-military goods to the Iraqi-resistance who are battling US troops in Iraq.

While some doubted initial media reports that Turner was anything more than a paid informant for the FBI, eyebrows were raised by testimony given by an FBI official during Turner's trial.

Last week during trial in federal court, FBI Supervising Special Agent Amy Pickett, the third highest ranking FBI Official in New York City, took to the witness stand and stunned the courtroom when she testified "Hal Turner dealt with national security; the national security of the United States." She went on to testify that Turner "dealt with things that affected a lot of people" and applauded Turner as being "highly reliable" and an intelligence operative whose information was "very accurate." Pickett testified "When he [Turner] said something was going to happen, it did. . . . . ."

According to souces in Brazil, the Brazilian newspaper expects their story to cause a national scandal in that country because the Brazilian government was not told that the U.S. was sending a "spy" to their country. It is expected that Brazil will file a formal protest with the U.S. State Department, decrying the fact that the US Government sent "a spy" to Brazil to "spy on Brazilian citizens."

This blog will provide a link to the Brazilian newspaper story once it is published.

FAMILY OPINION

The ironic part of this entire affair is that none of this had to come out. If it wasn't for the fact that Assistant U.S. Attorney William Hogan and William Ridgway in Chicago were so hell bent on prosecuting an opinion as though it were a threat, none of Hal's information would now be a public spectacle.

When Hal was first arrested, he did not divulge his role with FBI publicly. Instead, Hal's attorney, Michael Orozco, disclosed the information privately to Assistant US Attorney Judson Willsy at Turner's first Bail Hearing in Newark NJ the day after the arrest. Willsy seemed aghast at the notion that Hal could ever have been with the FBI and told Orozco "That's bullshit; Hal Turner has no credibility."

Denied bail, Hal still remained totally silent about his role with FBI, figuring it would take the government time to figure things out and that all would be fixed by the time Hal was extradicted to Chicago. He stayed quiet, in jail, for 30 days.

Stunningly, when Hal got to Chicago on July 28. . . . . more than thirty days after his arrest. . . . . Assistant U.S. Attorney William Hogan persisted in the lie that Hal was dangerous to the community.

Hogan demanded that Hal be remanded without bail even though by that time, records prove that Hogan knew that Hal had been with the FBI for years.

Apparently Hogan perpetuated the lie that Hal was dangerous because Hogan is incapable of admitting he made a terrible mistake bringing this case!

Now that the case against Hal has resulted in a mistrial, with a jury deadlocked 9 not guilty to 3 guilty, even more details of Hal Turner's intelligence opertions for the FBI are likely to come out. As we will soon see with Brazil, the scandals and fallout from such revelations will have an effect on the US Goverrnment.

We, Hal's family can tell you, there is a lot that will come out. It wasn't just Brazil where Hal had overseas dealings. In fact, Hal had dealings with officials from Great Britian, the British National Party and even members of the European Parliament -- all as part of his role with the FBI.

In addition, Hal performed work for an agent - who will be publicly named - from the Central Intelligence Agency; and was tasked by CIA to do something that would ultimately affect the outcome of the Israeli invasion of Lebanon 19 months later!

Yes, things are going to get pretty dicey when Hal's trial starts anew on March 1 in Brooklyn. Just remember that none of this had to come out if it wasn't for the U.S. Attorneys office in Chicago who are mis-representing an opinion as a threat and who are too arrogant to admit they made a mistake or to let go.

 UPDATE * The Brazilian Newspaper "Fohla de S. Paolo" has, in fact, published the story previously mentioned above. The link to the Portuguese language article is below.

http://oglobo.globo.com/pais/noblat/posts/...stas-249613.asp

AntiSionist - December 21, 2009 04:51 PM (GMT)

Well look at what we have here. Looks like Tom Heneghan of FBI 4 is attacking his former radio buddy FBI 5 Hal Turner. See what happens folks? Tom Heneghan is turning on his former FBI buddy to maintain some sort of credibility. This Roman Catholic NSA scumbag is hoping that not enough people will remember what Hal Turner told the world when Tim White and others were prodding him about associating with 'those frauds' Heneghan and Webb. Turner retorted back, "They pay me to be on the air." - AntiSionist

QUOTE

Toys Out of the Attic: Protocols Update Part 2 of 2
by Tom Heneghan
International Intelligence Expert
Sunday December 20, 2009

Stay tuned for our next intelligence briefing, which will deal with FBI Division 5 informant Sean Hannity of FOX News and his relationship to former right wing racist talk show host and FBI Division 5 informant Hal Turner.

Note: Turner recently had a mistrial in Brooklyn, New York, which dealt with charges against him concerning Turner's DIRECT email threats against various judges in Illinois.

Hannity, who has diarrhea of the mouth, is a known racist and fascist and is paid $5 million a year by FOX News owner Rupert Murdoch to promote the Bush-Clinton Crime Family Syndicate occupation of the United States.

By the way, folks, both Chris Matthews and Sean Hannity are close friends.

They cash their checks at the same bank (ha).

And now, for the relevant posted comment by Tim White at the rawstory.
http://rawstory.com/blog/2009/07/revealed-...-fbi-informant/

QUOTE

58Tim White
From: Tim White
Subject: THE DAY I GOT IN HAL TURNER'S FACE-HE'S FBI COINTELPRO (I TOLD YA SO)
To: "Jeff Rense" , larisa@rawstory.com
Received: Wednesday, July 29, 2009, 11:55 AM

From: Tim White
Subject: THE DAY I GOT IN HAL TURNER'S FACE-HE'S FBI COINTELPRO (I TOLD YA SO)
To: "Michael Lawlor (CT State Rep-East Haven)" , "Andrew J McDonald (CT State Sen-Stamford)" , "Thomas K Jones" , "Meredith Trimble(CT Office of State Ethics)" , "Daniela Altimari (Hartford Courant)" , "Tom Baden(Editor-Connecticut Post)" , "Linda Levinson(News Editor-Connecticut Post)" , "Christopher L Caruso(CT State Rep-Bridgeport)" , "Michael J Fallon(CHIEF-CT State Capitol Police)"
Received: Thursday, June 4, 2009, 1:24 PM

Date: Tue, 29 Jan 2008 10:43:08 -0800 (PST)
From:
Subject: THE DAY I GOT IN HAL TURNER'S FACE- HE'S FBI COINTELPRO (I TOLD YA SO)

4 weeks ago (1-1-08),a group of very pissed off computer geek hackers hacked into Turners' IP server and proved by seeing emails between Hal Turner and his FBI handler/controller that HAL TURNER is a PAID FBI INFORMANT and an AGENT PROVACATEUR

Date: Fri, 17 Feb 2006 16:10:21 -0800 (PST)
From: Tim White
Subject: HENEGHAN and WEBB are PAYING HAL TURNER to "BE ON AIR"

This morning at about 8 my time(Mountain Time),I received a call from Karl Schwarz informing me that the known vicious liars and despicable disinformation frauds,Tom Heneghan and Stew Webb,were on the Hal Turner owned "network",on the Hal Turner Show with their complete idiocy called the "U.S. intelligence reports" brought to "US" by the totally bogus "American-French Alliance",of which this lying disinfo duo is apparently the "spokesmen" for. This show was broadcast last evening (Thursday) out of NYC. These frauds spent an hour on air ranting and raving,lying,libeling and slandering Karl Schwarz,retired FBI/SAC Ted Gunderson and myself plus other garbage that can only come from two known lying alcoholics that are paid to be disinformation agents and character assassins of those that put out the truth and those who are exposing their "game". Those people include myself and Karl Schwarz plus Larry Lawson being another prominent name and there are indeed others. Since Karl called me to let me know about this latest lying diatribe on the show of Roman Catholic and Jesuit trained Neo-Nazi,hateful racist,and vicious liar,Hal Turner - I decided a phone call to this Jesuit Co-adjutor was in order.

I called Turner at his listed home phone number of 201-484-7809(1906 Paterson Plank Rd,North Bergen NJ) and this racist snake answered on the second ring. I identified myself right away and it took this Neo Nazi racist a moment to realize who he was talking to.He said,"OH--Tim White---you're the guy that sent me all those emails(about the liars,frauds Webb and Heneghan)a few weeks ago". I said,"Yes-that's me and I want to know why you have these two lying frauds on your show". He stated,"It's MY network-I OWN THIS network and I'll have on MY show whoever I damn well please". I answered,"Very well,but it's you who told me by email that you were always concerned about being truthful and having nothing but the truth come out on your show so WHY do you have two known lying frauds on your show"? He went into an instant 4 letter word rage and I started to laugh at him at that point further pushing him over the raging edge into psychobabble.He then said something over his slathering,spitting 4 lettered rage that was truly enlightening to me. Turner said,"Heneghan and Webb PAY ME TO BE ON AIR". Hmmmmmm. Turner then ramped up his rage and graduated to using words of greater than 4 letters and said,"I'm going out to Denver to kick your FXXXXXX ASS,you MXXXXX-FXXXXXX AXXXXXX-you FXXXXXX.....". Well,I was roaring with laughter at all of this since this lying bigmouth moron would never leave the safety of his own small minded turf in New Joysey to ever meet me in person,not to mention that he,Heneghan,Webb and others are going nuts trying to find out just WHERE I am in Denver. I know where all of these 3 lying frauds live plus others who are trying to find me.As Turner further dissolved into a complete bug-eyed,blood vessel bursting rage and with my laughter over-riding his verbal cacophany of vicious words-Turner hung up leaving me with the BIG QUESTION.Since Turner ADMITTED - probably a huge mistake on his part-that Heneghan and Webb were PAYING Turner to be on air,the question IS,"WHO is providing the money that Heneghan and Webb DO NOT HAVE themselves to be on the airwaves of this Neo Nazi lying racist"? I then called Karl Schwarz back to let him know about what Turner said and Karl expressed a real surprise at this unintended (I'm SURE) revelation of Turner.Schwarz then said he would put some of "his people" on this right away to find the source of this money but I have more than just a small suspicion this source can be spelled with 3 letters - CIA or FBI or some other Fascist BUSHitler and Jesuit controlled agency or even the Global Warming Fraud ,CLUB of ROME member Al Gore,since the Heneghan/Webb Disinfo Duo are mindless sycophants of Gore and have an NSA/CIA handler by the name of USAF "retired" Lt

Gen Otis C Johnson - codename RED DOG - who lives in Hastings Nebraska.This will in a short time be exposed I am sure so stayed tuned to this developing exposure of this well trenched disinfo operation that now involves Jesuit trained "Capt" Eric May,totally discredited "journalist" Tom Flocco,mentally deficient former Fed employee Mary Schneider in Orlando,CIA contract agent provacateur Jeff Swedenburg(aka "Jeff Sweet",aka "Delbert" who is behind the BOGUS JFK Jr "assassination story,"ex CIA" disinfo libeler/slanderer Barbara Hartwell,JBS stooge and shill John Perna,CIA lying disinfo Janet Phelan,and others too numerous to mention but informed people know who they are.

Tim White,Viet Nam Vet(USAF)
Concerned Citizen,Researcher,Investigator,Whistleblower
from the NWO Capitol of the West-DENVER now a Refugee from BUSHitler's 4th REICH
Vancouver British Columbia

JustGetThere - Entries tagged as cointelpro
In FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's own words, the purpose of COINTELPRO was to " expose, ... in action was displayed by right-wing talk show host Hal Turner. ...
justgetthere.us/blog/plugin/tag/cointelpro - Cached - Similar pages
FOX's Sean Hannity's WABC-AM connection with Neo-Nazi talk show ...
1 post - 1 author - Last post: 19 Jan 2008
... with Neo-Nazi talk show host Hal Turner Ron Paul Grassroots Central. ... out to have been fronting a typical FBI COINTELPRO sting operation. ... that the FBI were done with Turner and exposed him to shut him down. ...
http://www.ronpaulforums.com/showthread.php?t=93964 - Cached - Similar pages
HAL TURNER OUTED - ON FBI PAYROLL
2 posts - 2 authors - Last post: 16 Jan 2008
COINTELPRO spook, Turner, giving up radio. Good riddance. ... right-wing talk show host Hal Turner was outed as an FBI agent when hackers found ... If they are not exposed, they become Pied Pipers leading their followers ...
http://www.psifly.com/cr2/index.php?topic=17110.0 - Cached - Similar pages
HAL TURNER OUTED - ON FBI PAYROLL

11 posts - 1 author - Last post: 15 Jan 2008
Discussion about HAL TURNER OUTED - ON FBI PAYROLL at the ... COINTELPRO spook, Turner, giving up radio. Good riddance. ... If they are not exposed, they become Pied Pipers leading their followers deeper and deeper into ...
http://www.godlikeproductions.com/forum1/message489321/pg1 - Cached - Similar pages

AntiSionist - December 21, 2009 04:55 PM (GMT)

Double post.

AntiSionist - January 12, 2010 05:41 AM (GMT)

To repeat, Hal's first trial resulted in a hung jury so he goes on trial again March 1 2010. - AntiSionist

Wednesday, January 6, 2010
The Real Cost of Freedom of Speech

Brief recap: Hal Turner is the first Editor of an American media outlet to be jailed for an Editorial since 1798. The last U.S. Editor jailed for an editorial was Benjamin Franklin Bache, grandson of Benjamin Franklin, making Hal's arrest truly historic.

Hal was arrested on June 24, 2009 after publishing an Editorial which was critical of the way three federal Judges violated the US Constitution and violated a recent US Supreme Court Ruling. Hal wrote that the Judges were "traitors" to the United States and were tyrants. He quoted Thomas Jefferson's "Tree of Liberty Letter" which said "The tree of liberty must be replenished from time to time with the blood of tyrants and patriots." Hal then wrote "Let me be the first to say this plainly, these judges deserve to be killed."

The government claims that saying the judges "deserve to be killed" is a threat to actually go out and kill them! Hal knows that saying someone "deserves" something is just an opinion; it is perfectly lawful free speech.

Based on what he wrote, the government charged Hal with "threatening to assault and murder three United States judges." This is an incredibly serious charge and defending against it is incredibly expensive.

Upon his arrest, Hal hired Michael Orozco, a partner in the law Firm Bailey & Orozco of Newark, NJ. Needless to say, this type of attorney does not come cheap. Thousands had to be spent to retain him.

Hal was arraigned in June but because he made a fund-raising appeal by phone to his radio audience, the Assistant US Attorney in New Jersey went ballistic. He mischaracterized that appeal as nefarious and the Magistrate Judge in New Jersey denied Bail pending Hal's transfer to Chicago where the charges were filed.

Hal got to Chicago about 30 days later, having been held in federal custody in Newark, NJ, Oklahoma City, OK and finally Chicago. When he got to Chicago, Hal figured the government would have finally come to its senses, would have read his FBI records and realized it was the FBI itself that trained Hal in what was legal to say, and would have come to its senses. Sadly, that was not the case.

Instead of admitting their mistake, the government declared Hal a "high threat risk" and a "threat to government" and argued to Magistrate Martin Ashman in Chicago that Hal should be held without bail as a "danger to the community." Stunned by this ridiculous and outrageous conduct, and having suffered a brutal media onslaught smearing him nationally, Hal instructed his lawyers to reveal his status with the FBI. This revelation – in open court - stunned Magistrate Ashman, who "continued" the bail hearing until August 10 so Hal could subpoena the FBI and prove he was no danger to anyone.

On August 10 when the Bail hearing resumed, the nationally-notorious Chicago corruption showed itself in all its ugliness. Despite having been served with Subpoenas, five members of the FBI failed to show up in court. Even more stunning, Assistant US Attorney William Hogan told Magistrate Ashman that no FBI people would be coming to the hearing because Hogan told them to ignore the subpoenas!

Instead of holding the FBI in contempt, and instead of Holding AUSA William Hogan in contempt, Magistrate Ashman halted the bail hearing without hearing any evidence or any testimony and ordered Hal held without bail. It was the single most astonishing shredding of the Constitution we've ever seen! Hal's right to due process, his right to compel witnesses to testify on his own behalf and his right to bail were crushed as though they didn't even exist. Hal was sent back to federal prison, to be held in solitary confinement inside the Special Housing Unit (the SHU) as a "high risk threat" and "threat to government."

THE SHU:

The SHU is a jail within a jail. It's where prisoners are sent when they break prison rules. Prisoners in the SHU are confined 23 hours a day, 7 days a week. When Hal asked why he was being punished, the prison told him "you are not being punished, you're being held in Administrative Detention." Hal asked 'What's the difference between Administrative detention and disciplinary segregation for those who had broken prison rules?" He was told "Prisoners in disciplinary segregation are being punished; those in Administrative segregation are not." It was actually the same treatment but the prison just CALLED one "punishment!"

To put this in proper perspective for you, the federal prison in Chicago has all sorts of real and dangerous criminals: Murderers, rapists, armed robbers, those who committed horribly violent aggravated assault, gang-bangers, drug king-pins and the like. ALL those prisoners get to come out of their cells for about 14 hours every day to watch TV, watch movies, listen to radio, read books, shower, use the telephone, use the rooftop gym to exercise, buy a full range of foods, snacks and beverages from the prison commissary. They could do all those things but HAL COULD NOT!

Hal was only allowed out to shower on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Unlike the murderers, rapists, drug king-pins, gang bangers and other criminals held in the same prison, Hal could not watch TV, could not watch movies, could not listen to radio, could not read books. While all those (real) criminals could call their families, Hal could not. Hal was only allowed to phone home once a month! While all those (real) criminals could go outside once a day to exercise on the prison rooftop, Hal could not. He was restricted to (literally) a “cage” in the center of the SHU. The cage is a 10’ x 20’ cage with a broken exercise bike and a pull-up bar inside. That was Hal’s 1 hour of “recreation” every day while he was in the SHU. While the (real) criminals in the same prison could order a full range of food, snacks and other items from the prison Commissary, Hal could not. He was forced to select from a restricted list, unable to even buy a pen to write home. While all those criminals could call their lawyers anytime they wanted, Hal could not. Hal was restricted to calling his lawyers only twice a week.

Seeing this corruption first-hand, seeing the brutal isolation being forced upon Hal, and realizing that commuting from Newark, NJ to Chicago was unrealistic, Hal’s attorney, Michael Orozco strongly recommended Hal add an additional lawyer to act as local counsel. Hal added Chicago Attorney Nishay K. Sanan to join the fight. Mr. Sanan cost thousands more to retain.

The lawyers went to work with gusto. With the corruption so obvious, Hal’s lawyers got all the federal Judges in the entire 7th US Circuit “recused” from hearing the case. No federal judge in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan or Wisconsin could be involved. Next, the lawyers got an honest federal Judge from Louisiana, designated to the case.

Once the honest Judge from Louisiana got involved, things turned in Hal’s favor. First, the Lawyers successfully argued for a change of venue. This is very rare in federal court cases, but thanks to good lawyers and an honest Judge, the case was transferred from Chicago to Brooklyn, NY. Next, Hal’s Lawyers appealed the denial of bail and the honest Judge granted the appeal.

After suffering solitary confinement 23 hours a day in federal prison and after being held for 119 days, Hal was released on October 21 after posting $500,000 cash, but remains under House Arrest, with an electronic monitoring bracelet, forbidden to speak to the media or use the internet. He has not been able to work since June.

Hal went on trial in federal court in Brooklyn, NY on December 1, but the trial ended in a hung jury that voted 9 to 3 in favor of acquittal (Not guilty). As such, Hal must go on trial AGAIN starting on March 1.

!!! SURPRISE !!!

Hal's lawyers explained to him that the amount of work they had to do so far was enormous and a second trial means even more work. That means another round of legal fees!

The pending second trial means thousands more for lawyer fees, thousands more for air fare and hotels and thousands more for transcripts and copies.

Since Hal has been unable to work since June and is still under house arrest, money is a real problem. A mortgage had to be taken on Hal's house to bail him out, so no money can be gotten there. Hal's wife had to sell the house she inherited from her mother in law to help support the family, but that closing has yet to take place. The family savings has been utterly wiped out with legal fees from the prior trial, so Hal is in a huge jam.

Can YOU help?

Hal Turner brought real free speech to the radio. He allowed all of you to speak your mind on ANY topic without censorship. No other radio show EVER did that and none has done it in the months since Hal went off the air because of this case.

Hal Turner didn't commit any crime. He threatened no one. Yet he has been totally financially destroyed by this gross abuse by the government. Betrayed by the very government he worked for; a government that is perpetrating a full, frontal assault on our cherished right to freedom of speech.

So once again, as we did when this first took place, we come to you, his radio fans, to ask for help. In the left column of this blog is a box where folks can "Chip-In." You can use your Visa, MasterCard, American Express or Discover to make a donation. Every little bit helps.

YOU COULD BE NEXT

Hal has been through a terrible ordeal and still faces a major trial starting March 1. If the government can jail him for HIS opinion, how long will it be before they jail YOU for YOURS?

This fight affects ALL our rights. We must prevail against these politically-correct thought police. If we fail, how many of us in the future will end up in a federal jail cell? Think about it.

You may not agree with what Hal said, but will you defend his right to say it? Will you defend your own right to say things that others disagree with? Please help. Please make a contribution of $25, $50, $100, $250, $500, or more.

If you do not feel comfortable using a credit card, you can send cash, check or even anonymous Money Order to the P.O. Box address at the top of this blog:

P.O. Box 1103
Secaucus, NJ 07096-1103

This legal fight affects us all. We must protect freedom of speech for ourselves and our posterity. The fact that a US Attorney in Chicago could send agents out to New Jersey to arrest a blogger for something he wrote should frighten every user of the internet. This could happen to ANY of us.

The fact that a the nationally-notorious Chicago corruption resulted in Subpoenas being ignored, the right to due process being crushed, the right to compel witnesses to testify being crushed and the right to bail being crushed, is a cancer upon our nation that must be confronted. The US Attorney in Chicago is waging all-out war on freedom of speech and he is playing for keeps. He must be defeated and the case of Hal Turner is the mechanism to achieve that.

We ALL have to step-up to defend our net freedom.

The Founding Fathers are watching. Will you step-up and help?

Thanks!
Posted by Family of Hal Turner at 9:04 PM 0 comments

craig-oxley - March 10, 2010 06:48 PM (GMT)

FBI paid racist shock jock Hal Turner ‘in excess of $100,000′

By Stephen C. Webster
Thursday, March 4th, 2010 -- 8:26 pm
http://rawstory.com/2010/03/fbi-paid-racis...-excess-100000/

Turning informant on your fans can be lucrative, if you're a shock jock by the name of Hal Turner.

Amid a trial where Turner faces criminal charges for making threats of violence against public servants, he disclosed that the Federal Bureau of Investigation paid him "in excess of $100,000" over a five-year period.

Turner, a long-time racist radio host who attracted an audience of white supremacists and neonazis, was first revealed as an FBI informant in 2008. After becoming the subject of ridicule on infamous Internet forum 4chan, Turner was confronted by hackers on his site's discussion boards with copies of e-mails he'd allegedly sent to the FBI, bragging about how he'd helped in "flush[ing] out another crazy."

The arrest came after Turner called for the murder of three judges.

"Let me be the first to say this plainly: these Judges deserve to be killed," he wrote on his Web site, according to MSNBC. "He included their pictures, phone numbers, work address and room numbers along with a photo of the courthouse in which they work and a map of its location, the FBI says."
Story continues below...

"In gripping testimony on Tuesday, all three Chicago appellate court judges took the stand and said they felt threatened by Turner's blog posting..." NorthJersey.com reported. The publication also revealed details about Turner's compensation on the public's dime.

According to Turner's lawyer, the shock jock was specially trained to incite fringe individuals. "His job was basically to publish information which would cause other parties to act in a manner which would lead to their arrest," attorney Michael Orozco said.

Turner's famously vile broadcasts began in 2002, though the one-time Pat Buchanan campaign coordinator did not begin his relationship with the FBI until 2003. Before Turner began his work in radio, he was a frequent guest on the Sean Hannity radio show in New Jersey. Turner ceased broadcasting in 2008 amid an investigation into his increasingly violent rhetoric.

A judge in December declared proceedings against Turner a mistrial after the jury became deadlocked on an argument of whether hate speech is protected under the First Amendment. The trial was postponed and moved to Brooklyn, where it resumed on March 1.

AntiSionist - March 16, 2010 08:27 AM (GMT)

Trial of shock jock Hal Turner ends in second mistrial
Wednesday, March 10, 2010
Last updated: Thursday March 11, 2010, 2:35 PM
BY PETER J. SAMPSON
http://www.northjersey.com/news/031010_Jur...Hal_Turner.html

BROOKLYN, N.Y. – A federal judge declared a mistrial Wednesday in the retrial of ultra-right wing shock jock and former FBI informant Hal Turner after a jury deadlocked on whether Turner threatened the lives of three federal judges.

U.S. District Judge Donald E. Walter dismissed the panel of seven men and five women after they failed to reach a unanimous verdict on the third day of deliberations in the weeklong trial.

The impasse was an obvious disappointment for Turner, whose previous trial in December on the same charge also ended in a mistrial, with a 9-3 majority in favor of acquittal.

Jurors, citing an instruction from the judge, declined to comment on their deliberations and refused to disclose how they voted.

Walter set a new trial date for April 12 and appointed Peter Kirchheimer, the chief federal public defender in the district, to represent Tuner, who filed for bankruptcy in New Jersey on the eve of trial.

Asked whether the government will prosecute Turner for a third time, Assistant U.S. Attorney William Hogan said prosecutors will review the matter, but added, “I’d say it’s highly likely.”

Turner’s lawyers — Nishay K. Sanan of Chicago and Michael A. Orozco of Newark — who represented him in both trials, said the government should be “embarrassed” because it had called the three judges to testify at the this trial and still couldn’t get a conviction.

“It’s not the victory we wanted, but it’s definitely a victory,” Orozco said.

“After two trials he’s still not convicted, so that’s a win,” Sanan said, adding that Turner went head-to-head with three of the nation’s top judges.

Turner’s mother, Kathy Diamond, 66, said his family was disappointed that Walter didn’t dismiss the charges.

“They put on their finest show, judges and all. It’s time to say ‘uncle’ and let everybody get on with their lives,” Diamond said.

Turner, 47, of North Bergen, who grew up in Ridgefield Park, built an audience of white supremacists and neo-Nazis with an Internet radio show and blog that featured racist rhetoric and frequent calls for violence against public officials with whom he disagreed.

But while he maintained a public persona as an ultra-right wing shock jock, Turner also worked as a confidential informant for the FBI's counter-terrorism squads, gathering intelligence on the Aryan Nation, the National Alliance, skinheads and white power groups.

In June, FBI agents acting on complaint filed in Chicago arrested Turner on a charge of threatening to murder or assault three judges from the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in an incendiary blog post in which he wrote they "deserved to be killed" for upholding a local gun ban.

The judges, who were not called at Turner's first trial, testified last week that they took the threat seriously, though they didn't request additional protection and were never harmed.

Turner testified he was merely exercising his First Amendment right to offer an opinion and that his FBI handlers had coached him on what was protected speech and what was not.

Powerful evidence of that came in the form of FBI documents which showed that after Turner opined that another Chicago judge was "worthy of being killed" in his blog and on national television in 2005, FBI lawyers concluded he was operating within their guidelines.

Turner's lawyers acknowledged that financial reasons played a role in their parting but also said Turner wants a "new set of eyes" on the case.

The judge cautioned Turner to adhere to a gag order imposed as part of his $500,000 bail.

"You must not do anything to get the press further involved in this case," Walter warned. "I do not want to move the case to Juneau."

QUOTE

More news from: North Bergen

Reader Comments (10)
Reminder: Our comments section is governed by our Terms of Service and Privacy Policy

Please report comments that violate the terms of service.
Thursday March 11, 2010, 3:06 PM - farallon says:
The streets of Paterson and Newark are filled with savages, and they're worried about some guy with a radio program.

Thursday March 11, 2010, 1:47 PM - Vinnybyrne says:
The little tyrants in black robes should understand that the 1st amendment protects all the VILE speech that we dont like

Thursday March 11, 2010, 12:49 PM - FRANKYBABY says:
This guy is just like his old radio buddy's at therightperspective dot org. The guy who calls himself "Frank from Queens" is right up this guys alley. The racist garbage this guy spills is right up there with Hal Turner.

Wednesday March 10, 2010, 11:28 PM - MarkE says:
This trial is about Hal NOT his family. Leave his son, wife, and anyone else out of it!!! Look, I don't support what Hal said (although I believe that those judges in Chicago were WRONG) but I DO STRONGLY SUPPORT his RIGHT to say it, just as I support all your right to say what you do here. Just remember that just because you have the right to say it doesn't make it the right thing to say...

Wednesday March 10, 2010, 9:23 PM - Radioman says:
As much as I think Hal is a scumbag, his connection with the FBI bothers me. I guess the FBI thinks a little hate is OK, but a lot of hate is bad. Threatening federal judges should be a no-brainer conviction, but maybe one or more of Hal's adherents were on the jury.

Wednesday March 10, 2010, 8:43 PM - MarkPotok says:
Hal: Your kid needs a haircut bad. Bring him to a skinhead rally.

Wednesday March 10, 2010, 8:15 PM - vitootsa says:
How many more trials are taxpayers going to pay for???? AAnother trail will have the same outcome. Save some money and forget another wasted trail.

Wednesday March 10, 2010, 6:04 PM - LilithWhyte says:
"The defense has argued that Turner's was only expressing an opinion when he wrote on his radio network blog that the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judges "deserved to be killed" for upholding a local gun ban in Chicago and suburb." Would I be breaking the law if I post that I agree with Turner?

Wednesday March 10, 2010, 5:49 PM - swabbie says:
I'll always wonder how Hal could extort money from his audience after intense "solicitation" every week and then report those donors to the FBI as potential terrorists. This, while taking money from the FBI at the same time. This proves what a sham Hal's "show" was and where Hal'S REAL loyalty lies, -$-MONEY! This worked very well until the FBI got tired of his BS, and fired him. Then, when he got into legal trouble, Hal turned on the FBI too. It must be very lonely, being Hal Turner...

Wednesday March 10, 2010, 3:05 PM - MarkPotok says:
Hal: The jury in this one is smarter than the last. You're going down.

AntiSionist - March 16, 2010 08:30 AM (GMT)

The photo shows Hal Turner and his son, Michael. - Drew J

Second mistrial of 'web radio shock jock' Harold (Hal) Turner for alleged threats vs. judge

BY John Marzulli
DAILY NEWS STAFF WRITER
Thursday, March 11th 2010, 4:00 AM http://www.nydailynews.com/news/national/2...at_blogger.html

Newman/Bergen Record
The judge warned Harold (Hal) Turner, of North Bergen, N.J., not to speak to the media.

After the jury deadlocked, a second mistrial was declared Wednesday in the case of Internet gasbag Harold (Hal) Turner, charged with death threats against federal judges.

Turner, 47, who fancies himself a Web radio shock jock, ranted on his blog in June 2008 that three appellate judges in Chicago "deserved to die" for upholding a local ban on handguns.

The case was moved from Chicago to Brooklyn to ensure a fair trial, and the first trial ended with a hung jury. Now a second set of jurors has failed to reach a verdict after more than two days of deliberations.

After declaring a mistrial, the judge warned Turner, of North Bergen, N.J., not to speak to the media.

"I don't want to move the case to Juneau," Federal Judge Donald Walter warned.

Asked if the Chicago U.S. attorney's office was going forward for a three-peat, Assistant U.S. Attorney William Hogan said it was "highly likely."

Defense lawyers had argued Turner was exercising his right to free speech. They also said that several years ago, he had been coached by the FBI to make provocative statements when he worked as an informant for the feds.

AntiSionist - April 10, 2010 09:36 AM (GMT)

Friday, April 2, 2010
ROUND 3: Gov't to try Turner THIRD Time!

(http://family-of-hal-turner.blogspot.com) -- The United States Attorney's Office in Chicago has announced they will put radio show and blogger Hal Turner on trial for a THIRD Time. The latest trial date has been moved five months from April 12 to August 9 as reported by Tickle The Wire.com at: http://www.ticklethewire.com/2010/04/02/fe...-time-on-aug-9/

This announcement by the government violated a media "gag order" imposed by the trial Judge in the case. During the first trial, just before the hung jury was announced, Assistant US Attorney (AUSA) William R. Hogan specifically asked the court to remind the defense that no one involved in Turner's case was allowed to speak to the media. The court issued that reminder. When the jury came out and announced they were hung, that same AUSA, William Hogan, walked out of the courtroom and spoke to the New York Daily News which quoted him the next day!

Clearly the US Attorney's office doesn't care what the court wants because they know the Judge in the case won’t hold them accountable. If Hal Turner violated the court's order, he'd forfeit his bail and be thrown back in jail. The prosecution has now violated the court's order TWICE, with no consequence.

This fits a pattern of behavior which grows more troubling with each passing day.

CASE RIGGED?

During trial #1, both the government and the defense gave opening statements one after the other. Also during trial #1, during the government's case-in-chief, the defense was able to cross examine government witnesses about Hal Turner's role as a national security intelligence operative. Fair, right?

All that changed for trial #2. Just days prior to trial #2, Judge Donald Walter issued an order forbidding the defense from giving their opening statement until AFTER the government rested! In addition, the Judge forbid the defense from cross-examining government witnesses about Turner's role with the FBI unless the Defense also subpoenaed those same witnesses for the Defense case-in-chief. More stunning was Judge Walter's ruling that the defense could NOT present any evidence about Turner's role with the FBI unless Turner himself first took the witness stand! This forced Turner to take the stand despite the fact he was not required to do so in Trial #1.

If these benefits to the prosecution weren't good enough, Judge Walter ALLOWED the testimony of three federal judges; the very judges whose testimony he ruled as "irrelevant" in trial #1. In Trial #1, the prosecution made it a key part of their case that they did NOT have to prove Turner ever communicated with any of the Judge in order for the government to convict. In fact, Turner never communicated with any of the judges he criticized in the Editorial which caused his arrest.

Turner never made any phone calls to the judges, never sent any letters, faxes or e-mails to any of the judges and never paid them a personal visit. Turner merely commented in an online editorial that because the Judge violated the US Constitution and ignored a recent US Supreme Court ruling, they ". . . . . deserve to be killed."

The government claims that saying someone "deserves to be killed" is a threat to actually go kill them. Turner says that "deserve" is an opinion and is protected free speech.

In a stunning act of partiality toward the prosecution during trial #2, Judge Walter even went so far as to tell the Jury that he "has ruled Mr. Turner's remarks are NOT protected by the First Amendment." It was tantamount to instructing the jury that Turner was guilty!

In spite of all this case rigging, Jurors in Trial #2 were hung again and a second mistrial was declared.

Two separate and very different claims regarding the jury vote came out after trial #2. After the trial, two jurors from the case were seen in a nearby parking lot and they told Turner's family the vote was 10 to 2 in favor of acquittal. About two weeks later, the Judge in the case gave both sides a different vote tally, less favorable to Turner.

According to well placed sources, if the public were to add the number of jurors who voted for conviction in both trials, it still totals less than 12.

So despite the case rigging outlined above, Turner still didn't get convicted. This makes us wonder how much farther the case will be rigged for trial #3.

Hal Turner spent 119 days in federal prison without bail after he was arrested for his editorial twenty days after it first appeared on the internet. He was then released on $500,000 bail, but under house arrest, with electronic monitoring, forbidden to speak to the media or to anyone outside his immediate family about his case. He is also forbidden from using the internet.

As of today, the United States government has jailed, prosecuted and twice put on trial Hal Turner for nothing more than an editorial opinion. The draconian restrictions placed on Turner forced him into Bankruptcy and deprived him of his civil rights for more than 9 months. Today, we find out Hal must endure such cruel treatment for another 5 months until his third trial on August 9.

Tell us again how the United States is the “land of the free?” Tell us again how we enjoy “freedom of speech?” It’s all a fraud.
Posted by Family of Hal Turner at 5:09 PM 10 comments
Wednesday, March 24, 2010

AntiSionist - April 10, 2010 09:37 AM (GMT)

Friday, April 9, 2010
New Lawyer Wins Bail Concessions for Turner

Brooklyn, NY – (http://family-of-hal-turner.blogspot.com) Changing lawyers has started out well for radio host and blogger Hal Turner. On Thursday, Turner’s new attorney won a significant easing of Bail restrictions that had been placed on Turner since his release from federal prison last October.

Upon posting $500,000 bail, Turner was confined to house arrest, forbidden from going back on the radio or the internet, unable to earn a living, prohibited from talking to the media and from speaking to anyone but his immediate family about his case. Turner suffered these draconian restrictions for five months despite the best efforts of his two attorneys.

When Turner’s second trial ended in a hung jury in early March, Turner announced he was releasing his attorneys so that “a new set of eyes” could take a look at his case, hopefully with better results.

At a Bail Hearing on Thursday, April 8, Turner's new attorney, Peter Kirchheimer, convinced Judge Donald Walter that Turner should be able to leave his home and work. Judge Walter agreed – kind of.

After hearing government objections which included the government fear that Turner would "be able to express his views directly to people" Judge Walter modified Turner's terms of release to permit him to leave his home for twelve (12) hours a day, 7 days a week to work. A nighttime curfew still applies.

The judge placed no geographic limitations on Turner, saying "I don't care where he goes as long as he is back in his home by (a specified time.)"

Assistant US Attorney Diane MacArthur repeatedly argued that Turner was dangerous simply because the government said so, and told the judge "easing the restrictions this way is like having no restrictions at all." MacArthur went on to tell the judge that the government ". . . . . doesn't trust Mr. Turner. . . . ." and expressed concerns that Turner could "communicate his views about judges and other views, directly to people" without government control.

Political Prosecution

The argument was quite remarkable because it made clear the case against Turner is political in nature; the Obama administration sees Hal Turner as a threat to their socialistic goals. Turner proved to be the single most effective voice opposing the changes being forced upon America by the government.

At the height of his political effectiveness, Turner single-handedly stopped the Comprehensive Immigration Reform Act of 2007 by publishing the names, home addresses and unlisted home telephone numbers of 63 US Senators who defied the American people by supporting Amnesty for illegal aliens. Turner released the list on his web site during his radio show just twelve hours before the final Senate vote.

Without staff at their homes to intercept (and ignore) constituent calls, Senators were swamped with calls and personal visits to their houses by voters. Twelve hours later, 18 of those Senators - who had supported the Bill just 3 days earlier - changed their votes, sending immigration reform down to crushing defeat.

THE FBI HELPED

What no one knew at the time was that for years prior, Hal Turner had been an Intelligence Operative for the FBI Joint Terrorism Task Force. Although the official relationship with the FBI ended, the Bureau stayed n touch with Turner and it was the FBI that supplied the home addresses and unlisted home and cellular telephone numbers of those US Senators, to Turner!

The FBI knew from past experience that Turner was willing to publish home address info of government officials. More importantly, a sizeable portion of the FBI did not take kindly to Congress granting another Amnesty to millions of people who broke our laws to come to the United States. Moreover, many in the FBI were outraged that the Senate was ignoring the Will of the American People.

The morning before the final Senate vote, the FBI dropped off a computer USB memory stick to Turner's home in North Bergen. The memory stick contained the names, home addresses in the home state and secondary addresses for Senators who also had homes around Washington, DC. It also contained the home telephone numbers, secondary home telephone numbers and private cellular telephone numbers of those Senators. Once Turner got the Memory Stick, he knew exactly what to do with it.

That night, during his radio show, Turner talked about the Immigration Reform Bill, outlined how the Senate was ignoring the Will of The People; ignoring literally millions of phone calls, faxes letters and e-mails. Turner then dropped an information-bomb-shell by publishing the private address info on his web site.

In twelve hours, the site got more than 1.4 MILLION unique visits, including over 1,400 visits from computers from "Senate.gov" the official US Senate servers at the US Capitol! It worked. A Tsunami of Constituents called and paid personal visits to the Senators throughout the night. The next morning, 18 of those 64 US Senators had been thoroughly reminded who they work for.

Despite fierce support by the leaders of both political parties in both houses of Congress, and despite support by then-president Bush, the Immigration Reform Bill went down to defeat. Hal Turner made very powerful enemies when he did this.

So devastatingly effective was Turner's work that no less than the President of the National Council of La Raza, appeared on CNN's "Lou Dobbs Tonight" and blamed Turner BY NAME, for "creating a wave of hate" which defeated the Immigration Reform Bill. A clip of that CNN Video appears below. They quote Hal at 1:53 into the video!

Lately, there's been talk from the Obama regime about resurrecting Immigration Reform. With Hal Turner sidelined by court restrictions, they might think they can get Amnesty through this time. They should think again. We, the Family of Hal Turner, have the list of home addresses and we will publish that list again if the Congress dares to attempt to pass Amnesty for illegal Aliens again.

In the mean time, we're pleased to announce that Hal's new attorney is making progress and thankfully, Hal will be able to leave home and work. We're not certain if he'll go back to driving a truck, but whatever he does; at least he has won some freedom back.

BACKGROUND ON THE SITUATION

For those unfamiliar, last June, Hal Turner published an editorial which was critical of three federal Judges in Chicago. The Editorial accused the Judges of violating the Constitution of the United States by upholding a ban on handguns and also accused the judges of ignoring a recent US Supreme Court ruling which overturned Handgun bans.

The editorial went on to call the Judges “traitors” to the United States. Tyrants. It quoted Thomas Jefferson who said “The tree of Liberty must be replenished from time to time with the blood of tyrants and patriots.” It then said “Let me be the first to say this plainly, these judges deserve to be killed.”

The US Attorney in Chicago claims that saying the judges “deserve” to be killed is a threat to actually kill them. Hal Turner knows that saying someone “deserves” something is an opinion.

The US Attorney charged Hal Turner with “threatening to assault and murder three United States Judges.” Hal was held in federal prison, without bail, for 119 days. He was later released on $500,000 bail.

Hal went on trial on December 1 and the Jury voted 9 to 3 in favor of ACQUITTAL. A mistrial was declared and a second trial took place on March 1, 2010. That second Jury was also unable to reach a unanimous verdict so another mistrial was declared. A third trial was scheduled for April 12, but has now been rescheduled until August 9.

Legal costs and being jailed for four months severely impacted Hal and his family. Being held under house arrest for five more months once he got out on bail drove Hal into Bankruptcy. Such is the price for freedom of speech under the Obama regime.

Spread the word.

craig-oxley - August 14, 2010 01:11 PM (GMT)

We should always be very careful of this Patrick Fitzgerald cretin. -Craig

Internet Radio Host Turner Convicted of Threatening Lives of Three Judges

By Thom Weidlich - Aug 14, 2010 5:01 AM GMT+0100
http://www.bloomberg.com/news/2010-08-13/i...ree-judges.html

After three trials, a jury convicted Internet radio host and blogger Hal Turner of threatening the lives of three U.S. appeals-court judges.

Turner, 48, was found guilty by a federal jury in Brooklyn, New York, of a single count of threatening in Internet postings to assault and murder the judges because he disagreed with one of their rulings. That was the only count he faced. The jury deliberated for less than two hours and the judge ordered Turner taken into custody. Two previous juries had deadlocked.

“There goes the First Amendment for everybody,” Turner’s mother, Kathy Diamond, said after the verdict. “Since when does words mean you threatened to kill somebody?”

Prosecutors said Turner, of North Bergen, New Jersey, threatened judges Frank Easterbrook, Richard Posner and William Bauer in website postings because of their June 2009 ruling upholding handgun bans in Chicago and Oak Park, Illinois. A lower court previously dismissed a legal challenge to the ordinances by the National Rifle Association. The U.S. Supreme Court overturned the handgun bans on June 28.

Turner faces a maximum prison sentence of 10 years. His lawyer Peter Kirchheimer declined to comment after the verdict.

‘Hate Speech, Love Speech’

“You can’t threaten violence against people,” Assistant U.S. Attorney William Ridgway told jurors in his closing argument yesterday. “You can use hate speech, love speech and anything in between. But threats are not protected by the First Amendment.”

Turner’s case was moved from Illinois to Brooklyn to ensure a fair trial. Two earlier trials in Brooklyn ended with hung juries in March and December. U.S. District Judge Donald E. Walter of Louisiana presided over the trial.

Lawyers from U.S. Attorney Patrick Fitzgerald’s office in Chicago prosecuted Turner, with Ridgway and Assistant U.S. Attorney Diane MacArthur handling the trial that ended yesterday. The three judges testified as government witnesses.

“There is no place in society for threatening federal judges with violence. Period,” Fitzgerald said in a statement yesterday.

“It’s a threat,” Posner testified Aug. 11. “It’s an invitation: ‘Go kill these devils,’ as he describes us later.”

Turner used his Web site to post the judges’ names, as well as their photographs and work addresses, and a map of their courthouse.

‘Deserve to Be Killed’

“Let me be the first to say this plainly: These judges deserve to be killed,” Turner wrote of the appeals court panel in a Web posting. “Their blood will replenish the tree of liberty. A small price to pay to assure freedom for millions.”

Prosecutors claim Turner wrote approvingly on his blog of the February 2005 slaying of U.S. District Judge Joan Lefkow’s husband and mother by a disgruntled litigant. The killer, Bart Ross, later shot himself in his car and left a suicide note.

“Hope you think your job was worth what it seems to have cost you,” Turner wrote, according to prosecutors. “Every other federal judge should take a good hard look. White people are tired of being pushed around by this government. We are slow to anger, but when we reach our limit, it isn’t pretty.”

Turner testified at the trial that he served as a Federal Bureau of Investigation informant from 2003 to 2007 and had alerted the government to threats against President Barack Obama. Turner said the FBI explained to him how far he could go in his speech without violating the law.

Denied Threats

“It is okay to advocate violence as long as no one acted on it,” he said he was told.

Turner denied that he intended to threaten or intimidate the jurists.

“I was criticizing -- strongly criticizing -- what these men had done because I believed they shredded the Constitution with this ruling,” he testified. “It’s an opinion. People don’t act on opinions.”

The case is U.S. v. Turner, 09-CR-00650, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York (Brooklyn).

To contact the reporter on this story: Thom Weidlich in Brooklyn, New York, federal court at tweidlich@bloomberg.net.

craig-oxley - August 14, 2010 01:20 PM (GMT)

[dohtml]<object id="swfclipV3754852" width="421" height="316" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" data="http://player.grabnetworks.com/swf/cube.swf?a=V3754852&m=1354225"> <param name="movie" value="http://player.grabnetworks.com/swf/cube.swf?a=V3754852&m=1354225"/> <param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"/> <param name="base" value="." /> <param name="wmode" value="transparent"/> <param name="allowfullscreen" value="true"/></object> [/dohtml]

Insurgent - September 10, 2010 04:33 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE
>
> He also was a campaign manager in New Jersey for Republican presidential candidate Pat Buchanan.

Have you noticed that?

TheUnhivedMind - December 22, 2010 01:41 AM (GMT)

Man who blogged ’judges must die’ sentenced to 33 months

By MITCHEL MADDUX
Posted: 1:09 PM, December 21, 2010
http://www.nypost.com/p/news/local/brookly...L#ixzz18nFhRth7

Harold "Hal" Turner, an Internet radio shock jock popular with white supremacists, was sentenced today to nearly three years in prison for threatening federal judges.

Turner, who is 48 and lives in North Bergen, N.J., addressed the court before his sentencing, delivering a rambling 50-minute diatribe that criticized his conviction, Chicago politics, and a "thin-skinned" federal judiciary.

"This may go down as the first Bolshevik show trial to go on in the history of United States," Turner proclaimed in Brooklyn federal court, referring to Communist party persecutions in the Soviet Union.

Turner spoke at length about his work as a FBI informant, infiltrating extremist groups and passing on information about threats to the U.S. government - including one possible threat targeting the president.

Although he was betraying the inner workings of groups consisting of neo-Nazis, anti-Semitic activists, and white supremacists to his FBI handlers, Turner admitted to stoking simultaneously the flames of discontent on his Internet show and on his website blog.

He did so, he insisted, in order to smoke out extremists who posed a threat to the United States, which he says he dearly loves.

But he also conceded that he pushed the envelope with inflammatory speech because it "shocks the radio audience." He said that his motivation was unabashed capitalism - to make more money.

"I filled a niche market - I appealed to people with extremist views," Turner said.

While admitting that he did not always agree with his listeners' sentiments, his edgy radio program where the "spin is always extreme" created new audiences and new advertisers, thus generating more money, he said.

"The personality you hear on the radio is not real life," Turner said.

He was convicted in August for threatening federal judges in Illinois by advocating on his Internet show that they should be killed.

Turner insisted that his conviction was unfair, because he was simply expressing his First Amendment right and posed no threat to the judges' safety.

"I advocated violence against those judges," Turner said. "But I did so in the context of the Internet. I delineated the difference between a threat and an opinion."

The threats stemmed from a 2009 decision by the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Illinois by Judges William Bauer, Frank Easterbrook, and Richard Posner.

Their ruling upheld a district court decision dismissing lawsuits that challenged handgun bans in Chicago and Oak Park, Ill.

The federal case against Turner was moved from Illinois to Brooklyn to avoid potential conflicts of interest.

Juries could not agree on a verdict in Turner's first two trials, but he was convicted on the third.

AntiSionist - December 22, 2010 07:19 AM (GMT)

33 months? 33? How's THAT for an occult signal that he's ONE OF THEM?

Insurgent - December 22, 2010 03:06 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (AntiSionist @ Dec 22 2010, 02:19 AM)
>
> 33 months? 33? How's THAT for an occult signal that he's ONE OF THEM?

I bet he won't even spend time in jail.

TheUnhivedMind - December 22, 2010 06:08 PM (GMT)

If I were Hal Turner I'd get out and start a new radio station and do as much I could to hammer them without going over board like last time although he should be free to do as he did back then. He's helped them and got nothing for it in the end so I'd be really angry and turn on them properly. He may do this yet who knows but by then they'd find something to get him on I guess. Regardless of his actions with the FBI etc he did give us some good pieces of information from time to time which I believe many didn't appreciate as much as they should have. Yes what a perfect number to use against him like that.

TheUnhivedMind - December 23, 2010 12:21 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (AntiSionist @ Dec 22 2010, 07:19 AM)
>
> 33 months? 33? How's THAT for an occult signal that he's ONE OF THEM?

Crowley was a serious dope addict and his favorite bump was a speedball of heroin mixed with cocaine... and in the end when he was dying in 1947 his last words in horrid fear were "I am perplexed" and he died to be lost in the depths of the Sheol... that's misunderstood as Hell by most... but that's a seriously bad place for Evil humans and fallen Entities who went one too far like those Angelic Beings who landed on Mount Hermon before the Flood to mate with Humans and Animals making the Nephilim and other monstrous DNA perversions...

Mount Hermon... is exactly 33.33° Degrees Latitude/Longitude and exactly 2012 miles both ways from the Zero Point on Earth... and that is the Secret WHY the number 33 has so much attention by Occultists who get off on the number 33 but don't know its meaning above... nor the miles 2012... is any of this becoming clear to You???

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...showtopic=48496

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Drunvalo Melchizedek

Title: Drunvalo Melchizedek

Keith - December 15, 2010 12:11 PM (GMT)

was reading his book "the ancient secret of the flower of life", and it has some good info. but i suspect this guy is just like the rest of them--mixture of truth and lies. the lies that i'm talking about is some of the stuff i read at the end of this book by drunvalo. he talks about INDIGO children, AIDS, and the superpsychic children. basically he says that since around 1984, indigo children have been being born at a high rate(80%). he says these indigo children have upgraded DNA and upgraded LIVERS to digest junk food as a adaptation mechinism to the junk food being delivered to us for some time, and these children are immune to AIDS. when it comes to AIDS, he says that it is "the end to all diseases" because something like our DNA is adapting to become immune to it-- i think he got this info from Greg Braden. then, the superpsychic children... supposedly these kids can materialize what they think very very efficiently, and drunvalo goes on to say that they have documented 100,000 of these children in CHINA alone(verified by the chinese government), and they are schooling them up together. now seriously, if there were that many of these super powerful children, don't you think they would have "Cleaned up" this Earth with a few quick thoughts... i don't know, perhaps make everyone in ROME DROP DEAD, but NO THEY HAVEN"T... WHY? because these superpsychic children DO NOT EXIST! especially not in the claimed 100,000 back in 1995. for example, many of these "superpsychic kids" could have a crumpled piece of paper from a random book that they've never read, and the crumpled piece of paper is placed under their armpit: and supposedly they can read word for word. i think he is full of shit about these psychic kids because alot of them are grown now, and yet they have done nothing but "magic tricks for entertainment". going back to the stuff about the upgraded liver able to eat junk food, i don't believe it. it was never in the plan to deviate from nature's plants and nature's life. i can't see how we can prosper in a healthy way by eating junk crap and moving away from nature. Seriously, Drunvalo, WHERE ARE ALL THESE BEYONG AMAZING HUMANS/KIDS? THEY SHOULD BE IN VAST NUMBERS BY NOW, DRUNVALO. WHERE ARE THEY?

TheUnhivedMind - December 15, 2010 04:55 PM (GMT)

If you watch the David Icke Debunked this also totally debunks this Melchizedek. Both have worked based on Alice Bailey. Drunvalo is supposed to be in contact with all these so-called aliens and been to all these Alice Bailey hollow Earth bases so he claims. I bet if you asked him to take you there he'd make up an excuse. Also he loves to put the Evolution nonsense of the Earth being millions of years old.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Is Mark Dice a coadjutor?

Title: Is Mark Dice a coadjutor?

retroboy87 - June 7, 2010 03:41 AM (GMT)

Anyone happen to know?

craig-oxley - June 7, 2010 10:03 AM (GMT)

I don't know but you'd have to look at who he associates with to maybe find out. What I will say is that I love his videos on showing the dumbed down populaces snubbing a gold coin like bloody morons they are.

[dohtml]<object width="480" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/Gk5aRIz17fk&hl=en_GB&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/Gk5aRIz17fk&hl=en_GB&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="400" height="340"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

[dohtml]<object width="480" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/WAaVK5AkZzI&hl=en_GB&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/WAaVK5AkZzI&hl=en_GB&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="400" height="340"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

retroboy87 - June 7, 2010 05:59 PM (GMT)

Anyone who appears on the tell-a-lie-vision, is most likely a coadjutor. I can never see Eric Jon Phelps being allowed on.

He has a lot of occult symbolism on his shirt on the lower video.

allpowermarie - July 6, 2010 07:56 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (retroboy87 @ Jun 7 2010, 05:59 PM)
>
> He has a lot of occult symbolism on his shirt on the lower video.

Giveaway 1: About Mark Dice's shirt graphic:

It is one of those mass-marketed Renaissance nobility/heraldry designs usually featuring crosses, armor, scroll patterns, roses and crowns -the stuff of knightly Catholic brotherhoods.
He can safely wear it as mass-market fashion whilst still signaling his allegiance.

Giveaway 2: He's done all the hard work digging up "the truth" so u don't have to!

“If you want to save yourself countless hours of endlessly searching the Internet and staring at your computer monitor reading sourceless allegations and fanciful paranoia, then I encourage you to get a copy of the manifesto. You’ll find that practically every major New World Order institution, event, and philosophy is explained in detail so that anyone with a desire to know the truth will be able to see it crystal clear,” says Mark.

Giveaway 3: Flipping through Mark's book "The Illuminati: Facts & Fiction" pg 158
we learn this "truth":

Mark brings up John Todd who:

"actually claimed to be a high level Illuminati member..."

"Several hours of his lectures are available on the internet..."

"As we dissect John Todd's claims and cross examine them (which Mark does not do for the reader) most of them completely fall apart and are undoubtedly a series of fabrications and lies. Despite being a fraud, the legend of John Todd is fascinating to explore and he proves to be a very talented story teller or possibly a very persuasive compulsive liar."

IMO Mark Dice's key talent is that he is a guy other guys would want to go have a beer with.
And be sure to check out John Todd's lectures for yourself!

"Mark you this, Bassanio,
The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose.
An evil soul producing holy witness
Is like a villain with a smiling cheek,

A goodly apple rotten at the heart:
O, what a goodly outside falsehood hath!"

from "The Merchant of Venice" by William Shakespeare

treadingserpents - December 15, 2010 04:11 AM (GMT)

lol You guys gotta watch this. He talks about people calling him out about not talking abou the Jesuits and talks about how people do this to Alex Jones as well. He says they are morons. During this video it is obvious he starts to talk about Eric Phelps, but of course will not name him. Expect nothing less from someone who's been on FOX and ABC! He actually says toward the end "if I was working for the Illuminati why would I be exposing them" LOL

[dohtml]<object width="480" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/mF790-_GbOQ?fs=1&hl=en_US"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/mF790-_GbOQ?fs=1&hl=en_US" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="480" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

AntiSionist - December 15, 2010 07:06 AM (GMT)

Mark Dice is another chickenshit. As Jones and Marrs referred to Eric Jon Phelps in 2008 as THIS INDIVIDUAL, Jones not only in 2010 FALSELY CLAIMS to not remember this person's name as I showed in the anti Alex Jones thread, but Mark Dice is also using THE SAME MODUS OPERANDI. COVERING UP THE NAME OF THE PERSON WHO ATTACKS THEM. If they have nothing to fear, then they would name this person, Eric Jon Phelps, and people would all see how full of crap he is. He doesn't mention Phelps' name when he knows it's him. Mark Dice has been busted.

Also his argument, "Oh I don't talk about fluoride in the book so what are you going to do accuse me of covering it up?" seems like a good rebuttal, but it doesn't wash because the book isn't the only thing he has put out with his opinions. He does have articles and videos. What on the jesuits has he said in those? Probably very little.

Why doesn't he dare Alex Jones to debate Eric Jon Phelps, or as I call him Mr. History? You'll notice that in 2007, Lenny Bloom offered for Heneghan to debate Eric Jon Phelps, but Heneghan said he wouldn't because Phelps wouldn't address the crimes of the BUSH-CLINTON CRIME SYNDICATE. What are these guys scared of? Will Eric Jon Phelps mention what Lenny Bloom said Jones did to Skolnick? Cut them off when they talked about the jesuits and smother them with callers on the phone?

Thanks to the work of Oxley, Phelps, Chamish, Skolnick, Cooper to a degree, Arrabito, Paris, Rivera and others, we know the Jesuits run it all and control the European monarchs. We know for example how Guy Fawkes was proven to be a catholic agent trying to blow up the English parlaiment because the Roman mafia had a problem with the current monarch.

> QUOTE
>
> "Jesuit Plots from Elizabethan to Modern Times" by Albert Close (with an additional chapter by Dr. Clive Gillis); 194 pages; Publisher: Protestant Truth Society; $8.95 postpaid: This book exposes numerous Jesuit plots against the British people, e.g., their attempts to assassinate Queen Elizabeth I of England and King James I of England; their attempts to foment revolution and civil war; and their infiltration of the British government, etc.

We also know the european bloodlines are key, and show how they go back into the black nobility, which we know FOR A FACT used the Jews as their front bankers thanks to men like Hallett and Penre. But thanks to professional genealogists like Williams, we know these black nobility lines go back into papal nobility bloodlines. We know some of these bloodlines helped create the Jesuits and were the master assassins of monarchs and popes. There is the American Illuminati. There is the British-German Illuminati with Italian and German renaissance ancestors and that these had to intermarry with papal bloodlines before they got anywhere.

We have facts on our side. We have famillies. We have ancestors and we have genealogies. We also have insiders feeding us information about key papal bloodlines and how they behave and what they believe. This information is out there. We know these guys have read it because they have read the critiques of them on this board and on Phelps' site who has linked back to the Unhived Mind where the papal bloodlines were mentioned.

Now to bring it back to Dice's rejoinder. He has talked about chemtrails in other places and vaccines in other places, which is why he doesn't always have to mention them, or talk about them in his book. Books can only hold so much information depending on how in depth you want to go. Here is his book.
http://books.google.com/books?id=GeXBzJBJe...epage&q&f=false

He was talking about bloodlines and groups mainly, and not necessarily the agendas they carry out. He has done that in other places, so he gets a pass for not talking about things in his book that he has mentioned elsewhere. However, you can search his book in google and see what he says for yourself about the Vatican and the Jesuits. Ultimately he talks about the Vatican AS PORTRAYED in Dan Brown's book on 315 and 316. However, on 396, he says the Vatican in fact has been working with the Illuminati. On the same page he also says the knights of malta are working with the Jesuits to expand and maintain the wealth and influence of the Catholic church.

However, on 310 he says that blaming the Jesuits is akin to blaming the Jews. He says you can't just blame one group.

Well it depends on what you blame that group for. We say the Jesuits, the maltese knights, the holy sepulchure of jerusalem and the papal bloodlines are at the top. We have the histories of groups, interlocking families, bloodlines and GENEALOGY to back up what we say in regards to the Roman mafia being at the top of the pyramid. So let's work backwards. Israeli Zionists and Mossad. Created by William Stephenson of British Intelligence. British Intelligence and Germanic intelligence together in the OSS created the CIA. Bill Donovan was a catholic. Now British Intelligence goes back to occult British lineage. But the Windsors themselves are Gemanic largely. And the British and Germanis black nobility lines go back to Italian nobility in the renaissance. And these lines like the de Medici had to intermarry into the papal bloodlines. So in other words the papal bloodlines have been using front families under pressure to be loyal to them to spawn new European bloodlines, which then create more families and occult intelligence agencies that then control America and Israel from it's birth. And then just to make sure that centuries later you still control these frontmen, you allow the Rothschilds into your family because your name is Aldobrandini. All the while knowing that the networks you control have even killed and put certain Rothschilds under monarch mind control programming (see Fritz Springmeier's talk on guy de rothschild for that)Simple enough? You really do have to do genealogy that far back to find out where the power sits. I used to think that the Zionists ran it all. I really used to think Jews infiltrated and took over. But when I finished Fritz's work on mind control and saw what the Rothschilds, the supposed kings, went through in terms of mind control, I went further and further back. I found out the British and the Germanics were more powerful and used these Jews. But then I found sources showing how even these monarchs were getting killed and plotted against and were dying. By who? THE ROMAN MAFIA. How was I shown this? I WAS GIVEN GENEALOGIES AND NAMES. Then I had no choice but to accept the fact the Rome runs the show.

I really believe these guys have seen our info on say the papal bloodlines and I believe they know now that King Juan Carlos is a Farnese descendent and I believe they know the Farnese bloodline used Ignatius of Loyola to create the Jesuits. I really think they are ignoring it. And IF THAT'S THE CASE, then I can't help but think they are another Michael Tsarion. Jealous that our work is taking people away from their work slowly and more surely.

So Mark, what's your excuse for BARELY MENTIONING THE POWER OF THESE ROMAN A-HOLES or at the very least minimizing their power? Not having access to sources which talk about the papal bloodlines? We are you not coming up with anything new in terms of families? Why are you stopping at the British and the Germans? If our Vatican bashing was so wrong, WHY DID WE HAVE INSIDERS COMING TO US TO GIVE US MORE INFORMATION ON THE PAPAL BLOODLINES that were never talked about until we talked about them?

How'd you like being on mainstream television like your friend and CIA puppet Alex Jones who is such a bad actor and a clear liar for saying in 2010 he can't remember the name of the man who called him a temporal coajutor?

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: So Rense is a coajutor? Could be.

Title: So Rense is a coajutor? Could be.
Description: OLD 2007 TOPIC REPRINT

AntiSionist - September 30, 2008 11:03 PM (GMT)

Does Szymanski, the Vatican whistleblower, not have a regular spot on the Rense show, like every second Thursday? Or is that over now? I never listen to Rense. Anyway, Rense has a lot of articles on Zionism, but little on the Vatican as far as I know. He does host plenty of Sherman Skolnick articles. But then so what? Any deceiver can tell a little bit of truth. He was also showing his face in a BBC documentary talking about Mario Lamza.
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hAOT7rY1WZg

I also found this on Stew Webb's website in his section about exposing how Ted Gunderson is a pedophile, satanist, criminal and former husband of Anton Lebay's ex wife.
http://www.stewwebb.com/Gov.%20Plants%20&%...%20CIA-FBI.html

QUOTE

At one time I Stew Webb thought Ted L. Gunderson was a true Patriot, I even booked him on Radio Programs, went to New York and did a lecture there with him. Until I began to her from CIA-FBI-Intel.

types, who would ask why are your associating with Ted Gunderson he works for The Bush Bad Guys. This is when I began to ask Ted Gunderson about his involvements with George Bush Sr., Ollie North, General John Singlaub, Iran/Contra Drugs for Weapons, Stingers to Terrorist Bin Laden, when he would get drunk, (he drinks daily-Vodka and Orange Juice) sometimes he would then confess to me. Then when he was Sober

I would intentionally re address the issues. He admitted tons that I do not have the time or inclination to put in this news release.

Further, I have been keeping recorded tapes of various Radio Programs

Ted Gunderson has been doing lately, including but not limited to > Jeff Rense May 7, 2002, in which Ted Gunderson has continued his > attacks and lies about me. Ted Gunderson stated on the Jeff Rense program > that Stew Webb works for the CIA and that I am an infiltrator for the

>
>
>
> CIA. This is BULL. I have never worked for the Government.
>
> I contact Jeff Rense about these slanderous statements, he refuses to > allow equal airtime. WHY Jeff Rense?
>

Jeff doesn't give radio time to Stew Webb to respond? Was there not also some information up here about Rense giving Eric Phelps the cold shoulder?

> QUOTE
>
> Minuteman Matt
>
> Jeff is a temporal cojuidtor he likes to give you half trues mixes up with half lies. He heavily promotes the UFO dis-info "bunkum" as craig says. Also Jeff is big buddies with Alex Jones.

> QUOTE
>
> According to Webb, Rense will not allow equal airtime. Might he be concerned about them fighting too much? Weird!
>
> Maybe I should send an email to Rense and ask him to set something up between those two and see what he says? I think that between Webb and Gunderson, they should have it out on the air and let the audiance decide. If Rense has something against Webb, then let's see what he has to prove! There must be a sure way to know.....we just have to find out.
>
> May be another host will offer to let them both on together and see who's the real agent. I'm tired of these two fighting and I do not trust either one at this point until I have more information.
>
> But I got one idea already. Webb says Gunderson was married to some Satanist lady right? Well, how hard would this be to find out? Like what I mean is Webb makes a huge claim about something like this..... so if he's proven wrong then at the very least he may be a questionable source of info. But if Webb is telling the truth, then Gunderson is 100% BUSTED.
>
> So let's find out if Gunderson was married to a Satanist woman. What do y'all think about this idea?
>
> Daniel

Stew Webb on his site, I saw this once, said that Tim White was an FBI assett doing their dirty work for Division Five and he no longer has their protection. Tim White has claimed Lenny Bloom, Eric May, Greg Szymanski and Stew Webb are all suspicious people. Eric May is an admitted Roman Catholic. Check this topic out. It's certainly food for thought. http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...showtopic=20882

Craig may be right about how these guys out the Bushes and Clintons but he never addressed what Eric May said which I wish he had. Another friend I have who has been into this for years and got me out of the Zionist trap, has told me that Heneghan and Webb are working for Al Gore, a man who is basically a vampire addicted to blood that is taken from victims at the high point of sacrifice in the Mother Darkness castle when they secrete a certain hormone or some kind of adrenalin into their blood.

http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...showtopic=17858
I don't see why the jesuits couldn't control both sides of the whole thing. Yes, the Bushes and Clintons tried to shoot Gore's plane down nine years ago and I guess the animosity is still there since Webb and Heheghan have had their lives threatened. I see Gore as the lesser of two evils. He is white nobility and so he wants a new world order too. But he seems to want to drag it out and do it with less bloodshed. But that's still not good enough for the order and their bumboys the Bushes and Clintons. These families are just gangs who want power and are out for themselves. Think I'm kidding about Gore? Look at this article.

http://www.cei.org/gencon/003,05836.cfm

QUOTE

Gore's Global Warming Plan
Energy Rationing, Taxes, Red Tape, and Pork-Barrel Spending by CEI Staff
March 22, 2007

Washington, D.C., March 22, 2007— Former Vice President Al Gore dropped the pretense in testimony before the House and Senate yesterday that the global warming problem as he imagines it can be solved by changing light bulbs and buying hybrid autos. Instead, he laid out an agenda for the federal government to take over every aspect of energy use in the United States.

The policies he laid out include: steep increases in energy taxes, a cap-and-trade regulatory system that would put rapidly declining limits on greenhouse gas emissions, more restrictive fuel efficiency standards for cars and trucks, a huge federal intervention in the finance market to subsidize more energy efficient houses, a prohibition on new coal-fired power plants unless equipped with expensive carbon sequestration technology, and a vast increase in federal payments to people who cannot afford the steeply higher prices to heat and light their homes.

"Gore's proposals would create a breathtaking expansion of government power over the lives of everyday Americans citizens and put the U.S. economy in a deep freeze. Normally such radical measures would be rejected out of hand – which is why the former Vice President has had to rely on alarmist predictions which mislead his audiences and distort the relevant science," said Competitive Enterprise Institute Senior Fellow Marlo Lewis, author of Al Gore's Science Fiction: A Skeptics Guide to An Inconvenient Truth, an exhaustive study rebutting Gore's version of global warming theory.

"Mr. Gore envisions a federal takeover of nearly every aspect of the economy and restrictions on people's individual choices," said Myron Ebell, CEI's Director of Energy & Global Warming Policy. "He has validated Czech President Vaclav Klaus's recent observation that environmentalism in general and global warming alarmism in particular pose the greatest threat to individual liberty and to prosperity in the world today."

"Socialism failed because it claimed control over the economy in the name of the people, but the people realized they could run the economy better on their own," said Senior Fellow Iain Murray. "Command-and-control is back, in the name of the environment this time, but it's the same people advocating it. And the effect will be the same - the aspirations of ordinary people sacrificed to the demands of the self-appointed intelligentsia."

CEI is a non-profit, non-partisan public policy group dedicated to the principles of free enterprise and limited government.

QUOTE

Holy Crap! It just blows my mind at what you're getting at. How there may be 2 sides opposing each other here. Both wanting their own NWO. That would explain all this confusion also. I kind of assumed that the Jesuits had full control over everything (both sides) but may be Bush/Cheney and Clinton are giving a headace to the Jesuits?

Rudolf Steiner said something about how the Jesuits are often telling the truth about Freemasonry. And Freemasons tell the truth about Jesuits.

Some of those names you mentoned I was not familar with. I got some researching to do, my friend. Thanks for the great info!

So far, which sides would you place these names, AntiSionist?

Can we put them in a quick list?

Best,
Daniel

According to Stew Webb, Tim White is an FBI snitch and worked for FBI Division Five and he no longer has their protection as he has expended his usefulness. While it can get confusing sifting through all the plants, disinfo, we must grab on to what puzzle pieces we can. All there really is when it comes to truth seeking is the next level, not the final level. At least that's my perspective.

This whole war between Lenny Bloom, Eric May, Heneghan, Webb and Gore against Bush, Clinton, Gunderson, Tim White, just has so much parallels with wingtv being outed by Daryl Bradford Smith. Both are coajutors working to confuse the public by dissemenating little bits of truth at the same time.

For me, the best thing one can do in a situation like this is look at who gets killed, imprisoned, threatened or slandered in order to pick out the most available and reliable pieces of the whole truth and accuracy puzzle which may never be fully complete. Greg Szymanski was relentlessly attacked by wingtv.
http://www.wingtv.net/thorn2006/szymanski.html
http://www.wingtv.net/thorn2006/syzmanski2.html
Ted Gunderson, phony whistleblower and satanist, has attacked Stew Webb. Webb has photos of afidavits showing Gunderson's connections to drug running and arms dealing and even mentions a book THE LAST CIRCLE where he was named as part of a sanatic abuse ring on his website.
http://www.stewwebb.com/Ted%20Gunderson.html

Gunderson was upset at being outed and he threatened to put Webb in prison for Webb's whistleblowing.
http://www.stewwebb.com/Ted%20Gunderson%20...Sept%202001.wav
That shows that Webb is a danger to some people because of what he knows and what he says. Look at Fritz Springmeier. In jail for ten years for his all too revealing books on the bloodlines and the methods of mind control. He is worth reading even though he mentions the jesuits little. Look at Tom Heneghan. Almost died in late January due to Ted Gunderon and FBI Division five trying to vevtor a car across a highway. Look at cloakanddagger. Hacked so badly that had to move from canadian servers to German ones. They are dangerous, but to the Bush and Clinton gang. Not to Albert Gore.

Remember what Craig said about Albert Gore.

> QUOTE
>
> Gore is to promote global death with the environment etc to bring the world under unity against the destruction. So go check out Iron Mountain Report and you'll see what Gore is up to.

I still can't get over what Tim White says that Eric May has said about deferring to the nearest jesuit in that one old topic I brought up in here. Eric May and lenny Bloom for instance claim to have stopped a nuke "drill" in Texas in 2006. It could be true but what sticks in my mind is how Eric Phelps said that the jesuits will only foster another nuclear false flag at a certain time. They only do it when certain celestial bodies are postioned in a certain way. If that's the case, that the NWO are saturnalian astrologers, and they are, then what would have been the astological significance of the nuking of Texas in 2006, that Bloom and May stopped? Or what about that one general who in 2005, blew the whistle on other nuclear 'drills'? What's the saturnalian significance of having a nuke go off at that time and in Texas?
http://www.prisonplanet.com/articles/augus...stargeneral.htm
You know, Stew Webb could be right about Tim White as he was right about Ted Gunderson. Maybe Tim White is spreading lies. But again, I always go back to that jesuit comment Eric May, a Roman Catholic made

I'm ignorant about the whole saturnalian thing as I have so much other reading to catch up on and I cant' even begin to tackle that whole thread and read books on saturnalian brootherhoods outside that thread. I just have too many questions and only a few decades left, if that. I would just be careful about not reserving the same amount of skepticism for Gore, Bloom, Heneghan and co, that I do for the other crooks like Bushes Clintons, Rockefellers, Guelph, SMOM, etc.

Edit: Stew Webb complains on his site that Ted Gunderon was briefly married to the ex wife of satanist Aton Levay. That is ironic considering that Stew Webb was married to a woman who's father in law was into the same sick satanic shit that Gunderson was involved in. His father in law was Leonard Millman and also according to Tim White, related to the Bushes. Stew Webb even talks about this marriage of his on his site. His daughter has the last name Millman.

http://www.stewwebb.com/AmandaMillman.html
Maybe Stew Webb was an unwitting victim of circumstances and didn't know what he was getting into when he married Kerre Millman Webb. But I find that hard to believe sort of since he is in intelligence. What also gnaws at me about Stew Webb is how he can get pictures of her if he has only talked to her once when she was seven. That's an interesting question.
Here is Stew's page on his satanic involved ex wife.
http://www.stewwebb.com/OfficeofCriminalRoundUp.html

Edit 2:
Stew Webb says that not being able to see his daughter prompted him to become a federal whistleblower. That's quite an interesting way to get into the FBI. Be so driven to get your daughter back and let her know you love her. He says he knows she visits his site and emails him. Perhaps that's how he got the photos.

QUOTE

Craig Oxley

Rudolf Steiner said something about how the Jesuits are often telling the truth about Freemasonry. And Freemasons tell the truth about Jesuits.

Jesuits have controlled Freemasonry since the 18th Century, they are one and the same with the Jesuits and Sovereign Military of Malta being their leadership.

QUOTE

True. I think Steiner said the highest levels were working together since the end of the 18'th century or early 19'th century, through Napoleon first and then later the Council of Vienna where they really merged the top levels.

Steienr also said that at the lower levels, Catholics and Freemasons tend to oppose each other today - we can even see this by the Church restating their nonsense about how Masons cannot be Catholics etc. This is all a stage for the lower levels. There is a center which are made up of Rabbis, Masons and Monseniors, says Steiner.

Daniel

QUOTE

JagDRS

We all have our own methods by which we take to a given personality (or not) who claims to be a patriot. I'm not saying my methods are any better than anyone elses, I'm just saying what my impression are and have been of Webb pretty much since the first times I was exposed to his work. The effect for me when it comes to Webb has been nearly spot on with the similar impression I got quite quickly with some other personalities, like Daryl Bradford Smith, who comes to mind the quickest as example. Something about them just did not resonate with me.

When it comes to Webb, I cannot forget nor overlook that my first impressions of him came by way of his side-kick audio commentating over the shoulder of Heneghan on various Cloak & Dagger audio reports during the past year or two, wherein Webb came off as a blathering psychotic. I then spent a little time trying to make heads & tails out of Webb's web site and the way it attempts to organize/portray what the headlines promote as earth-shattering journalism, and I get the same impression; it appears to be a home page designed and laid out in the manner that a blathering psychotic might believe makes for an intelligent, good Internet Home page all the while being a rather haphazardly arranged assortment of manic tyrades.

Question: for any of you who find Webb to be a valuable personality, what was it that he ever did, or exposed, or revealed, and when, that helped to make you a proponent of his schtick? Somehow I seemed to have missed out on whatever his claim to fame originally was. Perhaps if I can get clued into this, I'll have reason to revise my opinion of him. Thanks in advance.

Meanwhile, while I continue to check in with C&D on occasion, over the recent months I've grown to view them increasingly as being about still riding on the coat-tails of Shernan Skolnick, may he rest in peace. Also, the last anyone heard, Eustace Mullins was said to have been taken in and under the care of Bloom and or friends, but this has now been nearly a year and I have seen neither hide nor tail of Eustace ever since. What's up with that? At that time, Eustace was under heavy assault from the state, particularly his home State of Virginia. Is the guy still alive and well?

QUOTE

Craig Oxley

Steienr also said that at the lower levels, Catholics and Freemasons tend to oppose each other today - we can even see this by the Church restating their nonsense about how Masons cannot be Catholics etc. This is all a stage for the lower levels. There is a center which are made up of Rabbis, Masons and Monseniors, says Steiner.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

QUOTE

"Untermeyer, Chase G UntermeyerCG@state.gov wrote:
ERIC: I hereby defer to the nearest Jesuit! CU."

Untermeyer said this to May, meaning that May is the nearest Jesuit or what? But May says:

"My Jesuit is off on a mission, so he won't be there, but you can lay down the cross of being Ghost Troop chaplain then, but not before."

and his emails were Cc'd to Father Marshall jaimesj@hotmail.com, Father Marshall jmarshall@jesuits.net" amongst the list. Who is this FAther J. Marshall person?

It may be nothing but it is strange.

QUOTE

Daniel

I think Dr. Day is a swell lady but after she heard the Benjamen Freedman speech, it had a similar effect over her, as it did DBS.

Tim White thinks AJ is disinfo. I wonder what he's got on Rense?

Daniel
P.S

I like this Tim White character, very much! In fact, I think he may just be THE guy to help solve much of this confusion.

QUOTE

Daniel

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/illuminatire...up/message/2040

Eric Phelps busts Eric May.

QUOTE

wolveshater

All that pretty flashing bunk is the first track of deceit. Jeff obviously poisens the well. I bet if we were to digg thru his pay stubs and recievables we find CIA front company moneys.

QUOTE

outsider

Michael Tsarion was on Jeff Rense yesterday discussing the Irish Origins of Civilisation.

QUOTE

ottobock

It's interesting that Tsarion will do an interview with Rense. He does have the attitude that even a person shedding a little bit of truth is probably at least doing some good and he refuses to judge anyone's work or consider then a shill for the CIA or the Jesuits as long as they seem open to his studies. I have heard Tsarion hammer the Catholic church hard in all the interviews he does when speaking of ancient origins.

QUOTE

outsider

I listened to Michael Tsarions interview on Jeff Rense and it was actually very good. I'm considering purchasing his Irish Origins of Civilisations books and looking further into what he says on the matter.

he refuses to judge anyone's work or consider then a shill for the CIA or the Jesuits as long as they seem open to his studies.

Yes, that is something that bothers me about Michael Tsarion, in that he speaks of known shills such as Alex Jones, David Icke and others in a favourable light.

QUOTE

ottobock

I have seen Tsarion answer people who ask want he thinks about so and so. His answer seems pretty respectable, as he will always say, it isn't my position to judge these others, everyone should look at all of the people and make up their minds for themselves. In that respect, I can surely see where he is coming from.

BTW, I think you will really like his books. especially the second one with more illustrations. My step son, who has been very much into the history of the Egyptions, Greeks and Romans as well as migratory patterns and has even done some technical consulting for the studios for accuracy with clothing and props has not only endorsed it but was blown away with this material.

QUOTE

outsider

I have seen Tsarion answer people who ask want he thinks about so and so. His answer seems pretty respectable, as he will always say, it isn't my position to judge these others, everyone should look at all of the people and make up their minds for themselves. In that respect, I can surely see where he is coming from.

He's done more than that. I've heard him speak positively about KNOWN controlled opposition agents Alex Jones and David Icke on several Interviews he's done.

QUOTE

Ed Ward

Minuteman Matt
Jeff is a temporal cojuidtor he likes to give you half trues mixes up with half lies. He heavily promotes the UFO dis-info "bunkum" as craig says. Also Jeff is big buddies with Alex Jones.

DisasterCourse
I have to agree with this, the Rense site is full to the brim with truth bookended with unproven new age/ alien drivel. The articles especially the older ones are just schlock with predictions which never came to pass.

I fail to see how UFO articles makes one a disinformer. I also know for a fact, that were it not for Jeff Rense - 'Joneses, 911 Truth Still Silent on 'Anomalies', would not have seen the light of day. He has also posted information of mine regarding Ron Paul.

So, if someone has some real facts, other than his site posts some fluff along with truth, I'm interested in seeing it. But, what I've seen so far is far from proof of anything except fluff and truth in combination on his site.

Am I missing something?

My Best to You and Yours,

Ed

QUOTE

Craig Oxley

Ed I would suggest you email Eric Jon Phelps and find out what Jeff Rense did to him and how he lied about Eric's actions. Please let us see your reply from Eric!

AntiSionist - September 30, 2008 11:21 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

AntiSionist

In a similar vein, Greg talked about what Rense did to him at length when he was on the cloak with Lenny and Eric Phelps. He basically had the floor for that entire show. Wish I could remember which one it was so I could put it in here for reference. I'll go look for it guys. Sit tight!

QUOTE

Ed Ward

Sheesh! Tough Crowd!

Now I definitely know the people involved and to me, Rense is by far the best known - IMO. He also talks hours a day on radio, so he's not going to let airtime go by in silence, especially since he has a very broad base of information. There is not much that doesn't go by Rense.

So the fact he took up most of the show means nothing to me. Whereas if he did anything during that time that made him a disinformer, that would be a significant fact for me.

Sorry, I've dealt with Jeff. He has put out stuff of mine that no one (with his reach) else would touch - not counting Unhived which also picks up my some of my more significant articles - unhived does not have the reach of Rense.

Not buying Rense as a disinformer on this trivial stuff. I need real facts, you know something similar to proven facts ignored, misrepresented, etc, ie Joneses, 911 Truth orgs, etc.

My Best to You and Yours,

Ed

QUOTE

Ed Ward

ottobock
he refuses to judge anyone's work or consider then a shill for the CIA or the Jesuits as long as they seem open to his studies.

outsider
Yes, that is something that bothers me about Michael Tsarion, in that he speaks of known shills such as Alex Jones, David Icke and others in a favourable light.

Have to say there is a little of that in me. I know what I write is proven facts - ie truth. Anyone shying from the proven truth Is Not A Friend. If they accept proven truth they are a Friend. Of course with certain inspection/reservations.

I use a David Icke article recently myself. Before, ya'll call me a disinformer please point out to me the disinformation in the article. I just scanned it as an information source and didn't digest it word for word. IF THERE IS DISINFORMATION IN IT I WANT TO KNOW, because I will not knowingly post BS.

The Mormons and the Jehovah's Witnesses are the Same Organization by David Icke http://www.cephas-library.com/jw/jw_jw_lds_same_origin.html

My Best to You and Yours,

Ed

QUOTE

AntiSionist

The show where Greg goes into Rense's treatment of him on cloakanddagger is April 30 2007. Rense is also scared of Eric Phelps. He is scared of Phelps just like Alex Jones is.

http://arcticbeacon.com/audio/2007/GAS-SPE..._TALK_APR30.mp3

QUOTE

Ed Ward

So... the facts would be Greg's recollections of the facts VS THE ACTUAL SHOW THEY WERE ON? One is an audio of what Gregg says or ANYONE says RATHER THAN JUST PLAYING THE ACTUAL TAPE AND WE WILL KNOW EXACTLY WHAT TOOK PLACE.

Now, there are some Gregg stories I like, and some I don't 'Wanta' is one. Now, maybe Wanta is true and maybe not - it has always only had one source only and no others that I'm aware. This source has made outlandish predictions that have never come close to the financial predictions.

So I would never take someones Rense's or Greggs word over what happened WHEN THE ACTUAL AUDIO COULD BE LISTENED TO.

Take a few breaths and relax. We got enemies coming out of the every religion/government/media on earth so let's try and make sure we have FACTS and not someone's version over he talked more than me. Cause, I've been on a show with Jeff, and when I wanted to make a point it got made. He has to take a breath eventually and if you can't take the lead, it's not his fault.

My Best to You and Yours,

Ed

QUOTE

AntiSionist

So... the facts would be Greg's recollections of the facts VS THE ACTUAL SHOW THEY WERE ON? One is an audio of what Gregg says or ANYONE says RATHER THAN JUST PLAYING THE ACTUAL TAPE AND WE WILL KNOW EXACTLY WHAT TOOK PLACE.

What are you talking about?

Are you questioning Greg's claims about what Rense said to him like, "I'm done with you Greg because you steal advertisers from me?" something Greg says is false?

Are you questioning Greg AND ERIC PHELPS saying that John Stadtmiller just cut off Eric Phelps in the middle of an interview? It happened. You can hear the damn thing yourself. Greg got SCREWED!!!

QUOTE

Mon., April 23, 2007:

(MP3: Hr1) Guest: Eric Jon Phelps, is cut off mid sentence when the show is cut abruptly at 45 minutes by Republic Broadcasting management who then play a farewell song as as filler. Mr Phelps website is http://vaticanassassins.org order his new book Vatican Assassins III.
(MP3: Hr2) One Hour of filler after Investigative Journal was shut down 45 minutes into the first hour.

QUOTE

Craig Oxley

Once again get in touch with Eric Phelps and he will tell you all you need to know about Jeff. Remember it depends on what you're dealing with as to how your dealt with. The Vatican is the most touchy subject of all.

QUOTE

AntiSionist

Yes, Jeff Rense is

AFRAID

of Eric Jon Phelps.

QUOTE

Ed Ward
(in response to AntiSionist)

What I am questioning is why we are listening to what Gregg says VS THE ACTUAL TAPE OF WHAT HAPPENED.

So Jeff loses an advertiser and supposedly/mistakenly blames Gregg and is therefore a disinformer? Jeff has no rights as to who he puts on his show for whatever reason OTHER THAN PREVENTING THE INFORMATION TO GET OUT OR SO THAT THEY CAN MISREPRESENT IT? That does not seem to be what Gregg is saying, from what you are saying.

Re: Greg and Eric P, how does Rense enter into what John S did or what more than like the broadcast company did?

My Best to You and Yours,

Ed

QUOTE

Ed Ward

Once again get in touch with Eric Phelps and he will tell you all you need to know about Jeff. Remember it depends on what you're dealing with as to how your dealt with. The Vatican is the most touchy subject of all.

I'll definitely keep my eye open around Vatican, but I know at least personally we have talked about all the chosen people of all the religions being the masters.

My Best to You and Yours,

Ed

QUOTE

AntiSionist

> QUOTE
>
> What I am questioning is why we are listening to what Gregg says VS THE ACTUAL TAPE OF WHAT HAPPENED.

I'll ask again. What are you talking about? The tape of what specifically?

> QUOTE
>
> So Jeff loses an advertiser and supposedly/mistakenly blames Gregg and is therefore a disinformer? Jeff has no rights as to who he puts on his show for whatever reason OTHER THAN PREVENTING THE INFORMATION TO GET OUT OR SO THAT THEY CAN MISREPRESENT IT? That does not seem to be what Gregg is saying, from what you are saying.

So you expect for some reason that someone somehow, inexplicably (well that is until you can further enlighten me as to how it could have happened and by whom :lol:), the conversation between Greg and Jeff where Greg says Jeff made a false accusation against him, was recorded? Okay, how was that done? Do you really think Jeff would make such an accusation on air in front of everyone? :D If you don't think Jeff was looking for an excuse to censor Craig, then what would be your explanation for his refusing to carry Greg's work any longer? Oh that's right, you think Greg is lying about this accusation Jeff levelled against him and you expect it to be on tape since you think Jeff would have publicly said that to Greg and let it be made into an mp3 available for download. :lol:

Greg is not the only one to blow the whistle on Jeff Rense.

LORRAINE DAY DUMPS JEFF TEMPORAL RENSE
http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...?showtopic=5971

QUOTE

Ed Ward

What am I talking about and I think BS.

QUOTE (AntiSionist @ Jan 30 2008, 03:50 AM)
The show where Greg goes into Rense's treatment of him on cloakanddagger is April 30 2007. Rense is also scared of Eric Phelps. He is scared of Phelps just like Alex Jones is.
http://arcticbeacon.com/audio/2007/GAS-SPE..._TALK_APR30.mp3

Cloak and dagger is a show right? Is cloak and dagger a taped program? Does everyone just sit around and somehow the information is osmosed?

I've asked you for facts, and only get BS. This is what someone says happened. Yet, last I heard, Rense, Gregg, cloak and dagger, all get together and there is NO record of what was said. They all got together for a CLOAK AND DAGGER PROGRAM AND THERE WAS NO RECORD OF WHAT WAS SAID. Everybody got together for a Cloak and Dagger PROGRAM AND THERE WAS NO RECORD OF WHAT WAS SAID.

DO YOU UNDERSTAND WHAT I KEEP ASKING TIME AFTER TIME ONLY TO BE ANSWERED BY SOME BS OF 'WHAT I AM TALKING ABOUT? AND THEN FOLLOWED BY SOME BS OF WHAT I'M SUPPOSEDLY SAYING THAT 'SOME ONE IS LYING'.

I SAID AND AM GETTING TIRED OF SAYING 'WHERE IS THE RECORD OF THE CLOAK AND DAGGER PROGRAM SO I CAN HEAR/SEE EXACTLY WHAT WAS SAID.

NEXT WE JUMP FROM SOME SUPPOSED TRUTH AND PROOF, TO THE NEXT PROOF THAT IS AGAIN ONLY SOMEONE'S STORY ABOUT WHAT HAPPENED.

i'M BORED WITH THIS BS.

I've been on boards for about a decade and have seen this circular BS for years. "FACTS" are what somebody says happened ON A PROGRAM INSTEAD OF ACTUALLY SHOWING THE FACTS OF WHAT HAPPENED ON THE PROGRAM.

So when I keep asking for the INFORMATION THAT WAS PRESENTED ON THE PROGRAM, I GET ANOTHER BS THIS IS WHAT SOMEONE ELSE SAYS.

THANKS FOR ALL YOUR "FACTS". MEANWHILE, JEFF IS THE ONLY ONE TO INFORM ABOUT THE PROVEN "FACTS" (NONE OF WHICH ARE SOMEBODY SAYS, THEY ARE ALL PROVEN REFERENCED VERIFIABLE FACTS - IE PROOF) OF MICRO NUKES IN THE WTC, AND A HOST OF OTHER AREAS THAT NO ONE ELSE WILL TOUCH.

I'M INTERESTED IN FACTS, NOT BS.

My Best to You and Yours,

Ed Ward, MD

QUOTE

AntiSionist

> QUOTE
>
> I've asked you for facts, and only get BS. This is what someone says happened. Yet, last I heard, Rense, Gregg, cloak and dagger, all get together and there is NO record of what was said.

Where is the mp3 of this show where Lenny Bloom, Greg Szymanski, and Jeff Rense all got together that you are claiming as above, exists? Where is Jeff Rense carrying Szymanski's work? If you want to correct me and prove me that Greg is lying when he says Rense refused to associate with him anymore under the excuse, 'you're stealing advertisers from me,' then go ahead. I see nothing of Greg's on Rense's homepage and I have not lately.

> QUOTE
>
> I've asked you for facts, and only get BS.

So what you are saying is that Greg is lying when he said Rense said such and such and that Rense has refused to deal with him for many months. Okay, prove to me that Rense has in fact dealt with Greg post April 2007. Your claim that what Greg says is wrong translates into the positive claim that Rense does and has dealt with Greg and his work post April 2007. So prove it to me so that we can all know if Greg is lying on that cloak and dagger show or not.

> QUOTE
>
> They all got together for a CLOAK AND DAGGER PROGRAM AND THERE WAS NO RECORD OF WHAT WAS SAID. Everybody got together for a Cloak and Dagger PROGRAM AND THERE WAS NO RECORD OF WHAT WAS SAID.

It was Greg's word about what Rense did to him. You're just saying there is no reason we should believe Greg. But again, where is Jeff Rense carrying Szymanski's work? If you want to correct me and prove me that Greg is lying when he says Rense refused to associate with him anymore under the excuse, 'you're stealing advertisers from me,' then go ahead. I see nothing of Greg's on Rense's homepage and I have not lately.

> QUOTE
>
> I've been on boards for about a decade and have seen this circular BS for years.

For about a decade? So what? Is that supposed to impress me? This is the kind of fallacious appeal to authority move that Tim White tried to use on Craig Oxley and that sure didn't work.

> QUOTE
>
> "FACTS" are what somebody says happened ON A PROGRAM INSTEAD OF ACTUALLY SHOWING THE FACTS OF WHAT HAPPENED ON THE PROGRAM.
>
> So when I keep asking for the INFORMATION THAT WAS PRESENTED ON THE PROGRAM, I GET ANOTHER BS THIS IS WHAT SOMEONE ELSE SAYS.

Now your hypocrisy is clear. You accuse me and therefore basically Greg of lying about Jeff Rense (that's what the phrase BS means) because we have no audiotape for example. Yet you have not furnished proof that Greg is lying. You have not shown that Rense HAS dealt with Greg post April 2007 and has in fact carried his work since then. You simply call it BS and think your job is done. In other words, you have one standards of evidence for me and Greg, and a lower one for yourself. Where is Jeff Rense carrying Szymanski's work? If you want to correct me and prove me that Greg is lying when he says Rense refused to associate with him anymore under the excuse, 'you're stealing advertisers from me,' then go ahead. I see nothing of Greg's on Rense's homepage and I have not lately.

I must ask you. Since we have proof that Greg AND ERIC JON PHELPS were correct in that John Statdmiller sacked Greg Szymanski and cut Phelps off right in mid sentence, why would Greg lie about Jeff Rense? You can answer this question by saying it's logically possible and I would agree that it's logically possible he would be truthful about John but then lie about Jeff Rense. But that would make little sense for him to do. Where is Jeff Rense carrying Szymanski's work? If you want to correct me and prove me that Greg is lying when he says Rense refused to associate with him anymore under the excuse, 'you're stealing advertisers from me,' then go ahead. I see nothing of Greg's on Rense's homepage and I have not lately.

> QUOTE
>
> MEANWHILE, JEFF IS THE ONLY ONE TO INFORM ABOUT THE PROVEN "FACTS" (NONE OF WHICH ARE SOMEBODY SAYS, THEY ARE ALL PROVEN REFERENCED VERIFIABLE FACTS - IE PROOF) OF MICRO NUKES IN THE WTC, AND A HOST OF OTHER AREAS THAT NO ONE ELSE WILL TOUCH.

No Jeff is not the only one who has spoken about micronukes. You are wrong. I get that you have to defend him because he hosts your articles and such, but you can't just claim that Greg is lying (you do that by logical implication of your use of the phrase BS in reference to him) and that Jeff Rense never said those things and think you have won when you have not even furnished any proof for what you say. Where is Jeff Rense carrying Szymanski's work? If you want to correct me and prove me that Greg is lying when he says Rense refused to associate with him anymore under the excuse, 'you're stealing advertisers from me,' then go ahead. I see nothing of Greg's on Rense's homepage and I have not lately.

I noticed also you didn't have the guts to admit how Lorraine Day was on target when she accused Rense of some sneaky business, including promoting the bird flu HOAX!!!

QUOTE

AntiSionist

> QUOTE
>
> So Jeff loses an advertiser and supposedly/mistakenly blames Gregg and is therefore a disinformer?

No. For what he did to Greg, he is a scumbag. For pimping the hoax that is the bird flu as something that is fact, he is a disinformer. But to his credit, he does carry the work of the great Sherman Skolnick.

QUOTE

AntiSionist

> QUOTE (CRAIG-OXLEY @ Jan 30 2008, 04:22 AM)
>
> Once again get in touch with Eric Phelps and he will tell you all you need to know about Jeff. Remember it depends on what you're dealing with as to how your dealt with. The Vatican is the most touchy subject of all.

Craig, Ed doesn't have to ask Eric Phelps how Jeff Rense lied about him and booted him from his show for a bogus reason because at the twenty two minute mark of that Bloom-Phelps-Szymanski interview, he actually goes into he was given the screw job.

I suppose now Ed, you think Eric Phelps is a liar and that Greg is a doubly liar since he says that Rense told Greg that Eric was rude to him. If you read the way Eric Phelps writes his emails on here, he is a perfect gentleman at all time.

AntiSionist - September 30, 2008 11:33 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

Craig Oxley

BRITISH INTELLIGENCE BROADCASTING CORPORATION

BLAIR BROADCASTING CORPORATION

The Real Jeff Rense

Jeff Rense talking about his favorite singer, Mario Lanza. This is the only known clip of Jeff Rense on the web and serves as proof that he not only drives an SUV but also that he doesn't wear a wig!

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hAOT7rY1WZg

ENOUGH SAID

Let the bitching stop between Ward and Antisionist.

QUOTE

AntiSionist

Blair Broadcasting Corporation. :D

QUOTE

Gameface

Rense has some interviews with Bemjamin Fulford where Fulford talks about an ultimatum that was given to the Illuminati.
He stated that He has ties with secret Chineese societies & that
He is working with these societies to slow or stop the NWO.

This Benjamin Guy seems sincere as hell, But It looks like a load of Bull to Me. These interviews are very interesting if You get a free moment, I also seen a few video's that Fulford has on Youtube.

I noticed that Rense had an article about Brittany Spears up on His site.
Good Grief, If I want to inform Myself of this rubbish, I can turn on any of the nightly propaganda "News" channels that I stopped watching years ago.

It blows Me away that The brainwashing media can continue to bombard the Sheeple with this distraction. They over do it to such a level that it becomes a soap opera to the TV viewers that watch this nightly assault on Our intelligence.

QUOTE

Craig Oxley

You want my opinion? Well I have this to say and that this Benjamin is full of pure bunkum and stupidity. For a start the Chinese do not have damn Ninjas. Ninjas come from Japan and are almost zero now apart from the odd old master such as Dr. Hatsumi:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=lyvmhNFwjuo

Now do you honestly think the Chinese worry any of the western elite Roman/Levite families in power? Of course not! It's all a show in order to help promote bunkum within the conspiracy arena and make a mockery of what we're here to expose. All the regions leaderships wish for depopulation and it's been in full swing for a long time now. The Club of Rome wishes depopulation and has planned how to go about it. Club of Rome's masters in 'The City' namely the Order of the Garter and Pilgrim Society have okayed and rubber stamped their plans a long time ago. These two groups are the inner circle of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta. These two groups utilise their Royal Institute of International Affairs to control the World. Remember who controls China? It's the American-China Forum of the National Committee on U.S-China Relations which is a division controlled by the Alantic Council on Foreign Relations. Then you have the father of the CFR, the Royal Institute of International affairs also controlling china with Chinese Peoples Institute of Foreign Affairs as well as the U.S-China Relations above. So who do you think controls China? Now we must not forget a bigger power working for the RIIA known as The Institute of Pacific Relations which controls more than just China haha. So we must not fall for this trash from these Coadjutors like Benjamin. Who was the Coadjutor pushing this trash story? Yes it was that cretin Henry Makow. Back to reality now and business as usual! Boom, Henry suck on that agent boy. Do you guys honestly think China has enough assassins to tackle all the special operations forces around the Western World trained by British Secret Air Service, Delta Force and Israeli special forces? We can wipe out an entire nation in seconds if we wish. You want some serious reality? The sides which have have Advanced Physical Principle Weapons rule the World period! The ultimate weapon is not the nuclear, man-power or neutron bomb. The ultimate weapon is SCALAR which can rip this Earth in two. For more information on this I suggest you study the work of Nikola Tesla and Antoine Priore.

-Craig Oxley

LEO ZAGAMI TELLS YOU HOW FULFORD IS A PLANT WHO'S FAMILY HAS OVER 100 YEARS + OF LINKS TO THE ELITE. FULFORD WAS TRAINED BY THE JESUITS!

New Radio Interview with Leo Zagami

Show: The Investigative Journal
Host: Greg Szymanski
Date: Tuesday, November 20, 2007
.
Leo Zagami is today's guest on the show, and he's discussing some very serious details about the Knights of Malta and intelligence organizations.
Leo mentions that the Rothscshilds are high-level Knights of Malta and thus Vatican agents.

Download the Interview:
MP3 Format:
2 hours, 20 MB, 24 kbps
(left click):
http://www.megaupload.com/?d=4SCJ39G5

Alternate Download Site:
(left click):
http://www.bestsharing.com/files/HienxWf36...0_2007.mp3.html

QUOTE

AntiSionist

Don't forget that the Chinese elite tie into the Illuminati pyramid and will never fight against the British and the Romans. Fritz Springmeier taught us that and Sherman Skolnick taught us that.

Gameface, go into the TRUTHSAYERS section. You will find parts for Springmeier and Skolnick. Skolnick had some essays on how the Yakuza partnered up with the Vatican and the French Rothschilds to control many of America's banks. He has also done a series called THE RED CHINESE SECRET POLICE IN AMERICA that is on this website in the Skolnick section. For Springmeier's section, go into the BLOODLINES OF THE ILLUMINATI section and look into the Li family.

By the way, Bruce Lee and his son Brandon, who were both murdered came from this family. Lee spoke a lot about things concealed in Chinese masonry. Namely about entities from a higher dimension and how to manipulate energy. Very Lemurian stuff (you'd know what Lemuria is if you look into Tsarion's lectures on Atlantis). He broke rank by injecting these masonic secrets into his writings and philosophies and for it, he was offed. His family and friends deny that he died from an allergic reaction to a headache pill. Brandon Lee was also murdered. He was not accidentally shot with a real bullet that was mistaken for a fake one.

QUOTE

want to bring to your awareness something that may well be of interest to you. I have been a fan of Bruce Lee since I was a child and I am also a fan of his late son Brandon also. Anyway, I've been researching the conspiracy myself for many years and it wasnt until lately that I discovered something very strange!

I had an urge to watch Brandons final movie: 'The Crow', and after learning all about illuminati symbolism, I feel that without doubt, Brandon Lee was ritually murdered.....

As you are probably well aware Brandon met his tragic end whilst filming "The Crow" back in 1994 - when a supposed dummy bullet accidentally fired into his mid section - killing him in the process. I believe his death was deliberately ordained

If you watch his movie, you will find that there is a horrific rape sequence within the apartment complex of the girfriend of Eric Draven (Brandon Lee). Now whats particularly interesting about this, is that this brutal act takes place inside a 'pyramid' frame with the all seeing eye above it - the very illuminati pyramid we are all now becoming familiar with today.....

If you also watch the movie again, you will see the familiar appearance of the Chrysler 'pheonix' logo, which seems to dominate the entire screen. As you are probably well aware - the Chrysler logo is an illuminati symbol and it appears frequently through out the whole of the movie.

Bruce Lee himself also spoke about a 4th dimensional demon or a watcher who had been following him all his life until his tragic death in 1973. Indeed, the Chinese were very superstitious and believe strongly in the existence of these 4D entities, so much so, that any male child born, the chinese would disguise as a 'female' to deter the watchers from taking the babies life.

My understanding is that thet the illuminati Li bloodline of hong kong - is connected to both Bruce and Brandon, hence Bruces birth name 'Li Jun Fan' and his father's 'Li Hoi Cheun' -- they are offshoots from that genealogical lineage.

Also, if I may point out one more thing: If you refer back to Brandon's earlier 1992 movie "Rapid Fire", there is a sequence where Brandon is in a building and he is under fire from triads. Now, in one certain clip of this sequence, Brandon does a 'flip up' from the floor and if you look in the immediate background, you will see what appears to be a faceless figure of a man sitting in the background.. And whats more; in 'The Crow', you can see this figure re-emerge once again in a shot where the camera is panning across a series of buildings.....very eerie indeed.

Perhaps it may be worth your while checking this out.....

Leon

QUOTE

Take It In Blood

Ahahahahahahaha just a minute ago he started yapping

To paraphrase:

"People talk about different organizations running the world, of course, that is true, but nowhere do you see the most control concentrated in the hands of the few like with Zionists. Roman Catholics don't run things. Jesuits, Knights of Malta, they are not at the top."

http://www.zshare.net/download/10360117b834e215/

QUOTE

Craig Oxley

Proves exactly what his agenda is, which we've known for such a long time by just looking at his site for instance. Another paid oppo-same period. Disguising true Druidic Luciferianism, under a pathetic veil of Judiac Zionism. Forgetting that his pathetic trumped up so-called Judiacs are nothing more than Hofjudens with "no king but Caesar." All following Luciferianism and not Zionism.

QUOTE

NOTE HOW DARYL SMITH

OUSTS JEFF "INTEL" RENSE

ON JULY 15TH 2008

MP3 FORMAT

QUOTE

AntiSionist

Daryl Smith is ONE OF THEM as Eric Hufschmid exposed. If he isn't, then he is playing into their hands. Daryl once said that Alex Jones and GCN gather addresses and information on people. You know what's funny? He may be in a position to know since Daryl Smith used to have a show on GCN. As did Greg Szymanski. GCN owns RBN and GCN is an ABC affiliate. In fact it was ABC that Alex Jones betrayed John Gray to.
http://www.wingtv.net/thornarticles/jonesgrayaffair.html

To Rense's credit, he has hosted Chamish and Skolnick articles. But then even Greg questionable Szymanski even got to blast the Jesuits a lot.

Go to the 28 minute mark for Daryl digging at Jones and Rense too.

QUOTE

Take It In Blood

LOL @ this dude, "He stopped pointing out zionists as real enemies. He only spoke truth for two days, and that was it."

I don't get it.

QUOTE

AntiSionist

That's why his dig at Alex Jones is meaningless. Jones has more truth than Daryl Smith ever could hope to muster. But for digging at Rense's UFO and Bigfoot stuff, fine. Daryl can go ahead. He has to follow suit with the rest of us since Hufschmid crushed his ass so badly last year and exposed him for the nut that he truly is.

QUOTE

JagDRS

Just trying to follow this one assertion - that GCN/RBN are affiliates of ABC/Disney.

A simple web search for the term "GCN an affiliate of ABC" turns up a fair number of hits, the vast majority of which track back to the same basic article[s] originally posted/hosted by Wingtv / Lisa in or around the year 2005. In other words, the Wingtv folks (Lisa and Victor) seem to have somewhat of a monopoly on this claim. I'm not doubting the claim, just trying to find some additional information that corroborate the claim. Based on my own brief search for this claim, if it is true, then it also seems to be true that very few other people/entities outside of Wingtv are willing to cough up some info that confirms the claim.

So far, here is the only web resource that is outside of the Wingtv scope that indirectly lends some credence to a connection between ABC and GCN.

http://www.gcnlive.com/Tech_SGIII.html

The above link shows up as hit # 21 on a search list of 50, so I still have some browsing to do. At least in the early going, the web seems kind of stubborn or stingy in giving up this kind of info. Anyone else here have information or inside track to information on this ABC/GCN relationship?

QUOTE

Take It In Blood

Well AJ numerous times said that their satellite feed comes from the abc owned satellite. Because only big boys own satellites, and it is through them that you have to go. Also he said that they have to give other news agency rights to broadcast through it, there are laws he said.

QUOTE

There you go.
http://www.libertytothecaptives.net/gcn_abc_affiliate.html

QUOTE

JagDRS

Yeah, the satellite thing was what got me thinking on this claim - GCN is ABC. The thing is, in the world of satellites, does anyone else have satellites besides the big boys? Are there any little boys with satellites. In other words, in order to take their shortwave radio show big time, this forced them to go through a big boy. So, had they not gone through an ABC satellite, they would have needed to go through somebody's ... NBC .... CBS .... name a big boy, they would have needed to go through one. I don't think this completely destroys the claim - that GCN is ABC, but I think it calls the need for better/more confirmation. For instance, if there is a person, an actual little guy person, who wanst to connect to the Intrenet, and they go through AT&T, does this make the little guy home networking person an affiliate of AT&T? To me, something that is a bigger indictment of GCN in all of this is the simple fact that they wanted to go big time. By comparison, look at the radio show Bill Coopper did. Did he go through a big time satellite feed? By comparison, I don't think he did. I'm not saying he didn't have a bigger partner higher up the stream .... partners ... sponsors .... (Veritas, Christian Media Network, etc) but I don't think these are anywhere near on par with an ABC. Another thing to consider: what kind of advertisements/sponsors are found on Bill's origional HOTT site (the original, not the new one since his death), copared to InfoWars / GCN? The flip side is, Bill (or anyone else who does not want to go through a big boy feed) does not get as much exposure.... this is sort of the way the collective, monopolized media network works.

The connection between Jones and GCN to ABC seems like it may have a better chance of being confirmed through other channels, channels that are not dependent on something like satellite provider. For instance, there is (or appears to be) a recurring connection between Jones and 20/20, which IS a way of saying there is a connection between Jones and ABC. In the last half hour, I found another web source/story talking about these kinds of connections. The overall article is a long one that is devoted to exposign Jones on multiple counts. This big story is made up of several smaller stories and or articles. About mid-way throught this big article is found the separate piece of the John Gray family in Trinidad, Texas. Except for the near total 100% media blackout/ lockdown on this story, it is a story cut in the mold of the Ed & Elaine Brown, and not all that different from the Waco saga. I don't know that Jones had anything to do with betraying the people at Waco, but I am pretty much convinced that Jones did play a big role in taking down the Browns. Here is a copy of this one piece (the John Gray piece) of the overall big story. Here is the quick summary of the John Gray story, as provided by ..... Victor Thorn..... (shrug)

John Gray got wind that the USG was going to invade his property. He and his family hunkered down in preparation. Alex Jones approached John Gray and began a relationship under the guise of "I'd like to tell your story". John Gray had one reqirement; that Jones not reveal this story until after it had concluded. Jones, allegedly, agreed. Gray then allowed him to film parts of his property, both on the outside, and inside. Jones soon sold this film to 20/20. 20/20 then approached John Gray and asked if THEY could also come inside and film his property. Gray rejected this offer. Soon after, Jones is said to have admitted to Gray that he sold him out to 20/20. Here is the full piece of this one piece from a big piece. The link to the entire big piece is provided at the bottom.

In January, 2000, patriot John Gray and his family came under siege from government authorities in Trinidad, Texas; and they have been living under these conditions ever since. Shortly after this Waco-like situation developed, Alex Jones and his cameraman Mike Hansen visited the Grays and requested a videotape interview. Mr. Gray gave his permission under one condition: the film could only be released after the siege came to an end. Jones agreed to this request, as John Gray recounts (verbatim): “Alex promised me this would only be used for documentary purposes when this was all over. We have several witnesses to this. He also assured us again that none of the video would be shown anywhere.”

Please keep these words in mind, for they will become very important.

So, after gaining Gray’s trust, Jones was permitted to film this family’s residence, including, as James Lloyd writes, “crucial defensive locations” that “revealed significant logistical information.” This point is also vital, because the last time there was a stand-off in Texas against a family of Christian patriots, we all know what happened. David Koresh and 80+ other men, women and children were burned to death in a blazing inferno. And, considering 9-11, Oklahoma City, Randy Weaver, and many other government-sponsored acts of terrorism, another Waco is not outside the realm of possibility.

Anyway, shortly after documenting the Grays, Jones returned to their home a few days later, but this time he had a very peculiar request. He wanted John Gray to let the ABC News show 20/20 videotape him.

Now, before continuing, I have a question. First, how did Jones come in contact with 20/20? In case you need reminding, ABC is the enemy! In fact, they epitomize the New World Order’s corporate-controlled mainstream media; and they’ve done serious damage to the Truth Movement over the past few decades with their cover-ups and lies. Why in God’s name is Alex Jones working in unison with them? Please think long and hard about this point, because just recently the station which Jones broadcasts his radio show on – GCN – became an ABC satellite affiliate, and they’re also carrying ABC programming and advertising. How can the alternative media remain viable and trustworthy if they’re openly consorting with the enemy?

Naturally, John Gray refused time-and-again Jones’ persistent requests to let ABC inside his house, so when 20/20 was set to broadcast this story, guess what happened. Jones told Gray that he SOLD his videotapes to ABC’s 20/20! According to Gray, “Jones called me and said he had done something very wrong. He had let 20/20 have the video.” In addition, “Alex said he had sold the video for $700.00.”

Consider for a moment that Alex Jones was the only person allowed inside the Gray residence. He was also the only one allowed to shoot any video, and he was the only one entrusted by John Gray. Yet what does Alex Jones do? He blatantly betrays this family and endangers their lives by selling his soul to ABC for a lousy $700.00. Not only is such an act despicable, it should also send red-flags up to every patriot in this movement; because if Jones could so easily sell-out this family, how much loyalty do you think he has to the rest of us?

But, despite being Judas’d by Jones, John Gray showed his true Christian colors by telling Alex that all he wanted him to do was “get on the air and apologize and tell the patriots what he had done.” That’s not much to ask, yet Alex responded that he was “afraid the bad patriots would take him out” (his exact words).

Incredibly, once again we see Jones’ unbridled paranoia and drama queen theatrics – y’know the kind where he gets all hysterical every few months and says the New World Order is trying to kill him. But as we’ve pointed-out numerous times before, if these monsters truly wanted to snuff Jones, guess what they’d do. They’d KILL HIM and not just talk about it for ten years. How do you think government hit men operate? Do they post a flier in town square saying they’re going to murder Alex Jones? Hell no. They just off him, no questions asked. Thus, the whole “death threat” scenario is another hyperactive ruse where Jones is either a bald-faced liar, or he’s so whacked-out off his rocker that he should be locked in a rubber room and fed massive doses of thorazine.

To make matters worse, Jones began lying by telling people that John Gray had signed a contract with him. But as Gray states very clearly, “I didn’t sign a contract to give Alex any permission to air the video on 20/20.”

To prove that he was telling the truth, Gray contacted GCN president Ted Anderson and wanted to broadcast his grievances on-air. But he soon discovered that, “The Genesis tactic has been to completely bury the story, and refuse to allow any scrutiny of Alex Jones.” James Lloyd also adds, “Every host that has any knowledge of the matter has uniformly refused to allow the issue in any public forum. All callers to any of the various GCN programs that even hint at mentioning the matter are immediately taken off the air and hung up on.”

I don't know about you, but doesn't this sound exactly like the way the government and mainstream media operate? If they don't want you to know about something, they simply bury it. It seems Ted Anderson and Alex Jones are absolutely horrified of this story; for once they're exposed as money-grubbing turncoat betrayers for the world to see, their Wizard of Oz cover will be blown to kingdom come once-and-for-all.

So, this is where journalist Thomas Holbrook enters the picture. He's been investigating GCN and the Gray Affair for the past few months, and has finally tracked down the elusive John Gray via United States Postal Service general delivery. The following responses came to Holbrook via a letter, where John Gray unflinchingly says, "After this thing with Alex Jones, we do not trust anyone in the media, newspapers, magazines, even shortwave."

After being raked over the coals and betrayed by Alex Jones, I can't say I rightly blame Mr. Gray for his suspicions.

Also, Gray stated that he stood by everything written by James Lloyd in his article, and that, "90% of everything Alex and Mike [Hansen] said were lies! Alex has all the people on shortwave convinced that we are feds and nuts." He continued, "We did not contact Alex for publicity. We are not feds or Masons!!!"

Y'see, Jones was the one who opportunistically contacted John Gray, and similar to every other venture he engages in, Jones found a way to make $$$$$ off of it (this time by selling out the Grays to ABC News). Also, Jones has used the exact same disinformation techniques on us here at WING TV when we started uncovering his censorship practices (among other things). Y'see, whenever Alex gets exposed for his dirty-dealings, the first thing he does is lie and say that the ones exposing him are COINTELPRO or government agents. This tactic is pathetic beyond words, especially when Jones contacts a family under siege – the Grays – then betrays their trust, endangers their lives, and ultimately profits from selling them out to a tentacle of the NWO. In my book, this makes Alex Jones a coward and a low-life rat that absolutely cannot be trusted any longer.

Finally, John Joseph Gray reiterated much of what James Lloyd covered in his original article, while adding a new twist:

"Alex got real jealous because we wouldn't call them when Chuck Norris came out here. That's when he began to badmouth us. Alex just sold us out. He thought we would be dead before 20/20 was aired. He's just trying to cover himself. Alex tried to talk me into letting 20/20 come up to the house and video. I told him he was the only one who had taken video around the house which wouldn't get out till this was all over with, and I didn't want 20/20 up here. I met 20/20 at our front gate when they came in, and stayed several yards away from the house."

After reading these words, I feel it is appropriate to hearken back to how John Gray opened his letter to Thomas Holbrook: "Thank you for being concerned. The truth will get out on Alex before it's over with." God bless John Gray, and yes, he is correct - the truth is getting out about the way Alex Jones operates.

Of course there are still many unanswered questions, such as how Chuck Norris fits into the picture. But Thomas Holbrook is following up with the Grays, and hopefully more information will arise in the near future.

In the meantime, we are going to post a list of questions to Alex Jones on Monday concerning his betrayal of John Gray, along with his affiliation with the ABC News network. In addition, I did leave a message for Alex Jones before running this article, but once again he chose to hide instead of returning my phone call. Considering his repeated exhibitions of cowardice, how are we supposed to believe that this guy is going to "fight the New World Order" when he's not even man enough to answer our questions and take responsibility for his actions? Worse, if Alex Jones has already sold his soul to the dark-side once, who's to say that he hasn't done it again? [3]

Update Oct 11, 2007:

Alex Jones Calls Vatican Critics and "Catholics Run It All Crowd" Mentally Ill and Liars[5]

by Greg Szymanski, Oct 10, 2007

He also criticizes people who present history lessons critical to the Vatican, saying "it's all made up or it's twisted..."

Alex Jones has finally gone off the deep end, ranting and raving about the so-called "lying truth tellers" accusing him of being a Vatican shill controlled by their henchmen in the Jesuit Order.....

http://www.illuminati-news.com/2007/0817b.htm

(reminder - the front end of this larger story tells of various ways in which Alex Jones is compromised and has been betrayign the truth movement - Jag)

QUOTE

Accuracy

It's being noted for a LONG while that Rense dis informs the public.- Accuracy

Learn to Live with the NWO says Rense.com

QUOTE

his is the Jeff Rense Crew doing what they do best.
Subtle propaganda aimed at the unwary.
Rense.com: "Since 911, and particularly the assassination of Dr. Kelly, astute readers must understand that our modern world is run EXCLUSIVELY by Western Intelligence Agencies. We should accept it and learn to live with it."

"The entire BS about 'democracy' should be left to Intelligence Agency fronts such as Condi, CNN, Fox 'news' and the BBC (British Bullshit Corporation). We are now totally under the control of the NWO and we better get used to it."
No way. What kind of propaganda rubbish is this?

Or how about this gem from the same article:
"I am not going to weep for the Moslem countries - corrupt politicians control them all. If Moslem countries chose to commit suicide by keeping silent for years and keep cooperating with the West in exchange for short-term monetary gains, it is their problem. It's all over now, its too late!"
So, mixed in with a "revealing" story about the Bali bombings is this crude propaganda about "learning to live" with the NWO. It's a none too subtle spin designed to undermine the resistance to the global elite agenda. Designed to make it seem like there is no point to opposing them.

It's classic disinfo. A little bit of truth, mixed with calculated PsyOps content.
Write to Jeff. Express your appreciation. Say: "Fk you very much, Mr. Rense."
His email is: jeff@disinfo.presstitutes.langley.gov

All this is just one more reason why Rense is on our list of CIA Internet Fakes

Below is the full text of the reader's "letter" published by Rense.com.

It's about as real as Jeff Rense's hair. -Fintan

Dear Mr. Rense,

Thanks for posting the articles about the corrupt Indonesian military-fabricated Bali bombing, alleged to be financed by Western Intelligence Agencies.

Australians were devastatingly overwhelmed last week to find out that probably 88 Australians were massacred in Bali (as Joe Vialls suggested), just to create anti-Moslem hysteria among the Australian public in order to support sending Australian troops to Bush's Iraq war.

This SBS-TV documentary's indisputable evidence was the interview with the former Indonesian President who stated with absolute confidence that Indonesian military and/or police executed the Bali bombing operation!

That interview with this most and only honest Indonesian politician was the straw that broke the camel's back of every single Australian I have talked to since.

This left we Australians with a perplexing dilemma. We must now select one of only two choices as to who is telling the truth: our Australian politicians or the former Indonesian President (who is undisputedly honest).

I contacted 6 of my friends who watched this documentary and all of them agreed that if they had to choose, they would trust the honest Indonesian former President over our current Australian politicians, hands down.

Thanks to your website and other similar sites, we now know that most international events are staged today by Western Intelligence Agencies. I still remember the famous article about the mysterious stolen American cars having 'materialised' in Iraq found being prepared for 'suicide bombing'. http://www.aljazeera.com/

Who delivered these cars all the way from America to Iraq? Definitely not the 'Moslem terrorists' as they can very easily steal cars in Europe and the Middle East...as it is very common in these countries.

We all remember how the two British SAS men were caught in Basra, Iraq red-handed driving a booby-trapped car. http://www.rense.com/general67/boobie.htm

We also now know that two American commandos were caught red-handed preparing a 'suicide car' in Baghdad. http://iraqwar.mirror-world.ru/

The above cases are just the tip of an iceberg of deceit and death. There are many more similar reports by international news agencies. I would not be surprised if most suicide bombings in Iraq are the works of Intelligence Agencies...Israeli, US, British...causing horror and mayhem to perpetuate our hold on Iraqi oil and what's left of that God forsaken country forever.

Now, finally, all the cards are on the table. Everything is perfectly clear.

I am not going to weep for the Moslem countries - corrupt politicians control them all. If Moslem countries chose to commit suicide by keeping silent for years and keep cooperating with the West in exchange for short-term monetary gains, it is their problem. It's all over now, its too late!

Moslems leaders knew from day one that 911 was an inside job, and not a single one of them protested against us fabricating hate crimes against Moslems. Not only that, they knew the Moslem leadership practically participated in 911 (see Bush flying all the Saudi royalty family out of the USA on 911 - even when all air space over the USA was shut down). No! You will not find me shedding crocodile tears for Moslem countries, they are getting what their 'leaders' give them. http://www.rense.com/Datapages/popmechdat.htm

No More Crocodile Tears For Moslem Countries!

Since 911, and particularly the assassination of Dr. Kelly, astute readers must understand that our modern world is run EXCLUSIVELY by Western Intelligence Agencies. We should accept it and learn to live with it.

The entire BS about 'democracy' should be left to Intelligence Agency fronts such as Condi, CNN, Fox 'news' and the BBC (British Bullshit Corporation). We are now totally under the control of the NWO and we better get used to it. http://www.geocities.com/subliminalsuggestion/olson.html

We Australians like to complain about our politicians being stupid, uninformed or under American pressure. I would like to remind my Australian countrymen and women that we are now in the middle of WW3. We Westerners are at war against the Moslem world + China + Russia. There is NO mistake about it.

A million thanks to the brave and honest journalists at SBS-TV-Australia, who produced this once in a lifetime documentary which is turning our history upside down, and puts to shame all American 'journalism'!

Regards,

Tim Beasley
Canberra Australia
LINK: http://www.rense.com/general68/inter.htm

From the site:

http://breakfornews.com/my/modules.php?op=...article&sid=155

QUOTE

Actually, his hair is real.

Insurgent - October 19, 2008 04:56 AM (GMT)

There shouldn't be a question mark after that sentence. It is a fact that he is.

AntiSionist - October 19, 2008 09:59 PM (GMT)

Very true. But it was made last year. It was only last year that his jesuit coajutor-ing really was exposed.

Insurgent - October 20, 2008 02:15 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (AntiSionist @ Oct 19 2008, 09:59 PM)
>
> Very true. But it was made last year. It was only last year that his jesuit coajutor-ing really was exposed.

Sure, but you can edit it, take it off. Or at least that is what I would do.

AntiSionist - October 20, 2008 04:44 AM (GMT)

Actually I do not have the ability to alter the title.

Insurgent - May 11, 2009 01:07 AM (GMT)

Ok little theorizing here.....

I like looking through Architectural Digest magazine, and their editor-in-chief is a lady named Paige Rense. So I decided to check her bio:

She was born in 1929 and was married to Arthur Rense who was an public relations executive for missiles and space systems division of Douglas Aircraft Company.....

Now in his obituary below you can read that his wife Paige is survived by three sons one of whom is named Jeff who lives in Santa Barbara, California.

Now the Jeff Rense that we know was working at SB, CA.....

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jeff_Rense

QUOTE

Rense was born in St. Louis, Missouri and grew up in Southern California. Rense worked as a television news reporter, producer and anchor for Santa Barbara's ABC affiliate, KEYT-TV. He performed the same duties for two TV stations in the Northwest in the early to mid-1980s, chiefly Oregon NBC affiliate KOBI-TV, where he spent several years. He left the business after jobs in Oregon and at a Las Vegas, Nevada television station where he was "#1 rated Oregon TV news anchor." Later, Rense returned to Santa Barbara and opened several "All About Pets" stores, which he sold in the early-1990s.

http://www.nytimes.com/1991/01/05/obituari...ecutive-74.html

Arthur F. Rense, a retired public relations executive, died on Dec. 28 at his home in Las Vegas, Nev. He was 74 years old.

He died of leukemia, said his wife, Paige Rense, editor in chief of Architectural Digest.

Mr. Rense had been director of public relations for the Summa Corporation, owned by Howard R. Hughes, until he retired in 1985. He had been public relations director for the missiles and space systems division of Douglas Aircraft Company and director of public relations at Harvey Mudd College in Claremont, Calif.

Besides his wife, Mr. Rense is survived by three sons from a former marriage, Kirk of Irvine, Calif., Jeff of Santa Barbara , Calif., and Rip of Sherman Oaks, Calif.; four brothers, Randy, Andy and Frank, all of Cleveland, and William of Denver; and two grandchildren.

Just trying to do some detective work, there is nothing about his parents on the net. Maybe just all a coincidence's though.

AntiSionist - October 17, 2010 05:00 PM (GMT)

Looks like Jeff Rense is splitting up with Mark Glenn of crescentandcross.com. I never trusted Mark Glenn and thought him a crypto Jew. But I could be wrong.

http://theuglytruth.wordpress.com/2010/10/...ife-and-9-kids/

“Truther” Jeff Rense Threatens to call FBI and Department of Homeland Security on me, my wife and 9 kids
In Uncategorized on October 13, 2010 by crescentandcross

i 26 Votes

Link to radio program dicussing this issue on The Ugly Truth Podcast

Jeff Rense,

since you have blocked my email address and have just hung up the phone on me in mid-sentence, unfortunately you have limited my ability of communicating with you through any means other than a public letter.

The phone conversation you and I just had 5 minutes ago wherein you indicated your plans of having the FBI and Department of Homeland Security (brainchild of Michael Chertof) pay a visit to me, my wife and 9 children over my choice to exercise my first amendment rights in opposing your running the kind of racist, defamatory, hate-filled articles demonizing Muslims proves that you are not a man at all. Furthermore, the fact that you have had David Duke attempt to mediate with me on your behalf no less than 4 times in the last month is just further proof that you are a coward who cannot fight his own battles.

As I indicated to you several weeks ago, your willingness to be utilized by Zionist interests in running articles that enflame the already-dangerous levels of anti-Islamic hysteria in this country is absolutely intolerable from someone claiming to be a 'truther' and your defense–that you are trying to provide 'balance' and that 'freedom of speech' is the most important thing given what we do is now revealed for the lie that it is. Your "threat" to sick the Secret Police on me for MY exercizing MY right to free speech proves you are a fraud and that 'freedom of speech" is just a one-way street with you. Furthermore, your 'fears' that I am "inciting dangerous muslims" to come and do you "bodily harm" is absolutely laughable. If I wanted to do that, I would provide them with your home phone number and address, both of which I have in my possession (not that they would do anything anyway) and your statement as such proves you have bought into all the Zionist garbage about Muslims.

So here is the deal Jeff, just to show you I am a fair man–you want me to get off your back about the anti-Islamic articles you are running on your site? Fine–here's my counter-offer–REMOVE THE OFFENSIVE, LYING, RACIST, HATE-MONGERING MATERIAL AND I WILL. You are worried about "bodily harm" being done to you by "dangerous Muslims"? THEN STOP 'INCITING THEM BY POSTING AND HOSTING OFFENSIVE, LYING, RACIST, HATE-MONGERING MATERIAL. Remember that thing about "not bearing false witness" Jeff? Maybe you should take it to heart. After all, if I–under the auspices of 'freedom of speech' were to suddenly start a thread propagating the lie that you were a pedophile, embezzler, wife beater, etc, etc, etc, would you (or one of your friends) NOT have the right to put presure on me to not run such irresponsible and defamatory material?

Absent that, you can call the FBI, DHS, ATF, IRS, CIA, DIA, FDA, HHS, HUD, the US Forestry Service, the US Postal Service and just about any other Federal agency you want on me, I don't care. I'll invite them in, offer them a cup of my world-famous coffee and explain to them what a coward you are and why you, your long girly hair and your 'fears' should be ignored.

In the meantime Jeff, have fun dealing with the latest fire you have lit under your own ass, and good luck trying to salvage your reputation once people find out that your method of dealing with those who disagree with you is to run to the very agencies you spend all your time warning people about.

This is sad on several levels Jeff, not the least of which is how unnecessary it all was. I made it clear to you on many occasions that I am a reasonable man willing to do whatever was necessary in avoiding conflict within the ranks, absent of course outright betrayal of the truth. I never gave you grief about the BS stuff you run on ufo's, bigfoot, giant lizards and all the rest because I recognize that everyone has a certain spice they like to use in their favorite dish. Your decision however to resort to such scummy, underhanded methods in silencing your critics shows you are not an opponent of Zionist tactics, but rather one who utilizes them when convenient.

In the meantime, perhaps I'll encourage my Muslim friends to contact the FBI and DHS over YOUR inciting violence and terrorism against THEM by running articles and sponsering guests which –by your own admission–you KNOW to be lies and liars, respectively.

MG

PS–don't bother trying to deny the conversation we just had either Jeff. Unbeknownst to you, I had a 3rd party listening to the entire conversation who will testify that everything I am alleging in this open letter took place.

AntiSionist - October 19, 2010 07:08 AM (GMT)

http://www.radicalpress.com/?p=1263

An Open Letter to Jeff Rense from RadicalPress.com

Editor¡¯s Note:

Yesterday, October 13th, I received an email containing a post on Mark Glenn¡¯s website The Ugly Truth which immediately caught my attention. It had to do with a telephone exchange between Mark and Jeff Rense over the issue of Jeff posting anti-Muslim hate literature on his site as well as employing hosts who do the same thing on his radio program. You can see the article here: http://theuglytruth.wordpress.com/2010/10/...ife-and-9-kids/

Seeing as how Jeff had banned me from communicating with him back on March 17th of 2010 on the spurious charge of having spammed him fourteen times in one day with an article that I had sent out to my regular list I commented on Mark Glenn¡¯s article and also sent it to my Anti-Zionist Canada yahoo group and some other associates.

One of the recipients of the email sent my comment to Jeff Rense and Jeff, in turn, sent me the following email posted below. I have also included my comment on Mark Glenn¡¯s site for reference.

Conveniently for Mr. Rense, he can write to me and send his scathing comments but I cannot reply back to him because of the ban he has placed on my address. In order to reach him one has to go to a computer generated url where you have a window to post a maximum of 100 characters and request that Jeff reply to you. My reply contains more characters than allowed thus this post on RadicalPress.com to publicize and defend myself from these false and misleading accusations by Jeff Rense.

¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª
Comment on Mark Glenn¡¯s site:

Arthur October 14, 2010 at 3:53 am
Hi Mark,

Like yourself and Joe Cortina and many others I¡¯ve also been forced to come to a similar conclusion regarding Jeff Rense.

He was posting my material without any problems until one day about a year ago he suddenly contacted me to say that I had spammed him by sending him something like 14 or 15 copies of an article and so he was removing me from his email list.

In doing so I was put in the very same position as yourself in that I had no means of communicating to him the fact that I had also sent the article to 200 other people on my list and in checking up with them no one else had received more than a single copy.

There was no explanation or discussion. I tried to appeal to him via a mutual correspondent Henry Makow but nothing ever came of it.

Now, in retrospect, I suppose I should check into the last few articles that I did send him. Possibly I was exposing the anti-Muslim bashers and hate-mongers and thus fell from Jeff¡¯s grace.

It¡¯s fortunate that in your case you actually have some incriminating evidence to go on.

Since that time I¡¯ve written Rense off and don¡¯t go to his site so I was unaware of the recent Muslim bashing posts.

Like many commentors are stating the truth is coming out and those wolves in sheep¡¯s clothing will eventually be exposed. It appears another one is now passing through the scanner of truth and his hidden agenda is showing up loud and clear and the alarm bells are ringing.

Keep on keeping on but always remember that 13th Commandment: Watch your ass!(and those of your children too).

Sincerely,

Arthur Topham
Pub/Ed
RadicalPress.com
¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª¨C

note from me, MG¨CArthur, good to hear from you again man. Hope all is well in your neck of the woods.
I am not in the least worried about Jeff Rense¡¯s threats. As I said, anyone here who wants to talk to me, fine¨CI am a very accomplished conversationalist. Besides, I relish ever opportunity I get in talking with ¡®authorities¡¯ as I get to study what makes them tick, including the FBI agents I spoke with a few weeks ago. My only reason for making public the latest drama between me and Mr. Hairdo is to let people know that he is someone to be dealt with at arm¡¯s length.

¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª-

From: sightings@mindspring.com
Subject: Fwd: ¡°Truther¡± Jeff Rense Threatens to call FBI and Department of Homeland Security on me, my wife and 9 kids
Date: October 14, 2010 10:37:17 AM PDT (CA)
To: radical@radicalpress.com

Jeff Rense

Arthur¡-

Are you completely insane, too?

You DID send¡-and I DID receive¡-massive numbers of duplicate emails from you which I politely informed you about on numerous occasions before finally having to block them. Your comments below are so beneath someone of dignity, I am amazed. I misread you as an intelligent, logical and pragmatic mind. You are most certainly not writing like one below. I tried to assist you by publishing your work which I was under NO, ZERO, obligation to. If I stop publishing anyone¡¯s work on MY site, it is MY business. You act as if you have some birthright to have your material appear on my site. Bizarre, Arthur, bizarre. I am truly sorry I tried to be helpful to you in the past. Remember when I took my non-existent time to help you with logos, etc? My problem is I am too nice, too kind, to try to help too many people who are only to happy to paint themselves as ¡®victims¡¯ and martyrs if they don¡¯t get their way. You really should be ashamed¡-but you won¡¯t be. Your kind never are¡-and that is why our enemies have it made.

¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª¡ª-

From: radical@radicalpress.com
Subject: Re: ¡°Truther¡± Jeff Rense Threatens to call FBI and Department of Homeland Security on me, my wife and 9 kids
Date: October 14, 2010 11:28:59 AM PDT (CA)
To: sightings@mindspring.com

Jeff,

Again, it¡¯s apparent that you still refuse to acknowledge the obvious fact that you, and only you, received multiple copies of that email which, to any reasonable person would indicate that this was NOT coming from me but from either your own computers or from someone out to discredit me by hacking my email.

I tried on numerous occasions to convey that simple explanation to you and also enlisted the help of Henry Makow to get this simple explanation across to you but you either blocked the mail or refused to admit that it could be anything but me trying to spam you, which, if you think about it, would be a rather ¡°insane¡± thing to do given the previous relationship we had.

That one instance, which you now claim, required ¡°numerous occasions¡± to inform me about is a disingenuous remark Jeff for all of this occurred within the scope of a single day. You make it sound like this was a regular occurrence which it wasn¡¯t.

As I repeatedly stated, out of 200 recipients who received that email that day, ONLY YOU received multiple copies.

Now, given the nature of my work and the fact that I¡¯m involved in a legal battle with B¡¯nai Brith International here in Canada, doesn¡¯t it strike you as just a wee bit questionable that suddenly, after I¡¯d been sending you copies of my articles for sometime without any problems, out of the blue, I would decide to spam you? I¡¯m not in the habit of biting the hand that feeds me.

You, of all folks, given your coverage of the Zionists, ought to be aware of their multiple subterfuges and clandestine computer attacks. That is why I found (and still find) your adamant and simplistic argument/defense so frustrating.

Certainly you have all the right in the world to control and publish whatever content you choose on your site. I¡¯ve never questioned that. But to make false accusations against me, i. e. that I intentionally spammed you, is something I refuse to accept.

And no, you didn¡¯t misread me. I am a logical, pragmatic person. That is why I find your explanation and justification for treating me the way you did unacceptable.

Now, in this unexpected email from you, you¡¯re making further accusations of a negative nature.

1. I never ever stated that I felt you were obligated to run my work. In fact, whenever you did, I was always extremely grateful and acknowledged the fact to you.

2. I never acted as if it were my ¡°birthright¡± to have my articles appear on your site. I was always grateful as I just stated.

3. I didn¡¯t ¡°paint¡± myself as a ¡®victim¡¯ or a ¡®martyr¡¯. I only wanted you to understand that it was only your site that received multiple copies of that email and you refused to accept that explanation from me and you STILL are using it as an excuse to vilify me further by now questioning my sanity for having attempted to right a wrong.

What is ¡°bizarre¡± Jeff is for you to be still ranting about those purported ¡°spams¡± and now asking me to feel ¡°ashamed¡± for trying to explain the possible reasons for them and then, to boot, making puerile remarks such as ¡°Your kind never are¡-¡±

What is ¡°my kind?¡± A man who has been fighting injustice since 1968? What were you up to in 1968? I¡¯ve been in the thick of so to speak for well over 40 years now Jeff and if that doesn¡¯t attest to my intent and my character and my integrity then I don¡¯t know what does.

No, Jeff, based on all that has gone down over this issue, I feel it is you who ought to be ¡°ashamed¡± of your reactionary and unjust judgment of me.

Shine your Light for Love, Peace & Justice for All,

Arthur Topham
Publisher/Editor
The Radical Press
Canada¡¯s Radical News Network
¡°Digging to the root of the issues since 1998¡å http://www.radicalpress.com radical@radicalpress.com

yes2truth - October 19, 2010 10:02 AM (GMT)

I am always suspicious of pedlars of fear. Fear peddling is a sure sign of Rome so to answer your question I would say, based upon Spiritual discernment alone, that he is very likely a coadjutor.

AntiSionist - December 8, 2010 07:48 AM (GMT)

Looks like Rense thinks Assange is real.

HERE! Click for Rates Assange's Lawyers Say They Are Being Watched Relationship Between Legal vs Illegal Immigration

bovvered - December 9, 2010 12:08 AM (GMT)

Jeff Rense's reaction when Alan Watt talked about the possibility of "calmative drugs" in the chemtrails was amazingly dismissive, given the enormous amount of bullshit that Rense has allowed on his show over the years.

It was in May 2008, and Watt hasn't been back on since.

May 27, 2008
Alan Watt on The Jeff Rense Program - mp3 - transcript

Topics discussed: Sprayed Skies, Storm Build-Up - UN Treaty on Weather Warfare - New Phenomena - Lowered IQ, Mind-Bombed Public. CIA Fronts - Patriot Radio, Fear-Based Sales - Traumatized People, Psychological Warfare, Pavlovian Responses. Television Flicker Rate, Addiction, Downloading - Concentration Camp - Camera Surveillance, Tracking, Data Collection. Unfolding Agenda, Party Fronts. Aerial Chemical Spraying - Donald Rumsfeld - Fatigue Symptoms. Pandemics, Population Reduction, Slow Culls - "Acid-Bath" Cremation.

Topics of show covered in following links:

"The Advantages and Limitations of Calmatives for Use as a Non-Lethal Technique" Penn State College of Medicine Applied Research Lab Laboratory, Pennsylvania State University (at sunshine-project.org).

"The Sheep Incident" by Scott Cianciosi (damninteresting.com) - March 17th, 2008.

"US/UK Non-Lethal Weapons (NLW)/Urban Operations Executive Seminar, 30 November 2000, London, UK" (at sunshine-project.org).

This was Watt's blurb from a few weeks before:

April 13, 2008
"Global Shock and Awe, with 'Calmatives' for Dessert - The Use of Tranquillizing and Hypnotic Agents on the Public in Times of Crisis or Riot" - mp3 - transcript

(Video Link: Mike Wallace interviews Aldous Huxley, May 18, 1958. Posted at University of Texas at Austin.)
• TRANSCRIPT - THE MIKE WALLACE INTERVIEW: ALDOUS HUXLEY - May 18, 1958
(Songs: "Gimmie Gimmie Shock Treatment" and "I Wanna Be Sedated" by The Ramones.)

Topics discussed: Aldous Huxley, Think Tanks, Intelligence Services, Technologies - Scientifically Induced Propaganda, Repetition, International Education. University Grants for Military-Industrial Complex - Corporations - Patents. Crisis, Aerosolized Prozac and Valium to Spray over Cities - HAARP - "Calmatives" - "Non-Lethal Techniques" - Nerve Gas release into Russian Theatre. Nervous System Depressing Drugs, Administration, Effects. Global War against "Terrorism". Aerial Spraying, Drugging - Pharmaceutical Agents - Anti-Depressants. "Rage" movie with George C. Scott - "Sheep Incident" article (DamnInteresting.com). War Games - Strategy, Long-Term Planning - Non-Lethal Weapons - Chemicals used on Public - Weather Modification. Big Lies - Understanding of the Mind. Temporary Intensive Farming Phase - Food Industry. Chipping Away at the Base of the Tower - Stopping the Totalitarian System - Containment, Habitat Areas, Authorized Travel.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Is Bob Chapman a disinformation agent?

Title: Is Bob Chapman a disinformation agent?
Description: He is on the Alex Jones show regularly

Mark - April 27, 2009 07:01 AM (GMT)

Hi,

I am wondering if Bob Chapman is a disinformation agent/ agent of Rome. He is a regular guest on the Alex Jones show. Surely he knows that Rome is behind everything so why does he constantly use the terms globalists and illuminists? Surely he knows Rome is behind everything.

He seems to give out good financial advice and I was thinking about subscribing to the international forecaster but him being on the Alex Jones show makes me very suspicious.

What is your opinion? Is his advice the best that is out there? Can you recommend the best financial people that you follow?

Thanks,

Mark.

14april2000 - May 5, 2009 05:38 PM (GMT)

Hi Eric,

What is your is thoughts about Bob Chapman from the international forecaste , he is on the Alex Jones show regularly?

Plessing
xxxx

Dear xxxx,

Bob is another Alex Jones. He tells the truth on the lower levels but never goes to Rome, the heart and director of "the globalists."

Brother Eric

outsider - May 5, 2009 05:44 PM (GMT)

Bob Chapman is "ex" - military inteliigence.

14april2000 - May 5, 2009 06:53 PM (GMT)

Ok i didn`t know that - would that be "NIA" Naval Intelligence?

On this website there is 21 US Intelligence agency - but the last 5 is missing ok there might be a lot more Intelligence agency/units in america.

http://www.loyola.edu/dept/politics/milintel.html]

Insurgent - November 24, 2010 05:50 AM (GMT)

Last week on AJ he said he was making $300,000 a month from his brokering days.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Oliver Stone: Jews dominate media & US policy

Title: Oliver Stone: Jews dominate media & US policy

14april2000 - July 27, 2010 05:46 PM (GMT)

Another Orsini-Roasenberg Hollywood fraud making disinfo movies about Jews ruling the world.

Oliver Stone apologises for claim Hitler was a 'scapegoat' in World War Two 'who did more damage to Russia than Jews'

By Daniel Bates
Last updated at 5:16 PM on 27th July 2010

http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/worldnews/...l#ixzz0uuCDoCu2

Hollywood director Oliver Stone (right) with Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez at the Caracas premiere of South Of The Border

His latest comments brought swift condemnation Jews in the US and Israel and forced the 63-year-old to make a contrite apology.

He said: ‘In trying to make a broader historical point about the range of atrocities the Germans committed against many people, I made a clumsy association about the Holocaust, for which I am sorry and I regret.

‘Jews obviously do not control media or any other industry,’ he said, adding that the Holocaust was an ‘atrocity’.

Mein Fuhrer: In an interview in January Stone claimed Hitler was 'an easy scapegoat'

Stone made the comments during an interview with the Sunday Times last weekend to promote his forthcoming Secret History Of America documentaries, which challenge received versions of events.

Stone said the 10-part series will address Stalin and Hitler ‘in context’ and explained: ‘Hitler was a Frankenstein but there was also a Dr

Frankenstein. German industrialists, the Americans and the British. He had a lot of support.'

In a misguided attempt to put the Holocaust into context, he added: 'Hitler did far more damage to the Russians than the Jewish people, 25 or 30m.' Asked why he focused so much on the Holocaust, Stone said: 'The Jewish domination of the media.

'There's a major lobby in the United States. They are hard workers. They stay on top of every comment, the most powerful lobby in Washington. Israel has f up United States foreign policy for years.'

Stone with his wife Sun-jung Jung and their daughter Tara at the London premiere of the new documentary about South American politics

In a statement American Jewish Committee director David Harris said: 'By invoking this grotesque, toxic stereotype, Oliver Stone has outed himself as an anti-Semite.

'For all of Stone's progressive pretensions, his remark is no different from one of the drunken, Jew-hating rants of his fellow Hollywood celebrity, Mel Gibson.'

Thrice-married Stone, whose current wife is Sun-jung Jung, with whom he has a teenage daughter, has courted controversy before.

In 1997 the Scientologist was among 34 celebrities who protests against the treatment of those who follow Scientology in Germany to then chancellor Helmut Kohl and compared it to the treatment of Nazis in the 1930s.

He also provoked intense criticism over 1994's Natural Born Killers which glamorised the life of two mass murderers.

His best-known works include Platoon and Born of the Fourth of July, for which he won two Oscars for best director.

Earlier this year whilst plugging 'Secret Histories of America', Stone said that Stalin, Hitler and Mao had been 'vilified through thoroughly by history' and that he wanted to 'tell a more factual representation'.

'We can't judge people as only "bad" or "good",' he said.

'Hitler is an easy scapegoat throughout history and its been used cheaply. He's the product of a series of actions.'

craig-oxley - July 27, 2010 06:06 PM (GMT)

"[FDR's] Ambassador [to the Court of St. James and Archbishop Francis Spellman's most powerful Knight of Malta, the pro-fascist, pro-Hitler] Joseph Kennedy had spoken to fifty of Hollywood's leading Jewish movie makers in a secret meeting (1941) in one of their homes. He had told them sternly that they must not protest as Jews, and that they must keep their Jewish rage against the Germans out of print. . . . As a result of Kennedy's cry for silence, all of Hollywood's top Jews went around with their grief hidden like a Jewish fox under their Gentile vests."

-Ben Hecht, The Child of the Century, (New York: Simon and Schuster, 1954) p. 520.

Insurgent - November 24, 2010 05:42 AM (GMT)

Picture in Oliver Stone's Manhattan apartment:

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Mark Philips and Cathy O`brien

Title: Mark Philips and Cathy O`brien
Description: Truthseekers or agents?

14april2000 - December 7, 2008 09:26 AM (GMT)

They have being in hell since there first book Trance Formation of America came out in 1995, the court placed Cathy`s daughter in the custody of the tennessee juvenile justice system, For Reasons of National Security after law suite against bush sr bush jr and other highrankings government officials. There second book ACCESS DENIED Fo Reasons of National Security came out august 2004.

http://www.trance-formation.com/index.htm

Catholico Delos - December 7, 2008 08:06 PM (GMT)

I think their 100% legit and dont care who knows it. Read their books if you can find them.

AntiSionist - February 27, 2009 10:48 PM (GMT)

Posted on page 8 of the Alex Jones topic.

QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Jan 31 2009, 11:09 PM)

Towards the bottom of the page you will seee the Sun god images from Alex's and Mark and Cathy O'Brian's pictures which is solid proof they are involved in Freemasonry.

http://www.abbaswatchman.com/NEWS%20SUN%20gOD%20SYMBOLS.html

This page is slow to download but very well worth it.
These are the specific picture Iam refering your attaention to closer to the bottom.
http://www.abbaswatchman.com/PIC_0085.JPG http://www.abbaswatchman.com/Martial%20Law%20picture.jpg http://www.abbaswatchman.com/Image044.jpg http://www.abbaswatchman.com/prisonplanet_...2027%202009.jpg
Here again is a Sun Symbol around the earth and a Sun symbol as see in many pictures near the top of page and one below.
http://www.abbaswatchman.com/250308%20comc...lex%20Jones.jpg http://www.abbaswatchman.com/Sun%20god%20S...20detergent.jpg looks similar...

http://www.gutenberg.org/files/25663/25663-h/25663-h.htm

14april2000 - February 28, 2009 03:32 PM (GMT)

Thank you AntiSionist. But is that enough to be sure that they are Agents - does it not depends how high up they are in the Freemasonry - 95% of freemasons don`t resize above level 3 and there is 360 level?

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 09:45 AM (GMT)

From that site:

QUOTE

See the Freemason Sun Symbol in the Sticker solid proof here and to top it off Mark and Cathy , when I met them first in Calgary then here in Edmonton ,They made a video of their lecture and used my words (Based on a disc of my story) as if they were their own words. They did this from my life story that I had given them from my C.D. disc . They are rotten to the core. The Man I was forced to sit with during a meeting at the Edmonton R.C.M.P. K Division was Brian Ketel and I was introduced to him in a very transparent disguises as Verne Warwick. This same Hell's Angel is the Head of Mind Control project here in Edmonton So ask yourself why was he with Mark and Cathy ... because they work with/for him.

Keep your friends close keep your enemies closer = The Hell's Angels freemasons favourite saying. 303 rd division of the U.S. Military.

They use sex as a weapon and will betray you with a kiss as they all Worship death = The Sun god.

This book Transformation was written to lure people like me who have broken away from the wicked controls of Witchcraft = Mind control to tell what I can see. I have not yet broken free from working for the mason's As I still work for these wicked people in Jobs only as they own the entire trucking Industry in Canada.

God said when he comes they have a hold of us and refuse to let go . They have a complete strangle hold on the Canadian trucking industry today.

http://www.abbaswatchman.com/NEWS%20SUN%20gOD%20SYMBOLS.html

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:01 AM (GMT)

Mark Phillips COINTELPRO Part 1 (Cathy Obrien)
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zK3qoLM2QpU

User posted comment:

QUOTE

amr857 (6 months ago) Show Hide -1 Marked as spam Reply

DO NOT TRUST MARK PHILLIPS. HE HAS BEEN EXPOSED REPEATEDLY AS A CONTAINMENT AGENT FOR THE CIA AND NWO.

REAL mind control victim susan ford (pseudenym: Brice Taylor), and others, talked about how Phillips infiltrated their lives under the guise of being a deprogrammer.... it turned out he sapped all of their money and discredited their story to THEIR FACE in the end, all the while spreading lies behind their backs....

This man is a SNAKE• AND A LIAR, and he continues to do the devil's work.

QUOTE

loveisthevehicle (7 months ago) Show Hide 0 Marked as spam Reply

B.Cyrus, nice work with body language & room sounds. More like this'd be welcomed!
In "Thanks for the Memories" Brice Taylor shows Mark was compromised. Brice supported Mark-Kathy 4 a yr. so she & Kathy could do recovery together.
Mark read reams of her written memories & then said she'd dreamed it all!!
For victims to trust themselves is everything but he blew that up. Brice went to bed in shock for a week, then had• them leave.
Thru Kathy, Mark can get close to victims & derail them.

QUOTE

joopq (1 year ago) Show Hide 0 Marked as spam Reply lol, cuz the guy• changes his voice inflection that gives the maker of this video "proof" that he has gone through personality programming? of course its possible, but proof?
i agree with the household comment and chair scoot though....that looks like a "slip" for sure.
they would never let obrien get away clean at first. they had to give her a fake savior to keep it monitored. so sad. this is without a doubt the devil at play

BulletproofCyrus (1 year ago) Show Hide Marked as spam Reply
All programmers go through traumatic abuse themselves... his fear/bewilderment after the switch• says it all...

joopq (1 year ago) Show Hide 0 Marked as spam Reply well not ALL programmers from what i hear. just the lower level ones. the higher level ones are• programmed by the architect of deciet himself

BulletproofCyrus (1 year ago) Show Hide Marked as spam Reply
I dont know the source of your info...but you are implying that the lower level ones are treated the• worst, by the higher level ones which were not abused at all - or less so, since they were programmed by the "devil" itself?

joopq (1 year ago) Show Hide 0 Marked as spam Reply
well in a sense, yes. all the programming came from the entites, the knowledge of how to do it, its very ancient. and some say the programming is only successful IF an entity is "attached" to the mind controlled slave. a demon is a disembodied spirit of a nephilim according to the bible. but there are entities that are not disembodied, there are lots of kigndoms of life other then man of course. the• higher level programmers are "occultists" and these religions are basically mind control

joopq (1 year ago) Show Hide 0 Marked as spam Reply
my sources are numerous. i dont go by one alone, i gather alot and sift through things with intuion and prsctical cognition, then see what pieces fit together with the same process's. i keep my opinions fluid and this is how i see avoiding someone owning your mind, be willing to change it. some "pick sides" and such, bad idea. ther are only two sides. and other then that i deal only with reasonable• people. unwise to cast pearls before swine right lol. this is a fascinating vid btw. psychology

BulletproofCyrus (1 year ago) Show Hide Marked as spam Reply
Thanks and• I'm glad you feel that way.

docmechanic (1 year ago) Show Hide +1 Marked as spam Reply
The emphasis is very important. It is good for us to• see a person who was on both sides of the abuse. It is important that you pointed out the subtleties. You did an excellent job.

BulletproofCyrus (1 year ago) Show Hide Marked as spam Reply

Thanks for your time• and feedback.

Mark Phillips COINTELPRO Part 2 (Cathy Obrien)
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=gpd3FikT2tA

QUOTE

loveisthevehicle (7 months ago) Show Hide 0 Marked as spam Reply

It doesn't discredit Kathy. She's a victim. Even though "recovered," she could be duped to see Mark as credible. Got that from Brice Taylor's "Thanks for the Memories."

The analysis does• discredit Mark & does a great job of doing so. He's likely a Cointelpro plant to handle Kathy, to dish out disinformation, & to undermine other MC victims. Sadly, due to Kathy's trust of Mark, other victims might wrongly trust him, also. That's what happened to Brice & she paid for it thru a set-back.

QUOTE

BulletproofCyrus (1 year ago) Show Hide Marked as spam Reply

Thanks for the support, as you can see, I have had virtually no feed back on these videos...of course, I could have named them something to grab peoples attention better...But then I'd probably get a lot of negative feedback based on their popularity.

The reason I noticed all this is because i was a firm believer in what they were doing, and watched their videos a few times over.

I've noticed more that I would point out,• but nobody paid much attention to these...so, maybe later...

kanelawson (1 year ago) Show Hide 0 Marked as spam Reply like what• other things have you noticed?

BulletproofCyrus (1 year ago) Show Hide Marked as spam Reply

It would take too long to explain them fairly, that's why I need to make another video. Basically inconsistencies in• his story on "rescuing Cathy and daughter," and statements that a real freedom fighter/hero wouldn't say. Many of these "mistakes" are then followed by this horrified expression on his face when he knows he screwed up. (He's been drinking alot too lately, which doesn't help, either that or he's developed some severely high blood- pressure.

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:10 AM (GMT)

The True Story About Mark Phillips

By Ray Bilger (From www.davidicke.com)

http://educate-yourself.org/mc/markphillip...ry12jul00.shtml
July 12, 2000

For those who have not heard of the man named Mark Phillips, he claims to be a "former" (retired) C.I.A. operative who was involved in mind control programming. Mark alleges that after he got out of the C.I.A., he decided he wanted to do something good. So he "rescued" an MKULTRA mind control victim, Cathy O'Brien, and together they wrote a book, Trance Formation of America, and now they travel around the United States on a speaking tour. It is this writer's contention that Mark is NOT a "former" operative, but that he is still heavily involved with the Agency, even though he may not know he is being programmed and used.

What you are about to read is the culmination of over 3 years of research and investigation into who Mark Phillips is, and why he is doing what he is doing. The statements made herein and the conclusions reached are not made lightly. This is very serious business and Mark Phillips is a very clever and ingenious man with a very clearly defined agenda. Unfortunately, that agenda does not appear to serve the interests of truth, but, in fact, it appears to be for the specific purpose of misinforming and misleading the public about what is really happening in America and the world. And it most certainly appears that Cathy O'Brien simply has a new handler who goes by the name of Mark Phillips.

The information used to compile this work has been drawn from numerous sources, including from a "close personal friend," Janus (not her real name-she is concealing her true identity for the present time), from others who have had the misfortune of being deceived by Mark, from Mark's own words, and from the observations of myself and others who have seen Mark in action as he does his work.

Let's begin with Janus, as this is where I first saw the real Mark Phillips begin to show his true self. Janus has been tortured and abused through MKULTRA trauma-based mind control programming since she was a baby. Her father, a career U.S. Military man, began sexually abusing her at a very early age. He has long been a personal friend of Gerald Ford, with whom Janus had much sexual contact while she was young.

Janus has been to Bohemian Grove in California, to the White House many times, and around the world, and she has been sexually abused by Ronald Reagan, Henry Kissinger, Jimmy Carter, Walter Cronkite, numerous other American officials, foreign heads of State, the Royal family in England, and on and on the list goes.

About the time Janus reached her thirties she was becoming less and less useful to her handlers, and she began to try to escape from the tortured life of abuse she had known. Her attempts to do this were met with swift and brutal retaliation to remind her that she should never again think of doing that. It eventually became apparent that she was being set-up to have an auto accident that was intended to result in her death. In the mid-1990s her car was hit from the rear by a tractor-trailer, but she escaped with relatively minor injuries.

In late 1996, while driving on a lonely stretch of road, Janus was involved in an auto accident where she was forced off the road by another car. She crashed head-on into a bridge abutment and her car burst into flames. Good fortune, or perhaps her own destiny, brought other motorists (including friends of mine) to the scene immediately who put out the fire, and worked as quickly as possible to cut her out of the car. The engine was in her lap, and she died twice and was revived before she was out of the car and into a helicopter on the way to the hospital.

I first met Janus in early 1997 when I heard from a close friend (who had been at the scene of her accident) that Janus said she had worked underground at China Lake Naval Weapons Station in the California desert. I wanted to interview her about this, and she hesitatingly agreed.

We got to know each other over the next couple of months (this is when I first found out about her being a victim of MKULTRA). In early April of 1997, a local TV station near my home was conducting a TV interview with a group of U.F.O. enthusiasts, and Janus and I happened to be present at the time. It was suggested by someone that if they wanted to know about mind control they should talk to Janus.

Janus nervously agreed, and told the interviewers a little bit about the subject. Remember, she was just beginning to break out of her programming, and she was very unsure of anything. She had never known a moment of freedom in her life, and she was still a long way from feeling it then. She didn't know how to think, as she had never been allowed to do so before.

The word about Janus' interview must have traveled fast, because the very next morning she got a phone call from her main handler, her uncle, and he said to her, "Who the hell have you been talking to?" He went on to tell her she would be leaving early the next morning to come and see him, and that "it was time that her family took care of her."

Janus called me later that same day and told me she would be going away for awhile and that she wouldn't be seeing me. She told me about what her uncle had said-that her family was now going to take care of her. I couldn't stop thinking about the double meaning of this expression, and I sensed that what it spelled was death. After all, Janus does have information that could seriously bring damage to the federal government and those pedophiles at the top who run things. Never before had she attempted to go public with her experiences.

I said nothing about her going away (I sensed that her phone was probably being tapped), but made plans in my mind to go see her that evening. When I got to her house, about an hours-drive south of where I live, she was surprised to see me. She had a suitcase packed, and I told her of the probable fate that awaited her if she left the next morning. After talking with her for awhile, I was able to convince her that she should come and stay with me for the time being.

On Sunday, April 13, 1997, David Icke spoke to an audience in Tehachapi, California. Janus and I attended and her spirits were lifted as David talked about what he was currently working on-exposing the pedophile governments around the world.

After the talk, I spoke with David privately and explained our situation. David was very interested in interviewing Janus, and since he had to leave the next morning we arranged to do so that same evening at the home of a mutual friend, a retired doctor, who also happened to be one of the people at the scene of her auto accident in late 1996.

That evening, we went back to the doctor's house and spent the next several hours listening to and recording a bizarre story that included Las Vegas, Nevada, the international pedophile capitol of the world. We were told that this is the place where people such as Britain's Prince Charles came to spend time with young boys. David got some good confirmation on things he himself had already been investigating.

At this point I had never met Mark Phillips, though I very much wanted to. On two prior occasions where I could have heard Mark and Cathy speak, I suddenly had to go away to Los Angeles on business. In retrospect I now know that this was probably meant to be, as we appeared to be destined to meet under very different circumstances.

David knew Mark Phillips and said that he would call him to see if he might be interested in meeting with Janus, as Mark was scheduled to be on the west coast shortly. Soon I was personally speaking with Mark Phillips in Tennessee, and he arranged to meet with Janus and myself while he was in San Diego in late April of 1997.

Janus and I arrived in San Diego the day before we were to meet, and relaxed as best we could. During this time I had to be ever alert as Janus would just go walking off, not knowing where she was going or what she was doing. It was as though she was mentally disconnected. At the time I knew very little about the real workings of mind control, but I have subsequently learned a lot, and we are both learning more each day.

Anyway, we met Mark and Cathy the next day and the four of us spent the next 8 hours in their hotel room. Janus had forgotten her reading glasses and Mark said she would need them. So, we went back to our hotel to get her glasses.

On the way driving back to our hotel, Janus said she was extremely uncomfortable about Mark. She said she felt that he was a doctor and that he wanted to lock her up in a mental institution. I didn't think that we would ever get back to their hotel, but I was eventually able to convince Janus that Mark appeared to mean well and that if he tried to do anything I would take her out of there immediately. I said she should at least give him a chance since we had come a long way to be there.

Not knowing any better, I felt that her programming and her microchip implants were probably telling her not to go to see someone who could really help her with her problem. I have since learned that Janus is extremely perceptive about many things, no doubt due at least in part to all that she has seen and been through in her life.

Mark was very emphatic about us not ever saying to anyone that we had met privately with him in this way. We agreed not to say anything. Mark then proceeded to talk to Janus and ask her all sorts of questions. He had her sit at a small desk and answer lists of various questions-things like what is your favorite food and what is your favorite color. These were questions she could not answer, because, as I was later to find out, she had never been allowed to think or make a decision on her own.

Mark made a quick examination of the back of her head and said that she had no implants. During the entire 8 hours, Mark chain-smoked cigarettes, pack after pack, while Cathy sat on the bed and said almost nothing until later on.

While Janus was answering the written questions, and for most of the entire time, Mark directed almost all of his attention to me. He explained that Janus did not appear to be a mind control victim, that she probably was not abused, and that her problem definitely appeared to be a chemical imbalance in the brain. He suggested that this was making her extremely depressed. In fact, Mark said to Janus, "You are the most depressed person I've ever seen in my life." Those were very powerful words to a woman in such a delicate situation.

Mark suggested some hospitals where I might be able to get Janus some serious help, if I was really interested in helping her, and I wrote down this information. Cathy O'Brien eventually spoke and said, "You should be glad you and your children have not been abused." By the time we left, Janus was shattered and had a splitting headache!

Since I was only beginning to unravel who Janus really was-remember, she never had the chance to have a real identity, only multiple personalities generated from trauma based programming-I believed what Mark had said, and now felt like I really had my hands full. Mark led me to believe I should be very careful for my own safety, so when we got home I hid all of the kitchen knives.

The next three days were some of the most difficult (and yet ultimately rewarding) of my life. I could not convince Janus to go to a hospital. She felt they would only do something terrible to her, and she just wanted to leave and run away. From everything she was saying, and from everything that Mark had said, I felt that something wasn't quite right. I still believed Mark must know what he was talking about, but I didn't know what to do.

After three days, I knew that Janus would not be going to a hospital voluntarily, and it began to appear that Mark had not told me the whole truth. Shortly after that, on May 2, 1997, we were driving around in the evening and we happened to turn on the radio and heard Lou Epton's radio talk show on AM 840 KXNT out of Las Vegas. His guests were none other then Mark Phillips and Cathy O'Brien on their west-coast tour.

We pulled the car over to a nice area and listened to the radio. Pretty soon Lou was taking telephone calls. I later obtained an audio-tape of the program to be absolutely certain of what Mark said. A caller to the program asked if Henry Kissinger is a pedophile? Mark answered, "No one has ever named Henry Kissinger as a pedophile. No one, that is, with any credibility has ever been able to show any kind of proof that he was involved in any sort of pedophilic activity." That sounds like a very thorough and well rehearsed response. Was Mark intentionally concealing Henry's very real pedophile activities? If so, why?

Mark Phillips, who appears as though he is very knowledgeable about who the pedophiles are in our government, would have to be naïve not to know about Henry Kissinger. Janus has been sexually abused by Henry several times at Bohemian Grove, and so has another woman (a MKULTRA victim) who will be introduced later in this article.

But one of the most striking things about the program was a caller from Las Vegas who asked Mark to comment on the pedophile activity in Las Vegas that takes place with the casinos. Mark responded, " &I don't happen to have any [information on that] and neither does Cathy O'Brien & As far as this being necessarily a center of that activity, I don't think so." That response is either a clear indication that Mark does not know what he is talking about, or else it is a very big intentional cover-up of the truth.

Earlier in the program, Mark had said that "Muskegon, Michigan is considered the capitol of the United States for pedophilia." Janus' comment was that, indeed, there is pedophile activity in Michigan, but it is by no means the capitol. Was Mark's comment designed to intentionally divert attention away from Las Vegas?

Janus and I sat there and looked at each other, and I realized that I had been taken for a big ride. It seemed inconceivable that Mark would not know that Las Vegas is the pedophile capital of the world. Of course, it appeared that he really did know better. I was mad, but I felt like this had all just been a test, and I felt somehow like I had passed it.

I have had a long time since then to think about all of this (and discuss it with others who are familiar with MKULTRA, or who have met Mark) and put the pieces of the puzzle together. And the conclusion I have reached I believe to be the truth. Before we ever met Mark Phillips, he must have been briefed about us, and he was told that Janus had to be eliminated, but that the only way to get to her was to get through to me, as I was protecting her. That's why all of his attention was focused on me. At the same time he did everything he could to make Janus look like a complete idiot, hoping that that would help convince me to drop her. But his plan (or the plan of his controllers) didn't work.

Mark does his job very well, I must say, but it is not the job that most people think it is. As I thought and thought about all of this and tried to put it into context with the Big Picture, of which this is but a small part, I finally came to the realization of who Mark Phillips is and why he had to be created.

The Elite One World forces who run the world from behind the scenes began to realize several years ago that some of the many MKULTRA mind controlled sex slaves (and others) were escaping, and some of them were talking. So, a conscious decision was made that a program needed to be put into place to counter any potential damage such exposure might produce.

To some extent, the mind control programming takes care of this itself. For example, many are programmed to self-destruct if they should ever escape. This programming would be activated when the victim/survivor begins therapy and too much is beginning to be remembered. Being programmed to drink heavily at such time is one example of this self-destruction. Or, as one woman I know about said, she has a neutron bomb implanted in her stomach and she is afraid it will be detonated at any time. These people are programmed to say the most unbelievable things, so that when an unenlightened person hears them they will think they are insane and in need of institutionalization. And if they get that, then they can be "fixed" permanently.

In any event, it appears that the powers that be put into motion a very complex plan that involved Mark and Cathy, and an unenlightened and unsuspecting public. They figured that if they could make it look like a rogue C.I.A. agent went astray and "rescued" a MKULTRA mind controlled sex slave, and escaped with her to write a book about it, and if it was all done just right, then the public might just buy it. And that plan has worked very well.

The book would have to contain enough factual truth to be interesting, and believable enough for the public to buy it. But then the real purpose of the whole plan would follow-travelling around the country on a speaking tour, where Mark Phillips (the expert) could answer questions, and debunk the real damage that has been (and is still being) done, and to tell those victims who might show up that they are really just delusional, that nothing ever happened to them, and that they should go to a hospital where they can get proper treatment!

The Elite's choice of Mark Phillips for this extremely important assignment was an excellent decision, as he does his job very well. He may himself be a mind control victim. Cathy's life seems to be better, but she is not free from the mind controlling, she just has a new handler named Mark!

Think about their whole story seriously for a moment. Don't you think that if the Elite Controllers wanted Mark and Cathy dead, that they would be dead by tonight? These Controllers kill presidents if they want to, but somehow they can't seem to kill a couple who are openly speaking to the public, and who stay in public hotels?

Let's listen to some of Mark's own words from his speech before an audience as he opens for Cathy. This quote (from 1996) comes after he has given a very lengthy explanation about all that he has done with the C.I.A. in the past: [Quoting]

I went to see a friend of mine from the U.S. Intelligence, and he was a General. And I explained to him what I had heard and what was going on, and I said, "This looks and smells and tastes exactly like mind control."

He said, "That's exactly what it is. The country is just saturated with it &"

I said, "Well, all I want to do is find out about this woman that Alex Houston handles, and this little bitty girl, because they are being used, under mind control, and they're being prostituted."

And he told me, he said, "Mark, this is the craziest thing that you have ever done in your life. Just forget about it. You didn't cause it. You didn't have anything to do with it. Mark, you just walk away from it &"

I said, "No, I'm going to give a little something back &. I'm going to see if I can find this woman and this little girl some help &."

I never seen him [the General] again because he passed away &. I decided that I was going to do something to help. [End quoting]

What a perfect story. And the General is supposedly dead now, so he can't be found to corroborate or deny Mark's story. It's the age-old story of a brave man who rescues a damsel in distress. It's all just too convenient, but it works so well for the average person. How many thousands, or tens-of-thousands, of people have been mislead or deceived by Mark Phillips? How many of them are real victims, like Janus, who don't need more lies, but need real help?

Let's go to another source to see if we can find out more about this man named Mark Philips. For those not familiar with Sherman H. Skolnick, he is a man on the cutting edge of exposing major conspiracies, and he writes about his findings and airs them on public access cable TV in Chicago. Listen to Mr. Skolnick's own words from February of this year (2000): [Quoting]

Several years ago this couple [Mark and Cathy] were set to be guests on my public access cable TV program cablecast within Chicago. Before coming here, Mark Phillips called me, as the producer/moderator of the show, and insisted on the following conditions: (1) All my questions were to be put in writing and submitted to them in advance, and (2) I was to make a written, ironclad guarantee that I as the moderator would NOT ask them or her any "negative questions." Having due regard for my integrity and being independent-minded, I refused these outlandish conditions. [End quoting]

Now, why would Mark Phillips make such strict and rigid requirements? If he were truly seeking to expose the many parameters of MKULTRA mind control programming, he would welcome any and all questions to help as many people as possible understand the magnitude of what we are facing. But he didn't do that. Mark was taking away the spontaneity that is the very essence of live interviews.

Does it seem at all possible that Mark may have wanted to portray things according to a very carefully planned agenda? If this were so, it would seem likely that Mark was intending to establish a very specific perception in the minds of the audience-in line with the overall plan put in place by his own controllers-and he wasn't about to have someone like Sherman Skolnick deviate from that agenda in the slightest. This is very serious, folks, and the stakes couldn't be higher-they are playing with our very Souls!

Let's turn now to some of the most compelling information about Mark Phillips, here from a woman who was a MKULTRA victim, and presidential sex toy and personal computer. Brice Taylor was a sex slave to Bob Hope, Henry Kissinger, Ronald Reagan, George Bush, Nelson Rockefeller, Gerald Ford, and on and on.

Brice lived for a time with Mark and Cathy, supporting all of them, and eventually she was able to publish her book, Thanks For The Memories-The Truth Has Set Me Free, published in 1999, by Brice Taylor Trust, P.O. Box 655, Landrum, South Carolina 29356. Here are some very telling excerpts from her book: [Quoting from pages 268 and 269]

"A breakthrough occurred. Ted Gunderson called to inform me that he had just heard from another woman [Cathy O'Brien] who lived across the nation, who had also sent him her memory work about being used as a sex slave to Ronald Reagan. Although it was a terrifying time for me, it also was an amazing time of discovery for all of us. Mark Phillips, her so-called therapist and deprogrammer, flew across the nation and told me that "Jimmy Carter's people" had called him in an attempt to stop him from meeting with me. I flew Mark and Cathy O'Brien to California to meet with me for the first time and I put on a seminar where they were the featured speakers. Mark Phillips knew all about my programming. Looking back on it now, he seemed to know way too much. He asked me if I had "a twin sister who was two inches shorter than me." This was a very powerful key and code into the programming of my "inner twin sister," Sharon, and this seemingly simple statement controlled my body in a very intimate way from the outside, showing me while in normal consciousness that I was indeed a robot, and not in control of my own body. Shortly after Mark and Cathy's arrival and seminar, a series of events occurred including an accident and ensuing hospitalization of the person that was living with me as my safe person. Mark Phillips explained that I was not safe in California and once again I ended up running. I paid to fly Mark, Cathy and I back to his mother's home in Charlotte, Tennessee where we began my process of what we then called "deprogramming."

Several weeks later, with nearly 10 years of recovery behind me, this so-called "retired?!" C.I.A. operative made dramatic changes in his living arrangements just to "help me deprogram." After relocating across the country to a home in Arab, Alabama, where I paid all domestic expenses for the three of us, a large sum of money for traveling expenses for both he, his girlfriend Cathy, and myself, and a large 'consulting fee,' this renegade C.I.A. operative read my lengthy journal entries daily for a year and a half and agreed that in his own words, "the memory work contains absolute elements of fact laced with verifiable details." But one and one-half years, forty-two journals, and $50,000+ traveling and living expenses later, Mark Phillips informed me that nothing had ever happened to me & nothing what-so-ever!

Cathy O'Brien said, "Well, you should be happy that nothing happened and that your children have not been abused!" I couldn't believe she was saying that, after all the common details of our histories we had shared.

I was devastated and went to bed and could not eat for three days and remained non-communicative and totally subdued for nearly a month afterwards. After all this time of intensely focused attention on my history, Mark informed me that I had never even been abused, and that I just had a big imagination. But, he seemed to appreciate that I was around to cover all of his expenses.

I suspect that Mark is some kind of "containment agent" who is being directed through his "handlers" whose motivations ultimately serve the New World Order. Through his containment expertise, the information I have conveyed to you in this book you are now reading was delayed in reaching you by nearly seven years & I have uncovered a string of lies he told others in an attempt to discredit me. I also reconnected with another Kissinger survivor that Mark Phillips had worked with for a time. Mark Phillips told her the same thing he told me-'THIS NEVER HAPPENED TO YOU!" & I left that home where I had paid all expenses & and went to live in Carbondale, Illinois. " [End quoting]

It is easy to see from the above that Cathy O'Brien indeed has a new handler, Mark Phillips. It would certainly appear that in their one-and-one-half years together, Brice and Cathy had a lot of time to share their common histories. Yet Cathy didn't seem to have any question whatsoever about Mark's sudden change of mind regarding Brice.

On the contrary, Cathy seems to believe what Mark says, and then supports that with her own parroting statements. This acts as reinforcement to what Mark has already said. Very clever, and convenient. Mark has certainly trained Cathy well, and, as it appears, Mark himself has been trained well.

Brice Taylor's powerful book is highly recommended reading. It is the book that Trance Formation of America never could be, because of Mark Phillips' agenda. The cover of Mark and Cathy's book says "The True Life Story of a C.I.A. Slave." But that can't be so because even though the book does reveal a great deal of valuable information about mind control, the book doesn't reveal the true identity of who Mark Phillips really is. Since Mark has played such a large part in Cathy's life, and since the book doesn't tell the truth about Mark, by definition the book cannot possibly tell the true life story of Cathy O'Brien, and how she is being used today to help promote the New World Order agenda.

Over the past several decades, pedophiles have infiltrated into all levels of our government. It has become so all-pervasive today because once these degenerates get into the very highest levels of government, then they are in a position to appoint others of like mind into all other important positions in our government.

This has gone on until we have reached the point where we are today, with pedophiles dominating the Legislative, the Executive, and the Judicial branches of government. Our government today in the United States of America is one huge pedophile government.

Have you ever wondered what happens to the ever-increasing number of abducted and missing children in America, and who is doing this? Why don't you ever see any serious TV programs about the thousands upon thousands of America's missing children? Many people might be inclined to believe that a handful of child porno scum are responsible for this atrocity. How many would think that the entire operation is sanctioned and carried out by our own government in Washington, D.C.? Well, that's what is happening, folks, and that is what Mark Phillips is helping to cover-up and protect! (see the book, The Franklin Cover-Up, by John W. DeCamp, copyright 1992, by AWT, Inc., Lincoln, Nebraska)

It is a sick world we live in today that greatly needs healing. Mark Phillips is in a very unique and instrumental position to be able to help prevent and put a stop to what is going on. But instead he is helping to perpetuate the abuse and insanity by misleading and misinforming (i.e., lying) to those who most need to hear the truth.

The truth is often difficult to accept. Face it, Mark Phillips, that is what the people need and deserve to hear from you. If you can possibly break free from your own mind control programming, don't you think you should tell the people what is really happening in America and the world?

Ray Bilger 7-8-00

David Icke WebSite http://www.davidicke.com/

Notice: David Icke, www.davidicke.com, David Icke E~Magazine, and/or the donor of this material may or may not agree with all the data or conclusions of this data. It is presented here 'as is' for your benefit and research.

THE TRUTH ABOUT: The Truth About Mark Phillips

Svengali and His Prize Parakeet - My Respectful Tribute

By Jon Gentry <jgentry@bigplanet.com>
7-22-00

I am an event, freelance, videographer. Counting on both hands I have met and videotaped Phillips and O'Brien nine times. Since my earliest meeting with them, June of 1996, I have taken a great deal of flak from ardent supporters for saying Cathy was still under mind control. My evidence? Watching Cathy's eye movements as she accesses eidetic memory. At least Alex Houston used a dummy to talk through (ventriloquist).

So, now that the pendulum has swung against Mark Phillips, my unchanged view through these years now appears like support. With all due respect to Ray Bilger's three years of research, the subject is an elephant, and we the blind men. Mark Phillips may look a lot to Ray like the hindquarters, but I see Mark Phillips as a kind of a hero. Why would I call Mark a hero? Because his initial impulse came from a moral sense, a wish to expose the tragedy of MKUltra mind control; just don't make the grave mistake of assuming that individuals from covert government programs (such as Phillips) are operating with the same moral compass (as you and me).

Ray Bilger's expose' is hardly timely. Brice and others have been making public statements "Don't send anyone to Mark Phillips," as early as October of 1997, at Sylvia Gillotte's conference in Atlanta, the CT Expo on Ritual Trauma, Child Abuse, and Mind Control. Ray's choice to attack Mark Phillips now, with Dick Cheney being proposed as Dubya's Vice Presidential running mate, could be especially poor judgement; as it confuses the issue of the veracity of the material in TranceFormation of America, Mark and Cathy's ability to communicate that material; with the issue of whether we should be sending recovering MKUltra victims to Mark Phillips (Obviously not).

So, what happened to Mark Phillips that he became this ogre? Mark miscalculated the leverage necessary to break free. As a result, Mark has been reduced to playing one power group off against another. From his first call to Dr. Jolly West, Mark gave information "to both sides." "How do you think we stay alive," he confided to a friend.

From hints Mark gave, his "insurance policy" contained Operation Paperclip resettlement files; inside info on the Gander Newfoundland crash, and more. Enormous bargaining chips, but apparently.... not big enough. Why? The challenge we all face now: Almost total control of the media; no Court to bring charges in; meaningless Congressional Hearings; no (moral) pulse from the American public; no support from law enforcement; the list goes on. Bill Colby also miscalculated on his insurance policy, and went canoeing. Going public is non-trivial and definitely non-habit forming.

In the balance, Phillips and O'Brien have helped literally tens of thousands awaken to the ongoing designs of the New World Order, one world government bunch; and pointed repeatedly and poignantly to their (NWO) Achilles' Heel: their treatment of women and children.

I am sure Brice is right that her information has been held back many years. Conversely, there is something to be said for the enormous corroborating power of "the testimony of two or more witnesses." Without Cathy's TranceFormation of America, Brice's Thanks For The Memories would have an incredible credulity gap, uphill battle; still a high hurdle for many new to the subject.

In regard to Trance, there was once talk of a production. I had friends going around to Bohemian Grove, and talking to Dick Cheney's constituency. Current arrests of Traficant's aide and many others tend to corroborate that connection. I have independent Charm School/Larry Flynt verification. Info on Operation Brown Stone confirms the (Washington, D.C.) systematic compromising of government officials Cathy described. I have a witness who saw Cathy at Manuel Noriega's in Panama. It all checked out. Cathy's information on Satanist Michael Aquino is confirmed: An officer on Aquino's court martial remarked, "Tip of the iceberg," referring to evidence at trial. It is hard to say how much Trance contributed to the recent John DeCamp success in the Paul Bonacci case (Franklin Coverup). So, I would urge the reader to honor their contribution.

I was once joking about "useless eaters" and "kiss-of-death, Henry Kissinger." Chip Tatum (CIA blackops) put his index finger about two inches from my nose and said, "He who criticises Kissinger dies!" Judging by the tone, Chip's total lack of humor, that spoke volumes (an assignment or two?). Essentially, I am not surprised Mark lied about Henry. Being an insider, he knew it could mean bad news. I videotaped Brice Taylor at Global Sciences Congress in Daytona Beach, February of 1998, when she finally overcame that hurdle and "named the names." Few know how big a hurdle that was.

It also does not bolster the cause of truth to say we have "one huge pedophile government." That detracts from those within government who continue to leak us information (keep it up folks), and the reality that our government is simply too large, composed of many layers of pencil pushing public servants, David Icke's "pyramid," who really have little to do with the compromised and corrupt individuals at the top. I have spoken to good people from the Reagan era White House who had no clue what went on behind closed doors.

I also respectfully disagree with Frm. L.A. Senior Special Agent, Ted Gunderson (FBI) and others who promote numbers like 100,000 children missing every year [note from Ken Adachi-the actual number is closer to one MILLION CHILDREN each year. 100,00O is a conservative figure and a gross UNDERESTIMATE]. In Texas we have the Amber Law, which activates local radio and law enforcement in a concerted effort each time a child goes missing. There simply aren't the numbers, overall, those "thousands upon thousands of America's missing children." It only serves detractors to make such claims.

There are those, like Jimmy Rothstein (Fmr. NYPD), who maintain (damage control?) that there is no Satanic underground, just a bunch of sexual sickos. Yet, I have heard from victims/witnesses of Satanic ritual. It exists. It is a most useful tool to silence participants, as there is no statue of limitations on murder. Which is why, Ray, you will never get the whole truth from a Mark Phillips, or any MKUltra victim. They cannot tell the whole story, "what is really happening in America...," without serious legal implications.

And Ray, just in case you don't feel I understand, I had my own "Janus." I lived with Gail for a very stormy year and a half. She died in January of 1996. MPD (DID) and involvement in MKUltra; pictures with Ronald Reagan, pictures at the Hefner Mansion, or was that her twin?; and much more. I sit on quiet evenings, maybe sip a little Chardonnay, and listen to our song: Nat King Cole, "Darling, Je vous aime beaucoups,... You've completely stolen my heart." I speculate on what more I could have done with the limited information I had then, to help "put Humpty together again," to heal that most precious person whom I love even now.

Having personal experience, I marvel that Ray is not familiar with Gamma personalities, the damage control crew, that lie, misdirect and confuse when an MKUltra person begins to reveal herself to you; an almost inextricable weave of lies and truths that tax the best discernment. I question whether David Icke may regret accepting too readily Arizona's accounts. Time will tell.

Likewise, the younger generation of MKUltra victims have such involved programming it is almost analogous to defusing a sophisticated, ticking device. I would advise contacting Brice Taylor and those resources she might direct a person to. It is not an undertaking for the faint-hearted.

My best wishes to all in this ongoing tragedy, even to the MKUltra Handlers, those master behaviorists, with all the codes, keys and triggers. Guys, I wish you would all get religion; realize that your pet robots are real people, and defect: come over to our side. We need your skills to help heal what you have wrought over these many years.

Respectfully,
Jon Gentry

Comment

Introductory note from Eleanor White <raven1@mail.nas.net

7-22-00

This is for the benefit of the many new correspondents from among the electronic mind weapons community and who may not fully understand that there is a second, large group of government experimentees, colloquially called "MKULTRA survivors", who were in the institutional/drug/child abuse/ ritual abuse experiments which ran from the 50's thru the 70's.

Katherine Sullivan has asked me to post this, and I'd like to let new correspondents know that her posting gives us a glimpse of the "flip side" of what we are going through.

These folks have had their imprisonment and direct abuse phases ended, but what Katherine is talking about is that the MKULTRA organization still has perps in the field, who keenly want these survivors to be discredited. They "know too much".

MKULTRA survivors' minds were filled with hypnotic "triggers" (programming) and the perps Katherine speaks about are taking advantage of their weakened mental state (NOT mental illness, rather, years of hypnotic programming and torture) to keep what they know suppressed.

To read up on what their experiences have been like, you can visit the Advocacy Committee for Human Experimentation Survivors - Mind Control (ACHES-MC) at: http://www.aches-mc.org Katherine's own site is listed below, however, her site is not intended to provide MKULTRA history, but rather, to assist MKULTRA survivors to shake off their years of hypnosis and torment and get their lives together. Katherine has generously provided an "EM section" in her memorial garden in remembrance of our torment.

In effect, we electronic mind weapons victims have an "MKULTRA heritage", and the experiences of these survivors are POWERFUL assists to convincing the public that there really ARE perps this nasty in every government.

Eleanor White

****

(Katherine's glimpse into MKULTRA survivorhood follows)

Comment

From Katherine Sullivan <katydid@mail.cdc.net 7-22-00

I am the woman Brice Taylor mentioned as also having been lied to and more by Mark Phillips.

She asked me about four years ago to support her in physically confronting Mark at a conference where he and David Icke and Cathy were all presenting together, in Atlanta. I called Icke's people a week before that conference to let him know what Mark had done to me and Brice, letting Icke know that Mark was a fraud and was very dangerous. I followed the phone call up with a priority mail package, that included sufficient information to show that Mark was dangerous to survivors. Icke never acknowledged my information.

The night before the conference started, Brice dropped out of the picture after informing me that "Jesus" told her that it was not her time to confront Mark, which left me alone to do so. (Being a Christian, I was a bit confused about that. If "Jesus" told her to go and to ask me to support her in confronting Mark, then why in the world would "Jesus" change his mind and tell her NOT to go? Claiming getting orders from Jesus and the Holy Spirit can sure help a person avoid taking responsibility for his/her own behavior and decisions...)

The second day of the conference, I tried to talk to David alone in a hallway. He looked quite sheepish, clearly recognizing who I was (it bugged me...he looked SO darned familiar from somewhere in my covert past), ducked his head and walked quickly the other way. He was clearly quite chummy with Mark and Cathy during the entire conference, and I blanched and became physically ill at one point when Cathy played gently with David's hair, and he looked up at her face, beaming like a lover. Not a good sign.

So now I am quite amused that Icke, who blatantly reinforces "lizard men" screen memories in high-level MC survivors' minds to discredit them to the public and in court, is suddenly helping to expose Mark. I've seen this behavior before. In this instance, former business partners (Gunderson, Icke, Phillips and Bowart/Kirby) suddenly turn on one of their own, AFTER it is obvious that their partner's are not going to behave and be quiet about his activities. The others had years of warning from the victims, to step out and denounce him.

The way I see it, Mark became too much of a liability to them. This behavior on the part of Mark's friends/partners is not dissimilar to when children go to the police and media about a group of criminal cultists who have been ritually traumatizing and raping them for years. The cultists throw out one of their people for the police and legal system to make an open fuss over and slap in prison, and the others continue doing their dirty work just like before, never being legally named.

In the MC survivor community, I've seen this tactic taken one step further. "Good guy bad guy" routine. By helping to publicly out their partner, after having been tight with him for many years, it makes other perps look like they are heros. Then the the outed perp's victims (eg: Brice) go running to THEM for protection and information. And the survivor's external control and victimization continues...

The other thing I've noticed is how many perps are popping up in the survivor community, mostly but not all males, as investigators and heros. As spokespersons. They do the talk circuits and books, controlling and endorsing usually one survivor like a trained seal (eg: Phillips/O'Brien), who in turn endorses them.

I've been approached by at least three of these guys, who tried do to do that "you and me babe, we can make a fortune" routine, but it did not appeal to me after I was what happened to Cathy (and, I believe, is also still being done to Brice.) I don't know if it's because so many of us were abused by fathers and are still looking for an older male to care and protect us, or if it's because we're just damned lazy (as I tended to be with Mark) and choose to depend on another of a succession of controllers in our lives. But the pattern I've seen repeatedly is that these people are usually RECYCLED PROGRAMMERS. They come back into our lives, daring to hope that we will not remember them. And of course, if they are back in our lives, we will not feel safe enough to be able to consciously remember them!

Then they get back into our heads very quickly and easily, drain us dry of all our memories and proofs and money, and then use us, as Mark did Cathy, as lures to draw in OTHER MC survivors that they can drain and control, likewise.

I used to get so enraged when I saw yet another survivor fall prey to one of these scum, but I've gotten to the point where I've realized this is part of healing and recovery -- going into relapse and learning from it once one gets free again. After being controlled all of one's life, it is extremely difficult to stand on one's own two feet and do one's own cognitive thinking. They know that and are quick to take advantage of it.

This is why survivors in the know keep telling other survivors how absolutely crucial it is for them to be their OWN heroes, their OWN investigators. To depend on anyone else to tell us what to do or think or believe is to open ourselves to another controller and more misery and danger.

I have already posted on the Internet about my experiences with Mark and Cathy. I have written several investigators and numerous survivors about them. Mark knows where I stand about him; Cathy probably remembers very little, other than what Mark wants her to think. If anyone wants further info about my experience with Mark, give me a snail mail address and I'll send a package to you. This man is dangerous and must be avoided by MC survivors at all cost.

Part 2

I agree that Mark definitely seemed to at least partially working for the benefit of Henry Kissinger aka "Kissybutt." When I tried to talk to Mark about my memories of Henry and what he did to children, including myself, Mark told me I must be mistaken. This is while he was still acting like most of what else I remembered (via his use of so-called "key, codes and triggers") was valid.

About two years after I broke away from Mark's influence, I wrote about Henry in my creative non-fiction book, MK. Henry is the character I named "Senator Edward." I wrote the book before I got any outside verifications from any other survivors, etc. that Henry was indeed a vicious pedophile. (He once made my rectum bleed horribly and put me in great pain, he raped me so brutally.) Henry was, and probably still is, one of the most brutal buggerers I had the displeasure to endure as a child.

At the same time, he was one of the most fascinating owners I had the "privilege" (or so I thought) to spend time with, including in my adult years. He has an absolutely brilliant mind and is so wicked he's funny. And he seemed to know everything about everybody of value to him, down to what kind of underwear they bought!

He was one of my primary owners, along with the White House and the CIA and Robert Maxwell of Gr. Britain. I understood pretty early on that Henry was one of the major powers behind the White House. I also knew from personal experience that he answered to Nelson Rockefeller, and then David Rockefeller. (David ran Henry, Henry ran George Bush Sr., and so on.) Jimmy Carter let Henry know he was unwelcome and later, so did Clinton. Both men paid for that, dearly, especially by being publicly humiliated. Henry loves to rub his enemies' noses in the dirt. Pretty typical for a Luciferian...

But Henry had his spies in place anyway. He blackmailed a certain high-profile senator from the Southeast, another pedophile who was obsessed with his victims' cleanliness (enemas, saran wrap between him and the victim, shaved body, etc.), to spy on Carter and pass the info back to Kissinger. I was used as a go-between that way as well, when I lived in Atlanta...

Mark showed me a 8x10 black and white of Monica Lewinsky, a couple of years before the scandal broke. He said she was a "presidential model" and asked if I remember her.

I said no, and he told me he knew she was a Presidential Beta sex slave because of her "clockface" mole markings. What I would give to have that picture now...

I read very little of Brice's second book. If I saw a section that seemed to include information about any perp I had remembered, I skipped it. That pretty much left the intro and the sections on Barbra Streisand and JFK .

I had totally opposite experiences than she claims to have had with JFK, and do have great difficulty in believing what she wrote about him. In my situation, I was told I was one of his many children out of wedlock. At that time, I believed it. Now, it doesn't matter -- I am who I am.

I was taken by my parents (one or both) to meet him at least 3-4 times, and he used to send David Powers out near Reading, PA to visit with me and two female relatives in a church on Saturdays, to ask how I was doing. (I identified his picture about a year ago. Definitely him. Really neat man.) Although Rose Kennedy was a total cold bitch after his murder, when I was presented to her along with other children, JFK was one of the most positive people in my life, always caring and affirming and encouraging. If it had not been for how he treated me, which gave me great strength when life was hardest, I don't think I could have survived. He was never physically inappropriate with me and when I did beg him on one occasion to have sex with me, he walked away physically shaken and outraged -- not at me but at the fact that someone conditioned me to want this from a man. He was an antivenin when just about every other man in my young live was toxic and dangerous to me. And then, damnit, he had to die. That about killed me.

Even years later, I was introduced to people by Henry and others as a "Kennedy Brat." It was a heavy burden to bear because it made me feel an extra strong responsibility to our country. Maybe that was their game the entire time, maybe I am a Kennedy Brat. If so, it would be an honor. If not, it was fun thinking they were telling the truth.

I don't know if Brice really remembered JFK doing such things to her or not, but it would have been totally out of character for the man. I do know, however, from things Mark Phillips and Walter Bowart told me about her, that she was heavily conditioned to put her whole worth into being wanted by men. Walter used the trigger words "beautiful Brice" with her too often to be coincidence. I've had to face that if I were conditioned -- starting in early childhood --to believe that if I ever lost my value as being beautiful and attractive to men, I would be killed, then the most terrifying thing that could happen to me is that a man would not want me sexually. If that were true, then I would HAVE to say that every man I approached wanted me, and we had sex. Pretty scary thought.

I also knew Streisand...not as a perp, but as a victim who was very much like Brice in personality, behaviors, etc. Very similar. I have remembered seeing Streisand once in South Africa and I also saw her piss people off pretty regularly at DC cocktail parties Henry took me to as his "niece." (He usually made me wear plain brown clothes.) I also knew (can't remember if Brice wrote this) that Streisand was also run by Henry. This is also an uncomfortable thought, because Streisand is very very close to Bill Clinton...so I wonder, is Henry using her to get info on the man that way? To pay him back for not allowing Henry to be a part of the administration?

I was extremely angry that Brice made it look like Barbra victimized Brice when the reality was, they were both equally victims and both had sexually perverse alter-states. Barbra is a victim. Brice is a victim. Neither one had any choice in what they did. Both were under orders and both were conditioned via rape, torture, degradation, and so much more. I did awful things under orders, too. If Barbara were to openly and consciously, in her host alter-state, choose to sexually assault another female, that would be another matter. To target a fellow victim in a book and expose what the controllers conditioned that victim to do to other females (I was given to females, too) is not right nor fair. They instructed Brice to do things sexually to me too, but I understand now she had no choice. She was not in her conscious mind. We were both victims, the same way she and Barbra were also both victims.

I have kept my memories clean and uncontaminated and am glad I chose to do so. But yes, I definitely knew Kissinger for many years.

In 1992 when Clinton made it clear he didn't want Kissinger or anything he had to offer -- including my black op services (unlike Reagan and Bush Sr.) -- Henry told me that "they" (Aryans/Nazis) would eventually take over the government and when they did, he'd have me back as his "pet." I really believed him then, since he had personally tortured and terrorized me. But now I don't believe him. He's an old con. A brilliant, very wounded old con. I still wonder what the Nazi officers did to him when he was their alleged Jew-Boy driver...go figure...

I realized about two years ago that former owners like Henry WANTED their victims to go public and tell the world that they were going to take over and rule us all. NWO and all that. Why should their victims not believe it, when they did rule us completely? But now that I am free and have had enough time away from their thinking, and have spend a considerable amount of time living in regular society, I realize they are not powerful in the real world the way they tried to trick me into believing. It's been smoke and mirrors all along. Intel occultists are the worst possible combo. They especially know that the easiest way to weaken an opponent is to psych him out. In fact, sometimes there is no need to attack at all, because the terror can cripple so completely. They've been using too many of us to do this dirty work for them, especially through the Patriot community and people like Icke and Mark and Cathy and Brice and Gunderson. I refuse to be a part of the scam anymore.

Reality check: the so-called controllers aren't controllers at all. They are miserable humans. They defecate and get ulcers and feel pain and loneliness and have miserable marriages and are in absolute terror of each other. They aren't ruling anyone. They never will. Freedom is a condition of the soul. They will never have what we have. We are free; they never will be. They are permanent prisoners of each other. They know that if they ever change heart, if they ever decide to tell the truth, they are dead men. They are too high-profile and they have too many proofs. God, have mercy on them because I doubt if anyone else will.

Katherine aka Kathleen Sullivan President of PARC-VRAMC http://parc-vramc.tierranet.com

-I will not do interviews about this stuff. I do not want to do another book. I will not address any of this at conferences. I just plain wrote this because I'm tired of holding secrets.

-None of what I wrote in this or the previous posting have anything to do with my position as PARC president. I write these as private opinions and information only.

Web posted at: http://www.rense.com/general2/phil.htm

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:19 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

Letters to The Editor

Brice Taylor Commentary

http://educate-yourself.org/lte/bricetaylo...ry03may04.shtml
May 3, 2004

----- Original Message -----
From: Don Weeks
To: Editor@educate-yourself.org
Sent: Tuesday, May 04, 2004 7:52 AM
Subject: Brice Taylor commentary

This morning I was reading some of the crude things posted on "Educate Yourself" that people were saying about Sue Ford; aka Brice Taylor. I talked to Sue last year and she is 'still' a very, very attractive woman. I believe everything she has written about the leaders/personalities of our country and all that she has told me in private about her torment. She would have much preferred to have been a private person raising her family without all of the trappings her beauty and intelligence (not to mention her SRA 'heritage') has brought her. It has been and is very hard on her and her family. I have known Sue for several years and I can testify that she is a fine person. Kind, giving; always generous to others in need and it offends me deeply that anyone would talk about her in that manner. Obviously these "commentators" do not know the Living God who has delivered Sue and who is guiding her s teps. May the Lord forgive and deliver those crude people! Shame on anyone who would not feel compassion for this fine woman!

Don

http://educate-yourself.org/lte/moreonmark...ps22dec03.shtml

QUOTE

More on Mark Phillips & MC Personalities

http://educate-yourself.org/lte/moreonmark...ps22dec03.shtml
Dec. 22, 2003

----- Original Message -----
From: Mike
To: Editor@educate-yourself.org
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2003 11:38 PM
Subject: mind control

Dear Ken:

Some comments and questions:

I read Svali's interview and I was wondering does she have an E-mail address? Also have you heard of Fritz Springmeier and Cisco Wheeler? He's supposed to be an ex Illuminati member who has deprogrammed Wheeler.

I have a friend who knows Mark and Cathy personally and Mark seems to me like a guy high on himself and someone who is still under government control. He lives with Cathy. I have read her book Transformation of America and what is the difference between Cathy's book and Svali's book?

Do you think Michael Jackson is a mind programmed slave like Madonna? She was kissing her baphomet ring on the Arsenio Hall show back in the 90s. Do you think Britney Spears is a slave also? Did the kiss on MTV seal the deal?

Is Arnold the governor of California an illuminati grove member? Is he a handler for his wife Maria?

What do you think about David Icke? He talks about mind programming as well and that the reptoid aliens are behind it all.

I know this is kind of long but I would appreciate your input.

God bless,
Mike

----- Original Message -----
From: Editor
To: Mike
Sent: Tuesday, December 23, 2003 1:53 AM
Subject: Re: mind control

Hi Mike,

See below:

I read Svali's interview and I was wondering does she have an E-mail address? Also have you heard of Fritz Springmeier and Cisco Wheeler? He's supposed to be an ex Illuminati member who has deprogrammed Wheeler.

Yes, I have articles by Fritz on my Mind Control index page, http://educate-yourself.org/mc/ , as well as a video he made in 1998: http://educate-yourself.org/products/indes...indcontrolvideo

Fritz is not ex-Illuminati, but Cisco Wheeler comes from an Illuminati family and was mind controlled to be a MC Programmer. Fritz helped to deprogram Cisco. He co-authored 2 or 3 books with Cisco which explains in the greatest detail how the Illuminati creates a mind controlled slave: http://educate-yourself.org/mc/illumformula1chap.shtml

I have a friend who knows Mark and Cathy personally and Mark seems to me like a guy high on himself and someone who is still under government control. He lives with Cathy. I have read her book Transformation of America and what is the difference between Cathy's book and Svali's book?

I also believe that Mark is under CIA mind control, but that doesn't mean their book wasn't a tremendous expose and eye opener into the reality of government mind control programs. Prior to the publication of Brice Taylor's book, Thanks for the Memories in 1999, I felt that Mark & Cathy's book was the most revealing MC book on the market. I'm not sure that Svali published a book. She wrote a series of articles that originally appeared on a web site called "centrexnews.com", as far I know. Someone recently informed me that the centrex web site is no longer on the net.

Do you think Michael Jackson is a mind programmed slave like Madonna? She was kissing her baphomet ring on the Arsenio Hall show back in the 90s. Do you think Britney Spears is a slave also? Did the kiss on MTV seal the deal?

If you read Brice Taylor's book, Thanks for the Memories, she has a chapter devoted to Michael Jackson, and yes, according to Brice, he and his entire family are victims of mind control. She describes in her book the traumatization inflicted on Michael and his brothers just before they went on stage in the early years of their career. It was an unbelievably viscious assault. Apparently, the father, also under mind control, was their handler.

I can only guess about Madonna, but she certainly sends out all of the signals and signs of a mind controlled person. And yes, the satanic allusions are also less than subtle.

Is Arnold the governor of California an illuminati grove member? Is he a handler for his wife Maria?

Arnold is certainly in bed with the Illuminated Big Boys, but I'll tend to assume that Maria is his handler, not the other way around (as is the case with Hillary and Bill). Maria has the thicker blood connection to the Kennedy clan, which is one of the 13 major Illuminati bloodlines in America, according to Fritz Springmeier and others. When it comes to the topic of Illuminati blood lines and their mind controlled offspring, things are not what they appear to be on the surface. Most victims of mind control do NOT KNOW that they are under mind control, and that can include Illuminati offspring. That's something to bear in mind.

What do you think about David Icke? He talks about mind programming as well and that the reptoid aliens are behind it all.

David Icke is the world's leading speaker and author on the Illuminati agenda and their alien pals. There are a few areas in which I think he has been mislead, but I concur with 98% of what David Icke writes and says.

Merry Christmas, Ken

http://educate-yourself.org/lte/markphilli...ty22dec03.shtml

QUOTE

Letters to The Editor

Mark & Cathy Phillips, Foremost Authorities?

http://educate-yourself.org/lte/markphilli...ty22dec03.shtml
Dec. 22, 2003

----- Original Message -----
From: Tracy <trascot4@telus.net>
To: Editor@educate-yourself.org
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2003 10:30 AM
Subject: mind control info

Hi,

Good site on options available & info. - thanks.

One huge lacking thing - there is no info that I can see re: Cathy & Mark Phillips. They are the foremost authorities on the subject yet no mention or link to their site. Why did you leave them out?

Also the authenticity of Brice: you obviously haven't done your homework/research? I understand she is very much a fake.

Thanks
Tracy

----- Original Message -----
From: Editor <Editor@educate-yourself.org >
To: Tracy <trascot4@telus.net>
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2003 3:38 PM
Subject: Re: mind control info

Hi Tracy,

Well, thanks very much for your generous opinion that I 'haven't done my homework' when it comes to Brice Taylor, but I'm afraid that YOU are the one who is the victim of duplicitous and misleading information. If you took the time to read Brice's book and see what she has to say about Mark Phillips, you would know what I'm talking about.

Also, if you did a search under "Mark Phillips" on Google, you would see what some other well known victims of mind control have to say in regard to Mark's duplicitous front as a White Knight.

And it is for THAT reason that you don't see links at my web site to Mark & Cathy Phillips, the "foremost authorities' on the subject of mind control.

Perhaps you are unaware that once you're a part of the CIA 'family', you're ALWAYS a member.

Regards, Ken

----- Original Message -----
From: Tracy <trascot4@telus.net>h

To: editor@educate-yourself.org
Sent: Monday, December 22, 2003 9:53 PM
Subject: Re: mind control info

HI,

Thanks for your reply, and yes I did read Brice's book, one of them anyway.

All the Best

Tracy

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:24 AM (GMT)

http://educate-yourself.org/lte/sirmarkphillips26dec03.shtml

QUOTE

Letters to The Editor

Yet More on Sir Mark Phillips

http://educate-yourself.org/lte/sirmarkphillips26dec03.shtml
Dec. 26, 2003

----- Original Message -----
From: Yumiko
To: ken Adachi
Sent: Thursday, December 25, 2003 4:28 AM
Subject: re mark , cathy phillip

Hi Ken

I realized that you think that Mark Phillip is under CIA mind controlled. If you read that book you will understand they had to misinform public about him at all cost. The most shocking book I ever read in my life about most powerful people in America re mind control and NWO.

I have no doubt that they (the devils- Illuminati and Satanist) are the behind of all his disinformation about him. The book even explain about disinformation campaign started about him after they started to sue the government.

The book expose Bush , Cheney, Reagan.Clinton,Hillary and all other powerful gangs about how they have treated in order to mind control her and use her for NWO messenger for other country and she details how they want to stupefy mass population for NWO. And you learn how all top people , judges, doctors,police are all connected, they are all Satanist! And they have immune to the law. That is the reason they never go to jail . We , the innocent people go to jail.

Ken please read the book , it is so important if you want to understand the whole story of NWO.

They had to do everything to misinform about him, by the way he is a friend of Dr Len Horowiz. His Death in the Air is a must book too if you have not read it. The government are killing us in the name of PUBLIC HEALTH for a long time by spraying and injection.

Did you know it is their protocol to misinform anyone who is a threat to NWO. Put search engine for David Icke, they want you to believe that he is suffering from mental illness.

LaRouche was a big thereat to Drug gangsters(Illuminati) so they had to create ADL , Anti-Defamation League and launched a multi-million dollars campaign to label LaRouche and his political associates as anti-Semites. And they even sent him to jail. To create illusion about Mark Phillip was a simple task using mind control few people and misinform all the organization.

They spread so much misinformation about anything to confuse us intentionally so that we get fed up and do not seek for the truths. This is written in their protocol.

They have many people wetting to misinform us too and getting big money! So Please be aware which story you buy.

Even about environment they constantly lying , global warming, ozone , airpollution and etc. I do not believe anything coming from official source then after I always found I was right.

Regards

Yumiko

----- Original Message -----
From: Editor
To: Yumiko
Sent: Friday, December 26, 2003 5:00 PM
Subject: Re: re mark , cathy phillip

Hi Yumiko,

You are jumping to conclusions and having a knee jerk reaction to what I wrote about Mark Phillips without knowing WHY I said what I did. You've read Mark's book and because you read his book, you feel sympathetic towards him and the suffering that Cathy O'Brien and her daughter endured, so when I write that Mark is not exactly the White Knight that he wants the public to think he is, you ASSUME that I'm uninformed about Mark. You ASSUME that I haven't read his book, and therefore you feel compelled to regurgitate back to me things that you've read in his book. You even have the presumption to lecture me about the tactics and goals of disinformation and how I should be careful about which stories I should buy into, etc.

Did it ever occur to you (or to Tracy, the previous indignant fan of Mark Phillips) that your information on this topic is limited?

In your rush to judgment about how uninformed you apparently think I am in these matters, perhaps it did not dawn on you that maybe there's MORE to the story of Mark Phillips beyond the one that he presents to the public.

Mark comes from a CIA background. Specifically, he worked for the CIA for years. You don't seem to fully appreciate what the CIA is, or know enough of their background (Nazis) to realize the implication of working for the CIA. The CIA is a sinister organization brought into existence by evil people for very evil purposes. It is an organization that is under the complete control and domination of the Illuminati, not the people of the United States, or the congress, or the president of the United States. There is NO ONE who becomes an agent for the CIA who is NOT subjected to mind control technologies. All CIA-trained mind control programmers are THEMSELVES subject to mind control programming.

The late author Anthony Sutton (AS) mentions Mark Phillips training as a brainwashing expert in this 1999 interview posted at rense.com (www.rense.com/politics6/SKULL.htm) I don't agree with Sutton's conclusion about Cathy's experiences obviously, but rather to point out Mark's 'training' with the CIA

"AS - The book does not contain one piece of hard physical evidence.. I think Cathy O'Brien BELIEVES

SHE IS TELLING THE TRUTH . . . but remember that Mark Phillips is a skilled neuro-linguistic-programmer. Another point that really concerns me is this...where did this story originate? It originated in Communist Chinese Intelligence and Mark Phillips had a contractual relationship with the ChiComs [Chinese Communists].... ."

Reporter Sherman Skolnick also alerts readers about Mark Phillips in this Feb. 14, 2000 report (http://www.rense.com/politics6/green.htm):

"CBS Network apparently found out we were working on this several part story. Result: recently CBS's "60 Minutes" Program put up a "straw man" to knock down, to divert attention. "60 Minutes" referred to supposedly shocking allegations against former President Bush. They were made by a team made up of Mark Phillips and his apparent girl friend, Cathy O'Brien, in their book with a double-meaning title, "The Trance Formation of America". She claims she was put into a trance and became a "sex slave" by high government officials, including George Herbert Walker Bush.

Several years ago this couple were set to be guests on my public access Cable TV Program cablecast within Chicago. Before coming here, Mark Phillips called me as the producer/moderator of the show, and insisted on the following conditions: [1] all my questions were to be put in writing and submitted to them in advance and [2] I was to make a written, ironclad guarantee that I as the moderator would NOT ask them or her any "negative questions". Having due regard for my integrity and being independent-minded, I refused these outlandish conditions. So, to blunt OUR Bush criminality stories, CBS ran this sex slave story to divert attention. "

What you also DON'T KNOW is that Mark Phillips has been publicly debunking Brice Taylor and Ted Gunderson for over 4 years now and working very hard to convince the public that Brice and Ted are liars, when the TRUTH IS EXACTLY THE OPPOSITE. And you can clearly see from the comments that Tracy makes in her e-mail to me (http://educate-yourself.org/lte/markphilli...ty22dec03.shtml) about Brice Taylor being "very much a fake", to see how good a job that Mark is doing to propagandize and brainwash unsuspecting people into believing that Brice and Ted are fakes (Barbara Hartwell has been doing similar yeoman's work for her CIA programmers- http://educate-yourself.org/tg/hartwellslinger13jun03.shtml).

Yumiko, the big problem with being a dilettante is that ones supply of enthusiasm and ego often outstrips ones supply of knowledge and experience. Before we don the sash and robe of the professor, we ought to first acquire the habit of THOROUGHLY studying the topic we wish to lecture upon. In doing so, we often realize that we are more the student than the teacher. We also learn that a rush to judgment is the essence of naivety. Have you ever heard the expression that "fools rush in"?

IF you read more carefully, it would be obvious to you that I've already read Mark's book. This is what I wrote on Dec. 22, 2003, three days before receiving your chastising e-mail:

"I also believe that Mark is under CIA mind control, but that doesn't mean their book wasn't a tremendous expose and eye opener into the reality of government mind control programs. Prior to the publication of Brice Taylor's book, Thanks for the Memories in 1999, I felt that Mark & Cathy's book was the most revealing MC book on the market."

http://educate-yourself.org/lte/moreonmark...ps22dec03.shtml

(Does that sound like the words of someone who never read Mark's book?)

The issue of Mark's credibility is complicated. I haven't criticized Mark for what he wrote in the book with Cathy O'Brien. You've missed the point completely. Mark Phillips has been publicly debunking Brice Taylor and Ted Gunderson for over 4 years now and Mark Phillips has been telling high profile victims of mind control-like Brice Taylor- that she's DELUSIONAL. He's told this straight to her face- that it's ALL IN HER HEAD. He told her that she's just IMAGINED that her abuse occurred to her.

Huh???

Here we have Mark Phillips, the "ex" CIA mind control programmer, telling Brice Taylor-easily the most explosive name in MK Ultra high level mind control crimes to go public- that she's crazy!

"It never happened" says Sir Mark. And mind you, Mark said this obscenity to Brice Taylor AFTER Brice paid out more than $75,000 (that's FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS in fees plus TWENTY FIVE THOUSAND in travel expenses for 3 people) to cover Mark & Cathy's expenses. Now, if Mark really thought that Brice was DELUSIONAL and just making up stories in her head, wouldn't it have been more appropriate for him to tell her that BEFORE she laid out seventy five grand for their expenses?

But Mark Phillips has not limited this statement to just Brice Taylor. No sir! Sir Mark has been informing EVERY well known name of mind control abuse, who has sought him out, that THEY TOO are DELUSIONAL.

What!

Do such statements sound a bit odd coming from Sir Mark, the apparent champion of mind control damsels in distress? Or is there something wrong with this picture Yumiko?

Writer Ray Bilger thought so and he wrote a long expose in July of 2000 about Mark Phillips titled, The Truth About Mark Phillips. It was posted at DavidIcke.com and rense.com You can read that article in its entirety, along with additional comments from Jon Gentry, Eleanor White, and Kathleen Sullivan, at this link: http://educate-yourself.org/mc/markphillip...ry12jul00.shtml

Here are a few paragraphs from that article:

'Brice lived for a time with Mark and Cathy, supporting all of them, and eventually she was able to publish her book, Thanks For The Memories-The Truth Has Set Me Free, published in 1999, by Brice Taylor Trust, P.O. Box 655, Landrum, South Carolina 29356. Here are some very telling excerpts from her book: [Quoting from pages 268 and 269]

"A breakthrough occurred. Ted Gunderson called to inform me that he had just heard from another woman [Cathy O'Brien] who lived across the nation, who had also sent him her memory work about being used as a sex slave to Ronald Reagan. Although it was a terrifying time for me, it also was an amazing time of discovery for all of us. Mark Phillips, her so-called therapist and deprogrammer, flew across the nation and told me that "Jimmy Carter's people" had called him in an attempt to stop him from meeting with me. I flew Mark and Cathy O'Brien to California to meet with me for the first time and I put on a seminar where they were the featured speakers. Mark Phillips knew all about my programming. Looking back on it now, he seemed to know way too much. He asked me if I had "a twin sister who was two inches shorter than me." This was a very powerful key and code into the programming of my "inner twin sister," Sharon, and this seemingly simple statement controlled my body in a very intimate way from the outside, showing me while in normal consciousness that I was indeed a robot, and not in control of my own body. Shortly after Mark and Cathy's arrival and seminar, a series of events occurred including an accident and ensuing hospitalization of the person that was living with me as my safe person. Mark Phillips explained that I was not safe in California and once again I ended up running. I paid to fly Mark, Cathy and I back to his mother's home in Charlotte, Tennessee where we began my process of what we then called "deprogramming."

Several weeks later, with nearly 10 years of recovery behind me, this so-called "retired?!" C.I.A. operative made dramatic changes in his living arrangements just to "help me deprogram." After relocating across the country to a home in Arab, Alabama, where I paid all domestic expenses for the three of us, a large sum of money for traveling expenses for both he, his girlfriend Cathy, and myself, and a large 'consulting fee,' this renegade C.I.A. operative read my lengthy journal entries daily for a year and a half and agreed that in his own words, "the memory work contains absolute elements of fact laced with verifiable details." But one and one-half years, forty-two journals, and $50,000+ traveling and living expenses later, Mark Phillips informed me that nothing had ever happened to me & nothing what-so-ever!

Cathy O'Brien said, "Well, you should be happy that nothing happened and that your children have not been abused!" I couldn't believe she was saying that, after all the common details of our histories we had shared.

I was devastated and went to bed and could not eat for three days and remained non-communicative and totally subdued for nearly a month afterwards. After all this time of intensely focused attention on my history, Mark informed me that I had never even been abused, and that I just had a big imagination. But, he seemed to appreciate that I was around to cover all of his expenses.

I suspect that Mark is some kind of "containment agent" who is being directed through his "handlers" whose motivations ultimately serve the New World Order. Through his containment expertise, the information I have conveyed to you in this book you are now reading was delayed in reaching you by nearly seven years & I have uncovered a string of lies he told others in an attempt to discredit me. I also reconnected with another Kissinger survivor that Mark Phillips had worked with for a time. Mark Phillips told her the same thing he told me-'THIS NEVER HAPPENED TO YOU!" & I left that home where I had paid all expenses & and went to live in Carbondale, Illinois. " [End quoting]

It is easy to see from the above that Cathy O'Brien indeed has a new handler, Mark Phillips. It would certainly appear that in their one-and-one-half years together, Brice and Cathy had a lot of time to share their common histories. Yet Cathy didn't seem to have any question whatsoever about Mark's sudden change of mind regarding Brice. On the contrary, Cathy seems to believe what Mark says, and then supports that with her own parroting statements. This acts as reinforcement to what Mark has already said. Very clever, and convenient. Mark has certainly trained Cathy well, and, as it appears, Mark himself has been trained well.

Brice Taylor's powerful book is highly recommended reading. It is the book that Trance Formation of America never could be, because of Mark Phillips' agenda. The cover of Mark and Cathy's book says "The True Life Story of a C.I.A. Slave." But that can't be so because even though the book does reveal a great deal of valuable information about mind control, the book doesn't reveal the true identity of who Mark Phillips really is. Since Mark has played such a large part in Cathy's life, and since the book doesn't tell the truth about Mark, by definition the book cannot possibly tell the true life story of Cathy O'Brien, and how she is being used today to help promote the New World Order agenda.'
(End of article quote)

Mark Phillips is not the only instance of an "ex" CIA agent presenting himself to the public as a rescuer and de-programmer of mind control victims. Kurt Billings is another character cast from the same mold who has shown himself to be anything but a rescuer and de-programmer.

As I mentioned near the beginning of this response, you have to be very cautious when considering the statements and actions of "ex" CIA agents. The slope is much more slippery than a simple good guy/ bad guy scenario. Mind control is complicated and extremely sophisticated. Deception can run deep.

Perhaps you ought to postpone your professorship for a while and do more reading before you return to the lecture circuit.

Regards, Ken

PS. By the way, I wrote a brief review at my web site and promoted Horowitz's book, "Death in the Air" when it first came out.

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:28 AM (GMT)

http://www.whale.to/b/brien.html

QUOTE

Quotes re Mark Phillips
I suspect that Mark is some kind of "containment agent" who is being directed through his "handlers" whose motivations ultimately serve the New World Order. Through his containment expertise, the information I have conveyed to you in this book you are now reading was delayed in reaching you by nearly seven years. After I moved, I found out that Mark had initially told Walter Bowart (author of Operation Mind Control and eyewitness to my use with Bob Hope in Palm Springs) that I was schizophrenic, and since then, I have uncovered a string of lies he told others in an attempt to discredit me.

Thanks for the Memories by Brice Taylor p.269

QUOTE

Quotes
One of Cathy O'Brien's abusers was LaVey's High Priest Merle Kilgore, father of Steve Kilgore
12: SCIENCE No. 12-EXTERNAL CONTROLS Deeper Insights into the Illuminati Formula

In 1981, he used Cathy O'Brien to make two HOW TO films for training military officers in the skills needed to program slaves. These two training films were entitled "How to Divide a Personality" and "How to Create a Sex Slave." (See Cathy O'Brien's monograph "Dick Cheney and Reagan's 'Hands-On' Mind Control Demonstrations" written/released 6/92.)
MICHAEL AQUINO, a military/cult mind-control programmer 12: SCIENCE No. 12-EXTERNAL CONTROLS Deeper Insights into the Illuminati Formula

(Trisha made the mistake of giving her private journal to Mark Philips at a Survival Expo Conference in Las Vegas several years ago and has never gotten her journal back. This journal provided details of military and satanic activity in the small California town in which she grew up. I believe Cathy O'brien is a legitimate monarch but I also believe Mark Philips is still "on a leash." The information provided by Philips regarding Project Monarch is yet another example of a "controlled leak" since it will never be taken seriously by the corporate media. Moreover, Philips has emerged as "the savior" to many monarchs who are breaking programming and it is to him that they go to seek guidance and support, never realizing until it is too late that Philips may still be working for the other side. I believe this was the intended result of his "escaping" with Cathy O'brien. Milab Operations Detailed article about military and alien abductions. By James Bartley. (PDF)

Within the context of counterintelligence ops you sometimes have to give up something in order to net a greater return at some future date. The Roswell case is another example of a controlled leak since it will never be taken seriously by the corporate media and academic community. One outcome of the Roswell case is that it established the "bona fides of Kevin Randle within the UFO Research Community. Randle has since emerged, along with his partner Russ Estes, as an arch debunker of alien abductions. Go figure.) Milab Operations Detailed article about military and alien abductions. By James Bartley. (PDF)

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:38 AM (GMT)

Now we all know that not only has O Brien accused Aquino of torturing her and raping her a lot, but she has also accused Jim Trafficant of Ohio of also having sex with her to make sure her base sexual programming was working. Well I found this on the net. Look at what it says about O Brien near the bottom. Makes your head kind of tilt. - AntiSionist

QUOTE

Posted by Karen Jones on February 20, 1999 at 17:41:37:

Overview of the Presidio Case and Investigations in Northern California

In 1984-85 there were reports of sexual-ritual abuse at Jubilation Daycare, operated by Barbara Orr in Fort Bragg, Northern California. This case was investigated by Mendocino County Sheriff deputies. Eventually some 400 pages of reports were submitted, but the DA declined to prosecute, resulting in no criminal charges filed against Orr. Due to the fact there was a history of complaints against the daycare center, some of which were upheld and one cited a child experiencing unusual punishment, Barbara Orr ultimately surrendered her childcare license in 1984.

Many children from this daycare center entered therapy with Pamela Hudson LCSW, who later described her experiences with these traumatized children and her abrupt introduction into ritual abuse in her published overview describing several cases, as well as a chapter in the book, Treating Survivors of Satanist Abuse, edited by Valerie Sinason, 1994. The Presidio case is also briefly described in the Journal of Orthopsychiatry 62(2), April 1992.

In 1987 charges were filed twice against Gary Hambright, one of the Presidio daycare staff. These charges were ultimately dismissed against Hambright due to many factors, including jurisdictional confusion (crimes appeared to take place on and off base, explained in the news article "Army of the Night"), the prosecutor choosing which kids were to testify (many of whom were deemed too young to qualify as witnesses, didn't have clear findings of molestation or who were describing rituals which made the attorney's uncomfortable), and some victim-witnesses being transferred to other Army bases. Some parents to this day don't understand why their kids who were older, who had clear findings of sexual molest and could identify their perpetrators, weren't called to testify. Gary Hambright reportedly died of AIDS a few years later.

At that time, Michael Aquino was a Lt. Col. in the Army Reserves and a purported member of Army military intelligence. He has been and is the leader of his own satanic cult/"church", the Temple of Set, for 20 years which the Army was aware of. He was stationed at the Presidio Army Base in San Francisco and was investigated by the San Francisco police for child molest allegations in 1987. A _Newsweek_ article dated November 16, 1987 entitled, "The Second Beast of Revelation' Claims of Satanism and child molesting", is typical of just one of dozens of news articles describing the case as it made national and international news. Interestingly, Aquino's mother (who is now deceased) was noted to be a Temple of Set high priestess and the owner of a building rented to an organization that helped families find daycare.

As described in appellate documents, SFPD dropped their investigation in August 1988. In September 1988, after meeting with officials involved in the now closed SF investigation, the Criminal Investigation Division (CID) of the Army began investigating Aquino in multiple jurisdictions, including Mendocino and Sonoma Counties in Northern California. Their investigation also included alleged victims from the Jubilation Day Care Center/Fort Bragg (Orr Case) and elsewhere.

The CID taped their interviews with the children and some of them identified Aquino from a video lineup of men dressed exactly like him. Some of these children who had described ritual molest, murder and cannibalism on videotape had testified against Charlotte Thrailkill and Daryl Ball during an 18-month preliminary hearing which ended approximately Sept. 1988 - (Case #14750-C Santa Rosa)The children said on CID videotapes that the people who hurt them were part of a "devil worship club." The parents held a news conference describing these allegations. The psychological trauma these children experienced was described in an article summarizing the results of the plea-bargain and sentencing of Ball/Thrailkill.

Michael Aquino notes these are the allegations as I've framed them to be but he states there was no merit to them and the Army didn't believe them either. However, this portrayal of the Army's position is in stark contrast to their actual stated position as described in a transcript of the hearing on the motion to dismiss dated May 31, 1991. It is also a mystery as to why there is only one child listed in the alleged victim block of the report but the word "children" is used frequently throughout the documentation. The details of the Army Argument also gives more information about the case as well as the Army Exhibit list which includes the ordering information for these documents at the end of the page.

Aquino sued the Army in part because they refused to remove his name from the titling block or amend their report stating he was the subject of an investigation for sexual abuse and related crimes. The court document notes that several members of the Army thought there was probable cause to "Title" Aquino with offenses of indecent acts with a child, sodomy, conspiracy, kidnapping, and false swearing. Aquino tried to charge a Captain, the father who reported his child's alleged abuse and whose child's name appears in the victim block of the report, with "conduct unbecoming an officer." Due to that, Aquino was titled for false swearing, in addition to "indecent acts with a child, sodomy, conspiracy, and kidnapping." He also filed complaints against the SFPD, therapists involved in the case, journalists and CID investigating officers.

The Titling [which standard is probable cause to believe offenses have been committed] remained and the Report of Investigation was issued 3 month after the criminal statute of limitations ran, according to the appellate document dated Feb. 26, 1992 that upheld the lower court's ruling. The document also notes that the investigation "resulted from relevant considerations and was not tainted by consideration of officer's satanist religious beliefs and pressure from United States Senator." Aquino's damage claim and exhibit list also describes, in part, his loss of retirement benefits and the evidence of his separation from active duty.

There were never any criminal charges filed against Michael Aquino. Some of the details of the Army-Aquino case would not have been made public except for the fact that Aquino's lawsuit against the Army placed these documents within the public domain, as well as the two published reports and internal documentation. But the military will not release the Report of Investigation or any of the other items shown on the exhibit list due to the Privacy Act. Aquino disputes much of what's stated in the documents but refuses to provide any information to the contrary.

The Army bestowed a multi-million dollar settlement on the alleged child victims at the Presidio.

As follow-up to what various parties have done since the Presidio investigation:

-Col. Rafferty, who was the Commander of the Presidio Army Base, became CEO of the Neptune Society that offers cremation services.

-Linda Blood, an ex-member of the Temple of Set, wrote a book about this case called _The New Satanists_ 1994. She and Time-Warner publishers were sued by Michael Aquino in 1994 (Case# C943779 SC) and the court case was dismissed with prejudice in Feb. 10, 1995 after a settlement agreement was reached between them that Linda Blood's lawyer states was made to save on court costs.

- In June 1994, a woman named Lillian Rosoff claimed she was a cult member of Aquino's organization and she filed a restraining order against him because he reportedly harassed her when she wanted to leave. In Sept. 94, he reached a confidential settlement agreement with her and claimed she was never a member of his group.

- In the early 1990's a young man named Paul Bonacci came forward with allegations about Michael Aquino and violent cult mind control abuse.

- In 1995, Cathy O'Brien and Mark Phillips wrote a book called _Trance Formation of America_, alleging child abuse and mind control at the hands of Michael Aquino. Mr. Aquino doesn't seem to mind the allegations in this particular book and has made no effort to stop its publication or distribution, which has prompted me to ask him on several occasions whether he also co-wrote it as a misinformation ploy.

- Throughout the years 1997 to the present, Michael Aquino has been filing frivolous, harassing lawsuits against parties who are involved in the publishing of this information (Electriciti Internet Company - dismissed twice) or alleging he would sue them for "defamation" (Tripod Web pages 1/28/99), and has done his best to censor anyone who posts this, claiming they are guilty of internet "criminal stalking."

-In Sept. 98, Charlotte Thrailkill was named the first violent female sexual predator in the State of California and she was sent back to a mental hospital after violating her parole.

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:47 AM (GMT)

Then of course there are those who argue the other way and say that Brice Taylor is a fraud. Of course we know that Barbara Hartwell herself is a fraud and if I recall correctly, Barbara, Brice and Ted have all done work together in the past. Yep. Here they are.

Mind Control Goes Public 1 of 5
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ec6lm4toI28

Now I don't want to get into the whole Gunderson thing again because that brings up CIA-NSA agent boy and puppet of RED DOG Stew Webb again who once burgled Gunderson's house, stole a lot of property, bragged about it to Pam Schuffert, and also accused Gunderson of marrying Anton Levy's ex wife and selling stinger missles to Bin Laden. Point being, Webb isn't that great, but Ted has some oddities about him as well.

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:50 AM (GMT)

I will say this about Brice and Cathy. Lots of overlap between them. They seem to have gone through a lot of the same stuff. So I think by and large, they have some real things to talk about.

http://www.educate-yourself.org/mc/nwomcbturireview.shtml

QUOTE

Mind Control: The Ultimate Terror
Thanks for the Memories: The Memoirs of Bob Hope's and Henry Kissinger's Mind-Controlled Sex Slave
(*This book is available directly from Brice Taylor. See bottom of page)

Table of Contents (http://educate-yourself.org/mc/thankstableofcontents.shtml)

by Brice Taylor

reviewed by Uri Dowbenko

Brice Taylor is a valiant survivor of trauma-based mind control. Having endured a lifetime of high-tech slavery, she's written an extraordinary book, an autobiography which documents in stunning detail her abuse at the hands of celebrity perps like Bob Hope, Henry Kissinger, and many others.

"What most of you have not been allowed to know is that years ago, at the outset of the Cold War, permission was given to a hidden group of so-called 'professionals and leaders' to experiment on the unsuspecting American populace in an effort to further a variety of advanced technology," writes Taylor in Thanks for the Memories.

"The technology gleaned by the American leaders, medical professionals and scientists was and still is in the form of bio-electromagnetic frequency medicine, genetic engineering, mind control, brain research, near-death experimentation, paranormal/psychic experimentation, remote viewing, time and space travel and other advanced research that make our everyday human understanding look antiquated."

Brice Taylor has suffered from man-made artificially-induced Multiple Personality Disorder, also called Dissociative Identity Disorder. This trauma-based conditioning technique can produce many discrete "personalities" inside a single person. These personalities'can then be programmed like a computer to perform specific tasks, as either sex slave-prostitutes, couriers, or 'mind-files," accessible only to the person who knows the special "codes" that will access the 'program."

Many years of therapy, healing and reconstruction of her own life's memories -- obscured by ritual abuse and mind control programming -- have allowed Brice Taylor to tell her horrific life story.

"What you read [in this book] is a glimpse into the events as experienced through the eyes of the programmed personalities who endured this abuse," she writes in the introduction. "Much of the followng information has been copied, often verbatim, from my private journals. Over the years, daily, I painstakingly documented my memories, in an attempt to deal with and sort out the often vivid, though confusing, memory flashbacks I had. What I remembered was so far from the reality I thought I had lived, that it was deeply disturbing."

And how did she write the book? Her memoirs are a 'composite of years of memory work describing the details and information as [she] worked to untangle the knot. " Having been programmed to have a perfect photographic memory greatly aided me toward this enhanced, often meticulously detailed account," she continues.

"The training my controllers gave me backfired on them," writes Taylor. "Once my secret life began leaking into my conscious mind, I experienced so many intrusive flashbacks not only in my mind but also in my body, that it forced me to recall these experiences in extensive detail to the point that it disrupted my everyday functioning... so much so that I was forced to leave my master's degree program in graduate school and enroll in daily therapy."

"In an attempt to understand and contain all the information that came flooding back into my mind, I was compelled for years to write out each and every memory the way I saw it in my mind's eye, and heard, smelled and felt it in my body, so I could attempt to maintain some semblance of my own personal reality."

"This information chronicled in my journals over the last 14 years, beginning in 1985, create a way for me to report to you what happened to me."

High Tech Slavery

Taylor's book is the story of the creation of a human robot, a story that is so mind- boggling and outrageous that it's almost too horrific for words.

As a little girl, Brice Taylor (a pseudonym) was subjected to ongoing traumas including multiple and continual rapes by her father, who also used her for child prostitution and child pornography.

"For years my father performed a variety of brutal ritual type physical and psychological abuses," she writes, "among them confinement in closets, cages and coffins, while I was being told I was left to die; near drowning; isolation; needles inserted in sensitive body areas, food and sleep deprivation; electroshock via electric wires, welding equipment and cattle prods; drugging; sophisticated hypnotic and electronic programming..."

She was also forced to participate in torturous rituals and orgies. Then she was "sold" in a slave auction.

"Elitists in the market for mind control slaves attend auctions that appear at first like children's fashion shows and then progress to striptease acts, "she writes. 'I made appearances at many shows before I was actually 'sponsored' or sold."

Her "owner"? World famous celebrity perp Bob Hope himself, according to Taylor.

She later discovered that her other "sponsor" whom she learned to call "Uncle Charlie" was Charles L. Horn, owner of the Federal Cartridge Company, which later funded Olin Foundation, where he sat as President.

Charlie physically introduced her to Henry Kissinger who continued her mind control programming in preparation for her later use as his "mind file," programmed with a photographic memory to act as a human personal computer with classified and other government files accessible to Kissinger only.

Taylor endured more intensive programming based on Wizard of Oz, Disneyland, and "The Parent Trap" twin-sister themes, as well as NASA-based advanced mind control techniques.

Besides being prostituted to the power elite, she was also taught to perform for them. She even recited a "mind control" standup comedy routine for these high- level perverts, her jokes written by Bob Hope himself.

This "personality" was called Sharon and this was her repertoire. Imagine a kid delivering this monologue for the amusement of an audience of celebrity perps:

"I told my owners it's enough that you clowns expect me to work for free. You know that it was bad enough that they broke the child labor laws, and I told them that when I learned about it in school, they just laughed. But on top of that was slave labor and I recited the constitutional amendment that was causing a problem in my internal mind file legal system. I told Henry it kept getting thrown out and I pretended that it was repeatedly escaping and leaping out of my right ear. He thought I was funny and told me to refile it anyway. Then I was sent off for more reconditioning. I never thought they would stop with that stuff, and I was right. Zap. Zap. Zap."

The "zaps" are electric shocks [stun guns] to "remind" her and "recondition' her programs. Once you read the book, you'll never think of Bob Hope the same way again.

Life as a Mind Controlled Sex Slave

From an early age, Brice Taylor was prostituted as a mind controlled sex slave to Presidents John F. Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford and then Governor Ronald Reagan. She was called "a million dollar baby."

"I overheard conversations where the President of the United States and other top politicians were offered the services of 'escorts,' the CIA!s latest human robot trechnology -- programmed sex and espionage slaves," she writes.

"They were encouraged to use these escorts to satify their sexual and emotional needs, instead of exposing themselves to outside individuals... As I later learned, Project Monarch Beta-trained sex slaves were called 'million dollar babies' referring to the large amount of money each slave would bring in from a very early age. In the 60s, the use of a Project Monarch presidential model sex slave cost around $1200 for an evening. Henry called me his "million dollar machine.'"

Kissinger also used her as a human personal computer, accessing her mind files at meetings of the Energy Commision, NATO, Council on Foreign Relations, Trilateral Commision and House Appropriations on Foreign Trade.

Global Power Games of the Illuminati

Taylor also writes extensively about an Illuminati-like "Council" which directs policies and stages global events from behind the scenes. "Henry was the top dog as far as the Council was concerned," she writes. 'He had the mind they needed that could so carefully strategize plans so far in advance and so he usually got the desired results. In the Council's eyes, Rockefeller was more dispensable because he had the money and power but didn't have the mastermind that they saw in Henry."

"Behind the scenes, Henry controlled decisions and actions taken by the State Department in matters of foreign relations always attempting to bring about a situation where the Council was in total control globally. They saw it as a game, a lifelong plan, with the outcome hopefully being that finally this generation of the global elite would succeed in the game that their forefathers had not been able to pull off. It created ambition and drive among them."

The Victimization of Her Daughter Kelly

In a chapter of the book called "Baby Monarchs Are Born," Taylor writes while Reagan was President, the Vice President was a pedophile, describing the traumatization of her daughter Kelly at the hands of George Bush.

"Over the years, Kelly was closely tied into the trauma I received," she writes. "Repeatedly she was tortured and traumatized in front of me in an effort to keep me in line. Her torture fragmented her psyche in order to create multiple personalities within her, so she could follow in my footsteps for later use as a 'presidential model.' Unfortunately she didn't have to wait very long for that so-called 'privilege' as our newly elected vice president at the time, George Bush, was/ is a pedophile and Kelly was created to be, as I later found out from a renegade CIA operative, what was called a 'Bush Baby.'"

Corroboration of this heinous crime against children can also be found in a book by Cathy O'Brien (TranceFormation in America). O'Brien coincidentally or not also has a daughter named Kelly. It's been claimed by government sources that little girl 'Bush Babies' are named 'Kelly" so the pedophile won't have to remember the name of the little girl he's brutalizing wherever he may be.

Also coincidentally or not, Brice Taylor recounts a story of being hunted by George Bush on Bob Hope's Jordan Ranch in "The Most Dangeous Game." This deranged "sport" is also described by O'Brien in her book.

The depravity of the power elite criminals is consistent if nothing else.

Healing, Forgiveness and Mercy

Despite the outrageous events described in her book, there is an overwhelming sense of spiritual warfare on Planet Earth, an invisible war for the lives, the free will and the souls of mankind. Mind control is one of their ultimate weapons. "I also learned that freedom is not free," writes Brice Taylor, "and we must now stand in the battle, not through violence and war, but through knowledge, truth and love, claiming our true spiritual power and willing to stand, so our voices can be heard."

In a chapter of her book called "What the World Needs Now," Brice Taylor writes that "healing spiritually, through a life such as mine, has been my ultimate challenge, and God has continued to keep my focus on this healing aspect, despite worldly opinion, which would lead me to seek in other directions."

Brice Taylor shares many powerful spiritual experiences. While she was attending a religion class at Pepperdine University in Malibu, she was prompted to find out what "Beatitudes" meant. When she went to the Malibu Presbyterian Church to speak to the minister, 'the minister ushered me into his office and after I had confessed that I had been severely abused as a child, had Multiple Personality Disorder, had been forced to participate in satanic rituals where infants, children and animals were killed -- and as I went on and on -- he looked at me in horror and said, 'Get down on your knees, and ask God to forgive you of your transgressions. You are a sinner.'"

"The momemt my knees hit the floor, Jesus appeared to me and said, 'Get up off your knees and leave. You, my child, are innocent. You have done nothing wrong.'

Taking the authority of the Lord over this human who stood ministering in his name, I did as commanded and left. I couldn't understand yet what Jesus was trying to help me understand. It took time for him to reassure me that those acts, committed in a programmed state, acting from other persons' commands and not from my own free will, were not my sin."

'In the days that followed, the Lord showed me that he wanted me to stand in the name of Mercy for others who had been similarly tortured and abused." Ending her book in a prayer for her controllers and perpetrators, she writes that "we are called to love and forgiveness."

"One awareness that weaves through my entire life under mind control is that the love that shown through from people's spirits even while under mind control was never wasted, nor was it ever lost; indeed it seemed to be catalogued within me on some higher plane that never goes away."

Thanks for the Memories -- this book of horrific crimes and coverups indeed ends on a hopeful and uplifting note. "The Holy Spirit that guides me has shown me that the outpouring of generosity in whatever form can alleviate much of the suffering and help to avert even much of the earth's calamities and chaos, for the outpouring of love for fellow humanity heals the mass consciousness of the planet," she writes.

"As we unite around the world in prayer and action, we create a powerful vibration of love, a frequency that unlocks and heals the hearts of those who have yet to learn the awesome power of Christ love. We stand at the crossroads to a very important time of choice, action and giving. Instead of a One World Government, we can create a One World Healing."

The media has scrupulously avoided this controversial and provocative issue, even though mind control atrocities directed against innocent children are the world's most terrible secret. Read Thanks for the Memories and decide for yourself. Knowledge is power, and the perpetrators of these crimes against humanity are exposed -- as mind control victims continue to tell their stories. Bob Hope's autobiography, by the way, is also called Thanks For the Memories, the name of his musical keynote. Imagine the confusion at bookstores when people try to order his book -- and they get Brice Taylor's memoirs instead.

Copyright 1999 Uri Dowbenko.

AntiSionist - January 18, 2010 10:55 AM (GMT)

Someone doesn't believe Brice Taylor and they consider her a victim used by the CIA to discredit THE FRANKLIN COVERUP. You decide on the truth, here. Personally I think both Brice and Cathy are legit in over ninety percent of what they say. Both are really good at showing us how the sports and entertainment industries work. I guess the real issue here as one youtuber brought up is Mark Phillips himself. - AntiSionist http://www.jesus-is-savior.com/Disturbing%.../cia_slaves.htm

QUOTE

"I Was A Sex Slave For The CIA!"

Truth or Misinformation?

by Robert Sterling Published November 22, 1999 in Whoa!

As the late, great, closeted pothead Carl Sagan once said, "Extraordinary claims require extraordinary proof." Few would disagree that claiming the CIA is involved in Satanic pedophilia qualifies.

Extraordinary indeed, but evidence does exist. Conspiracy investigators (most notably superstar writer Alex Constantine) have presented strong evidence of CIA-DOD links to various nefarious activities, ranging from a pedophilia scandal at the Presidio to a cover-up in Franklin, Nebraska (which also involved high-ranking GOP operatives and a crooked savings and loan). Dead bodies litter the trail, possibly including those of actor River Phoenix and JonBenet Ramsey. But while bizarre claims against government agents shouldn't be dismissed out of hand, we would be well-advised not to go to the other extreme and accept every tale of torment as gospel truth.

One of the most spectacular tales of CIA nastiness comes from Brice Taylor, self-proclaimed CIA mind-control victim. What Taylor lacks in proof, she makes up for in sensationalism. According to Taylor, she was a victim of Project Monarch (allegedly part of MK-ULTRA, a notorious CIA mind control program) from early childhood, and was used as a CIA love-tool by the likes of Henry Kissinger. One of her alleged greatest tormentors was none other than Bob Hope, which explains the title of her autobiography, Thanks for the Memories. All of this is (of course) part of a Satanic-Illuminati-NWO plot to control the planet.

Incredibly, while all this abuse was occurring, Taylor was completely unaware of it on a conscious level. It was only in 1985 that she started "remembering," when a car accident caused a serious head trauma and supposedly helped her recover these lost memories. According to Taylor, "It allowed me to access both sides of my brain for the first time in my life, and I began having memories — very frequent memories — of all sorts of abuse."

Ms. Taylor is not alone in writing these sorts of elaborate tales. The most famous (or infamous) CIA sex slave is Cathy O'Brien. In her self-published Trance Formation Of America, she claimed she'd been a CIA "presidential model," raped by commanders in chief from Gerald Ford to Bill Clinton — proving Satanic perversion is a bipartisan affair. Her juiciest story is of getting banged by George Bush while he was strung out on heroin; later, he turned into a lizard alien before her eyes. This is actually more plausible than her claim that Ronald Reagan described to her in detail the CIA-Contra-cocaine connection, a feat way beyond The Gipper's intellectual capacity.

For those keeping score, O'Brien has no Jimmy Carter gossip, who apparently was out of the Satanic sex loop...

Perhaps there is a deeper conspiracy involved here, an attempt to discredit legitimate research into CIA dirty deeds. The most effective form of disinformation is that which blurs the truth with fiction so effectively that they become impossible to differentiate. At the time Cathy O'Brien hit the lecture circuit, some powerful research was starting to circulate in alternative circles involving Satanic pedophilia operations. The end result of O'Brien and Taylor's public ravings has been to trivialize this research by association. The CIA itself could be behind the plot: Both Cathy and Brice had the "help" of self-described "renegade CIA operatives" in the recovery of their memories. It's quite possible those operatives weren't renegades. Their help might have involved implanting bogus tales.

Such a plot is straight out of Machiavelli. Whether the CIA is behind it or not, their mind-control fraternity is the major beneficiary of these lurid tales, and no doubt their members are chuckling over them right now.

The most effective form of disinformation is that which blurs the truth with fiction so effectively that they become impossible to differentiate.

It is obvious that the whole account of Susan Ford (Brice Taylor) is a scam to discredit legitimate solid evidence against the CIA and high ranking government officials involved in Satanic ritual abuse and pedophilia, such as in The Franklin Cover-Ups.

14april2000 - January 18, 2010 11:24 AM (GMT)

Thanks AntiSionist...

I do still believe there works to be absolutely true...

14april2000 - November 24, 2010 12:44 AM (GMT)

Dos Brice Taylor have a deprograming formula i can use, because i know Fritz Spingmeier have one, which one is the best if she also have one?

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: JOE BLOWMAN: JESUIT-SCHOOLED, CRYPTO-CATHOLIC

Title: JOE BLOWMAN: JESUIT-SCHOOLED, CRYPTO-CATHOLIC

soulinspiration - December 21, 2008 11:53 PM (GMT)

JOE BLOWMAN: JESUIT-SCHOOLED, QUASI-MUSLIM, CRYPTO-ROMAN CATHOLIC, JESUIT TEMPORAL COADJUTOR:

QUOTE

Date: Sat, 20 Dec 2008 05:14:14 -0800
From: tkra
To: troy space
Subject: JOE BLOW Re: TREVOR

Hello Troy:

"Joe Blow" started attacking me a few months ago for posting Phelps and Szymanski shows on Conspiracy Central. He prided himself on "destroying" people and kept talking about Phil and Leo, etc.

He did research on me and found my small radio show. He liked my show and could not understand why I was supporting Phelps and Szymanski. He posted a few of my shows (Parity Talk) until the Szymanski Tony Alamo controversy led him to say that I was supporting Tony, and thus I could not be trusted.

Shortly thereafter Joe Blow contacted me by Skype and we had a few discussions. He wanted me to leave Canada and avoid the "Holocaust" here. I chatted with him for some time trying to figure out why the Anti-Zionist guys are so hostile.

It appears that he is living in Sweden. He appears to be an angry and reckless fellow in his mid 30s. He is quite intelligent, a bit crude, and interesting. We disagree about the "Black Poper" issue as he calls it. He insists that the Jews are to blame for taking over the Vatican via communism, etc. We both agreed that we thought Freemasonry was a horrible sort of operation.

Joe is in my Skype contact list, but so is Phil and Leo. At the current time I don't know what to think about anything. We are headed into a depression or worse, and I can't seem to figure out what to do.

Joe has an obsession with defeating the "Black Popers" and he seemed to think that whatever controversy you were starting with Tim White was ripping the unhived mind board apart better than anything he could do if he tried. That's what he said.

I suppose I am on a "friendly" basis with this guy for now, but that probably won't last. I thought he might be trying to demolish me and record conversations, etc., but I'm hardly a "player" in anything at this point.

I think Joe is convinced that it is his job to fight the "Black Popers" who are working for the Zionists. He says he went to a Jesuit High School but is NOT a Catholic possibly a Muslim. He seems to think that the Catholics are the good guys and he talks fondly about his Jesuit teachers.

I hope this helps.

I'm not trying to take sides right now.

[IRRELEVANT MATERIAL REMOVED]

Trevor John Kokotylo-Amundson
Vancouver.

Remember that the Vatican created Islam as revealed by Jesuit whistleblower Alberto Rivera:

http://www.scribd.com/doc/6017945/The-Prophet

And whether you think that Leo Zagami has an agenda other than what he has presented, the following information on how Islam, the Vatican & the Jesuits interlink is well worth considering:

ZAGAMI ON THE INTERWEAVINGS OF ISLAM WITH FREEMASONRY, THE VATICAN & THE JESUITS

http://leozagami.wordpress.com/2008/08/22/...an-the-jesuits/

And in conclusion as I wrote back to Trevor in my last email response:

> QUOTE
>
> These time wasting, cretinous idiots are probably blackmailed assets, rather than full agents per se.
>
> Barry Chamish has already alleged what White may be blackmailed over. Maybe it's the same with Blow-Man.
>
> I've got nothing to add really. Anything that I have to say I post to my email lists, on forums & at my blogs.
>
> As I feel that you may be covering for White & Blow-Man & may well be in a similar position as them then I cannot add you to my email list & maintain peace of mind. I'm not saying that you are an intell asset, but I have too many doubts already.
>
> If I'm wrong about that then I'm sure that we can both live with that.

Wolveshater - December 22, 2008 01:15 AM (GMT)

Joe Blowed all his brain cells gets another plug for fifteen minutes of fame...

soulinspiration - December 22, 2008 02:46 AM (GMT)

Interesting to have confirmed the Jesuit connection that we suspected.

semperbry76 - December 22, 2008 05:21 AM (GMT)

what a surprise, come on if you spend any time at researching true history you will see the jesuits rule the roost. These people are worthless time wasters for real truthers and nothing more. Can you say COADJUTOR!!!

Alex - December 22, 2008 05:27 AM (GMT)

So I was correct Joeblowman is a Coadjutor when I first exposed Ognir

craig-oxley - December 22, 2008 07:13 AM (GMT)

JoeBlow winds up Leo Zagami

Never show your feelings to a deadbeat like Joe http://uk.youtube.com/watch?v=LO1QDKIpz4k

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/LO1QDKIpz4k&hl=en&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/LO1QDKIpz4k&hl=en&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

soulinspiration - January 17, 2009 11:00 PM (GMT)

http://youtube.com/watch?v=Z8v9ue1Uzck

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/Z8v9ue1Uzck&hl=en&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/Z8v9ue1Uzck&hl=en&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Why does this guy call himself "Joe Blow-Man"? Does he Blow Men? No wonder he's got such a foul mouth! ;D

This guy is a Complete Queen. If someone is needed to do "voice-overs" (throat-openers more like) in Gay Porn action films, then I'm sure that he gladly obliges. When he's not busy being a "Stunt Double" that is!

No surprise that he lists "gossip" in among the "topics" or "features" of his "show".

Joe Blowman's "radio-show". Tragicomedy more like.

Why try to discredit the guy when he does such a great job himself?

You have to wonder if he's been "hanging out" with the likes of these guys:

http://news.uk.msn.com/uk/article.aspx?cp-...mentid=12860415

soulinspiration - January 17, 2009 11:10 PM (GMT)

Or these guys!:

http://slog.thestranger.com/slog/archives/..._the_jesuits_cu

Considering Comment #34 below the article made me wonder if there was a similar story behind the murder of the head Russian Jesuit & his fellow Jesuit a month or so back.

As for JBM, maybe he just Loves Swedish Meat-Balls!

Alex - January 17, 2009 11:19 PM (GMT)

Let's see how Andrew and Joeblow react once they are exposed so fully,I smell the CIA behind Andrew as well and also he may have received training as well from them before as well

soulinspiration - January 17, 2009 11:59 PM (GMT)

I don't support Alan Watt myself. This is a classic case of agents "outing" agents.

A bunch of time-wasting crap!

I also think that it's likely that Watt did say "Andre" in his Scottish brogue, not "Andrew", but I haven't listened to the recording.

Alex - January 18, 2009 12:38 AM (GMT)

Actually if we bring Andrew (Mod of outlaw journalism)->Ognir (the info underground)->Michael Tsarion and Alan Watt down,no doubt it will do good for us

soulinspiration - January 18, 2009 03:58 AM (GMT)

It will be a waste of energy that is better spent on researching the Jesuits, their history & control structure & exposing it all. They will have a number of replacements ready to ship out any time they want.

In fact it was a waste of my time & diversion of focus even posting the above.

All this "he said, she said" stuff is a massive distraction, that it is a mistake to get entangled with.

We can refute their lies & attacks about & on those who expose the power of Rome & refute their lies about that truth, but even then it is wise to limit this, as when we are completely exhausted from bickering with diversion agents, they will have more in the wings.

My advice to myself & others is to stay focused on this: To sharpen our minds, increase our knowledge & let others exhaust THEM-selves.

Please feel free to remind me of this, if I slip into personality attacks on these agents of deception again.

Focusing on "bringing down" low-level blackmailed & mind-controlled agents is playing into the hands of the Jesuits.

It's like arguing with someone who's gone in the head. That's why the State likes to have "care in the community", i.e. psychotics run loose - they contribute to wearing everyone else down & out. The increasing number of psychotics now, due to the chemical (food, fluoride & chemtrails) & other poisoning (TV, film, Jesuits' crypto-Masonic Rap music, stress, spiritual-collapse, etc...), means that most people are pitiful examples of the forebears of even just a couple of decades ago.

That's what makes me mad about Joe Blow Man & Ognir. I actually feel very, very sorry for their being stuck within those abused toilet-bowl minds. Blow Man is symptomatic of all that the malevolent New World Order controllers wish for young people to be. Inarticulate, foul-mouthed, stupid & like a disease-ridden pig rolling in mud. Do you think that he talks to his Mum (that will be "Mom" to him) like that?

Nope. Far better to stay focused on our our intelligent enemies.

soulinspiration - January 18, 2009 05:30 AM (GMT)

Also: I have learned much from Tsarion & Watt. As Brother Eric Jon Phelps likes to say: "Eat the meat & spit out the bones. I posted Tsarion's book list on Jesuit/Vatican expose reading material to Eric & on more than one occasion he has nodded his head to this great service that Tsarion has done for his own audience. This does not mean that we should give him or Watt a free pass & ignore all of the aspects that we consider either ploys or mere fallacies, but there is no denying that both men are thought-provoking & I personally have benefited enormously from considering much of their assertions. This also does not mean that I agree with them on all things - far from it.

That's why I have posted critiques & questions on them at my internet research resource. If Red Ice do a new interview with Tsarion, I always download it, listen to it & study it. I have read Blavatsky's writings on the Jesuits. This is mostly superb work. In no way do I support her pro-Luciferian doctrine though. Though some may mix deception in with astute insight & thought-process kickstarting concepts, this does not mean that we should swallow their "magic elixir" neat. Nor should we chuck out the baby with the bathwater.

I'm not going to sing any more of Watt or Tsarion's praises here though, because I ultimately trust neither of them & have unbridgeable gaps in outlook & faith. Tsarion was very dishonest in his dealing with Craig, but I'm not going to join in on a war on the guy. Why? Because ultimately this is all a distraction from focusing on the so-called Society of Jesus & their agents within advanced-degree Freemasonry (especially the Scottish Rite) & certain knighthood orders.

Focus is half the battle.

Timing & skillfull execution is the other.

craig-oxley - January 18, 2009 06:15 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (soulinspiration @ Jan 17 2009, 11:00 PM)

http://youtube.com/watch?v=Z8v9ue1Uzck

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/Z8v9ue1Uzck&hl=en&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/Z8v9ue1Uzck&hl=en&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Why does this guy call himself "Joe Blow-Man"? Does he Blow Men? No wonder he's got such a foul mouth! ;D

This guy is a Complete Queen. If someone is needed to do "voice-overs" (throat-openers more like) in Gay Porn action films, then I'm sure that he gladly obliges. When he's not busy being a "Stunt Double" that is!

No surprise that he lists "gossip" in among the "topics" or "features" of his "show".

Joe Blowman's "radio-show". Tragicomedy more like.

Why try to discredit the guy when he does such a great job himself?

You have to wonder if he's been "hanging out" with the likes of these guys:

http://news.uk.msn.com/uk/article.aspx?cp-...mentid=12860415

I did enjoy parts of this haha.

craig-oxley - May 19, 2009 02:07 AM (GMT)

This Corbett Show host really sounds similar to this Joeblow without the silly prank antics doesn't he?

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="349"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/hjjaGPMrK90&border=1&color1=0x2b405b&color2=0x6b8ab6&hl=en&feature=player_embedded&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/hjjaGPMrK90&border=1&color1=0x2b405b&color2=0x6b8ab6&hl=en&feature=player_embedded&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="349"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Alex - August 20, 2009 06:42 AM (GMT)

EXPOSED AGAIN

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MulJzyHQ8JY

Notice how he is attacking Eric Jon Phelps as well

map - August 20, 2009 06:54 AM (GMT)

this guy is a joke... nuff said, no more effort should go into even bringing him up anymore.

craig-oxley - August 20, 2009 10:55 AM (GMT)

First off just because some people get to be close to Adolfo Nicholas doesn't mean he isn't of immense power. The Jesuits have enjoyed great veiling for many years and enjoyed the peoples ignorance. Now you saw his shock when he realise people were onto him and his face dropped around that lady. You then saw an angry type reaction off him the second time with the man who confronted him. My God black Popes have assassinated so many Popes, Presidents, Monarchs etc its incredible and he had to put up with and take that from a normal man off the street? But thats how the Catholic hieracy veil themselves as the sweet religious frocked men who can do no harm. Everyone has forgotten the bloody history of the Church and many aren't even aware of the Jesuit Order which Himmler modelled the Nazi SS off and Hitler admired so much. If the Jesuits aren't of any power then why would these two be so in awe of the Order of Orders?

Now Adolfo Nicholas is the not the most powerful man in the World. I've been highlighting this now for some time. He is an elite commoner blood guided by the Ptolemaic Papal grey bloodlines. The shadow hieracy of the Jesuit Order, the Zoroastrianist elite guarded and shielded by their Jesuit soldiers and Mafiosi protection. Pepe Orsini and Henry Breakspear are the power players the true hidden power. Adolfo Nicholas was right in that video about how the black popes of old were supposedly powerful. They were ultra powerful back then because these very Ptolemaic bloodlines would infact sit in those positions of power and rule. Now the Ptolemaics no longer make themselves as visible by sitting in those roles. One of the reasons for this apart from the obvious is the fact that everything is more open in todays World. In days of old many would never be aware of the Jesuits as such. So now most organisations are visibile these people really need to be in the shadows and this is what their doing. So now they make elite commoners the Pope and black Pope. A very powerful indeed elite commoner but never the less of no Ptolemaic bloodline. Although he's on a level to deal direct with these bloodlines unlike most others at this ultra high level of the conspiracy. My God if the Al-Deberans the Aldobrandini's are the Nephilim as they claim well how can commoner blood Adolfo Nicholas compete with that? Impossible they would be the Gods and him a pion of pions accepted to be able to deal with them on a certain level and nothing more.

Forget the little Hofjuden Sabbatean Frankists like Rothschild's. I've proven time and time again their of almost zero true power. The bloodlines of Orsini, Somaglia, Breakspear, Aldobrandini & Farnese dominate this planet. Then you have the likes of the Pallavicini which annilate the Rothschild family. The Pallavicini stemming from the ultra powerful Colonna bloodline of the Ghibellines. You won't see any of these or the black pope, white pope or even the Queen of England in a BBC and CNBC studio like Evelyn Rothschild haha. That would be well below this real elite. Use your heads!

craig-oxley - August 20, 2009 11:44 AM (GMT)

Oh yeah he means the rabbis who bow down to the Temporal Power of the Ponifex Maximus haha.

Alex - September 7, 2009 04:33 AM (GMT)

http://antiblow.wordpress.com/

HAHA

craig-oxley - January 12, 2010 03:49 PM (GMT)

THE CASANOVA FAMILY ATTACK OF 12 JAN 2010

CAME FROM OAKVILLE/CANADA @ IP

67.68.48.17

PATHETIC EXAMPLE OF A TIME WASTER!

Alex - July 17, 2010 01:00 PM (GMT)

MORE INSECURE JEW BAITING

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EEVQC-2pJ9g

SUPRISE SUPRISE JOEBLOW SHOWS HIS FACE

retroboy87 - July 17, 2010 11:45 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Alex @ Jul 17 2010, 06:00 AM)
>
> MORE INSECURE JEW BAITING
>
> http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EEVQC-2pJ9g
>
> SUPRISE SUPRISE JOEBLOW SHOWS HIS FACE

Wow his voice sure sounds different.

Are you sure the guy in the beginning is him?

14april2000 - July 22, 2010 12:04 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE
>
> joe blow's Profile on the David Icke Forum
>
> Signature
>
>  TEMPORALCOADJUTOR - Gossip, Opinions, History, News
>  TEMPORALCOADJUTOR TEMPORALCOADJUTOR
>  To come on the show, meet us at our Bittorrent tracker/AJAX chat/forum!
>  TEMPORALCOADJUTOR
>
> Threads Started By: joeblow
>
> http://www.davidicke.com/forum/search.php?searchid=3365072
>
> Posts Made By: joeblow
>
> http://www.davidicke.com/forum/search.php?searchid=3365074

Differently a 100% Jew bashing disinfo agent to together with rest of the Jew bashing disinfo agent on icke`s board.

anton - November 22, 2010 10:46 PM (GMT)

Joeblow wrote an article in David Ickes Forum about Jesuits.

I believe he understand not one single word what Ludendorff wrote :-)

http://www.davidicke.com/forum/showthread.php?t=140936

Alex - November 23, 2010 10:09 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (anton @ Nov 23 2010, 10:46 AM)
>
> Joeblow wrote an article in David Ickes Forum about Jesuits.
>
> I believe he understand not one single word what Ludendorff wrote :-)
>
> http://www.davidicke.com/forum/showthread.php?t=140936

I simply just laughed and left the page,seriously all this Joeblow is up to is blaming the Jew

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: VIVALDI ATTACKS LEO ZAGAMI [Vd]

Title: VIVALDI ATTACKS LEO ZAGAMI [Vd]
Description: [HE'LL SQUASH HIM LIKE A BUG]

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 12:47 AM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zn8jXsOF_qk

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/zn8jXsOF_qk&hl=en_GB&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/zn8jXsOF_qk&hl=en_GB&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 12:50 AM (GMT)

Dear Vivian

Why remove the audio say that we can't hear Leo what Leo is saying?

Putting the music over instead seems very propagandistic - which is what you accuse Leo of. We can't even hear what is saying about the Pope whose image he points to on a poster.

I think that you should put out the video without your edits.

I have also removed from this reply a bunch of agents (Scott Bruno, Monique Armstrong, Kerri Burner, Christopher Strunk) plus one or two others who I do not wish to have anything to do with. Please post me on "BCc" for any correspondence either not to just myself or those that I have left above.

Thank you -

Troy

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 12:51 AM (GMT)

Dear Vivian

You seem quite complicit in this whole presentation. Some have suggested that Leo was under mind control when drugged in the hospital & that your prompting him in those short videos that you released over a year ago indicated that you may have been instructing/handling him. How long before or after the hospital clips was this filmed & how can we be sure that he was not mind controlled then & that these accusations regarding the true nature of your role don't have some substance?

Thanks -

Troy

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 11:04 AM (GMT)

From: leo young
Subject: Re: My LAST SAY ON ALL THIS CRAP...
To: "TS"
Date: Sunday, 8 August, 2010, 12:08

Like some people say I was not only drugged up and put under mind control but locked up first in the isola tiberina next to the Jesuit HQ's of Borgo Santo Spirito litteraly two minutes away and then they brought me to Subiaco in the same place where they kept that person that assaulted the Pope last Christmas.

This was dear Troy a very sad experience for me to see that they could get to me this way in Italy so they could shut me up against my will and they even used my own mother and my brother in this operation plus Francesca Traversi and this was the real reson why I left her soon after since then I have not forgiven my brother and even my mother for letting me into this trap and it hurts even more when people so close to me are being pushed to an act of betrayal so now I dont trust anyone apart from my new wife Christy and I have threaten my mother to kill her if she ever gets convinced by those fuckers at the Vatican to lock me up and I dont talk to my brother any longer because he let them into my house saying they were friends who wanted to have a word with me...motherfuckers what a lie soon after they pushed me outside the door of my house against my will and got me into an ambulance still saying it was only a small check of half an hour instead they locked me into a room at the isola tiberina and started to drugged me up after a south american doctor refused to listen to me and gave me the masonic handshake...wtf?

In any case to avoid falling into further traps I know have a few people protecting me and I have to thank Prince Lolli Ghetti of Ferentino and the Carbinieri for getting me out of the Subiaco hell factory were they brought me after.

Vivaldi is a jesuit agent and works for them feeding poor Eric Phelps with bunch of lies most of the time. Viviano came with a camera and filmed me in the isola tiberina with the permission of the doctors and soon after in rome were that video was made in the church of Monsignor Mario Pieracci a vatican priest who is actualy a journalist a co-founder of Sat 2000 the vatican broadcasting corporation...surprise surprise...and an old aquaintance of mine.Their disinfo operation worked out and Vivaldi in exchange got his daughters back plus the money he needed from his father to go to Venice to start his new career.

I personaly hate the Vatican and all established religions and have worked on my Matrixism project for a long time to became indipendent form all of them and establish something new for humanity with events like this:

2012
New Hope for Humanity Group Presents:
2012 COSMIC ALCHEMY CONFERENCE
AUGUST 14-15, 2010, 9AM to 5PM PST, LOS ANGELES, CA, USA.
Olympic Collection Conference Center
11301 Olympic Blvd, West Los Angeles, California 90064
Global Gathering of LIGHTWORKERS
in Peace & Harmony for actual Cosmic Transcendence and Ascension

Speakers:
Dr. Fred Bell, Dr. Brooks Agnew, Mike Bara,
Erik Poltorak, Marshall Masters, Jay Weidner, Leo Zagami,
Vincent Bridges, Dr. Valery Uvarov
Jason Martell, Alfred Webre, Laura Eisenhower, Bibiana Bryson,
Nancy Lieder, LA Marzulli & Saeed David Farman
HOSTED BY LAURA EISENHOWER

http://alienevent.com/.

Best Regards,
Leo Lyon Zagami
www.enigmatv.com

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 11:05 AM (GMT)

From: VVVPIII
Date: Sun, 8 Aug 2010 03:39:05 -0700 (PDT)
To: Troy Space; Eric Phelps; Leo Zagami
Subject: Fw: Re: My LAST SAY ON ALL THIS CRAP...

He left Francesca, because she was a financial burden on him. His mother told me everything. Leo's mom also told me that Leo was eatting up her retirement funds and she couldn't afford to take care of him in Rome due to all the bills, because Leo doesn't work. Occasionally he gets gig at Muccassassina and the Coming Out club near the Colluseum in Rome. She wanted to sell his flat or rent it, because he was spending too much money. Leo dumped Francesca because her money dried up, and because she wanted to move in with him. He used her to fund his operations and when she went broke, by his hand, he dumped her like a dead dog. Isola of Tiberina is NOT close to Borgo Santo Spirito. it is about a 40 minute walk if you walk fast. He wasn't crazy or on drugs. We had to make propaganda videos for his new Matrixism religion. It is Sunday, and I just took communian, I SWEAR TO GOD I AM BEING HONEST. Leo dumped me because I couldn't get the Savoys to support him and he saw no value in me. Plus he is Jealous and broke. I only have one of my daughters with me you liar. The other two are being held in a Palestinian Camp in Lebanon. Even the Blackwater refused to help me with all the money I offered them to get the other two back. I broke my back to establish my new business and I work everyday and have tons of Clients from Europe, Israel, America, China, etc... I thank the lord and Savior Jesus Christ!!! Leo you need to be reborn brother. I prayed for you today. Stop hating me. I did nothing against you. The reason you want the videoes removed in only because you want Francesca out of your life for good and your new wife can't stand you see you together with her.

Say hi to your mom for me Leo.

Love,

An Old Friend

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 11:06 AM (GMT)

From: "leoyoung"
To: VVVPIII <voxrick@yahoo.com>
Sent: Sun, August 8, 2010 12:42:31 PM
Subject: R: Fw: Re: My LAST SAY ON ALL THIS CRAP...

Everything you just wrote is a lie. You need pyschological help. Your either a pathological liar or your working for the Jesuits.

Sent from my BlackBerry® wireless device

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 11:06 AM (GMT)

"VVVPIII"
Sunday, August 8, 2010 12:02 PM

You think I am lying.

The reason you don't answer my phone calls is because you have convinced your new wife that I am the enemy and if she knew we are talking she will know you are a liar. I am your new scapegoat. I am the new Francesca. I am going to pray for you brother and when you feel you have the courage to apologize, I will invite you to Venice and we can discuss upcoming events.

Your wife is always sending me emails of how evil I am. What is it you are telling her Leo? You know I have a home in Lucoli close to Roviano. Everybody knows me there. You should protect yourself bro, if you're going to speak bad about me in public. You're not free Zagami! Repent and lets renew our friendship. I have all your info in my computer, the photos, the stuff on your ex-wife, and all the proof of what you are doing. Don't let me use it all. Or I will start talking to Nightwatch and Enigma. Erik Markham will get it all if you don't stop.

Ciao,

Buon Domenica!

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 04:41 PM (GMT)

Sunday, August 8, 2010 1:57 PM
From:
This sender is DomainKeys verified
"VVVPIII"

Add sender to Contacts

Zagami can't fool us any longer. Matrixism? As a Christian I find this very offensive to my believes

Take a look at this New Age crap Leo claims to be part of:

QUOTE

2012
New Hope for Humanity Group Presents:
2012 COSMIC ALCHEMY CONFERENCE
AUGUST 14-15, 2010, 9AM to 5PM PST, LOS ANGELES, CA, USA.
Olympic Collection Conference Center
11301 Olympic Blvd, West Los Angeles, California 90064
Global Gathering of LIGHTWORKERS
in Peace & Harmony for actual Cosmic Transcendence and Ascension

Speakers:
Dr. Fred Bell, Dr. Brooks Agnew, Mike Bara,
Erik Poltorak, Marshall Masters, Jay Weidner, Leo Zagami,
Vincent Bridges, Dr. Valery Uvarov
Jason Martell, Alfred Webre, Laura Eisenhower, Bibiana Bryson,
Nancy Lieder, LA Marzulli & Saeed David Farman
HOSTED BY LAURA EISENHOWER

http://alienevent.com/.

Best Regards,
Leo Lyon Zagami
www.enigmatv.com

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 04:43 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

On Sun Aug 8th, 2010 1:17 PM CEST VVVPIII wrote:

>Leo's friends there on Via Biancamano told me he staged his insanity to drive
>Francesca away so that he could be with the new one.

From: leo young
To: VVIII
Sent: Sun, August 8, 2010 3:50:49 PM
Subject: Re: R: Fw: Re: My LAST SAY ON ALL THIS CRAP...

Bullshit
Hey Vivaldi , get a life !

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 04:43 PM (GMT)

Sunday, August 8, 2010 4:19 PM
From: "VVVPIII" <voxrick@yahoo.com>

Add sender to Contacts
To:

Not enough drama for one day Zagami?

How about this:

Your mother helped you stage it, didn't she.

"You can't handle the truth soldier"

I was the useful sheep to make your failure 'Garibaldi' Lodge.

Your secret is safe with 'us' partner.

Now go tell the Jesuits that you have failed, before I start sending people to your house.
Maybe I should give them the house number too.

btw, I could give the people your car and its license number too. What are you going to do, call the British Embassy. HA HA HA HA HA!!!!!

Do you like that Zagami?

LEAVE ME ALONE!!!

I Don't need your lies any longer!

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 04:45 PM (GMT)

From: "leoyoung"
To: VVVPIII
Sent: Sun, August 8, 2010 5:26:43 PM
Subject: R: Re: R: Fw: Re: My LAST SAY ON ALL THIS CRAP...

I dont have time for you or your useless issues. I have a serious agenda and REALLY dont have time to read this spam your sending me. Go right ahead and send whoever you want , you are a pitiful little man and i will squash you like the cockroach you are. Christy is right next to me now and knows what i am writing. We have no secrets between us. Give us a break Vivaldi. Get on with your "life". This little gay soap opera your spinning is boring. You will get more action if you join the chorozon club.

Sent from my BlackBerry® wireless device

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 04:46 PM (GMT)

VVVPIII"
Add sender to Contacts
To:

We all know that you made Francey pay for the Nice trip and made her bankrupt in the process, promising her the mysteries and an elite upper class. SHE IS IN CLOSE CONTACT WITH US BROTHER! AND SO IS LUCIANO! I am just asking for one thing: Stop using me as a punching bag for your fantasies.

Hey Leo,

Remember the time you had those three girls suck your d in front of me to proove you are a master of Sex Majick? Remember how they said they were prepared to die for you?

How does it feel asshole?

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 04:48 PM (GMT)

"leoyoung"

To:
"VVVPIII"

Are you insane?
You and your jesuit friends and your CIA friends who pretend to be me on the internet can all go to hell.
I will expose you and all those idiots who still guest you on their shows believing in your rubbish disinfo on the Vatican.Francesca was a poor girl and never payed for nothing and even that idiot of monique armstrong knows that but as I said before I have more important things to do so these are my last words to you and I suggest you go and fuck that old cousin of yours who is 30 years older then youand you married to have the italian residence. Get lost we have expose you now.
Regards,
Leo

Sent from my BlackBerry® wireless device

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 04:51 PM (GMT)

Sunday, August 8, 2010 5:13 PM
From:
"VVVPIII"
To:
And you got yourself a US citizen now too!!! Isn't that what you wanted, an American Passport. Francey didn't have one now did she????? I like to see how long that will last. I never even applied for residency Leo. They rejected me, even after marriage remember?

Do you remember the rituals Leo??? Of course I will not expose them. But you did some pretty nasty things, and some it was against the law, dear brother of mine. Rome sucks Leo! You have no balls to expose the Papal Nobility and Juan Carlos. You work for them. I remember Lolli-Ghetti insulting VE4. You people are devils. How is Muccassassina?

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 09:18 PM (GMT)

The following I blocked out as I'm not playing VV3's agenda out:

Sunday, August 8, 2010 6:15 PM

"VVVPIII"
Add sender to Contacts
To:
"Leo Zagami

Leo Zagami
xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx, xx
xxxxxxx Rome(RM), Italy

It looks like you'll have to sell Leo. Sorry, but you deserved it!
Street View of Leo Zagami address, Pass it on! Expose this Jesuit !

craig-oxley - August 8, 2010 09:20 PM (GMT)

Crazy times! :D

My favourite post was this one after Vivian posted the uncut second video:

"What is this a joke?
Lol I have no time for such rubbish sorry Troy is Vivian Vivaldi a fag?
What a donkey it cracks me up this video...
Regards,
Leo"

Best read in an Italian accent.

Regardless of whose story is correct I'm sure glad that I've never given Vivian my address. Bad form!

-Troy

craig-oxley - August 9, 2010 06:51 PM (GMT)

I see this Vivaldi has now spread Leo's personal data such as home phone number and address on Youtube. This isn't very professional is it people? I will not accept this video on this site as I know the game being played out and I won't advertise it although I guess this text gives people the urge to look.

soulinspiration - August 10, 2010 02:45 AM (GMT)

RESPONSE TO VIVIAN VIVALDI OVER HIS RECENT WRITTEN ATTACKS ON LEO ZAGAMI

Vivian

My response to your recent personal communications & batch email posts concerning Leo Zagami is below. First let us examine your most recent posts:

> QUOTE
>
> From: VVVPIII
> Subject: Some Constructive advise for you Troy
> Date: 9 August 2010 09:46:52 GMT+01:00
> To: Troy Space
>
> I would dump all your interviews with Zagami and start a fresh page with only your info. You great journalist and I consider your info on the Vatican chivalric orders as relivant. But any presence of Zagami discredits you as he is a self-confessed shill. I don't even think he works for the Jesuits. They would never choose somebody that stupid to be a disinformer. Leo is a high school drop out with no education, no degree, and no work experience. An educated individual such as yourself should waste no time with such a low life. He had a brief military trained, and he applied at Mi6, but was supposedly rejected. He home in Rome is property of the British Embassy
>
> You can even ditch our interview we did together if you'd like.
>
> Leo has never had to deal with someone as powerful as me before, and he will now discover the lesson for betraying me.
>
> I hope my message was sincere. It is constructive advise. Remember our enemy is Rome and our God is the Lord Jesus Christ. I have permenently disassociated with freemasonry!
>
> Love,
>
> V.V.Vivaldi-Pasqua

Let's get the incorrect personal information regarding myself out of the way first:

> QUOTE
>
> Leo is a high school drop out with no education, no degree, and no work experience. An educated individual such as yourself should waste no time with such a low life.

Vivian: The term "educated" is commonly accepted to refer to one being university-educated. I am not & am very proud of the fact, as I call going through university education being "indoctrinated", not "educated". Gladly I left school at 17. I completed my secondary school examinations with reasonable though not spectacular results, not due to any lack of intelligence on my behalf, but due to a thorough boredom & disdain with the material & methods provided.

Leo's lack of educational qualifications (if indeed the case) signifies nothing. As we both know he is in fact incredibly intelligent. Intelligent people do not always get along with the education system.

So on August 8, 2010 Vivian wrote a batch email calling Leo a Jesuit:

> QUOTE
>
> Street View of Leo Zagami address, Pass it on! Expose this Jesuit !

Now on the following day (August 9) Vivian writes:

> QUOTE
>
> ... any presence of Zagami discredits you as he is a self-confessed shill. I don't even think he works for the Jesuits.

Only 15 hours later. Incredible. Vivian: Do not go into the used car business!

Yes Vivian. This is apalling behaviour that you then compound by posting it along with Leo's phone number on a Youtube video clip. I don't think that I have ever met anyone that would do this to an ex-friend whom they had claimed to wish to repair their friendship only the day before - August 7 - on another Youtube clip, that you have since - tellingly - removed to hide the evidence of this propaganda piece that you made after Leo had been drugged & temporarily mind-controlled by the Jesuits (as you told us yourself).

You should remove this new Youtube clip with Leo's street address & home phone number, publicly apologise to Leo for posting these details, publicly apologise to all of those that you emailed these details to & publicly apologise for tainting Eric Phelps' reputation by his association with you via your regular guest spots on his show.

You then wrote to Leo on August 8, Cc-ing Craig Oxley, Greg Szymanski & myself (tellingly not including Eric Phelps) a deranged email that included the following:

> QUOTE
>
> Now go tell the Jesuits that you have failed, before I start sending people to your house. Maybe I should give them the house number too.
>
> btw, I could give the people your car and its license number too. What are you going to do, call the British Embassy. HA HA HA HA HA!!!!!
>
> Do you like that Zagami?
>
> LEAVE ME ALONE!!!

You think that Zagami is victimising you? Or wish that others believe so? How stupid do you think that those you posted this to are? Yet you write to me that Leo is stupid immediately after you confess that he is not a Jesuit, despite you having claimed multiple times over the past two days that he is! I would have to say that this inconsistency counts in his favour, not yours. So what is the agenda to portray him in such a bad light? He gets tortured, drugged & programmed while you make multiple films of him, obviously prompting & encouraging him to say things that if you were truly inspired by Jesus Christ (& I don't mean the Vatican Catholic propaganda version) then you would not for one moment dream of doing so.

> QUOTE
>
> I don't even think he works for the Jesuits. They would never choose somebody that stupid to be a disinformer.

Such behaviour is symptomatic of something bad inside you Vivian that needs seriously addressing.

You sent me five photos on August 8 that you took of Leo around Rome & write above them: "Proof Zagami ordered me to make those videos" (they do nothing of the sort, they are like holiday snaps or something - ridiculous claim!)

> QUOTE
>
> From: VVVPIII
> Subject: I am begining to believe you're a shill Troy!
> Date: 9 August 2010 20:35:54 GMT+01:00
> To: TS
> Cc: Walter Williams
>
> I am begining to believe you're a shill Troy!
>
> You people don't want the truth at all.
>
> At least Craig does , even though he has a temper.
>
> Zagami bought all of his fake 'used' initiation certificates from a second hand bookstore on Via Carlo Felice near San Giovanni Rome. He is a 'Cowan.' His nobility on his father's side is a hoax, and his mother has only 5% blue blood from my research. He Xeroxed the Masonic documents with 'white-out' and recopied them brighter and then inserted his name with Photoshop and recopied on Parchment-like paper. That is your Zagami you all love. A COMPLETE PHONY. And if you continue to associate with him, I don't need any more of your messages

These are all unsubstantiated claims Vivian. They are also illogical. Leo has recently been a mediator at an Italian Memphis Misraim Rite annual national assembly & this has been proven on their own website. Leo also had little trouble attending the World Congress of Initiatic Societies in Macerata, Italy on April 17 this year, being photographed (by yourself wasn't it?) with Ian Sinclair, Mark Pinkham & others. Leo interviewed high-profile neo-Templars & high-level Masons for his recent series for Enigma TV. Certainly didn't appear to have any trouble gaining entree to such circles. As I wrote elsewhere at this forum:

> QUOTE
>
> Zagami recently attended (April 17) the recent World Congress of Initiatic Societies in Italy where various "leading lights" in the OSMTH Italy (Grand Chancellor Paolo Corallini), Scottish Knights Templars (Grand Prior Ian Sinclair), International Order of Gnostic Templars (North American Grand Prior [& author] Mark Amaru Pinkham; "knight" [& author] Christopher Knight), Memphis-Misraim Rite Italy (Grand Hierophant Giancarlo Seri), the Grand Orient of Italy (Grand Master Gustavo Raffi) & no doubt many others.

As it turned out Christopher Knight didn't make it. Also there were around a dozen grand masters & grand priors of different rites, orders & obediences who attended, as well as other interested parties.

Vivian: These claims of yours also contradict what you have been telling people for the past couple of years at places such as leozagami.com & in emails to Eric, Craig & myself. You were either lying then or lying now. Leo's Memphis Misraim, OTO & Fraternitas Rosicrucian Antiqua patents & initiation/consecration authority documents were all from Nicholaj Frisvold's (33° 90° 97°) Norwegian lineage based in Oslo from November 2001 & March 2002 during the time period when he lived there (which extended up to spring 2008) & which Leo presented in late 2006 I believe. Chronologically this is completely sound, unlike your claims. This has been covered on detail many times before. They have nothing to do with his Italian esoteric connections, at least not directly. Those Italian involvements are to a large extent covered here:

http://leozagami.wordpress.com/2008/09/22/...bers-list-2007/

Did Leo fake this photo of himself & P2 moneyman/Monte Carlo Executive Committee Secretary General Ezio Giunchiglia?:

http://www.flickr.com/photos/24089748@N02/...57603981160859/

This "COMPLETE PHONY" (in credibility boosting-caps lock) as Vivian calls Leo certainly seems to have got around for a nobody, from Rome to Oslo to the USA:

http://www.flickr.com/photos/24089748@N02/...57603981160859/

Those photos are for better evidence as to Leo's connections than your unsubstantiated claims casting him as a loser with no bona fides. It makes me wonder who was behind some of those endless attacks on his legitimacy on those internet forums such as (& in particular) Conspiracy Central.

In my blurb for my Leo Zagami research blog I state:

> QUOTE
>
> It is not the intention of this researcher to endorse or refute the statements made by Leo regarding his present and future intentions in this blog. Let the material presented stand or fall on its own merits.
>
> One matter that I will make a clear statement on, is that after much research based upon studying Zagami's revelations & following further communication with him, it is my firm conclusion that in no way is he a fantasist regarding his having an Illuminati bloodline background & has more knowledge on the true inner workings of the many different aspects of the Illuminati than any "researcher" out there is capable of.

I still completely stand by this.

You write:

> QUOTE
>
> I would dump all your interviews with Zagami and start a fresh page with only your info.

Is that because of the extent that we exposed the P2 & Monte Carlo Masonic Executive Committee in the 13 recorded interviews (29 hours worth) that I did with Leo in 2008 & at my blog (http://leozagami.wordpress.com/category/le...amis-p2-masons/) focusing on his information?

You defend P2 luminary Vittorio Emanuele, Prince of Naples, Duke of Savoy to the hilt & whitewash the P2's blood-spilling history. By the way VE's father's mother had 3/4 commoner blood, making him one of the more common royals in Europe:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Vittorio_Eman...Naples#Ancestry

Mind you, not as common as Albert II, Prince of of Monaco, who for a reigning monarch has only 5/8 royal blood:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Albert_II,_Pr...Monaco#Ancestry

Besides covering for the P2 & VE, you also have covered for Otto von Habsburg's role in the development of the fascist European Union superstate - no surprise, as you claim to be a member (although not a knight per se) of his Austrian branch Order of the Golden Fleece:

http://watch.pair.com/synarchy-3.html

QUOTE

Among the other founders of Mont Pelerin were Otto von Hapsburg, the heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne; and Max von Thorn und Taxis, the Regensberg, Bavaria-based head of the 400-year-old Venetian Thorn und Taxis family. ...

Although they framed the debate in terms of Marxist socialism versus free market capitalism, the agenda of the Mont Pelerin Society was to infiltrate and control governments toward the creation of a United States of Europe ruled by their own multinational corporations. ...

The Mont Pelerin Society is also secretive, for the same reasons the CNP is super secret—both organizations were founded by Fascists and globalists posing as 'conservatives.' The founding members of the Mont Pelerin Society were not lightweights but major players in the conspiracy for global government.

"The sister organization to Mont Pelerin from the very outset was the Pan European Union. Leading Mont Pelerin figures, including von Hapsburg and Walter Lippman, were pivotal figures in the Pan Europe movement. The concept of a Pan-European federation was a cornerstone of von Hayek's scheme, which demanded the replacement of the nation-state with a 'benign' feudalist system.
"In 1923, Count Coudenhove-Kalergi launched the Pan-Europa Union, an organization that won the immediate support of the very people who would install Hitler in power. The first person to join the PEU was Hjalmar Schacht, later Hitler's finance minister and the actual author of Hitler's slave labor programs…
"Talk about Nazi ideas! The radical alternatives that von Hayek posed – strict monetarism, near-total deregulation, and Pan-European federalism – were all expressions of the same feudalist outlook that produced Hitler's National Socialism and the thousands of other varieties of Conservative Revolutionism after World War I. 'We shall not rebuild civilization on the large scale,' he wrote in The Road to Serfdom." ("The Legacy of Friedrich von Hayek: Fascism Didn't Die With Hitler") ...

"The Mont Pelerin Society was originally financed by aristocratic families who are and remain a who's who of the top European nobility. Among these were the Thurn und Taxis, Wittelsbachs, Hapsburgs and Kalergi families. The same families provided financial support for and promoted the Pan European Union, yet another world federalist scheme which envisioned a 'One Europe Federation.' Pan Europa and Mont Pelerin are closely linked by philosophy and personnel. Otto von Hapsburg, the heir to the defunct Austro-Hungarian throne, was a top leader of both organizations." (Revoking the Moral Order: The Ideology of Positivism and the Vienna Circle, David J. Peterson, 1999, p. 122)

Count Richard Nikolaus von Coudenhove-Kalergi co-founded the sister organization of the Mont Pelerin Society—the International Pan European Union—with Archduke Otto von Habsburg who was a founding member of the Mont Pelerin Society.

"Coudenhove-Kalergi is recognized as the founder of the first popular movement for a united Europe. ... In the early 1920s he joined a Masonic lodge at Vienna, where he would reach several degrees. In 1922 he co-founded the Pan-European Union (PEU) with Archduke Otto von Habsburg ...

Otto von Habsburg was Coudenhove-Kalergi's successor as president of the Pan European Union.

Is it Leo's continued stand against the P2 & former "Universal Unity" side of the Monte Carlo set up (as it was up to 2006 & Leo's departure) that is your real reason for befriending & then betraying him?

That web resource will stand & I challenge you to pick fault with the material presented there. With your intelligence you should be able to write an essay debunking it. With your claimed power & contacts you should be able to provide proofs to the contrary.

Others can view the material for themselves:

http://leozagami.wordpress.com/

Whatever amount of royal blood Leo Zagami has got (& I would love to see the family trees that you used, why not provide a scan of them & we can judge for ourselves), he has more than this tinpot tinker:

Nicholas, Prince of Montenegro

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nicholas,_Pri...mily_background

He has none that I can trace.

As you know I have ancient Norse royal blood via my mother's father's family who were based permanently in the Northern Isles since the thirteenth century & descended from the House of Sverre (which in turn derived from the Yngling Dynasty), Sverre being a great enemy of the Papacy centuries before Protestantism & paying heavily for this.

Note that today's revived Norwegian royalty are - like the Windsors - of German origin & I have found no evidence that they can trace their ancestry back to the pre-1300 true native Norse bloodlines, that's just a fact & unsurprising one at that for anyone who has done a bit of digging around.

Rome's propaganda against Sverre is one bold-faced lie after another & the family's true history as you no doubt know is buried deep in the Vatican archives. Due to our ancestry & wealth (at the time) & quite possibly due to one of my ancestors leading troops at the Battle of Bannockburn (& thus a likely knight of the Order of the Rosy Cross formed immediately after the triumphant battle for the Templars to act through, my grandfather & uncle were both Freemasons - my aunt told me a few months ago that my grandfather was Royal Arch & she thinks that the lodge would have come under the Grand Lodge of Scotland, but I have no way of verifying this - I am not a member of any lodge, never have been & nor have any of my cousins to my knowledge) our family intermarried on a number of verifiable times with the Sinclairs (including a son of the son of the 14th Baron St Clair of Roslin, who was also the 16th Baron St Clair of Roslin's brother's son. There were 17 BSCR's over the centuries & they were the chiefs of Clan Sinclair. For some additional context the 9th BSCR built Rosslyn Chapel & it is contended that he sailed to Greenland & more significantly North America nearly a century before Christopher Columbus & the 12th BSCR was said to have brought Enochian Magic to Scotland) & Stuarts (including via James V's eldest son Lord Adam Stewart, the Prior of Perth Charterhouse Carthusian monastery, later became Protestant & married) but by the mid-nineteenth century any significant wealth was gone.

Those of Norse royal blood in the Northern Isles were all eventually reduced to farming & fishing, although in such isolated parts it was possible to maintain ancient bloodlines through careful intermarriage. Norway fusing with Denmark who then pawned the islands to the Scots didn't help things in the long run for the old Norse families, especially those of true pre-1300 Norse royal blood, but that's how it goes.

All of which is a long way of saying that having royal genes, ancient or otherwise is no guarantee of wealth or educational "privilege", these are even less likely for the descendants of monarchs, royals & aristocrats who took extreme stands against Rome - & believe me these have been far & few between. I am quite aware of the lengths that Rome will go to withdraw & suppress documents, deny testimonies & rewrite chronicles. Pedigree of authentic monarchs will be challenged & academic historians will always back those corrupted Latin accounts & deny the indigenous national records, maintaining these to be folklore - even in Europe & the British Isles!

So Vivian, in concluding let us consider some of your other statements (all emailed on August 8):

> QUOTE
>
> He [Leo] thinks that I think like him, by provoking me to hate him. I don't hate anyone! I believe in our savior Jesus Christ, and that he died and was resurrected and will return.

> QUOTE
>
> I SWEAR TO GOD I AM BEING HONEST.

> QUOTE
>
> I thank the lord and Savior Jesus Christ!!! Leo you need to be reborn brother. I prayed for you today. Stop hating me. I did nothing against you.

You should truly pray & mend your ways Vivian. Judge not. While you're judging others someone else is judging you.

Matt.7

[1] Judge not, that ye be not judged.
[2] For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.
[3] And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

[4] Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?
[5] Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye.

- TS

Reality Research Reource

http://realityresearch.wordpress.com

soulinspiration - August 10, 2010 04:29 AM (GMT)

QUOTES FROM VIVIAN VIVALDI CONCERNING LEO ZAGAMI SHOWING A CERTAIN DISCREPANCY WITH HIS CURRENT CLAIMS THAT LEO LACKS BONA FIDES WITHIN THE ITALIAN ESOTERIC SCENE:

http://www.leozagami.com/index.php?option=...p;catid=10#2949

> QUOTE
>
> The only reason I support Leo, is because he is standing up against the Jesuits and CIA. He has balls. I personally think he is fed up with the truth movement. ...
>
> He had a series of personally written books which I got first views. They contain all of the hidden elite rituals that would put MIchael Tsarion, Maxwell, Stichen, and Icke out of business. Once you start reading it, you can't put it down.
>
> If he publishes these books, the elite are FINISHED!
>
> Leo has given more than 10 'mS word' flash drives containing the books to people around the world in case he dies, at least one of us can publish his unreleased research, which really is 'never before exposed' hardcore information on how to perform the entity envokement and travel into other dimensions, and much more.

FROM EMAILS:

> QUOTE

June 1 2009

So Zagami is NO LIAR! He is honest on who he knows. I was able to get into a lot of places only Leo could have let me into. So Leo Zagami is 100% honest about his rank in the Illuminati and connections with these key figures.

November 13 2009

Look at Zagami's homes in Italy and outside Rome, all are farms with mills, wheat, grain, olives, and grapes. Zagami grows and mills his own crops. His mother also does.

November 14 2009

Typically, you would need 7 continuous generations to be recognized as noble by the Hereldic Council, but some councils are lienient if you posess a complete family tree down to the known ancestor. And you certainly would be welcome at annual functions but without a title. As for titles, they are difficult to obtain. You can also ask Leo, who is waiting for 8 different titles to be recognized in Southern Italy. I carry only three and I claiming another three. But lawyers are working on it. Its costly!

December 17 2009

Let me just add that Leo Lyon Zagami Young has NEVER ever exaggerated or lied to anyone! He was always telling us the truth with Illuminati Confessions. Leo has a 500-year-old seal of the Illuminati on top of his Medieval estate in Anticoli(RM). The guy is 100% honest, and now he is taking the Orient by storm, and his new book has been released in Japanese, Chinese, and Korean.

December 21 2009

I would ask Leo, because he is anti-Berlusconi. Since Berlusconi signed my permission to to return to Italy after exile, I can't really hate him. And he was a P2 member, so may be he isn't so bad.

December 28 2009

Umberto II is the true founder of the P2 Lodge. He believed that the only way back into Italy was to use Masonry to rebuild a healthy image for himself, but it didn't work, because the masons ultimately are still controlled by the Jesuits. … Licio Gelli is an amazing individual and he still protects the secrets of the lodge. Gelli was in direct contact with Umberto II, and Gelli controlled everything. … HRH Vittorio Emanuele IV, has only been subordinate to King Umberto II, his father, and predecessor. He is close to Prince Philip and other balkanite royals.

December 29 2009

This is a Italian Police report and record that goes against HRH Leo Lyon Zagami Young. It is not an actual Denouncement, but it is a warning and a witness against Leo for the future. If there is a trial in the future and Leo is balanced to go to prison, this document would help proove Leo is a criminal. Of course I would defend Leo immediately …

January 7 2010

Leo I am helping you! I want you to expose these frauds. You are the Grand Koftu! Lets be honest brother. The REAL rituals are done in Rome, with real severed heads, REAL blood, and real skulls. Masonry is a watered down Catholic ritual, its even weaker than Sunday mass.

I think Troy needs to interview you, so that we can get down to exposing masonry.

January 18 2010

In many cases, you can get the 33º without the doing the 1-32 degree's. Through nobility, Zagami and I passed through most of the rituals.

January 21 2010

Wow, I guess everything is out in the open! I did the REAL skull drinking ceremony with Leo in Rome. Its very symbolic.

February 6 2010

Someone is telling Leo I am a Jesuit. I hope it is not you. I know that its not Craig, because Craig tells me everything.

May 3 2010

My proof is what we already know through historical documents and then my experience. I met several high-level aristocrats through Illuminati GM HRH Leo Lyon Zagami of Sant' Elia. I have met the Papal bloodlines.

May 3 2010

I know Leo is doing his best to unite what's left of our clean secret societies Jesuit opposition.

HOW TIMES CHANGE:

August 8 2010

Not enough drama for one day Zagami? … Now go tell the Jesuits that you have failed, before I start sending people to your house. Maybe I should give them the house number too.
...
Do you remember the rituals Leo??? Of course I will not expose them.
…
It looks like you'll have to sell Leo. Sorry, but you deserved it!
Street View of Leo Zagami address, Pass it on! Expose this Jesuit !

August 9 2010

But any presence of Zagami discredits you as he is a self-confessed shill. I don't even think he works for the Jesuits. … Leo has never had to deal with someone as powerful as me before, and he will now discover the lesson for betraying me.

soulinspiration - August 10, 2010 01:40 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

From: VVVPIII
Subject: Re: RESPONSE TO VIVIAN VIVALDI OVER RECENT WRITTEN ATTACKS ON LEO ZAGAMI
Date: 10 August 2010 08:26:09 GMT+01:00
To: TS

If you are so impressed with Leo, go visit him in Rome and see how long you can remain his friend. He'll never invite you, because his gig would be exposed. You are just another useful fool for Leo, as Phil Jonkers was used. At least Jonkers was educated. Most the people at the Nice conference were not freemasons, in your interview with him, his excuse for not having invited you was that we were going to be in a masonic lodges, and you would have to become a mason. REMEMBER TROY????

I can imagine poor little 'Troy' landing in Rome. Chatting a few hours with that 'charlatan' Zagami. Then Leo will invent some excuse to get away from you and you'll be left stranded, and you'll call me, my number is [xx xxxxxxxxxx], and I'll pick you up, and we'll go back to Venice, and you'll say "Wow, Vivian you were right, I apologize" And I would guest you in my house, and show all my stuff and you'd know I was honest. That is the future Troy, unless Zagami is on his lithium treatments. He did the same thing to Phil, Halvor, and countless others from the internet.

Zagami is jealous of me, because he never learned how to save money, he has no Royal buddies left, no Jewish friends. Prince Fiorentino is a charlatan and a liar too. He has no money at all. He is a sucker. When he sees you have no money, he will throw you out too. He is in it for the money and fame.

By the rules of friendship, and tolerance I was able to remain Leo Zagami's pal for almost 3 years. When I stopped funding his bullshit $$$, he closed all communications, used his new wife to get access to Japan and there established relations with that other shill Fulford. He no longer needed me, forgot my hospitality, and stopped answering my phone calls. Even happy new year, Merry Christmas. I talked to him after his father died. He is a greedy uncircumsized pest. I glad it is finished because HRH Brancaccio was right! Leo has no blood. I know Licio Gelli personally Troy. Gelli has never even heard of Leo Zagami. I swear on my life and my children's lives

Notice that I never insulted Christy his wife, because I know he will dump her after he gets his American passport. The baby will be born, but he will lose Custody again.

Vivaldi-Pasqua is as noble as you can get:

We have had historical roles in the Avignon Antipapacy
Cardinals, Bishops, Archbishops

Order of Saint Maurizio and Saint Lazaro
Supreme Order of the Most Holy Annunciation

Carbonari

Italian Unification

Our documents of VVI VVII are in the Quirinale in Rome

I am the pretender to the duke of Conversano
My uncle is the mayor of Finale Ligure

I am a first vow Domenican

I belong to the Society of Saint Pius X, which is denounced by the Pope and by Hutton 'shill' Gibson

I am a supporter of Venetian seperation movements and of the future leadership role of HRH Emanuele Filiberto, Prince of Venice

My family is listed in Garibaldi's 'Mille'

Ugolino Vivaldi Pasqua, my great great uncle is on Wikipedia now

What more proof do you want? Go to the British Library of Westminster and check the Nobility Catalogs for Italy 2010, 1830, 1771, etc... to see if I am a liar. Check Garibaldi's Mille

Where is Zagami??? Nowhere to be found!!!! I think there is a meteor named Zagami.

Bowels Lyon Young I will believe. I think Jessica is sincere, but all the other bullshit is pure lies.

QUOTE

From: TS
Subject: Re: RESPONSE TO VIVIAN VIVALDI OVER RECENT WRITTEN ATTACKS ON LEO ZAGAMI
Date: 10 August 2010 14:37:48 GMT+01:00
To: VVVPIII

Vivian

It is not a matter of being impressed with Leo, it is a matter of considering his account & evidence & comparing with your statements over the past couple of years that I have quoted below (please go through these statements one by one & account for how you fabricated these if indeed you did) that if they were lies exhibit that in fact instead of my playing the role of "shill" as you accuse (when in fact it is plain to see that my interviews with Leo were about as impartial as it is possible to get), that in fact you would have been such "an accomplice of a hawker, gambler, or swindler who acts as an enthusiastic customer to entice or encourage others.".

Phil (Vivian: "at least Jonkers was educated" - like I said Vivian, this is irrelevant), who I like & do not intend to attack here, was "used" as you say, as he fell into a situation during those recorded conversations that he & Leo had made, where he (in my opinion) maintained too little a critical distance & Zagami was clearly playing out some strange psychological moves on him for reasons unknown.

If I ever go to Rome or Venice again (neither of which I have been to for many years), I would likely contact Leo or yourself, but I would not base my whole trip around visiting one person, as I never do & prefer my autonomy, not being reliant on others' hospitality or otherwise.

Someone can show others as much "stuff" as they want, but this does not reveal one's agenda. I cannot reconcile your earlier statements about Leo (as mentioned above, I have listed many below) with your new claims to the contrary. You talk about financing "his bullshit $$$", but don't explain what this financing paid for. You say that "he is it in it for the money and the fame". What money? On the same line (three sentences before) you wrote "he has no money". But remember how on November 13 2009 you wrote "Look at Zagami's homes in Italy and outside Rome, all are farms with mills, wheat, grain, olives, and grapes. Zagami grows and mills his own crops. His mother also does."

On December 17 2009 you wrote:

"Let me just add that Leo Lyon Zagami Young has NEVER ever exaggerated or lied to anyone! He was always telling us the truth with Illuminati Confessions. Leo has a 500-year-old seal of the Illuminati on top of his Medieval estate in Anticoli(RM). The guy is 100% honest ..."

Now aside from the extreme (& unknowable by yourself) claims that Leo has never exaggerated or lied to anyone (even Leo didn't claim this in his recorded conversations & interviews with Phil or myself), there are certain very specific assertions that you make regarding Leo (& his mother having her own) having homes & farms outside of Rome, including a Medieval estate in Anticoli. You are writing from the point of view of someone who has seen these things - either you were lying then or you are lying now. Leo has not mentioned these homes & farms to me, which indicates nothing, but certainly makes him less suspicious by the fact that he has not made these irreconcilable statements about any such properties. These are completely legitimate questions which you should answer, as are other points that I will make here.

You also wrote "Where is Zagami [referring to the family name]??? Nowhere to be found!!!! I think there is a meteor named Zagami". Leo never claimed to me that his aristocratic genes came from his father's father. Rather he asserted it was from his father's mother (referred to as the Marchesa de Gregorio & the Marchesa de Gregorio di Sant'Elia) & his mother's father (Lyon Young, derived from Bowes Lyon).

Any info that I could find was posted here, along with my notes:

http://leozagami.wordpress.com/2008/06/19/...round-research/and here:

http://leozagami.wordpress.com/2008/04/28/...-romano-impero/

On May 3 2010 you wrote: "My proof is what we already know through historical documents and then my experience. I met several high-level aristocrats through Illuminati GM HRH Leo Lyon Zagami of Sant' Elia."

Now you write "Leo has no blood". You only wrote the above statement three months ago!

Here's a few more questions:

How did Leo get photographed with top-level P2/MEC luminary Ezio Giunchiglia at his home?

Do you deny that Leo got his MM, OTO & FRA documents from Nicholaj Frisvold in Oslo, Norway in 2001 and 2002?

What is the background to Leo's appearance at the World Congress of Initiatic Societies in Macerata, Italy on April 17 this year?

How did Leo recently become mediator at the recent (June 5) Italian Memphis Misraim Rite (under the lineage headed by Grand Hierophant Giancarlo Seri, who I am sure is no idiot) national assembly, as verified by the listing of his name on the event & by his interviewing Seri (who was accompanied by three other besuited fellows) during that event (April 19 posted clip) & after (May 11 posted clip) apparently related to the setting up of the Accademia dei Filateli?:

http://www.aprmm.it/Assemblea%20Nazionale.htm

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tBibTUgqcM0 (May 11 posted clip, with Seri accompanied by three others)

http://www.accademiadeifilaleti.it/calenda..._culturali.html

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TRqWaIeH5nc (April 19 posted clip from Macerata, with Seri)

Please comment on all matters mentioned & questions raised here to the best of your abilities.

Thank you -

TS

craig-oxley - August 10, 2010 11:47 PM (GMT)

Dear Brother Count Vittorio,

Upon your belief of the true gospel of the grace of God in Christ Jesus as found in I Corinthians 15:1-6, God has saved you by his grace through faith, and this salvation is not of any works lest any man should boast (Ephesians 2:8-9). God has sealed you with the Holy Spirit until the "day of redemption," that day being the imminent "appearing" of the Lord Jesus Christ in the air to take out of this earth first the dead and then the living bodies of every believer in Christ (I Thess. 4:13-18; Titus 2:13, Ephesians 4:30). Now that you are in the Risen Christ Jesus as a matter of salvation, nothing can separate you from the love of God in Christ (Romans 8:38-39); no man can pluck you out of Christ's hand or the Father's hand, as they are one (John 10:28-30). You were elected to be in Christ before the foundation of the world (I Peter 1:2), as your name was written in the book of life of the Lamb (Revelation 13:8) in eternity before time began with the fall of Adam. You have been justified (declared righteous), sanctified (set apart for the use of God) and glorified (seated with Christ in heaven) all as a matter of eternal status (Romans 8:30). You have an inheritance in heaven that is reserved for you while you are being kept by the power of God (I Peter 1:4-5).

By virtue of this glorious status in Christ which you now enjoy, you have escaped the corruption that is in this world through lust, having been purged from your old sins (II Peter 1:4, 9). You are now a member of a royal priesthood and a holy nation (I Peter 2:9).

Now that we both are forever in Christ and justified in God's sight through the cleansing blood of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, we are to gradually undergo a change in first our thinking and then lifestyle. Our minds are to be transformed to be more like Christ (Romans 12:1-2) as we bring into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ (II Corinthians 10:4-6). The means by which we are transformed into being more like Christ is the reading of his written Word, the Bible of the Protestant Reformation. This Word of God is also called "the perfect law of liberty" (James 1:22-25). As we look into it, we then become a doer of the work and are blessed in our deeds. Without God's blessing, our works are futile.

When we walk in the Spirit, we shall not fulfill the desires of our wicked sin nature called "the flesh" (Galatians 5:16-17). When we walk in the flesh, we will not be in the will of God and thus God will chastise us for our disobedience (Hebrews 12:5-11). He will never disown us, but indeed, as the good and righteous Father that he is, we will suffer the effects of his chastening hand.

Further, since we have been saved by the grace of God in Christ through belief of the gospel we are now the property of God (Ephesians 1:13-14); the devil is no longer our spiritual father (John 8:44; Ephesians 2:2). Rather, Satan is now our mortal enemy seeking to destroy our testimony for Christ and our very lives if permitted by God. Therefore we are to resist the devil with the Word of God/ Sword of the Spirit (Ephesians 6:17) when he attacks. In resisting, he will flee from us (James 4:7), for he goes about like a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour (I Peter 5:8-9). One of the ways the devil attacks us is by tempting us to defile ourselves through misuse of the tongue. For our tongue is to be under the control of the Holy Spirit, as one of his works through us is "temperance" or "self-control" (Galatians 5:23). If we bridle our tongue by submitting to the power of the indwelling Spirit of God, we shall have our entire body under that same control. Thus, Satan's greatest attack on the man of God (as per my personal experience) is to bring an event into the day intended to anger or depress me that will cause me to sin against God with my tongue. It is for this reason we should pray every morning, willingly submitting to the indwelling Holy Spirit to work through us in his bearing the "fruit of the Spirit" (Galatians 5:22-25) through our mortal bodies. Additionally, we should seek the advice of other elder brethren in the Lord, for in the multitude of counselors, there is safety (Proverbs 11:14).

All of the above leads me to this Brother Vittorio. And I am considering myself, lest I should fall into the same fault that I am about to address (Galatians 6:1). The purpose for the following is to restore you, not to condemn you---as you cannot be condemned by virtue of Christ's high priestly intercession before God the Father for you (Romans 8:34).

You, dear brother, have behaved wrongly toward to Leo Zagami. As a born-again Christian man, you have repaid evil for evil, when you should have overcome evil with good (Romans 12:21). You should have blessed and cursed not (Romans 12:14). You have not followed the example of Christ given to each member of the Church, the Body of Christ; for when he was reviled he reviled not again and when he suffered he threatened not (I Peter 2:23). You have recompensed evil with evil which is prohibited (Romans 12:17).

Therefore, I am imploring you to confess this sin to our Heavenly Father; he will forgive you of this sin and cleanse you from all unrighteousness (I John 1:9). Once you have done so, you must then publicly apologize to Leo Zagami for the evil-for-evil speaking you have made against him. You must seek to undo the effects of this ungodly behavior, including the removal of the picture of the man's residence on the Internet. (This was done to me by a man who was once my friend with whom I disassociated.) Further, any other private confidence Leo committed to you regarding personal sin while you were friends needs to be kept private. This is in obedience to Proverbs 12:23 and Proverbs 11:13. (I once had a close friend who, with great remorse, confided to me his adultery with another woman. When he disassociated from me I never repeated that confidence and never will.)

Until you have done the above, I must remove you from the Friday broadcast, dear brother. Our broadcasts will not be blessed by Jehovah God the Father unless you and I are cleansed from sin on this matter. Yes, in knowing of this personal sin and not addressing it, I have become a partaker of your sin which is forbidden (I Timothy 5:22). I love you and always will, and it is because I love you that I have reproved you. Please do not feel that I am picking on you as this is my policy for Christian men with whom I associate: hopefully it is their policy to do the same for me if I may be overtaken in a fault of disobedience to the Word of God in my treatment of those who are not saved walking in their flesh. Walt and I are your elders in the faith and are here for your consultation in any matter of guidance including issues regarding unsaved men that may seek to destroy your testimony or even your life.

After you have thoroughly digested this email and referred to the passages cited above, please skype me and we can discuss this further if need be.

With great love and affection,

Brother Eric Jon Phelps

craig-oxley - August 10, 2010 11:53 PM (GMT)

On 10 Aug 2010, at 15:14, VVVPIII wrote:

Like I said, Troy, spending some time with Zagami is 1000x more different than Skype chats and emails. If you have some money, he'll find a way to suck it out of you, and if you are 'middle class - poor' or even autonomous as you say, he'll kick you out, because he'll know you can't help him in any way. Your a waste of his time. You can always be a groupie or forum support stooge, or join his harem. As he always says. But You'll never be in his inner circle, as I was. He expects you to spend money on him or get lost.

This madness is due to his mother spoiling him, and also because , like me, we were both raised around the upper class. For example, I know Don Rumsfeld, Licio Gelli, etc... And Leo knows public figures too, but that doesn't give us access to their positions, or equal to their status.

Do you understand brother?

I hope I have been sincere. I HATE to attack you Troy. I love your work, and I want to remain your brother and friend. I think would enjoy each other's company. Look me up when you come to Venice. Here is my home:

[Google Maps coordinates]

Love,

Vivian

> QUOTE
>
> Sent: Tue, August 10, 2010 4:33:14 PM
> Subject: Re: RESPONSE TO VIVIAN VIVALDI OVER RECENT WRITTEN ATTACKS ON LEO ZAGAMI
>
> Vivian: I am very disappointed that you have chosen not to address the matters & questions that I raise below in a straightforward & thorough manner.
>
> Please take the time to do so as I can not see any way of proceeding to resolve the dilemmas that they present otherwise.
>
> Thank you -
>
> Troy

From: VVVPIII
To: TS
Sent: Tue, August 10, 2010 5:16:37 PM
Subject: Re: RESPONSE TO VIVIAN VIVALDI OVER RECENT WRITTEN ATTACKS ON LEO ZAGAMI

Okay Troy,

out of good faith I will try to answer all your questions. I have a hard time translating and rewriting. I wish you spoke German, or even Spanish.

1. Money was spent on restoring closed lodges and the following:

Travel expenses
Gasoline
Parking
Dinners
Bars Clubs Conferences
Cell Phone
etc.....
Its Sounds like little things right, but when you add them up they cost over 50,000 euros and more. God Knows, I would have to check my credit card statements. Monique Armstrong sure did!

2. What Money? Both of us have experience in the Music Industry. I was in a famous speed metal band for two years before grunge took over around 1989-1991, which I will not name because it would harm the band. I did studio work and neo-classical guitar solos and Leo was into Trance music. He failed and released a few CDs. Our band also failed and later regrouped and had some further success without me, but I never wanted to be famous like Leo. I entered Classical Music and worked at Song BMG St. Martin-in-the-field, Royal Albert,etc.. in London. Leo craved attention, and when he couldn't make it in music, he decided to enter the conspiracy circuit, and ever since then, he has been trying to become famous. So his rockstar days never ended in his mind, after all the crack cocaine and drugs he abused and continues to abuse. I am a sick man. I am dying of non-Hodgkin type Lymphoma, but Leo doesn't care. This is my problem. Craig is trying to help me. I really love Craig! Leo wants to be a millionaire and he will stop at nothing until he reaches it. He has/had borrowing power and access to his mother's fortune, but she will not share it with him anymore and has given everything to his brother, and when she dies, the brother will inherit the family mansion, and the appartment in Rome. Nobody trusts Leo with money, and neither do I. I encouraged his mother to stop him in his tracks. And she LOVES me for it!!!

The mother's estate has many fresh water streams, and an antique grain mill, plus farm lands. Very nice place indeed and easy to find on google maps. The crest or coat of arms is that of a bumble-bee belonging to my cousin Massimo Brancaccio's noble family, because they purchased the home from him some years ago.

3. Ezio Giunchiglia would never allow Zagami in his home, and this is not proof that Zagami is a member of the 'original' P2 lodge. How can we be 100% sure its Ezio's home? The New P2 of Ezio is irregular just like all of Zagami 'earned' degree's he received in Norway. Zagami, can't enter my lodge, even though he knows the hand shakes. Giunchiglia is a nobody, and has absolutely no status.

4. I don't know anything about the Macerata Conference

5. Zagami forges everything with Photoshop, xerox,scanners, and camera's, and he has some Middle Eastern friends who help him do it all on Via Carlo Felice by his home. The 90 degree certificates are 100% forged and I saw how they were done, because Zagami wanted me to buy some forgeries, from his friends, so that I could be a witness, as a Memphis Misraim member too, that he was really a high mason. Its my guess that Zagami is really a MM of irregular masonry. I will give him that much credit. Everything else is falsified. You have to be in the inner circle to see that.

Anything else Troy, please don't hesitate to ask me, I am hear for you brother. You can even Skype me, if you want. I have nothing to hide!!!!

craig-oxley - August 10, 2010 11:56 PM (GMT)

"VVVPIII" <voxrick@yahoo.com>

To:
Cc:
By this email, I will publicly apologize to Leo Zagami. Forgive me Leo, even I if I have been wronged more by you. I admit that I enjoyed the devils game and wronged us both. I confess in the faith of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, who died for our dreadful sins.

I have permanently deleted the videos on You Tube, and I have deleted my account there.

I personally do not want to have anything to do with the conspiracy world anymore. Not because I am angered by any of you, but because I need time to think things over, and I am sick. I need my rest.

I don't want my name mentioned anywhere anymore. I feel I am smearing the reputation of my ancestors who were also great critics of the Jesuit Papacy.

May the Jesuits pay for the division amongst us, and for suppressing the love we all have for one another.

Peace to you all, and Good Bye,

I can still reply to information of the Papal Bloodline Jesuit Council, when it is needed. My information was known to very few people, including Licio Gelli, Father Marcinkus, and Father Florian Abrahamowicz.

I will duely admit that Lorenzo Borghese and Father Abrahamowicz both inspired me to expose this council, for what reason, remains unknown.

God Bless you all, especially Leo. Thank you Leo for letting me see the truth of Rome, with my own eyes. It was truely an experience I'll never forget. Please keep the truth alive.

F.E.R.T.

soulinspiration - October 20, 2010 07:43 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

Dear Vivian

I would like to hear Leo's take on your - to be frank - quite unlikely story & credulity-testing reposted email exchange of yours with an individual that you referred to as "Hannes" (your spelling) in the note that you posted me at the top of that exchange. Looking at the letters "hg" at the start of your correspondent's email address I take it that this is supposed to be Hans Gaarder (spelling of name as appears elsewhere).

If I am to be completely honest, I think that that exchange looks completely fabricated. What bothers me more is your statement in your email below where you wrote:

> QUOTE
>
> I also apologize for lying about Leo. I invented some lies to defame him. He is a regular mason like me and a sincere nobleman with an easily traceable lineage. Troy you were correct, and for this I must apologize. Leo earned all of his degree's and was a great teacher of the craft at our UGLE center. Please disregard any of my previous statements, as they were made in absolute Satanic inspired anger.

Vivian: What are we to think of all of your other claims (e.g. regarding the Papal Bloodlines, Jesuit Council of Ten, etc..) in light of this admission of flagrant lies? Also: Has Leo ever claimed to be a "regular" Mason since his being kicked out of the UGLE a few years back, if I recall correctly due to his involvement in "irregular" lodges becoming known, such as setting up the RGLE with Rui Gabirro? I've never heard him trying to claim that he is "regular" Masonically (as self-described by the UGLE). How Leo could have been a teacher at your (presumably Italian) "UGLE center" is quite beyond me. Has this any truth to it whatsoever?

As an aside on this question of "regularity": To my knowledge there is at least one of the main Italian AASR Supreme Councils with a verifiably legitimate patent & lineage is not officially recognised by the UGLE as "regular", while there is at least one other obedience without the appropriate origins that is!

As for Leo having "earnt" all of his degrees, I am sure that through his knowledge he can indeed be said to have earned his degrees. However, even Leo himself makes no bones about having been made an instant 33° ("on the sword") by Prince Alliata in 1993.

For the benefit of others reading this: although I am called "brother" in the same greeting in which you also address Leo as such & then go onto discuss Leo's Masonic connections, you are also aware that I am not a Mason. In fact I have quite some time back emailed Eric Phelps about my preference not to be addressed with this potentially confusing term.

You also seem quite pleased (or at least not displeased) at the forthcoming Papal visit that you refer to:

> QUOTE
>
> We shall have the Pastoral visit of our Patriarch here at my Church in Venice of San Geremia. And the Pope is visiting us in the Springtime.
>
> All the best gentleman, and Godspeed!
>
> May the Great Architect light your endeavors

Are you still a Papist? Also: Are you still a Mason? At least Leo quite matter of factly told his non-Masonic correspondents when he had fully gone back into the Masonic world. In fact I wonder if you have ever been a Mason & in fact are not actually what Leo stated when he wrote:

QUOTE

Vivaldi is a jesuit agent and works for them feeding poor Eric Phelps with bunch of lies most of the time.Viviano came with a camera and filmed me in the isola tiberina with the permission of the doctors and soon after in rome were that video was made in the church of Monsignor Mario Pieracci a vatican priest who is actualy a journalist a co-founder of Sat 2000 the vatican broadcasting corporation...surprise surprise...and an old aquaintance of mine.Their disinfo operation worked out and Vivaldi in exchange got his daughters back plus the money he needed from his father to go to Venice to start his new career.

When we consider the above in context with your confession to have lied regarding the authenticity of Leo's Masonic & aristocratic background, one is given serious pause for thought.

I will be reposting this to my email list and to the Unhived Mind forum, as this needs to be given the consideration [of other] researchers, particularly those who listen to your regular shows with Eric Phelps.

In the spirit of Christ -

TS

QUOTE

On 16 Oct 2010, at 14:10, VVVPIII wrote:

Dear brothers Space and Zagami,

I forgive you both for what I now believe was a misunderstanding and possibly an intelligence error. It is possible that it was some Mossad agents in Venice who had sent messages to Leo and I. It was enough to infuriate me. Because until recently I had supported Leo 100%.

I believe Leo received these messeges before I had received them, thus he began to ignore me and all my phone calls. and this was after the death of his father.

I have just discovered that here in our ghetto of Venice these agents were intercepting my messages. They tried to play us off against each other! Possibly because they may have suspected Leo as antisemitic, which I have denounced. Leo has Jewish blood. He is from the house of David. He could NEVER be an antisemite.

I also apologize for lying about Leo. I invented some lies to defame him. He is a regular mason like me and a sincere nobleman with an easily traceable lineage. Troy you were correct, and for this I must apologize. Leo earned all of his degree's and was a great teacher of the craft at our UGLE center. Please disregard any of my previous statements, as they were made in absolute Satanic inspired anger.

May be peace be to you both and I have unblocked your emails.

We shall have the Pastoral visit of our Patriarch here at my Church in Venice of San Geremia. And the Pope is visiting us in the Springtime.

All the best gentleman, and Godspeed!

May the Great Architect light your endeavors

QUOTE

From: VVVPIII
Subject: Fw: AW: Ciao Moslem! Au revoir
Date: 18 October 2010 08:42:40 GMT+01:00
To: Troy

Troy, this is the guy that turned me against Zagami, and turned Zagami against me. Its sad because i trusted him, but Eric was right. Hannes was a Moslem from the begining. He was spying on me. He is probably a terrorist or something. Hannes came to Venice and stayed with me at my workshop. And he's gay. I am sorry for insulting you brother. Forgive me Troy!

==========

[Emails below to be read in reverse, i.e. from the bottom up - no pun intended!]

----- Forwarded Message ----
From: "hg6000@...com"
To: Vittorio Viviano Vivaldi Pasqua III
Sent: Sun, October 17, 2010 10:42:35 PM
Subject: AW: Ciao Moslem! Au revoir

Nothing of that is true and do what you want. Thank you for the time shared and sorry for emotionalizing you at the end.

Farewell
From: VVVPIII
Date: Sun, 17 Oct 2010 13:35:26 -0700 (PDT)
To: <hg6000@...com>
Subject: Ciao Moslem! Au revoir

Game Over! You are Jordanian/Gypsy or something or half. I don't care.
I played your game, because I knew I was right, and I fear nobody. Why don't you people go back to your countries. Make Jordan a better nation. Austria is already developed. I believe you are half Austrian, but NOT full, and maybe the Austria half maybe Slavic. Its like saying Zagami is a full blooded Italian, when he is tall like a tree, prooving he's half nordic.

I respect you, but I have had my doubts. My ex-wife came to Italy in 2006 because of the Lebanon-Israeli conflict of July. She wanted to travel, and I was against it, so she left without my permission and ended up cheating on me with another man in Sweden. A Kurd. I am wondering if you know that Kurd. He owned a Pizza shop there. Werkstadvagen was the area. It was close to Oslo.

You don't see me going around Venice and asking everyone to convert to being a Parsi now do you. Yet , you people have to make sure everybody is a MOslem.

I have adapted the culture I live around and its up to you to do the same or get out Sandnigger! You Cameljockies are all the same. DISHONEST!!! I have been nothing but honest with you. I treated you like my brother, and as if you were a freemason.

I am blocking your email forever, and I might report you to the interpol.

Get Lost Scum.

Enjoy your Kebab!

From: "hg6000@...com"
To: Vittorio Viviano Vivaldi Pasqua III
Sent: Sun, October 17, 2010 10:15:49 PM
Subject: AW: Re: AW: Re: AW: Re: AW: Re: Stop copying Zagami!

I am in hospital. They don't have skype...
Yea I look so Lebanese right you fucking racist.
If I was a killer I would have taken you THE F out in Venice believe me. I would not have given you a chance to poison me!
I sent those messages to find out the truth about you and I did. You fell for it I checkmated you and you had to relativise.
You're a liar. You suck!

I guess this is it. I will send your presents back to you. The letter from KItz was a coincidence huh, and the fact I speak German with a Kitzbuhel accent too huh... Oh well Vivian, Fuck You!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
I had very high esteem for you "chess master"

From: VVVPIII
Date: Sun, 17 Oct 2010 13:00:48 -0700 (PDT)
To: <hg6000@...com>
Subject: Re: AW: Re: AW: Re: AW: Re: Stop copying Zagami!

Yeah,

I arrive in Tyrol, to be what 'kidnapped'?

I would certain go with company. I am a regular guest of Tyrol when I find deals on tonewood. I NEVER had problems with racism ever. Blacks beat me up in school when I was young. I was educated in a private home school. i have the cerifitifate to proove it

---

From: "hg6000@...com"
To: Vittorio Viviano Vivaldi Pasqua III
Sent: Sun, October 17, 2010 9:53:52 PM
Subject: AW: Re: AW: Re: AW: Re: Stop copying Zagami!

Thanks for the "honesty" though I bet you're still full of shit. MUPPET I'm about as bisexual as a big mac and as lebanese as winston churchill's foreskin you crank! I mentioned the racist related lie of yours of which the source is your article about your ex wife that you wanted to publish in the new york times.

I'm sickened by your FOOLITY a new form of foolishness are you dumb or something or how easily are you manipulated I could puke I'm in hospital and feel shit now thanks this has shattered my trust in you anyone could manipulate our friendship using words goddamn fools you humans are!!!

You are invited in Tyrol to prove I'm not living nor have ever lived in Florence neither am I 35 asscrack I had enough of this shittt!!!!!!!!!!

From: VVVPIII
Date: Sun, 17 Oct 2010 12:41:51 -0700 (PDT)
To: <hg6000@...com>
Subject: Re: AW: Re: AW: Re: Stop copying Zagami!

If you go on Skype we can talk about it. I always knew you were Lebanese. I was a faithful Moslem when I was Moslem. I never was gay, but when I was young (18yrs) I thought I could be because I used to wear makeup. I miss my children. This family conflict has enraged me against Islam and the Jesuits. Jesuits told my father I should get close to Islam. Infact the particular priest was Sud Tyrol, Father Gino Del Piaz, from Trento. I wish I hadn't listened to him. He knew I was Methodist, and wanted to destroy my faith, because I was a good organist, and I played in his church .

From: "hg6000@...com"
To: Vittorio Viviano Vivaldi Pasqua III
Sent: Sun, October 17, 2010 9:36:41 PM
Subject: AW: Re: AW: Re: Stop copying Zagami!

I worked for them brother I'm so sorry! I'm 35 and half Lebanese I was chosen because of my proximity and training as infiltrator. Zagami was a farce I never wanted to find out more about him I just needed to get closer to you!
I'm so sorry I'm bisexual and fell in love with you.
I can't continue this farce!

From: VVVPIII
Date: Sun, 17 Oct 2010 12:17:53 -0700 (PDT)
To: <hg6000@...com>
Subject: Re: AW: Re: Stop copying Zagami!

Unlike Zagami, I married my wife because I believed it was my duty as a Moslem (then) to help the Palestinians. I knew brother in London. They abused me. They robbed my BMW. Forced me to buy her Jewels according to their traditions. She got her passport and ran off. That is my ex-wife.

From: "hg6000@...com"
To: Vittorio Viviano Vivaldi Pasqua III
Sent: Sun, October 17, 2010 9:13:08 PM
Subject: AW: Re: Stop copying Zagami!

Sorry to have made you paranoid brother Vivian really sorry

From: VVVPIII
Date: Sun, 17 Oct 2010 12:02:23 -0700 (PDT)
To: <hg6000@...com>
Subject: Re: Stop copying Zagami!

You don't know my ex-wife! what is her full maiden name?

From: "hg6000@...com"

To: Vittorio Viviano Vivaldi Pasqua III
Sent: Sun, October 17, 2010 8:57:30 PM
Subject: Stop copying Zagami!

Its not cool, be yourself!
Vivian btw I will start dancing soon are you gonna join or are you already a master of dance? I simply want to learn it properly it is a gentleman's thing.

Another lie of your's I wanted to point out: you said that you never experienced racism except by inner city chicagoan blacks but your ex wife tells me something else! Liar!

Anyways lets chop wood like real Venetians maybe I'm the Venetian here who knows you look more Tyrolean like Herwig van Staa!

soulinspiration - October 20, 2010 09:36 PM (GMT)

VVVPIII:

QUOTE

Yeah Hannes has been following me into all the forums I regularly visit, plus he visited me here in Venice. We went to Synagogue together. I thought I could trust him. He seemed very nice but I think he and others were involved in sending Leo lies about me. Leo heard that I betrayed him and he fights backs by slandering me. My response is to slander him in double. Its human nature Troy! This all happened on the internet, plus I haven't been living in Rome, so Leo wasn't able to monitor me there or come to my Rome residence. I have residences close to Leo's farm and in Rome itself. I haven't even visited Rome in a year. That is the truth

My info can be proven through research and visiting and living in Rome. My recent battles with Zagami doesn't disprove my info. Anyone can get close to this info, you have to know what you are looking for though. The shadow and veil of the Vatican are the ten families that have corrupted it

You too can become a Knight of Malta. Its not a complicated initiation at all! You have to pay the fees and know other members inside the branch you are entering like Freemasonry. When they ask you if you are Catholic, just say "yes." Very Simple ! Other orders are more complicated and require your original Baptism document to be allowed entrance.

Well, Its frankly very exciting because Popes, unless they are Venetian, rarely come to Venice. This is because Venetians hate the Pope historically and even as Italians. Nothing has changed! I love our Patriarch because he is opposed to Rome's dominium on the rest of the World. Our Patriarch views the Pope as the Patriach of Rome, and equal to the Patriach of Serbia, Greece, and Russia. That is the Venetian Catholic way. The Pope is just another Patriarch, NOT OUR LEADER, but the leader of Rome. Our Patriach has continued to ban the Jesuits from Venice. How could he be bad or stupid. He is highly intellectual. I have played organ at his masses. He is a beautiful man. I hope he become Pope one day.

Why would I want to be a Knight of Malta, say that I am a Catholic & swear loyalty to the Pope?

- TS

craig-oxley - October 20, 2010 11:16 PM (GMT)

It seems that Leo Zagami has gone quiet as his girlfriend is pregnant and I guess he fears the Jesuit removing yet another of his offsprings.

treadingserpents - October 22, 2010 04:01 AM (GMT)

What the heck is all this Jerry Springer crap? Come on guys, don't you see what's going on here? These guys BOTH openly admit to belonging to secret societies still. These two have taken you guys for a serious ride and they are probably both laughing right now. There is no other site on the net that can compare to the UHM so why don't you think they are going to target you guys and sow the seeds of discord? They bait you with lots of inside info and then send you for a loop once you're hooked. I highly respect the research Craig and Troy do and hate to see you guys get sucked into a drama-fest that sucks away precious time from you guys researching and exposing(which I'm sure was the intention).

I hope you guys please take into consideration what I'm saying here from an outside perspective.

soulinspiration - October 23, 2010 11:19 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE
>
> "treadingserpents":
>
> What the heck is all this Jerry Springer crap?

That's an equivalent to when I wrote:

> QUOTE
>
> If I am to be completely honest, I think that that exchange looks completely fabricated.

> QUOTE
>
> "treadingserpents":
>
> Come on guys, don't you see what's going on here?

I presume that you are suggesting that Vivian Vivaldi & Leo Zagami are covertly on good terms with each other. Every possibility passes through my mind when dealing with any individual in the conspiracy arena, so I have of course considered the scanario that I think that you are implying. My gut feeling at the time of Vivaldi posting Zagami's home address & phone number on YouTube, etc, that this is very much not the case. Leo had made it clear that he thought that it was his own time that was being wasted:

> QUOTE
>
> [Email posted August 7, 2010]
>
> What is this a joke?
> Lol I have no time for such rubbish sorry Troy is Vivian Vivaldi a fag?
> What a donkey it cracks me up this video...
> Regards,
> Leo

> QUOTE
>
> "treadingserpents":
>
> These guys BOTH openly admit to belonging to secret societies still.

Let me state quite plainly that I do not buy into the oversimplification of all of the irregular Masonic lodges being Jesuit controlled. Don't get me wrong, most of them probably are - as Leo himself has stated in the past.

> QUOTE
>
> "treadingserpents":
>
> These two have taken you guys for a serious ride and they are probably both laughing right now.

This is a little light on nuance in its analysis.

From my vantagepoint, I perceive on one hand:

A longterm esoteric "disclosure project" (nothing to do with Steven Greer's psy-op of the same name) that has been in existence for approximately three decades at least, that has particularly escalated over the past decade & that by its very nature will mix in (no doubt for multifarious reasons) disinformation with true gems of knowledge.

On the other:

That there are no doubt battles going on of which we are largely unaware of the particulars of & that are also likely not entirely of this realm.

I have said this before, but it is an absolute fact that my research of the past three years would have been absolutely pitiful had I not come across Eric Phelps' work & Leo Zagami's information.

Just the other day I was going through some repostings of Zagami articles originally posted at Arctic Beacon & am still able to get great mileage out of looking further into all of the connections that he exposed between 2006 & 2008.

The focus that Leo drew to so many rites, orders, obediences & lodges (including some that I am still digging up more information on, e.g. Lodge Ecclesia, the Academy of the Illuminati, the Monte Carlo Masonic Executive Committee) really makes sense of a lot of stuff that would otherwise have been completely impenetrable.

I feel fairly confident in saying that I am sure that Leo made some serious enemies during that time & has no doubt had some very strange experiences that were not entirely of his own choosing since that time. My reservations regarding his agenda is when he has hooked up with the likes of Benjamin Fulford.

Then again, I wouldn't dismiss the possibility that some of these alliances could be Leo manipulating situations to his advantage & that while we can suspect that we are being played, that in fact it might be others entirely.

Even Leo ostensibly discrediting himself in certain situations could be a tactic aimed not at those of us who think that we are being mocked (& rightly or wrongly I don't include myself in such a group) it may in fact be part of a strategy working on a totally different level entirely.

What I am saying is that maintaining some critical distance can be wise in some situations. It can be wise putting information to one side until one can do something with it, rather than always have an opinion on everything.

I have more questions than answers & always suspect that something's almost certainly amiss when someone has an auto-response opinion on every point.

I'm not accusing you of being in this situation, merely stating the methodology that I deem to be often more efficacious for one's research results.

Continuing my comments to the points raised in your post:

> QUOTE
>
> "treadingserpents":
>
> There is no other site on the net that can compare to the UHM so why don't you think they are going to target you guys and sow the seeds of discord?

Actually I do & am always on guard for such probabilities. Sometimes it is wise to observe, make notes & act accordingly at the right moment for optimal results - which is not always the earliest opportunity. I also feel that people are seriously deluded if they think that it is always the obvious types (i.e. self-declared initiatic esotericists) who are Jesuit agents. In some cases this may be accurate, in others this may be completely wrong.

> QUOTE
>
> "treadingserpents":
>
> They bait you with lots of inside info and then send you for a loop once you're hooked.

The trick is not to get "hooked". Look into any information that one finds intriguing & use that which can be verified from at least one other source that as far as is determinable is independent from the first source. I have some serious reservations about some [not all] of the Papal Bloodlines info for this very reason.

> QUOTE
>
> "treadingserpents":
>
> I highly respect the research Craig and Troy do and hate to see you guys get sucked into a drama-fest that sucks away precious time from you guys researching and exposing(which I'm sure was the intention).
>
> I hope you guys please take into consideration what I'm saying here from an outside perspective.

Wise words. My concern with the recent developments in email communications resulted in my deeming it wisest to repost these emails here so that others could voice their perspective on how things looked to them. Your comments are so far the only example of this, but are appreciated as an honest opinion. My thoughts, which needed the impetus that others are best at providing, were focused as a result & expressed above.

Hopefully airing these thoughts will ultimately benefit all concerned.

- TS

treadingserpents - October 25, 2010 02:10 AM (GMT)

Thanks for your response.

I guess I was just very put off by the childish accusations and arguments between Leo and VVV posted. It didn't seem like an exposure of one of them being an "agent of deception", but more like a side show to gawk at. Either way I'm glad you have expressed that you have your reservations and take it all with a grain of salt.

I do have to address one comment though. You said:

soulinspiration: "Let me state quite plainly that I do not buy into the oversimplification of all of the irregular Masonic lodges being Jesuit controlled."

I don't understand what you mean here. Are you trying to say that someone can belong to multiple Masonic lodges(not controlled by Jesuits), attain high degrees, and still be a trustworthy source?

From my research and experience in the past I have found that anyone who comes out of any type of secret society/order without becoming a born-again Christian will:
- be killed
- be thrown in prison or a mental institution
- not have truly left, but are only allowed to speak to spread disinformation

I mean let's really think about this. After years of researching when have you ever found someone that had any info that wasn't 20th generation, regurgitated, and repeated that was allowed to speak freely for long that was not a Christian? When you have high level info and you try to speak about it, you're all done, it's that simple. The only way around this is from supernatural protection by the living God. Alberto Rivera wouldn't have lasted one week if it wasn't for him accepting Jesus Christ as his Lord and Savior. Leo spoke out in the open for years and nothing serious happened to him. He disappeared off the scene after Szymanski showed everyone that Leo said he was now back in the "Illuminati". Oh but it's okay because it's the "good" Illuminati. :lol:

So much of the info he has given you may be true, but where has it led you? Sometimes I think it gets to be counterproductive when we're researching endless societies and yet still seem not to have a firm grasp on how it all works. I mean do you guys know how many people that know about conspiracy don't know diddly about the Jesuits? It's crazy.

Bottom line is: do you want to wake more people up to the real controllers and expose the daylights out of the mother of harlots?
or do you want to endlessly travel down the rabbit hole in an attempt at unraveling the intertwining web of societies and orders?

This is not an insult to your research. I am merely trying to get you to really think about what is driving you to do this everyday and what are you trying to achieve?

God bless.

treadingserpents - October 25, 2010 03:01 AM (GMT)

Just wanted to include this:

from leozagami.com

"Since 2009 Leo proclaimed himself the Prophet of Matrixism: Neo Leo Lyon Zagami

Matrixism or The path of the One is a new religious movement inspired by the motion picture trilogy The Matrix :lol: . Conceived by an anonymous group in the summer of 2004 it has attracted over 16,000 adherents.

Matrixism is described as a syncretic or ecumenical religion. Though Matrixists cite references to "the matrix" from an obscure text of the Bahá'í Faith, called "The Promulgation of Universal Peace", to make a connection with broader world religious history, The Matrix trilogy, along with related mass media products such as video games, is generally considered to be the "sacred text" of the movement.

Matrixism carries with it four main beliefs that are described as "The Four Tenets of Matrixism". Briefly these are: belief in a messianic prophecy, use of psychedelics as sacrament, a perception of reality as multi-layered and semi-subjective, and adherence to the principles of at least one of the world's major religions.

The Matrixism website indicates April 19th as a holiday known as Bicycle Day. :lol: This day marks the anniversary of Albert Hofmann's 1943 experiment with LSD. Matrixism also observes the anniversary of the passing of Aldous Huxley, John F. Kennedy and C.S. Lewis, November 22nd 1963, as a holy day called the Day of Remembrance and Reflection.

Religious laws specific to Matrixism include; The abrogation of the use of the human image in advertising, the legalization of file sharing, the abrogation of pornography, the legalization of same-sex marriage, the abrogation of professional sports and the legalization of both polygyny and polyandry.

The adopted symbol for Matrixism is, ?, the Japanese Kanji symbol for "red". This symbol was used in the video game Enter the Matrix. The color is a reference to the redpill, which represents an acceptance of and ability to see truth, as established early in the first Matrix film. "

How is this any different from David Icke saying the moon is a spaceship?

treadingserpents - October 25, 2010 04:39 PM (GMT)

Alright so I just skimmed through the Leo thread and saw that much of this has been covered already and I see your stance Troy. I personally would not trust either Leo or Vivian, but that is your choice. Carry on :)

soulinspiration - October 25, 2010 11:07 PM (GMT)

You have just inspired me to read through that 7-page thread & (for the benefit of readers of this thread, to save them wading through that thread - which of course they are still welcome to do) to repost below some of the relevant passages from my posts that you are referring to above:

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...=0#entry1867664

Feb 12 2009

> QUOTE
>
> I agree that some major evidence is necessary to fully concede that the Anti-Vatican movement within certain Freemasonic circles is authentic. Healthy skepticism is - well, healthy I guess. What would be the timeline on such action though? As we know, timing is everything: whether in battle or comedy. "Boom boom!"
>
> Zagami's photo was presumably chosen to show his background in the Knighthood Orders & high-degree Masonry. As I have said to others on a number of occasions, I'm not in a position to know if Leo is still "working for the other side". It certainly hasn't harmed me studying his information - quite the opposite, in terms of having spurred me to dig deeper - & even if his aim over the past nine months or so (or even all along) has been to bring others into Masonry, then we can safely say that that has been an overwhelming flop. Then again, it could be said that keen researchers exerting large amounts of time studying what could be a Grand Psy-Op Diversion could be a grand success in itself.
>
> My conclusion for the moment though is that I'm prepared to consider that it is possible (nothing more though) that Leo is (largely) telling the truth regarding there being anti-Jesuit aristocrats. In fact it would be bizarre if there wasn't. Thus, despite the fact that I can't abide by his pro-Masonic agenda, I'm not prepared to call him a Jesuit agent. Time will tell I guess.
>
> BTW: One of Forerunner's colleagues (so he said) messaged me at my internet research resource, asking me to email him, which I did, then he didn't seem to have any info. I don't know what that was about, other than getting my email address. Bizarre bunch. I don't trust Forerunner though, as I have said a number of times. Leo has said he has suspicions about the guy. Transparent Psy-Op IMO. Haven't watched the videos posted above yet though.

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...15#entry2050185

Mar 19 2009

> QUOTE

TROY SPACE: STATEMENT ON LEO ZAGAMI'S APPARENT SELF-SABOTAGE & THE POSSIBLE AGENDA BEHIND IT

Posted in response to Monique Armstrong's & Phil Jonkers' staements on Leo Zagami reposted at the Unhived Mind forum:

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...5&#entry2050185

> QUOTE
>
> Dearest Brother Leo,
>
> For the sake of prudence and integrity I, Moziah Armstrong, withdraw myself > from acting as your "spiritual adviser." ... A great teacher of the twentieth century made some profound statements about people like you Leo. It is with his words that I will close this letter and it is with sorrow that I sever all communication and relation with you henceforth; for you are not of the Brotherhood of Light for the Testimony of Jesus Christ." ...
>
> Shalom,
>
> Monique Moziah Armstrong

> QUOTE
>
> Dear Leo,
>
> I know you probably think that I betrayed you, but I didn't. You betrayed me and everyone else dear to you with your sudden and stupefying change for the worse. ... Now is the time to be humble Leo... I deplore you to make use of it.
>
> Phil

Wow!

What can one add to that??!! (besides saying that I guess that Phil meant "implore"?)

My gut feeling is that this "self-sabotage project taken from the Hollywood movie" as Monique Armstrong puts it may have much more to it than anyone has considered.

I have stated once before that IF Leo had an ulterior agenda beyond promoting Masonry then the only one that I could think of was being the major part of a long-term project that will reach some kind of apotheosis in the release of the cinema adaption of Dan Brown's (or the Jesuits) novel "Angels & Demons" working towards bringing about a false awareness of the Illuminati as being a fictional network - which is the basic premise of the book.

This to me makes the most sense. Reveal virtually the whole game plan (obviously with certain key components left out in relation to the plan's existence itself) with the intention of following this up by completely & utterly discrediting it.

There will be no reappraisal from myself of the likes of Fethullah Gulen, Ezio Giunchiglia, Giorgio Hugo Balestrieri or others. Most of the time Leo - when speaking of others - told it like it is & often confirmed what I had either already deduced or was to verify independently by following up on his leads. Take Leo out of the picture that he portrayed & it still largely stands up. I'm referring to alliances & agendas here. For whatever reason, known perhaps only to himself - or perhaps to certain others VERY high within the Occult network - Leo has indeed embarked on a spectacular "self-sabotage project".

Think deeper people. This is not just some soap opera, though it does seem to have been largely presented as such.

In fact I am always wary in these kind of circumstances of going along with taking any accompanying hand-washing statements at face value, especially when the whole momentum of events seems engineered to bring about maximum credibility damage. In this case that credibility is not so much about one man, as the information that he has brought forth.

Can anyone who has examined the likes of Scott Bruno, who put Leo's site together, not smelt the whiff of the Jesuits & be surprised by this turn of events? The postings on his own website are part of the reason why I never participated on the forums at that site.

Monique Armstrong & her friend "Sister Keri" - who was herself first introduced to the internet by Greg Szymanski if I'm not mistaken - both vigorously maintained in an interview with Phil that Rome had "gone wrong" in contrast with the Biblical facts of Revelation 17 & 18 that reveal that she (Rome) was & is the one & the same as the Babylonian mystery religion - with Keri then going on to assert with Monique's enthusings that Eastern Orthodoxy is true Christianity & not under Rome's rule.

This is demonstrably false & I have proven for a fact that Gregorios Theocharous, the Archbishop of Thyateira and Great Britain, i.e. the Head of the Greek Orthodox Church in Great Britain (the Church of Greece being within the communion of the Eastern Orthodox Church) is a member of the Franco-Neapolitan Constantinian Order's counterpart body the Royal Order of Francis I, a Catholic lay order loyal to the Pope & presided over by the Duke of Castro with its Grand Prior being the Jesuit Cardinal Vanhoye (see: http://troyspace2.wordpress.com/2008/10/05...ncis-i-members/).

The International House of Prayer (that Monique Armstrong is apparently a leading member of) was supposed to be having a massively expensive "church" built in Dallas, that if Leo's descriptions of its agenda are accurate at all would seem to be a modern-day version of the (essentially Theosphical) Temple of Understanding which was exposed in 1964 in the brilliant booklet "The Cult of the All-Seeing Eye". (see: http://www.hiddenmysteries.com/xcart/produ...&cat=487&page=1). So I'm not too keen to buy into their (false) version of Christianity. Suckers & gullible-types: Beware! Ignorance has rarely proved to be eternal bliss. "Good" Illuminati = Good Cop Illuminati; "Bad/Evil" Illuminati = Bad Cop Illuminati. No more, no less. BOTH are ultimately stage-managed/"executively produced" by the Jesuits. "Wakey-wakey, hand off Snakey!" ;D

How do we know that any of the more extreme acts attributed to Leo have actually happened at all? Perhaps this is part of a greater psy-op?

I have never portrayed Leo as either a saint or a demon. Doing either can play into the hands of an agenda beyond one's awareness. When he was being attacked from one corner or another in the past & I defended him, then I can say with dignity that that was the right thing to do at that time based on the available information. Regardless: Keep your eyes on Rome my friends there is something most strange emanating from there indeed.

I send a prayer for Leo that he may be able to eventually cast all of his demons aside, but this will only happen when he fears (& loves) God more than Satan. None of us are likely to ever be sure that this moment has truly come to pass if it does. This would truly be a shame, but Leo's story has taken so many twists & turns that this state of affairs would be inevitable.

In the plot of "Angels & Demons" we see it revealed that an agent provocateur infiltrator who has embedded himself into the highest level within the Vatican in order to destroy its credibility & to unwittingly reveal that the Illuminati network is a fiction. Now we possibly see the opposite: one who has embedded himself within the NWO conspiracy research scene possibly in order to destroy the credibility of the notion of an actual Illuminati network that is & has always been ultimately directed from Rome & is her offspring.

Crazy times! -

TS

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...30#entry2050382

Mar 19 2009

QUOTE

Oh & there's no way that this moron here ["The Forerunner 777"] isn't working for either the CIA or the US Army's military intelligence Mind Wars ops:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uUnEoGe0t5Q

Bruno & most of the others mentioned above are almost certainly too.

Phil I give the possibility of being credulous - rather than blatantly, intentionally deceptive. On the number of occasions that I spoke with him I did warn him to be on guard at all times dealing in this arena. I hope that he is sincere above & that he retrospectively understands the integrity of my intent, even if I might have appeared as being perhaps bordering on abrasive at times. Be wise too to the spiritual power games coming from all directions, not just those that are over-obviously of the Dark Side.

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...30#entry2051526

Mar 19 2009

QUOTE

I'm not a member at leozagami.com, but has anyone considered testing the censorship by posting any of the above material there? I find it surprising that Phil posts such strong comments on Leo to his email list (presumably, I seem to have been removed from it some time back, so wouldn't know who'd received the above epistle besides Craig), but "serious discussion" of "Matrixism" holds sway over there amongst the "awakened".

Here's the forum address there:

http://leozagami.com/index.php?option=com_...board&Itemid=57

It would be interesting to see if anyone gets anything through there.

I think that we can safely assume that the alleged offending video footage is unlikely ever to be posted at:

http://leozagami.com/index.php?option=com_...&id=7&Itemid=60

IF it exists. So who's word is Phil taking this on? Monique "Agent JJP" Armstrong's?

As for Leo being charged with having a "Messiah complex", so what's with "JJP"'s "Moziah" moniker? Moses + Messiah = Moziah? I don't buy that or the "saw the face of God" story.

More distraction. The "Latino" healer youth figure who accounts of are dropped in "JJP"'s recorded phone calls that Phil has posted is another piece of Jesuitical psy-ops from where I'm standing.

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...45#entry2422752

Jun 13 2009

QUOTE

Note that LLZ states here that he represents (among other bodies) the Academy of he Illuminati in Rome (founded 2002). This is a verifiable organisation run by Giuliano di Bernardo (if my memory serves me correctly regarding his name). Di Bernardo is a high-level luminary in both regular & irregular Italian Masonry & was the head of two major obediences since the 1970's. Since 2006 & up to & including my interviews with LLZ throughout 2008, LLZ was consistently hostile to Di Bernardo - who was also a consultant for the recent film adaption of Dan Brown's book "Angels & Demons" & met with Vatican officials & a handful of the leading filmmaking crew of the movie in Rome in 2007). Do a search on this guy - he has very interesting connections. This volte face of LLZ toward di Bernardo & his "alliance" with Psy-Op Fulford is yet another splendid discrediting of all the great rare & useful insight & inside knowledge that Leo had revealed between 2006 & 2008. Was this the plan all along? Perhaps. The timing coinciding with "Angels & Demons" (itself a discrediting of the notion of a Vatican led Illuminati, via fictionalisation & a reversal of the actuality) screening worldwide at the moment should not be underestimated.

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...60#entry2840026

Dec 6 2009

QUOTE

I don't go to Facebook, but reading the above all that could be accurately said about Zagami is that he is not a "Fundamentalist" Christian. Oh the shock! Who'd ever have suspected?! As for a Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor, well Leo was signing "SJ" after his name on one or two postings a few months back, so if taken on face value that would make him a Jesuit rather than merely a Temporal Coadjutor. If on the other hand this was nothing more than his very dark sense of humour then his writings quoted above are no more confirmation of such a fact than any other reference that Leo has made to 2012 or the nature & destiny of organised religions since his earliest interviews from late 2006. There is nothing new or revelatory to Leo's assertions here & is in fact completely consistent with his earliest proclamations. Despite having been criticised for being inconsistent in the past, I contend that - for better or worse - Leo has in many ways stayed remarkably consistent.

soulinspiration - October 26, 2010 12:07 AM (GMT)

Craig Oxley:

QUOTE

Folks,

I've been taking a look deeper at Rome and I've noticed that theres no HQ of the Knights of Malta at Borgo Santo Spirito. The Maltese have their headquarters at Via Condotti which is miles away from Borgo Santo Spirito which is way over the other side of the River. Borgo Santo Spirito is also a small time south of the Spainish Inquisitional power of Borgo Pio. Start getting your maps out and making sure Vittorio's information is correct.

T.S.:

QUOTE

Leo Z shows the exteriors of three SMOM HQ's in Rome in his recent Arcane Revelations series on enigmatv.com - Via Condotti, Aventine Hill & a third one. That wasn't at the Borgo either.

...

Vivian: There are two points of doubt that I have regarding the proximity of various HQ's to the Church of the Gesu. One is the supposed Teutonic Knights Roman HQ (do they even have one? I've found nothing on this), the other is his claim that there are many Scottish Rite obediences' Supreme Councils HQ's "surrounding" the Gesu. Leo showed one - complete with the sign in the street as the camera panned from the church to the inconspicuous Supreme Council building's exterior - in another Arcane Revelations video. The Piazza del Gesu is a tiny space & the buildings in it (apart from the church) are not very big either - either check the video or Google Maps street view. I cannot see any other buildings where any other Supreme Councils could operate out of & can find no evidence. I would like actual street addresses & the names of the specific obediences.

Don't get me wrong - it is clear that the proximity of one of the preeminent Italian AASR SC's is just across the small piazza from the Jesuits' mother church is a major piece of the puzzle. However, the info that I am seeking shouldn't be hard to provide. Street addresses, obedience names, etc for both the alleged various SC's, as well as the precise address of the TK's supposed Roman address near the Piazza - even if they are only to be found on Italian-language sites should be easy enough to produce.

Also: Where are the HQ's of the various Memphis Misraim Rites in Italy (including the one that is under Giancarlo Seri that Leo is associated with) & France? And are they also called Supreme Councils?

map - October 26, 2010 08:10 PM (GMT)

WHAT IS THIS ALL ABOUT!

Just noted this on facebook...

soulinspiration - October 26, 2010 09:13 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (map @ Oct 26 2010, 08:10 PM)

WHAT IS THIS ALL ABOUT!

Just noted this on facebook...

QUOTE

From: VVVPIII
Subject: Vivian with the Patriarch of Venice Angelo Scola future Pope
Date: 26 October 2010 14:32:38 GMT+01:00
To: TS

Go to:

http://www.aruspice.net/

Click on REGISTRAZIONI

Then left arrow towards my name Viviano Vivaldi

Click on my name and there you go:

Me and Angelo Scola at my Church

Click on my Organ recital

NOW TELL ME I AM A LIAR TROY!!!!!!!!

Leo knows I am being honest. You guys are still debating whether or not we are in the elite.

Wake up and smell the coffee. Me and Leo are nobles. We want a New World Order without the Stinking Jesuits. And we want morals and jobs and family life to return to Christian Values.

Thats All.

Please consider who we are!

I hadn't noticed Leo Zagami aligning himself with Vivian Vivaldi anytime recently:

Leo Zagami to Troy Space (8 August 2010):

QUOTE

Like some people say I was not only drugged up and put under mind control but locked up first in the isola tiberina next to the Jesuit HQ's of Borgo Santo Spirito litteraly two minutes away and then they brought me to Subiaco in the same place were they kept that person that assaulted the Pope last Christmas. ...

In any case to avoid falling into further traps I know have a few people protecting me and I have to thank Prince Lolli Ghetti of Ferentino and the Carbinieri for getting me out of the Subiaco hell factory were they brought me after.
Vivaldi is a jesuit agent and works for them feeding poor Eric Phelps with bunch of lies most of the time. Viviano came with a camera and filmed me in the isola tiberina with the permission of the doctors and soon after in rome were that video was made in the church of Monsignor Mario Pieracci a vatican priest who is actualy a journalist a co-founder of Sat 2000 the vatican broadcasting corporation...surprise surprise...and an old aquaintance of mine. Their disinfo operation worked out and Vivaldi in exchange got his daughters back plus the money he needed from his father to go to Venice to start his new career.

Leo Zagami to Vivian Vivaldi (8 August 2010):

QUOTE

Are you insane?
You and your jesuit friends and your CIA friends who pretend to be me on the internet can all go to hell.

soulinspiration - October 26, 2010 09:38 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (soulinspiration @ Oct 26 2010, 12:07 AM)

Craig Oxley:

QUOTE

Folks,

I've been taking a look deeper at Rome and I've noticed that theres no HQ of the Knights of Malta at Borgo Santo Spirito. The Maltese have their headquarters at Via Condotti which is miles away from Borgo Santo Spirito which is way over the other side of the River. Borgo Santo Spirito is also a small time south of the Spainish Inquisitional power of Borgo Pio. Start getting your maps out and making sure Vittorio's information is correct.

T.S.:

QUOTE

Leo Z shows the exteriors of three SMOM HQ's in Rome in his recent Arcane Revelations series on enigmatv.com - Via Condotti, Aventine Hill & a third one. That wasn't at the Borgo either.

...

Vivian: There are two points of doubt that I have regarding the proximity of various HQ's to the Church of the Gesu. One is the supposed Teutonic Knights Roman HQ (do they even have one? I've found nothing on this), the other is his claim that there are many Scottish Rite obediences' Supreme Councils HQ's "surrounding" the Gesu. Leo showed one - complete with the sign in the street as the camera panned from the church to the inconspicuous Supreme Council building's exterior - in another Arcane Revelations video. The Piazza del Gesu is a tiny space & the buildings in it (apart from the church) are not very big either - either check the video or Google Maps street view. I cannot see any other buildings where any other Supreme Councils could operate out of & can find no evidence. I would like actual street addresses & the names of the specific obediences.

Don't get me wrong - it is clear that the proximity of one of the preeminent Italian AASR SC's is just across the small piazza from the Jesuits' mother church is a major piece of the puzzle. However, the info that I am seeking shouldn't be hard to provide. Street addresses, obedience names, etc for both the alleged various SC's, as well as the precise address of the TK's supposed Roman address near the Piazza - even if they are only to be found on Italian-language sites should be easy enough to produce.

Also: Where are the HQ's of the various Memphis Misraim Rites in Italy (including the one that is under Giancarlo Seri that Leo is associated with) & France? And are they also called Supreme Councils?

Vivian Vivaldi email 26 October 2010 (#1):

QUOTE

First of all the piazza del Gesu is certainly large enough. You have to be there gentlemen!

The third headquarters of the SMOM is at Magione on Lago Trasimeno. They have their orgies in the middle of the Lake.

Leo is being 100% honest here. We have been to ALL the sites. The Arcana ritual is held in Rome. The Locations change for security reasons, under various structures. the one I remember when I lived in Rome was under Capitoline hill. 10x more gruesome than eyes wide shut. Remember that Stanley Kubrick is a disinfo agent. He didn't show the ritual sacrifice in the film. Its much more extreme and more sexual. And its not considered Satanic by them.

Jesuits - Borgo Santo Spirito - Piazza del Gesu
Knights of Malta - Malta 'the Country' - Aventino Hill - Via Condotti - Magione

DON'T CONFUSE YOUR HEADQUARTERS GENTLEMAN!

Vivain Vivaldi email 26 October 2010 (#2):

QUOTE

Hey Spacey, check it out:

http://www.castellodimagione.it/index.php?...w&id=3&Itemid=3

I believe that it was Craig who had initiated the correspondence about the SMOM having yet another operational base in Rome in Borgo Santo Spirito, the home of the Jesuits. While being previously unaware of this Magione base & appreciating the information, I must note that my comments to Vivian on the need for specifics on the claimed various Scottish Rite Supreme Council obediences in Piazza Gesu & the Teutonic Knights alleged Roman base have roundly ignored.

TheUnhivedMind - October 26, 2010 09:38 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (soulinspiration @ Oct 26 2010, 12:07 AM)

Craig Oxley:

> QUOTE
>
> Folks,
>
> I've been taking a look deeper at Rome and I've noticed that theres no HQ of the Knights of Malta at Borgo Santo Spirito. The Maltese have their headquarters at Via Condotti which is miles away from Borgo Santo Spirito which is way over the other side of the River. Borgo Santo Spirito is also a small time south of the Spainish Inquisitional power of Borgo Pio. Start getting your maps out and making sure Vittorio's information is correct.

T.S.:

> QUOTE
>
> Leo Z shows the exteriors of three SMOM HQ's in Rome in his recent Arcane Revelations series on enigmatv.com - Via Condotti, Aventine Hill & a third one. That wasn't at the Borgo either.
>
> ...
>
> Vivian: There are two points of doubt that I have regarding the proximity of various HQ's to the Church of the Gesu. One is the supposed Teutonic Knights Roman HQ (do they even have one? I've found nothing on this), the other is his claim that there are many Scottish Rite obediences' Supreme Councils HQ's "surrounding" the Gesu. Leo showed one - complete with the sign in the street as the camera panned from the church to the inconspicuous Supreme Council building's exterior - in another Arcane Revelations video. The Piazza del Gesu is a tiny space & the buildings in it (apart from the church) are not very big either - either check the video or Google Maps street view. I cannot see any other buildings where any other Supreme Councils could operate out of & can find no evidence. I would like actual street addresses & the names of the specific obediences.
>
> Don't get me wrong - it is clear that the proximity of one of the preeminent Italian AASR SC's is just across the small piazza from the Jesuits' mother church is a major piece of the puzzle. However, the info that I am seeking shouldn't be hard to provide. Street addresses, obedience names, etc for both the alleged various SC's, as well as the precise address of the TK's supposed Roman address near the Piazza - even if they are only to be found on Italian-language sites should be easy enough to produce.
>
> Also: Where are the HQ's of the various Memphis Misraim Rites in Italy (including the one that is under Giancarlo Seri that Leo is associated with) & France? And are they also called Supreme Councils?

Subject Re: Lets be careful on Vittorios Borgo information

First of all the piazza del Gesu is certainly large enough. You have to be there gentlemen!

The third headquarters of the SMOM is at Magione on Lago Trasimeno. They have their orgies in the middle of the Lake.

Leo is being 100% honest here. We have been to ALL the sites. The Arcana ritual is held in Rome. The Locations change for security reasons, under various structures. the one I remember when I lived in Rome was under Capitoline hill. 10x more gruesome than eyes wide shut. Remember that Stanley Kubrick is a disinfo agent. He didn't show the ritual sacrifice in the film. Its much more extreme and more sexual. And its not considered Satanic by them.

Jesuits - Borgo Santo Spirito - Piazza del Gesu
Knights of Malta - Malta 'the Country' - Aventino Hill - Via Condotti - Magione

DON'T CONFUSE YOUR HEADQUARTERS GENTLEMAN!

"VVVPIII"

soulinspiration - October 26, 2010 09:47 PM (GMT)

Leo Zagami to Troy Space email (4 September 2010):

QUOTE

Just so you know dear Troy the AASR Supreme Concil HQ's I showed in my documentary is the only one recognized by the mother council in Washington DC and is historicly what all the others refer to in their lineage called Piazza del Gesu' even if they don't reside phisicly there any longer.
The one in Piazza del Gesu' is the one also recognized as the only regular Scotish Rite by the Grande Oriente d'Italia of Palazzo Giustiniani who also recognizes the Memphis and Misraim of G.Seri the only Regular Memphis and Misraim worldwide recognized also by the GL of Russia who's GM Bogdanov is a 95o.
Best Regards,
Leo

Troy Space to Marco Ponce email (4 September 2010):

QUOTE

Hi Marco

I don't know who you were communicating with, but presumably one of the several thousand members of one of the obediences of the Memphis-Misraim.

Not all of these guys are going to know facts that are only revealed to the Arcana Arcanorum degrees (sometimes referred to as Rites of Atlantis) that comprise the top Memphis-Misraim or so-called Egyptian Rite.

Vivian Vivaldi states that Kirchner conceived what became the Memphis & Misraim Rites (originally they were separate). This seems likely, as Leo Zagami also recently stated in his Arcane Revelations video series on Enigma TV that the Arcana Arcanorum is the product of the Jesuits. In this same video the camera man accompanying him follows him discussing the Church of the Gesu while in front of it, then pans across Piazza del Gesu & follows Leo to the sign of the Supreme Council of the 33° of the Scottish Rite.

Note that there are many obediences of the Scottish Rite. I have seen a list of 16, Zagami claims there are ten times this. Whatever, there are quite a few of them. Vivian Vivaldi states that there quite a few supreme councils of the other obediences of the Scottish Rite that surround are within the Piazza del Gesu. From the video of Zagami's & the Google Street View it is hard to see how this can be so. Different ones might at a stretch of the imagination share the one Supreme Council offices on different days, but this seems unlikely. I need to do more research on it, but Zagami was implying that this Supreme Council who's sign he showed was the pre-eminent one in Italy. I had done a screen shot of the sign I thought, but can't find it.

Rui Gabirro, who Zagami has stated ran the UK branch of the P2 & I think was also working for British Intelligence & who set up the (irregular) "Regular" Grand Lodge network (which also used the name Masonic High Council) a few years ago, also is pre-eminent within a "Sovereign Sanctuary of Memphis" (no Misraim in that obedience) that seems to mainly operate in Latin America. There's a few photos online.

Roberto Negrini (of many esoteric orders) was running an Illuminati Memphis-Misraim obedience in Italy around the same time. I don't know for sure if these are still going, but I can't see why they wouldn't be. Zagami is alligned with the Memphis-Misraim obedience whose Grand Hierophant is Giancarlo Seri. There are at least a couple of other obediences of the M-M that have lodges in many countries around the world.

Thanks -

TS

map - October 27, 2010 01:15 AM (GMT)

the jesuit-papacy is mystery babylon and a WHORE/FALSE church... we must GET AWAY at all costs and give the TRUE gospel to those in bondage within it!

what is VVP doing with scola!? that is NONSENSE... we must separate.

JESUS NEVER LEFT MAN IN CHARGE... BUT ONLY THE COMFORTER/HOLY SPIRIT!

TheUnhivedMind - October 27, 2010 01:35 AM (GMT)

Vivaldi will never leave the Curia of Venice its all he knows and its his Noble life. All I can say is that Vivaldi has explained to you how theres a difference between Venetian Catholicism and Roman Catholic as such which I believe. We must also remember that they're all one since the ten month long Congress of Vienna in 1814.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Michael Tsarion starts trouble because he wants my Title: Michael Tsarion starts trouble because he wants my Description: source and I wont play

craig-oxley - December 29, 2008 01:44 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

craig, if you truly want people to wake up, then why do you not offer proof and sources when asked? you think for one minute you can operate in this esoteric field, and make all kinds of provacative statements and then, when asked for back up, dissimulate? that is not on. I asked for information and you say it can't be given out. this dampens your credibility in my eyes. if laurence gardener and others can manage to give out a lot of valuable insider information, much of it true, what makes you exempt? you're site bashes jordan without a shred of proof, and there is a lot of material that is not corrorborated, particularly this material concerning the breakspears. i think you know yourself that it does not hold any weight, and that is clearly why you won't reveal where you got this information. this egotistical standoffish and pedantic manner is not something i want on this forum. you are not the only person who is exposing the jesuit conspiracy. it has been going on long before your time. the avro manhattans of the world have done more than anyone, more than you, to bring the jesuit criminality to light. and he did not spread any disinformation around. because ONE evil pope just happened to have that surname, does not mean diddly pal. that is like saying everyone who has the surname clinton has had blowjob in the oval office. -Michael Tsarion

Whats up Michael Tsarion? Why didn't you know about the Breakspear family? Why don't you know the real bloodlines of Akhenaton? I can throw you another family name right now but why should I? Maybe you should study the Pontifex Maximus's of old to know where your Akhenaton line sits. Lawrence Gardner give me a break with your oppo-same characters every man and his dog knows about. Your in the huff simply because you didn't get what you want. Quite frankly I knew you'd be after me for info as soon as I placed it upon this site. I'm under orders not to reveal my source to the Akhenaton bloodlines. As long as I do this, their safe and I continue to get names and locations to my collection. Is it bugging you so much Michael that you want my source killed or my info stopped?

So why do you attack me Michael, you dare call my information disinformation without an ounce of knowledge of the Breakspear family. Whats up didn't Jesuits created Islam before Jesuits were created Jordan Maxwell not know them also? Jealousy gets you no where Michael! No wonder Chris White attacks you. Maybe you should check your arrogance. Sorry I no londer worship Jordan Maxwell who William Cooper helped highlight for what he was. Wheres William now? Wheres Jordan? Enough said!

Keep hunting Michael Tsarion for the bloodlines. By the way Avro did do much work but why did we hear diddly squat about it all on this net? Why have we heard peanuts about the Jesuit Order? You are one of a handful who have come out in any shape about the Order. I used to stick up for you based on this. Who do you base your work off specifically on the Order? Yes my mentor, Eric Jon Phelps. Your Akhenaton side is from where ever, but the Order is Eric Jon Phelps. About time he got some credit me thinks. Also why is it Vatican researchers always here the same line? "Its been done before your not the first?" Quite laughable when people are jealous of others in a certain field of truth.

Whys it took till now for the popularity of the Jesuit information to come out? Why is it being suppressed by low level cointelpro liars like Texe Marrs and Alex Jones? Why do you go on such a show Michael Tsarion? Is it just to use them for audience power or are you one of them? Throw accusations about me and you'll get it right back. You do not scare me just because you follow mysteries and have many dvd's with costly publishing etc. Just where did you get the money from exactly? Treat me with respect and I'll treat you or anyone with it back. Continue the bitching and well I will up my side back.

I will no longer share Akhenaton Bloodlines with people like yourself. Your not worthy of the knowledge I've decided. Do as you wish with my accounts I care little indeed. Check your arrogance and language before attacking me. It really brings your statue right down. Your a big name Michael but this means little to me with all the Alex Jones you so admire often. This name Tsarion does not hold any authority over myself or anyone and you will NOT bully me into giving sources. I told you to study the family so do it then apologise when you find out its all true. I cant believe your attitude, it really stinks. Wheres your proof the Breakspear's are not as powerful as I've claimed? Wheres your bloody proof?

-Craig Oxley

craig-oxley - December 29, 2008 02:04 AM (GMT)

Any good information on Michael "Mysteries" Tsarion is most welcome indeed. I know theres plenty. Please make sure we collect as much as possible. This guy deserves a good bringing down a peg or two.

craig-oxley - December 29, 2008 02:10 AM (GMT)

Michael Tsarion Threatens to Kick Chris White's Ass for Exposing Him

December 16, 2007
http://www.outlawjournalism.com/news/?p=6520

New Age guru Michael Tsarion, who has recently been publicly exposed as a Freemason and generational occultist, has threatened physical violence against one of the people who assisted this exposure - Chris White, of the 'Nowhere to Run' internet radio show, who recently did a show on Tsarion's occult connections, noting among other things that he is an admitted member of the Rosicrucian Order.

This show was brought up on Tsarion's forum, and rather than respond to any of the facts brought up by Chris, Tsarion simply called him "trash who has emerged from his fucking toilet" and then stated that "the only debate i'll give this pathetic specimen is with my fist" (entire response posted below).

Though this comment was somewhat offhand, and not something one would really take to court as a threat of assault, it shows Tsarion's mindset. By degrading Chris with Ad Hominem attacks, Tsarion claims that he has no obligation to respond to any of the facts he brought up.

When I tried to go on his forum and bring up some of the facts mentioned on the show, my comment was denied approval by one of the Admins. This doesn't surprise me. If you go on his forum, you will see that people are talking about the show, but none of them have said one word about the actual content of it. This is because any mention of the facts brought up in the show is disallowed from Michael Tsarion's forum. I encourage anyone who doubts this to go and try to post something negative about "Mtsar" on his forum.

His forum is filled with people who follow him with religious fervor, and on my own forum, I have found that his followers will viciously attack anyone who mentions anything negative about their great spiritual leader. This is no different from the behavior of the members of any other cult.

All of this is simply further proof of what those of us in the know were already well aware of: Michael Tsarion is a fake and a shill, put out by the powers that be to mix fact with fiction and create mass confusion among our movement. He promotes the belief in aliens as well as a mass of other occult garbage including tarot cards and astrology. He also promotes the Rothschild funded philosophy of Theosophy, and is an apologist for the very high Freemason and founder of the OTO, Aliester Crowley, who it is recently declassified was a paid agent of MI-6.

Alan Watt, though apparently hesitant to say all he knows about this situation, has several times indicated that Michael Tsarion, David Icke, Jordan Maxwell, and the rest of that little club are all disinformation agents, put out there to mix the truth with the sci-fi/fantasy world of the New Age religion. Here is a recent interview where Alan discusses this.

It is also worth noting that Tsarion's forum is hosted by Red Ice Creations, the Admin of which, Henrik Palmgren, does a radio show where Michael Tsarion is a regular guest. Alan Watt used to appear on this show every month, but recently he has stopped being invited, claiming on his own show which airs on RBN that this was due to the fact that he refused to go along with the "alien agenda" propaganda which most of the Red Ice guests promote. I like the guy, and we regularly like to each others sites, but apparently, Henrik has become a member of the club.

Chris White is a friend of mine, and after the threats and hateful statements which Tsarion has made against him, this issue is pretty close to home; I also feel that the people doing what he is doing, sabotaging our movement from within, are actually more damaging that the attacks from without. I am going to continue to do everything I can to make sure this man is fully exposed, so as he is no longer able to harm people with his psychologically and spiritually destructive propaganda.

-Andre

craig-oxley - December 29, 2008 02:15 AM (GMT)

The Deceptions of Michael Tsarion

By Kraken
http://www.book-of-thoth.com/article1709.html

I just want to say that I've watched Michael Tsarion's lectures on google video (2012, origin of evil, symbolism) and I've noticed some curious mistakes in them.

Tsarion's lectures have been interesting, or else I wouldn't have watched so much of him, there's been some things he's said that I've found interesting, some ideas that have made me think. However, after I've noticed the mistakes I must assume that majority of the things he says can't be taken very seriously.

In the video Origins of Evil he gives this quote to back up his claims about the Fabian Society being part of the Illuminati:

To play those millions of minds, to watch them slowly respond to an unseen stimulus, to guide their aspirations without their knowledge- all this is a big and endless game of chess of ever extraordinary excitement.
-Sydney West, founder of Fabian Society

Now, I tried to search for this quote. What I found out is that there exists no Sydney West. Mr. Tsarion quotes this fictional "Sydney West" in two videos: Origins of Evil and his lecture on media symbolism.

I digged further and found that there existed a man called Sidney Webb who was in the Fabian Society. I don't know how on earth someone could make so bad spelling mistake twice in a row. It points to either incompetence or deceit, in any case Tsarion doesn't look so good. Also, I'm still not even sure if this Sidney Webb ever said what's quoted.

Another similar, even worse, mistake I've noticed is from another quote. This quote he put forward to support his claim that the Freemasons were infiltrated by the Illuminati and so the Freemasons were changed from "good guys" to "bad guys":

I am convinced that we, as an Order, have been infiltrated and come under the power of some very evil occult Order, particularly versed in science, both occult and otherwise....their methods being Black Magic, that is to say electro-magnetic power, hypnotism, and powerful suggestion. We are convinced that the Freemasonic Order is being controlled by some Order, after the nature of the Illuminati, if not by that order itself.

-Duke of Brunswick, Head of World Freemasonry

Now, I also digged for this quote. What I found is actually interesting. I found the original internet page where this quote is from:

http://www.pluckerbooks.com/works/webstern.../chapter12.html

To find the quote, scroll down to the bottom of the page.

Now, that page is from an actual book called Secret Societies and Subversive Movements by Nesta H. Webster.

What's most interesting about this is that in this book, where the quote is originally from, this quote is not attributed to the Duke of Brunswick. You can read it for yourselves on the page I linked to (scroll to bottom) and you'll see this quote is anonymous and attributed to some Freemason initiate (someone of low degree) and therefore most certainly it can't be the Duke of Brunswick (the highest degree). Yes, the quote exists - No, it isn't from the man Tsarion makes you think it's from. This again suggests Tsarion's deception or incompetence.

At last, there are other critisisms I have for Mr. Tsarion. By browsing his webpages I get the distinct feeling that he's a businessman. You can become an initiate in his Mystical School for 555$ and you can buy all kinds of astrology and tarot reports from him, of various kinds. Of course he has also alot of lectures on DVD that you can buy and very expensive ebook (24$ for an ebook is very steep but perhaps justifiable for a "real book").

Then, if you check his pages on "psychic vampirism" and if you read his blogs where he talks about psychic vampires you'll find examples of blatant ignorance on human nature and psychological disease. It's filled with hate and prejudice, at one point he talks about how all "psychic vampires" should best be removed, shot through their "3rd eye" etc.. He sounds like a crazy maniac and his method to categorize between psychic vampires and "regular" people is that: people are creative but psychic vampires are destructive. You might as well reason that Mr. Tsarion himself is a psychic vampire because hatred is in fact destructive and it's easy to put doubts to whether some of his claims are in any way creative.

You can find Tsarion's homepage here:

http://www.michaeltsarion.com/

craig-oxley - December 29, 2008 02:24 AM (GMT)

Nowhere to Run - The Many Mistakes of Michael Tsarion

The Show THEY dont want you to hear

October 23, 2007 06:17 PM PDT
http://nowheretorun.podomatic.com/entry/20...T18_17_11-07_00

Michael Tsarion is wrong on so many levels. This episode exposes some of the big lies Tsarion promotes, as well as some as the smaller fibs. A two hour episode, which is part of a series Called Debunking Michael Tsarion, and it exposes him as at best, totally incompetent as a researcher and at worst an agent for the Illuminati.

[dohtml]<embed id="VideoPlayback" style="width:400px;height:326px" allowFullScreen="true" src="http://video.google.com/googleplayer.swf?docid=-8508485816864670243&hl=en&fs=true" type="application/x-shockwave-flash"> </embed>[/dohtml]

Show Notes:

Jordan Maxwell's friends list, (a cointelpro extravaganza)
http://www.jordanmaxwell.com/gallery.html

Archeological evidence of the bible http://www.probe.org/content/view/31/77/http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/main.jhtml.../ntablet111.xml

Biblical text integrity http://www.khouse.org/6640/BP084/
http://home.earthlink.net/~ronrhodes/Manuscript.html
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Septuagint

Did Akhenaten Influence Jewish Monotheism?
http://www.tektonics.org/copycat/akhenaten.html

Duke of Brunswick and Sydney West misquotes
http://www.book-of-thoth.com/article1709.html

link to a previous Debunking of Zeitgeist www.abovetopsecret.com/forum/thread290269/pg1 http://sacred-texts.com

were the Essenes the early Christians?
http://www.tektonics.org/af/essene.html

Other References used http://educate-yourself.org/lte/zeigheista...ya01aug07.shtml
http://www.tektonics.org/books/thieringrvw01.html http://www.khouse.org/articles/2005/572/ kabbalah Talmud http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gerald_Massey#_note-1 http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sacred_prostitution http://www.khouse.org/articles/2003/479/http://www.signs-of-the-times.org/signs/fo....php?id=764&p=2
http://www.rumormillnews.com/cgi-bin/archive.cgi

Jefferson Smith - December 29, 2008 02:59 AM (GMT)

He was on Coast to Coast AM, need I say more?

craig-oxley - December 29, 2008 03:01 AM (GMT)

[dohtml]<img src="http://i247.photobucket.com/albums/gg145/2tuff2006/MTSARIONCIA.jpg" border="0" alt="THESE GUYS WANT THE WHOLE SHOW. FUNDED BY THE C.I.A AND MERELY OPPO-SAME BUNKUMS TRYING TO FOOL YOU IN MANY WAYS">[/dohtml]

soulinspiration - December 29, 2008 03:54 AM (GMT)

I can fully support Craig on his position here, having learned deeper connections tonight from speaking with this same source than I have ever learned elsewhere. This was a fortuitous accidental turn of events where an email questioning me turned into a phonecall. I'll also add that I have no doubt that this info is accurate. I have certain points of disagreement in relation to other matters (of a spiritually philosophical & personal nature) that I have expressed, but acknowledge that this source's bloodlines info is the missing link. I shall not reveal the source of this new info that Craig has posted either, as I would not wish to be responsible for helping initiate some "Boston Brakes" scenario or similar. Thus I urge Craig to remain discrete about who has graciously started to make such info available. I do not know what else has been precisely revealed to you, but what I heard was bombshell stuff. Back everything up safely that you get!

That's all I shall say for now, but I plan to follow up much of the names & connections revealed, but there was way too much & way too deep, rapid & scholarly answers given in response to my questions, stuff that largely hasn't come out of published books. Tsarion should reveal the sources of his own bloodlines info. What a hypocrite.

Tsarion has always left telltale clues about his dislike for Eric Phelps via always spelling or saying his name incorrectly, e.g. Eric Jon Helps(!), despite getting most of his Vatican info from Eric's "Vatican Assassins" & then following up on Eric's historical sources like Manhattan, so that he can namedrop him in preference.

Michael "Theosophist" Tsarion is David Icke meets Jordan Maxwell with a taste of real truth like Eric Phelps & a distorted version of the Egyptian bloodlines info (in fact Roman-Greek-Egyptian-Sumerian bloodlines) who's actual facts have much underlying truth in contrast to the covered up with bull versions of Gardner, Maxwell, Icke & Tsarion, et al.

Perhaps Tsarion's running scared that his masters may soon be revealed.

Keep trickling out that info, Craig - good work! That message from Tsarion is just added confirmation - as if you needed it - that you have some majorly legit revelations & that you have only released a taste of it.

Smoking info indeed.

- TS

craig-oxley - December 29, 2008 05:22 AM (GMT)

Tsarion is a mock up. He has no original info or research of his own. Its all based on other authers. He has made no new discoveries. He is just giving advice. And he usually doesn't make long responses like the one he made to you. You clearly have his attention! You have made him seem small, and he is jealous.

He is pissed because he is guilty, of not including these families in his research.

-Anonymous

Reformation - December 29, 2008 07:51 AM (GMT)

There may be a situation where these type of antics are a means of initiation. Why would people like Tsarion or Zagami actually open their mouths about these subjects? Or better, why would their masters allow this?

Since they typically end up discrediting themselves and making their organizations appear childish, it's surprising they even begin.

AntiSionist - December 29, 2008 11:46 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

MICHAEL TSARION ACTS LIKE A COMPLETE ARROGANT CHILD, ALL BECAUSE I CANT & WONT GIVE MY SOURCES FOR THE AKHENATON BLOODLINES OF THE ANTI-CHRISTOS PAPACY. WHATS UP MICHAEL? CUT THE JEALOUSY YOUR NOT #1 AS YOU THINK AND HAVE NO AUTHORITY AND STATUE IN MY EYES.....

AntiSionist - December 29, 2008 11:53 PM (GMT)

http://www.taroscopes.com/personalpages/whosismichael.html

QUOTE

Described as a teacher's teacher, Michael Tsarion is a Divination Scholar and Sidereal Mythologist. An expert on Stellar Astrology, he is the creator of the Archetypal Stellar Taroscopic™ Astrological system of Hermetic Divination, and founder of the online Taroscopic Mystery School. Michael is a descendant of a long line of philosophers, free-thinkers, ascetics and visionaries. His Himalayan born mother was a well-loved, internationally recognized clairvoyant, whose affiliates included Barbara Marx Hubbard, Sir George Trevelyan, Jerry Jampolsky, Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, Shirley MacLane, Edgar Mitchell and a host of other celebrities and academics. She attended J. Krishnamurti's premier college in India and was later honored as the very first clairvoyant to be a regular on Irish Television. The CEO of Britain's Independent Broadcasting described her readings as "devastatingly accurate."

Michael is also the grandson of Tara Singh, the renowned philosopher, author and teacher of the theosophic tome A Course in Miracles. He was the intimate friend of J. Krishnamurti (the World Teacher), Swiss architect Le Corbusier, Keith Critchlow, Alan Chadwick, Eleanor Roosevelt and President Nehru. He was entrusted, by the latter, with India's 5-year plan of restoration after British withdrawal. Tara Singh was also played a key role in the Rev. Paul Solomon's Fellowship of Inner Light, one of the first true American mystery schools. He now heads the Foundation for Life Action in Los Angeles.

Michael was born and raised in Ireland and grew up learning metaphysics from Krishnamurti, Rev. Paul Solomon and Peter Balin. Growing up surrounded by leading free-thinkers and mystery school creators he was under pressure to find his own authentic voice rather than becoming dependant on the systems and influences of others. He has honored his pedigree by dedicating his life to the deepest research concerning the seminal metaphysical sciences. And unlike so many, he believes in honoring the work and the names of his mentors. He takes it as a given, the words of Lord Macauly:

A people which takes no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants.

Intuitive since birth, he was introduced to the Tarot at age 11 through Rev. Paul Solomon's premier mystery school - the Fellowship of Inner Light Movement and learning of its profound effect on the human intuition and its value as an empowerment tool, committed his life to bringing Tarot into the lives of others.

He has been affiliated with the Paul Solomon Foundation of Virginia, the Rosicrucian Order , the Naqsbaandi Sufi Order, and has taught indigo children at the New Age Academy in Berkeley, and is frequent guest of Seeing Beyond and KEST, the Bay Area's leading metaphysical radio programs. Television and radio shows he has appeared on include:

World of Lies (DVD Documentary) - produced and directed by Michael Moody
The Hidden Hand (DVD Movie) - produced and directed by James Carmen
The Greatest Lie Ever Sold (DVD Documentary) - produced/directed by Anthony J. Hilder
Unscrewed (Tech TV) - with Martin Sargent
Coast to Coast - Interview with George Noory
Dreamland - with Linda Moulton Howe and Whitley Strieber
Sightings - with Jeff Rense - Oregon USA
The Quest - with Peter Weisbach
American Free Press - with Clay Douglas Conspiracy Corner - with Bill Bradley
Radio Liberty - Dr. Stan Monteith
Radio Alchymy - with Jordan Maxwell
KEST - 1450 AM San Francisco
Seeing Beyond Radio - San Francisco
With Carol Reimer
KKUP - with Tazz and Paula (San Jose, Ca)
The Hilly Rose Show
Magical Blend Magazine (April 2004 edition)

Chico Times - with Brett Leuder
The X-Zone (Ontario, Canada) - Rob O'Connell Psi Talk
Headroom - (radio London) with Rob Simone
Mysteries of the Mind - with Alex Merklinger
Out There TV - with Kate and Richard Mucci
Chris Pirillo Show (Three-Hour Interview)
The Freeman Perspective - with Freeman Fly (Austin TX)
The Edge AM - with Daniel Ott
RadiOrbit - with Mike Hagan (Click here for interview download)

He has made five hour-long programs with Bay Area's KMVT television station, and has been a guest speaker at the Boeing Parapsychological Society, at Brian Hall's Conspiracy Conference, and at the UFO/Paranormal conferences of California and Washington where his presentations and lectures on Atlantis and pre-diluvian history have been passionately acclaimed by veterans in the field, such as Jordan Maxwell, Jeff Rense, Robert Perala, Brian Hall, Dr. Roger Leir, Peter Davenport, and Glenn Kimball, etc,.

Michael is the producer and presenter of the "Origins and Oracles™" series of DVDs, each of which is an in-depth exploration of ancient mysteries and forbidden knowledge.

Michael's book, Atlantis, Alien Visitation and Genetic Manipulation corrects the plethora of disinformation regarding Atlantis and the pre-diluvian epochs and addresses the exact reasons why human beings are finding themselves, existentially and socially, in the present precarious situation.

Along with Jordan Maxwell, Michael has been a contributor of information to researcher and author David Icke.

Michael's articles on metaphysics, etc., are featured in his The High Window column of the Psychic Reader, the official organ of the Berkeley Psychic Institute in California. (These columns are featured on this site in their unedited versions - go to The High Window page).

Michael gives outstanding workshops, presentations and classes on The Western Magical Tradition, Astro-Theology, Ancient Civilizations, Goddess Tradition, Symbol Literacy, Indigo Children, Psychic Vampirism, Secret Societies and on the Subversive Use of Sacred Symbolism in the Media.

AntiSionist - December 29, 2008 11:55 PM (GMT)

Michael Tsarion & Atlantis on Scifi Channel
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=RFg6UoN6Llc

Michael Tsarion on Scifi Channel along with Eric Von Daniken & Zacarias Sitchin.

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 12:33 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Jefferson Smith @ Dec 29 2008, 02:59 AM)
>
> He was on Coast to Coast AM, need I say more?

Don't forget the Eric Jon Phelps bashing, BBC intelligence asset Jeff Rense Show. Tsarion has been there too.

So Rense is a coajutor? Could be
http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...?showtopic=1702

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 12:48 AM (GMT)

http://www.book-of-thoth.com/ftopict-5976.html

> QUOTE

Telsafire Posted: Tue Jan 03, 2006 9:05 am

I just e-mailed him asking to clear up the confusion...hopefully he'll respond.

QUOTE

Telsafire Posted: Tue Jan 03, 2006 9:25 am

For those that don't know, The Rosicrucian Order is a subset or subsidiary of the Illuminati.

Michael Tsarion vehemently preaches against the Illums.

QUOTE

Telsafire Posted: Tue Jan 03, 2006 12:42 pm

He responded quite cordially but basically said that it was a private matter and that while he's not a part of anything he looks for knowledge everywhere.

My suspicions aren't subsided, but ultimately I don't care. Its basically a wait and see game with all the guys on the lecture circuit...sometimes it takes a while to identify a plant, if you ever can. COINTELPRO taught us how deep cover these guys can go, the 'British Invasion' per the Tavistock Institute, and the recent article in The New Yorker unveiling Jackson Pollock as a CIA plant taught us that they infiltrate culture.

QUOTE

IlluminatusRex Tue Jan 03, 2006 8:03 pm

Telsafire

For those that don't know, The Rosicrucian Order is a subset or subsidiary of the Illuminati.

Michael Tsarion vehemently preaches against the Illums.

I've heard this but have never found much connection between them and the more sininster forms of the Illuminati myself. Of the secret societies the Rosicrucians seem the most tepid and knowledge-seeking. I'm not familiar with Tsarion. Has he ever spoken out against the Rosicrucians himself? And do you have any text links to Tsarion speaking on the Illuminati?

QUOTE

Telsafire Posted: Tue Jan 03, 2006 9:42 pm

watch the free webstreams on http://www.taroscopes.com/ wait for the menu to load after the current event notice.

they are excellent presentations and will answer your questions.
Rosicrucians have been associated with thhe Bilderbergers..they had peeps at the Jekyll Island thing (the planning of the Fed).

I have no problem with the good/bad of it. I have a problem with disinformation...the secret societies dole out parts of the story and maybe misinterpretations on purpose to their lesser degrees...

QUOTE

metaserph Posted: Wed Jan 04, 2006 6:09 am

Here's an excerpt from a Tsarion interview in which he presents his point of view on the subject:

> QUOTE
>
> Luciferians worship a god called Lucifer, the sun of the morning. Well, the sun of the morning is the sun. That's why we have elites. We even call children in school, the pupils; because it comes from the pupil of the eye of the god of Ra, the god of the sun. We get Gold stars for matriculation, when we do good in school. When you graduate, you get a degree, a Masonic degree. All of this stuff comes from astrology --- the degrees of the zodiac. So, these people have appropriated ancient stellar symbolism, in order to empower themselves, and because they erroneously think in their minds that they are the descendants of the original magi who built the pyramids, created culture, and they literally think of themselves as the descendants of these ancients.
>
> And, of course in may ways they are the descendants of the freemasons and the guilds, and they think they have the right to use these symbols. Now, I would say "Yeah, they do have the right." But, they don't have the right to use those symbols to suppress other human beings. That's my problem [with them]. I don't care how many Masonic orders or how many secret societies exist in the world. They perfectly have the right to exist. It's just that these secret societies are now very much being used, because they have been infiltrated by Satanic forces. These fraternities and secret societies and subversive movements are now manipulating human beings to degrade and enslave. This is not what they were originally meant to do, and which their own grandmasters often lament. You only have to go to their own works and find this whole infiltration being lamented by the original masters of freemasonry and by some of these other secret societies. They knew they were being taken over, but they could not do much about it.

http://www.maybelogic.org/maybequarterly/0...onInterview.htm

And again...

> QUOTE
>
> Did you know, he asked, that the 9/11 attacks were only the latest manifestation of an ancient struggle, originating on the island of Atlantis, between an elite, evil secret society (known as the Illuminati) and the forces of good? And that all through history, these Illuminati have manufactured false crises to consolidate and expand their power?
>
> "Forget everything the national media says--that's useless groupthink," he thundered. He knew the real skinny: "The [American] government has been behind a whole series of terrorist attacks. This has been their policy through the decades." Not just September 11, but so much more....

http://www.thestranger.com/seattle/Content?oid=11690

QUOTE

Tricia Posted: Wed Jan 04, 2006 8:50 pm

That sums up my opinion Meta. The Illuminati have infiltrated the 'good and the true' societies because they are the perfect way to the peoples mind and hearts.

The freemasons and the Rosicrucians started out with good esoteric knowledge and held it for the people when they became ready. Unfortunately the evil ones got in and turned it's purpose around.

It is our duty to take that knowledge back into our own hands and to use it for the purpose it was intended-the empowerment and liberation of every being into true Godhood!

QUOTE

Chi_Disciple Posted: Thu Jan 05, 2006 6:32 pm

He has studied widely, and much of the mythology he uses is Celtic, and Vedic in his book. I dont think his association means that he is a part of that order, and I didn't find any references to Rosicrucians in any of his work that I can remeber. Essentially from what I understand he regards the orders themselves as basically neutral, and individuals within them are either "light or dark" or however you want to look at it.

The Rosecrucians are quite interesting IMO since they have had so much influence on modern esoteric societies, and are definately worth investigating.

QUOTE

Chi_Disciple Posted: Fri Jan 06, 2006 12:29 am

BTW Hes got a new article here:
http://www.taroscopes.com/highwindowsartic...ofaquarius.html

QUOTE

ThothMosesIII Posted: Sun Mar 05, 2006 2:10 pm

While it can't be substantiated and is probably fabricated on their part, the Rosicrucians claim their true heritage in Egypt with Pharaoh Thoth-Moses III, also known as Ankhenaton. It was Ankhenaton who was responsible for temporarily bringing Egypt under the Monotheistic rule of the Sun Disk of the ATEN. This was at roughly the exact same time period as the supposed Exodus of the Jews out of Egypt under Moses, who also taught the monotheistic viewpoint of there being one God in Yahweh.

Because of this evidence of Thoth-Moses and Moses, both bringing forth the rule of Monotheism, as well as some other evidence, there are many societies and researchers, including the Rosicrucians, who believe that Thoth-Moses/Ankhenaton is actually the same Biblical figure of Moses who led the Exodus out of Egypt.

When Ankhenaton died, it was his son the boy king Tutankhamen who once again re-establish the polytheistic rulership for the whole pantheon of Egyptian gods.

More information on the Order of the Rosy Cross

As far as Tsarion, i personally don't need some former Rosicrucian reading my Tarot for me....

QUOTE

Telsafire Posted: Mon Mar 06, 2006 12:29 am

http://www.mystae.com/restricted/streams/scripts/moses.html

(2) "First Prophet of the God"

Moses "simply means 'born of'. The name normally required another name prefixed to it, such as Thothmoses (born of Thoth), Rameses (born of Ra) or Amenmosis (born of Amen) Whilst the 'moses' element is spelt slightly differently when rendered in English, they all mean the same thing and it seems very likely to us that either Moses himself or some later scribe dropped the name of an Egyptian god from the front of his name."
The birth narrative of Sargon I, who ruled over Babylon and Sumer hundred of years before Moses states his mother "set me in a basket of rushes; with bitumen she sealed my lid. She cast me into the river, which rose not over me."
"...The birth story is almost certainly a fiction created in the sixth century BC echoing, for the birth of the Jewish nation, the ancient theme of creation emerging from the waters."
- Christopher Knight & Robert Lomas, The Hiram Key: Pharaohs, Freemasons and the Discovery of the Secret Scrolls of Jesus

"And Moses became learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds."
- Acts 7:22

"Moses was a skilled performer of magical rituals and was deeply learned in the knowledge of the accompanying spells, incantations, and magical formulas of every description...[Moreover] the miracles which he wrought...suggest that he was not only a priest, but a magician of the highest order and perhaps even a Ker Heb [Egyptian High Priest]."
- Sir E. A. Wallis Budge, From Fetish to God in Ancient Egypt

"At the top of the hierarchy of priests was the high-priest, the sem priest, or 'First Prophet of the God'. He would have been an extrmely learned man, an elder of the temple, a man with considerable administrative ability and political sense. He would have been in charge of seeing that the temple and all its hodings ran smoothly, and officiating at the most important ceremonies. While normally such a man would have risen to his position through the ranks, it was the pharaoh's perogative to place whomever he wanted in that office.
- Bob Brier, Ancient Egyptian Magic

"Moses, a son of the tribe of Levi, educated in Egypt and initiated at Heliopolis, became a High Priest of the Brotherhood under the reign of Pharaoh Amenhotep [Akhnaton]. He was elected by the Hebrews as their chief and he adapted to the ideas of his people the science and philosophy which he had obtained in the Egyptian mysteries; proofs of this are to be found in the symbols, in the Initiations, and in his precepts and commandments....The dogma of an 'only god' which he taught was the Egyptian Brotherhood interpretation and teaching of the Pharaoh who established the first monotheistic religion known to man."
- Egyptian High Priest Manetho (3rd Century BC)

"If Moses was a High Priest of the Brotherhood under Akhnaton, as Manetho states, but did not lead the exodus until the reign of Rameses II, as many historians believe, then Moses must have been an extremely old man at the time of the exodus. (Rameses II did not rule until almost one hundred years after Akhnaton.) The Bible, in Deuteronomy 34:7 states that Moses was 120 years old when he died."
- William Bramley, The Gods of Eden

QUOTE

ThuthMosesIII Posted: Mon Mar 06, 2006 11:43 am

THUTMOSES III:
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Thutmose_III

QUOTE

IlluminatusRex Posted: Mon Mar 06, 2006 8:11 pm

Right. Thutmose,Tuthmosis,or Thutmosis. All the pages I found that edit the name to "Thothmoses" were attempting to link Thutmose to the Biblical character of Moses. Apparently the name Thothmoses comes from an occultic(Rosicrucian?) theory of Moses and Hermes.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hermes_trismegistus

I thought there was something odd about it.

QUOTE

ThuthMosesIII Posted: Wed Mar 08, 2006 9:08 am

Don't forget and leave Mercury out of that kinky, nasty 3 way action...
Thoth/Hermes/Mercury

QUOTE

ThuthMosesIII Posted: Wed Jun 14, 2006 11:36 am

It's clear to me now.. Michael Tsarion believes himself to be Zarathustra..

http://www.book-of-thoth.com/thebook/index...stra#References

"Zarathustra" (/tsaratu•tra/) is the German version of the name of the Persian prophet Zoroaster, the presumed founder of Zoroastrianism.

So Tsarion, is really Zoroastrianism.. Or the Tsar of Orion..

Too bad half of his theories are made up, or based on authors who were making things up... He talks about Irish history so much, being the Atlantean foundation for civilization, yet i've never really heard him talk about ACTUAL history, aside from pseudo-history that only he, Jordan Maxwell, and a couple others are promoting.

QUOTE

ThuthMosesIII Posted: Wed Jun 14, 2006 8:54 pm

This from "The Forum"
http://www.davidickeforum.com/forum/viewto...=28889&start=45

> QUOTE
>
> I actually listened to Tsarion tonight, his 6/6/06 interview.
> he sounded perfectly normal and he even said that he was mmber of rose crux lodge in San Jose.
> He also said that Rosicrucian order is completely screwed up now, money and power grab running rampant.

Images of San Jose Rosicrucian temple.. http://www.rosicrucian.org/park/images/temple_night_hi.jpg

http://freepages.family.rootsweb.com/~soakbear/egyptmu2.jpg

http://freepages.family.rootsweb.com/~soakbear/egyptmu6.jpg

http://freepages.family.rootsweb.com/~soakbear/egyptmu8.jpg

http://freepages.family.rootsweb.com/~soakbear/egyptmu7.jpg

http://freepages.family.rootsweb.com/~soakbear/egyptm10.jpg

http://freepages.family.rootsweb.com/~soakbear/sphinx.jpg

http://freepages.family.rootsweb.com/~soakbear/egyptmu1.jpg

http://freepages.family.rootsweb.com/~soakbear/egyptm11.jpg

The shrine of Akhenaton is in this complex (Short flash movie) http://www.egyptianmuseum.org/egypt/tour/flash/35aten.html

QUOTE

Chi_Disciple Posted: Thu Jun 15, 2006 6:10 am

Hah!
Maybe he is really just a convert recruiting campaign for the order?

QUOTE

ThuthMosesIII Posted: Fri Jun 16, 2006 12:21 am

I'd have no problems with Tsarion if he was just more truthful, and didn't act like he's some warrior from a long line of Druid priests... King of the Mountain didn't help any over at 'The Forum' as far as i'm concerned either..

And again, his DVD's costing $60 dollars each...

QUOTE

Telsafire Posted: Fri Jun 16, 2006 1:04 am

I'm surprised no one's seeded any of his videos yet. 60 per is outrageous, I suspect he went into debt going over budget taking two whole years to produce his magnum opus. When he first came on to the scene, I beleive in early 2004, he was talking about how his set of DVD's was due in a few weeks.

QUOTE

ThuthMosesIII Posted: Fri Jun 16, 2006 1:22 am

Poor bastard... Wonder if he got a loan from Jordan Maxwell...?

QUOTE

Chi_Disciple Posted: Fri Jun 16, 2006 2:12 am

LOL!

They come with like 2 or 3 dvds in each one. I think that is why he tries to justify that price.

Anyways if he was smart, and his info is actually good, then he should release one full topic on the 'net so we know if anything might actually be worth getting. :lol:

I am not spending $60 on something of unknown quality.

QUOTE

Benn Posted: Mon Oct 09, 2006 1:22 am

IMHO Tsarion has a fascinating rap. And he covers his ass better than Icke. But one similarity the two men share is that they both started out talking pretty straight about NWO and Masonic/Illuminati symbols- both giving VERY good historical presentations- and then both of them veered off into their own versions of high weirdness. Did they get "turned"?

I've been going through all his stuff lately. I think he's got a lot of valid info mixed in with fantasy. The RC thing is a puzzler- I add it to the dark side of the stack. Other things in that pile:

1. On his recent appearance on Freeman's show he spoke highly of Rael. Sorry, I just can't get behind that guy.

2. The other (older?) Tsarion site- http://timegnosis.com/start.php - kinda like an astrological Tony Robbins. Egh.

- BN

QUOTE

Owlman Posted: Wed Dec 10, 2008 8:33 am

"Of the secret societies the Rosicrucians seem the most tepid and knowledge-seeking"

Maybe you are unaware that the "Rosicrucians" are the ones that erected "The Georgia Guidestones"...The first commandment of which is to "Maintain humanity's population at 500,000,000" (Paraphrasing) which would essentially mean destroying over 80% of the population of the whole world...That doesn't sound too "Tepid" to me...

These "Secret Societies" may have different names,but they all have the same face...And the same evil agenda...

Watch my latest video "WAKE UP! The New World Order Matrix has you"!

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4nO9yf6ZEvA

Or visit my website:

****
For more information...

"Who-WHO will watch The Watchmen"?

OwlMan

http://www.youtube.com/TheOwlMan

craig-oxley - December 30, 2008 12:56 AM (GMT)

This Irish clown has blocked my articles with moderation, I'd rather he deleted me. Suppression of the truth folks. How dare he call my information nonsense. He's made an enemy of the wrong man. You know what it is folks, he's hoping I throw another Akhenaton family out there haha.

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 01:15 AM (GMT)

Here is the Craig Oxley profile on the Mtsar forum.
http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...wprofile&u=2788

Here is where he first posts the Breakspear family stuff.
http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...ighlight=#71873

Here is that Michael Tsarion comment that Craig quoted in the OP.
http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...p?p=71894#71894

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 01:26 AM (GMT)

Michael Tsarion Threatens Chris White
http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...showtopic=39820

Some of the stuff is repeated in this new topic so I will not copy and paste everything.

QUOTE

Here is Tsarion's full explaination of why he will not respond to the facts brought up on Chris White's show, from his forum (this will probably removed when attention is drawn to it):
what are you people talking about when you say debate? debate with this trash who has emerged from his fucking toilet?

do any of you know what a true "critic" really is? it appears not.

some skinflint muckslinger has a bash at a few short free webstreams and that is now regarded as criticism. he has not the dvds, and has not bought the book. that is obvious. a few errors is all he can summon to mucksling at.

he did not contact me like a decent respectful being, and ask me personally about all this. he launched a vicious online attack hoping to be somebody by slander, slander of someone who actually has achieved important things.

these vermin are a dime a dozen. they'll can spew what they want, and mucksling, and waste valuable time.

my work has been complimented by veterans in the field of research from every part of the globe. and i don't even need or require these people's endorsement, although its nice when it comes from a sincere person.

this undereducated, spluttering inarticulate christian (not) moron needs to shut his cakehole, and stop making a total idiot of himself. but being so terribly desperate for attention, this is the way ENVIOUS people go about. the only debate i'll give this pathetic specimen is with my fist.

send the creature these two articles, and ask him to comment on me, and say i'm a disinformationalist or a servant of the illuminati.

http://www.taroscopes.com/miscellanous-pages/weapons.html

http://www.taroscopes.com/highwindowsartic...quarius.htmlask ask this genius of criticism, to show me his articles. ask him to prove he is not a servant of the secret societies that are clearly out to silence the servants of truth?

exposed, am i? the sewer rat does not even know the meaning of the word. he could not find a tit in a whore house.

QUOTE

Michael Tsarion and the Rosicrucian connection.
http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...showtopic=38433

QUOTE

I've always found Tsarion to be a bit fishy because he supports the theory that aliens will visit us in 2012 and something great will be revealed. Isn't the Illuminati(Jesuits) wanting to stage a fake alien invasion after the whole ordeal with Islam is over so that their anti-christ can come and say hes a descendant from them and will save us all from the chaos, poverty, and war?

It seems to me that Tsarion just pushes the occult agenda that the nobility believe in. When I heard him support the idea that reptilian aliens from Atlantis are the people running the show I immediately became supicious. Also in one of his vids I seen he took side of the serpent people(satan) and made God look like an evil war monger. Not to mention he appeared on coast to coast, did you know Art Bell has a CIA backround?

Thanks for the info man, really cleared things up for me.

QUOTE

Tsarions Response - http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...=asc&start=2160

ON THE CHARACTER ASSASSINS

that is right. and we are meeting some of them now, these critics of mine, these ever so brave dignified scandal mongers who use the internet to mask their idenitites, and assumed names, and handles, and so on. what brave worms they are. people know me as myself, but these muckslingers hide behind fake monikers, and call themselves critics.

in fact a critic does not critique something because he himself BELIEVES OR DISBELIEVES what he critcizes. please note this important fact. a critic is a professional who UNPREJUDICIOUSLY studies, who OBJECTIVELY looks into something to see if its true or not. his own BELIEFS AND PREJUDICES don't come into it. if they do he ceases to be a professional.

no professional critic (and chris shite and his gang of internet hoodlums don't fall into this category) has ever taken my work on. no such person has rebutted it. they won't be so inclined because the overall premise is irrefutable, and the details and research is for the most part sound. i have made a few minor mistakes here and there but when you pull a few hairs from an elephant the creature does not fall to the ground dead, does it?

a critic looks at the overall premise and if its sound he will not even bother himself with further criticism. but even if my work should be looked over by a professional, the result would be the conversion of that critic to what i am saying. because this is exactly what has happened with many new ideas when objective and interested parties come along to make a study.

these creatures behind their wall of the internet, hiding in the dark and throwing their broken toys around, say that there is nothing new to be found in my atlantis book, dvds, or interviews. of course they also admit they have not read any of my books or seen any dvds. but lets leave that aside, after all we are in the realm of jesuit psychopaths here, posing as true virtuous christians.

they are not true christians, since if they were they would never slander or deride that small group of people who have chosen to use their own brains and who are interested in listening to people such as myself. my work goes out to a very small select group. so why would these so called christians be threatened or over heated by me? i have already explained why on this forum. why don't they just content themselves speaking to their millions of brainless christiant sheeple that infest the world, and who are imbecillic enough to enjoy a chris white. keep to those clowns who have chosen to remain in consensus trance. you've got millions of them as an audience so, again, why badger me. is it because my new book demolishes you're lies, every last one of them? YOU BET IT IS but as i say, they even have said that there is nothing new in my work. this is a heinous lie. most of the main ideas that my work deals with, and there are many, are absolutely unique to me, especially my concepts on 2012, atlantis, ireland, and the origins of evil.

elements of what i speak of can surely be found in many other teachers, but no one has fused these elements together, nor interpreted them as i have.

99 percent of those writes who speak on akhenaton lionize the man and his times. i do not. and moreover no one has ever traced masonry and other secret societies, let alone christianity, back to egyptian atonism. i could go on for a long time with this, and show how many ideas in my work are absolutely unique.

so this cheap slander and muckslinging comes from a group of envious motherfucking posers who cannot abide the changes in the world, and who despise a self-made man who has the power to change people's lives for the better. the greatest weapons are mental. and we are in changing times. these are the very people i have always predicted would be unveiled...its just great fun to see them unveiled and exposed by their very own hands. that is a real kicker. keep it up morons.

QUOTE

Follow up by Tsarion

ON THE CHARACTER ASSASSINS

now regarding the question of me profiterring from what i do as i have been constantly accused.

you must have noted how much these envious muckslingers keep coming back to the amount of money i make through their pathetic "he's exploiting ignorant people" jive (yawn), that is with my dvds and so on. there are many points to bring up in rebuttal against this slander, but only 2 need be stated at this time.

1. people buy them of their own accord. they pay the price not because they are ignorant but because they like my work, they trust me, and they know its ultimate worth, both from a commercial point of view and most importantly in regards content. their willingness to pay for these products demonstrates not only their intelligence and freethought, but also their virtue.

2. if i was into making money, then i would hardly be doing everything in such a small homegrown way, with every product i have available only from my official sites which can handle limited amounts of stock. others in my position would invariably get their first book, and subsequent products, on amazon or barnes and noble, and be using the usual big distributors which place things in every bookstore throughout the world. if i chose to do this i would be making hundreds of thousands of dollars if not millions. however, my books are not to be found in ANY commerical outlet. they will never be. i get vendor requests every day from all over the world. i get customer complaints about my work not being found in normal bookstores.

I have but two small online distributors www.oneheartbooks.com and www.hiddenmysteries.com, who are given no more than 10 or 20 items at a time, a purely nominal amount for their initial assistance. the dvds are not carried by these companies. the latter company is allowed books because they are personal friends, and the same goes for the first group. and because they are industry, they receive copies at 55 percent off the cover price, which means that i lose money by selling them wholesale books. get the picture. every book that could go to a customer for full price is given to any and all distributors at 55 percent off cover price.

but these FACTS are never presented in defense of my character. instead scandalous lies are manufactured by these tossers without dicks.

i dont deal with the big distributors or stores because i despise middle-men, and these big leviathans. from the beginning i have lost money because i want to remain grassroots and control things myself. my work is controversial and is not for everyone. those who want my material can find it. i don't go out to sell any of it.

i have been INVITED to every conference and radio show. i don't advertize or ever promote myself. never have and never will. the timegnosis infomercial concerns a joint work with my colleagues who desire to make a rather esoteric subject available to a large audience.

but in regards my own works, i keep it all off the main grid. does this sound like someone interested in making money, as these hounds constantly and viciously howl?

simple deductions like these are beyond these puss heads. when you can't pull your head out of your ass, you envy those who do better, who make things happen, and who don't need anyone.

as it has been said - the world can be divided into

THOSE WHO DO
THOSE WHO WONT
AND
THOSE WHO CANT

when you see envy rampant, dripping from people's mouths, its because the first category hates the third and seeks to have them out of business. its the only way turds can feel big. they can't create a damn thing themselves, so pushing others down or aside is the ONLY WAY these maggots can feel esteemed, or like legends in their own minds.

i hope this can be clearly seen by all. I hope we see how selective these maggots are about who they go after. i dont see them attacking people selling trash and advertizing the shit out of it, the anthony robbins types, or sylvia browns, or what not. no, they got to pick on me instead.

facts be damned

well i have the last laugh

QUOTE

http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/viewtopic.php?t=19&postdays=0&postorder=asc&start=2210

MICHAEL TSARION WORKS FOR THE ILLUMINATI. THAT IS WHY HE WRITES PASSAGES SUCH AS THIS IN HIS NEW BOOK.

OKAY, SUCH IS THE LOGIC OF MY CHARACTER ASSASSINS.

EVER SEEN AN AXE GO THROUGH A POUND OF BUTTER. THAT IS WHAT MY WORK AND WORDS DO TO THE BRAINS OF THESE PIG SHIT EATERS

Naturally the power-elites, and their minions who apparently believe the world to be their personal play-pen, have a great deal to lose should the “Under-Classes,” or ordinary men and women of the world, learn about the subtle nature of the psychic and social control that operates all around them and which is hidden in plain sight. However, the task of revealers is made considerably more difficult due to "consensus trance" and the knee-jerk fear reactions that automatically inhibit a mutilated and conditioned mind. The Servants of Truth know from experience how few friends are won, if and when they should endeavor to expose the dirty little secrets of religion’s upper echelons. Nevertheless, a Servant of Truth is not permanently daunted by the discomfort caused by the presence and proximity of truth. The Servant of Truth is aware that it is easier to cut oneself with a blunt knife rather than with a sharp one, and that the price of ignorance is ultimately far greater than the price paid for knowledge. The Servant of Truth knows that freedom is never free and that silence is most definitely consent. He comes to realize that, on the great board game of life, if he fatally chooses to not occupy the white squares of knowledge, he will be manipulated by those who will.

Truly, it is not hyperbole to say that we are, during the years of this new millennium, going to experience the greatest of revelations concerning the most important and complex human mysteries. We can expect many a layer of deception to be peeled away and jettisoned. Some of us may be glad and grateful for the coming of the light of revelation. Others among us may be startled by the proximity of such knowledge and many will be deeply threatened by its presence. Many will not wish to see in themselves the dirt that this light will surely reveal. For these types there are always the churches and the priests. There will always be those confessors in black to hide behind and who, with their words and incense, can appease the profound inner angst of egos that are fast approaching the end of their cycle of existence.

SOURCE
http://www.irishoriginsofcivilization.com/...pts-intro2.html

QUOTE

more from Tsarion - http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...=asc&start=2210

CHARACTER ASSASSINS

an additional caveat to those accusers who spew that my work is not unique, and that there is 'nothing new' to be found in it.

i have pointed out in a previous post the uniqueness of my ideas on atlanits, ireland, 2012, and the origins of evil, etc, and now wish to address my ideas on the truth concerning the HOLY SPIRIT.

please find me anyone who has a definition of the HOLY SPIRIT, that can be found in the introduction to book 2 of the irish origins, and that i briefly introduced in the 2012 future of mankind webstream, and also origins of evil webstream as freeman decimated chris shite's idiotic claims about there being no connection between christ and horus, so i decimate their pathetic assumption that my work contains nothing unique. they made the accusation, and now the axe of truth comes down on their gullets.

merry christmas turds...

EXCERPTS FROM
http://www.irishoriginsofcivilization.com/...pts-intro2.html

The Holy Spirit and the Age of Revealing

Do you deny me the entrance to heaven, I who have at last learned the mystery of myself - Egyptian Mystery School legend

Although most Christians will be loath to accept what we say, it is in accordance with true Christian precepts to identify this so-called “Holy Spirit” (the third spiritual essence and principle within the Trinity) as our own selfhood. The Holy Spirit was referred to as "Wisdom" (Sophia), and was equated with transcendent knowledge. This knowledge may extend to the son of god, and then to god himself, but it must first begin with self- knowledge. This is literally what Sophia of the Trinity is - knowledge of the self. The conspiring forces that sought to make this self-knowledge taboo, and who distorted and complicated our understanding and veneration of the true Holy Spirit, were attempting to blot out the self from the Holy Trinity and from the spiritual canon. To imagine the Holy Spirit to be some vague presence, or some indefinable aspect of the Virgin Mary, a white ethereal dove, an abstract metaphysical principle, or an inexplicable mystery, suited the desires of the Christian priestarchy but denied their flock their most valuable key to the gates of salvation. What we were not told is that without the key of knowledge of the self, the other keys, should they even come into our possession, are worthless.

It is this journey of self discovery that true mystics embark upon and that sincere philosophers aspire to. But this safari, this trek into the jungles of the Self was regarded as a reprehensible and even lethal enterprise to those plotting the charts of official religion. And so, it was decided that the first and highest priority lay in instilling the wholly false notion that man receives enlightenment from without, after penance and after the performance of certain fixed rites overseen by the priests that he must unquestionably revere, serve, and sustain. The "Holy Ghost" of the ensconced priestarchs is something that "descends" upon a man from outside. It is not something that awakens within his being. It is this false theological premise that has sent men out of their own being and into the hands of deceivers. In truth, there is no enlightenment to be found outside oneself. There is nothing worth having or attaining that does not originate within one's own being. If there is such a thing as enlightenment it cannot be found in the company of gurus, priests, or experts. Only its antithesis can be found in such company. As it was written at Delphi, it is only when a man has ended his own inner division and come to rational clarity over the mystery of himself that he can inherit true wisdom. Only then will that which is worth having make itself known. So pervasive was this inviolable knowledge that we still can find hints and veiled references to it in the tomes of official religions. Such entries were probably either remnants of the heavily plagiarized Gnostic canon or clues left by higher minded clerics silently traveling upon their own personal "Siddhartha Roads."

Without father, without mother, without human descent; His life has neither beginning nor end; but, as the Son of God, abides as a Holy Priest continually - (Hebrews 7:3)

Many stand outside at the door, but it is only the solitaries who will enter into the bridal chamber - Jesus Christ (Gospel of Thomas)

The knowledge of god, or even of the son of god, is worthless to the one who does not deeply know him or herself. The chaos and debauch in our world is the result of this lack of self-knowledge. The casualties from drugs and from false spiritual paths and teachers also stand as testimony to our assertion and thesis.

...a distorted development of autonomy is the root cause of the pathological and, ultimately, evil element in human beings - Arno Gruen (The Betrayal of the Self: The Fear of Autonomy in Men and Women)

The most strongly enforced of all known taboos, is the taboo against knowing who or what you really are behind the mask of your apparently separate, independent, and isolated ego - Alan Watts (The Book: On the Taboo Against Knowing Who You Are)

The individual has always had to struggle to keep from being overwhelmed by the tribe. If you try it, you will often be lonely, and sometimes frightened. But no price is too high to pay for the privilege of owning yourself - Fredrick Nietzsche

Alas, I can see that you do not know what it means to be alone. Wherever there have been powerful societies, governments, religions, or public opinions - in short, wherever there was any kind of tyranny, it has hated the lonely philosopher; for philosophy opens up a refuge for man where no tyranny can reach: the cave of inwardness, the labyrinth of the breast; and that annoys all tyrants - Fredrick Nietzsche (Schopenhauer as Teacher)

Yes, to jump over the bridge of selfhood hoping to land on the ship leaving for paradise, is to fall and drown for sure in the cold, swirling, demon-infested depths of perplexity and insanity. “Self-Realization is necessary before God-Realization” was the motto of the Vedanta masters and Brahmanic sages. “Know Thyself” were the words at the Delphic Oracle in Greece. The temple of the living god is “within” announced the Christian Christ. The cardinal misconception that we can receive our satori and our bliss from someone or something other than the self has perpetuated the “master-slave” dichotomy. This pernicious theology is the antithesis of that taught by the Druid Elders of the ancient world.

We understand that a rational man cannot say, like Christ is meant to have done, that: "I and my Father are One," unless we are each first one within ourselves to begin with. The "Father" is complete and if we are ourselves not complete then how can we possibly be one with him or with anyone? The Christian who imagines that being one with the Father implies the abnegation of selfhood is a sadist to his own being. He commits a cardinal sin with just this kind of illogical thinking. How can a mere nothing, a human zero, merge with god? After all, who is it that comprehends this state of oneness? Logically, it is only a self that can merge or bond with god's self. Anything else is fantasy.

When you know yourselves, then you will be known, and you will know that you are the sons of the living Father. But if you do not know yourselves, then you are in poverty, and you are poverty - (Gospel of Thomas)

You yourself are even another little world and have within you the sun and the moon and also the stars - Origen (Church Father, 3rd Century AD)

You are the temple of God. For the temple of God is holy, which temple you are - (1 Corinthians 3:16)

The abnegation of selfhood is tantamount to self-murder. Thanks to orthodox religion and its anti-human dogmas this sadism to the self is rampant throughout the world. We can find it in the East and in the West. Religion, government, and corporations, exist to rape men of their inherent sovereignty and to crush the Spirit of Rebellion. These forces are obscene contradictions to the true Holy Spirit. The church, in particular, is not the agent of the Holy Spirit but its greatest enemy. A careful reading of the bible reveals how many passages are given over to the question of slavery and how endorsed it is by god and his terrestrial agents.

Slaves, submit yourselves to your masters with all respect, not only to those who are good and considerate, but also to those who are harsh. For it is commendable if a man bears up under pain of unjust suffering because he is conscious of God…But if you suffer for doing good and you endure it, this is commendable before God - (Peter 2:18-21)

Nothing is more poisonous, harmful or devilish than a man in rebellion - Martin Luther (founder of Protestantism)

The abnegation of selfhood is subtly but deliberately enforced in every so-called "civilized" society of the world. We reach voting age, work age, and marital age, without the faintest idea of what it is that makes us each unique. Indeed, it is this subjugation of a man's selfhood that alone has driven us perilously near to the gates of oblivion and not those of paradise. The object of my investigation is to rectify this, by deconstructing the maze of lies that has captured and bound our sanity and our truth-starved souls. Perhaps, we can now understand why it is that a man cannot be forgiven for sins committed against the “Holy Spirit,” that is, against his own Higher Self. And perhaps we can understand why it was so vitally important for early Judeo-Christian hierarchs and mythmongers to obscure the identity of this feminine third party in the Blessed Trinity, symbolized by the Gnostic (and Scorpionic) dove.

And so I tell you, every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven men, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven - (Matt 12:31)

Jesus said: “He who blasphemes against the Father will be forgiven, and he who blasphemes against the Son will be forgiven; but he who blasphemes against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven, either on earth or in heaven” - (Gospel of Thomas)

Yes, remove the Self from the Trinity, and from the ontology, and your demonic schemes of domination will succeed beyond your wildest expectations. Crush the Self and your end is assured. Revive the Self and man gets his chance to follow the bright dove homeward to his refuge of truth and understanding. Symbolically speaking, we find it more than suggestive that the dove was chosen to represent the third party of the Blessed Trinity since it is not a Christian emblem. It is a very ancient pagan symbol. The origin of the mystical symbolism of the dove comes from astrology and from the gnosis of the ancient stellar cults. The dove is, in fact, the symbol for the sign of Scorpio, which is one of the two signs of the zodiac connected to the Spirit of Rebellion. So, we find it more than significant that the symbol chosen to represent the higher self - the true Holy Spirit - should relate directly and undeniably to the spirit and act of Rebellion, and to the Spirit of Contradiction. We find it to be more than significant that the bible should proclaim it to be the direst and most irredeemable of sins to contradict or violate the will of this Holy Spirit. Since we have been committing this "sin" nonstop, age after age, it follows that we should indeed find ourselves struggling and choking in the webs of our own making. It stands to reason that humans are to be found floundering in a squalid swamp of non-issues, existing as prisoners in their own palaces, lacking the intelligence to know the danger they face. Therefore, we make it our task to draw attention to the significance of this sin against the self. From the ending of this most mortal of sins comes a new rapport with that true comforter, that eternal daemon (guardian) that has long worked for our awakening and arrival. Now that this is understood, we are in a good position to finally see the battlefield and the rival factions. Because of our new understanding we grow proficient in determining who the real misleaders are. They are those men who would condemn, stifle, and even obliterate this supernal Spirit of Rebellion. They are those who would fashion for us oppressive political leviathans, inhuman psychopathic corporations, and repressive religions, to ensure that the spirit that is essential to our existence is driven forth into the wilderness never to return. With that great spirit gone, lying in its unmarked grave, humans fall cringing at the mercy of the terror-wolves, the daylight vampires, and phantoms of death who crave our ruin.

Thankfully, the one thing that never dies in this world, at any time or in any place, is the Spirit of Rebellion. It endures forever in someone or other, in some hermit, or poet, musician, playwright, or filmmaker. It has been beaten and crushed many a time but it is going nowhere. We can be thankful for that. We can, therefore, look to and rely upon this great spirit for our salvation. We can learn to rely upon the Spirit of Rebellion physically and socially and we can also learn to rely upon it mentally. We need to become accustomed to the Spirit of Rebellion because it is already moving in the world and will soon make itself vividly apparent. When the dove descends into our world it will, however, don a quite different garb than the one we may be familiar with. The dove is merely a metaphor for the deconstructive energy that is astrologically symbolized by the sign of Scorpio and its ruling planet Pluto. In psychological terms, Pluto is the “Shadow.” Symbolically speaking, it is nature’s psychic surgeon or hygienist that arrives to cleanse the soul of its toxicity and repressed debris so that it may be chastened and virginal enough to perhaps receive the clear elixir of truth. That Plutonic Shadow, the emissary of the Holy Spirit, has already been manifesting in the world and it will continue to do so for a decade or more. Its presence is the harbinger of truth and above all - freedom. Therefore, only those imprisoners of human minds and souls have something to fear from the coming "Age of Revealing." As the Scorpionic thirteenth card of the Tarot shows (Rider-Waite Deck) it is only the popes and kings, and their lieutenants, who will be leveled before Pluto’s great steed. It is only the emotionally, morally, and spiritually toxic amongst us who have something to fear from the approach of Pluto's silver scythe. The rest can benefit from, and even enjoy, the healing that comes after the pestilence, the plague, and the offending virus has been eradicated. All we have to remember is that everything in our world is cleaned - our bodies, our cars, and our carpets. Only our emotions and psyche remain perpetually neglected and unhygienic. This is what the energy represented by Pluto comes in to confront and clear.

There is a reason why the word sanity is etymologically related to the word sanitary. The sanitary mind is sane, and the unsanitary mind is, by definition unsane, and even insane.

The gigantic catastrophes that threaten us today are not elemental happenings of a physical or biological order, but psychic events. To a quite terrifying degree we are threatened by wars and revolutions which are nothing other than psychic epidemics. At any moment several millions of human beings may be smitten with a new madness, and then we shall have another world war or devastating revolution. Instead of being at the mercy of wild beasts, earthquakes, landslides, and inundations, modern man is battered by the elemental forces of his own psyche - Carl Gustav Jung (German psychologist)

Most people do not see, understand, or care very much about this catastrophe of the planet because they are overwhelmingly preoccupied with grave psychological problems. The environmental crisis is rooted in the psychological crisis of the modern individual. This makes the search for an eco-psychology crucial; we must understand better what terrible thing is happening to the modern human mind, why it is happening, and what can be done about it - Glenn Parton (The Machine in our Heads)

Till now man has been up against Nature. From now he will be up against his own nature - Dennis Gabor

Thou shalt know; self-chosen are the woes that fall on men - how wretched, for they see not good so near, nor hearken to its voice - few only know the pathway of deliverance from ill – Pythagoras (Grecian philosopher, 6th century BC)

In short, the men and women who have done their spiritual homework, and who are psychologically and morally hygienic, have nothing to fear from the times ahead. What many paranoiacs, fear-mongers, and doomsday merchants imagine to be the countdown to extinction is actually the countdown to freedom. What many falsely imagine to be the instigation of a tyrannical “New World Order” is, in fact, going to be the removal of all such draconian order from the world, forever. The saber-rattling and war-mania of the world’s power-elites is but a subconscious fear-reaction to the inevitable approach of change, a desperate and futile attempt to offset the coming Plutonic storms that will demolish all that is infirm and toxic from the soul and from the world. With the world in turmoil, with fear oozing from every mind, and with terror radiating from every brain, the bestial world-leaders can feel more comfortable. We all prefer to be in an ambience that reflects our inner state. Well, a world of chaos and upheaval, murder, mayhem, injustice, and brutality does reflect the inner psychological and emotional state of those we have set upon the thrones of the world. After all, one does not commonly find carrion crows or vultures seeking repast in a Japanese tea garden.

◊◊◊

Shiva, Pluto & the Age of Aquarius

Astrologically, the signs of rebellion are Scorpio and Aquarius. Scorpio is the eighth house of the twelve houses of the zodiac, and Aquarius is the eleventh house. There are many fascinating mathematical and numerological relationships between the numbers eight and eleven and there are, likewise, many interesting correspondences between Scorpio and Aquarius. One of the fundamental correspondences involves the planet of rebellion, Uranus. Uranus is the planetary “ruler” of the sign of Aquarius and is “exalted” (of greatest power) in Scorpio. “New Age” philosophy expounds the idea that we are gradually approaching the so-called “Age of Aquarius.” However, this is not the place to explicate the details of astrological prophecy or expound on the sundry notions regarding this future age. I merely wish to highlight the rebellious traits symbolized by the sign of Aquarius and the planet-archetype Uranus. It is this Spirit of Rebellion, and what may come of its manifestation, that is of primary interest to us.

We would rather forgive the evil proliferating all around us than the rebellion against it, which we mistake for the true evil - Arno Gruen (Betrayal of the Self)

Presently, as we write, the planet Uranus (ruler of Aquarius) is moving through (transiting) the last sign of the zodiac called Pisces. Like all signs of the zodiac, Pisces has both positive and negative traits associated with it. This conjunction of Uranus in Pisces provides the insightful and intuitive with a peek into the forthcoming Age of Aquarius. Those who have adroit “Pattern-Recognition” skills, and who are “Symbolically Literate,” will perceive in today’s world subtle forecasts of what is to come in the future age.

If thou wilt know the invisible, open wide thine eyes on the visible - Kabalistic Adage Aquarius and Uranus rule the spirit of youth that is akin to the Spirit of Rebellion. The coming of Uranus can be compared to a meeting between an extremely caffeinated and ticked-off Bruce Lee meeting an extremely hyper and histrionic Jackie Chan. As we can imagine, there won’t be much left of the furniture after they get through talking over their problems. Uranus is the planetary ruler of the famous Fool card in the Tarot. The Fool represents the innocent, sensitive, vital mind that is ever receptive, unconditioned, mutable, and free. He is the androgynous one who travels without a load of attachments and who allows neither fear nor memory to interfere with his mutable, omnidirectional journey of experience. He perfectly embodies the Taoist's Wei Wu Wei (accomplishment without action). To him, the world always appears new, fresh, interesting and magical. This does not mean that the Fool does not also see the injustice and perversity that exists around him. He sees all the suffering and sorrow and he laments it deeply. His spirit is, after all, Plutonic and Uranian. His spirit is free and also deeply human, but his solutions to problems are of a grass-roots variety. He despises complexity, and prefers solutions that are ingenious yet simple and comprehensible. The Plutonic-Uranian mind does not require debates, pie charts, graphs, boardroom decisions, or ten-year plans to cut through “Gordian Knots,” and move proverbial mountains. The Uranian does not need to take a poll of the opinions of others to know what he should believe, or when and how to act. Independence and individualism are not merely catchphrases to him. He is suspicious when such terms are used to enslave rather than to liberate, when they proffer false security instead of true grounded integral sovereignty. Essentially, the Uranian “Fool” is a proverbial fifth columnist or agent provocateur working to bring down the “dark satanic mills” that incarcerate the spirit of man. He is a true servant of the Holy Spirit, even if he does not look like one.

The Spirit of Rebellion and the return to Selfhood will be humankind’s salvation in the dark times that are approaching. We have already been feeling, seeing, and experiencing the subtle and not so subtle effects of Uranus and Pluto for some time now. The “Hippy” era of the 1960s was a perfect expression of the lower and more chaotic Aquarian-Uranian archetypes. The “Punk” era of the 1970s was a good example of lower frequency Scorpionic-Plutonic archetypes, and the sexual promiscuity of the ‘80s and ‘90s was also a patently lower-octave symptom. We are still, however, to experience the higher, purer manifestation of these archetypes although we will not have long to wait.

Let it be understood, however, that the power-brokers of the world order will not just sit by and allow the Spirit of Rebellion work its magic. As in the days of old they have many a counter-plan devised to maintain their hegemony. The rise of evangelism, oppressive laws, and conservative governments are evidence of this reaction to the liberating energies of Pluto and Uranus.

The nature of Pluto is similar to that of the Hindu god Shiva…Pluto usually begins by breaking down a structure, then creates a new one in its place. The entire cycle of death, destruction and renovation is accompanied by tremendous powers, for Pluto is not a mild or even very subtle planetary influence. It brings decay at one level or another…It also rules the death and regeneration of the self, as old aspects of your life pass away…Pluto does not represent death in the literal sense, instead it refers to a metaphorical death, something that ceases to be - Robert Hand (Planets in Transit)

In the intermediate years we will do well to educate ourselves as to how the architects of ruin, within the religious and political hierarchies, are likely to react to this influx of liberating energy. These well-established bastions of repression and oppression are, after all, not in the habit of just rolling out of the way and giving up the ghost. We can expect them to willfully react in concert to overcome the new paradigm and new modality of expression that seeks to breach their walls and invade their territory, so to speak. As we can see from an astromantic study of the 1960s and ‘70s, the Saturnian forces of law, order, and oppression, do not hesitate to retaliate and quell the Spirit of Rebellion. The agents of Saturnian, Solar, and Martian energy (the governments, educational edifices, and official religions, etc) do know, however, that there are many long-term benefits to be gained from permitting short-term “angst-release” from the “Under-Classes” they manipulate and control. This is why there have been, in the past, certain high-profile bouts of rebellion and fleeting chaotic flickers of anarchy from the disenchanted and malcontented within society. As ex-rebels James Simon Kunen (Columbia University activist) and Jerry Kirk (Black Panthers) have already informed us, there are two main forms of rebellion - the soft and the hard. There is the “designer” or “chic” version that serves, in the long run, to reinforce the established status quo, and there is the authentic and radical form that attempts, and occasionally succeeds, in countering and demolishing the rotten status quo. The masses of discontented and inwardly discomfited who consider themselves as being “against the system” (and this includes the majority of pseudo-Communists, pseudo-Anarchists, and so on) are usually of the first variety and are, therefore, easily duped and led. More often than not these soft-rebels are also highly duplicitous, narcissistic and devious. They desire only to seize the reigns of power for themselves. After all, how many Stalins, Castros, Maos, and Mugabes of the world begin as zealous “opponents” of the status quo only to later become the most zealous of oppressors? As William Blake wrote: "...the fist that crushes the tyrants head becomes a tyrant in the tyrant’s stead." So, although the masters of the game may occasionally permit this soft designer-rebelliousness, they are ever vigilant against the true hard form should it ever threaten to appear.

They are dangerous because there are so many of them. It is one thing to have a few nuts or dissidents. They can be dealt with, justly or otherwise, so that they do not pose a danger to the system. It is quite another situation when you have a true movement - millions of citizens believing something, particularly when the movement is made up of society’s average, successful citizens - William Colby (Late Director of CIA)

Where a majority are united by a common sentiment, and have an opportunity, the rights of the minor party become insecure. In a republican government the majority, if united, have always an opportunity. The only remedy is to enlarge the sphere" (that is, unite all the States under a federal government) "and thereby divide the community into so great a number of interests and parties that, in the first place, a majority will not be likely, at the same moment, to have a common interest separate from that of the whole, or of the minority; and, in the second place, that, in case they should have such an interest, they may not be so apt to unite in the pursuit of it - President James Madison (Elliot's Debates, Vol. 5)

That spirit of constructive resistance and rebellion was present in Mikhail Bakunin, William Blake, William Wallace, and Che Guevara, and in the modern comedians Bill Hicks and Lenny Bruce. It was found in Giordano Bruno and Soren Kierkegaard, in Ezra Pound, Ayn Rand, Wilhelm Reich and Jiddu Krishnamurti. It is the holy daemon about to possess many people in the world, many of whom would not at this moment consider themselves rebels with any cause. There are many sleeping heretics in the world and they are soon to be awakened. However, there are certain rules that come with the package and certain laws that the rational rebel must acknowledge and master. Authentic rebels know, for instance, that it is pointless and hypocritical to strive against external tyranny unless one has first combated their own inner repressive instincts and drives. The true rebel is not merely a rager against the machine or a campus malcontent. He is a student of oppression, repression, and slavery. He allows the forces he despises and opposes to be his best tutors and he observes these forces closely, in order to become minutely aware of their nature and behavior. He extrapolates and examines the anatomy of tyranny and comes to know cruelty, sadism, violence, injustice, and destruction intimately. The rebels who are going to matter, and who will possess the rational power to effect proactive change, are those who become “walking encyclopedias” of evil. There is not a nuance of it that eludes them.

Having walked through Hades, to emerge again, the Servant of Truth is supremely qualified to heal and revive the lost and ignorant people of the world. His power lies in his healthy attitude to the challenges of life, in his Spirit of Rebellion and Contradiction. His authority is a result of his psychological and attitudinal freedom, for it is this inner condition that exalts a man - even one whose body is bound in chains.

QUOTE

I never trusted people who say they will give you answers for money, a hefty sum of money. I mean everyone needs to make a living but churches who charge ten percent of your salary to the church(priests need their porches and Florida vacation mansions too ya' know) and people who offer X for $X amount of dollars is very suspicious.

Second of all, Tsarion's response was very rude and aggressive, saying words like "motherfucking" and saying he will solve debates with his fist. I mean I've watched his works and he said that these world leaders are sick because they find violence and death to be good yet he himself is very aggressive and violent in his response. If he showed more class maybe I could believe him but c'mon this guy his ready to eat his enemies children and rape their dogs. Excuse my French but this guy is a fucking loonie and a hypocrite.

QUOTE

In the New Age, new rules will apply and so The Order is using Maxwell & Tsarion to destroy the old religion in order to make way for the new one...but the unfortunate bi product of such an endavour will be the complete destruction of Western Spirituality which is erroneously dependent on the validity of tangible tools of deception like the Bible and the Church...This is by design as the order even before its original inception in the 1500's has long sought to destroy human spirituality....and they have been quite successful...thanks to religion...

True Spirituality is intangible and should exist outside the boundaries of a book which contains words that can be Manipulated on pages that can be Singed....It is not Tsarion fault that modern day Christians do not understand this...they must seperate themselves from things that are easily broken (Doctrine & Church) and get back to a Non Fleshly Christ which resides within....

QUOTE

Kentroversy writes about Red Ice, Tsarion allegations. There is so much disinfo out there right now... the controversy surrounding Red Ice/Tsarion baffles me. I'll remain agnostic on this one...

Does anyone else read Kentroversy.com? His background is sketchy, but I feel he is legitimate researcher/journalist.

The article can be found on the front page: Kentroversy.com

QUOTE

TSARION admits working for them?
http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...showtopic=24688

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 01:37 AM (GMT)

Michael Tsarion and the Rosicrucian Connection
by Chris White, Dec 06, 2007

Michael Tsarion, is he a Rosicrucian? Is that a degree offered by the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry? Is their goal the unification of world religions for their World Government? Was he trained to be a “world teacher” by the Theosophical Society? By people like Blavatsky and Crowley? Is his agenda “kind of like” or exactly that of the Illuminati networks?

http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-2021536538307544046

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 01:40 AM (GMT)

http://www.godlikeproductions.com/forum1/message467035/pg1

QUOTE

nowheretorun
User ID: 348743
1/1/2008 11:17 PM

check this movie out it definitely makes a strong case for him being a Rosicrucian [link to video.google.com]

In fact he threatened to kick my ass the other day for making this..heres some info on it.

[link to nowheretorun.podomatic.com]

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 01:42 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Dec 29 2008, 02:10 AM)

Michael Tsarion Threatens to Kick Chris White's Ass for Exposing Him

December 16, 2007
http://www.outlawjournalism.com/news/?p=6520

New Age guru Michael Tsarion, who has recently been publicly exposed as a Freemason and generational occultist, has threatened physical violence against one of the people who assisted this exposure - Chris White, of the 'Nowhere to Run' internet radio show, who recently did a show on Tsarion's occult connections, noting among other things that he is an admitted member of the Rosicrucian Order...

http://www.godlikeproductions.com/forum1/message467035/pg1

QUOTE

ARTICLE 2
Michael Tsarion Continues to Refuse to Respond to Evidence that He is a Shill

Outlaw News
December 16, 2007

Yesterday, I wrote a piece about a series of radio shows Chris White did on the vast inconsistencies and flat out disinformation that Michael Tsarion puts out. I also mentioned his connection to a mass of occult organizations, and the fact that when a member of his forum brought Chris' show up, Tsarion threatened him with physical violence, and made the statement that he needed to be shut up. I included the fact that I had been blocked from posting on Michael's forum. Tsarion has throughout the day continued to block me from posting, and has removed all comments which bring his nefarious affiliations into question.

I convinced a member of the Tsarion New Age cult who is also a Myspace friend of mine, Queen of Night, to go on the forum and post this article, since I had been disallowed. Likely because I dealt with Tsarion's violent response in the article, he responded this time in a much more collected way, telling his devotees not to look at the allegations, as it would pollute them with negative energy. He still did not respond to a single one of the issues I brought up, which was smart, because anything he could give would be a lie.

I then asked another member of the cult to go on and post a comment I was not allowed to post, in which I suggested that if Tsarion does not have anything to hide, there is absolutely no reason that he should not respond to the facts that have been brought up by Alan Watt, Chris White, and others, and linked to a forum where a host of ex-Tsarion cult members were discussing being banned from the forum when they questioned him. This post was immediately deleted. Sadly, the cult member who agreed to post the comment for me saw nothing wrong with the fact that he deleted this, which proves the degree to which Tsarion has these people under his spell.

After listening to Chris White's show and reading the post that I was able to sneak in through Queen of Night, a member of the forum, BelzeBob, politely suggested that some answers were in order, which Tsarion quite strategically refused to give. BelzeBob then said this:

Is my asking questions considered heresy?

Hallmarks of a “Cult”:

1. Everybody agrees with each other

2. And this becomes their strength

3. Asking questions and having a critical mind (about the “Cult”s doctrine) is not encouraged.

4. Any view that harmonizes with the “Cult”’s doctrine is good.

5. And any view that doesn’t harmonize is “an attack”

6. Where the solution is either a “counter-attack” or just silence.

7. Such views will never be given the chance to be thoroughly disproved as it is considered “unnecessary” and even “ridiculous”.

Just like asking difficult questions.

Another hallmark: in such a “Cult” people rarely learn anything. Except learning things by route and repeating them.

In all of these 20 or so posts regarding the “naughty” radio show I have not seen a single question answered. If nobody has answers:

A. Admit it.

B. Be silent.

When this post again went unanswered by Tsarion, and instead he simply reiterated that everyone needed to simply forget about everything that Alan, Chris and I have brought up, BelzeBob, being polite again, resigned from the forum. This was a nice bit of encouragement, as I have been viciously attacked by so many of the cultic followers over the last few days. Even when they are not vicious, they completely refuse to listen to any manner of reason. Several have also told me that even if Michael came out and admitted that he was a government agent, they would still believe everything he says, unquestioningly. This is not terribly surprising, because they all continue to defend Aliester Crowley, who was an admitted MI6 agent and high Freemason (none of them appear to actually know anything about the man save what Tsarion has told them, but defend him nonetheless).

Ultimately, these people are so far gone that very little can ever be done for them. They are consumed with the New Age sci-fi/fantasy reality which Tsarion promotes, and have no desire to free themselves from it; again, they are cult members. This may make some of you ask why I even bother to try and expose him, when the members of his cult are so far beyond help. To this I would respond that I am doing it for those who may not be very familiar with Tsarion, and have not yet been sucked into his demented paradigm, and I also want to encourage further inquiry into Tsarion’s past and present affiliations with nefarious groups, and put all of this on the record for the future, when even more damning evidence is sure to be uncovered. Along with this, I am doing it for people like BelzeBob, who have the strength and personal integrity to pull themselves up out of the state of mind control and indoctrination that Tsarion has inflicted upon them. Lastly, I feel the need to expose this man on principle alone, as he is spreading an incredibly destructive doctrine though out this entire movement with great force, due to the tremendous backing that he clearly has.

Michael Tsarion is a part of a standard counterintelligence operation. The subject has been written about extensively in government manuals, many of which are publicly available. The way it works is rather simple: when information that the powers that be are afraid of the general public having access to begins to come up from the grassroots, they then create an extremely well funded superstar to come out with that information, but mix it with other nonsensical information, such as aliens, tarot cards, astrology, and other fantastic or religious type of disinformation. People are drawn to the individual, who comes on the scene as a hero, because he is saying things that they know are true. They then swallow the rest of the nonsense along with it, because they trust the shill who is feeding it to them. The disinformation completely neutralizes whatever truth they have been given, and the shill will generally slowly crank up the level of fantastical disinformation as the years go on, as anyone who has followed Tsarion’s work is aware he has done.

The man is also pulling in incredible amounts of cash, selling his DVDs for up to 60 bucks. This is another foundational pillar of a cult – only the leaders have the answers you need, and you have to pay extortionary rates to get a hold of them.

I want to continue to encourage anyone who doubts what I am saying to go to Tsarions forum:

[link to www.redicecreations.com]

Get an account, and try to go on there and ask him if he is a member of the Rosy Croix, why he blocks people who question him, what his response is to Alan Watt’s allegations, why he won’t debate Alan, why he defends admitted government disinformationalists, or anything else I have mentioned here, and I guarantee you will have all doubt removed when he blocks you.

Also, because this is an information war scenario, and we do want to wake up the people who have fallen for Frater Tsarion’s tricks, anyone who feels a conviction to do so should try to get access to the forum by posting something benign, getting vetted so you can post without having your posts checked, and then posting questions and links to this article. Be polite and precise, and just tell him you want some response. If enough people see it and respond to it before he does, he cannot delete it – this is what happened with the post I got Queen of Night to make.

What I am trying to do here is force Tsarion into some kind of public confrontation, hopefully on Red Ice radio, with either Alan Watt, Chris White, or me. I would at least like to see some kind of public statement from him regarding all of the points that we have made. I see no reason why, if Michael has nothing to hide, he cannot respond in some way that is not simply a threat of physical violence.

I am going to continue to cover this situation in the future, and I would appreciate it if anyone who digs up further information of Michael Tsarion would please contact me at hello.andre@yahoo.com

1 love,
-Andre

http://www.godlikeproductions.com/forum1/message467035/pg1

QUOTE

nowheretorun
User ID: 348743
1/1/2008 11:53 PM

Yep,
He hasn't responded to any of the allegations either.
he has told everyone that I am an Illuminati disinformant and a "jesuit stooge" so I guess thats will have to suffice.

if you watch the movie you will see that I think he was trained by theosophist since an early age to be doing whaty he is doing..I.E. prepping our conspiracy starved minds for a one world religion.

I also did a show detailing a lot of major errors he has in his presentations, these are not the kind mistakes one makes if you just missed something..Its very calculated stuff.

btw If you dont believe that the Sitchin back story could be a NWO fabrication check this out
http;//sitchiniswrong.com

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 01:50 AM (GMT)

It seems like Tsarion DID call him a jesuit stooge. Look here.
http://nowheretorun.podomatic.com/entry/20...T13_02_15-08_00

A few quotes from Tsarion's forum posts on his forum:

mtsar
Site Admin

Joined: 25 Apr 2007
Posts: 957
Location: seattle washington
Posted: Sun Dec 16, 2007 10:41 am Post subject:

they are not christians either. they are Jesuit stooges sent to discredit me and others like me. they will never succeed.

mtsar
Site Admin

Joined: 25 Apr 2007
Posts: 957
Location: seattle washington
Posted: Sat Dec 15, 2007 11:09 pm Post subject:

what are you people talking about when you say debate? debate with this trash who has emerged from his fucking toilet? ……..this undereducated, spluttering inarticulate christian (not) moron needs to shut his cakehole, and stop making a total idiot of himself. but being so terribly desperate for attention, this is the way ENVIOUS people go about. the only debate i'll give this pathetic specimen is with my fist…… exposed, am i? the sewer rat does not even know the meaning of the word. he could not find a tit in a whore house……..

mtsar
Site Admin

Joined: 25 Apr 2007
Posts: 957
Location: seattle washington
Posted: Fri Dec 14, 2007 9:57 pm Post subject:

……..these righ-wing christians are employed by the illuminati to debunk people such as myself, by picking on small mistakes and so on. it will take a great deal more than this to stop me

Also..FROM OUTLAW NEWS:
Alan Watt, though apparently hesitant to say all he knows about this situation, has several times indicated that Michael Tsarion, David Icke, Jordan Maxwell, and the rest of that little club are all disinformation agents, put out there to mix the truth with the sci-fi/fantasy world of the New Age religion. Here is a recent interview where Alan discusses this.
http://cuttingthrough.jenkness.com/audio/Alan_Watt_on_WorldReviewCommentary_w_G

So I went to find the Mtsar forum to see if I could actually find those posts and make sure that Chris White wasn't just making things up and made an honest reproduction of a Michael Tsarion post. Sure enough here it is. Screenshot of course. It's the Dec 16 2007 comment. [Direct Link]

WHAT'S NEW

Goto page Previous 1, 2, 3 ... 173, 174, 175 ... 1218, 1219, 1220 Next

REPLY MTSAR Forum Index -> MTSAR FORUM

View previous topic :: View next topic

Author	Message
timothy grass Joined: 30 Apr 2007 Posts: 2874	Posted: Sun Dec 16, 2007 10:33 am Post subject: Quote: Honestly, EVERYONE is a "shill"/Mason/ or CIA these days. For fucking once I wish people would check their facts and make their own decisions. Instead, they let someone plant a SEED of disinfo and they never bother to CHECK the roots of the matter. Good fucking job Chris White. He who smelt it dealt it. YAWN. ....yawn...snooze...burp...snore...fart....zzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzzz.... Queen, if I wake up first would you like for me to rouse you from your sleep, and if you should wake up before I do would you please be kind enough to wake me up, thanks.
Back to top	profile pm
mtsar Site Admin Joined: 25 Apr 2007 Posts: 3137 Location: seattle washington	Posted: Sun Dec 16, 2007 10:41 am Post subject: an intelligent man checks credibility by looking at what has been written and said. they dont have conclusions first. they are not partisan first. these people are IGNORANT. they have stolen and borrowed and plagiarized their whole life, and can't get beyond creating a silly my space for themselves. their envy makes them parasites. they are either sycophants, like we have had on this forum before they got exposed and removed, or they are mucks lingers and debunkers. but they are IGNORANT and can not be regarded as critics. a true critic would have contacted me personally over small errors or inconsistencies. those are inevitable, and can be corrected easily. that is not what this is about. this is about open slander, and riding on the notoriety of someone that is changing the lives of many people throughout the world. as my message of sanity and intelligence gets out, the more shits like this are threatened. they are not christians either. they are Jesuit stooges sent to discredit me and others like me. they will never succeed.
Back to top	profile pm email www

soulinspiration - December 30, 2008 01:59 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Reformation @ Dec 29 2008, 07:51 AM)
>
> There may be a situation where these type of antics are a means of initiation. Why would people like Tsarion or Zagami actually open their mouths about these subjects? Or better, why would their masters allow this?
>
> Since they typically end up discrediting themselves and making their organizations appear childish, it's surprising they even begin.

Zagami has been & still is under a lot of stress from the Jesuits being responsible for the break-up of his family, from his opponents within the Illuminati & with (admittedly self-willed) demonic possession (now fully exorcised I understand). The latter situation very much contributed toward some self-discrediting statements & states of mind.

He is living in Rome with bodyguards & is still in much pain from being separated from his son.

There is no doubt that certain things Leo states are Psy-Ops, but my understanding is that these are ultimately not directed toward us but to foes within the Illuminati. Yes, Leo is not "one of us" & is not an Illuminati researcher, he is a historian within the Illuminati & very much a major player. Make no mistake though, he is firmly anti-Jesuit & has major enemies. They will not take him out though due to his importance - which may be easy to mock, but of that I have no doubt. As Zagami is a crucial Templar bloodline player, by protocol the Pope would have to give the order to take him out & has not got the balls to do it.

For his own strategic reasons Zagami has kept some info back, some of this info is now coming to light from a different source & Craig is putting out some of this info piece-by-piece, starting with the Brakespears.

Provided that Leo stays on course, he will be thanked one day for his actions by those who may get to know of how he has been the only insider to try to start to turn the tide from within the Illuminati. These guys are operating both in this plane & a totally different one, we judge them by our own standards & rules, which is a mistake.

Between late 2006 & early 2008, Leo tried to test the waters outside of the Masonic world to see what support he could gather & mostly received hostility from within the anti-Jesuit arena as well as from those who have also attacked the rest of us who contend that the Jesuits are the source of humanity's oppression via what is known as the New World Order. Leo's background means that he sees things from quite a different perspective to those of us on the outside, these have been stumbling blocks for myself as much as anyone, but at the end of the day I will give this guy his due.

I have learned more about the true nature of the New World Order from Eric Phelps & Leo Zagami than from anyone else. Craig Oxley is taking a great risk in starting to put out this info that he has received & for adding further research & analysis to his. I know for a fact that this is just the tip of an iceberg that neither of us were aware of until recently, in fact I don't know if Craig has all the info yet. I was most fortunate to receive some confirmation of stuff that had only been hinted at previously & am still somewhat in a state of shock, trying to comprehend what I have been privy to.

I can't post my findings just yet, as I work a full week & have to do all my research work outside of that. Hopefully I can obtain more information, answers to further questions that have arisen as a result of the disclosed info. As soon as I can I will publish as much as I can. This may take a little bit of time, so please bear with me. I need to follow up on many of the names I was given - & there are quite a few. It is a tricky thing, as the source does not wish to be named & I must respect that. The conversation was without doubt the most revelatory that I have ever had & the info makes so much sense & the delivery & responses so natural & non-egotistical, no "proving my position" attitude or what have you & answered a lot of questions that I always had a hard time getting resolution on.

Zagami is the real deal. Just bear in mind that certain statements are strategic. That is as frustrating for me as it is for anyone. To be fair, Leo has stated as much several times. He also has a very peculiar sense of humour. He's also not the kind of guy that you'd probably want to get on the wrong side of. However, I fear only God & put my trust in him for protection & guidance. No doubt there are a few things that I may have said to Leo or in regard to him that may have upset him - then again maybe not. Whatever, I believe in being honest about matters of personal integrity & in staying true to one's self.

- TS

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 02:00 AM (GMT)

Here's the second comment. The toilet one from December 15 2007. [Direct Link]

Screenshot.

mtsar
Site Admin

Joined: 25 Apr 2007
Posts: 3137
Location: seattle washington

Posted: Sat Dec 15, 2007 11:09 pm Post subject:

what are you people talking about when you say debate? debate with this trash who has emerged from his fucking toilet?

do any of you know what a true "critic" really is? it appears not.

some skinflint muckslinger has a bash at a few short free webstreams and that is now regarded as criticism. he has not the dvds, and has not bought the book. that is obvious. a few errors is all he can summon to mucksling at.

he did not contact me like a decent respectful being, and ask me personally about all this. he launched a vicious online attack hoping to be somebody by slander, slander of someone who actually has achieved important things.

these vermin are a dime a dozen. they'll can spew what they want, and mucksling, and waste valuable time.

my work has been complimented by veterans in the field of research from every part of the globe. and i don't even need or require these people's endorsement, although its nice when it comes from a sincere person.

this undereducated, spluttering inarticulate christian (not) moron needs to shut his cakehole, and stop making a total idiot of himself. but being so terribly desperate for attention, this is the way ENVIOUS people go about. the only debate i'll give this pathetic specimen is with my fist.

send the creature these two articles, and ask him to comment on me, and say i'm a disinformationalist or a servant of the illuminati.

http://www.taroscopes.com/miscellanous-pages/weapons.html

http://www.taroscopes.com/highwindowsarticles/shiva-holyspirit-ageofaquarius.htmlask ask this genius of criticism, to show me his articles. ask him to prove he is not a servant of the secret societies that are clearly out to silence the servants of truth?

exposed, am i? the sewer rat does not even know the meaning of the word. he could not find a tit in a whore house.

Back to top profile pm email www

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 02:05 AM (GMT)

Oh here's a tasty bit. The latest from Mtsar on Craig Oxley.

http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...p?p=72033#72033

QUOTE

mtsar Site Admin Posted: Mon Dec 29, 2008 12:38 pm

when has it ever taken a long time before these loving christians start showing their true colors? when? they are zealots and fascists...and it does not take long for them to let us know what they are truly made of.

i don't join his ship so now he's a fan of chris white. good to know that. now the cat is out of the bag. no one has mistreated the cunt here on this forum. his crazy posts have been accepted from day one. i've treated him fairly. but sooner or later their spew must vomit forth. one just has to be patient and wait.

he is an arrogant, envious, pedantic, narrow-minded, egomaniacal, pompous smart-ass. with tons and tons of friends, no doubt. a real enlightener.

http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...p?p=72035#72035

QUOTE

mtsar Site Admin Posted: Mon Dec 29, 2008 12:55 pm

what we should remember also, about oxley, white, and the rest of them, is that they are "johnny come latelys," to all this info concerning the vatican.

you know i grew up in belfast. i worked in ballymena, which was ian paisley's main stomping ground. my family house in belfast was less than a mile away from his free presbyterian church. i've heard dr. paisley speak against the jesuit conspiracy since 1976. and he has been speaking on that subject years before that. he was a friend of the great baron avro manhattan. i have read all his books and quote from him extensively in the irish origins. along with avro manhattan we have the jesuit whistleblowers such as malachi martin, and father alberto, etc.

so none of this is new. they wish it was their discovery. but they are way too late to this game. they've discovered nothing new. so now this slimey piece of rectum tries to spar with me. he waves this breakspear garbage in my face, and throws akhenaton's bloodline in my face, as if to say i missed something important. they are so envious. they hate what i've discovered, because it is so on the ball, and so fucking astute. my discoveries move the world forward, and contribute to this great study. whereas they merely regurgitate the work of others, adding nothing. so now, without a shred of proof for his findings about the breakspear family, and with ONLY one single anecdote about pope adrian, he gets all red in the face and starts blustering that tsarion is tortoise to the hare. its comedic.

what he fails to mention, is that i mention adrian and henry in volume 1, in the first few chapters. i mention them and their plans to take ireland. i mention them in the dvd and in several radio interviews on that subject.

what they fail to mention, or to post, are the many chapters on the vatican conspiracy from my irish origins books. i've got great material in those books, but it will be a cold day in hell before these glorious champions of truth ever condescend to mention it, or make that fact public. no, they prefer to say i am a rosicrucian and all that guff. real brainy fuckers they are too.

so again, all the blustering from this pussy is so transparent. no matter how many times these farts are told to lay down their stupid partisan bias, they can't do it. they are nothing but sick paranoics.

but their crew is getting smaller and smaller and stupider and stupider. if anyone needs proof of their sillyness, they need only read their own words.

here's some christmas reading for the brainless germ...

user posted image

http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...p?p=72070#72070

QUOTE

mtsar Site Admin what else can they do with their time than pick on me and a few others? they aren't doing anything worthwhile. just sitting around in front of a computer at home, trying desperately to reach the world with their hands and heads full of nothing.

then along comes somone like me who does not even try to reach the world and i get known. people get inspired and turned on by my work, and it all flows and widens out. this is what they want for their own message. but instead of things getting wider they get narrower. they get a true hearing only from other paranoics and clueless germs like themselves. that is no fun. they want everyone to hear them. they are fascists and zealots. and they are deeply envious of my work and my notoriety. there is simply no other reason for their attacks. after all, these attacks started the very week that the irish origins book came out. that means there is a correlation between my work and their need to do such work.

to spend so much time on it means that there must be a reason. and the reason is as i've said pure envy. they have nothing of their own to create or broadcast, so they attack those who do, and thereby hope that their bleating will get heard. they are like the remora fish on the belly of the whale. they are simply parasites. and those who know how parasites and vampires behave can easily explain the behavior of the chris whites of this world. the live to reflect the light of others. but they themselves are dark and empty. they are attracted to sadistic gods and religions, and will do anything rather than face the void within. they hide behind the light of christ, and the light of anyone or anything that serves their purpose.

a fart in a storm has more purpose for existence.

http://www.redicecreations.com/mtsarforum/...p?p=72119#72119

QUOTE

mtsar Site Admin Posted: Tue Dec 30, 2008 1:36 am this is what the jerk oxley pmed me today:

QUOTE

Michael your a real Irish tit aren't you? I told you to delete my account basically. Oh why is Hong Kong so important Michael? Which family are more based there now, moving out of Italy? Smell those Pharoah's hmmmmmmm smells good doesn't it? Haha next family coming soon. Tell your Nazi handlers and your TV buddies to kiss my backside. You start war with me and you get it good and proper. How dare you call my information disinformation.

as you can see meglomania has finally rotted the brain of this poor demented schmuck.

just think of what is going on in this world right now, and this is what this latrine brain has time for...go figure...

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 02:11 AM (GMT)

Screenshots.

Joined: 25 Apr 2007
Posts: 3137
Location: seattle washington

when has it ever taken a long time before these loving christians start showing their true colors? when? they are zealots and fascists...and it does not take long for them to let us know what they are truly made of.

i don't join his ship so now he's a fan of chris white. good to know that. now the cat is out of the bag. no one has mistreated the cunt here on this forum. his crazy posts have been accepted from day one. i've treated him fairly. but sooner or later their spew must vomit forth. one just has to be patient and wait.

he is an arrogant, envious, pedantic, narrow-minded, egomaniacal, pompous smart-ass. with tons and tons of friends, no doubt. a real enlightener. ☺

Last edited by mtsar on Mon Dec 29, 2008 3:59 pm; edited 2 times in total

Back to top

profile pm email www

mtsar
Site Admin

Joined: 25 Apr 2007
Posts: 3137
Location: seattle washington

Posted: Mon Dec 29, 2008 12:55 pm Post subject:

what we should remember also, about oxley, white, and the rest of them, is that they are "johnny come latelys," to all this info concerning the vatican.

you know i grew up in belfast. i worked in ballymena, which was ian paisley's main stomping ground. my family house in belfast was less than a mile away from his free presbyterian church. i've heard dr. paisley speak against the jesuit conspiracy since 1976. and he has been speaking on that subject years before that. he was a friend of the great baron avro manhattan. i have read all his books and quote from him extensively in the irish origins. along with avro manhattan we have the jesuit whistleblowers such as malachi martin, and father alberto, etc.

so none of this is new. they wish it was their discovery. but they are way too late to this game.

Joined: 29 Mar 2008
Posts: 221
Location: florida

Back to top

profile pm www msnm

learn something new everday.
Thanks for letting me know dam good fake jeez the lies never end.
The phrase "you dont know enough to know you dont know" certainley applies to me here.

mtsar
Site Admin

Posted: Tue Dec 30, 2008 1:36 am Post subject:

Joined: 25 Apr 2007
Posts: 3137
Location: seattle washington

this is what the jerk oxley pmed me today:

Quote:

Michael your a real Irish tit aren't you? I told you to delete my account basically. Oh why is Hong Kong so important Michael? Which family are more based there now, moving out of Italy? Smell those Pharoah's hmmmmmmm smells good doesn't it? Haha next family coming soon. Tell your Nazi handlers and your TV buddies to kiss my backside. You start war with me and you get it good and proper. How dare you call my information disinformation.

as you can see meglomania has finally rotted the brain of this poor demented schmuck.

just think of what is going on in this world right now, and this is what this latrine brain has time for...go figure...

Back to top | profile | pm | email | www

De Danann

Posted: Tue Dec 30, 2008 1:43 am Post subject:

I don't know even what to make of this lack of coherence. Simply sounds like the paranoid ramblings of someone who will never achieve anything. And to think he probably believes he has rattled your cage. 😎

Joined: 01 Dec 2008
Posts: 23
Location: Carolina

Back to top | profile | pm | msnm

uratsukudoji

Posted: Tue Dec 30, 2008 1:45 am Post subject: heh

Yeah how dare you question something or doubt something you nazi.
jeez

craig-oxley - December 30, 2008 02:11 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

> when has it ever taken a long time before these loving christians start showing their true colors? when? they are zealots and fascists...and it does not take long for them to let us know what they are truly made of.
>
> i don't join his ship so now he's a fan of chris white. good to know that. now the cat is out of the bag. no one has mistreated the cunt here on this forum. his crazy posts have been accepted from day one. i've treated him fairly. but sooner or later their spew must vomit forth. one just has to be patient and wait.
>
> he is an arrogant, envious, pedantic, narrow-minded, egomaniacal, pompous smart-ass. with tons and tons of friends, no doubt. a real enlightener.
>
> -Michael "Mysteries" Tsarion

Now he trys to call me a Christian! I have not entered a church since my one cousin's wedding over twenty years ago. I do not have a King James Authorised 1611 Bible either. So how can I be a true-Christian exactly? What I do see is a paid promoter of the mysteries to the sheople profane trying to claim Christianity is facist. Is this because true-Christianity shows up his mysteries for what they are? Satanic from the Nimrod Babylon? He's a fraud on the Tell-a-lie-Vision for godsake, he's a safe stooge. He messed with the wrong guy thats for sure. I asked him to delete my accounts in a private message to him. I wish I could copy and paste his one line short sentence wanting my source.

So he claims I'm arrogant does he? Has anyone seen how this person acts? He's one of the World's worst indeed. Hypocrite thats all I can say. Who do you think I'm envious of exactly? You Michael? No thanks I don't want to be on the British Intelligence Goggle Box thankyou or have masses of DVD's paid for by whom? Your linked with many disinformation paid artists its incredible. Narrow-minded? Total nonsense Michael just because I won't fall for your devious actions of the promotion of Nimrod's wishing to be God with his mysteries. All these things you spit at me are infact yourself Michael take a look at your own self once in a while. Your language is foul, your avatars with one finger salutes are demeaning. I don't want to be like you, I want to be a real truthsayer. How long you been in this game? Why didn't you speak of the Breakspear's or Aldrobrandini's now based mainly in Hong Kong? Why is it me, a fairly newcomer can get to the truth fairly easy yet you the big show cannot? Is this why your extremely upset with me Michael? Thats envious my enemy. You're now on the backburner when dealing with Akhenaton haha.

You don't join my ship? I wouldn't want you on any ship of mine Michael, your head would fill up the deck. One thing which is true is that you certainly would be a seaman in the phallic ship on those feminine waters. But unfortunatley for you your infertile. You claim no one has mistreated Craig Oxley on your forum? Many of your lil profane kids listening to your forked tongue flute have. Now you do just for me speaking of the Breakspear's a family which you have no idea upon. I note your language with the name calling there, proves my point. Chris White has a point and I've believed it for a good while. You started this battle with your forked tongue and I shall end it as I have with the rest of you intelligensia funded TV stooges.

-Craig Oxley

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 02:21 AM (GMT)

So now Tsarion throws out the name Ian Paisley? Wasn't that guy controlled opposition too, just like Avro Manhattan? Why is it that everytime Michael Tsarion throws out a name of an associate of his, they're always British SIS controlled whether it be Jordan Maxwell, Jeff Rense, or even Alex Jones.

And he still talks about Akenaton being Moses. What is this? Are we stuck in 2006 or something? Besides, saying that Moses was Akenaton is crap. Akenaton was the basis for the fake character that was Moses. That is different from saying Moses was Akenaton. When you do phrase it like that, you will by implication hold that the Egyptian royal lines are in fact divine and had a godly mandate on earth to take power. When you do that, you step into the British-Israelite nonsense that claims to have a lineage to Jesus, a secret pharaoh, and all the rest of the Old Testament patriarchs. Ralph Ellis is a promoter of this British-Israel nonsense as is Laurence Gardner, ANOTHER MAN MICHAEL TSARION HARKS BACK TO. I did a thread on Ralph THE FREEMASON Ellis here.
http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...showtopic=62862
What's odd though is that in Tsarion's IRISIH ORIGINS BOOK, he blows the British-Israelite nonsense out of the water.

Jefferson Smith - December 30, 2008 02:21 AM (GMT)

Oh my, he talks like a drunken sailor. It sounds like he is cornered and is using excessive filthy language/insults as a crutch.

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 02:23 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Jefferson Smith @ Dec 30 2008, 02:21 AM)
>
> Oh my, he talks like a drunken sailor. It sounds like he is cornered and is using excessive filthy language/insults as a crutch.

Well he is Irish. :lol:

Wolveshater - December 30, 2008 02:45 AM (GMT)

Look how Craig caused him to fall apart.....LMAO...Tsarion exposed and another false lead hits the muck...So many fakers so little time...

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 02:53 AM (GMT)

ULTRA POWERFUL ALDOBRANDINI FAMILY
http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...?showtopic=6005

> QUOTE
>
> ALDOBRANDINI
>
> http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Aldobrandini
>
> This has got to be one of the most powerful and richest families of the world:
>
> The surname literally translates to Satan, after you figure out the riddle.
>
> http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Aldebaran > http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Aldobrandini_Madonna
>
> Because Aldebaran is the morning star and falling angel. Why would they have a name like this and be POPES. They are Satanists, PERIOD!
> I have eaten many dinners in their palace in Frascati, Italy close to Rome in the Castelli Romani hills.
>
> http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Villa_Aldobrandini

> QUOTE

> These people have the big massive orgies. We know that Stanley Kubrick was present at this Castle for many orgies. He got the inspiration of Eyes Wide Shut there. There is a portait of Kubrick inside the main hall with his autograph giving thanks to the Aldobrandini family for supporting his films.
>
> Aldobrandini = Al Debaran
>
> They have an Egyptian lineage from Ptolemy Egypt. There name is Arabic, which means they are also Moorish converts to Catholicism, but came from Egypt as well they married into the Venetian Este Family
>
> Theres a lodge called Al-dabaran.
>
> According to xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx it is to pat respect to Taurus. Have you ever wondered WHY, picasso did all of those orgy paintings with Taurus as giving orgies to many women. It is not only because Picasso was funded by the Aldobrandini's, he had many orgies in Rome.
>
> The Taurus is Picasso's paintings is the POPE!
>
> Picasso is a Jesuit as well. A Co-Adjutor

http://www.martinries.com/article1972-73PP.htm

> QUOTE
>
> Aldobrandini's, who are the distant cousins of the Breakspear's.
>
> I am not going to betray xxxxxxxxxxxxxxx, but if you want to see Tsarion & Maxwell go Ballistic. go for the Aldobrandini's, who are the Nephilim.
>
> He is always going-on about the Nephilim, so give him the Nephilim
>
> "because ONE evil pope just happened to have that surname, does not mean diddly pal. that is like saying everyone who has the surname clinton has had blowjob in the oval office." - Michael Tsarion
>
> THEN HOW YOU DO EXPLAIN OTHER EVIL BLOODTHIRSTY POPES WITH OTHER SATANIC NAMES:

To repeat...

if you want to see Tsarion & Maxwell go Ballistic. go for the Aldobrandini's

Then Tsarion goes, "They're not all like that." Wow. He didn't just go ballistic. He rolled out typical catholic apologetics. :rolleyes:

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 02:59 AM (GMT)

What is funny is how these people demand sources for these families in order to prove what you're saying, Craig. Funny, I thought Tsarion taught us that the Jesuits were bad guys and had a lot of power and how he was hip to them when he was a kid in Ireland in the 70's. So now that we talk about a high up Roman family, he isn't satisfied? Why the disconnect? I think it's obvious. As your source says, he is upset and so are his handlers. Alex Jones isn't even allowed to talk about the Jesuits but it now seems that Michael Tsarion isn't allowed to talk about which ones and who they are. Best he can do is pay lip service to Eric Jon Phelps who names knight of malta after knight of malta.

These profane people who lick Tsarion's feet on his redice forum, who are complaining about a lack of source just don't have it in them to do the research themselves. Something you recommended they do Craig. It also means that they need to understand know that you can't always name sources and that the way you have sources is protection of their anonymity. Even Sherman Skolnick taught us that. That's why Skolnick went to jail for corrupt of court so many times. When he exposed a judge's corruption in their own courtroom, he'd go to prison instead of giving the source. Eventually, he'd get out and that judge would go to jail. I bet these Tsarion boot lickers have never even heard of the great American judge buster.

craig-oxley - December 30, 2008 03:43 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

what we should remember also, about oxley, white, and the rest of them, is that they are "johnny come latelys," to all this info concerning the vatican.

you know i grew up in belfast. i worked in ballymena, which was ian paisley's main stomping ground. my family house in belfast was less than a mile away from his free presbyterian church. i've heard dr. paisley speak against the jesuit conspiracy since 1976. and he has been speaking on that subject years before that. he was a friend of the great baron avro manhattan. i have read all his books and quote from him extensively in the irish origins. along with avro manhattan we have the jesuit whistleblowers such as malachi martin, and father alberto, etc.

so none of this is new. they wish it was their discovery. but they are way too late to this game. they've discovered nothing new. so now this slimey piece of rectum tries to spar with me. he waves this breakspear garbage in my face, and throws akhenaton's bloodline in my face, as if to say i missed something important. they are so envious. they hate what i've discovered, because it is so on the ball, and so fucking astute. my discoveries move the world forward, and contribute to this great study. whereas they merely regurgitate the work of others, adding nothing. so now, without a shred of proof for his findings about the breakspear family, and with ONLY one single anecdote about pope adrian, he gets all red in the face and starts blustering that tsarion is tortoise to the hare. its comedic.

what he fails to mention, is that i mention adrian and henry in volume 1, in the first few chapters. i mention them and their plans to take ireland. i mention them in the dvd and in several radio interviews on that subject.

what they fail to mention, or to post, are the many chapters on the vatican conspiracy from my irish origins books. i've got great material in those books, but it will be a cold day in hell before these glorious champions of truth ever condescend to mention it, or make that fact public. no, they prefer to say i am a rosicrucian and all that guff. real brainy fuckers they are too.

so again, all the blustering from this pussy is so transparent. no matter how many times these farts are told to lay down their stupid partisan bias, they can't do it. they are nothing but sick paranoics.

but their crew is getting smaller and smaller and stupider and stupider. if anyone needs proof of their sillyness, they need only read their own words.

-Michael Tsarion

What we should remember is that I've highlighted two Akhenaton bloodlines directly, Tsarion. It's not good enough speaking of a group but never highlighting the individuals. Your no different to Alex Jones and his Brotherhood of Death. So you grew up in Jesuit controlled Ireland around traitorous Ian Paisley. I wonder if he'll be kissing the Roman Catholic Church's backside any further than he is already. Another phony when it comes down to it, moving to the dark side as you all do. Paisley reminds me of traitorous Rowan Williams.

Again you try to miss out my mentor, Eric Jon Phelps again. By the way Michael are you some kind of mulatto? Does it get your goat we speak the truth on many subjects and fear no mere mortal such as yourself? If you are a mulatto maybe you need to study 'White Supremacy and Black Subordination' published in 1868. Stop praising Ian Paisley and deal with yourself. What information did you give out on the Jesuits like we all have? Nothing! You've stolen much of it and gave a few original authors credit whilst ignoring the great, Eric Jon Phelps. The same Phelps who your paid stooge, Jordan Maxwell couldn't wait to introduce at ConCon2002. What does that tell you Tsarion boy? Grow up please before you end up back in the womb, practise your mysteries back in the Goddess.

You think we can trust Malachi Martin fully? Crazy do your homework on him. So your talking about Alberto Rivera now, well where did he have much work exposed from? Tony Alamo Ministries, the same place being hounded by the authorities. The same place where I know someone who lived there and studied there. Alberto Rivera wouldn't have had a ounce of time for yourself so don't bring this great man into this. Wheres any work with his wife Nury from you Michael? Oh it had to be taken up by our lot as usual. I wish not to discover Jesuits rule this Earth with an iron fist. I wish for the World to be in peace with people in their own racial nations with no piracy free trade trash etc.

So now you call me a rectum, by the way have you cleansed your bowel recently? Seems it's coming from your mouth these days, maybe you need some Cascara Sagrada, Senna and Aloes. How do your discoveries move the World on? Who's discoveries? You mean the ones of the past by others. Seems your doing exactly what you claim of us. Again why are people from our clique being hounded and yours funded up with wods of cash and loosing their morals? You have missed something important Michael and thats names. I deal in names Michael, not just orders. I threw nothing in your bloody face. I placed an Akhenaton bloodline on a few sites including yours and you spit feathers. Again I do not bow to anyone, lease of all you. Your a complete nobody to me and my life. I don't get red in the face until you attack me and my information and simply because I won't give you my foreign source. Lets just say their well connected with a heart!

Wow Michael you mention Pope Hadrian IV in your book, he's a bloody Pope for god sake I should hope you did. Why wouldn't an Irishman speak of Hadrian IV? But please dont push this out as if you've known about the Breakspear's as you did not know what I've highlighted to the World. I was one idiot who used to stick up for you and I only did this because you had mentioned the Jesuits and a Black Pope. I wish I hadn't in the past you are certainly a man not worthy of help. All my highlighting of you speaking of Jesuits is all over the net somewhere if you look for it. So please stop with the twisting bunkum. Once again suppression of truth is utilising paranoia, insane and sick terms to suit their agenda. It's all so transparant and obvious as usual. No Michael Tsarion our crew is increasing this is why the cointelpro on us is moving at full pace. Your buddies Michael won't suppress the truth thats for sure.

-Craig Oxley

soulinspiration - December 30, 2008 04:03 AM (GMT)

If Mtsar has ever heard of Aldobrandini & knows of how high they are he will be bricking it right now. This is completely "right on the money" - literally. Will post more details as soon as have time.

Meanwhile, here's some other esoterically related info worth noting for those not familiar with various occult & conspiracy related matters to do with Aldebaran:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Aldebaran#Ety...al_significance

"In the religion of Stregheria, Aldebaran is a fallen angel and quarter guardian of the eastern gate."

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Stregheria

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Vril

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Vril#The_Cons...laims_in_detail

http://www.theosociety.org/pasadena/etgloss/ah-al.htm

"Aldebaran A first magnitude ruddy star, the principal star in Taurus the Bull. It is one of the four Royal Stars of the ancient Persians, which approximately marked the solstices and equinoxes about 4000 BC. It represented the spring equinox; the others being Antares in Scorpius (summer solstice), Regulus in Leo (autumnal equinox), and Fomalhaut in the Southern Fish (winter solstice). They have been connected from an early time in India with the legends concerning the four Maharajas (regents of the cardinal points) and the four primitive elements, and have come down to us in connection with Hebrew and Shemitic writings as the archangels Uriel, Gabriel, Michael, and Raphael, as well as in the Christian symbols of the four evangelists: the bull, the eagle (Scorpio), the lion, and the angel or man. Blavatsky says that the spring equinox was in Taurus at the beginning of the kali yuga (3102 BC), though it was approaching Aries. Aldebaran symbolizes the Hebrew aleph (A or 1). "

craig-oxley - December 30, 2008 07:34 AM (GMT)

If some wants to put this on Michael "Mysteries" Tsarion's forum then feel free. He needs a lesson on who is the real Illuminati:

CODE

```
[SIZE=24][b][color=green]Princess Olimpia [u]Aldobrandini[/u][/color][/b] and husband
[b][color=red]David [u]Rothschild[/u][/color][/b][/size]

[IMG]http://i247.photobucket.com/albums/gg145/2tuff2006/cao92301zb2.jpg[/IMG]

[b]For more on the [color=red]Saturnalian Illuminati [/color]Aldobrandini's[/b]
[url=http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mind_II/index.php?showtopic=6005]Click Here[/url]
```

Just take out the 'code's

AntiSionist - December 30, 2008 08:10 AM (GMT)

Sorry Craig, but I couldn't resist doing this as a joke. I thought it was funny.

RobTSeeker1 - December 30, 2008 08:59 AM (GMT)

In Tsarions lectures, you can come to the determination that he is pushing the New Age religion for the Jesusit order.
He does state that the Bible has the fall of man in reverse. He uses the Bible verses in Genesis to state in so many words that the "Snake" in the Garden of Eden is actually the knowledge giver to mankind. Pure Illuminati way of thinking that Lucifer is the shinning light that brought knowledge to mankind.
Craig, I gotta say you are doing a "GREAT" job here on your website. I appreciate all the information I retain on this website.
You are good at exposing these disinfo. agents.

Reformation - December 30, 2008 09:06 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (RobTSeeker1 @ Dec 30 2008, 08:59 AM)
>
> He uses the Bible verses in Genesis to state in so many words that the "Snake" in the Garden of Eden is actually the knowledge giver to mankind. Pure Illuminati way of thinking that Lucifer is the shinning light that brought knowledge to mankind.

Whatever the scripture says they will always say the opposite. This is the philosophy of antichrist.

RobTSeeker1 - December 30, 2008 09:16 AM (GMT)

I had talk to Jordan Maxwell over the phone once and he was determined to put the blame for our state of the world on the "White Race". As I remeber his quote was "The White Man World Sucks".
I took offense to that as I countered him on social issues regarding other races and how much they are taught to hate the white race through the controlled school systems.
However, my conversation with him ended on a positive note because at that time I thought he was trying to help bring the truth to light and was doing a great service. I admired Maxwell and his work greatly.
Now, I can see through Maxwell. I feel Maxwell is guilt ridden. As of now he exposes the Catholic Church and all it's evils. Based on his most recent lecture on his website he states that the Catholic Church runs the world along with the Mafia.
I feel Maxwell is an agent but he most likely is protecting his own life with the information he knows about the mafia and church.
He trys to have the guts to come out with great information regarding the Jesusit Order, but it goes sour. He is a controlled agent. As you guys here exposed him.
He is another one waiting for this New World Order to come about. These guys sure take pride in this "Crappy" New World Order which does not benefit nobody.
Eric Jon Phelps has helped in cleaning up this mess of the white race being blamed for the sins of this world. The Jesusit Order just seem to hate it's own white race.
Well, like Eric states on his programs, it is because we as a race are most likely to destroy these horrible Jesusits and their piece of crap New World Order.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Has anyone checked out Joseph P. Farrell's work?

Title: Has anyone checked out Joseph P. Farrell's work?

Phazon - November 5, 2010 10:13 AM (GMT)

Joseph P. Farrell has done a lot of research into secret technology the Nazi's were developing. I've heard him talk a bit about it and how the Nazi's escaped to Argentina, the U.S. and the Soviet Union and were continuing development of these technologies during the Cold War.

I don't know whether he's disinfo, but he didn't sound like it to me.

Insurgent - November 12, 2010 02:32 AM (GMT)

I was checking his books out on Amazon too, one day I will give them a try.

This one for example looks interesting:

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Project Camelot exposed

Title: Project Camelot exposed
Description: as Scientology front

14april2000 - December 13, 2009 08:41 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

Project Camelot exposed as Scientology front
Written by Admin on December 12, 2009, 3:23PM

http://nwocollapse.freehostia.com/article.php?ID=373

For a while now, I have suspected Project Camelot to be a Scientology front. Why?

1. They will often put out 3 or 4-hour videos, in which almost nothing is actually said, and the content of the video can be summarised in 5 minutes. Yet, the guest will go on and on, leaving you in suspense, just watching the thing and wasting your time. This is much like the Scientology exercises in which you will sit and stare at a mirror for hours at a time.

2. Scientology has quite the association with Hollywood, as does Kerry Cassidy, co-creator of Project Camelot. She is a "failed" Hollywood producer who started Camelot as a way to "get back" at Hollywood with her own independent media outlet to reach people, in her own words. The logo for Camelot, the jaguar, is a spin-off of the MGM Lion, says Cassidy. I suspect that she is more a representative of Scientology, exploiting vulnerable conspiracy-tinted people. Indeed, her site is full of unsubstantiated claims about aliens, UFOs, free energy technology, a boy who claims to be from Mars. This is the kind of stuff you would see in a Hollywood movie, but it's presented as real.

3. Fans of the work are often desperate and urging to see the next released video. It is all they have in their lives, and so, they become dependent on Camelot, which does ask for donations and other financial support. In many ways, it is like the church of Scientology.

You may look at these 3 points and think these are vague things to say, and on their own they are. However, on December 11, Camelot released its latest "whistleblower" interview, this time by a man under the pseudonym of Dane Tops, who is supposed to be exposing "black operations" within the Church of Scientology.

Reading through the interview [mirror here], it becomes apparent that Camelot is serving one purpose: to promote Scientology. Here is my analysis:

"Bill Ryan: This fascinating story dates back to 1982, when a senior member in the Church of Scientology blew the whistle on its activities… which over the previous several years had become more and more totalitarian and repressive: a far cry from how its founder, L Ron Hubbard, had intended things to be"

Immediately, they suggest that Scientology was originally a great, humanitarian vision of L. Ron Hubbard, but has since been taken over. This is L. Ron Hubbard who is quoted as saying, "You don't get rich writing science fiction. If you want to get rich, you start a religion."

In actuality, Scientology is so negatively looked upon today because the Internet has been able to expose it. The information age has taken apart this fallacy, and so, Camelot is attempting to use the very tool of the Internet to cover up the bad publicity. It is interesting to note that Camelot co-founder Bill Ryan admits being a member of Ron's Org, which he describes as "an offshoot of the original Church of Scientology".

"Bill Ryan: The now-famous “Dane Tops letter” or “Dane Tops debrief” describes how the Church of Scientology, over a number of years, was being taken over by a mysterious force"

What, you mean commercialism?

"Bill Ryan: In this interview, Dane tells the true story of the takedown of Scientology. He describes the power of Hubbard’s techniques, which, when applied ethically and by properly trained practitioners, reliably enhance psychic and other abilities to dramatic levels"

Here, they are advertising Scientology as something that can actually use magical technology to help people better themselves. But the catch is: you have to know the right person, high enough up the pyramid scheme. They do not describe what "applied ethically" means, or what "properly trained" means, or any real-life, proven examples of enhancing "psychic and other abilities to dramatic levels".

"Bill Ryan: he shares how he still sees Hubbard’s techniques, correctly applied, as one of the means whereby we can escape the attempted grip and control of the very Illuminati that ended up in control of Scientology in a position to water down its techniques to a mere shadow of what Dane describes that they once were"

Somehow, I predict that none of these techniques will work, and that applying them correctly will involve making donations and purchasing books. Notice that they use the term, "Illuminati" to try and reel in the conspiracy types, also using a story about governments trying to get a hold of these technologies for themselves. Quite the story, but it's just that.

Also, he repeatedly says that the techniques were once great, but somehow not great enough for him to tell everyone earlier, decades ago, when he first knew about them.

Thus, I wonder if this "whistleblower", who cannot be revealed on video "because Dane’s life could quite easily still be endangered" is actually just Project Camelot itself, using the intrigue to pull in more viewers, donations and conference tickets.

"Bill Ryan: Almost in passing, Dane shares what he now believes was an ET contact, coupled with a deep understanding of Hubbard’s basic principles, enabled him in 1982 to go without food, water and sleep for three months"

Here, they are appealing to the Camelot fanbase, which is largely interested in UFOs, ETs and other magical, childlike fantasies. Indeed, David Wilcock, Camelot's most-interviewed guest runs divinecosmos.com, which allows you to purchase ebooks and products, using the term "magic" again and again. The site says, "David's own brilliant meditative music sets the tone for this high-fidelity MP3 Audio of magic and exploration". The idea is that buying these products will fill a void in your life, a void very much created by false conspiracies. This is the same mentality Scientology (amongst other religions) uses.

"Bill Ryan: He describes fellow Scientologists who also had various enhanced capacities. One such was the well-known Ingo Swann, whose abilities were honed to the point where he, with several other Scientologists including Hal Puthoff, Russell Targ and fellow-psychic Pat Price, was eventually funded by the CIA and - under the auspices of the Stanford Research Institute - launched the entire body of knowledge, ability and protocol that is now known worldwide as Remote Viewing."

Remote viewing has not been proven to have any credibility. Illusionist Derren Brown interviewed the world's foremost expert on RV, to see if he could predict where a woman was located in the world. The expert went on to draw a picture of almost every type of environment you could imagine. In other words, it's like throwing loads of paint at a wall and hoping some of it sticks.

In general, Camelot itself uses this technique, covering topic after topic, hoping that something they say is picked up and agreed with. They expect you to ignore the 99% of stuff that has no relevance whatsoever.

"Bill Ryan: [Scientology] spent at least $40,000 trying to track down Dane Tops and seal the leak

....

During the 27 years which followed ‘the letter’, Dane Tops entrusted his true identity with just two of his closest friends. When we were approached by him at the Los Angeles Conscious Life Expo earlier this year (February 2009), we became the third and fourth persons to know."

Wouldn't it have been easier to have revealed all the information in this Camelot interview earlier, anonymously, instead of waiting until now to reveal this to a fringe website with fake stories? A real whistleblower would not wait and wait.

"Dane Tops: The Illuminati thought it could not allow humanity to discover their true innate powers and ability."

But you can? And somehow, you're doing a massive long interview without publishing this right at the top of the page? Hmmm.... Seems like a.... pyramid scheme.

"Dane Tops: In the ’40s Hubbard discovered and demonstrated that there is no memory that cannot be recovered. That was startling and unbelievable. At that time he developed techniques to have people recall memories that occurred at birth AND from conception onwards. Memories were verified for accuracy with, for instance, the doctor at birth."

Wow, that does sound amazing. And doctors verified this too? How, then, was it possibly suppressed all this time? How, then, is this technique not used today? How do you go about suppressing something that is demonstratably proven and thus, widely known? You don't.

Does this not sound like tales told by religions and small villages? Does this not sound like a myth used at a time where the information age did not exist. This is why they say it happened in the 1940s: the Internet did not exist back then. Knowledge was not as well communicated and scrutinised.

Camelot is using a backwards model to promote the idea that pursuing Scientology enough will result in amazing powers. This is the type of fantasy promoted by children's television shows like Sabrina the Teenage Witch and H20: Just Add Water -- both creations of... Hollywood. Do you see the recurring theme here?

"Dane Tops: Now, he did this work in the ’40s, and he wrote about it in a book called Dianetics, a Modern Science of Mental Health in 1950. The book was a best seller."

It certainly was a best-seller, but yet, how many readers have managed to recall memories from their birth?

"Dane Tops: The Russians realized that the out of body perceptions that Hubbard was developing could be used to spy and collect information from remote locations. The Russians saw that the power of the mind could be focused remotely to influence the thoughts of others at a distance."

Yes, and for a while, the CIA investigated it too. It is the subject of a new Hollywood, film, The Men Who Stare At Goats. The film details how the intelligence agencies would pay people to stare at a goat for hours to see if it could be killed remotely. However, the CIA quickly tossed out the technology, admitting that it did not work. Project Camelot's "whistleblower" does not mention this.

"Dane Tops: After Camelot, I now realize that at that time - in the 50s - we had just recovered ET bodies in crashed disks."

He is referring to the Roswell Incident, which actually involved a crashed experimental high-altitude surveillance balloon being used in Project Mogul by the U.S. government, yet has been exploited for decades by the UFO community to sell merchandise, books and conference tickets. The Roswell incident occured during the heat of the Cold War, when many government military aircrafts were being tested by both the United States and the Soviet Union. These are always spotted at night time because it is classified technology. and thus, the details cannot be picked up as easily. No aliens or alien body parts have ever been discovered.

He brings up this incident to blend in with the Camelot fanbase and make his story seem more credible to Camelot viewers. This will result in more allegiance to the site and its brand, much like Coca-Cola putting out an advertisement with celebrities. This blends in the product with the masses and creates brand loyalty for the corporation.

"Dane Tops: Russia wanted to use Hubbard’s material without TELLING him what was happening with the influx of crashed disks and recovered ET bodies that escalated immediately following the bombing of Hiroshima"

This is Camelot's way of covering up the fact that Hubbard has never publicly said anything about a connection with Russia. If Russia was really trying to hire him and gain his technology, he would have boasted about it and used it as a way to gain more Scientology followers, so he could make more money. It would be a huge boost for him: great publicity. But yet, nothing was ever said.

"Dane Tops: The entire cold war was a front and actually the US and Russia were united behind the scenes, at the top, in fighting and attempting to “catch up” with the feared common unknown potential enemy, the ETs."

Technological development in the last 50 years would suggest otherwise. To say the Cold War was a front for ETs is one hell of a statement. Enormous amounts of evidence would be needed to prove that. "Dane Tops" provides none. Just statement after statement, vaguely tying in events like Hiroshima and numerical dates to make the story seem legitimately tied in with real history.

"Dane Tops: Some people had levitated, some had seen through solid matter, and others had gone outside of their body with full perception of where they were."

Yet, there's no photographic evidence of levitation? Scientists have only very recently levitated a mouse in 2009 using magnetic fields, and they provide complete photographic evidence. Yet, we're supposed to believe that the Russians were doing all of this and not showing it off?

"Dane Tops: Instead of using his techniques to naturally develop psychic abilities and to recall our past lives and in-between life memories as Hubbard intended, the governments extracted from Hubbard’s works what he’d discovered that has been done down through time to control human behavior through force."

But why would the government have a monopoly over this information? Hubbard could have easily told people all over the world about this through leaflets, in-person conversations. The list goes on and on. Camelot is promoting the idea that "the government" is responsible for this, which is a paranoid, unfounded excuse that appeals directly to their fanbase.

"Dane Tops: So the modern subject of mind control and Manchurian Candidates and much more was re-researched and developed to a fine art form. As best I know, the techniques were largely “inspired” from Hubbard’s material"

The "Manchurian Candidate" theory is that through specialised torture and traumatic events -- including drugging, isolation, sensory deprivation, sexual abuse, mind compartmentalisation and key "triggers" -- people can be programmed robotically. Commands can be issued and the slave will repeat an exact sequence of instructions.

Real or not (there is actually significant evidence to suggest it works), to suggest that L. Ron Hubbard is the inventor of this gives the man quite the appearance of grandeur. It creates a perceived level of great credibility, which is used by Camelot to promote Scientology, again. It gets people thinking about all these amazing possibilities, and they see Camelot as the source of this information, so give more allegiance to the site.

"Dane Tops: There are newspaper accounts of someone in England in the 1860s doing body levitation and flying out of one upper story window and into another one Blavatsky, a researcher and author who had psychic abilities, actually killed an animal 40 miles away; that’s documented and witnessed. So Hubbard heard about all these things during the era he grew up in."

Helena Blavatsky is a highly-discredited researcher, referred to often in the works of Jordan Maxwell (see YouTube video: Jordan Maxwell exposed). It is thus unsurprising to see Project Camelot repeatedly promote Maxwell's work, which he is selling on his website for $24.95 a piece. So, it is a money-making operation.

The Scientology promotion goes on and on in this interview. It would be useless for me to analyse every aspect of the interview. It would take forever. By now, you get the point.

Conclusion

One might ask why I would even bother to expose such an obvious fraud as Project Camelot, and its possible connection with Scientology. The answer is: because I care about people. I don't want to see vulnerable people's lives ruined by a scam -- a religious-esque, pyramid scheme, money-grabbing hoax.

Because of the conspiratorial nature of Project Camelot, there are not many people out there who dissect the site properly. Most do not have the knowledge to refute the claims, and will resort in name-calling, which only strengthens Project Camelot, because they can come across as "an enemy of the establishment". Indeed, many times, Bill Ryan and Kerry Cassidy have said they are revealing information that could get them killed. It's all show. Thus, I thought I would take it into my hands to do so, being highly-knowledgeable in conspiracy research myself.

There are countless stories of people whose lives have been ruined by Scientology, paying out hundreds of thousands of dollars to the church to gain more "knowledge". What we are seeing is an advanced, technological form of 21st century slavery. When you can't think properly, your mind is enslaved, and thus, you can be used to do whatever the controllers want you to. In that way, it is also a dangerous cult. Admittedly, for most people, it is a bit of fun, but there are poor people who will take it seriously and it will ruin their lives.

According to Alexa.com, a web-monitoring organisation owned by Amazon.com, Project Camelot's popularity has increased 70% in just 3 months. With Project Camelot's viewership going through the roof recently, along with other alternative media websites, now is a good time to expose the site.

Halvor - February 16, 2010 03:35 PM (GMT)

I found this a very feeble critique riddled with narrow-minded "scientism" foregone conclusions and circular argumentation. Rather than polemicizing against it I shall merely state that, having read the Dane Tops interview as well as followed Bill Ryan and Kerry Cassidy's Project Camelot for some two years, I would expect something analytically considerably more robust and pointed for it to be helpful in uncovering any hidden affiliations and agendas on the part of the two.

Eboard10 - February 16, 2010 03:55 PM (GMT)

In one of Leo Zagami's interviews with Phil Jonkers, he sais that Kerry and Bill are manipulated and easily fall for disinfo. Unfortunately the video was removed so I can't link you to the source. You can ask Phil though.

Halvor - February 16, 2010 06:32 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE
>
> In one of Leo Zagami's interviews with Phil Jonkers, he sais that Kerry and Bill are manipulated and easily fall for disinfo. Unfortunately the video was removed so I can't link you to the source. You can ask Phil though.

Sure, I'm aware of that, but Leo has probably not much more first-hand knowledge of Kerry and Bill than people who have watched many of their productions. My impression is that they conscientiously withhold their own skepticism towards the information brought forward by their witnesses that sounds "far-out", but where it conflicts with information which they (especially Kerry) have assimilated and believe to be true they will interrupt their interview object to focus on the conflicting stories.

My impression is that they do not understand the volume, depth and complexities of the sector inhabited by papal and monarchical orders and the rich web of secret and magical societies centering on rosicrucianism/freemasonry/the illuminati, but instead use the latter term as vaguely as 98% of the conspiracy movement does. As with the rest of this movement's majority they seem giddy at the supernatural components (including UFOs) of this totality of lore and incapable of investigating the threads which the resident researchers of the Unhived Mind have the capacity to take on. My instinctive assessment of this is that the fascination with UFOs, magic and supernatural abilities nurtures a radically different type of mind (and mindset) than what is necessary to stay with the topics that are consistently being pursued and investigated on this site.

xtiml - June 8, 2010 11:39 PM (GMT)

"They will often put out 3 or 4-hour videos, in which almost nothing is actually said, and the content of the video can be summarised in 5 minutes. Yet, the guest will go on and on, leaving you in suspense, just watching the thing and wasting your time. This is much like the Scientology exercises in which you will sit and stare at a mirror for hours at a time." that says it all.

Krusty - June 9, 2010 05:00 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

Sure, I'm aware of that, but Leo has probably not much more first-hand knowledge of Kerry and Bill than people who have watched many of their productions. My impression is that they conscientiously withhold their own skepticism towards the information brought forward by their witnesses that sounds "far-out", but where it conflicts with information which they (especially Kerry) have assimilated and believe to be true they will interrupt their interview object to focus on the conflicting stories.

That's not really true. I have heard the line, "...because we have heard that x or y is true." When the interviewers hear something that they think is contrary to their belief. Whilst they do not chase the discrepancy most of the time, it is implied they do not agree with what was said.

I have also hear Kerry push her own agenda in her questioning when she should have just let the interviewee talk. This agenda is usually New Age in nature.

I myself do watch the occasional Project Camelot vid, but only for a laugh. Nothing they ever say can be proven, and they do not try very hard to ever do so. Aside from that, i find their interview technique to be annoying at best and down right suppressive at worst. Often times the interviewer will relate their own story, wasting the time the person being interviewed is able to talk. They also have this annoying habit of pointing the camera at the interviewer, even when the person being interviewed is talking.

soulinspiration - November 9, 2010 11:59 PM (GMT)

I thought that the analysis was pretty astute. Agents such as Bill Ryan & Kerry Cassidy being crypto-Scientologists makes a lot of sense. I haven't seen the interview that is discussed above, but if the statements made in this critique of it are accurate then it would indeed seem that Ryan & Cassidy are indeed covering for Scientology. At the top it is no doubt a Jesuit-conceived, CIA & US Army Intelligence-coordinated mind-control experiment, but it still deserves exposing as it is truly a soul-stealing, family-destroying money-making scam.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Max Keiser promotes a limited hangout

Title: Max Keiser promotes a limited hangout
Description: But on finance and economics he rules.

Halvor - October 29, 2010 08:55 AM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jQwlElVfdHY

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/jQwlElVfdHY&hl=en_GB&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/jQwlElVfdHY&hl=en_GB&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Timothy Maxwell Keiser dishes it out with excellent guests on his shows on Press TV and Russia Today. He discusses the $700 billion of unsupported derivatives (according to the Bank for International Settlements in Basel) and clearly foresees the utter meltdown of Western civilization. And he's fun with his outpouring of righteous indignation in the form of creative invectives ("suicide bankers", "financial terrorists" and a plethora of not-so-pleasant adjectives) and capricious tête-à-têtes with his sidekick, Stacy Herbert.

So I've been enjoying watching him for more than a year now, and I've learned a lot. I now understand phrases like "derivatives", "quantitative easing", "naked short selling" and in general my eyes have been opened to the fascinating realm of finance and economics where before this was clearly outside my sphere of interest and understanding.

But watching Thursday's show on RT made me realize that Max Keiser simply provides a limited hangout, misdirecting the public outrage onto the lower-level henchmen of the real perpetrators. In Thursday's show news were presented of anthropologist Paus Crosthwaite who, according to the Guardian had made a study which showed that bankers displayed a "masochistic pleasure in running up losses", i.e. they were destroying the economy for sexual gratification, a bit like young boys plucking the wings off flies. The trigger for me, however, was Max Keiser bringing into the studio a Barbie-size Lloyd Blankfein-doll (Blankfein is the CEO of Goldman Sachs infamous for stating "I'm doing God's work" and for saying that Goldman Sachs had no moral or legal obligation to inform its clients it was betting against the products which they were buying from Goldman Sachs) and inviting his audience to write in to tell him what he should do with the mini-Lloyd doll, i.e. should it be guillotined or be destroyed in other creative ways... That was when I realized that Max Keiser is either critically uninformed, or, he is a sheep-dipped intelligence operative with the mandate to veil the connection to the upper echelons of the power hierarchy.

I wanted to give Max Keiser the benefit of the doubt. So I first wrote a comment for this video on YouTube

> QUOTE
>
> Although I agree that sadomasochistic impulses are quite likely part of this deliberate mutual destruction, it is naïve to think that the bankers are acting autonomously in this. This is all part of the plan orchestrated by the Vatican masters at the Society of Jesus' based on their proprietary brand of dispensationalism to set the stage for their 2012 end time end game machinations. There's a hierarchy of chivalric orders which all• the power players of the world financial elite bows down to.

I decided to write this also on Max Keiser's web page/blog, and I copied the text and added a couple of paragraphs to it explaining about the chivalric orders, the Knights of Malta, Knights of Columbus, the Jesuits – Adolfo Nicolás in Rome and Kolvenbach in Tripoli, Lebanon, the Vatican's grand plan of a New World Order when it moves its seat of operations to Jerusalem, and I also parenthetically mentioned the echelon above the Society of Jesus, i.e. the Arcana Arcanorum Rite of Atlantis and the papal nobility families.

It never made it though moderation. So, last night I wrote again

> QUOTE
>
> Apparently Max & Stacy aren't letting serious criticism through to the people reading and writing on this website. That's what it looks like after a post I submitted 6 hours ago still hasn't been posted here. In it I pointed to the fact that Max's targetting of the bankers as the enemy falls completely short of identifying the echelons above them, of which I mentioned some in that post. I posted a shorter version of that post in the YouTube comments for today's show as 'clubtour'.
>
> So, Max and Stacy, show you're not sheep-dipped shills and let the people read what I wrote…

This has also not appeared among the other discussion posts.

I still am willing to entertain the notion that Max simply is unable to wrap his intellect around the grand scheme of things and cavalierly dismisses me as a conspiracy kook, however, I now am more inclined than before to think that he plays the game just like everyone else, just like Alex Jones whose show he has been a guest on (he did blow up in Jones' face, I must concede though.)

Any takers?

Phazon - October 29, 2010 10:46 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Halvor @ Oct 29 2010, 08:55 AM)
>
> I still am willing to entertain the notion that Max simply is unable to wrap his intellect around the grand scheme of things and cavalierly dismisses me as a conspiracy kook, however, I now am more inclined than before to think that he plays the game just like everyone else, just like Alex Jones whose show he has been a guest on (he did blow up in Jones' face, I must concede though.)
>
> Any takers?

Nah Keiser's a shill, an entertaining and enjoyable shill (like Celente), but still a shill none the less.

All these shill's mostly just dish it out on the United States (that's why they go on the news channels in nations that are America's enemies [i.e. enemies in the scripted sense]). They're simply facilitating the destruction of the U.S. and the implementation of martial law in America followed by the New World Order.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: NY Times Intervews Zecharia Sitchin

Title: NY Times Intervews Zecharia Sitchin

map - January 14, 2010 08:22 AM (GMT)

http://www.nytimes.com/2010/01/10/nyregion/10alone.html

WHERE did humankind come from?

Chester Higgins Jr./The New York Times

To Zecharia Sitchin, a carving from 7,000 B.C. represents an alien passing a plow, and agricultural wisdom, to humanity.

If you're going to ask Zecharia Sitchin, be ready for a "Planet of the Apes" scenario: spaceships and hieroglyphics, genetic mutations and mutinous space aliens in gold mines.

It sounds like science fiction, but Mr. Sitchin is sure this is how it all went down hundreds of thousands of years ago in Mesopotamia. Humans were genetically engineered by extraterrestrials, he said, pointing to ancient texts to prove it.

In Mr. Sitchin's Upper West Side kitchen, evolution and creationism collide. He is an apparently sane, sharp, University of London-educated 89-year-old who has spent his life arguing that people evolved with a little genetic intervention from ancient astronauts who came to Earth and needed laborers to mine gold to bring back to Nibiru, a planet we have yet to recognize.

Outlandish, yes, but also somehow intriguing from this cute, distinguished old man whom you may have seen shuffling slowly down Broadway with his cane, and thought, "Is Art Carney still alive?"

So you bring your laptop to his kitchen table, as if to take dictation, and ask what to write about him. He pads slowly to the stove and puts on the kettle.

"Well, you could start by calling me the most controversial 89-year-old man in New York," Mr. Sitchin says. "Or you could just say I write books. I understand you've got to have an opening sentence, but describing my theories in a sentence, or even something like a newspaper article, is impossible. It will make me look silly."

Mr. Sitchin has been called silly before — by scientists, historians and archaeologists who dismiss his theories as pseudoscience and fault their underpinnings: his translations of ancient texts and his understanding of physics. And yet, he has a devoted following of readers.

His 13 books, with names like "Genesis Revisited" and "The Earth Chronicles," have sold millions of copies and been translated into 25 languages. "And Albanian is coming," he notes, spooning the Taster's Choice into two mugs.

Mr. Sitchin himself represents a remarkable feat of urban evolution that often goes unnoticed. He lives alone, in the sprawling prewar apartment he has inhabited for 54 years, maintaining his independence by relying on the infrastructure many Manhattanites take for granted.

He works away on his latest book, answers fan mail, and at midday, reaches for his cane, floppy hat and overcoat, and rides the elevator down from the second floor to the lobby. The doorman hails him a cab for the $4 ride to a nearby diner, Cafe Eighty Two on Broadway, for the lunch special, the chicken gyro, where there are other elderly people doing the same.

The Upper West Side is Mr. Sitchin's Mesopotamia, Broadway a fertile valley. He has Lincoln Center, Zabar's, Fairway, dry cleaners that deliver and a galaxy of take-out restaurants. For research, the New York Public Library is down on 42nd Street, and the archives of the Jewish Theological Seminary up on Broadway at 122nd Street.

"In Florida, if you don't have a car, you might as well lay down and die," he said. "I've been all over the Western world and I know of no other place where an older person like myself can survive on his own. I raise my hand, and my chauffeured car — a yellow cab — takes me anywhere. I can call any restaurant or store and get what I need delivered in minutes."

He slides over a cup of coffee in a mug with a 30th anniversary logo for "The Twelfth Planet," his seminal first book, now in its 45th printing. It stated his basic theory, based largely on his reading of texts preserved on clay tablets from the pre-Babylonian era in ancient Mesopotamia, the so-called cradle of the civilization of Sumer.

Born in Russia and raised in Israel, Mr. Sitchin studied economics in London and worked as a journalist and editor in Israel before moving to New York in 1952. Here, he was an executive at a shipping company and, with his wife of 66 years (she died in 2007), raised two daughters. He spent his free time studying, leading archaeological tours to ancient sites and spreading his unusual gospel.

Starting in childhood, he has studied ancient Hebrew, Akkadian and Sumerian, the language of the ancient Mesopotamians, who brought you geometry, astronomy, the chariot and the lunar calendar. And in the etchings of Sumerian pre-cuneiform script — the oldest example of writing — are stories of creation and the cosmos that most consider myth and allegory, but that Mr. Sitchin takes literally.

In his kitchen, Mr. Sitchin pulled two Danish out of a Zabar's bag and began to explain. It starts with the planet Nibiru, whose long, elliptical orbit brings it near Earth once every 3,600 years or so. The planet's inhabitants were technologically advanced humanlike beings, Mr. Sitchin said, standing about nine feet tall. Some 450,000 years ago, they detected reserves of gold in southeast Africa and made a colonial expedition to Earth, splashing down in what is now the Persian Gulf.

Mr. Sitchin said these Nibiru-ites recruited laborers from Earth's erect primates to build eight great cities. Enki, who became the Sumerians' god of science, bestowed some of the Nibiru-ites' advanced genetic makeup upon these bipeds so they could work as miners.

This is how Mr. Sitchin explains what scientists attribute to evolution. He says the aliens' cities were washed away in a great flood 30,000 years ago, after which they began passing on their knowledge to humans. He showed a photograph of a woodcarving from 7,000 B.C. of a large man handing over a plow to a smaller man: Ah, the passing on of agricultural knowledge. Anyway, he said, the Nibiru-ites finally jetted home in their spacecraft, around 550 B.C.

"This is in the texts; I'm not making it up," Mr. Sitchin said, finishing his coffee. "They wanted to create primitive workers from the homo erectus and give him the genes to allow him to think and use tools."

He showed photographs of ancient Sumerian carvings and etchings showing what he said were alien gods dressed in space helmets and suits. He pointed to something he called Nibiru in diagrams of the solar system.

Quite a theory — has he sold it to Hollywood?

"Oh no, not yet," he said solemnly. "I'm waiting for Spielberg."

TheUnhivedMind - October 27, 2010 02:24 AM (GMT)

We regret to inform you that Zecharia Sitchin passed away on the morning of October 9th. A small, private family funeral was held the next day.

The family asks that you respect its privacy during this difficult time and refrain from contacting family members directly. Instead, to offer tributes to Mr. Sitchin or to contact those handling his affairs, please email tributes@sitchin.com or send a letter to P.O. Box 577, New York, NY 10185.

We appreciate the support that you have given over the years. Please continue to monitor this website for further updates.

http://www.sitchin.com/

AntiSionist - October 27, 2010 05:31 AM (GMT)

Good riddance to a lying puppet of the Saturnalian Brotherhood.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Charlie Sheen in psychiatric care

Title: Charlie Sheen in psychiatric care

14april2000 - October 26, 2010 05:55 PM (GMT)

Charlie Sheen in psychiatric care

user posted image
Charlie Sheen has been hospitalized after reports he was intoxicated and throwing furniture around his Plaza Hotel room.

Colleen Long Associated Press
26 October 2010

http://www.thestar.com/entertainment/telev...sychiatric-care

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Charlie Sheen was hospitalized Tuesday for a psychiatric evaluation after a woman called police to say the star was throwing furniture and yelling in his room at The Plaza, a law enforcement official said.

Police were called to the room at about 2 a.m. and Sheen appeared highly intoxicated, the official said. He was not arrested and went voluntarily. The official was not authorized to speak publicly about the incident and spoke to the AP on condition of anonymity. It's not clear who the woman was in the hotel room with him. Sheen was reportedly in New York on a family vacation.

His publicist Stan Rosenfield said the 45-year-old was expected to be released Wednesday.

"What we are able to determine is that Charlie had an adverse allergic reaction to some medication and was taken to the hospital," he said.

It was the latest in a series of troubles for Sheen, the star of CBS' Two and a Half Men, who has had problems with alcohol and drugs in the past.

In August, he pleaded guilty in Aspen, Colo. to misdemeanour third-degree assault after a Christmas Day assault on his wife, Brooke Mueller Sheen. Prosecutors dropped more serious charges and he avoided jail time and he was sentenced to 30 days in a rehabilitation centre, 30 days of probation and 36 hours of anger management.

Mueller Sheen told police that the actor threatened to kill her and brandished a knife after she told him she wanted a divorce. Charlie Sheen said they argued but he denied threatening her, and he told police that he was upset by the divorce threat. Sheen previously went through a bitter divorce and custody battle with his ex-wife Denise Richards.

In December 1996, he was charged with attacking a girlfriend at his southern California home. He later pleaded no contest and was placed on two years of probation.

In 1998, his father, actor Martin Sheen, turned him in for violating his parole after a cocaine overdose sent him to the hospital. He was ordered to undergo a rehabilitation program.

He also had a very bitter and public divorce with actress Denise Richards, the mother of his two children, Sam, 6, and Lola, 5.

Sheen is also the star of films such as Platoon, Wall Street and Hot Shots!

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: WIKILEAKS : A CIA Front for Disinformation!

Title: WIKILEAKS : A CIA Front for Disinformation!

14april2000 - October 25, 2010 11:21 AM (GMT)

Wikileaks attracts those with good documentation to expose mass corruption, but after attracting them, what happens?

How could Julian Assange "editor in chief" of Wikileaks, an organization that supposedly has all sorts of inside information on government corruption, that think 9/11 wasn't a false flag? "I'm constantly annoyed that people are distracted by false conspiracies such as 9/11, when all around we provide evidence of real conspiracies, for war or mass financial fraud."

And what does he have to say about the Bilderberg conference? "That is vaguely conspiratorial, in a networking sense. We have published their meeting notes."

QUOTE

Wanted by the CIA: Julian Assange - Wikileaks founder

By Matthew Bell
Monday, 19 July 2010

There are not many journalists who, when you ask them if they are being followed by the CIA, say "We have surveillance events from time to time." Actually it's not a question I've ever asked before, and Julian Assange does not call himself a journalist.

But the answer is typical of this 41-year-old former computer-hacker: cryptic, dispassionate, and faintly self-important.

As the founder of Wikileaks – a website that publishes millions of documents, from military intelligence to internal company memos and has, in four years, exposed more secrets than many newspapers have in a century – Assange has become the pin-up of web-age investigative journalists. The US has wanted him for questioning since March, after he posed a video showing an American helicopter attack that left several Iraqi civilians and two Reuters journalists dead.

Understandably, he now avoids the US, and keeps his movements secret, though it's thought he operates out of Sweden and is spending time in Iceland, where a change in the law is creating a libel-free haven for journalists. But if the CIA spooks wanted him that badly, couldn't they have turned up, as a hundred adoring student journalists did, to hear him talk at the Centre for Investigative Journalism 10 days ago?

Perhaps it's just as well they didn't, as Assange is not a natural public speaker. He is more at home trawling data or decrypting the codes that mask it. His philosophy is that the more a government wants to keep something secret, the more reason to expose it. No journalist could argue with his essential belief in shining a light on malpractice, but shouldn't governments be entitled to keep some secrets? "Sure," he says when we speak after his talk, "That doesn't mean we and other press organisations should suffer under coercion."

What if publishing a document would threaten national security? "This phrase is so abused. Dick Cheney justified torture with it. Give me an example." What about the movement of US troops? Would he publish a document that jeopardised their safety? "We'd have to think about it." So that's a yes? "It's not a yes. If that fit into our editorial criteria – which it might, if it was an extremely good movement – then we'd have to look at whether that needed a harm minimisation procedure. We'd be totally happy to consider jeopardising the initiation of a war, or the action of war. Absolutely."

He may speak like a robot, and have a politician's knack at ducking straight answers, but in the flesh he could be a forgotten member of Crowded House, all ripped jeans and crumpled jacket, his distinguished white hair framing a youthful face. His grungy look ties in with his outsider status: he has a deep-rooted mistrust of authority. It has been speculated this comes from a youthful brush with the family courts after he divorced the mother of his son, though little is really known about his early life.

His obsession with secrecy, both in others and maintaining his own, lends him the air of a conspiracy theorist. Is he one? "I believe in facts about conspiracies," he says, choosing his words slowly. "Any time people with power plan in secret, they are conducting a conspiracy. So there are conspiracies everywhere. There are also crazed conspiracy theories. It's important not to confuse these two. Generally, when there's enough facts about a conspiracy we simply call this news." What about 9/11? "I'm constantly annoyed that people are distracted by false conspiracies such as 9/11, when all around we provide evidence of real conspiracies, for war or mass financial fraud." What about the Bilderberg conference? "That is vaguely conspiratorial, in a networking sense. We have published their meeting notes."

Assange likes to see Wikileaks as a neutral platform for distributing information, and fends off criticism by saying it always follows its openly stated policies. But no news organisation is free from personal input, as he reveals when talking of Bilderberg, a shadowy annual conference of the influential. "I understand the philosophical rationale for having Chatham House rules among people in power, but the corrupting nature, in the case of Bilderberg, probably outweighs the benefits. When powerful people meet together in secret, it tends to corrupt."

Spending time with Assange, it's hard not to start believing that dark forces are at work. According to him, everyone's emails are being read. For that reason, he encourages anyone planning to leak a document to post it the old fashioned way, to his PO Box. It's ironic that an organisation bent on blowing secrets is itself so secretive, but Wikileaks couldn't operate without reliable sources. Except that, amazingly, Wikileaks does not verify them. "We don't verify our sources, we verify the documents. As long as they are bona fide it doesn't matter where they come from. We would rather not know."

After we talk, he is off to a safe house for the night and after that, who knows? He never stays in one place more than two nights. Is that because the CIA wants to kill him? "Is it in the CIA's interest to assassinate me? Maybe. But who would do it?" Isn't he brave to appear in public? "Courage is an > intellectual mastery of fear," he says. "It's not that you don't have fear, you just manage your risks intelligently."

http://www.belfasttelegraph.co.uk/lifestyl...-14880073.html#

So this man supposedly spends all his time working to expose fraudulent governments and he covers up one of the worst conspiracies ever orchestrated.

He goes around the world spreading the news and importance of Wikileaks at things like TED

Julian Assange: Why the world needs WikiLeaks

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/bVGqE726OAo?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/bVGqE726OAo?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bVGqE726OAo...player_embedded

Also on TED Bill Gates, and the need for human depopulation:

Bill Gates wants a Billion Dead! Vaccines and Health Care will do the Job!

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/WUJMR3BUm2s?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/WUJMR3BUm2s?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=WUJMR3BUm2s...player_embedded

TED is a podium for many masters of propaganda.

But enough about Julian for now, how is Wikileaks hurting usu directly?

In Pakistan Daily July 28 earlier this year, Pakistan Daily Published this article

QUOTE

CIA, Mossad and Soros behind Wikileak

...

Our Asian intelligence sources report the following: “Wikileaks is running a disinformation campaign, crying persecution by U.S. intelligence- when it is U.S. intelligence itself. Its [Wikileaks'] activities in Iceland are totally suspect.” Wikileaks claims it is the victim of a new COINTELPRO [Counter Intelligence Program] operation directed by the Pentagon and various U.S. intelligence agencies. WMR’s sources believe that it is Wikileaks that is part and parcel of a cyber-COINTELPRO campaign, such as that proposed by President Obama’s “information czar,” Dr. Cass Sunstein.

In January 2007, John Young, who runs cryptome.org, a site that publishes a wealth of sensitive and classified information, left Wikileaks, claiming the operation was a CIA front. Young also published some 150 email messages sent by Wikileaks activists on cryptome. They include a disparaging comment about this editor by Wikileaks co-founder Dr. Julian Assange of Australia. Assange lists as one of his professions “hacker.” His German co-founder of Wikileaks uses a pseudonym, “Daniel Schmitt.”

http://www.daily.pk/cia-mossad-and-soros-b...ikileaks-19280/

So in 2007 Wikileaks was accused of being a CIA front? By one of its own?

Now lets take a look at what is coming out in the last couple days, due to the most recent leaks from wikileaks:

QUOTE

> Wikileaks: Pakistan accused of helping Taliban in Afghanistan attacks
>
> Pakistan has armed, trained and coordinated Taliban and al-Qaeda attacks in Afghanistan, according to the military reports.
>
> ...
>
> John Kerry, the head of the Foreign Relations Committee in the US Senate, said the leak was worrying and had come at a "critical stage" for policy in the region.
>
> "These documents may very well underscore the stakes and make the calibrations needed to get the policy right more urgent," he said.
>
> "However illegally these documents came to light, they raise serious questions about the reality of America's policy toward Pakistan and Afghanistan."
>
> Just last week, Hillary Clinton said she believes Osama bin Laden is still hidden inside Pakistan.
>
> ...
>
> A senior Pakistani intelligence source said simply releasing thousands of raw, unverified reports was misleading.
>
> "Intelligence works in an entirely different fashion," he said. "We receive a preliminary report – which could come from anyone – and then you have to corroborate it from different, independent sources," he said. "A lot of this stuff will turn out to be untrue but we need weeks to check it."

http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/...an-attacks.html

But that is just one of the articles that has come out due to wikileaks, announcing the great double cross of Pakistan and the great threat they are to democracy. To name a few:

http://www.nytimes.com/2010/07/27/opinion/27tue1.html?_r=1

http://voices.washingtonpost.com/dot.comme..._and_talib.html

http://www.weeklystandard.com/blogs/wikile...si-intelligence

http://worldblog.msnbc.msn.com/_news/2010/...ace-of-pakistan

> QUOTE
>
> The Pakistani ambassador in Washington said the "unprocessed" reports did "not reflect the current onground realities".

http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-us-canada-10758188

Looks to me like Wikileaks is helping to encourage a war with Pakistan.

So lets move on to this interview with John Young on Alex Jones radio, and hear what they think about Wikileaks.

John Young: Wikileaks War Logs Show Global Intelligence Facade Of 'War On Terror' Alex Jones Tv 1/2

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/70pmhZHy6eQ?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/70pmhZHy6eQ?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=70pmhZHy6eQ&feature=player_

John Young: Wikileaks War Logs Show Global Intelligence Facade Of 'War On Terror' Alex Jones Tv 2/2

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/p3XE448dfXA?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/p3XE448dfXA?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=p3XE448dfXA...player_embedded Decide for yourself what you think, but look at all the facts.

Recently a rape charge turned into being called a "smear campaign" against Assange

QUOTE

> Julian Assange rape charges dropped, Wikileaks founder cleared
>
> Read more: http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/blogs/abraha...4#ixzz13KVl442F
>
> ...
>
> According to Aljazeera, Eva Finne, Sweden's chief prosecutor, Julian Assange was "no longer wanted."
>
> On Friday, it was reported that the two women, who knew each other, came forward to Swedish Police. But the problem was they did not want to file an official report because of their so-called fears of his power.
>
> What's fishy about that story is if the women actually knew who Julian was, thus "fearing his power," which is a joke of a claim, and knew what his controversial Wikileaks issue was about, why would they seek to file a false report of rape, especially since he up against the U.S Government?
>
> If they were supporters of his cause, they would not have done that. Period
>
> Under the circumstances, because they're not named and did not file an official report, its fair to ask if the women were connected to the CIA?

http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/blogs/abraha...?entry_id=70624

Despicable "reporting." Lets continue,

"There's only one former staffer, who was suspended, as far as I know, who's spoken to anyone." - Julian Assange

Only one? really? What about John Young? Well, lets look at the whole interview, one that Assange walked out of on CNN recently.

Wikileaks Founder Walks

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/d_0-KUaQl7k?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube-nocookie.com/v/d_0-KUaQl7k?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

It's not an interesting issue that his people are leaving and accusing him of having serious issues?

That's just one of the many interesting issues around wikileaks, issues Julian has assured us he will not comment on.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: KEITH "TRUTH" THOMPSON

Title: KEITH "TRUTH" THOMPSON
Description: HATES EJP AND DOESN'T SPEAK ON JESUITS

map - September 25, 2010 01:08 AM (GMT)

note how "keithtruth" was cool with me 4 months ago for posting his new age christian documentary where he didnt even mention chardin sj (new age prophet for jesuits) then note how in his facebook conversation... he censors me after posting ejp's con con video from blip..

then, he blocks me after the last message (reposting ejp's video) here's his latest vid...

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/1FG7JsltBkw?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/1FG7JsltBkw?fs=1&hl=en_US&rel=0" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

i understand he's doing apologetics but at i don't understand why he censored the ejp post with great papal history and then blocks me out of nowhere without warning.

Douglas Brehm - September 25, 2010 04:45 AM (GMT)

Marco it's been my observation that most people in the conspiracy or truth community really have no idea what they are talking about.

They try and develop their own framework of understanding and then seek the information that substantiates that frame of mind instead of studying for long periods of time then developing a framework or "explaination" from that effort.

And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their reward.

Narrow_Is_The_Way - September 25, 2010 07:20 AM (GMT)

I always had that gut feeling that Keith wouldn't expand the exposure beyond New Age/Elite/Witchcraft stuff. I had never thought I would had been right all along, it's sad. :((It would had been nice if he quoted from the Vatican Assassins book in his film.)

I remember back in 08 when Keith were one the guys that woke me from deception, and guys like Chris White, Scott Johnson, Chris Pinto helped many people strengthening their faiths like it happened to me, and appreciate them for what they done and I hope the Lord bless them for what they accomplished.

Flash to early 2010, and found this site by a link after hearing Craig Oxley Trashing

Alex Jones video (GOD bless you, Kennedy1op) I find stuff I never find in any other place in the exposing arena, and just as Craig says:

"We can dish the dirt like no other group out there." :D

yes2truth - September 25, 2010 07:47 AM (GMT)

Eccl 12:12 (KJV) And further, by these, my son, be admonished: of making many books there is no end; and much study is a weariness of the flesh.

Premises + syllogisms = Papal infallibility. LOL

Plus a study of Daniel 2 = job done and Rome/Babylon sussed.

The simplicity that is in Christ - 2 Cor 11:3

Time he spent his time more constructively.

map - September 25, 2010 08:38 AM (GMT)

i understand his upcoming film is in the field of apologetics BUT why the block after censorship by simply mentioning ejp and linking his vid (which great papal history)...

he also belittled ejp and didn't specifically state his errors.

he didn't attack jesuits in his first 2 vids AT ALL.

hmm

I can only trust in this forum it seems.

yes2truth - September 25, 2010 09:35 AM (GMT)

Trust in the Lord Jesus Christ and Him alone, not this forum.

map - September 25, 2010 04:59 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (yes2truth @ Sep 25 2010, 02:35 AM)
>
> Trust in the Lord Jesus Christ and Him alone, not this forum.

Well said... nobody calling themselves born-again should ever lose sight of that, but temporally in this wicked age, it seems there is only a handful of people that REALLY knows the power behind the false "universal" church that is the vatican mystery babylon papal system.

And the woman which thou sawest is that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth. Revelation 17:18 KJV

i know of maybe 2 "Christians" that have addressed that verse by telling you who the city is and HOW they do it.

either most are ignorant or are scared OR are controlled opposition

Jefferson Smith - September 25, 2010 06:04 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Douglas Brehm @ Sep 25 2010, 04:45 AM)
>
> Marco it's been my observation that most people in the conspiracy or truth community really have no idea what they are talking about.
>
> They try and develop their own framework of understanding and then seek the information that substantiates that frame of mind instead of studying for long periods of time then developing a framework or "explaination" from that effort.

Couldn't have said it better myself. I think it's more human nature than it is a phenomena of the truth movement.

Most of these "youtube conspiracy theorists" types just take information from other legitimate researches or from documentaries and pass it off as their own or, like you said, use it to substantiate their own beliefs. The best example would be that Muslim propaganda film The Arrivals. They mash-up audio/video clips and research from Christians (Bill Cooper, Scott Johnson, etc.) and use it to justify Islam as the only hope to defeat the Illuminati :lol: I guess you can call it a Frankenstein documentary.

I wouldn't call Keith an agent of deception. There is a difference between guys like Tsarion, Maxwell, Jones (Rosicrucian, Freemason, CIA) and schmucks on the internet.

map - September 25, 2010 06:19 PM (GMT)

^^ Yes, but why the sudden block without warning and through his work NO MENTION of the Jesuits?

Hmm... i know the jesuit oath, i know how they could function, to get close enough to the truth to ultimately point the finger away from themselves & Rome.

But ultimately it's about winning people to Christ, and he did that with me on his first piece "exposing the satanic empire"

yes2truth - September 26, 2010 07:25 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (map @ Sep 25 2010, 04:59 PM)

QUOTE (yes2truth @ Sep 25 2010, 02:35 AM)

Trust in the Lord Jesus Christ and Him alone, not this forum.

Well said... nobody calling themselves born-again should ever lose sight of that, but temporally in this wicked age, it seems there is only a handful of people that REALLY knows the power behind the false "universal" church that is the vatican mystery babylon papal system.

And the woman which thou sawest is that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth. Revelation 17:18 KJV

i know of maybe 2 "Christians" that have addressed that verse by telling you who the city is and HOW they do it.

either most are ignorant or are scared OR are controlled opposition

It seems there is only a handful of people that REALLY knows the power behind the false "universal" church that is the vatican mystery babylon papal system.

That's because The Path is narrow and only a few find it.

You need to understand that the bulk of mainstream Christianity is deluded - they are on the wide path to destruction - KJV speak for Spiritual Ruin.

servant of truth - September 27, 2010 04:37 AM (GMT)

knowing that the Jesuits control the world doesn't mean your on the narrow way,

You are following the narrow way if you deny your flesh, stop sinning, and OBEY the lord Jesus and his words its a 100 fold more important to preach the right doctrines, than the right knowledge.

yes2truth - September 27, 2010 05:36 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (servant of truth @ Sep 27 2010, 04:37 AM)

> knowing that the Jesuits control the world doesn't mean your on the narrow way,
>
> You are following the narrow way if you deny your flesh, stop sinning, and OBEY the lord Jesus and his words
>
> its a 100 fold more important to preach the right doctrines, than the right knowledge.

"Knowing that the Jesuits control the world doesn't mean your on the narrow way."

Did I say that?

"You are following the narrow way if you deny your flesh, stop sinning, and OBEY the lord Jesus and his words."

I don't obey anyone, I live under grace. If you're obeying then you are still under The Law - a Judaiser. I follow The Lord because I want to, i.e. voluntarily and willingly, not because I have to + I do not sin because I am Born of God.

"Its a 100 fold more important to preach the right doctrines, than the right knowledge.

I preach The Truth, not doctrines. Doctrines are for men of religion only.

servant of truth - September 27, 2010 08:03 AM (GMT)

sorry that was a misunderstanding on my part, it seemed that is what you were implying but I understand what you meant now.

I saw one of this guys vids and he was speaking truth about not sinning, and that we shouldn't be partaking of the same evil as the unbelievers and calling ourselves 'saved' so I respect him for that

golden_oil - September 27, 2010 02:55 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (yes2truth @ Sep 27 2010, 05:36 AM)
>
> I don't obey anyone, I live under grace. If you're obeying then you are still under The Law - a Judaiser. I follow The Lord because I want to, i.e. voluntarily and willingly, not because I have to + I do not sin because I am Born of God.

The fact of the matter is that believing you are under grace, that you do not have to obey

God's Law, and you sin and do not repent, in that state you are going to be judged by the Law.

This instruction comes from our Lord:

John 14:15 says "If ye love me, keep my commandments."

John 15:10 "If he keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love, even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love."

The Jesuits have done their job well. They infiltrated the churches and taught this false doctrine of grace only and also taught that keeping the commandments is 'works', which is utterly false, as is the accusation that a person is keeping the commandments to gain salvation. Of course this is not the case at all as Jesus paid the full price.

In Hebrew, the word "commandments" can also be translated "directions".
No one is perfect but the Father, yet Jesus Christ instructed us to be perfect and to sin no more.

I John 1:9 was written for Christians.

yes2truth - September 27, 2010 08:27 PM (GMT)

"The fact of the matter is that believing you are under grace, that you do not have to obey God's Law, and you sin and do not repent, in that state you are going to be judged by the Law."

Looks like we have a Judaiser straight out of the Book of Galatians.

I don't just believe, I KNOW I AM UNDER GRACE and don't have to obey anyone.

Furthermore, there is no condemnation i.e. no judgement for those who are in Christ.

The Law was nailed to the cross and you need to fully understand what that means.

"John 14:15 says "If ye love me, keep my commandments."

You need to look up what the true meaning of 'keep' is in this context. From the Greek Keep = hold dear or hold as precious. It doesn't mean obey.

The Jesuits have done their job well.

Someone has done a job on you more like - a Rabbinical job. LOL

They infiltrated the churches and taught this false doctrine of grace only and also taught that keeping the commandments is 'works', which is utterly false, as is the accusation that a person is keeping the commandments to gain salvation. Of course this is not the case at all as Jesus paid the full price.

Rome knows nothing about Grace and everything about selling and buying salvation. Judaising philosophers like you infiltrated The Church in the late first and early second centuries and these blasphemers were known as the 'Church Fathers'.

Of course obeying the commandments is salvation by works. What do you think the Pharisees were doing?

You sound very confused.

"In Hebrew, the word "commandments" can also be translated "directions""

Directions, ordinances, commandments, it's all The Law and their ain't no salvation in it. If you think there is then you are in BIG trouble.

"No one is perfect but the Father, yet Jesus Christ instructed us to be perfect and to sin no more.

I am perfect and sinless for I have been made perfect and sinless by the indwelling of The Holy Spirit.

1 John 3:3 (KJV) And every man that hath this hope in Him purifieth himself, even as He is pure.

1 John 3:6 (KJV) Whosoever abideth in Him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen Him, neither known Him.

1 John 3:9 (KJV) Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for His seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

"I John 1:9 was written for Christians.

1 John 1 was written for the unconverted and/or potential converts not Born Again believers.

http://www.articlesbase.com/christianity-a...re-3197851.html

yes2truth - September 27, 2010 08:45 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (servant of truth @ Sep 27 2010, 08:03 AM) sorry that was a misunderstanding on my part, it seemed that is what you were implying but I understand what you meant now.

I saw one of this guys vids and he was speaking truth about not sinning, and that we shouldn't be partaking of the same evil as the unbelievers and calling ourselves 'saved'
so I respect him for that Apology accepted.

golden_oil - September 28, 2010 10:29 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (yes2truth @ Sep 27 2010, 08:27 PM)

The Law was nailed to the cross and you need to fully understand what that means.

"John 14:15 says "If ye love me, keep my commandments."

You need to look up what the true meaning of 'keep' is in this context. From the Greek Keep = hold dear or hold as precious. It doesn't mean obey.

First of all, the Ten Commandments were not nailed to the cross.

Note what scripture says is nailed to the cross:

Colossians 2:14

"Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross"

The word is "ordinances" and is referring back to verse 8:

"Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ."

Men would come against us with their multitude of laws of do this, do that, but Jesus came with only ten.

About this verse and your comment, "If ye love me, keep my commandments."

"Keep" or "hold dear" is an acceptable translation and means also, "hold them close to your heart". In other words, we are "to consider them carefully".

The Lord Jesus Christ wrote them with His finger on the stone tablets, Exodus 31:18, as they were so important and went on to expound their meaning in Matthew chapters 5 to 7 in His sermon on the mount.

To illustrate how important these teachings are, after having memorized these three chapters, one morning I once more began to read through them in my Bible and the Lord spoke every word of them in my inward being - aloud, that is, while I read along with Him. He was once more stressing their importance.

Towards the end of the book of Revelation, 22:14 says this:

"Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city."

Note this time instead of saying "keep", it says "do", and if you don't, you have no right to the tree of life, i.e., you have no part of the Bringer of Life.

[/B]Grace you see, brings forgiveness if you repent, but if you fail to observe even the least of these commandments, then you are guilty of all, and you bring the judgment of the Law upon you for sinning without repentance.
[B]

yes2truth - September 28, 2010 05:29 PM (GMT)

"First of all, the Ten Commandments were not nailed to the cross."

Are you saying The Ten Commandments are not THE LAW?

Eph 2:15-16 (KJV) Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one new man, so making peace; 16 And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby:

Looks to me like ordinances are as commandments - The Law

"Keep" or "hold dear" is an acceptable translation and means also, "hold them close to your heart". In other words, we are "to consider them carefully".

Consider them all you like, but if you're trying to obey them then what separates you from the people who lived before there was grace i.e. before His death and resurrection? In other words the people of the The OLD COVENANT.

Towards the end of the book of Revelation, 22:14 says this:

"Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city."

In The Greek it says: Verse 14 Happy the ones-plunging (rinsing or washing) the robes of them that it shall be the authority (licence) on the wood of the life and to the gates they may into coming the city.

Looks like you're not checking things out 'cos this is saying blessed are those who wash their robes i.e. get baptised, receive the Holy Spirit and believe and/or have faith and are also cleansed by His blood.

Grace you see, brings forgiveness if you repent, but if you fail to observe even the least of these commandments, then you are guilty of all, and you bring the judgment of the Law upon you for sinning without repentance.

Nonsense - Grace covers our sins, for by grace are you saved. His sacrifice enables forgiveness 'cos His sacrifice took all of mankind's sin - EVERY SIN - past, present and future.

I will repaste these Holy Scriptures which you have ignored and thereby created all manner of contradictions with your attempts at saying we must obey The Commandments.

1 John 3:3 (KJV) And every man that hath this hope in Him purifieth himself, even as He is pure.

1 John 3:6 (KJV) Whosoever abideth in Him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen Him, neither known Him.

1 John 3:9 (KJV) Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for His seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

golden_oil - September 28, 2010 09:11 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (yes2truth @ Sep 28 2010, 05:29 PM)
>
> Nonsense - Grace covers our sins, for by grace are you saved. His sacrifice enables forgiveness 'cos His sacrifice took all of mankind's sin - EVERY SIN - past, present and future.

future?

Then on those terms there should be millions going in the rapture - right? - since they are not accountable for any of their sins after they have been born again and baptized in the Spirit in the Name of Jesus Christ.

According to Revelation 14:1-5 there are only 144,000 redeemed, the firstfruits, without fault or guile - these are clearly gentiles while the Revelation 7 scripture is clearly Jews.

Why so few gentiles?

According to that scripture it is clear that all the others of those millions are not redeemed.

We are told it's a narrow way and we have to work out our salvation with fear and trembling according to Philippians 2:12, to be perfect, holy, and sin no more.

I John 2:4 says, "He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him."

According to Revelation 21:9, all liars have their part in the lake of fire.

yes2truth - September 29, 2010 08:25 AM (GMT)

Two questions for you:

1) When are you going keep all the Commandments (ordinances) i.e. stop sinning completely? For sinners cannot enter the Kingdom of God.

2) What is your explanation of this Holy Scripture?

1 Tim 2:4 (KJV) Who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of The Truth.

It is crucial that you read this article:

http://ezinearticles.com/?Phil-2-12---Work...t-So?&id=543295

golden_oil - September 29, 2010 12:22 PM (GMT)

Two questions for you:

1) When are you going keep all the Commandments (ordinances) i.e. stop sinning completely? For sinners cannot enter the Kingdom of God.

No problem.

I ask forgiveness daily should I have offended Him in any way and ask Him to reveal any shortcomings or sin that would keep me from entering the Kingdom of God, and then if anything comes to mind, it's 1 John 1:9 Communion is another way to examine oneself. In my opinion should be done weekly. It's a lifestyle of serving Him and endeavoring to keep one's garments spotless as did Jesus Christ.

==========

2) What is your explanation of this Holy Scripture?

1 Tim 2:4 (KJV) Who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of The Truth.

This simply means this: He would have all men to be saved, but He Who knows all things knows few will come to the Truth as they are unwilling to walk in the narrow way that it takes as they prefer the fleshly life over that of the spiritual.

==========

You say, quote "It is crucial that you read this article:

http://ezinearticles.com/?Phil-2-12---Work...t-So?&id=543295 "

I rarely read the words of men when it comes to spiritual matters but rely on the scriptures alone and the Holy Spirit. To me it's not a crucial article. For his many words he is deceived. He rejects Words of Jesus Christ, His commandments, and says no one should fear God which is entirely wrong.

Although we are under grace, we are not exempted from keeping the commandments.

Here is an excellent word for all mankind to live by, for He is an Almighty God who changes not:

Ecclesiastes 12:13, 14

13: Let us hear the end of all: fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.

14: 14 For God will bring every work unto judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good or evil.

To fear God is very good, especially to fear not keeping His commandments, for those are His rules. We who love Him as a Father should fear failing to keep His rules. They are not at all suggestions which gives you a choice. Not at all. So it is in that vein we understand that indeed they are commandments, and needful to keep us from commiting sin and come short of the glory of God. We choose to keep them because they serve to enable us to continue to walk in close fellowship with Him.

We are to keep the commandments in order to avoid commiting the sin of iniquity:

1 John 3:4 "Whosoever commiteth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the Transgression of the law" (or, the ten commandments).

About persecution which your man talks about in the article, it is surely coming for Christians. I have close Christian friends who have had dreams of officers coming straight toward them ready to have them to go into a lineup to take the mark of the beast. Families will be separated, and each will have to make a choice for themselves whether or not to trust God to look after us in the face of rejecting the mark.

If you are witnessing for Christ on a daily basis as I am, then you will indeed have persecution now, for most will hate your Christ and your witness of him. We have to bind the spirits of evil men daily in Jesus' Name, as they are intent on destroying a child of God in any way they can.

yes2truth - September 29, 2010 02:39 PM (GMT)

"I ask forgiveness daily should I have offended Him in any way and ask Him to reveal any shortcomings or sin that would keep me from entering the Kingdom of God, and then if anything comes to mind, it's 1 John 1:9"

1) What about the sins you do not know you're committing?

2) What about the sins you will commit in between your asking for forgiveness?

3) What about if you're having some evil thoughts and then step out in front of a bus?

4) What about the fact that The Lord took ALL sins for ALL mankind with Him to the cross, in other words He dealt with ALL SINS fall all time once and once only. Therefore when you ask for forgiveness of your latest sins, what do you think that means to Him? Have you been forgiven or not?

5) In asking for forgiveness of your latest sins are you suggesting to Him that there are some sins of yours that He forgot to deal with at the cross?

"This simply means this: He would have all men to be saved, but He Who knows all things knows few will come to the Truth as they are unwilling to walk in the narrow way that it takes as they prefer the fleshly life over that of the spiritual."

Really?

May I suggest to you that it means exactly what it says, and He will have all mankind to be saved though not necessarily in this age. Furthermore, the Two Paths refer to believers only, not the lost and unsaved.

The narrow path is for those who are chosen and called.

The wide path to destruction (spiritual ruin) is for those who were called, but turned aside to Judaising religion and fables or those attempting to keep the commandments (salvation by works) and shunning grace.

Many are called but few are chosen.

"Although we are under grace, we are not exempted from keeping the commandments.

Really, then what is the point of Grace?

Where does The Law fit in with grace?

If salvation is about Law (Commandment) keeping, are you keeping the dietary laws or are you circumcised? Do you wear clothes woven with mixed cloths? Are you observing the Jew's Holy Days i.e. The Sabbath from sunset Friday to sunset Saturday? For if you fail in keeping any of these ordinances, directions or commandments then you fail completely and you will not enter The Kingdom of God.

Let's get this clear, for you cannot pick and mix with The Lord's Commandments as it suits you, for if you are bound by one you are bound by them all.

Matt 5:20 (KJV) For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.

How is your righteousness going to exceed that of the Pharisees who kept all the Commandments without fail?

golden_oil - September 30, 2010 08:34 PM (GMT)

Then commandments - that's all.

Why do you kick against the pricks?

yes2truth - September 30, 2010 09:38 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (golden_oil @ Sep 30 2010, 08:34 PM)

> Then commandments - that's all.
>
> Why do you kick against the pricks?

What pricks?

When and how are you going to show me how your keeping the Ten Commandments will save you?

The Pharisees kept the Ten Commandments too + all the other Laws.

golden_oil - October 1, 2010 10:14 AM (GMT)

The Pharisees did not keep the Laws. They deceitfully got around not keeping them by inventing their own. Your Bible tells you this.

People are leaving the churches in droves because they recognize the lifestyoles of the people there are no different from that of the world. That's what the Jesuits has done to the church. They made an oath to infiltrate them and change their docrintes, especially to get the commandments of God out of the churches, the courthouses, and government buildings.

We are to keep the commandments because it shows our love for Him, just as Jesus Christ did, because of His love for the Father.

John 14:15,16

15 "If ye love me, keep my commandments.

16 And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever"

Because Christians are not keeping the commandments they are not filled with the Holy Spirit, so they remain in darkness.

When Jesus sends His angels to gather up His bride, they will be looking for those who are lit up with the Holy Spirit. If not, they will be left behind.

It's the same thing with the Israelites who crossed over into the Promised Land. Of the first generation of Israelites, only two were found worthy, and that was Joshua and Caleb - i.e., only two. All others died in the wilderness, in other words, that is, they were "left behind". On one occasion, 24,000 Israelites in one night were caught in the act of fornication and were struck down. They were laying with a woman not their wife or with somebody else's wife. They knew the commandments but were not keeping them.

It's the same in the church today with pastors having more than one wife, committing adultery. God will have to judge that sin. Their excuse: "We're saved by grace", so that legalizes them to sin! People don't want to give up their sin and to sin no more and use the excuse, "We're okay. We're saved by grace."

ConvictedSinner - October 1, 2010 11:26 AM (GMT)

Let scripture speak for itself. All of Romans 7 is pertinent to your discussion; specifically 7:25. Paul understood that so long as we are in these fleshly bodies there would be a constant struggle over sin. A person cannot overcome sin of his own will, but with the will of the Holy Spirit. I acknowledge my sin and pray for the Lord to help turn me from it because I cannot do it on my own. Until the day a Christian dies physically, he/she will continue to wage a war against sin in their own flesh. He (Paul) concluded that it was impossible for a man in this body to keep the whole of the Mosaic Law and that a believer must turn to God for help and this is a lifelong process unto death. The Grace of God provides salvaltion and justification, not the law. A person does not lose salvation because of sin. They may lose the joy of salvation, but not salvation. Just look to King David when he committed grave sin. He did not ask God to restore his salvation, he beseeched him to restore the joy of His salvation after asking for forgiveness. (Psalm 51:12 Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit.)

Simply put, the flesh cannot keep the law, which is why Jesus Christ was made sin for us, that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him (II Corinthians 5:21). Peace and the Lord's blessing be with all of you.

Romans 7

7:1 Know ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law,) how that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

7:2 For the woman which hath an husband is bound by the law to her husband so long as he liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband.

7:3 So then if, while her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man.

7:4 Wherefore, my brethren, ye also are become dead to the law by the body of Christ; that ye should be married to another, even to him who is raised from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God.

7:5 For when we were in the flesh, the motions of sins, which were by the law, did work in our members to bring forth fruit unto death.

7:6 But now we are delivered from the law, that being dead wherein we were held; that we should serve in newness of spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter.

7:7 What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid. Nay, I had not known sin, but by the law: for I had not known lust, except the law had said, Thou shalt not covet.

7:8 But sin, taking occasion by the commandment, wrought in me all manner of concupiscence. For without the law sin was dead.

7:9 For I was alive without the law once: but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died.

7:10 And the commandment, which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.

7:11 For sin, taking occasion by the commandment, deceived me, and by it slew me.

7:12 Wherefore the law is holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good.

7:13 Was then that which is good made death unto me? God forbid. But sin, that it might appear sin, working death in me by that which is good; that sin by the commandment might become exceeding sinful.

7:14 For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, sold under sin.

7:15 For that which I do I allow not: for what I would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I.

7:16 If then I do that which I would not, I consent unto the law that it is good.

7:17 Now then it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

7:18 For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good I find not.

7:19 For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do.

7:20 Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

7:21 I find then a law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me.

7:22 For I delight in the law of God after the inward man:

7:23 But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members.

7:24 O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?

7:25 I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then with the mind I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh the law of sin.

yes2truth - October 1, 2010 12:32 PM (GMT)

"The Pharisees did not keep the Laws. They deceitfully got around not keeping them by inventing their own. Your Bible tells you this."

Well that's not what The Lord says. Are you calling The Lord a liar?

Matt 5:20 (KJV) For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.

How is your righteousness going to exceed that of the Pharisees who kept all the Commandments without fail?

For unless YOUR RIGHTEOUSNESS EXCEEDS THE RIGHTEOUSNESS of The Pharisees i.e. keeping all the Commandments as they did you will in no way enter The Kingdom of God.

Get it through your head that sinners cannot enter the Kingdom of God, only perfect sinless people can enter i.e. those whose righteousness exceeds that of The Pharisees. Now how and when are you going to become sinless and perfect with all your commandment keeping?

You see this is what separates me from you, for I am sinless and perfect in His sight, for I have been made sinless and perfect by His sacrifice and resurrection.

Hence we have these Holy Scriptures which you keep contradicting and/or ignoring:

1 John 3:3 (KJV) And every man that hath this hope in Him purifieth himself, even as He is pure.

1 John 3:6 (KJV) Whosoever abideth in Him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen Him, neither known Him.

1 John 3:9 (KJV) Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for His seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

golden_oil - October 2, 2010 12:19 PM (GMT)

Re: Matt 5:20 (KJV) "For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven."

What you don't seem to understand is that the scribes and Pharisees had not the righteousness of God but the righteousness that was good in their own eyes. You only have to read the accusations of Jesus toward these vipers as He called them, that they were not right before God, thus the warning He gave the people, that they had better exceed the scribes' and pharisees' so-called righteousnes.

If we are observing His Commandments and walking closely with Him, then He pronounces us as righteous.

Most self-proclaimed Christians are not born of God and/or walking in the Spirit. 1 John 3:3 and 6 applies to those who are.

It is not possible to be sinless and not keep the Commandments.

And what I have not yet mentioned to you is the 4th commandments which says to keep the seventh day Sabbath.

If you are keeping Constantine's and the Catholic church's sun god as your day of rest, then you are s sinner. The Catholic church is on record in their very own words which can be easily found on the internet, that they, the Vatican officials, have admitted several times that they were responsible for changing the day. They negate the fact that Jesus was called the "Lord of the Sabbath" according to Matthew 12:8, Mark 2:28, and Luke 6:5. Sun god worshipers are the little harlots of the Great Whore. I am not a Seventh day Adventist (or any church for that matter), but they are right on this issue.

kalongi - October 2, 2010 04:03 PM (GMT)

"If we are observing His Commandments and walking closely with Him, then He pronounces us as righteous."

So you're saying God declares you righteous IF you are observing His commandments / walking closely with Him ?! Dang, I guess you don't have Galatians 2:21 in your Bible.

Galatians {2:21} I do not frustrate the grace of God: for if righteousness [come] by the law, then Christ is dead in vain.

I thought our imputed righteousness came from Him and from Him alone,

Titus {3:4} But after that the kindness and love of God our Saviour toward man appeared, {3:5} Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost;

Romans 3:21 must not be in your Bible either,

Romans {3:21} But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets; {3:22} Even the righteousness of God [which is] by faith of Jesus Christ unto all and upon all them that believe: for there is no difference:

Let's review your statement and see what the WORD says once again,

Romans {4:5} But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

and again,

Romans {4:6} Even as David also describeth the blessedness of the man, unto whom God imputeth righteousness without works,

A man could be a constant performer of good works (and this would be commendable) but such actions would not secure the righteousness one must have to stand in the presence of God.

Romans {4:3} For what saith the scripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness.

and again,

Romans {10:6} But the righteousness which is of faith speaketh on this wise, Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is, to bring Christ down [from above:])

Galatians {2:16} Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might bejustified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law: for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.

"Examine carefully this important statement by Paul. It is not our own faith that makes us perfectly righteous in God's eyes. It is Christ's faith!"

2 Corinthians {5:21} For he hath made him [to be] sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him.

So, let me see if I read what you said correctly one more time,

"If we are observing His Commandments and walking closely with Him, then He pronounces us as righteous."

Is that what the WORD says ? Absolutely not.

Romans {3:24} Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus:

Romans {3:28} Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.

Romans {3:30} Seeing [it is] one God, which shall justify the circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

Romans {5:1} Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ:

and one last time, same verse,

Galatians {2:16} Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law: for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.

golden_oil, you are incorrect and it'd be wise to abstain from statements such as, "If we are observing His Commandments and walking closely with Him, then He pronounces us as righteous.".

The "must keep the law (ie the sabbath / sunday worship) has already been exposed as fraudulent" too, but showing this to someone who can't just let it go even thou the Word says so (!!!), is the same as trying to tell a Muslim that Jesus is God in the flesh (God the father, God the son & God the Holy Spirit). The Qur'an says otherwise (Jesus is a prophet and didn't actually die on the cross), so they just won't let it go and admit they are deceived.

Pride sucks and is one of the reasons why many people will go to hell (not saying this is your case, you're saved and will be in God's presence for eternity, but the analogy stays in relation to deception / bad teaching / taking things out of context to declare a man made doctrine). Don't worry about replying, I won't even come back to this thread. Just wanted to call you out on that self righteous statement you made, "If we are observing His Commandments and walking closely with Him, then He pronounces us as righteous.", which is not Biblical (at least 14 verses were posted and a more in depth study on this could be easily done, but the point was made).

All glory goes to Jesus, none to you or me, none of it, zip, zero, nada. We are saved thanks to Jesus, our salvation is secured by Jesus, our post salvation imputed righteousness is made possible by Jesus and Jesus alone, we don't deserve any of it but He and He alone made it possible. Not (!) by works, pre or post salvation, but by Jesus - alone !

yes2truth - October 3, 2010 07:56 AM (GMT)

"What you don't seem to understand is that the scribes and Pharisees had not the righteousness of God but the righteousness that was good in their own eyes."

The Lord said otherwise so you're persisting in calling Him a liar.

What The Lord was saying was quite simple i.e. that if we keep all The Law as The Pharisees did including The Ten Commandments then we are righteous, just as they were righteous, but what The Lord was saying was that keeping The Law was not enough.

Our righteous must exceed theirs and there is only one way our righteousness can exceed theirs and that is belief and faith in Him and Him alone - nothing and no one else is sufficient.

This means that faith in Law Keeping will not save you - that's why The Law, including the Ten Commandments, were nailed to the cross.

There is no room for The Law under Grace. When Grace came to town The Law had to leave - period!!

golden_oil - October 3, 2010 09:30 AM (GMT)

To Kalongi and yes2truth:

Let the Word of God speak through this important message to this rebellious generation of Christians the world over through God's sent servant prophet:

1 October 2010

It all begins here as written in Ecclesiastes 12:13-14 who will be saved. Jesus said, “They that do the Will of My Heavenly Father are My real family," Matthew 12:50. The Lord wrote the commandments to follow in Exodus 31:18 as is written in Matthew 5:17-19. He was our best example to follow, also as written in John 15:10-12, and "If you do love Me," He said, "you will obey these commandments," John 14:15-18.

Now pastor, brethren, you say you do love Him but are led to disobey His commandments He wrote, then pastor, or so-called brethren, you're going to be found to be a liar according to My Word in I John 2:4. Hell is going to be full of Law-breakers, even those pastors or brethren who do signs and wonders in My Name as written in Matthew 7:21 to 23.

He the Lord will say, "I do not know you, Law-breaker." The person who has led the greatest amount of people to rebel against Almighty God's holy Law the Ten Commandments was Emperor Constantine, the first pope of the Roman church who was the one who fulfilled Daniel 7:25. He led the church to reject the true Lord's day of rest that He hallowed and sanctified as written in Genesis 2:1-3.

Emperor Constantine was a sun god worshiper joined to a Queen of Heaven worshiper, so he commanded the early church in Rome to move the Lord's day of rest to his sun god worship day, and subsequently all those Christians who followed the example of their Lord Jesus Christ who is the Lord of their Lord's day of rest as written in Matthew 12:8 were killed.

So after many centuries of killing all the real Christians who followed Jesus Christ, we see there are now only a few all over this Earth. So as time went by, the Catholic church and the Jesuits seduced the many so-called Christian churches to accept Sunday as their Lord's day of rest following the great harlot the Vatican to become one of their little harlot churches of Revelation 17:1-18. These many Christian leaders have believed a lie that the Christian churches had changed their Lord's day of rest to Sunday, so they are them as written in II Thessalonians 2:10-11.

Almighty Yahweh wrote the Ten Commandments to be a light unto His chosen people as written in Proverbs 6:23 and Exodus 31:18.

When you read in Exodus 12:37-38, the Israelite people were on their way to their Almighty Yahweh's Land of Promise. These were the chosen people who were led to cross the Red Sea. Yet we read that through rebellion to keep His holy Law, the Ten Commandments, it was through unbelief that they, the first generation, were not given to cross the Jordan River to enter their Promised Land given to them by Yahweh except for two out of this great multitude, Joshua and Caleb, who were given to cross with the young persons of the next generation.

Well, it's the same as it is this day. The Lord said, "If it were not for My very elect no one would be saved." Who are they that will be saved? It is they that do His Heavenly Father's Will and obey His commandments He wrote as your guide into Eternal life, that is, Exodus 31:18 and to Ecclesiastes 12:13-14.

Elijah

Messages of God's Servant Prophet Elijah are on the internet at:
http://groups.yahoo.com/group/TwoOliveTrees/
http://z8.invisionfree.com/Two_Olive_Trees
Chinese: http://hkot.net/tot.html
Korean: http://blog.daum.net/danieell
Taiwanese: http://tw.myblog.yahoo.com/cellarjudge

.

me. - October 3, 2010 10:04 AM (GMT)

I dont buy it.

Grace through faith alone, a great Protestant bullwark.

Are you and/or your prophet (even though there are to be no other prophets) seriously rejecting the Lords Grand and Glorious Reformation, that bought to light our Western Civilization?

Martin Luther would be turning in his grave. God forbid!

ConvictedSinner - October 3, 2010 11:38 AM (GMT)

@ Golden Oil

The Word says:

Matthew 12:50 For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother.

And exactly what is the will of the Father? Let's see what the Word has to say about that.

Jesus says the following in John:

6:38 For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me.

6:39 And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

6:40 And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

Phazon - October 3, 2010 12:50 PM (GMT)

@ Golden Oil

If keeping the commandments is what we're relying on to be saved then we're all well and truly stuffed, the only one who was able to that was Jesus Christ himself and that's the whole reason why we've been offered the gift of grace. If it wasn't by grace we're saved then it wouldn't be a gift.

Gentiles were never commanded to keep the Sabbath, it was only part of God's covenant with the Jewish people. When Jesus came he made a new covenant in which all Gentiles and Jews alike could be saved through the atonement on the cross that paid for all sin allowing anyone who believed in him to be saved by believing he had paid the penalty on our behalf. If you believe that works are still required for salvation then you're believing that what Jesus did wasn't sufficient in paying for all sin and you are effectively calling God a liar.

John 3:16 explains it clearly.

"For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life."

If keeping the commandments is required to be saved then this passage from the Bible would have to be a lie because it is saying quite clearly that whoever/anyone/everyone who simply believes in him will have eternal life.

May I also refer you to The Seventh Day Abomination videos - http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...3893&st=0&#last

yes2truth - October 3, 2010 02:35 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (ConvictedSinner @ Oct 3 2010, 11:38 AM)

> @ Golden Oil
>
> The Word says:
>
> Matthew 12:50 For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother.
>
> And exactly what is the will of the Father? Let's see what the Word has to say about that.
>
> Jesus says the following in John:
>
> 6:38 For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me.
>
> 6:39 And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.
>
> 6:40 And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

Was The Lord Jesus Christ under The Law or under Grace when He walked on this earth?

golden_oil - October 3, 2010 02:57 PM (GMT)

[/B]You're only under the Law when you are a sinner.

That's why it's important to keep the ten commandments. There is no grace for unrepentent rebellious sin.[B] That person and shall never see the Kingdom of God.

Keeping the commandments is not for one's salvation. Jesus paid the price. But you do forfeit your salvation when you sin and refuse to repent. [B]

ConvictedSinner - October 3, 2010 02:59 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (yes2truth @ Oct 3 2010, 02:35 PM)

> QUOTE (ConvictedSinner @ Oct 3 2010, 11:38 AM)
>
> @ Golden Oil
>
> The Word says:
>
> Matthew 12:50 For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother.
>
> And exactly what is the will of the Father? Let's see what the Word has to say about that.
>
> Jesus says the following in John:
>
> 6:38 For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me.
>
> 6:39 And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.
>
> 6:40 And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

Was The Lord Jesus Christ under The Law or under Grace when He walked on this earth?

The Lord was under the Law. He was and is the only person that could fulfill His own just requirements.

yes2truth - October 3, 2010 03:01 PM (GMT)

Correct.

yes2truth - October 3, 2010 03:04 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (golden_oil @ Oct 3 2010, 02:57 PM)
>
> You're only under the Law when you are a sinner.

Then by your own admission you must be a sinner 'cos you believe the ten commandments are still binding on you i.e. The Law.

As a sinner how are you going to enter The Kingdom of God?

golden_oil - October 3, 2010 03:05 PM (GMT)

He or she that is wise, would do well to reread every word God's called prophet Elijah and I, His scribe, have written on this thread and look up the scriptures and take careful note of what was said.

We're not preaching some strange doctrine but the truth from God's own Word, the 1611 KJV. "Grace only", as I've explained before, is Jesuit teaching. As you should know, the Jesuits have been at war with the Christian Church, infiltrating it, and bringing in false doctrines, teaching we do not have to keep the commandments. From the very beginning, the Sabbath was instituted by God as His rest day, Genesis 2:1-3. So it is not strictly for Israeli people, but is for everybody.

For Elijah the Tishbite's messages since 2002 are on this site:

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/TwoOliveTrees/

Also read under the "True Christianity" heading the subject thread: "Are we bound by the Sabbath?"

==========

You might ask, who is this Elijah. Well, this message which just went out today about the time we are in, these end times, should explain in part: (again, the scriptures should be looked up for clear understanding):

3 October 2010

To .....,

When we read Ecclesiastes 1:9-10 and Ecclesiastes 3:15, we see what has formerly happened can be repeated.

When we read Exodus 7:17 to 25, Almighty Yahweh gave the anointed power through a rod to turn the waters of Egypt to blood. And in these last days Almighty Yahweh is bringing the same person to do the same situation in Egypt to start with as the savior of Egypt as written in Isaiah 19:20 to turn the waters of Egypt once again to blood. He is one of the two witnesses written of in Revelation 11:3-6.

My ministry has been to fulfill Malachi 4:4-6, first in America during 1983-84 on the streets of Washington, D.C. , and secondly, when I was given to go to Israel in 1998 when I placed the Ten Commandments upon the bus stops on Jaffa Street in Jerusalem. The rabbis were so convicted in seeing these Words that they ripped them off. They know the Law but just do not live them in their daily lives.

When you read that Almighty Yahweh had Moses to point this anointed rod to the heavens above, Almighty Yahweh had the sun to be darkened three days, Exodus 10:22-23, and also as indicated in Joel 2:31, Acts 2:20, and Matthew 24:29. It's the same Planet x or Nibiru or Destroyer planet that will soon cause a total eclipse of the Sun.

When we read Exodus 19:20-25, it relates to Moses at that time as a Savior of Israel who came out of bondage to the Egyptians as their slaves and were set free.

Now we have Moses soon to return to Egypt to set free the Egyptian people from their bondage to these Islamic rulers and their false god Allah. Moses is the savior as referred to in Isaiah 19:20-25.

When Yitzak Rabin was in office as prime minister, I was given to warn him to annul this Oslo Accord, or if he did not, then Almighty Yahweh would have him removed from office and there would be no more abundant rain.

He did not, so this started a great drought that is going on even now because none of the prime ministers since Rabin was in office have obeyed the command I was given to give them because of this Land give-away, thus breaking Almighty Yahweh's everlasting covenant He made with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob as written in Exodus 23:32 and Deuteronomy 7:2.

Now the Muslims wish to have the whole Earth under their Sharia Law and to worship their false god Allah. This is never to be. Almighty God Yahweh is going to change the earthly programs of men with this soon-coming of Planet X or Nibiru or The Destroyer.

We have the coming of the Lord as written in Revelation 9:1 when the Lord will go down with the keys to Hell to set Satan free to come up as written in Revelation 13:11 and commence his forty-two months rule over his earthly kingdom, Revelation 13:5.

This will start the great tribulation as written in Matthew 24:21 to 31. The great falling away of the faith, II Thessalonians 2:1-3, is the sign of the coming of Satan to rule this Earth. At this time of great spiritual darkness, shall the Lord bring about physical darkness through a great eclipse caused by the coming of Planet X as written in Joel 2:31, Acts 2:20 and Matthew 24:29.

Then shall the Lord shall send His angels to gather His very elect chosen and faithful few as wise virgins full of His spiritual light that will give His sent angels to locate them as His children of light as written in John 12:35-36 as those who have ears to hear His Voice as written in John 10:27 doing Almighty God's Will in their lives each day, Matthew 12:50, and who do follow His example as written in Matthew 5:17-19, John 15:10-12, and John 14:15-18.

Almighty God Yahweh chooses who He will save, John 6:44 + 65, for it is written in II

Timothy 2:19 and again in Romans 8:29.

When the Almighty God Yahweh chooses His people, He chooses by the desires of a person's heart to please Almighty God Yahweh, 1 Samuel 16:1-13. He chose David to be King because of His heart, Matthew 5:8.

So at this time is Almighty God Yahweh fulfilling all the things in His Word pertaining to the last days of man's last kingdom upon Earth as head of the risen Roman Empire of Northern Europe we see coming to be under the New World Order of Anti-Christ joined to this apostate one world religion under the control of the Vatican Great Whore of Revelation 17:1-18.

The three heads of this satanic order are the Anti-Christ son of perdition, the False Prophet of the Vatican Great Whore, and the ruler of the whole Earth for his 42 months is Satan as written in Revelation 13:5.

When you read Revelation 16:13-14, it relates to these three evil beings as written. They make themselves liken to angels of light, II Corinthians 11:14-15, and we see this Earth full of them in every government and in every religion. Only a few persons will be saved, for it is written, Matthew 24:22.

His Servant Prophet Elijah

....

May God open the eyes of some of you is my earnest prayer.

....

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Dr Leonard "CIA/MALTESE KNIGHT" Horowitz

Title: Dr Leonard "CIA/MALTESE KNIGHT" Horowitz

craig-oxley - November 18, 2008 01:19 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

DR LEN HOROWITZ IS A KNIGHT OF MALTA

http://www.drlenhorowitz.com/Press/press_r...hting_2006.html

New York, NY—The title "Knight of Merit" was bestowed upon Dr. Leonard G. Horowitz today by Grand Prior Prince Michael of Russia in the company of a full regalia from the New York Priory of the Sovereign Orthodox Knights Hospitaller of St. John of Jerusalem.

The honor of knighthood was granted to Dr. Horowitz for his quarter century of humanitarian service to public health, consumer education, AIDS research, and natural healing advocacy. The ceremony required his vow that he would continue this work and his chivalry.

The sacred investiture ceremony was administered at The Cathedral of the Holy Virgin of Protection in Manhattan where officials of the organization acknowledged Dr. Horowitz's meritorious career acheivements.

Dr. Horowitz is best known for bringing AIDS awareness to medical malpractices and the bioethics breaches that triggered the pandemic in the mid-1970s. He is the author of sixteen books including the American bestseller, Emerging Viruses: AIDS & Ebola—Nature, Accident of Intentional?

Publishing as a consumer advocate since 1978, Dr. Horowitz's works have featured common sense methods of natural healing and Bible prescriptions for healthier living. Earlier this year, he received the "World Leading Intellectual" award from the World Organization for Natural Medicine because of his achievements in public health research and education.

Dr. Horowitz, whose expertise spans the overlapping fields of behavioral science, geopolitics, emerging diseases, and natural healing, received his doctorate from Tufts University School of Dental Medicine in 1977. As a student and faculty member there he taught microanatomy (i.e., histology), graduated with honors, and was awarded a research fellowship in behavioral science at the University of Rochester. Following periodontal surgery training at the Eastman Dental Center, by 1982 he had earned a Master of Public Health degree from Harvard University, and a Master of Arts degree in health education/counseling psychology from Beacon College, all before joining the research faculty at Harvard School of Dental Medicine. In Boston, he also taught master's candidates "Pain, Fear and Stress Management" at Leslie College's Institute for the Arts and Human Development. For more than a quarter century he has directed the nonprofit educational publishing company that evolved into Tetrahedron, LLC (http://www.tetrahedron.org).

Dr. Horowitz's tenth book, his AIDS text , became an American bestseller by 1999 and is now considered a medical classic. Herein he advanced the thesis of HIV/AIDS being man-made in scientific review. (See: www.originofAIDS.com) That year he released Healing Codes for the Biological Apocalypse which permanently expanded the field of musicology.

Dr. Horowitz's second best-seller, Healing Celebrations: Miraculous Recoveries Through Ancient Scripture, Natural Medicine and Modern Science (2000), advanced practical advice for prevention, protection, and natural-healing. This book, and repeated appearances by Dr. Horowitz were featured twice on TBN's "Praise the Lord Program." Besides this, he has delivered expert commentaries on health topics on every major radio and television network in America, Canada and Great Britain.

In June, 2001, three months before the terrorist attacks of 9/11, Dr. Horowitz released the prophetically-titled critically-acclaimed book, Death in the Air: Globalism, Terrorism and Toxic Warfare. This book examined leading global industrialists' successful efforts to direct contemporary culture through propaganda, toxicity, petrochemical economics, and pharmaceutical dependence. Here, the 54-year-old father of three unvaccinated children heavily criticised many political notables for the mainstream media's "propaganda wars" that inflict fear of infections, thus creating new markets for drugs with hideous side-effects.

His 2004 book, DNA: Pirates of the Sacred Spiral, reviewed the science of electrogenetics that speaks to humanity's fundamental spirituality. Likewise, his 2006 release, Walk on Water, advanced the mathematics, music, and physical mechanics of what he calls the "Spiritual Renaissance." This book is widely reported to hold monumental implications for revolutionizing civilization through the science of "hydro-creationism."

Most recently, Dr. Horowitz decrypted Leonardo Da Vinci's most famous drawing, The Vitruvian Man, which he showed holds profound implications for humanity's physical salvation and civilization's spiritual evolution. The e-book is available for a free download on the Internet by going to www.lovetherealdavincicode.com with donations requested for this service in support of global projects at through Healthy World Distributing, LLC.

Aside from an active speaking schedule, Dr. Horowitz oversees the Steam Vent Inn & Health Retreat on the Big Island of Hawaii, where one of the world's most powerful natural healing resources—volcanically-heated steam—is being used to help explain and demonstrate Divinity to humanity.

QUOTE

Well folks although I respected a lot of his work I knew he was a clever agent for a long time, how? Because of all his HIV Virus theory promotion and his continuing of Dr Strecker's disinformation on both HIV and Animal Viruses. Once you become fully aware of the disinformation surrounding viruses and especially HIV you can see through these people. They use your 'I want to see a devious conspiracy' mind against you in order to promote another conspiracy being a out and out LIE. So in this case in order to close the mind of a clever person they decide to tell you hiv is man made hoping to hook line and sinker you. Now when I, Rappoport and many others expose the truth on the phony virus scams you instantly clammour up and then attack us.

So Horowitz is a Knights of Malta damn is there anyone these people haven't got to? I knew he'd turned Christian but didn't know he'd gone Catholic although he did at one time have a dig at King James. -Craig Oxley

QUOTE

From definitions of Chivralic Orders, Under MALTA. We can see it does speak of Paul Romanov (Emperor of Russia) 1798-1801 as being a Grand Master, who supposedly founded this group? If the Russian Emperor did in fact setup Generals with hereditary rights, then they do have rights to form their own version.....

Here's the standard info available:

http://www.hostkingdom.net/Chivalry.html

MALTA The Knights of St. John Hospitaler of Jerusalem began as an order devoted to the construction and maintenance of medical facilities for use by pilgrims and others in the Holy Land. In this task they have perservered to the present day, and are still widely known for their charitable works in health and human services. As crusaders though, they quickly developed into a military order as well, and were instrumental in defending Acre and Cyprus, conquering and holding Rhodes, and holding Malta (by which name they are still generally known today). After Malta was captured by the French and British during the Napoleonic wars, the Order fell on hard times, but was revived in the later 19th century as an instrument of Roman Catholic charitable works.

* GRAND MASTERS of the KNIGHTS of St. JOHN

* Jerusalem Era 1113-1142
* Gerard (Procurator of Hospitals).....1113-1120
* Raymond de Puy (Master of the Order).....1120-1159
* Krak des Chevaliers Era 1142-1271
* Auger de Balben.....1159-1162
* Arnaud de Comps.....1162-1163
* Gilbert d'Assaily.....1163-1170
* Gaston de Murols.....1170-1172
* Joubert.....1172-1177
* Roger I des Moulins.....1177-1187
* Ermengard d'Asp.....1188-1190
* Garnier de Naplous.....1190-1192
* Geoffroy I de Donjon.....1192-1202
* Alfonso de Portugal.....1202-1206
* Geoffroy II Lerat.....1206-1207
* Garin de Montaigu.....1207-1227
* Bertrand I de Thessy.....1228-1231
* Guerin.....1231-1236
* Bertrand II de Comps.....1236-1239
* Pierre I de Vielle-Bride.....1240-1242
* Guillaume I de Chateuneuf.....1242-1258
* Hughes de Revel (Grand Master of the Order 1267)..1258-1277
* Acre (Akko) Era 1271-1291
* Nicolas I Lorgne.....1277-1284
* Jean I de Villiers.....1284-1293
* Cyprus Era 1291-1307
* Odon de Pins.....1294-1296
* Guillaume II de Villaret.....1296-1305
* Rhodes Era 1309-1522
* Fulk de Villaret.....1305-1323
* Helion de Villeneuve.....1323-1346
* Dieudonne de Gozon.....1346-1354
* Pierre II de Corneillan.....1354-1355
* Rogier II DesPins.....1355-1365
* Ramon II Berengar.....1365-1373
* Robert de Juilly.....1373-1377
* Juan Fernando de Erdia.....1377-1396
* Philibert de Naillac.....1396-1421
* Antonio I di Fluviano.....1421-1437
* Jean II de Lastic.....1437-1454
* Jacques de Milly.....1454-1461
* Pedro Ramon Zacosta.....1461-1467
* Gianbattista Orsini.....1467-1476
* Pierre III d'Aubusson.....1476-1503
* Emeric de Amboise.....1503-1512
* Guy de Blanchefort.....1512-1513
* Fabrizio di Caretto-Finale.....1513-1521
* Malta Era 1530-1798
* Philippe de Villiers de l'Isle Adam.....1521-1534
* Peter IV del Ponte.....1534-1535
* Didier de Sainte-Jaille.....1535-1536
* Juan III Omedes.....1536-1553
* Claude de la Sangle.....1553-1557
* Jean IV Parisot de la Valette.....1557-1568
* Pietro V Guidalotti del Monte.....1568-1572
* Jean V L'Eveque de la Cassiere.....1572-1581
* Hugh II Loubeaux-Verdalle.....1582-1595
* Martin I Garcias.....1595-1601
* Aloysius de Wignacourt.....1601-1622
* Luis I Mendes de Vasconcelhos.....1622-1623
* Antonio II de Paula.....1623-1636

* Juan Pablo Lascaris de Castellar.....1636-1657
* Martin II de Redin.....1657-1660
* Annete de Clermont de Chattegesson.....1660
* Raphael Cotoner.....1660-1663
* Nicolas II Cotoner.....1663-1680
* Gregorio Caraffa de Rocella.....1680-1690
* Adrien de Wignacourt.....1690-1697
* Ramon III Percellos.....1697-1720
* Marcantonio Zondadari.....1720-1722
* Antonio Manuel de Vilhena.....1722-1736
* Raymond III Despugh.....1736-1741
* Manuel I Pinto.....1741-1773
* Francisco Ximenez De Tejada.....1773-1775
* Emmanuel II de Rohan-Polduc.....1775-1797
* Ferdinand von Hompesch.....1797-1798
* Thomas di Contara.....1798 d. 1805
* First Roman Era 1798-1826

 Paul Romanov (Emperor of Russia).....1798-1801

* vacant
* Gianbattista Tommasi.....1803
* vacant
    - o Lieutenant-Generals
    - o Innico-Maria Guevara Svardo.....1805-1814
    - o Andre DiGiovanni.....1814-1821
* Ferrara Era 1826-1834
    - o Antoine Busca.....1821-1834
    - o Carlos Candida.....1834-1845
    - o Philippe di Colloredo-Mels.....1845-1864
    - o Alexandre Borgia.....1865-1871
* Second Roman Era 1834-
* Gianbattista Ceschi (as Lt. Gen. 1871-1879).....1879-1905
* Galeazzo von Thun und Hohenstein.....1905-1931 with...
    - o Pius Franchi di Cavalieri (Lt. Gen.).....1929-1931
* Ludovico Chigi.....1931-1951
    - o Antonio Hercolani Simonetta (Lt. Gen.).....1951-1955
    - o Ernesto Paterno (Lt. Gen.).....1955-1962
* Angelo de Mohana di Cologna.....1962-1988
    - o Giancarlo Pullavicini (Lt. Gen.).....Jan.-Apr 1988
* Andrew Willoughby Ninian Bertie.....1988-

QUOTE

What a find! and what a disappointment!

As you must know, the Russian branch of the SMOM was started after Napoleon, under Jesuit control, drove the Order from Malta in 1798---thirty years after the Knights had driven the Jesuits from Malta. Now in Russia, it entered into an agreement with the acting Jesuit General to submit to the Company which had been formally recognized to exist in Russia by Pope Pius VII in 1801. With the Jesuits and the Knights of Malta under the protection of Tzar Paul I (who was murdered that year by the Order for his disobedience in befriending "heretic" Protestant Prussia), the Russian "Tongue" of the Knights of Malta would be "Orthodox"---created specially for the Orthodox nobles of Russia. One such noble would later include Tzar Nicholas II, a co-conspirator in the success of the Black Pope's Bolshevik Revolution.

Nicholas, with his English cousin and brother Knight of Malta, King George V, would use his secret police, the Okhrana, to betray the Kremlin into Bolshevik hands ending his Romanoff dynasty---the protector of the anti-Pope, Eastern Orthodox Church. Moscow, "the third Rome," was now in the hands of the Jesuits via their leading Masonic Jewish Labor Zionists smuggled into Russia from Jesuit-ruled New York City---Lenin and Trotsky's Bolsheviks. So great was the rejoicing of the Order over the fall of Moscow and the murders of over 5,000 anti-Pope priests and nuns, that "anti-communist" Jesuit Edmund A. Walsh (resident in Moscow in 1922 under the subtle excuse of a Papal Relief effort given exclusive jurisdiction from the Pope to "negotiate" with the Bolsheviks, Walsh installing Stalin as the Secretary of the Communist party that same year!) called this "the greatest historical event since the fall of the Roman Empire."

Key to the fall of the Romanoff dynasty and the beheading of the anti-Pope Orthodox Church was the Sovereign Orthodox Knights Hospitaller of St. John of Jerusalem. The Tzar, who was the protector and member of the Order, participated in this high crime of treason against his own people for which he and his family were rewarded with a secret escape. Meanwhile, the Knights aided the new secret police, the Cheka (manned by certain former Okhrana officials), headed by a Polish Roman Catholic who was indeed a Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor---the monster Felix Dzerzhinski. Overseeing this bloody murderer was King SMOM George V via his British Secret Intelligence Service in the person of Sydney Reilly.

To throw dust in the eyes of the pedestrian observer, Lenin expelled the Russian Orthodox Branch of the Knights of Malta in 1917, it then taking up residence in Paris until the end of the Pope's Cold War Hoax premised upon the "Mutual Airborne Nuclear War" Hoax. After Knight of Malta George H. W. Bush followed orders in ending the Cold War Hoax (which JFK attempted to end prematurely) in December, 1989, on the island nation of Malta---in the very presence of the Knights of Malta, the brotherhood was readmitted into Russia: it is at this moment headquartered in Moscow and St. Petersburg.

Without the aid and comfort of the Russian Orthodox tongue of the Knights of Malta working with the Protestant English tongue of the Knights of Malta, THERE COULD HAVE BEEN NO SUCCESSFUL BOLSHEVIK REVOLUTION AND THE ENSUING MASS-MURDER OF THE ANTI-JESUIT RUSSIAN PEOPLE FOR NEARLY A CENTURY!

It is this Russian tongue of the Knights of Malta Len Horowitz has now joined. As per its site, the Russian branch "follows the precepts of Blessed Gerard," the founder of the Knights of Malta for the benefit of the Pope's bloodthirsty Crusades. Thus, these very Knights whom Horowitz wonderfully exposes in his masterpiece Emerging Viruses, he has now joined. I wonder if he knows that AIDS virus creator Dr. Robert C. Gallo is also a Knight and was awarded the "Sword of Ignatius Loyola" by the Order's St. Louis University in 1988?

This is a great disappointment. May the risen Son of God, the Lord Jesus Christ, grant this racial Jew and professing Bible-believing Christian repentance for his infamous act. He has betrayed his own racially Jewish/Hebrew people---massacred by Knights of Malta who were members of Himmler's "Circle of Friends"---his racial brethren who are now slated for total annihilation here in North America thanks to Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor George Bush's "War on Terror."

Sincerely in Faith,

Brother Eric

QUOTE

I have to disagree with Len Horowitz's Emerging Viruses book supposedly being this great masterpiece everyone talks about. Its mostly disinformation in order to get people to still believe in the main lie about HIV being the cause of AIDS which really has over 30 different syndromes all well known both old and new. I've said this about Len Horowitz for a good while. If you wish to understand the fraud upon us called HIV and the disinformation on animal viruses then study the work of a more intelligent journalist known as [b] JON RAPPOPORT and his most excellent book 'AIDS INC.'

Ask yourself this, how is it he is allowed to write a Spider which went into the FBI's system and he was able to find the names etc linked with the Anthrax attacks? If you or I did anything remotely near that we'd be in jail promto. - Craig Oxley[/B]

QUOTE

Horowitz is also a member of the Zionist REMNANT SAINTS, along with Alex Jones, and.....

Joel Skousen, editor of World Affairs Brief; C. Arthur James, senior faculty member of National Center for Constitutional Studies; Geoff Metcalf, talk show host for WorldNetDaily; Dr. Len Horowitz, founder of Tetrahedron.org; JJ Johnson, editor of Sierra Times news (conservative); Cathy O'Brien and Mark Phillips, authors of Trance-Formation of America; HJ Springer, editor of CentrexNews.com; Alex Jones, editor of Infowars.com; David John Oates, founder of ReverseSpeech.com.

QUOTE

[dohtml]<!-- TEMPLATE:

 STORY TITLE
 STORY DESCRIPTION
 DATE
By Greg Szymanski

 ENTER STORY PARAGRAPHS

PHOTO LINK ADDRESS(http://images.arcticbeacon.com/arcticbeacon/)

:-->

<!---ENTER STORY HERE--->
Dr. Len Horowitz Becomes A Papal Knight of Malta, according to one of the organization's affiliate web sites.
True Patriots in America question whether Horowitz is nothing but a shill for the Vatican-led New World Order. 11 Jan 2007

By Greg Szymanski

Dr. Len Horowitz, who has always portrayed himself as a true patriot fighting against New World Order health crimes and disease, has recently become a member of the Knights of Malta, according to reports from one of their affiliate web sites.

The outward display of 'papal knighthood' by Horowitz comes as a shock to a number of patriots who previously placed trust in Horowitz's literary work in the field of disease prevention and emerging viruses.

"This is a great disappointment," said Eric Jon Phelps, author of the widely read book, Vatican Assassins. "May the risen Son of God, the Lord Jesus Christ, grant this racial Jew and professing Bible-believing Christian repentance for his infamous act.

"He has betrayed his own racially Jewish/Hebrew people---massacred by Knights of Malta who were members of Himmler's "Circle of Friends"---his racial brethren who are now slated for total annihilation here in North America thanks to Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor George Bush's "War on Terror."

Horowitz could not be reached for comment.

Although the Knights of Malta's true purpose has been a well-kept Vatican secret, people in America are being educated to the fact it is still an organized world-wide group which furthers the Vatican's upcoming "New Inquisition" by aiding, abetting and fostering the fascist takeover of America.

"It is this Russian tongue of the Knights of Malta Len Horowitz has now joined," added Phelps. "As per its site, the Russian branch "follows the precepts of Blessed Gerard," the founder of the Knights of Malta for the benefit of the Pope's bloodthirsty Crusades.

"Thus, these very Knights whom Horowitz wonderfully exposes in his masterpiece Emerging Viruses, he has now joined.
  I wonder if he knows that AIDS virus creator Dr. Robert C. Gallo is also a Knight and was awarded the "Sword of Ignatius Loyola" by the Order's St. Louis University in 1988?"

Another patriot who wanted to remain anonymous sent this comment and email to the Arctic Beacon:

"So Horowitz is a Knights of Malta damn is there anyone these people haven't got to? I knew he'd turned Christian but didn't know he'd gone Catholic although he did at one time have a dig at King James.

"Although I respected a lot of his work I knew he was a clever agent for a long time, how? Because of all his HIV Virus theory promotion and his continuing of Dr. Strecker's disinformation on both HIV and Animal Viruses.

"Once you become fully aware of the disinformation surrounding viruses and especially HIV you can see through these people. They use your 'I want to see a devious conspiracy' mind against you in order to promote another conspiracy being an out and out LIE. So in this case in order to close the mind of a clever person they decide to tell you HIV is man made hoping to hook line and sinker you. Now when I, Rapp port and many others expose the truth on the phony virus scams you instantly clamor up and then attack us."

Phelps then elaborated on the history of the Russian Knights of Malta and its connections to the Vatican's bloodthirsty Crusades:

"As you must know, the Russian branch of the SMOM was started after Napoleon, under Jesuit control, drove the Order from Malta in 1798---thirty years after the Knights had driven the Jesuits from Malta. Now in Russia, it entered into an agreement with the acting Jesuit General to submit to the Company which had been formally recognized to exist in Russia by Pope Pius VII in 1801.

"With the Jesuits and the Knights of Malta under the protection of Tzar Paul I (who was murdered that year by the Order for his disobedience in befriending "heretic" Protestant Prussia), the Russian "Tongue" of the Knights of Malta would be " Orthodox"---created specially for the Orthodox nobles of Russia.
  One such noble would later include Tzar Nicholas II, a co-conspirator in the success of the Black Pope's Bolshevik Revolution.

"Nicholas, with his English cousin and brother Knight of Malta, King George V, would use his secret police, the Okhrana, to betray the Kremlin into Bolshevik hands ending his Romanoff dynasty---the protector of the anti-Pope, Eastern Orthodox Church.
  Moscow, "the third Rome," was now in the hands of the Jesuits via their leading Masonic Jewish Labor Zionists smuggled into Russia from Jesuit-ruled New York City---Lenin and Trotsky's Bolsheviks.
  So great was the rejoicing of the Order over the fall of Moscow and the murders of over 5,000 anti-Pope priests and nuns, that "anti-communist" Jesuit Edmund A. Walsh (resident in Moscow in 1922 under the subtle excuse of a Papal Relief effort given exclusive jurisdiction from the Pope to "negotiate" with the Bolsheviks, Walsh installing Stalin as the Secretary of the Communist party that same year!) called this "the greatest historical event since the fall of the Roman Empire."

"Key to the fall of the Romanoff dynasty and the beheading of the anti-Pope Orthodox Church was the Sovereign Orthodox Knights Hospitaller of St. John of Jerusalem.
  The Tzar, who was the protector and member of the Order, participated in this high crime of treason against his own people for which he and his family were rewarded with a secret escape.
  Meanwhile, the Knights aided the new secret police, the Cheka (manned by certain former Okhrana officials), headed by a Polish Roman Catholic who was indeed a Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor---the monster Felix Dzerzhinski.
  Overseeing this bloody murderer was King SMOM George V via his British Secret Intelligence Service in the person of Sydney Reilly.

"To throw dust in the eyes of the pedestrian observer, Lenin expelled the Russian Orthodox Branch of the Knights of Malta in 1917, it then taking up residence in Paris until the end of the Pope's Cold War Hoax premised upon the "Mutual Airborne Nuclear War" Hoax.
  After Knight of Malta George H. W. Bush followed orders in ending the Cold War Hoax (which JFK attempted to end prematurely) in December, 1989, on the island nation of Malta---in the very presence of the Knights of Malta, the brotherhood was readmitted into Russia: it is at this moment headquartered in Moscow and St. Petersburg.

"Without the aid and comfort of the Russian Orthodox tongue of the Knights of Malta working with the Protestant English tongue of the Knights of Malta, THERE COULD HAVE BEEN NO SUCCESSFUL BOLSHEVIK REVOLUTION AND THE ENSUING MASS-MURDER OF THE ANTI-JESUIT RUSSIAN PEOPLE FOR NEARLY A CENTURY!"

Greg Szymanski

Greg also has his own daily show on the Republic Broadcasting Network, from 11:00am to 1:00pm central time, shortwave frequency 12.180. Listen on the internet at: www.rbnlive.com
Greg Szymanski is an independent investigative journalist and his articles can been seen at www.LewisNews.com. He also writes for his own site www.arcticbeacon.com</P>

<P>Listen to my Radio Broadcast live Monday night at 8pm Pacific time on LewisNews, returning Jan. 1 2006 Radio http://webs.lewisnews.com/radio/index.htm.

<!---END STORY HERE--->
[/dohtml]

craig-oxley - November 18, 2008 01:22 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

[dohtml] Dr. Horowitz Admits He Was "Knighted" By Knights Hospitaller
The consumer health activist issues official statement, claiming no allegiance to Pope. A number of patriots still disagree, saying Knights Hospitaller and Knights of Malta are one in the same, having same intent and purpose
17 Jan 2007

By Greg Szymanski

Consumer health activist Dr. Len Horowitz admitted he was "knighted" by the Sovereign Orthodox Order of the Knights Hospitaller of St. John of Jerusalem, but said he has done nothing to compromise his stance as a "true patriot."

In a phone conversation Horowitz told the Arctic Beacon he was been unjustly persecuted by "certain patriots" who claim he has sold out to Vatican interests instead of being a true patriot and advocate of the people.

Although Horowitz admitted to being knighted for meritorious service in the health industry, he said the Hospitallers are not the same as the Knights of Malta.

However, several a group of patriots disagree, saying the Hospitallers and the two groups are essentially "tied at the hip and one in the same.

Further, the Hospitaller official web site and a Wikipedia explanation seem to agree with Horowitz's critics.

Here is the Wikipedia explanation in part. For a complete explanation go to http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Knights_Hospitaller

The Knights Hospitaller (also known as the Sovereign Order of Saint John of Jerusalem of Rhodes and of Malta, Knights of Malta, Knights of Rhodes, and Chevaliers of Malta) is an organization that began as an Amalfitan hospital founded in Jerusalem in 1080 to provide care for poor and sick pilgrims to the Holy Land. After the conquest of Jerusalem in 1099 during the First Crusade it became a Catholic military order under its own charter, and was charged with the care and defense of pilgrims to the Holy Land. Following the loss of Christian territory in the Holy Land, the Order operated from Rhodes, over which it was sovereign, and later from Malta where it administered a vassal state under the Spanish viceroy of Sicily. Although this state came to an end with the ejection of the Order from Malta by Napoleon, the Order as such survived.

The Sovereign Military Hospitaller Order of St. John of Jerusalem of Rhodes and of Malta (abbreviated SMOM) is considered to be the main successor to this tradition. The Order of the Dames of Malta is the female auxiliary to the Knights.

The modern Sovereign Military Order of Malta

Official flag of the Order of Malta The Sovereign Military Hospitaller Order of Saint John of Jerusalem of Rhodes and of Malta, better known as the Sovereign Military Order of Malta or SMOM, remains a Catholic order which claims sovereignty under international law and has been granted permanent observer status at the United Nations, although its claims of sovereignty are disputed by some scholars. [2] SMOM is considered to be the direct successor to the medieval Knights Hospitaller, also known as the Knights of Malta, and today operates as a largely religious, charitable and hospitaller organization.

Name and motto

The full official name is Sovereign Military Hospitaller Order of St. John of Jerusalem of Rhodes and of Malta (in English) or Sovrano Militare Ordine Ospedaliero di San Giovanni di Gerusalemme di Rodi e di Malta (in Italian). Conventionally, they are also known as the Order of Malta. The Order has a large number of local priories and associations around the world but there also exist a number of organizations with similar-sounding names that are unrelated, including several fraudulent orders seeking to capitalize on the name. The Order's motto is Tuitio Fidei et Obsequium Pauperum (Latin for Defence of the faith and assistance to the poor).

Regarding the knighting of Horowitz, which came a shock and disappointment to a number of patriots, Eric Jon Phelps, religious historian and author of Vatican Assassins, had this to say:

"Mr. Horowitz is a smart man and I can't believe he doesn't know or understand the history, intent and purpose of the organization he has joined. I think he is trying to confuse people.

"This is a great disappointment. May the risen Son of God, the Lord Jesus Christ, grant this racial Jew and professing Bible-believing Christian repentance for his infamous act.

"He has betrayed his own racially Jewish/Hebrew people---massacred by Knights of Malta who were members of Himmler's "Circle of Friends"---his racial brethren who are now slated for total annihilation here in North America thanks to Jesuit Temporal Coadjutor George Bush's "War on Terror."

In a statement released on behalf of Horowitz by Jackie Lindenbach of the his Tetrahedron Publishing Group, it said in part:

Responding to allegations that his work has been corrupted by secret societies and the papacy, Dr. Horowitz chides, "That's fine, anyone questioning my integrity and contributions to humanity should just go   get vaccinated."

The full statement issued by Horowitz reads as follows:

Horowitz Knighting Irks Some Alleged "Patriots"

Hilo, HI-The meritorious knighting of consumer health activist Dr.
Leonard G. Horowitz by the Sovereign Orthodox Order of the Knights Hospitaller of St. John of Jerusalem has some American patriots questioning the internationally respected humanitarian's allegiances.

The honor of knighthood was granted to Dr. Horowitz for his quarter century of humanitarian service to public health, consumer education,

AIDS research, and natural healing advocacy. The ceremony required his vow that he would continue this work and his chivalry.

Questions came when a frivolous and false article was issued by Dave

Gordon, a self-proclaimed American patriot, and immediately distributed over the Internet by Canadian talk show host Greg Szymanski. Neither contacted Dr. Horowitz for comment prior to issuing the article condemning a different order of the Knights of Malta, and its Papal connection.

Responding to allegations that his work has been corrupted by secret societies and the papacy, Dr. Horowitz chides, "That's fine, anyone questioning my integrity and contributions to humanity should just go get vaccinated."

Gordon's defamation insinuated Horowitz's knighting was issued by the pope, and that the Knights of Malta presented the award. The real facts were available on www.drlenhorowitz.com, the doctor's official website, since November, 2006. Gordon neglected these, and falsely claimed Horowitz was "unavailable for comment."

"For the mentally-handicapped desiring reassurance, my meritorious knighting by the Knights Hospitaller stems from my work exposing petrochemical/

pharmaceutical industrialists that conduct genocide in the name of 'public health,' and under the guise of 'national security.' Knights like me are being increasingly recognized by this organization with support from leaders within the World Organization for Natural Medicine and the wholistic health care movement at large."

It is easy to discern a person's integrity, Dr. Horowitz, suggests,

"Ye shall know them by the fruit of their labor."

Mr. Gordon, said to be a Christian and American patriot, seems to have dispensed with this wisdom of discernment, and attacks Horowitz whose works and educational initiatives have saved thousands of children's lives, and spared hundreds of thousands of families from the atrocities of vaccine injuries.

Besides this, Horowitz is currently advancing a global "Concert for the Living Waters" that may help fulfill the prophesy of a peaceful planet heralded in Revelation 14:1-3 (See: www.liveh2o.org). In recent weeks he freely posted his 16th book, LOVE the Real Da Vinci CODE, at www.lovetherealdavincicode.com, a book that decrypts Leonardo Da

Vinci's most famous drawing, The Vitruvian Man, that Horowitz says maps and models Divine-human communion using "the Creator's musical scale" and "The Perfect Circle of Sound."

Moreover, Judeo-Christian ministries served by the doctor are exclusively funding lawsuits against the State of Hawaii Department of Health and Department of Education to preserve rapidly diminishing religious freedoms. The legal filings have been freely downloadable from Dr. Horowitz's website, www.drlenhorowitz.com, to help preserve the right for religious families to secure vaccination and TB skin testing exemptions.

"Holy-spirit-filled sovereigns are under bodily attack, along with Constitutional freedoms and civil rights, yet where are those professing to be 'Christian' and 'patriotic?'" Dr. Horowitz questions.

Horowitz is best known for his meticulously documented research that concludes AIDS sourced from tainted vaccinations and a biological weapons contractor controlled by Anglo-American industrialists.

Gordon's attack challenged Horowitz's AIDS research writing the doctor had some vested interest in furthering secret society deception.

Horowitz's controversial thesis has been freely visited since 1998 at www.originofAIDS.com

. The website's content is based on the science advanced in Emerging Viruses: AIDS & Ebola-Nature, Accident of Intentional?, Horowitz's first of three national bestsellers.

Publishing as a consumer advocate since 1978, Dr. Horowitz's other works have featured common sense methods of natural healing and Bible prescriptions for healthier living. Earlier this year, he received the "World Leading Intellectual" award from the World Organization for Natural Medicine. In 1998 he was honored by the World Natural Health Organization as "Author of the Year."

"When my critics accomplish half of what I have done for our Creator on behalf of humanity," Dr. Horowitz said, "then we should take them seriously. Until then, consumers beware."

Although the Knights of Malta's, aka, Hospitallers' true purpose has been a well-kept Vatican secret, people in America are being educated to the fact it is still an organized world-wide group which furthers the Vatican's upcoming "New Inquisition" by aiding, abetting and fostering the fascist takeover of America.

" It is this Russian tongue of the Knights of Malta Len Horowitz has now joined, " added Phelps. "As per its site, the Russian branch "follows the precepts of Blessed Gerard," the founder of the Knights of Malta for the benefit of the Pope's bloodthirsty Crusades.
  (see http://www.3saints.com/stjjduties.html

" Thus, these very Knights whom Horowitz wonderfully exposes in his masterpiece Emerging Viruses, he has now joined.
  I wonder if he knows that AIDS virus creator Dr. Robert C. Gallo is also a Knight and was awarded the "Sword of Ignatius Loyola" by the Order's St. Louis University in 1988?"

In the conversation with the Arctic Beacon, Horowitz said he would appear on Greg Szymanski's radio show, The Investigative Journal, only if the initial article about his knighthood was removed.

Enclosed in his official statement released, he said would grant interviews with other journalists but would not budge on his caveat issued to The Investigative Journal, adding:

"Now that you have this (statement). Kindly remove the slanderous article from your website to expunge this distraction and waste of everyone's time. If you cannot grant me this simple request and respect my wishes, I   cannot accept your offer to do the radio show. I would prefer to discuss more relevant and beneficial subjects."

In response Szymanski stated:

"I stand by the story and perhaps now that Mr. Horowitz is enlightened to the truth about his organization he has joined, he would publicly rescind his knighthood. If he did that, I would then consider having him on the radio show. "

When made aware of the knighting of Horowitz, A. True Ott, PhD, had this to say from his Utah home:

"This is VERY interesting.

"Shortly after "Lenny" (Horowitz) visited me in Cedar City, reviewed my production line, and was a "live" guest on my radio show, I was raided by the FDA and DOPL, arrested, charged with a 1st degree felony and had machines and inventory confiscated. I lost over $100,000, not to mention the many thousands in attorney fees to protect myself!

"I tried calling Lenny to see if he would help with my case in any way, and he refused my calls and NEVER bothered to return them - even though he promised me that he would "help my business in any way".

"I began to wonder if he wasn't a wolf in sheep's clothing - and was involved in the "natural health" arena primarily to identify and remove potential threats to the Medical Mafia.

My suspicions are now confirmed. The AMA's Px Drug agenda is directed by the Knights of Malta through the Vatican!"

Greg Szymanski

Greg also has his own daily show on the Republic Broadcasting Network, from 11:00am to 1:00pm central time, shortwave frequency 12.180. Listen on the internet at: www.rbnlive.com
Greg Szymanski is an independent investigative journalist and his articles can been seen at www.LewisNews.com. He also writes for his own site www.arcticbeacon.com</P>

<P>Listen to my Radio Broadcast live Monday night at 8pm Pacific time on LewisNews, returning Jan. 1 2006 Radio http://webs.lewisnews.com/radio/index.htm.

 [/dohtml]

QUOTE

To: "Eric Jon Phelps" <eric@vaticanassassins.org>
Sent: Monday, October 08, 2007 8:58 PM
Subject: Need an opinion please

> I never want to put anyone on the spot but for some > time I have been listening to and buying some products > from Len Horowitz. His theories on sounds and > frequiencies seem like something I want to ezplore.
>
> Would you have an opinion on him ir his work.
>
> Last week Horowitz was on Rense announcing he was > sponsoring an awards ceremony for Jeff to honor his 25 > years of service.
>
> That award struck me as odd and reminded me of a story > about Horowitz getting knighted to the knights of > "something" he was quoted as saying was harmless.
>
>
> I would like to think Horowitz is not full of it. He > may not mention details but he clearly implies the > Vatican is problem in many things.
>
> I respect your opinion and would appreciate any you > have on Horowitz.
>

Dear J,

Len Horowitz wrote a masterpiced in his Emerging Viruses: Aids and Ebola. Much mention is made of the Knights of Malta backing the Nazis.

I do believe he has been compromised by his joining of the Knights of Malta, Russian Tongue. His honoring of Rense further confirms my suspicions as Jeff Rense refuses to deal with the Jesuit Order and is anti-Jew in general and not against the pope's Masonic Jewish Labor Zionists in particular---as he should be. Rense will never again have me on his show or anyone else who exposes the Company. Len's association with Rense does not serve the purpose of truth as found in the Word of God, the English Reformatioin Bible AV1611. Len has become another "court Jew" serving the Vatican, a most dredful end of a man who was once a great champion of the truth.

Sincerely in faith,

Brother Eric

-

Dear Eric,

You say his book was a masterpiece but I disagree. There is NO hiv virus and AIDS is a collection of disorders we've always had as well as modern chemical reasons for. When you understand this you then see through coadjutor, Leonard Horowitz period! Whys it so difficult for people to drop this most major myth of hiv from their indoctrinated minds?

Thankyou
Craig Oxley

QUOTE

Len Horowitz rips off Alex Christopher's information on the Denver Airport Murals.
http://z13.invisionfree.com/THE_UNHIVED_MI...showtopic=27619

QUOTE

New Radio Interview with Eric Jon Phelps

Show: The Investigative Journal
Host: Greg Szymanski
Date: Tuesday, November 13, 2007

Topic: Greg interviews Eric Jon Phelps, author of Vatican Assassins 3, for two hours.

Eric's Website: http://vaticanassassins.org

Download the Interview:
MP3 format,
2 hours, 20 MB, 24kbps
(left click)
http://www.megaupload.com/?d=D3A9CB6S

Alternate Download Site:
(left click)
http://www.bestsharing.com/files/g1PheGg36...3_2007.mp3.html

QUOTE

Dear Eric,

Nice to see the host of this radio show acknowledge that Leonard Horowitz is an agent out for the cover-up and MONEY! No wonder he's now a Knight of Malta scumbag. -Craig Oxley http://www.drcarley.com/dr_carley_autism_testimonial.mp3

craig-oxley - May 9, 2009 04:23 AM (GMT)

Swine Flu Fear Mongering From The Corporate And Alternative Media Has Been Insane

Published on 05-04-2009
By - Lee Rogers
http://www.roguegovernment.com/Swine_Flu_F.../13/13/Y/M.html

The amount of fear mongering coming from the government, the mainstream corporate controlled media and the so called alternative media surrounding the swine flu outbreak has been completely insane. Cable news outlets have shown pictures and video of people wearing surgical masks and providing around the clock news reports on the swine flu to fuel fear in the minds of people around the world. Despite the fact that there are estimates of 36,000 people dying from the regular flu virus on a year to year basis in the United States and as of this report only around 19 deaths associated with the swine flu in Mexico, common sense has not prevailed and the promotion of swine flu fear continues. Thus far there are only 286 confirmed cases of the swine flu and one confirmed death associated with the swine flu in the United States. That death is associated with a toddler that came here from Mexico. Although it is of definite concern that the swine flu appears to be an engineered viral outbreak considering that it is a strange cocktail mix of strains taken from human flu, the bird flu and swine flu, there have been and continue to be wild claims within the alternative research community that this will result in total martial law and that the virus is actually far worse than it is with no real proof or evidence to back it up.

Whenever the government and mainstream corporate controlled media promote fear, it is usually a hoax. The war on terror is a perfect example considering that the official stories of all major terrorist attacks in the past decade including the 9/11 attacks and the 7/7 London bombings are extremely questionable. So when the media keeps showing pictures and videos of people running around wearing surgical masks with barely any confirmed cases of the swine flu in the United States, one can easily draw the conclusion that the establishment is trying to promote fear to further a particular agenda.

Even Vice President Joe Biden was sent out on NBC’s Today Show to hype the fear in what appears to have been a staged media appearance by stating that he wouldn’t let his family members travel via public transportation due to the swine flu. This appears to have been an obvious attempt to scare people and give credibility to the threat of swine flu which up until now has been minimal.

Although the fear mongering from the government and mainstream corporate controlled media has been off the charts, some of the most insanely rabid scare tactics has come from radio host and film maker Alex Jones.

Jones has a track record of spreading fear over the airwaves dating back to his infamous December 31st 1999 Y2K radio transmissions when he promoted the idea that the Russians were invading the United States. The Russians never invaded and it was all made up. It is true that much of the information Jones talks about on his show is verifiable, but the irrational and out of control fear mongering he promotes is the equivalent of placing a piece of animal crap in a party’s punch bowl.

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/uIfBJoTK274&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xcfcfcf&hl=en&feature=player_embedded&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/uIfBJoTK274&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xcfcfcf&hl=en&feature=player_embedded&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Last week, Jones hi-jacked the April 29th 2009 InfoWarrior radio program (Hour 1, Hour 2, Hour 3) hosted by film producer Jason Bermas claiming that the government was threatening and attacking his web sites due to swine flu information that they posted. Specifically he went on to talk about a memo provided to him by an Administrator from the Austin Independent School District stating that the swine flu was far worse than anything the media or the government was saying. Jones specifically believed that the reason why his site was attacked was because of that memo. He went on to claim that this document which as far as we can tell has yet to be re-posted on his web site stated that we were actually at a level 6 virus pandemic and that the swine flu was far worse than what was being claimed through official channels. He would also go on to say that the level 6 classification meant that we'd have a scenario like the movies 28 Days Later or I Am Legend which both depict a massive virus outbreak that kill/infect large quantities of people. Throughout the show Jones and some of his guests would continue to hype this information claiming that it would result in martial law. Even when the idea of it being a hoax was brought up by Steve Quayle who was a guest on the show, Jones acknowledged that it was a possibility but quickly dismissed it and went on to read the memo which claimed that the virus was made to spread quickly, that hospitals across the country would be overwhelmed and that there were 10 to 25 times more cases than what was being reported in the corporate media. He even went on to say that Mexico City was under total martial law without any real proof or sources to back it up.

The vast majority of the show was dedicated to Jones hyping how the swine flu virus was much worse than the government or the mainstream corporate media was saying. Even when Quayle moved the discussion to focus on how it might be a hoax, it was used to promote and completely over hype the fear of imminent martial law, forced vaccinations and how the government is going to kill us.

None of this has happened yet and now Jones is claiming that he was saying that the swine flu scare was a hoax all along when that is simply not true. Jones had even stated on one of his previous radio programs that billions of people were going to die as a result of a wide scale bio-weapon attack not as speculation but as a fact.

Jones also had Dr. Len Horowitz on as a guest a couple of times on his show last week for so-called expert commentary on the swine flu. Horowitz is a man who has been criticized by many as actually being a member of the Knights of Malta otherwise known as the Knights Hospitaller. In fact, a news release on his web site proudly states that he was given the title "Knight of Merit" from members associated with this order. There are even pictures on Horowitz's web site showing him posing with individuals wearing pieces of clothing with a giant Maltese Cross on them. The Maltese Cross is a symbol of the Knights of Malta which to this day is an organization considered to be a sovereign military force for the Vatican. The Vatican is essentially a cult hiding behind the Christian religion while many members have been caught engaging in pedophilia, homosexuality and other bizarre forms of sexual behavior. There is also another strangely placed picture of Horowitz posing with an owl on his web site. The owl is a symbol associated with the ancient Roman goddess of Minerva. It is quite possible that these pictures are some sort of inside joke between Horowitz and his insider buddies. It is funny that Jones would give a man like this any credibility what so ever, but he was sold to the listening audience as a credible expert.

With an increasing number of reports stating that the swine flu scare was vastly over-blown, it is obvious that all of this fear mongering was entirely unwarranted and designed to make the alternative research community look ridiculous. This is not to say that we shouldn't be concerned about this, as it is possible that they could use the swine flu scare to socially engineer the public for any number of dark scenarios. However, over hyping the threat and scaring people about martial law and other outcomes just makes us all look like a bunch of lunatics which appears to be the point behind this type of reporting. The bottom line is that there is something terribly wrong when people in the alternative research community particularly those with a track record of this type of scare mongering are spreading more fear than the government and the media. It is obvious that the swine flu scare has been vastly over blown on all levels.

Alexandra - May 9, 2009 01:14 PM (GMT)

Notice he's there with an owl....

craig-oxley - May 22, 2009 02:31 AM (GMT)

Dr. Len Horowitz Openly Promoting A Luciferian Magic Ritual In Conjunction With Summer Solstice

Published on 05-21-2009
By - Lee Rogers

Dr. Len Horowitz an individual who has achieved prominence in the alternative research and patriot communities through his research and writings on viruses and bioweapons, is now promoting a Luciferian ritual set to take place from June 19th to June 21st during the summer solstice. Horowitz is actively promoting a new web site called love528.com in which he is asking people to tune their musical instruments to play 528 hz sounds to generate what he claims is a love vibration. Horowitz is asking people to play, chant and sing music in 528 hz as part of an effort to maximize the impact of the ritual. The motives of Horowitz should be questioned considering that he openly brags about his involvement with the Knights of Malta on his web site. The Knights of Malta is a roughly 1,000 year old organization that serves as a sovereign military order for the Vatican. His web site also contains a bizarre picture that depicts him posing with an owl. The owl is a symbol of the Roman goddess Minerva and a symbol associated with the Bohemian Grove. The Bohemian Grove is an encampment in Northern California where the world's business and political elite on a yearly basis engage in a mock human sacrifice ritual and other strange activities. With all of this in mind, it is highly doubtful that Horowitz intends on using this Luciferian ritual for the betterment of humanity.

Horowitz appeared on the April 13th 2009 edition of the InfoWarrior program and discussed the ritual in depth. He confirmed that the ritual was set to take place during the summer solstice and used curious language such as "As Above – So Below" which is a teaching commonly associated with Hermeticism. Hermeticism is a term derived from the ancient Greek god of Hermes and an occult belief system that has had a profound influence on groups like the Freemasons and the Order of the Golden Dawn. Horowitz also when describing the ritual, mentions the Star of David or the Hermetic Seal of Solomon, which was said to be used by King Solomon to control demons. Clearly, what Horowitz is referencing has nothing to do with Christianity but instead has direct links to occult magic.

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/kVNJhIzd6vI&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xcfcfcf&hl=en&feature=player_embedded&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/kVNJhIzd6vI&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xcfcfcf&hl=en&feature=player_embedded&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Horowitz also mentions rainbows when describing the ritual which is interesting since Lucifer is believed by many to be the god of the rainbow. Considering Horowitz's references to magical symbols and teachings, the rainbow and the timing of the ritual it appears as if he is attempting to get people to aid him in conducting a Luciferian ritual, claiming that it is all about love and goodness.

Listen to this archive of the Global Reality Show w/ Josh Reeves for a full analysis of this insanity. It is scary to see how something like this is being actively promoted on so called Christian oriented patriot radio networks.

craig-oxley - May 23, 2009 12:43 AM (GMT)

TRAITOR AND LYING LEN HOROWITZ EMAILS BARRY CHAMISH:

QUOTE

Barry,

I am a knight of The Sovereign Orthodox Order of Knights Hospitaller of St John of Jerusalem, and I have not responded to your periodic e-mails the previous invitation from The Root and Branch ever since you expressed your indignation over my alliance with Christians.

Here is a link to my current publications pertaining to the unconscious views that you, and others in the Jewish orthodoxy, express from time to time that degrades your activism and undermines your political positions.

www.healthyworldsolutions.com

Len

LEN THERE IS NO HIV DIDN'T YOU KNOW? HAHA! I GUESS
I'M A C.I.A PSYOP FOR SAYING THAT HAHA!
I KNOW WHOS THE C.I.A ASSET AND IT AIN'T ME!

craig-oxley - May 24, 2009 04:49 PM (GMT)

Len Horovitz was the "star" speaker at the recent Red Ice-promoted (& co-organised?) Ian Crane multi-day, multi-speaker event held on the outskirts of West London recently (I think that the event has been, I didn't check). This does make me have thoughts about Ian Crane's possible agenda. He seems like a toned-down, slightly less low-brow David Icke for Guardian readers. ;D

No reply from Michael Ts-Aryan to my recent epistle. What a surprise, eh? If my page gets shut down, I guess that we can guess who'd be involved. He has had Chris White's Youtube a/c shut down.

Horovitz wrote a book about AIDS & Ebola. In a 2006 interview Alan Watt made a most interesting observation that the symptoms sounded like those of the Spanish Flu & that many modern viruses may be old (& possibly man-made in previous eras, going back centuries & perhaps millenia).

- TS

craig-oxley - May 26, 2009 02:18 AM (GMT)

A Knight of Malta New Ager to boot! Truly sickening.

Brother Eric

craig-oxley - August 27, 2009 04:08 PM (GMT)

> Tim White wrote:
>
> > Amy, > > Len Horowitz(I met him here in Denver at
> the > > Preparedness Expos in Nov '97 and also Dec '98 and > > yes,I have that book)was NOT the one that exposed
> the > > murals-Alex Christopher(real name Vicki > Morgan,home
> > phone # 256-7xx-6xx9 in Cullman Alabama if you care to > > speak with her,a good friend of mine,Polly Cady is > a > > close friend of hers;Google Polly to see who she > > is)did with her extremely hard to get book > PANDORAS'
> > BOX II-The Denver International Airport Story.I > had > > the book and her first one also(both ripped off

> from > > me)-PANDORAS BOX I-the true history of the > formation > > of this country and its' controllers;also > extremely > > hard to get.Four friends of mine(Bob Gibson,Doug > > Chambers,Mike Russ,and Steve Young took her and > Phil
> > Schneider(Google that name)to DIA in mid 1995 to > > investigate the strange goings on with the > > underground,the Masonic/Nazi occult symbology all > over > > the place and the murals that were painted by Leo > > Tanguma and his helpers-those murals were NOT > Leos' > > artistic imaginings but in fact done by a whole > set > of > > directions by the 33rd and HIGHER degreed Masons > that > > were in charge of their execution on those > walls.You > > can Google "Alex Christopher interview on KSEO > > radio",done in 1996,to see for yourself that Dr > Len Horowitz > > ripped off her work,look at the date of the > interview
> > and the pub date of his book-I don't remember > hearing > > or seeing that Dr Len gave any credit to her-the > info
> > that I have from several people is that he is in > fact
> > "a vacuum cleaner"taking other peoples' work and > then
> > claiming it as his own with a copyright.Why do you > > think that Clay Douglas(I know him too) had a > knock > > down,screaming falling out with him?.Speaking of > > execution-Phil Schneider(Google that name or Ken > > Adachis' site EDUCATEYOURSELF.ORG-click on to Phil > > Schneider in the header) was "suicided" in Jan
> > '96-strangled with a ligature tightly tied around > his > > neck-because of his being on this DIA junket and > > because of his exposure of the deep underground > base
> > at DULCE New Mexico,Google "the DULCE BOOK by > > Branton".

> > As I stated before,I met William Thomas at
> the > > Global Sciences meeting in early June '99 when he > was > > the featured speaker.After his talk,he had a book > > signing for his new book about the Gulf War > Syndrome.I > > had gathered a lot of info since mid Nov '98 about
> the > > CHEMTRAILS-aircraft types(I can ID most of what > are > > "known" aircraft-civilian or military)that I was > > viewing through a 600 MM lens,damn shutter was > broken > > on the camera body.I had ID'd aircraft that were > being > > flown by UNITED AIRLINES(the majority of aircraft > > sighted since they have a very distinctive paint > > scheme underneath),NORTHWEST AIRLINES-red tail a > > giveaway,SOUTHWEST AIRLINES,pukey bile yellow or a > > distinctive orange(a CIA proprietary),DELTA > > AIRLINES(another CIA prop.),CONTINENTAL > AIRLINES(all > > spooked up-a previous landlord of mine was a Cont.
> Air
> > pilot-Thomas Z. Mars who flew for AIR > > AMERICA),AMERICAN AIRLINES,the > worlds'largest,VANGUARD > > AIRLINES,several others besides the unmarked types > or
> > the military types.This also included the > > "SUPER-SPRAYER",a stretch DC-8,dash63,white with > no > > markings,that flew directly over my shop at about > > 15-18,000ft late May '99.--(That also happened the > > next day after I was on the Peter Boyles radio > program > > on July-28-2000 (KHOW-630AM on the dial))7:30-9:00 > > a.m. talking about the chemtrails.That aircraft > left > > an awesome trail coming from the S/W in a curved > path > > over the shop then straight east-horizon to > > horizon-the trail was wing tip to wing tip(160ft > > wingspan) from the main wings and also from the > tail > > planes-I could very clearly see the dump > tubes(about > 8" > > in dia. was my guess(I have 20-15/10 or better > vision)that > > extended from 4 placements each-port and > starboard-on > > the trailing edges,2 dump tubes on each > tailplane.That > > trail took more than 4 hrs to disappear).

> > Thomas was blaming the spraying solely on > > refueling tankers,KC-135s,KC-10s,KC-130s and white > > unmarked types.I got his attention during the > signing
> > and started to relate my observations to him and > also > > placed a sheet of my info on aircraft types in > front > > of him telling him that there are simply not > enough > > tanker assets to explain the massive spraying.He > then > > looked up at me,and with a very direct gaze > > said,"Boy,I'll bet you're just full of > > information,aren't you?",and pushed my info sheet > back > > at me.I thought "what a RAT",I was being brushed > off > > and he knew I KNEW what he really was.He had his > own > > agenda obviously.Ingri stated to me that she has > heard > > from others about similar experiences with Will > > Thomas.Call Clifford Carnicom in > > Albuquerque(505-466-2784)to get his testimony on > this > > or my good friend and close associate of Clifford,
> > David Peterson in Aspen(970-618-2812).David paid > > $7,000 > > out of his own pocket to bring Will Thomas to > Aspen
> > immediately after his Global talk.Both will tell > you > > that something damn sure is wrong with > him.Clifford > > has(just himself this time) produced a video just > > recently-not yet released-on his chemtrail > > investigations.I was on the phone with David a few > > nights ago;he is making a VCR copy for me which I > > should have by next week.As you may have heard > > before,Amy,disinformation is usually 70-95% > true,it's > > the 5-30% lies that are the poison.Remember,the > > biggest secrets are usually hiding right before > your > > eyes.

> >
> > Tim White
> >
> > --- george moore wrote:
> > > Wow--Tim--I appreciate these insights. Give me
> a > > > while to ruminate and > > > re-read all of this and let it settle before I > call.
> > > We knew that
> > > Denver was a pit--you probably read Death in the > Air
> > > by Horowitz with > > > his expose of the murals at the Denver Airport?
> > > Talk about CREEPY!!!!
> > >
> > > I'd sure like to know why you got the feeling
> Will
> > > Thomas is on the > > > other side. He has been among the most vocal > > > against the chems and digs > > > up info no one else has. Why would the enemy > work > so > > > hard at exposing > > > itself? Did you just have a feeling about Will > or > > > did he say something > > > or what? I often worry that the "good" guys > spend > > > so much time > > > infighting and suspecting one other that we have > > > less energy to fight > > > the bad guys.
> > >
> > > Amy Worthington
> > >
>

craig-oxley - September 22, 2009 03:36 PM (GMT)

IS MASS INTERNATIONAL GENOCIDE (& OTHER N.W.O. CONSPIRACY "SACRED COW" BELIEFS) ACTUALLY A LONG TERM PSY-OP? THOUGHTS ANYONE? + LEN HOROVITZ'S ASSERTIONS QUESTIONED

Dear Dr Len Horowitz & friends (I am addressing both Dr Horowitz & others in the body of text below, so this should be taken in consideration when reading the following)

I am starting to wonder if a lot of the widely-proposed & believed key "New World Order" conspiracy "must be's" are not actually long term intell-agency generated psychological-operations in themselves? Despite all the evidence that on face value seems to indicate that this agenda will come to pass, it seems far more likely to me that the long term financial & social control goals of the covert controllers are far ore likely to be satiated by their current path of slowly drugging & toxifying people to death, rather than getting rid of the vast majority in the west. Maybe I'm wrong - but perhaps not. I still think that people should avoid these vaccines, & will continue to post warning about such money-making & health debilitating vaccines but I think that we should all start shining the spotlight on conspiracy "sacred cow" beliefs, such as the much-touted near-overnight Global Mass Culling, which may actually aid the real agenda of keeping us all herded & trapped in a fear-based mental/emotional/spiritual prison. It is interesting to me when some people have kneejerk reactions to the questioning of these matters. Perhaps the Georgia Guidestones were even created as part of such a Psy Op? Lots of smaller, drawn out, health debilitating attacks on the common people seem more effective on many levels. Again, I'm open to suggestion here, but hardline defending of a seemingly flawed & increasingly questionable assertion seems necessary at this point in proceedings.

I'm not entirely convinced of Dr Horowitz being free of any covert agenda either, contemplating both his long term high international profile in conspiracy research circles (what radio show - whether controlled or authentic - has Dr Horovitz - who's claims would ostensibly seem to be a great threat to claimed intentions of the Powers That Be - not been on?) & his problematising, question-raising Knights Hospitaller knighthood. Are any Knights Hospitaller derivatives - e.g. Queen Elizabeth II's Knights of St John, the Pope's Knights of Malta (SMOM), truly independent, as claimed? Are those which are "in dispute" truly so at the top? The latter two are most tight & more investigation should be done into the membership of all Knights Hospitaller branches, regardless of the claims of such organisations themselves.

Some of Dr Horowitz's notions that I find most interesting - such as those relating to musical frequency (being a musician myself) - seem hard to independently validate & cast doubt on the accuracy his other info. Studying some of his sites are low in substantiable evidence & thorough, internally logical explanation & bear the dubious hallmarks of chalatanesque deceptiveness (i.e. listing "stars" & putting up "me & them" photo opportunity snaps to promote a musical event that they have only been invited to & are not confirmed as participating at seems like appalling lack of judgement & gratuitous self-promotion at best (see evidence below). Sorry Dr Horovitz, this may sound harsh, but I would apply the same criteria to anyone. It's not the photos themselves that I object to, so much as their application. This is intended to be constructive criticism.

http://web.mac.com/len15/LOVE528/SCHEDULE.html
http://web.mac.com/len15/LOVE528/Pi,_PHI_%26_528.html

Check the lists of "invited performers", why no list of "confirmed performers"? Did this multi-nation event ever take place in June 2009? I'd bet not & wonder how much cash was generated from contributions for this fantasy-fest?

http://web.mac.com/len15/LOVE528/SPONSORS.html

"Royal Bloodline of David" & "Sovereign Orthodox Order of Knights Hospitaller" as sponsors, anyone? Who is this self-proclaimed "Royal Bloodline of David" - the Windsors or European royals - unlikely - or other claimants? No surprise top see Jeff Rense's name there too (& Jordan Maxwell's - isn't he meant to be near bankrupt according to his most vociferous supporters? Is he sponsoring the project with his beer bottle returns or something?)

Dr Horowitz asserts that the frequency of 528 Hertz is the "Love frequency" because it is supposedly the centre of both the audible & visible frequency ranges (light & sound). How is this even possible? "Sound" only becomes visible at the 47th (or is it 48th? 47th I'm pretty sure) octave (i.e. the frequency being doubled around four dozen times, according to comprehensive studies that I have examined in the past, so these are two completely different ranges of frequencies anyway!

So how do we incorporate such a pitch as 528 Hz into a musical tuning & playing context (regardless of its having any special metaphysical properties or not)? If one tunes a guitar's open A string to 444 Hz (rather than the standard 440 Hz), then the note of C - three frets up - produces 528 Hertz. So tuning to 444Hz, not 443 or 445 Hertz or any other produces a note that is pitched at 528 Hertz (albeit actually slightly higher at 520.008 Hz - of course if we tuned to just under 444Hz at 443.993 Hertz

Using the tools at http://shakahara.com/pianopitch2.php we find that:

relative to a pitch of hz for pitch number 49 on the keyboard (A49, whose standard pitch would be 440 hz)
pitch 49 is 444.000
pitch 52 is 528.008

relative to a pitch of hz for pitch number 49 on the keyboard (A49, whose standard pitch would be 440 hz)
pitch 46 is 443.993
pitch 49 is 528.000

So tuning to 444 Hertz (or just under at 443.993 Hertz - if you could find a non-computer based tuner capable of doing such offsets, which you can't, but is so slight as to be irrelevant anyway, considering how easily most non-synthetic instruments go out of tune), we can start to experiment with Dr Horovitz's "love frequency" with the knowledge of the precise equivalent tone - which appears to be closest to what is conventionally considered to be the note of C within the octave above 440 Hz. Close scrutiny of Dr Horowitz's "528" related site digs up no substantial evidence as to the special value of his toted 528 frequency. I don't want to "demonise" the theory (if it can be called a theory), but the only thing special that I can find about 528Hz is that it requires tuning to 444 Hz & 444 is 2/3 of 666 - which Dr Horovitz argues is not "evil" or "negative" in itself - again with no explanation as to what leads him to this conclusion - whether he is right or wrong! Len, I'm all ears (no pun intended), but please explain yourself. I even studied this page & have to conclude that the evidence is almost bizarre in its absence: http://web.mac.com/len15/LOVE528/Technology.html

Dr Horowitz maintains that the Rockefellers funded a move to set 440 Hz as standard musical tuning reference pitch - but provides no evidence. I can see that there is a logic that a number that is divisible by three, such as Dr Horowitz's touted 528 Hz, would be more "balanced" than one merely divisible by two, but why hold back on the evidence & how is 528 Hz the center of the sound & vision frequency ranges? Believe me, I'd love to know of a special frequency that was God-given & capable of spiritual uplift, but I would like solid, reasonable evidence, not diversionary mumbo-jumbo & half-baked excuses, which I may seem harsh in saying appear to litter the interview at the above link.

Much of the info at the Rense site is also of dubious authenticity & Jeff Rense is in my opinion (note: not intended to be a declaration of fact, unlike the claims of Dr Horovitz that I am critiquing & seeking further elucidation of here) one of the conspiracy-info world's more likely paid intell shills - but that is another story which I don't intend to get distracted by here. At the end of the day though, I am more concerned about whether or not we are letting our energies be drained by focusing on devised distractions? Almost certainly in some cases, though when & where is another matter. That which directs us into the above-mentioned fear-based mental/emotional/spiritual prison certainly merits closer scrutiny & those who reject such a valid contention equally so.

I would hope that you take this in the spirit of a much-needed challenge Dr Horovitz & rise to that challenge - for all of our benefits. The alternative perceptions & research world is an arena appallingly low on thorough, critical analysis & we do need to apply such analysis, while bearing in mind the need to be open-minded & giving a reasonable chance for all evidences to be heard before reaching conclusions. I am sticking to an area that I have some knowledge of here, others refute the existence of HIV - which existence is a principal contention of Dr Horovitz - & I will leave that to them to raise with him.

It is my hope that Dr Horovitz can not only enlighten us with clear, lucid evidence & independent, checkable sources to defend his 528 Hz assertions (& in the process dispel a few niggling doubts about his authenticity & agenda) & partake in te spirit of sportsmanship here.

Thank you all for reading. Please email me with any thoughts & observations, regardless of your take on things - especially Dr Horowitz.

In truth & awareness

- TS

craig-oxley - August 6, 2010 02:55 PM (GMT)

The "OFFICIAL" Leonard Horowitz is a THIEF & ILLUMINATI Con-Artist ...
31 posts - 2 authors - Last post: 6 Jul 2008
Horowitz is also a Knights of Malta stoog. ..... New York, NY—The title "Knight of Merit" was bestowed upon Dr. Leonard G. Horowitz today by ... www.godlikeproductions.com/forum1/message567572/pg1 - Cached - Similar Invisible Empire: Knights of Malta, Jesuit Papacy and the 9/11 Attacks• - 3 Jul 2010
WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THE KNIGHTS OF MALTA• - 4 May 2010
KoM Len Horowitz• - 25 Aug 2008
Dr. Leonard Horowitz caught red-handed - plageurism, theft & fraud ...• - 24 Jul 2008

==========
EXCERPTED FROM LINK ABOVE.....

Anonymous Coward
User ID: 462433
United States
7/6/2008 5:54 AM
Report abusive postRe: The "OFFICIAL" Leonard Horowitz is a THIEF & ILLUMINATI Con-Artist THREAD Quote

I would just like to see Dr. Joseph Puleo ,N.D. give his scoop on letting Horowitz help him organize his book on the Healing Codes for the Biologic Apocalype off of which he gave full "credit" for stealing the guys life works and not keeping the frequencies he was truly given speak up. Like it is said Horowitz made millions off the book and subsequent things, then paid Dr. Puleo NOTHING with a slight of hand move.Told him he just meant he would always give him "credit" no money even though he would leave him stuck as coauthor of his very life and collection of work that IS the book. Has no one questioned WHY the person reportedly GIVEM the Solfeggio frequencies is off radar???and lately Horowitz is on bulletins referring to Healing Codes as being written by him and Dr. Barbers???So we forget all about wondering why Dr. Puleo is not there to back up what Horowitz published were his findings.There is also Dr. Horowitz making retractions he ever said the Hebrew language alphabet sung created cymatically the exact formation I saw on the net and he apologized to Stan Tenan blaming it must have been Dr. Puleo who told him that when it is he who makes uphis own conclusions and in other peoples' names.If the Solfeggio Horowitz made up and not the ones given to Dr. Puleo work so well why does he not pay his close staff megabucks since he is certainly raking it in?We need to get Dr. Puleo to give us some answers why he wrote the book and is the primary author and life it is all about and yet he cannot even afford an internet presence.

If his tones work so well then why is he so stingy with his staff and they are driving beaters while he keeps the millions in his yacht crowd.Why doesn't his staff even listen to the "music" themselves???24/7 Why was Horowitz seen coming out of the Masonic lodge in Sand Point,Idaho doing all their secret handshakes?

The best wolf in sheep's clothing goes about as a sheep exposing the wolf but giving you the MKultra exact WRONG frequencies in the mix. Should be looking to the crop circles.How do you know since Horowitz KNOWS so much he is not on the team that did it or is creating half truths? Do his frequencies REALLY make those ice crystals or just if the WORDS are written of gratitude and love over his wrong freqeuncies? Be WARE!!!The Stephanie Relfe site WARNS if you use the Horowitz frequencies you MUST do EMF and professionally or you have blasted much severely intense the MKUltra commands. So high they are audible in memory to overcome.In other words, you turn on a sleeper or else defying commands you give yourself an aneurysm, heart attack or stroke.

I believe we need to search out just what DID become of Dr. Puleo and why he never gives appearances with Horowitz period over his work and book?Also since Horowitz is smearing Dan Winters we need to see just what he has to say over Horowitz retractions of "facts" he put in many of his books.

Bush was crowing around like a rooster showing us 9-11,lots of pictures with his mainstream media. Many who SAY and are given the go ahead to expose things do NOT have the solution they rigged to be the best nor do they expose the entire picture.

Why did Horowitz get FURIOUS over staff wanting to shift to vaccine waivers for individual rights and demand it had to be just the doctors!!!in all the states which is how they find the doctors waivering then cancel their malpractice over internal rules of what makes the waiver according to AMA boards rules.Find the doctors alert to vaccine genocide and get them out of practice.Sure the doctors can waiver by state laws BUT have it internally set if you DO if they did not wind up in I.C.U from the EXACT same vaccine not the groups then hit them with a $100,000 over the $6,000 malpractice usual and then cancel them. Cancel their malpractice and Blue Cross goes away and HMO's...80% of your business...say goodby doctor...or quit waivering period.

ASK Dr. Joseph Puleo...the TRUTH is surfacing.Also if I get banned then you KNOW to look into these things.Ask Ernie Vega his dealings with him.

Ask why Horowitz belongs to himself.

==========

Will See
User ID: 1051280
United States
7/28/2010 2:28 PM
Report abusive postRe: The "OFFICIAL" Leonard Horowitz is a THIEF & ILLUMINATI Con-Artist THREAD Quote

Here is a clear example of Horowitz's own words and occult activity. You be the judge.

He was asked to debate the subject of HIV as the "cause of AIDS" with one of the first scientists to expose this fraud. The scientist was Dr. Peter Duesberg, who was nominated for a Nobel Prize and received the "Outstanding Investigator Grant" from the NIH for his discovery of Oncogenes (the genes that cause cancer) Dr. Duesberg was attacked and blacklisted later in 1987, when he began to publish information that disputed even his own cancer research (which an honest scientist will do as he further investigates)and his research that proved HIV can not be the cause of the AIDS epidemic. Duesberg also denounced AZT as a very toxic drug that causes AIDS by Prescription. Now 23 years later, there are thousands of people who agree with Duesberg's arguments against HIV as the cause of AIDS including 300 MDs.

Like Galileo, or any other scientist that goes against the grain, Duesberg stood his ground and is being proved right..HIV is a TERRIBLE fraud. Rethinkingaids.com

Here is Horowitz response to the Question "Is HIV capable of causing AIDS" Does this sound like a rational expert???

I, Dr. Leonard Horowitz, respecting and representing thousands of scientists and physicians worldwide whose voices have been neglected and silenced, as a diplomatic officer for the world organization for natural medicine, as a representative of God, knighted in the Sovereign Orthodox Order of Knights Hospitaller of St. John of Jerusalem, and as a rabbinical priest in the bloodlines of Moses and Yeshua the messiah, I do hereby indict you, Dr. Peter Duesberg, for the deaths of millions of people worldwide, though your role in the creation of AIDS, as well as in the disinformation that sustains this and related medical genocide.

This official indictment, condemns you for mass killing and pharmaceutical enslaving of millions of people to AIDS, infectious cancers and myriad immune pathologies, resulting from you and your collaborators manipulations, creations and disseminations of viruses, using genetic modifications and vaccinations you conducted or abated.

You along with your colleagues, including Dr. Robert Gallo, prostituting virologists and molecular biologists, working for the National Cancer Institute and paid by Litton Bionetics, a biological weapons contractor for the United States military, having advanced the “Special Virus Cancer Program” during the late 1960s through the 1970s, are hereby held accountable to the people and to God, for these crimes against humanity resulting in this global tragedy of the pandemic now called AIDS, for other cancers, and many auto-immune illnesses that are now devastating populations.

This indictment is served publicly and officially with accompanying evidence of the official contracts, actions taken and payments made to you, published in the “Special Virus Cancer Program” reports, that have been now made public during several investigations by many independent investigators.

This official indictment, served as a humanitarian action, prays to the courts of heaven and earth, that you will be punished to fullest extent of the law, both man’s and God’s, and condemns you for eternity for the mass slaughter and enslavement of humanity to HIV/AIDS and these other illnesses.

Dr, Duesberg and the many people fighting the HIV=AIDS fraud have saved thousands of lives from this lie. Horowitz has only lied for years about this. You can hear this radio program on George Whitehurst Berry's show, in archives at www.hearitonline.com or www.aidsfraudvideo.com

--- On Wed, 8/4/10, Sherri Kane <sherrikane@gmail.com> wrote:

From: Sherri Kane <sherrikane@gmail.com>
Subject: Re: FW: Dr Leonard "CIA/MALTESE KNIGHT" Horowitz
To: "True OTT" <atrueott@msn.com>
Cc: "Greg Szymanski" <gregbeacon@gmail.com>, "Don Nicoloff" <donnicoloff@mac.com>, "Tim White" <phantom421366@yahoo.com>
Received: Wednesday, August 4, 2010, 4:15 PM

True:

I would like to schedule a conference call for all interest parties with Dr. Horowitz to put all of our concerns on the table. Let's lay it out.

www.wingtv.net/thorn2006/syzmanski2.htm

How is your schedules for today at 4PM?
Call in number is: 712-432-3900 #4126102 or we can do skype: sherrikane

Let me know what works for you.

Sherri
On Wed, Aug 4, 2010 at 2:08 PM, True OTT <atrueott@msn.com> wrote:

Ms. Kane:

Your comments on this please. Is this a correct assessment of facts by Mr. Oxley and Mr. Phelps??

True

craig-oxley - August 6, 2010 10:40 PM (GMT)

Masonic Lodge

Place page

319 North 2nd Avenue
Sandpoint, ID 83864-1420, United States
(208) 263-3028
Get directions - Is this accurate?

Masonic Lodge in Sandpoint, ID | 319 N Second Avenue, Sandpoint, ID
Masonic Lodge in Sandpoint, ID -- Map, Phone Number, Reviews, Photos and Video Profile for Sandpoint Masonic Lodge. Masonic Lodge appears in: Fraternal ... www.superpages.com/.../Sandpoint-ID/Masonic-Lodge-L2065043661.htm - Cached Masonic Lodge (Masonic Temple Association Of Sandpoint ...
Masonic Lodge company profile in Sandpoint, ID. Our free company profile report for Masonic Lodge includes business information such as contact, ... www.manta.com/c/mm034nw/masonic-lodge - Cached

craig-oxley - August 6, 2010 10:43 PM (GMT)

On Wed, 8/4/10, Sherri Kane <sherrikane@gmail.com> wrote:

From: Sherri Kane <sherrikane@gmail.com>
Subject: Re: FW: Dr Leonard "CIA/MALTESE KNIGHT" Horowitz//Horowitz seen coming out of the Masonic lodge in Sand Point,Idaho
To: "Tim White" <phantom421366@yahoo.com>
Cc: "True OTT" <atrueott@msn.com>, craig2tuff@yahoo.com, "Eric Jon Phelps" <eric@vaticanassassins.org>, "Jeff Rense" <sightings@mindspring.com>, "Greg Szymanski" <gregbeacon@gmail.com>, "Don Nicoloff" <donnicoloff@mac.com>, "Anthony Hilder" <freeworldalliance@yahoo.com>, "Arthur Evangelista" <dre@wispwest.net>, "J Strider"

<striderus1776@hotmail.com>, "Joe McNeil" <joe@themicroeffect.com>, "Michael Rivero" <wrh@whatreallyhappened.com>, "Michelle Ray" <mountainfreedom@q.com>, "Peter Tscherneff" <leoroarbig@yahoo.com>, "Robert Hender Jr" <RJ@morningliberty.com>, robert.morningstar@gmail.com, "Todd Brendan Fahey" <friendofliberty@yahoo.com>, "William J Wagener" <producer@onsecondthought.tv>
Received: Wednesday, August 4, 2010, 9:56 PM

Tim,

1.) Did you personally see Dr. Horowitz at this lodge? If you did not, then who did? The Anonymous Coward poster is not credible.
His posting just proves he is a pathological liar that does not have any of his facts straight. I would like to personally interview the person that saw Dr. Horowitz at this venue, and for what event. I have compiled a list of questions for you, that you have failed to answer, along with my interview request. Dr. Horowitz does not fear being interviewed, so why do you hide? You do not need to bombard all of these people with constant emails to suit your own agenda. It makes you appear foolish. When you have completed the questions on the list, with real evidence, to support your allegations, then it would be fair for you to respond. I am sure everyone would appreciate more maturity here. Dr. Ott has answered question #4 already (below). What is your answer, Tim?

WELL Sherri Kane - apparently YOU have a reading IN-COMPREHENSION problem afoot here...what I researched out and sent is NOT of MY authorship but of OTHERS who have the SAME problem as myself and MANY others regarding Horowitz's SLEAZY operation and tactics and believe I can find PLENTY more - this just illustrates a small part of what can be found regarding Horowitz and ANY questions are NOT MINE TO ANSWER - the questions that NEED to BE ANSWERED by Horowitz are those that can be listed from what I have added to this thread so DON'T be thinking you can turn this in the OPPOSITE direction towards me or anyone else...the issue and the subject at hand here is DR LEONARD HOROWITZ who has to PROVIDE TRUE ANSWERS to the serious issues raised by MANY PEOPLE and many of those are KNOWLEDGEABLE.....

3.) Tell me how much Dr. Horowitz paid or did not pay Joseph Puleo?

I don't know - perhaps True Ott has some info on that but SURELY Dr Puleo's WIFE would know and now that you bring this up - I'll personally request True Ott get this info from Dr Puleo's wife.....and I know from a source that SHE sure as hell does NOT trust Horowitz in the least to be HONEST

4.) Do you know that Joseph Puleo insisted on being referred to as "Joseph Barber" in the book?

then WHY does Dr Joseph Puleo have his REAL NAME on the cover of the book....and WHY if Dr Puleo is THE author does Horowitz have the TOP billing when all Horowitz did was ASSIST on this book ?

http://solfasound.com/basics.htm

Dr. Puleo's Discoveries of Secret Bible Codes creates life threatening circumstances!

The Secret Solfeggio Frequencies:
Sound Vibration Rates for Creation and Destruction

"Healing Codes for the Biological Apocalypse"
by Dr Joseph Puleo assisted by Dr Leonard Horowitz

5.) Where is Dr. Horowitz's yacht? How big is it? Do you have a photo of it?

it's the FIRST I've heard of Horowitz having a yacht but I would NOT doubt a bit since he lived in Hawaii so UF he has one - it's THERE...now I have a contact in Hawaii who is a former FBI and is now a worldwide known private investigator so I'll contact Frederick to get proof and photos...how's THAT ?

6.) Do you have a photo of yourself?,

NOT FOR YOU...

7.) Do you have Ernie Vega's contact info?

I don't know the guy - never heard of him...you want to contact the guy - YOU find him

Tim White,Viet Nam Vet(USAF)
Concerned Citizen,Researcher,Investigator,Whistleblower

craig-oxley - August 6, 2010 10:44 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

From: Sherri Kane <sherrikane@gmail.com>
Subject: Re: FW: Dr Leonard "CIA/MALTESE KNIGHT" Horowitz//Horowitz seen coming out of the Masonic lodge in Sand Point,Idaho
To: "Tim White" <phantom421366@yahoo.com>
Cc: "True OTT" <atrueott@msn.com>, craig2tuff@yahoo.com, "Eric Jon Phelps" <eric@vaticanassassins.org>, "Greg Szymanski" <gregbeacon@gmail.com>, "Don Nicoloff" <donnicoloff@mac.com>, "Anthony Hilder" <freeworldalliance@yahoo.com>, "Arthur Evangelista" <dre@wispwest.net>, "J Strider" <striderus1776@hotmail.com>, "Joe McNeil" <joe@themicroeffect.com>, "Michael Rivero" <wrh@whatreallyhappened.com>, "Michelle Ray" <mountainfreedom@q.com>, "Peter Tscherneff" <leoroarbig@yahoo.com>, "Robert Hender Jr" <RJ@morningliberty.com>, robert.morningstar@gmail.com, "Todd Brendan Fahey" <friendofliberty@yahoo.com>, "William J Wagener" <producer@onsecondthought.tv>, "george mooreAmy Worthington" <gzz@icehouse.net>, "Jeff Rense" <sightings@mindspring.com>
Received: Friday, August 6, 2010, 1:47 PM

Tim White:

Based on the fact that you are making allegations and have nothing to back it up, you are a complete psychopath.
It appears as though you are a gross anti-semite the way you are attacking Horowitz, is that right?

Dr. True Ott:

Is Tim White the kind of person that you consider worthy of correspondence and intelligence, that you felt the need to bring him into our conversations by cc'ing him? Please review his answers to my questions, he makes himself out to be a complete buffoon..!
Is this your friend? To what extent are you associated with this man? I would like to know why he was brought into our original conversation. Please respond back in a timely fashion. I would like to finalize my report.

Thanks,
S

AH HA !...well WELL ! ...LOOK at WHO just identified HERSELF as an AGENT of the ADL(a KNOWN FRONT for MI6 and the FBI) when she CAN'T RESPOND TO MY FACTS - or the FACTS as presented by OTHERS...she pulls OUT OF HER ASS the "anti-semite" card just like a RACIST does....tell ya what NUTJOB Sherri Kane...did I EVER ONCE say ANYTHING at all about JEWS ?...NOT ONCE and I am NOT an "anti-semite" since JEWS are NOT SEMITES and I once had TWO Jewish girlfriends !...I NEVER bring this up in ANYTHING I POST OR WRITE ABOUT and since YOU CAN'T RESPOND TO MY CHARGES OR THOSE CHARGES OF ANYONE ELSE - YOU SLIME THE ISSUES THAT YOU CAN'T OR HOROWITZ CAN'T OR WON'T BY THE WELL OVER-WORN AND PATHETIC RUBRIC OF CALLING ME WHAT I'M NOT...are YOU an ASHKENAZI BY CHANCE ?...I sure THINK I need to have some friends of mine in Los Angeles look into just WHO YOU ARE and one of them is former FBI and the other one is a documentary film-maker for the past 40 plus years....I happen to be born and raised in THE BRASS CITY so you can accurately say that I've got BRASS BALLS Sweetie so just KEEP UP WITH YOUR SLIMY IDIOCY because it sure illustrates just what KIND OF A PHONEY YOU ARE....BTW-SKANK...I've been connecting dots BEFORE you were even conceived()....

with ZERO regards,

Tim White,Viet Nam Vet(USAF)
Concerned Citizen,Researcher,Investigator,Whistleblower

craig-oxley - August 14, 2010 05:45 PM (GMT)

Josh Reeves Exposes Dr. Len Horowitz's

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=a6GbwrUEY8M

[dohtml]<object width="640" height="385"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/a6GbwrUEY8M&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xd0d0d0&hl=en_US&feature=player_embedded&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/a6GbwrUEY8M&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xd0d0d0&hl=en_US&feature=player_embedded&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="385"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

purplehaze - August 14, 2010 09:05 PM (GMT)

So all the stuff about solfeggio frequencies like the 528 hz are actually sounds of the devil and not healing?

craig-oxley - August 15, 2010 01:13 PM (GMT)

I will be writing something up soon on this whole Leonard Horowitz incident recently. Reeves is not as all seeing as he would like to think, just adding the numbers up to get a six of Saturn means diddly squat for Godsake. Also his knowledge on the Knights of Malta is lacking a crucial point which I'll explain soon. So if I found a frequency that healed diabetes in hours and it was say 456Hz would this be demonised so that diabetics would stay away from the frequency as its supposedly of Lucifer? I'm not saying that this 528Hz frequency does what is claimed as I have no idea at all, I've seen no tests or evidence to completely agree with Len or any others on the subject.

craig-oxley - August 20, 2010 11:54 AM (GMT)

Apparently, Horowitz is being falsely accused of playing a role in murdering Story. And otheres are out to get him. The network of conspirators who are attacking people who are trying to excuse Horowitz from this false libel include Tim White and Eric Jon Phelps. WTF? Just read the words for yourself, Craig. I think my interpretation is correct.

QUOTE

Investigative journalist, Sherri Kane, who wrote for Fox News in Los Angeles, is also being vigorously libeled and physically threatened after reporting on Dr. Horowitz's framers in Harle's murder case. Kane is receiving threats from two persons identified among this network of disinformants--Timothy Patrick White, and a man named "Dr. True Ott" (alias "Lab Virus")--that she is posting on her Latest Threats page in her blog.

Timothy White similarly harassed ex-CIA agent Barbara Hartwell, who reported,
"White made a deal with criminal government operatives and law enforcement personnel, for a get-out-of-jail-free card in 2002. . . . [He] seeks out any and every high profile whistleblower, patriot or investigator he hears about, reads about, or otherwise learns about."

Since his release from prison, White has been involved in covert operations ranging from severe harassment, and issuing false murder charges, to discrediting whistle-blowers, Hartwell reports.

Harle reported death threats from the Bush-Cheney/Rockefeller-directed CIA, days before his murder. Horowitz says he is "very clear" his libelers, linked through White to the CIA, have set him up to be killed as well.

White was made a suspect by Ott in e-mails referencing Greg Szymanski (alias Eric Samuelson) as the source of Horowitz's libel. Ott and Szymanski co-promote their "Bible Believer" theology on radio, and extensively in writings. Their subjects feature satanism in politics and the church, and they herald Eric John Phelps's idea that Jews, Roman Catholics, and Jesuits are behind most problems in the world. Their international group of Bible Believers say they are persecuted as heretics, since, in Phelps's words, he defends "the ability of Whites to build superior cultures, pagan or Bible-believing, over the other races," in which he includes Jews.

This highly-trained gang of professional agent provocateurs are now implicated in Harle's and Harkins's murders by way of the CIA's link to White, and a young man's murder linked to Bible Believers in BC, Canada. Hartwell published a lengthy report on White, whose history matches perfectly with the persecution Horowitz and Kane are getting by these racist agents.

Szymanski and Ott generated the discrediting libel against Horowitz, claimed he was a "Knights of Malta" member, with Szymanski generating a false list of knights. Their extensive network of radical Bible Believers, based at Cloverdale Bibleway, in Surrey, BC, Canada, widely distributed Szymanski's list and disinformation, setting Horowitz up to be assassinated by religious fanatics.

The forged "Knights of Malta" list was used by journalist Benjamin Fulford, a Canadian working in Japan, linked to the "'Black Dragon Society,' which, folks, in case you didn't know, are JAPANESE ASSASSINS," Harle protested after receiving Fulford's death threat.

Fulford, previously with Forbes magazine, is widely known on the Internet for being personal friends with David Rockefeller. It is common knowledge that the Rockefeller family built the United Nations in New York City. David Rockefeller exercises extensive influence over the WHO and pharmaceutical industry--now proven to have defrauded the public to sell billions of dollars in risky, possibly deadly, H1N1 vaccines.

End

http://www.healthyworldmessage.com/archive...iew=html&id=115

Now it's to the point where Horowitz is defending himself on his website and claiming that Fulford is in on Story's murder.
http://www.davidicke.com/forum/showthread.php?t=129510

Story did claim that Fulford made a subtle threat to his life once though. Of course Fulford denied it. You'll see it on page three, post number 24. I recalled this, and that is why I felt uneasy about Fulford talking about Story in such a positive way after Story attacked him in October 2009.

This is all very bizarre. I'll have to reexamine the backgrounds of Fulford, Horowitz and Bergermesiter, who you once said you didn't trust, but now seems to be getting attacked in Austria on trumped up charges. Although that could be a psyop as well if the charges will be easily beaten as Jane claims they will be. You know, set her up to let her win and make her look good.

I'll probably get back to you in a few days with my analysis after I mull over it all. The reason I'm telling you about it via PM and not posting it on this site, is because if I figure out something about this and it all say turns out to be bunkum, it may come back and bite this board, and me, in the ass for falling for this crap, if any of it is, indeed crap.

Anonymous User
Aug 16 2010
[dohtml]<hr>[/dohtml]
The idea that Fulford was in on Story's murder just because Fulford made a vieled threat to Story once is probable, but it is highly unlikely. Leo Horowitz is spitting bullshit there. Horowitz and Fulford are two peas in the same pod. When they both accuse each other of being in on Story's death, they are doing a service for those who hated Story. In other words, it's just a flipping stage show. They are trying to take the heat away from what Story wrote on the 10th about the real culprits behind his murder. Yea, Fulford has preserved Story's last entry, but so have other sources that have followed Story's work like rumormillnews. However, the accusation that Fulford was mixing in things with Story's last report could very well be true. Story did once claim that a typical intelligence trick is to mix things in with reports of his that he never wrote. So I would not be surprised if Fulford took that route. It would be the perfect thing to do for an agent like him. Preserve Story's last great work and look like a good guy. You give with one hand, but then you take with the other when you inject bullshit into it that Story never wrote.

Now as for that one report who said that people are claiming Horowitz was not involved because Horowitz and that one lady he is partnered with (whom you caught making gestures with their hands and made a photo of it and placed it atop your site a few days ago recently) are supposedly getting too close to the truth about certain things, such as this supposed holy, healing frequency nonsense, could be a genuine mistake. But when they tie in Timothy White and say he is working to attack Horowitz, it makes me think that this one site is an intelligence operation. Look at how they also throw in Eric Jon Phelps as part of the mixture and attack his religion. PROTESTANTISM. This can't be a coindicence in my view. When they attack Tim White, they mention how he 'attacked' Barbara Hartwell, when White in fact exposed her. You do recall don't you Craig that Hartwell attacked you personally, right? And she also attacked Fritz Springmeier, I recall that. In fact I mentioned it on this board. I think I also caught her defending Michael Aquino. So we have a site that is making Horowitz and Hartwell out to be the good guys and out to make Phelps (and I guess White) look bad. That's why I think that's an intelligence operation.

So what is my basic summary after mulling over these issues for a few days?

1. Horowitz and Fulford are working together to confuse people about Story's death by slinging accusations back and forth.

2. Phelps and White are coming under attack because THEY BOTH EXPOSED HOROWITZ. I notice the idiots who came to Horowitz's defense (on Icke's board I believe) to say, "Oh the knights of malta isn't the same as the knights of st john of jerusalem which Horowitz is a member of." At least that's what I think they are saying. If they are, that is wrong. Horowitz and sources close to him admit that he was made a member of the Knights Hospitallar, WHICH IS THE MALTESE KNIGHTS' OLDER NAME. So anyone who says that Horowitz is a member of the knights of st john of jerusalem is probably an agent deliberately mixing things up. Why? To make Horowitz look good after more are picking up on his maltese connections.

As you said in your writeup regarding your LA WeareChange video confronting the black pope, Alex Jones and the CIA are in panic mode as your work spreads.

If you still have the first PM I sent you, could you post it along with this since I can't quite remember what I wrote in it? If you don't have it, then I'll just try and summarize the brief issues once again in a post.

Thanks for reading.
Anonymous User
Aug 18 2010

craig-oxley - August 20, 2010 06:28 PM (GMT)

Beware of attempts to start infighting amongst truth seekers who share the common goal of the greatest good for the greatest number

08/19/2010
http://benjaminfulford.typepad.com/benjaminfulford/

Recently, there has been a concerted, almost hysterical effort to generate serious infighting amongst truth seekers. It is their time-tested strategy of divide and conquer. The best way to deflect these high level disinformation attacks is to ignore them and concentrate on shared goals.

However, in the name of the public interest I feel the need to address certain attacks.
First of all, my publishing of a list of the names of the Knights of Malta has triggered an extreme, multi-pronged attack. The list I published is not an official list. I had an official list sent to me but it was deleted from my computer and from my hotmail account and from the account of the person who sent it to me. As a result, I resorted to the list that came up when I searched the Knights of Malta on Google.

This list contained the name of Leonard Horowitz, who did humanity a great service by pioneering research on the question of whether or not AIDS was man-made. His book inspired me to do my own research and I found, along with Jane Burgermeister and other brave researchers that pharmaceutical companies and certain sectors of the military-industrial complex were indeed manufacturing diseases. Their purpose seems to be to reduce the worlds population and maximize profits. In any case, I do not want to be associated with any attacks on Dr. Horowitz or other truth seekers. We would like here to formally ask the Knights of Malta to make their official membership list available to the general public.

For now, the most reliable indicator of who is behind our current problems is the list of people who are members of all three of the following organizations: the Bilderbergers, the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilateral Commission. However, having personally met several members of these organizations, I can promise many of them seemed to have joined with good intentions and have now become disillusioned. We strongly encourage whistleblowers from these organizations to come forward.

We are also aware that many of the top power brokers have been wise enough to keep their names entirely secret from the public.

Many attacks against me seem to come from people associated with an organization known as the OITC. I will no longer dignify them with a response. Criminal complaints against them have been filed in 5 countries and Interpol is on the case. Enough said.

Remember, we all want to end poverty, end war, stop environmental destruction and set humanity on a new path of exponential growth in harmony with nature. We have the technical capability to do this if we decide to.

craig-oxley - August 20, 2010 06:32 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Aug 20 2010, 06:28 PM)

Beware of attempts to start infighting amongst truth seekers who share the common goal of the greatest good for the greatest number

08/19/2010
http://benjaminfulford.typepad.com/benjaminfulford/

Recently, there has been a concerted, almost hysterical effort to generate serious infighting amongst truth seekers. It is their time-tested strategy of divide and conquer. The best way to deflect these high level disinformation attacks is to ignore them and concentrate on shared goals.

However, in the name of the public interest I feel the need to address certain attacks.
First of all, my publishing of a list of the names of the Knights of Malta has triggered an extreme, multi-pronged attack. The list I published is not an official list. I had an official list sent to me but it was deleted from my computer and from my hotmail account and from the account of the person who sent it to me. As a result, I resorted to the list that came up when I searched the Knights of Malta on Google.

This list contained the name of Leonard Horowitz, who did humanity a great service by pioneering research on the question of whether or not AIDS was man-made. His book inspired me to do my own research and I found, along with Jane Burgermeister and other brave researchers that pharmaceutical companies and certain sectors of the military-industrial complex were indeed manufacturing diseases. Their purpose seems to be to reduce the worlds population and maximize profits. In any case, I do not want to be associated with any attacks on Dr. Horowitz or other truth seekers. We would like here to formally ask the Knights of Malta to make their official membership list available to the general public.

> For now, the most reliable indicator of who is behind our current problems is the list of people who are members of all three of the following organizations: the Bilderbergers, the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilateral Commission. However, having personally met several members of these organizations, I can promise many of them seemed to have joined with good intentions and have now become disillusioned. We strongly encourage whistleblowers from these organizations to come forward.
>
> We are also aware that many of the top power brokers have been wise enough to keep their names entirely secret from the public.
>
> Many attacks against me seem to come from people associated with an organization known as the OITC. I will no longer dignify them with a response. Criminal complaints against them have been filed in 5 countries and Interpol is on the case. Enough said.
>
> Remember, we all want to end poverty, end war, stop environmental destruction and set humanity on a new path of exponential growth in harmony with nature. We have the technical capability to do this if we decide to.

Benjamin Fulford believes the Bilderberg, CFR and TRL run the World? You just conveniently forget the Royal Institute of International Affairs and so forth like that? The only people of any power in Bilderberg are the Royals such as Dame of Malta, Queen Beatrix and in truth her power is little compared to the Papal Nobility, Vatican and families such as the Pallavicini. Juan Carlos is the most powerful Royal of all. My God even Elizabeth May the treasonous false Queen doesn't even attend this pion group. The Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre in command of the Knights of Malta control and created bloody Bilderberg. We're not playing in Alex Jones's level of the conspiracy we're here to finger the Romans. When one understands the pharma illusions you can throw out any talk of a hiv as I've highlighted, its a complete joke. Also it is very true that you cannot trust anyone who's able to get an interview with David Rockefeller. Horowitz is absolutely correct that this is nearby impossible to do unless you're well connected and controlled to give out what they want out.

AntiSionist - August 20, 2010 07:15 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE
>
> For now, the most reliable indicator of who is behind our current problems is the list of people who are members of all three of the following organizations: the Bilderbergers, the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilateral Commission.

What the hell is this? The 1990's? Or even worse Alex Jones still acting like it's the 1990's? Not a word about the Royal Institute of International Affairs, like you say, Craig. Horowitz is right about Fulford being connected. But then sometimes it takes one to know one doesn't it? Unless your keen like the anti jesuit crowd here who aren't agents and know the real deal. Then you can pick out the agents easily. It's all about what you figure out, and then what you see that they leave out.

You know what's very telling? That Horowitz is playing the wounded sheep and all he can do is attack another agent like Benjamin Fulford. Will Horowitz attack Lee Rogers' exposures of him? NO! Will Alex Jones dignify Lee Rogers articles about Jones covering for the Maltese mafia and the CNP? NO! Again, what they leave out is very telling.

As for Fulford claiming the knights of malta need to make their list public, he is doing exactly what his masters want. He is saying, "There may not be a conspiracy with the maltese and there may be, but we can't know until we have a list." So if they are the bad guys, why the hell would they do what Fulford, or anyone asks, in regards to coming out in the open if the best way for them to operate is in the dark? Fulford is again deliberately confusing the issues here. We know exactly who many maltese knights are. We have done our work and our research and Fulford knows it. He just can't bring himself to mention us or even bother to point fingers at people he must know damn well are maltese knights. He can't even mention John Coleman who did in fact make some jesuit and maltese connections before in his work. Hell, even Estulin made a couple in his book as I showed in the anti Alex Jones topic.

What's funny is now that Castro is attacking Bilderberg and may be giving Estulin more press. Will Castro allow Estulin to talk about those maltese and jesuit connections to Rettinger that Estulin made? Or how about Estulin's attack on Pat Buchanan as a knight of malta? No, because Castro is a jesuit puppet. I really believe Estulin has been under pressure not to talk about those parts of his book. I just hope so many truthers aren't so lazy and stupid like those WeAreChange idiots and actually read the entire book and pick up on those maltese connections.

Hell, why hasn't even Benjaim Fulford mentioned this part of Estulin's book if he's such a big damn fan of Estulin? Why do I believe Fulford would be aware of Estulin? Estulin has been on television and radio. Anyone who wants to learn about Bilderberg grabs his book at least ninety percent of the time. Are we seriously to believe that Alex Jones AND Benjamin Fulford missed these parts of Estulin's book? BULLSHIT!

How would he justify demanding a list to prove there is a maltese aspect to the conspiracy? Here is how he would do it. "Well we have the names of the members of the CFR, TC, and Bilderberg. We need the same for the maltese knights." Guess what, the lists are out there if you give enough of a crap to look. Plus Estuin has given you a nice start. Not only that but Horowitz ADMITTED he was a knight of malta, or hospitallar, which is the same group with a different name. WHY IS FULFORD THEREFORE PRETENDING THERE IS NO WAY TO FIND OUT WHO IS A MALTESE KNIGHT? Because his role as the agent that he is, is to cover for Rome. Like so many other so called truthers out there. When you see more and more so called truthers refusing to talk ABOUT THE SAME THING, you can pretty much figure out who runs the show and who owns all these pathetic, lying sacks of shit.

Edit:
Horowtiz and Fulford are oppo-sames. They know their masters are making them fight like this all for a creative stage show. Fulford forged Story's last report with a list of the knights of malta in it, only to have the list questioned. SO THAT PEOPLE WON'T LOOK INTO THE KNIGHTS OF MALTA. In other words, Fulford's actions HELP Horowitz. Why? Because Horowitz is a knight of malta. Remember that people are already trying to say that Horowitz is not a knight of malta, but rather a part of the knights hospitallar. BUT THAT'S THE SAME DAMN ORGANIZATION, JUST WITH A DIFFERENT NAME. Do you get how deep and complex the dialectic is now?

P.S.
Here is a pdf of Story's last report. NOWHERE is there that list of maltese knights that Fulford clearly injected into Story's last report. I recall reading Story's last report ON HIS SITE before it was pulled AND I WOULD HAVE MADE NOISE IF HE STARTED HITTING ROME HARDER than he already had in the past, which was not hard enough.

AntiSionist - October 5, 2010 09:03 PM (GMT)

Leonoard Horowitz responds to insinuations and accusations of his knighthood with the knights hospitallars - which is supposed to be connected to the Maltese Knights. Tsarion for some reason takes Horowitz to task. Guess Tsarion's gotta look good. We know the bullshit attacks he launched against Chris White due to his huge inflated ego. In part 4, Tsarion says even though it's a good question to bring up to Horowitz, he doesn't respect invasions into people's personal lives. He argues out of both sides of his mouth. You see this when you watch the last part. He himself almost engages in 'jesuitical argument' as he accused Horowitz of doing when Horowitz responded to what Doug Millar brought up about Horowitz's knighthood. :blink: - AntiSionist

From Tsarion's forum here.

QUOTE

Michael Tsarion and Doug Millar Confront Dr. Leonard Horowitz

Con Con Panel 1
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2k9NRYIZPto

Con Con Panel 2
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2OK_vMpU5GE

Con Con Panel 3
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kUx63oyD05w

Con Con Panel 4
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TdmpO3DFoaU

Con Con Panel 5
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Rf7bYGNszOc

Complete discussion here
http://www.youtube.com/user/UnslavedFilms

Note: Be aware that the life work of Doug Millar, in my opinion, and based on years of affiliation with him, far exceeds the influence of Dr. Horowitz. His arrogant and denigrating responses to Doug compelled me to make my own comments, because it is deeply disturbing to me that anyone can believe that preventing vaccinations ranks higher than saving children from global satanic pedophile networks.

craig-oxley - October 18, 2010 01:20 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

HOROWITZ RETURNS TO COAST TO COASTAM

Dear Healthy World Member,

DON'T MISS THIS RIVETING 3-HOUR SPECIAL FEATURING "WHY 'THEY' WANT TO 'SHUT HOROWITZ UP'!"

In 2009, after becoming the first doctor in the world to charge the World Health Organization with fraud in the Swine Flu "manufactured pandemic," Dr. Leonard Horowitz learned of an organized plan to assassinate him. He, along with investigative journalist, Sherri Kane, then exposed the agents and agencies responsible for the murder plot.

This historic show explains why Horowitz, and his natural healing recommendations, represent the greatest threat to established medicine, and its satanic directors, in HISTORY.

Brief Bio:

Dr. Leonard G. Horowitz is an internationally known authority in the overlapping fields of public health, behavioral science, emerging diseases, and natural healing. He began his career as an anatomy instructor and researcher on the faculties of Tufts and Harvard Universities, respectively; becoming a dentist, periodontal surgeon, behavioral scientist, award-winning film-maker and author of 16 books on the risks of medicine versus benefits of natural healing. (See "Career Highlights") below.

HOROWITZ & KANE TELL ILLUMINATI TO GO TO "LOVE528"

Backgound on the Show:

BigPharma's total takeover of what goes into your body-- a World Health Organization/Rockefeller/Rothschild enslavement-scam called CODEX ALIMENTARIUS--just outlawed "chelation" therapies and natural detoxifying nutrients, minerals, and herbal supplements. The criminally-controlled FDA ordered the takeover with support of the malfeasant Congress and Obama White House.

Much of the controversy about Dr. Horowitz stems from his freely distributing the answers to our world's worst problems, and exposing who the trouble-makers are. CIA/FBI Agent-provocateurs who work for the "bad-guys," keep people, especially activist leaders, herded and divided like sheep using lies spun to keep everone controlled. This divisive propaganda, plus suppressed TRUTH, more than anything, sustains profitable depopulation through poisonous drugs and deadly vaccinations. THE ENTIRE PHARMACEUTICAL PARADIGM IS A CRIMINAL FRAUD, ESPECIALLY WHEN THE NATURAL CURES AND ANSWERS ARE BEING SUPPRESSED AND OUTLAWED.

The 528LOVERevolution:

In recent months, Dr. Horowitz launched i528Tunes--a virtual music industry takeover in the Spirit of Aloha.

Why?

When dogs gets sick they eat grass. What's in it that heals them?

Answer: Tthe color greenish-yellow, vibrating chlorophyll, energized by the sun light and sound of 528Hz, dictates the structure and resonance of the chlorophyll molecule AND the heart of the universe.

This cures people as well as dogs.

In other words, Dr. Horowitz is advancing the knowledge to free humanity using the spiritual resonance of nature, much like Nikola Tesla advanced free energy machines, buried by the Illuminati and Church of Satan/Set devil-doers.

This Coast-to-Coast Special Tells It ALL. . . .

So it continues that Dr Leonard Horowitz carries on with his rather pathetic attack towards people who've been upset about his membership in a certain order. Instead of dealing with the subject and letting go whether these men are wrong or not, he does the opposite and becomes very devious indeed. We see him accuse these people of being in CIA death squads and strange brother orders which don't exist. Its really shocked me to see how bad an investigative researcher Len really is after at one time admiring the man. This devious nonsense he's putting out at the moment seems just like a large scale counter attack. Theres a difference between someone attacking someone for being in an order and someone spreading dangerous lies that people are killers like some made up horror movie from the 80s. Len would have you believe his enemies are from the movie Saw if he could get away with it.

I was once a victim of his devious attack or should I say this ex Fox News (British SiS spynest) employee Kane. I believe she has much power over his mind as most feminines do with masculines, its a weakness of our species and often exploited by the Intelligence network unfortunately. I really do feel that rather than attacking who he is, he should serious watch this Kane feminine. You'd be surprised how many strong masculines have been taken and bought down by a devious feminine. Regardless if she's like this or not his information is highly weak and to be quite frank, bunkum. Maybe its just a double headed Janus agenda of attacking and drumming up interest.

I will tell you now that theres many a conspiracy researcher feeling the heat of this economic depression we're currently in. Only today I've had a highly respected researcher who is what he says he is on the tin get in touch with me about his personal economic situation. Researchers are wondering if they will be able to go subscription only and keep what they've got or will it make them go down worse. So as we enter these challenging times of depression is this the reason for Horowitz's attacks like this? He may have a large bank account already but people who've had always want more and it just ain't happening these days. If people start to charge for their information they need to dramatically up their game and give plenty of new information otherwise no one will bother if its the same old information as in the past regardless how important it is or was back then.

Now for Len to attack my friend Eric Phelps like he has and throw so much blatant lies about him well its not on. I'm surprised Eric hasn't had Len in court for his bad mouthing but I guess Eric isn't like Len and doesn't want to involve the system which he detests. In other words he's not an hypocrite like these Horowitz's, Jones and Icke's who jump to the system as soon as they can screaming copyrights, liables and so forth. So now we have Len Horowitz pushing his black balling lies on the largest conspiracy show in the World called Coast to Coast (Intelligence asset). All I'll say to Len is I hope you look back in the future and see what a fool you've been and was it worth it? I'm pretty sure Kane won't be in the picture at that time. Honestly even though Horowitz has annoyed the hell out of me I still hope he keeps an eye on this Kane.

map - October 18, 2010 08:51 PM (GMT)

^^ well said Brother Craig ^^

soulinspiration - October 18, 2010 11:27 PM (GMT)

Craig: What does the following mean:

> QUOTE
>
> Researchers are wondering if they will be able to go subscription only and keep what they've got or will it make them go down worse.

Didn't get that bit.

I have just tried to go on to Greg Szymanski's Arctic Beacon website just now [http://arcticbeacon.com/] to try to find the URL for the interview that he did with Leo Zagami, where Leo confirmed that the "self-styled" Knights of Malta/Knights Hospitaller orders, such as the one that Len H. belongs to are all still part of the Roman octopus. However, the following message came up:

> QUOTE
>
> To view this page, you must log into area "greg" on arcticbeacon.com:80. Your password will be sent unencrypted.
>
> Name:
> Password:
>
> Remember this password in my keychain

As for Horowitz he is a CIA asset through & through - & IMHO seems like one of the most mind controlled actors about on the "Conspiracy circuit". A lamentable character indeed. It will be interesting to see who else he "false flag" attacks on the woeful CIA radio station Coast to Coast.

If anyone has access to this pathetic station & can record the show, then please post on a file host & make available via a link at this thread.

I love how they refuse to identify the true creators of Codex Alimentarius, the Roths' & Rockers' masters in Rome in the following blurb:

> QUOTE
>
> World Health Organization/Rockefeller/Rothschild enslavement-scam called CODEX ALIMENTARIUS

The Rome-based FAO created Codex Alimentarius & oversees the Codex Alimentarius Commission:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Codex_Alimentarius

> QUOTE
>
> Its texts are developed and maintained by the Codex Alimentarius Commission, a body that was established in 1963 by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) and the World Health Organization (WHO).

http://www.codexalimentarius.net/web/faq_gen.jsp

> QUOTE

G3: Who established Codex?

The FAO Conference, and the World Health Assembly, jointly decided in establish Codex in 1961 and in 1963 respectively. The need for harmonised food standards to better protect consumers and remove unnecessary trade barriers was however being felt in the international community since long before. The establishment of Codex evolved from earlier attempts to develop Codex Alimentarius Europaeus. In Austria, the national food standards are still called Codex Alimentarius Austriacus.

G4: Is it true that the Executive Committee of the Codex Alimentarius Commission meets in secret?

The Executive Committee advises the Commission on many questions and serves as a "management board", which would make it impractical to have it attended by 600 delegates (as in the Commission). Instead each region of the world is represented in the Executive Committee through members that have been elected into this position by the membership as well as regional coordinators and the bureau of the Commission. The proceedings and audio-recordings of the meetings of the Executive Committee are later made public.

G5: Who makes decisions in Codex? Does industry have a strong say?

A wide range of international non-governmental organizations, representing consumers, universities and scientists, industry etc, can take part in Codex work and voice their views. Over 160 international non-governmental organizations representing consumers or industry can participate as observers, together with over 60 United Nations organizations and other intergovernmental organizations. They contribute expert views and technical knowledge in their specialised fields. However, final decisions are taken by members' delegations. Delegations are nominated by higher authorities of governments. The Codex Alimentarius Commission is an intergovernmental body operating within the United Nations.

G6: Who represents Codex?

The Codex Alimentarius Commission elects its Chairperson from among national delegates at its meetings in July (at present annually), who will serve until the next meeting. The Codex Secretariat is run by staff designated by FAO and WHO.

...

G9: Is Codex paid by industry?

Codex is financed by all member governments of FAO and WHO. Their contribution is either channelled through their assessed contribution to FAO and to WHO, or through in-kind contribution by hosting a Codex meeting. Several donor governments have been contributing to the Codex Trust Fund, which assists travels of delegates from developing countries in need to attend Codex meetings.

Food and Agricultural Organization HQ's address:

http://www.fao.org/about/en/

QUOTE

Viale delle Terme di Caracalla
00153 Rome, Italy

Rome is also the home of the World Food Programme. WFO HQ's address:

http://www.wfp.org/contact

QUOTE

Via C.G.Viola 68
Parco dei Medici
00148 - Rome - Italy

Where was the infamous 28th Session of the Codex Alimentarius Commission held? Rome!

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Codex_Alimentarius#Controversy

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Codex_Alimentarius#References

QUOTE

It is reported that in 1996 the German delegation put forward a proposal that no herb, vitamin or mineral should be sold for preventive or therapeutic reasons, and that supplements should be reclassified as drugs. The proposal was agreed, but protests halted its implementation. The 28th Session of the Codex Alimentarius Commission was subsequently held July 4 - July 9, 2005. Among the many issues discussed were the "Guidelines for Vitamin and Mineral Food Supplements", which were adopted during the meeting as new global safety guidelines. This text has been the subject of considerable controversy, in part because many member countries may choose to regulate dietary supplements as therapeutic goods or pharmaceuticals or by some other category. The text does not seek to ban supplements, but subjects them to labeling and packaging requirements, sets criteria for the setting of maximum and minimum dosage levels, and requires that safety and efficacy are considered when determining ingredient sources. The United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and World Health Organization (WHO) have stated that the guidelines are "to stop consumers overdosing on vitamin and mineral food supplements."

...

^ Codex Alimentarius Commission 28th Session, FAO Headquarters, Rome, Italy, 4-9 July, 2005. Official report.

As Vivian Vivaldi elaborated:

QUOTE

Of all of you, Oxley has it on the money about food and its importance. Rome has ALWAYS controlled the World food Supply. You people will have to re-hit the history books. This is not disinfo from Zagami. Look at the facts:

Nobility and Feuds were all about farming and storing grains. So in order to control the people, one had to control the food. Even today, my family runs over 90 farms world-wide. Why is that? Because we know we won't be going out of business in any time soon. The body needs constant nutrients in order to sustain itself. In technical terms, anyone who owns a farm is considered a nobleman, and yes even the so-called 'rednecks' of the American south who own farms. NEVER sell your farmland!!!!!!!!

Look at Zagami's homes in Italy and outside Rome, all are farms with mills, wheat, grain, olives, and grapes. Zagami grows and mills his own crops. His mother also does.

SURPRISE SURPRISE!!!! : Look at what part Rome plays for the UNITED NATIONS: The same role it has played for the last 2000 years! FOOD!!!!

FAO and WFO both are in Rome!!!

Craig, you need to add those logos to your forum!

The Food and Agriculture Organization and the World Food Program! I worked for both of them at one time. The directors are all Jesuits!

Food needs to be exposed, and I haven't heard any of the Codex Alimentarius Conspiracy theorists discuss the Vatican's role. These idiots are fighting their own governments when to answer is in Italy, yet they are careful not to bring that up. Rima E. Laibow and Major Albert Stubblebine III are Jesuit agents period!

All roads lead to Rome, because that's where the food is. All international laws concerning food and agriculture are written in Rome. At the Circus Maximus to be exact.and nobody has a clue that rome controls the food. The SMOM headquaters is a 5 minutes walk from the FAO compound up the Aventino hill.

craig-oxley - October 19, 2010 01:10 AM (GMT)

Basically some researchers are having trouble living off their work nowadays. The conspiracy arena is a different place where information is everywhere and no longer in the hands of just the few. These conspiracy researchers are realizing now that their going to be forced to work. Well collect government credits in the Post Industrial Zero Growth Society like the rest of us shortly.

I don't know if Greg is going subscription only too but all this does is suppress information getting out. Okay you can pay to get the information but you then cannot spread the information without offending the source who wants his subscription money. Its a no win situation if you ask me. Count Vittorio Vivaldi III was at one time keep trying to get me to go subscription. I would not do it as I know its suppressive and believed his motives was to limit our information getting to the mass.

I know Leo Zagami spoke of Horowitz's Order being the Knights of Malta but as we both know unless it falls under The Alliance of the Orders of St. John of Jerusalem then it is a false Order claiming to be something in truth it is not and theres many pretenders out there. So once its deduced if his Order is accepted by the Alliance or not then he would be guilty or not of being a true Knight of the Maltese Cross. If he's not part of the enemy Orders then he deserves an apology but only after he apologises to Eric Phelps for the real devious tactics he's pulled recently on this man. This is where Josh Reeves and others are lacking knowledge on the Maltese as they do not understand The Alliance of the Orders of St. John of Jerusalem as we both do.

http://www.allianceofstjohn.org/

Insurgent - October 20, 2010 05:56 PM (GMT)

I suggest somebody get us the recording of yesterdays Coast2CoastAM show, Horowitz was a guest. He went off on many people:

Greg Szymanski
Leo Zagami
Mel True Ott
Ben Fulford

It started off when he said that "Illuminati" tried to put a hit on him, then he went on to say that Ben Fulford accused him of murdering Chris Story, in an article that Fulford attached to Story's last article. In that article apparently Greg Szymanski along with Leo call Len, Knight of Malta.

Horowtiz went on to say that he is not a part of KoM, and that his order is actually being sued by SMOM.

As always, he put all blame on Rothschilds and Rockefellers, and talked about Protocols of Zion and that people should read them.

soulinspiration - October 21, 2010 12:27 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Oct 19 2010, 01:10 AM)
>
> Count Vittorio Vivaldi III was at one time keep trying to get me to go subscription. I would not do it as I know its suppressive and believed his motives was to limit our information getting to the mass.
>
> I know Leo Zagami spoke of Horowitz's Order being the Knights of Malta but as we both know unless it falls under The Alliance of the Orders of St. John of Jerusalem then it is a false Order claiming to be something in truth it is not and theres many pretenders out there. So once its deduced if his Order is accepted by the Alliance or not then he would be guilty or not of being a true Knight of the Maltese Cross. If he's not part of the enemy Orders then he deserves an apology but only after he apologises to Eric Phelps for the real devious tactics he's pulled recently on this man. This is where Josh Reeves and others are lacking knowledge on the Maltese as they do not understand The Alliance of the Orders of St. John of Jerusalem as we both do.
>
> http://www.allianceofstjohn.org/

The preeminent non-Alliance Knights Hospitallers/Knights of St John/Knights of Malta variants (including Len Horowitz's Sovereign Orthodox Knights Hospitaller of St. John of Jerusalem: http://www.drlenhorowitz.com/Press/press_r...hting_2006.html) are ultimately Jesuit fronts, yet more arms of the Roman octopus. Some may have legitimate claims to mutual origins with the SMOM in the original Knights Hospitallers & some may not have such legitimate claims.

The list of so-called "self-styled" Knights Hospitaller/Knights of St John/Knights of Malta is staggering:

http://www.christusrex.org/www1/gtl/smom/selfstyled.htm

Not only that, but some of these orders accuse others of being self-styled (the implication being that they "obviously" aren't:

http://www.orderstjohn.org/selfstyle/selfstyl.htm

These orders do serve one purpose at least: diverting attention away from the Alliance orders.

If we're going to be strictly accurate we should take care to refer to those British Rothschilds who have been knighted into the Order of St John as being Knights of St John, not Knights of Malta as such. Also, the likes of "Prince" Michael (Lafosse) "of Albany" & company should be stated to be members of a so-called "self-styled" order. Those red capes are a giveaway for a start!

Horowitz is a devious deceiver, an obvious CIA diversion agent & is deserving of no apologies from anyone.

Horowitz's fellow diversion agent (one of an army's worth) Brian Desborough (who's key diversion was the Reptilian Agenda that he used David Icke to promote) is a source of some info of a more accurate manner, in particularly concerning the Knights of Malta & St John & the ostensibly unconnected order that Dr Len belongs to:

> QUOTE

The last of the four [Hospitaller] branches is the Sovereign Order of Saint John of Jerusalem, popularly referred to in Illuminati circles as the Russian Order, which has ties to the Russian Orthodox Church and the Foreign Intelligence Service (the former KGB). The Russian Order is involved in the operation of a hospice in Lakewood, Colorado - the town where John Hinckley, Jr., received some of his mind control-programming prior to his failed attempt to assassinate Ronald Reagan."

I have included some contextual material leading up to Desborough's Hospitallers overview. He writes in his book "They Cast No Shadows" (2002):

QUOTE

"Armed with his recently-bestowed sweeping powers, Eichmann, newly ensconced in a former Rothschild palace in Vienna (the Rothschilds bear the official title of Guardians of the Vatican Treasury) ordered the mandatory expulsion of all Austrian Jews; within eighteen months, 150,000 Jews had been forced to emigrate. ... the British issued an edict designed to restrict the admission of Jews into Palestine, to a maximum of 75,000 over a five-year period. ..."

"Had it not been for Bolschwing's forced emigration program, so ably implemented by his protege Eichmann and the Illuminati controlled Zionists, the Illuminati planned scenario for W.W.III, which is intended to include a Middle East nuclear conflict, could not take place. In other words, we are obligated to the think the unthinkable: Adolf Hitler was a political patsy, elevated into a position of power by subversive Illuminati elements within Britain and Western Europe. These Illuminati elements not only initiated W.W.II, but deliberately prolonged it, not only for the purpose of terminating colonialism, in order to justify the establishment of the United Nations, but also for the creation of the nation state of Israel. The war also enabled the Illuminati to create a balance of power between communist states and the Western Powers."

"These diabolical subversive elements are not difficult to identify, for the unifying bond between them was the Illuminati sub-organization known as the Pan European Union (PEU) ... The PEU was founded in 1923, shortly after the publication of the book Paneuropa, by Count Richard Coudenhove Kalergi, which called for the establishment of a totalitarian world government, accompanied by national de-industrialization. After becoming acquainted with the book, Baron Louis Rothschild arranged for his banker friend Max Warburg, to provide the initial funding for the establishment of the PEU in 1923. Key members included Lord Robert Cecil (whose family had covertly directed the affairs of British Intelligence on behalf of the Jesuits, since the reign of Queen Elizabeth Ist), Winston Churchill, George Bernard Shaw, H.G. Wells and Hjalmar Schact, the latter becoming Hitler's Finance Minister.

"In his book, Khalergi advocated a zero industrial growth counterculture (which has been successfully implemented in America, thanks to subversive environmental agencies), a rejection of American culture and, in true fascist style: "... only securing the maximum standard of living for those most fit."

"Like flies around a dung hill, the worst elements of Europe's aristocracy became devotees of Kalergi's warped and arrogant totalitarian ideology. All that remained for the conspirators to do, in order to usher in a new dark era for the world, was to develop a suitable vehicle. That vehicle was the Nazi Party, and its chauffeur that master of oratory and demagoguery, Adolf Hitler.

"Pivotal to the success of the PEU's plan for the creation of the Nazi Party was the Thurn und Taxis dynasty, which originated in Bergamo, in Northern Italy. After emigrating to Belgium, the family established a courier service for the Venetian banking nobility in the 15th century. The family fortunes increased after the Holy Roman Emperor Maximilian 1st granted the family a charter to operate a postal service throughout western and central Europe. The postal service headquarters was located at Frankfurt - the same city where Meyer Rothschild acquired intimate knowledge concerning the financial status of the European nobility, and consequently to which families he could discreetly offer his financial services. Since that era, the House of Rothschild has maintained a close political alliance with the Thurn und Taxis dynasty, the latter being one of the wealthiest families globally, with vast real estate holdings throughout Europe and Central America.

"It was a Thurn und Taxis prince who was the driving force behind the creation of the Thule occult group, which was later to spawn the Nazi Party; many family members constituted the hierarchy of the very satanic Nazi S.S.. The Thurn und Taxis family seat at Regensburg Castle, in Bavaria, was the site during the Nazi era of hideous satanic blood rituals conducted by the S.S. hierarchy, which were hosted by the late Prince Karl-August Thurn und Taxis, and presided over by Heinrich Himmler.

"The PEU comprises two of the four branches of the Hospitaller Order, also known as the Knights of Malta, itself a major Illuminati sub-section. The first of these two branches is called the Sovereign Military Order of Malta (SMOM) whose emissaries have diplomatic immunity; it is affiliated with the Jesuit side of the Vatican, and has been the controlling arm of such notorious groups as the Propaganda II Lodge and the Red Brigade.

"Major oligarchic families whose family seats are in other Europe regions and are members of the SMOM, include the Thurn und Taxis clan and their intermarried relatives, the Braganza dynasty of Portugal and the Lobkowitz family of Bohemia. ... Presiding at a Benedictine seminary at Regensburg is Father Emmeram, a patron of the powerful leftist schismatic Jesuit cult run by Bishop Lefebvre. Father Emmeram is a prince of the Thurn und Taxis dynasty.

"The second branch of the hospitallers that was involved in the establishment of the Nazi Party, is known as the Most Venerable Order of the Hospital of Saint John of Jerusalem (MVO) and comprises influential aristocratic and oligarchic members from Britain, the British Commonwealth and America. Its members dominate the major banking houses of Britain, Canada and America. The MVO, heavily involved in laundering the profits derived from narco terrorism, also oversees the intelligence networks of the Johanniterorden, which are active in the Baltic region." (Pp.379-380)

"... The PEU deliberately prolonged W.W.II (for the purpose of population reduction, and also to insure that the masses would be so sick of war that they would readily accept the creation of the United Nations)..."(P. 380)

The other two branches of the Hospitallers are the Lutheran Church-affiliated Johanniterorden, which is primarily under the direction of the Swedish royal family, together with co-founder of the Bilderberg Society, Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands. The last of the four branches is the Sovereign Order of Saint John of Jerusalem, popularly referred to in Illuminati circles as the Russian Order, which has ties to the Russian Orthodox Church and the Foreign Intelligence Service (the former KGB). The Russian Order is involved in the operation of a hospice in Lakewood, Colorado - the town where John Hinckley, Jr., received some of his mind control-programming prior to his failed attempt to assassinate Ronald Reagan." (P.431)

soulinspiration - October 21, 2010 12:32 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (Insurgent @ Oct 20 2010, 05:56 PM)

I suggest somebody get us the recording of yesterdays Coast2CoastAM show, Horowitz was a guest. He went off on many people:

Greg Szymanski
Leo Zagami ...

+ 1.

Would be keen to hear this one if anyone can post it to a file host.

soulinspiration - October 21, 2010 12:46 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Oct 19 2010, 01:10 AM)

Basically some researchers are having trouble living off their work nowadays. The conspiracy arena is a different place where information is everywhere and no longer in the hands of just the few. These conspiracy researchers are realizing now that their going to be forced to work. Well collect government credits in the Post Industrial Zero Growth Society like the rest of us shortly.

...

Its a no win situation if you ask me. Count Vittorio Vivaldi III was at one time keep trying to get me to go subscription. I would not do it as I know its suppressive and believed his motives was to limit our information getting to the mass.

See the following quotes in the above excerpts from Brian Desborough's "They Cast No Shadows" (2002) which reference the "Post Industrial Zero Growth Society" that you refer to Craig:

> QUOTE
>
> The PEU was founded in 1923, shortly after the publication of the book Paneuropa, by Count Richard Coudenhove Kalergi, which called for the establishment of a totalitarian world government, accompanied by national de-industrialization. ... In his book, Khalergi advocated a zero industrial growth counterculture (which has been successfully implemented in America, thanks to subversive environmental agencies), a rejection of American culture and, in true fascist style: "... only securing the maximum standard of living for those most fit.

As for the subscription only approach, the last that I heard it wasn't working out as well as hoped for by Papal Knight of St Gregory Rupert Murdoch's London-based "Times" newspaper's online presence. If he can't make it a viable concern via subscription only, then one has to wonder at this approach's efficacy for drastically smaller concerns.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Who can you trust?

Title: Who can you trust?
Description: deception agents

purplehaze - August 4, 2010 11:22 PM (GMT)

I'm a newbie to the site and was shocked about some of the people that were on the deception agent list. Most of the people's websites that i go to to find out what is going on are all supposed agents.

any idea who is not and what news is true?

thanks

Keith - August 7, 2010 07:07 PM (GMT)

can't trust too many... what you really need to do with these cretins is separate the fact from the fraud through your own intuiton. some guys give 40 percent truth, some guys give 80 percent truth...go with the 80 guys and separate it

Alexandra - August 8, 2010 08:57 PM (GMT)

I think who you CAN trust is on the shorter list.

Watcher - August 19, 2010 09:32 PM (GMT)

The only one who you can trust is yourself. Period.

Maximiliano - August 20, 2010 12:50 AM (GMT)

Believe in God, Jehovah, the True God.
Becouse you can't even trust in yourself!

14april2000 - October 19, 2010 08:34 AM (GMT)

Original Message -----
From: xxxxxx
To: Eric Jon Phelps
Sent: Wednesday, June 03, 2009 2:56 AM
Subject: Question

Dear Eric,

What's your thoughts on Jerry E. Smith?

Jerry E. Smith WEATHER WARFARE (HAARP, Chemtrails & Weather Control)

Jerry E. Smith HAARP, Mind Control and the New World Order

http://www.jerryesmith.com/

Best regards
xxxxxxx

Dear xxxxxxx,

MUch of what he says is true.

Brother Eric

yes2truth - October 19, 2010 09:50 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (purplehaze @ Aug 4 2010, 11:22 PM)
>
> I'm a newbie to the site and was shocked about some of the people that were on the deception agent list. Most of the people's websites that i go to to find out what is going on are all supposed agents.
>
> any idea who is not and what news is true?
>
> thanks

The Lord said: "The Truth shall set you free" so if what they say does not set you free then they are lying.

Winston Shrout on his Commercial Redemption videos says: "Don't listen to what they they say; watch what they do."

The thing to remember is that all deceivers have SOME truth and use it effectively to deceive.

And old Yiddish saying states: "A half truth is a whole lie." - and they should know!! LOL

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Isn't almost every researcher etc an agent?

Title: Isn't almost every researcher etc an agent?
Description: to some degree at least

14april2000 - October 18, 2010 08:40 AM (GMT)

I think it`s pointless to post in this section, except if im the one that is been censored.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Love Police launch Bluefire Corp

Title: The Love Police launch Bluefire Corp

Revolution Harry - September 24, 2010 05:33 PM (GMT)

Take a look at the logo at the beginning of this video launching something called the Bluefire Corporation. Apparently Charlie Veitch (of the Love Police) wants to use 'the powers of the universe and the occult and the force of reason to hunt down and expose and shine a light on to people or institutions or companies that have annoyed you.'

The sun rays on the blog background look a bit dodgy as well.

seekerx - October 17, 2010 02:03 PM (GMT)

Heres a video of Charlie suggesting the use of drugs, i've had some experience with marijuana and I can safely say it pacifys your mind, alters the brain chemistry and makes you lazy.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=D2pOncNkAlU...er_profilepage#!

Note also his megaphone also carries the infowars.com sticker on his megaphone.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

24072

PLEASE MOVE OVER TO THE NEW SITE:

http://z15.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mind_III/

18 JULY 2011 .. GOLD HITS NEW HIGH OF $1604 AS SILVER RAISES TO $40.38 PER OUNCE. THE OVERT DEPRESSION IS ON, ALL READY FOR THE COMING COLLAPSE BETWEEN OCT 2011 - OCT 2012! THE LIKES OF WHICH HAS NEVER BEEN WITNESSED BEFORE WORLDWIDE, ARE YOU READY? MENTALLY? YOU SURE? GET HARDENED NOW AND PREPARE ASAP.....

THE UNHIVED MIND
This site is dedicated to the truthsayers assassinated such as William Cooper, Jim Arrabito, Alberto Rivera, Joe Vialls, Brian Downing Quig, Phil Schneider etc.

KING 'FARNESE' CARLOS
World War III
The Unhived Mind

THE KNIGHTS OF MALTA
DEUTSCHE VERTEIDIGUNGS DIENST
HOMELAND
DEPARTMENT
AGENCY
CARPATHIA HOSTINGS INC CYBERNAZIS

CARDINAL RATZINGER
And his Oslo Accords
UHM

C.I.A (D.V.D) PREPARE TO
TESLA ATTACK U.K
EXERCISE ORION
SEPTEMBER 2010
UHM

WTC nuclear demolition
Dimitri Khalezov

WATCH OUT MIDDLE EAST
KING JUAN CARLOS IS
IN RUSSIA 24/25 FEB

LATEST INFO

The Unhived Mind Ii->WORLD CONTROL->Precious metal investment & true wealth

Pages: (32) [1] 2 3 ... Last »

NEW TOPIC NEW POLL

Precious metal investment & true wealth

		Topic Title	Topic Starter	Replies	Views	Last Action
		Important Topics
		Gold Transactions with Dealers Over $600 Will Require IRS Filing Effective JAN 1 2012*	TheUnhivedMind	1	343	25th July 2010 - 04:57 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		INVESTING IN GOLD OR SILVER BULLION ETC (Pages 1 2 3 ...14) [PLENTY OF GREAT INFORMATION FOR YOU!]	servant of truth	200	4,027	16th October 2009 - 10:28 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		LATEST SILVER/GOLD PRICES [JUST REFRESH FOR CONSTANT UPDATES]	TheUnhivedMind	1	824	27th September 2009 - 01:43 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Forum Topics

		Hathaway - Gold Breakout & Subsequent Trading Encouraging	TheUnhivedMind	0	30	21st July 2011 - 04:36 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold Confiscation Act in the Works [JUST POSSIBLE SCARE TACTICS]	TheUnhivedMind	1	36	21st July 2011 - 03:56 AM Last Post by: Insurgent
		Is Gold Taking the Stairway To Heavenly Prices?	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	21st July 2011 - 02:58 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold to Rise on $14.3 Trillion U.S. Debt Limit Increase	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	21st July 2011 - 02:56 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Heirs Lose Fight With Govt to Keep Rare Gold Coins [DONT TELL GOVERNMENTS NOTHING!]	TheUnhivedMind	0	8	21st July 2011 - 02:39 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Newedge Sees Gold at $1,800 in 2011, Silver at $70 by March on Asia Demand	TheUnhivedMind	0	16	21st July 2011 - 12:30 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Precious Metals Ready for Big-Time Run as Global Breakdown Begins	TheUnhivedMind	0	23	20th July 2011 - 12:41 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Hong Kong Mercantile Exchange to launch silver futures on July 22	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	20th July 2011 - 12:31 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold price climbs to new record on debt uncertaint	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	19th July 2011 - 06:28 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Negative Interest Rates, Euro Disintegration, Fuel GOld's Historic Rally	TheUnhivedMind	0	19	19th July 2011 - 03:51 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold hits record $1600 and silver back through $40 in London	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	19th July 2011 - 03:49 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Comex silver longs bound higher - but much of it is short covering	TheUnhivedMind	0	12	19th July 2011 - 03:48 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold and silver longs increase and GLD value hits new record	TheUnhivedMind	0	8	19th July 2011 - 03:48 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		How Gold Performs In Deflation	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	19th July 2011 - 03:47 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Turk - Expect a Tidal Wave of Buying & Short Covering in Gold	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	19th July 2011 - 03:46 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		London Trader - Potential for Major Short Covering in Gold	TheUnhivedMind	0	5	19th July 2011 - 03:45 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Russell - Gold Market is Saying Bernanke to Print Money	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	19th July 2011 - 03:44 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Jim Sinclair - Gold Milestone at $1,764 Paves Way to $12,000	TheUnhivedMind	0	16	19th July 2011 - 03:44 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Ben Davies - Gold to Break Above $2,000 in the Next 4 Months	TheUnhivedMind	0	10	19th July 2011 - 03:43 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Poor Man's Gold is Breaking Out -- Sell Your House and Buy Silver?	TheUnhivedMind	0	30	18th July 2011 - 06:24 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold Could Hit $1,700 by End of the Year: Analyst [AND THE REST...]	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	18th July 2011 - 06:24 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold Rallies to Record in Best Run Since 1980	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	18th July 2011 - 05:27 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Central Banks' First-Half Gold Buying Surpasses 2010 Total	TheUnhivedMind	0	22	18th July 2011 - 12:56 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		COMMERCIAL SHORTS LOSING CONTROL ON THE SILVER PRICE MANIPULATION	TheUnhivedMind	0	22	17th July 2011 - 11:31 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		NH Electric Co. Offers 10K Reward Over Copper Thefts	TheUnhivedMind	0	21	16th July 2011 - 02:08 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		They steal supermarket trolleys and wheelchair ramps - and risk blowing up homes by hac	TheUnhivedMind	0	21	16th July 2011 - 12:18 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Next: They Steal Your Gold [GOOD COMMENTS ON SILVER}	TheUnhivedMind	0	34	15th July 2011 - 10:21 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Changing Nature of Gold Investing	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	15th July 2011 - 09:40 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Why a Gold Standard is Wishful Thinking	TheUnhivedMind	0	12	15th July 2011 - 09:40 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold/Silver Market Update	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	15th July 2011 - 09:33 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold & Silver Picking Up Steam Relative to Stocks	TheUnhivedMind	0	7	15th July 2011 - 09:29 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold tallies nine-session gain of nearly $108	TheUnhivedMind	0	6	15th July 2011 - 09:28 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		11 Silver Investor Mentality Shifts	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	15th July 2011 - 09:27 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Scrap copper market supply squeezed by U.S. building slump	TheUnhivedMind	0	6	15th July 2011 - 09:25 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Extreme times for central bankers - a time for gold	TheUnhivedMind	0	6	15th July 2011 - 09:24 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		China's Inflation Problem, the Commodities Bubble and Silver Prices	TheUnhivedMind	0	8	15th July 2011 - 09:23 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		JP MORGAN - WHY GOLD COULD SOAR FURTHER	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	15th July 2011 - 09:22 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Silver 'biscuits' taking off in India	TheUnhivedMind	0	15	15th July 2011 - 09:18 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Return of the Gold Standard as world order unravel	TheUnhivedMind	0	12	15th July 2011 - 06:34 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Collapse of Paper Money & the Vertical Move of Gold	TheUnhivedMind	0	16	15th July 2011 - 05:33 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Hidden Yen Signal & Gold Breakout	TheUnhivedMind	0	7	15th July 2011 - 05:32 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'Big Bank claims Gold could see $5,000 and Silver $1,000 an Ounce on QE3	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	15th July 2011 - 05:26 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		2011 World Gold Salesman of the Year	TheUnhivedMind	0	7	15th July 2011 - 05:15 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Italy's 2400 tons of gold: Real target of 'IMF Terrorists'? [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	1	22	15th July 2011 - 03:54 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold price hits all-time high on US debt concerns	TheUnhivedMind	0	16	15th July 2011 - 02:07 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Facebook gold game; signs of a bubble or a mindset shift?	TheUnhivedMind	0	33	14th July 2011 - 03:42 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold and silver last assets standing: new economic theory	TheUnhivedMind	0	19	14th July 2011 - 03:41 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Indian investors jump into gold ETFs [FOOLS! WHO WANTS ETFS? MORONS!]	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	14th July 2011 - 03:41 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Yesterday's Top Story: Sprotts on precious metals Gold good, silver better!	TheUnhivedMind	0	10	14th July 2011 - 03:40 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		New series of Canadian and U.S. silver coins coming to market	TheUnhivedMind	0	24	14th July 2011 - 03:40 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Eurozone hits the fan: Gold price surging; Silver begins to make a move	TheUnhivedMind	0	19	14th July 2011 - 12:58 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold strikes new high after Fed comments	TheUnhivedMind	0	8	14th July 2011 - 12:51 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		James Turk: Gold Is Our Defense Against the Fiat Currency Graveyard	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	14th July 2011 - 12:51 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Embry - Mining Shares Will Be Like Internet Stocks in the 90s	TheUnhivedMind	0	17	13th July 2011 - 06:58 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Turk - Huge Base Will Propel Silver to Record Highs With Gold	TheUnhivedMind	0	16	13th July 2011 - 06:57 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Dines - Now Predicts Silver to Reach $300 - $500 an Ounce	TheUnhivedMind	0	28	13th July 2011 - 06:56 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Schiff - Reckless Fed to Drive Gold North of $10,000, Oil $300	TheUnhivedMind	0	20	13th July 2011 - 06:54 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		The countries with the largest gold reserves	TheUnhivedMind	0	24	13th July 2011 - 05:45 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold Set to Rise as Italy Falls [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	1	18	13th July 2011 - 05:02 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'Gutter Grabbers' Target Main Line Homes For Coppe	TheUnhivedMind	0	18	13th July 2011 - 04:12 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Former Goldman Trader: There's Huge Unforeseen Demand Coming In The Physical Gold And S	TheUnhivedMind	0	24	13th July 2011 - 12:25 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold near record on euro fears, U.S. debt talk	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	12th July 2011 - 11:42 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Russia is still buying gold - not selling it	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	12th July 2011 - 11:17 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The 'Secret' World of Gold and Silver Company Warrants	TheUnhivedMind	0	27	12th July 2011 - 06:46 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		SWISS PARLIAMENT TO DISCUSS GOLD FRANC [IF ANYWHERE WILL, SWITZERLAND WILL]	TheUnhivedMind	0	41	11th July 2011 - 11:10 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Could Silver One Day be Worth More Than Gold?	TheUnhivedMind	0	21	11th July 2011 - 09:31 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Value of Silver [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	23	11th July 2011 - 09:30 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold Gains to Two-Week High as Debt, Growth Concerns Sput Investor Demand	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	11th July 2011 - 06:34 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Silver Bullion Eagle Coins Reach Highest Demand In History According to Regal Assets	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	10th July 2011 - 11:50 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold ends with a gain of more than $30 an ounce	TheUnhivedMind	0	16	10th July 2011 - 11:50 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Commodities: A Big Week Ahead	TheUnhivedMind	0	24	10th July 2011 - 03:36 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Family Battles U.S. Over 10 Coins Worth Millions	TheUnhivedMind	1	41	10th July 2011 - 02:12 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold hoard found in French cellar [NEVER TELL ANYONE ANYTHING LIKE THIS]	TheUnhivedMind	1	56	10th July 2011 - 02:11 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Analysts Optimistic on Gold Price	TheUnhivedMind	0	12	10th July 2011 - 01:58 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Are Higher Gold Prices Inevitable?	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	10th July 2011 - 01:54 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		QE17 – and a Gold Price of $27,000	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	10th July 2011 - 01:46 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		House Prices in Gold below Depression Era Levels	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	10th July 2011 - 01:46 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold futures add $11 to end up 4% on week	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	10th July 2011 - 01:44 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold and silver as money - reasons and relevance today	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	10th July 2011 - 01:43 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Silver and gold 'overbought' and take a COMEX June thumping	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	10th July 2011 - 01:43 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Venezuela rejects changes to 50% gold export limit rule	TheUnhivedMind	0	20	10th July 2011 - 01:42 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Precious metals stocks 'substantially undervalued' BofA Merrill Lynch	TheUnhivedMind	0	15	10th July 2011 - 01:42 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Does the BIS now hold Greece's gold?	TheUnhivedMind	0	12	10th July 2011 - 01:41 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gold stocks to outpace bullion post QE2	TheUnhivedMind	0	10	10th July 2011 - 01:40 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		UK silver coin sales from Royal Mint double in H1 2011	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	10th July 2011 - 01:40 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Inflation, currency fears push Iranians to gold	TheUnhivedMind	0	10	10th July 2011 - 01:39 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Silver Platter Opportunity	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	10th July 2011 - 01:36 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Silver: It's All About Inventories	TheUnhivedMind	0	10	10th July 2011 - 01:35 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Eric Sprott - Paper Markets Are A Joke Prepare for Bullion Prices to Go Superno	TheUnhivedMind	0	17	10th July 2011 - 01:34 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		25 Reasons To Buy Gold and Dump Dollars	TheUnhivedMind	0	46	9th July 2011 - 04:42 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Silver Platter Opportunity	TheUnhivedMind	0	31	9th July 2011 - 04:41 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		India's MMTC to import 12% more gold, 30% more silver	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	9th July 2011 - 04:37 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		China's $70 Billion Fund Managers Rush to Boost Gold Investment	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	8th July 2011 - 11:21 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		WHISTLEBLOW MAGUIRE - THIS WILL DESTROY GOLD AND SILVER SHORTS [BIG PRICES COMING]	TheUnhivedMind	0	78	6th July 2011 - 11:00 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		RICO SUITS AGAINST TWO BANKS = METALS TO SOAR	TheUnhivedMind	0	45	6th July 2011 - 03:18 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Monsoon plays truant in India, silver demand slide [WHO NEEDS INDIA? NOT WE]	TheUnhivedMind	0	20	6th July 2011 - 03:11 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Copper seen as falling 20% or more as China econom slows down	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	6th July 2011 - 03:10 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

Showing 100 of 3197 topics sorted by last post date in descending order from the beginning Go!

Pages: (32) [1] 2 3 ... Last »

NEW TOPIC NEW POLL

Open Topic (new replies)

Open Topic (no new replies)

Hot Topic (new replies)

Hot Topic (no new replies)

Poll (new votes)

Poll (no new votes)

Locked Topic

Moved Topic

Search this forum: Enter Keywords Go

- Precious metal investment & true wealth Go

Mark this forum as read

Hosted for free by InvisionFree (Terms of Use: Updated 2/10/2010) | Powered by Invision Power Board v1.3 Final © 2003 IPS, Inc.
Page creation time: 0.1376 seconds | Archive

The Orsini Skin by Bunthius Zeta Board mods

0

View Full Version: Precious metal investment & true wealth

51. Indian investors jump into gold ETFs
52. Yesterday's Top Story: Sprotts on precious metals
53. New series of Canadian and U.S. silver coins
54. Eurozone hits the fan: Gold price surging; Silver
55. Gold strikes new high after Fed comments
56. James Turk: Gold Is Our Defense Against the Fiat
57. Embry - Mining Shares Will Be Like Internet Stocks
58. Turk - Huge Base Will Propel Silver to Record
59. Dines - Now Predicts Silver to Reach $300 - $500
60. Schiff - Reckless Fed to Drive Gold North of
61. The countries with the largest gold reserves
62. Gold Set to Rise as Italy Falls [Vd]
63. ‘Gutter Grabbers’ Target Main Line Homes For Coppe
64. Former Goldman Trader: There's Huge Unforeseen
65. Gold near record on euro fears, U.S. debt talk
66. Russia is still buying gold - not selling it
67. The 'Secret' World of Gold and Silver Company
68. SWISS PARLIAMENT TO DISCUSS GOLD FRANC
69. Could Silver One Day be Worth More Than Gold?
70. The Value of Silver [Vd]
71. Gold Gains to Two-Week High as Debt, Growth
72. Silver Bullion Eagle Coins Reach Highest Demand In
73. Gold ends with a gain of more than $30 an ounce
74. Commodities: A Big Week Ahead
75. Family Battles U.S. Over 10 Coins Worth Millions
76. Gold hoard found in French cellar
77. Analysts Optimistic on Gold Price
78. Are Higher Gold Prices Inevitable?
79. QE17 – and a Gold Price of $27,000
80. House Prices in Gold below Depression Era Levels

81. Gold futures add $11 to end up 4% on week
82. Gold and silver as money - reasons and relevance
83. Silver and gold 'overbought' and take a COMEX June
84. Venezuela rejects changes to 50% gold export limit
85. Precious metals stocks ‘substantially undervalued'
86. Does the BIS now hold Greece's gold?
87. Gold stocks to outpace bullion post QE2
88. UK silver coin sales from Royal Mint double in H1
89. Inflation, currency fears push Iranians to gold
90. The Silver Platter Opportunity
91. Silver: It's All About Inventories
92. Eric Sprott - Paper Markets Are A Joke
93. 25 Reasons To Buy Gold and Dump Dollars
94. The Silver Platter Opportunity
95. India's MMTC to import 12% more gold, 30% more
96. China's $70 Billion Fund Managers Rush to Boost
97. WHISTLEBLOW MAGUIRE - THIS WILL DESTROY GOLD AND
98. RICO SUITS AGAINST TWO BANKS = METALS TO SOAR
99. Monsoon plays truant in India, silver demand slide
100. Copper seen as falling 20% or more as China econom

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Precious metal investment & true wealth

101. Asian "bargain hunters" boost gold, German court
102. Gold a lifeboat which will not be sunk
103. Commercial Banks to Cover Their Silver Short
104. Amidst OPEC Drama, Solar is to Silver What Ethanol
105. The Patriotic and Moral Imperative for Owning Gold
106. Gold Spikes On Greek Debt Uncertainty
107. Gold futures rise above $1,500 an ounce
108. China aims to surpass US in physical gold reserves
109. What's Good about a Gold Standard?
110. Gold as a Fear Mirror
111. Erste Group Says Foundation Of A Return To Sound
112. Hold 15-25% in physical gold and silver [Vd]
113. Do not Sell Your Silver !!! Jim Rogers [Vd]
114. Silver Investors' Declaration of Independence From
115. GOLD & SILVER NOW LEGAL TENDER IN UTAH DUE TO
116. Claus Vogt Interview with James Turk Share [Vd]
117. Gold To Hit $10,000 - Silver $500 - China Invades
118. Fast Effects of MASSIVE HYPERINFLATION! [Vd]
119. War*Wart shopping trolley theft worth £64,000 for
120. Gold Gains on Buying After Drop to Lowest Price in
121. Bull Market in Stocks, Bear Market in Gold? Only 122. "Everyone Should Buy Gold, Currency Turmoil And
123. Greece Central Bank Boosts Its Gold Holdings
124. GREEKS SELLING GOLD TEETH TO SURVIVE
125. FIRST BRITISH GOLD VENDING MACHINE SELLS BAR IN
126. Four Fundamental Reasons to Buy Gold and Silver
127. Silver Price Close to 4-Month Low
128. Gold Nugget "Scam" Shows Investors Need to be Wary
129. Gold as a Fear Mirror
130. Gold and Silver – What's the Difference?

131. Less Gold, More Debt
132. Some gold bugs think storm has passed
133. Get ready for gold @ $2,000 by year-end, say analy
134. Euro debt contagion positive for gold and gold
135. Yesterday's Top Story: China's first precious
136. Lifting Gold's Veil of Secrecy
137. Buy into gold and silver stocks at $1500 gold,
138. La Douleur du Monde - Most Likely to Go Supernova
139. Gold Bullion Price Rebounds, Dollar "Looks Strong"
140. China's thirst for copper could hold key to
141. Gold And Silver Ownership And Prices Not Be
142. Robin Griffiths - Buy Silver, The Lows for the 143. Turk - Summer Gold Trading Will Be One for the
144. The Screaming Fundamentals For Owning Gold And
145. Mormon Leaders Accused of Billion Dollar Gold Thef
146. China's first precious metal exchange opens
147. Gold Advances for First Time in Four Days on
148. Gold's run to continue despite bearish factors
149. Outlook still bright for gold, silver and base
150. India's love of gold and its impact on global dema

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Precious metal investment & true wealth

151. Copper as a Critical Metal
152. Weekend Top Story: U.S. House, Obama Administratio
153. 'US economy could be one of the big surprises in
154. Gold, the Eurozone Crisis, and How Central Banks
155. "Gold Could Just Build and Build..."
156. Gold headed to $5,000 per ounce?
157. The Myth of "Summer Doldrums" in the Gold Market
158. Gold Drops after QE3 Disappointment, Faber Says
159. Why Silver over Gold?
160. How Silver is Like Oil: An Upcoming Explosion
161. THE GREEKS ARE BUYING GOLD - SO SHOULD YOU
162. PRECIOUS METALS: Gold Sinks As Italy Fears Spark
163. Ron Paul: Gold Prices Could Hit $10,000 [Vd]
164. Sinclair, Hathaway - Hell Could Break Loose,
165. Gold and Silver Imports in India Surge 222% Amid
166. Trichet: Debt Crisis Is Flashing “Red” - Marc Fabe
167. Surge in gold and silver ownership worldwide as
168. PETER SCHIFF - U.S. SET TO DEFAULT, SILVER HEADED
169. GREEKS TURN SAVINGS TO GOLD AND PERTH MINT SILVER
170. U.S. RESIDENTS TO BE BANNED FROM GOLD/SILVER OTC
171. Russia adds 200,000 oz to official reserves/Waitin
172. The End of the Trend Is Near
173. Physical Silver Contracts Coming To Hong Kong [Vd]
174. Gold May Advance as Weaker Dollar, Greek Debt-
175. Change in Futures Trading Confirms Silver Shortage
176. Is the World Running Out of Silver?
177. Politicians: Good for the Gold Price
178. Is Your Portfolio Worth Its Weight In Gold?
179. Why Gold Mining Stocks Have Lagged Behind Bullion
180. Why I Won't Be Selling My Silver (Even Though I

181. Vietnam gold price soars to 38.2m dong/tael
182. China ‘Panda'ing to ever increasing public gold
183. Chinese copper imports to soar in June
184. Imports of gold and silver soar 222% in India
185. Silver's fall an opportunity for equity bargain
186. Exploding six "Gold Bubble" myths
187. Big gold weighing down stocks ETF - Physical gold
188. Could central banks & the IMF start selling gold
189. Is selling gold Soros’ biggest mistake since the
190. The Value of Gold
191. Investor Profit & Protection, & Major Market Moves
192. The Practical Implementation of Constitutional
193. These 90 Analysts Believe Gold Will Go to $5,000
194. The Bastards Want to Track Our Gold!
195. The Lakota Nation creates new bank! World's first
196. Questor plus: Grecian gold [Vd]
197. Fort Knox U.S. Gold Reserves to be Independently
198. Why silver price crashed from $50 to $32
199. Stock collapse and $12,000 gold?
200. Philly Manufacturing Index plummets/gold and

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Precious metal investment & true wealth

201. Free Coinage Of Gold & Silver - Then And Now
202. THE MARGINAL UTILITY OF SILVER
203. Touch and go for gold this summer
204. Eurozone central banks now buying gold, not
205. Priced In Gold, The Median Home Price Is Down 80%
206. Newmont Mining CEO sees gold headed to $2,000
207. Standard Chartered: "Three Factors Will Drive Gold
208. HUGE DROP IN SILVER INVENTORY TODAY!
209. Eric Sprott - We’re Headed Over a Cliff, Be Wary
210. YOU'RE OUT OF YOUR MIND IF YOU SELL GOLD ASSETS
211. Inflation, stagflation, deflation: Gold and silver
212. ‘Tidal Wave’ of Gold Demand Coming From China,
213. PE teacher 'had inappropriate lesbian relationship
214. Hathaway Confirms Gold to Trade in the Five Digits
215. Signs Of A Gold Price Correction Ahead
216. Silver in China could turn out to be the new gold
217. Australia's biggest gold miner cuts guidance - aga
218. Bearish on currencies so silver and gold companies
219. Edward Steves and his Million Dollar Gold Arbitrag
220. The Most Important Chart for Gold Investors
221. Edward Steves and his Million Dollar Gold Arbitrag
222. Three reasons why gold is going to have a big
223. ‘This is why you shouldn’t steal copper cable!’
224. Buy In May And Make Some Hay!
225. Summer – A Great Time For Gold Mining Bargains
226. Gold price climbs a ‘wall of fear’
227. Gold Ends Weaker with Silver Firming
228. What happens to gold if the dollar collapses as
229. Profit margins at world's top 40 mining companies
230. Pricing gold in a deflationary environment

231. Comex Physical Silver Drops To Fresh All Time Low
232. Price of Gold Jumps After "Gold-Friendly Data"
233. Silver to retain status of 'star performer' for
234. China-US Collision Course And Crowning Of Oil And
235. JS Kim on the Max Keiser Report, June 3 [Vd]
236. California, the state built on gold prospecting,
237. Fed Lawyer Alvarez: “The Federal Reserve Does NOT
238. Will Market Manipulation Stop Gold and Silver from
239. Risk of COMEX Silver Default Remains
240. Blanchard reckons gold's seasonality may not drop
241. Gold as Collateral – a major step for the gold
242. Farmers in India get cheap loans against gold
243. Yukon gold and base metals rush not over-hyped
244. Endeavour chasing more silver and gold in Mexico
245. This year, it may pay gold investors to hang aroun
246. Gold and gold stocks still in 20 year mega-supercy
247. Gold hits high as dollar falls after U.S. data
248. Gold Prices and Deflation
249. Gold As Sovereign Collateral
250. Silver Quiz 2011: How Many Will You Get Right?

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Precious metal investment & true wealth

3151. GoldSeek.com Radio: Peter Schiff 24 Oct 2009 [MP3]
3152. Indian silver appetite sharpened by record gold
3153. GOLD REFINERS AND BARS IN THE RUSSIAN FEDERATION
3154. A Turkey for Turkey, The UK Lays an Economic Egg, 3155. Some Startling Truths About Silver [MP3]
3156. Keep Your Stops Tight And Move Accordingl [MP3] 3157. David Morgan is interviewed by Ellis Martin of The 3158. Morgan on Rocks and Stocks
3159. A New World Order, Silver & your Portfolio [MP3]
3160. Al Korelin - A gold and silver bull market
3161. The Great Silver Heist
3162. Some begin to see a gold bubble
3163. Who Woke the Dragon
3164. Gold is Money
3165. US Mint Offers 2009 American Gold Buffalo Coins
3166. US gold ends lower as dollar up vs major currencie
3167. Long-term U.S. Dollar Devaluation is Good for Gold
3168. A Golden Star is (about to be) Born 3169. Russia to sell 20-50 T gold in 2009 - source 3170. What impact will the decline in paper currencies
3171. High Gold Prices Here To Stay
3172. Gold coins, bars set to outshine jewellery
3173. Rhodium prices reach highest in a year at $1 800oz
3174. Gold and Gold Stocks to Benefit
3175. Silver Update
3176. Gold bears gathering, but gold bulls defiant
3177. Is your gold really there?
3178. In India even the Post Office sells gold coins
3179. Silver Continues to Outperform Gold 3180. What Does Adens' $5,800 Gold Projection Mean for 3181. Negative free cash flow, the skeleton in the gold

3182. Cash4Gold Hit With Racketeering And Fraud Class
3183. Silver, ‘Bullion’s Bridesmaid,’ May Outpace Gold
3184. Gold steady at $1,050 after record
3185. Is This the Final Blast-Off?
3186. Silver taking a breather
3187. Positioning For The Next Move In Silver
3188. If Silver Could Walk... It Would be About To Run A 3189. Dow to Gold Ratio Update
3190. Central Banking: A Blight On Humanity
3191. "The rally will soon be over, the only one place
3192. Greenwich Jewelry Turns to Cash as Gold Reaches 3193. The Dollar in Your Wallet Is Only Worth 18¢
3194. Gold's New Friends
3195. Gold buyers pause after festival shopping
3196. Long battle for silver
3197. Gold slides on profit-taking

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold Transactions with Dealers Over $600 Will

Title: Gold Transactions with Dealers Over $600 Will Description: *Require IRS Filing Effective JAN 1 2012

craig-oxley - July 25, 2010 01:45 PM (GMT)

Gold Transactions with Dealers Over $600 Will Require IRS Filing Effective January 1, 2012

Published on 07-19-2010 Email To Friend Print Version
http://www.cryptogon.com/

Via: Numismaster:

A blizzard of paperwork could be about to hit numismatics.

Passage by Congress of the national health care legislation has had an unintended consequence to the nation's coin collectors, vest-pocket dealers who buy and sell coins, and larger dealers who are frequent buyers of coins that collectors periodically liquidate as they trade up their collections for better coins, or simply sell to take a small profit or loss.

What has happened is that effective Jan. 1, 2012, the whole system of giving and receiving Internal Revenue Service 1099 forms will be turned on its head and all persons (including corporations) who are in business will now have to give 1099 tax reporting forms for coins and other goods that they sell as well as buy.

The responsibility for issuing forms kicks in at $600 for coins or bullion – not a very high level and one that has already started sounding alarm bells. It doesn't matter in what form payment is made, whether cash, check, credit card, or Yap stone money, the $600 threshold applies.

There's a bill introduced by Rep. Dan Lungren (H.R. 5141), which has gathered over 80 members of Congress as co-sponsors to repeal this section. Evidently, however, the drafters of the provision think there is a $17 billion loophole that this plugs.

The Industry Council for Tangible Assets is alerting member dealers and the public at large in the hope that some sense of outrage will lead to a ready modification before the law becomes operational in 2012.

Form 1099 is used to report independent contractor income, income from dividends, income from other things – and is one of the reasons why children receive tax bills for work or labor or services performed.

Section 9006 of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (Public Law 111-148, signed into law by President Obama this spring) turns 1099 forms into reporting forms not only for independent contractor's income – what they have long been used for – but also to show sales, gains and losses on purchases and sales of goods as part of a trade or business.

The section reads (in relevant part) "SEC. 9006. EXPANSION OF INFORMATION REPORTING REQUIREMENTS. (a) IN GENERAL. – Section 6041 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended by adding at the end the following new subsections:

''(h) APPLICATION TO CORPORATIONS. – Notwithstanding any regulation prescribed by the secretary before the date of the enactment of this subsection, for purposes of this section the term 'person' includes any corporation that is not an organization exempt from tax under section 501(a).

''(i) REGULATIONS. – The secretary may prescribe such regulations and other guidance as may be appropriate or necessary to carry out the purposes of this section, including rules to prevent duplicative reporting of transactions.''

(B) PAYMENTS FOR PROPERTY AND OTHER GROSS PROCEEDS. –

Subsection (a) of section 6041 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 is amended –

(1) by inserting ''amounts in consideration for property,'' after ''wages,''
(2) by inserting ''gross proceeds,'' after ''emoluments, or other'', and
(3) by inserting ''gross proceeds,'' after ''setting forth the amount of such.''

The property section means that if B. Max Mehl was selling coins to another major dealer of that era, a 1099 would have to be issued. When he bought from the public, the same thing is also required. The "report" does not necessarily measure profit or loss, but it does show activity.

The old exemption against corporations is also gone. If you buy or sell more than $600 of coins, or whatever, from, to or with a bullion dealer, for example, you have an obligation under the new law to issue 1099s.

craig-oxley - July 25, 2010 04:57 PM (GMT)

Gold Coin Sellers Angered by New Tax Law

Amendment Slipped Into Health Care Legislation Would Track, Tax Coin and Bullion Transactions

By RICH BLAKE
July 21, 2010

[dohtml]<img style="visibility:hidden;width:0px;height:0px;" border=0 width=0 height=0 src="http://counters.gigya.com/wildfire/IMP/

CXNID=2000002.11NXC/
bT*xJmx*PTEyODAwNzY5NzI1NDYmcHQ9MTI4MDA3Njk3NTA2MiZwPTEyNTg*MTEmZD1BQkNOZXdzX1NGUF9Mb2NrZV9FbWJlZCZn /PTImb2Y9MA==.gif" /><object classid="clsid:D27CDB6E-AE6D-11cf-96B8-444553540000" codebase="http://download.macromedia.
com/pub/shockwave/cabs/flash/swflash.cab#version=9,0,124,0" width="344" height="278" id="ABCESNWID"><param name="movie" value="http://abcnews.go.com/assets/player/walt2.6/flash/SFP_Walt.swf" /><param name="quality" value="high" /><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always" /><param name="allowNetworking" value="all" /><param name="flashvars" value="configUrl=http://abcnews.go.com/video/sfp/embedPlayerConfig&configId=406732&clipId=11204190&showId=11204190&gig_lt=1280076972546&gig_pt=1280076975062&gig_g=2" / ><param name="allowfullscreen" value="true" /><embed src="http://abcnews.go.com/assets/player/walt2.6/flash/SFP_Walt.swf" quality="high" allowScriptAccess="always" allowNetworking="all" allowfullscreen="true" pluginspage="http://www.adobe.com/shockwave/download/download.cgi?P1_Prod_Version=ShockwaveFlash" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" width="344" height="278" flashvars="configUrl=http://abcnews.go.com/video/sfp/embedPlayerConfig&configId=406732&clipId=11204190&showId=11204190&gig_lt=1280076972546&gig_pt=1280076975062&gig_g=2"
name="ABCESNWID"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Those already outraged by the president's health care legislation now have a new bone of contention -- a scarcely noticed tack-on provision to the law that puts gold coin buyers and sellers under closer government scrutiny.

The issue is rising to the fore just as gold coin dealers are attracting attention over sales tactics.

Section 9006 of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act will amend the Internal Revenue Code to expand the scope of Form 1099. Currently, 1099 forms are used to track and report the miscellaneous income associated with services rendered by independent contractors or self-employed individuals.

Coin Dealers Flipping

Starting Jan. 1, 2012, Form 1099s will become a means of reporting to the Internal Revenue Service the purchases of all goods and services by small businesses and self-employed people that exceed $600 during a calendar year. Precious metals such as coins and bullion fall into this category and coin dealers have been among those most rankled by the change.

This provision, intended to mine what the IRS deems a vast reservoir of uncollected income tax, was included in the health care legislation ostensibly as a way to pay for it. The tax code tweak is expected to raise $17 billion over the next 10 years, according to the Joint Committee on Taxation.

Taking an early and vociferous role in opposing the measure is the precious metal and coin industry, according to Diane Piret, industry affairs director for the Industry Council for Tangible Assets. The ICTA, based in Severna Park, Md., is a trade association representing an estimated 5,000 coin and bullion dealers in the United States.

"Coin dealers not only buy for their inventory from other dealers, but also with great frequency from the public," Piret said. "Most other types of businesses will have a limited number of suppliers from which they buy their goods and products for resale."

So every time a member of the public sells more than $600 worth of gold to a dealer, Piret said, the transaction will have to be reported to the government by the buyer.

Pat Heller, who owns Liberty Coin Service in Lansing, Mich., deals with around 1,000 customers every week. Many are individuals looking to protect wealth in an uncertain economy, he said, while others are dealers like him.

With spot market prices for gold at nearly $1,200 an ounce, Heller estimates that he'll be filling out between 10,000 and 20,000 tax forms per year after the new law takes effect.

"I'll have to hire two full-time people just to track all this stuff, which cuts into my profitability," he said.

An issue that combines gold coins, the Obama health care law and the IRS is bound to stir passions. Indeed, trading in gold coins and bars has surged since the financial crisis unfolded and Obama took office, metal dealers said.

The buying of actual gold, as opposed to futures or options tied to the price of gold, has been a particularly popular trend among Tea Party supporters and others who are fearful of Obama's economic policies, gold industry members such as Heller and Piret said. Conservative/libertarian commentators, such as Fox News Channel's Glenn Beck, routinely tout precious metal on the air as being a safe, shrewd investment in an environment in which the financial system -- and paper money backed by the rest of the world's faith in the U.S. government's credit -- is viewed as increasingly fragile.

The recently revealed investigation by California authorities into consumer complaints against Goldline International, which has used Beck as a pitchman, and Superior Gold Group (which has not) has put a spotlight on what one liberal leaning politician, Rep. Anthony Weiner, D-N.Y., calls the "unholy alliance" between gold coin sellers, such as Goldline, and conservative talk personalities, such as Beck.

Beck, who through his spokesman, Matt Hiltzik, declined to comment for this story, and Goldline marketers portray gold coins as a better alternative to owning bullion in the event that the U.S. government ever decides, as it did under FDR in 1933, to make it illegal for private citizens to own physical gold. At that time, the U.S. dollar was still pegged to the price of gold; the gold standard was abandoned during the Nixon administration.

"Large corporations have whole divisions to handle such transaction paperwork but for a small business, which doesn't have the manpower, this is yet another brick on their back," Lungren said in a statement e-mailed to ABCNews.com. "Everyone agrees that small businesses are job creators and the engine which drives the American economy. I am dumfounded that this Administration is doing all it can to make it more difficult for businesses to succeed rather than doing all it can to help them grow."

The ICTA's Piret says identity theft is another concern because criminals may set up shops specifically to extract personal information that would accompany the filing out of a 1099.

The office of the National Taxpayer Advocate, a citizen's ombudsman within the IRS, issued a report June 30 that said the new rule "may present significant administrative challenges to taxpayers and the IRS."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: INVESTING IN GOLD OR SILVER BULLION ETC

Title: INVESTING IN GOLD OR SILVER BULLION ETC
Description: [PLENTY OF GREAT INFORMATION FOR YOU!]

servant of truth - August 4, 2009 06:58 AM (GMT)

Just wondering what peoples opinions are on investing in gold mining stocks in Australia(producers and explorers)

Will profits be stolen from productive companys for the benefit of the jesuits, what will the share market look like in a few years time??

craig-oxley - August 4, 2009 12:41 PM (GMT)

Well at one time I heard this was a better way of making money than owning the Gold. Right now I don't know if it is still as good but the idea mate is to at least preserve your wealth. Only God's money being precious metals can do this and nothing else. As they say "Ca$h is tra$h" and its so correct. With whats coming you can make a lot of money on precious metals soon. The idea though my friend is to make sure you have the physical metal and never buy into this certificate crap and having your gold supposedly stored elsewhere. Get in small bars and/or coins. The large bars are tastey and nice to show off to trustworthy people but harder to sell. Infact coins are the best bet for the average Joe like you and me. I would be looking more into Silver right now if I were you. Like that one investment firm says try to have at least $8000 invested into precious metals and they were speaking about silver in particular.

outsider - August 4, 2009 03:34 PM (GMT)

Well one has to wonder about the way GOLD has been so heavily promoted in the patriot and alternative community, wether its all a set up or not?

For years everybody was encouraged to invest in stock market based pensions and we know they are going to completely crash the stock market soon and everyone will lose their pensions.

Then people were encouraged to invest in houses/property and then once enough people were succered in they started to crash the property market.

So one wonders if they have got anything up their sleeve regarding GOLD. Wether they will pass legislation making it illegal to buy or sell GOLD?

Probably best not to put all your eggs in one basket, just in case they have a nasty surprise in store for GOLD owners. Just my opinion, I could be wrong, take it or leave it.

craig-oxley - August 4, 2009 03:48 PM (GMT)

So tell me Outsider what in the hell are people with currency supposed to invest in then? Not being funny but if all the currencies are wiped out then the only thing left is God's money. Now I understand your points but remember this is not the mainstream news pushing sheople to buy gold etc. This is just the alternative news highlight to the people. If they wanted to screw the precious metals as they've done the rest then they would get all the sheople interested in it too I suppose. Maybe I'm wrong. The only thing they could do is put a block on the gold buying and selling as you say. Its a nightmare but for me right now its Silver and I don't care anylonger what people say I'm sticking with this as it is by far the safest method of preserving some form of wealth during this big problem. I doubt they could ban the gold for long if they did at all. Well then this might stop you getting wealthy on it but at least after a period of time you'd get something back eventually when the heat cooled down. So precious metals it is.

outsider - August 4, 2009 04:12 PM (GMT)

No offense Craig, but I'm curious why you think GOLD is GODS money, or why you think GOD would care about GOLD or even about MONEY at all. I can see an argument for the case thats been made about the gods (small g) using humans to mine their GOLD for them, if this is in fact true?

I don't believe that this comercial system, including the use of GOLD for money is ordained by the creator of the universe (whatever it is). It just seems like an artificial system thats been imposed/overlaid on top of the natural system, a form of slavery.

I'm NOT suggesting that people shouldn't own ANY precious metals at all. I'm just saying don't put all your eggs in one basket (GOLD) in case they have a nasty surprise in store. I think people should have all their necessities of life taken care or first, food, shelter, clothing and perhaps some tradeable goods too.

I'm just saying caveat emptor / buyer beware. Its just my opinion. Who really knows at the end of the day anyway?

craig-oxley - August 4, 2009 04:23 PM (GMT)

Gold and Silver have been used for many many thousands of years as money. Every culture across the World has something they use to trade in. Many used Gold whilst some used strange things like teeth and stones. There has to be a form of exchange somewhere. I had a mind frame similar to yours a little while back but I see the error of it. I think it was through reading too many David Icke books. Paper currency even if not fiat and backed by Gold is also trash. I want physical Gold & Silver and all paper can be burnt or better still left on the Oxygen producing trees they destroy daily for it. Lets see whos better off shortly dear Outsider and then lets see if you have your same opinions as you do today.

I wonder if you had a decent bit of wealth put by what you would be doing with it. By the way its okay having clothing, food etc but what about somewhere to live? If this is all you have then maybe you can barter your rent for some lentils but I'd rather have Silver. Gold itself is seen as God's money more through symbolism with the Solar orb and the Golden reflection. The ancient symbol of the sun being the yoni with the yod infinity point within is also tied to the precious metal Gold. Lets not forget also how Gold and Silver can do amazing things within the body similar to DMT if in minut monoatomic forms. White powdered Gold and the great White Brotherhood realm communication. These metals promote real currency too the juice we live within and use such as electronics. By the way if you remove the 'l' from Gold you get God.

outsider - August 4, 2009 04:28 PM (GMT)

At risk of repeating myself, I've NEVER said NOT to own ANY precious metals.

I'd probably also put some of my money into commodity companies for the coming resource wars because of artificial resource scarcity. You'd have to careful which ones you picked, and probably again it would be best to spread your risk among a number of companies.

craig-oxley - August 4, 2009 04:56 PM (GMT)

Gold, Silver, Platinum & Palladium. Then look into Agriculture and of course commodites. Nothing else is of worth.

Jefferson Smith - August 4, 2009 05:03 PM (GMT)

When it comes to gold you should be in the clear if you live in Canada or Australia. The Australian Gold Nugget and Canadian Gold Maple are fantastic. Gold sovereigns are also very well known and internationally recognized(St.George slaying the dragon).

When buying gold coins you shouldn't just have 1oz coins, it's good to have some 1/4oz coins because it will be easier to exchange if the price skyrockets. I would also really recommend buying silver coins. Silver is much easier to exchange than gold.

Alcohol and tobacco are good to invest in.

outsider - August 4, 2009 05:09 PM (GMT)

I'm just wondering if a Gold/Silver coin has the QUEENS head on it, technically does the QUEEN own it?

craig-oxley - August 4, 2009 05:21 PM (GMT)

This is why I would never buy a Canadian Maple Leaf coin. They are probably the best and are the finest of Silver but that head for me is a complete no no. I really detest that whore of Babylon and her head everywhere. So I would go with Vienna Philharmonics myself instead.

Jefferson Smith - August 4, 2009 06:15 PM (GMT)

I'm pretty sure every commonwealth nation has the queen on their money. I don't think the queen owns the money, it's more of a reminder to the commonwealth citizens of who runs the country.

Is there any gold/silver without something occult on it? Even the American Silver Eagle is filled with it.

AntiSionist - August 4, 2009 07:39 PM (GMT)

I have been thinking about this issue for a while. We all know the most of the actual American, Canadian, British, Australian coins have little silver in them anymore. It was back in the sixties when Canadian dimes for example stopped having so much silver in them. Canadian loonies still have some gold in them of course like the toonies. Now if gold and silver are to be precious metals that still have worth during a collapse of the Canadian and American dollar for example, does the imprint of the collapsed country on these coins devalue them? If so, wouldn't it be proper to deface these coins so that they wouldn't have CANADA or UNITED STATES on them? Wouldn't that just make them the pure metals that it's good to trade in and then in fact raise their value since they're not of a collapsed country? If so, how would one go about defacing them so that the country is no longer on the coin but they still retain their value due to whatever percentage of metal is in them?

Jefferson Smith - August 4, 2009 08:15 PM (GMT)

I think it would be very difficult to exchange a coin with very little silver or copper left in it and I don't know how you would go around refining it. It's best just to invest in bullion coins because they have real worth. For example the Canadian Golden Maple has a purity of .9999 and the Canadian Silver Maple is 99.99% silver (the norm is usually 99.90%).

EDIT

The Loonie or Toonie have no gold in them at all.

Loonie = 91.5% Ni, 8.5% bronze plating(88% Cu, 12% Sn) Toonie = outer ring 100% Ni inner core 92% Cu,
6% Al,
2% Ni

Canadian quarter, dime, nickel are all roughly around = 94% steel, 3.8% Cu, 2.2% Ni plating
Canadian penny = 94% steel, 1.5% Ni, 4.5% Cu plating

craig-oxley - August 4, 2009 11:24 PM (GMT)

The face value and design of coins is irrelevant when a collapse occurs in the country of origin. Only fiat currency is worthless in this situation. Nobody would care what is printed on the Gold coin as long as it was a pure Gold 1 ounce or whatever weight coin. Its solely to do with metal, purity and weight. Also the American Eagles and Canadian Maple Leaf's are more collectable types than say the Vienna Philharmonics therefore they can cost a fraction more when buying from some dealers I've found. You know the only problem I've found with this Gold and Silver bullion? Its addictive! You buy one lot then you crave for more or a bigger bar the next time. Its a great way to save money too and especially as you can't go out and spend it in a store etc ha. Its also nice to feel a real money coin for once. Something thats huge and has weight and shines like a real metal should. Its about time we threw all these electronic cards, paper and alloy metals in the trash where they belong. Its time for old skool God's money to come back and for us not to be holding a debt but infact wealth.

db45 - August 5, 2009 04:08 AM (GMT)

i have studied the gold and silver story.
i have some gold and silver coins and i like them a lot.
gold is probably going lots higher soon. maybe not this year, but probably next.
Gold is trading at $966 in the US. it could go to $1,000.
i would put some of my money in gold coins. i would also put some in silver coins.
maybe 5% to 10% would be a good start. and then add to it. go to a local coin store and pick some up or send me a message.
I am a little worried about the hype surrounding gold and silver. we may get a pullback at some point concerning their prices.
i would concentrate on getting 'junk silver' and not the collectible stuff. the markups are too high. also, the new Silver Eagles look incredible but the markup is kinda high. you may want to pick up one or two but i wouldn't go crazy.
With gold coins get some one ounce coins (if you can afford them), but i like the tenth of an ounce coins and quarter ounce coins better. that is what the average investor is buying.
i think we get a US dollar crisis and a global paper money crisis but i am not sure yet.
that may be next year. People are saying that the feds are printing tons of money but i don't see a lot of cash on the streets. mostly they are printing credit. I have checked a few times, and as of 2000 there were just under $3,000 in federal reserve notes per capita in the United States. which ain't a whole lot. so suppose that number is double now. or triple. that still is not a lot of cash per person. if people start to panic and cash in their savings accounts and checking accounts then that money could go out in a hurry. Not to mention if people try to cash in their 401(k)s and pensions.
I was talking to a coin dealer the other day about things, and I joked about how the banks didn't have much money. Well, he told me that a few years ago a guy he knew was doing a coin deal and wanted to withdraw lots of money (about $200,000) from a Bank of America branch. The bank teller said they didn't have that much. he then asked how much they had and the teller replied, "about $5,000." The guy had to go to a few banks to get his money...
So you really really really want to get your money out of the banks. there are gonna be bank runs. I can feel it. there almost were last year. ATM's in my town were running out of cash last year.
Take most of your money out in small bills. like fives, tens and twenties. seriously, who wants to break a hundred dollar bill? don't be shocked if they have fewer five dollar bills than you might think...
Also, get some money out in change. Dimes, nickels, quarters, and pennies. they are always worth face value and they are a GREAT inflation hedge. but hurry. the banks don't have too much of those either.

back to gold and silver. i have been to my local coin dealer in my town (pretty big size town. only has a few coin dealers) and he only had a couple hundred bucks worth of silver on hand. last november when gold and silver hit lower levels, all he had was a small bag of silver coins and a few tenth of an ounce gold coins.

now is a decent time to get into some gold and silver. but try 5%. put most of your money in cash. i think we are in a blow off stage. silver is going up more in percentage terms than silver which usually occurs late in up markets. gold, however, holds up better when gold and silver prices decline.

Gold is supposed to make a short term low in August. or by November sometime. after that gold will be very hard to get. i would say that you want to own lots of the stuff by next March. Why? i will post more later...

counter party risk is gonna be huge in the stock market so don't play stocks with money you can't afford to lose.

The Great Depression scenario is playing out. stocks can still decline 60% to 70% or more from here. from the 1929 highs the stock market lost 89% of its value.
other assets and prices deflated too. The Great Depression highs in unemployment were supposedly 25% (they probably under counted). Well, the real, true, non-manipulated unemployment rate is just under 21%. In March of 1933 FDR devalued the dollar which made gold go from $20.67 an ounce to $35 an ounce. but not before he confiscated it. i wouldn't count out a replay of this in March.

the US dollar has been getting beaten down hard recently. however, the decline may be over soon. when it is then gold will top as will the stock markets. then you want to be in the dollar again (at least temporarily). but hold onto some gold and silver. also get change from the bank.

One last thing. i have no doubt that the global economy and financial markets are manipulated. but as there are seasons in the weather and in one's own life (infancy, child, teenager, grown up, old age), there are also seasons in the economy. A full economic cycle lasts about 40 to 50 years (the Kondratieff Cycle). however, there are larger 80 year cycles which are even more ominous. these are Kondratieff Winters where debts are dealt with. Debts are either paid off, worked off, or written off. Prices fall (deflation). in this economic cycle you want to have cash and gold.
I just finished a great book about it called "The Great Depression Ahead" by Harry Dent Jr. This depression is due to lots of factors (including the decrease in sunspots). The previous one was 80 years ago. their was also a depression 80 years before the Great Depression. demographics is very important here. ... i would highly recommend that book.

If anyone has any questions please let me know!

db45 - August 5, 2009 04:42 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Aug 4 2009, 11:24 PM)
>
> The face value and design of coins is irrelevant when a collapse occurs in the country of origin. Only fiat currency is worthless in this situation. Nobody would care what is printed on the Gold coin as long as it was a pure Gold 1 ounce or whatever weight coin. Its solely to do with metal, purity and weight. Also the American Eagles and Canadian Maple Leaf's are more collectable types than say the Vienna Philharmonics therefore they can cost a fraction more when buying from some dealers I've found. You know the only problem I've found with this Gold and Silver bullion? Its addictive! You buy one lot then you crave for more or a bigger bar the next time. Its a great way to save money too and especially as you can't go out and spend it in a store etc ha. Its also nice to feel a real money coin for once. Something thats huge and has weight and shines like a real metal should. Its about time we threw all these electronic cards, paper and alloy metals in the trash where they belong. Its time for old skool God's money to come back and for us not to be holding a debt but infact wealth.

Gold and silver are constitutional money.

even common change (pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters) are better than paper money.

if Inflation soars then the price of the underlying metal (basically zinc) will rise. plus, they are always worth face.

1964 silver quarters (the last year that quarters were made of silver) have held their purchasing power.

i would think that common change today will hold their purchasing power 40 to 50 years from now. which would make it a great investment. given that the downside is zero.

Mark - August 5, 2009 07:19 AM (GMT)

What would happen if they bring a cashless system? How would that affect gold and silver?

SmokeScreen11 - August 5, 2009 04:01 PM (GMT)

If powerful people control finance and industries what makes you think that they don't control GOLD and SILVER? They should control all the precious metal (real money) in order to give the sheeples fiat currency. Be careful about precious metal investment.

AntiSionist - August 6, 2009 07:16 AM (GMT)

Yes of course. We know for example from Fritz Springmeier's book BLOODLINES that the Vatican bankers, The Rothschilds controlled the price of gold daily. That was before they could out of gold and the LBMA. But percious metals, IN YOUR HAND, that actually are silver and gold WILL NEVER lose their value. If you can get that physical stuff instead of a worthless paper certificate (which is basically what a Federal Reserve note was when they were on the gold standard even after all the gold was looted from Fort Knox), then do so. I'm sure this is how Craig Oxley feels.

AntiSionist - August 6, 2009 07:18 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Mark @ Aug 5 2009, 07:19 AM)
>
> What would happen if they bring a cashless system? How would that affect gold and silver?

I'll tell you. We don't particpate. We traffic in metals that have intrinsic value. that will put even more value into it.

craig-oxley - August 6, 2009 11:09 AM (GMT)

If a ounce of Gold bought you three chickens in 1903 then an ounce of Gold will buy you three chickens in 2009 in reality! You never lose. Its only when you start meddling in ca$h is tra$h that you get the illusion your Gold is making currency and loosing currency. In reality you always have the same MONEY! Notice how again today we hear the Bank of England is having to inject yet another £50 billion into the economy. Precious metals it is.

Alex - August 8, 2009 05:28 AM (GMT)

These are what is in offer in New Zealand,I keep on telling my parents INVEST IN GOLD as some shops in our area are not accepting the 'official' NEW ZEALAND MONEY

http://www.newzealandmint.com/nzmint.mv?pa...ullion_products

db45 - August 8, 2009 06:08 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Alex @ Aug 8 2009, 05:28 AM)
>
> These are what is in offer in New Zealand,I keep on telling my parents INVEST IN GOLD as some shops in our area are not accepting the 'official' NEW ZEALAND MONEY
>
> http://www.newzealandmint.com/nzmint.mv?pa...ullion_products picking up some silver is also a good idea.

also, does your country issue coins (i think a few don't). if so then you want to get as much of your money in coins as possible. these have slightly more intrinsic value.

silver is good for smaller transactions and gold is good for large transactions.

nearly all stocks and bonds are going to be worthless at some point.

craig-oxley - August 8, 2009 11:53 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Alex @ Aug 8 2009, 05:28 AM)
>
> These are what is in offer in New Zealand,I keep on telling my parents INVEST IN GOLD as some shops in our area are not accepting the 'official' NEW ZEALAND MONEY
>
> http://www.newzealandmint.com/nzmint.mv?pa...ullion_products

Those New Zealand coins there are pretty damn good as their 99.99% which isn't often. You only usually see that level of purity in coins like the Canadian Maple Leaf. Many are like 99.9% especially in Silver. Start to buy a few if you can. I've noticed the Silver going up this last week by the way as Gold went down at the same time. I think Silver is the way to go personally and at least us normal men can invest something into it and more to the point see something for it. When you purchase Gold, unless your rich you're not going to see physical masses. Gold comes in very small sizes for our price bracket. Where as Silver you'll get a nice 5 kilo brick for just around currently £1300-1400. A nice £53 will get you a tidy little 100gram bar which I think is a nice denomination. A 100g bar of Gold would cost you around £1900 which is a big difference. Of course its not about the physical its about the worth but I like to see something for my money personally. Also note that if you get any silver coins which are 99.99% then you could also make medicinal colloidal silver with them. Of course due to the thickness of the coins you'd need a better type of generator with a higher current as such. No good using a generator which uses thin Silver rods like the SOTA models and then banging on thick coins. So your silver is more precious to you than the Gold when it comes to fighting virus etc.

craig-oxley - August 11, 2009 12:18 PM (GMT)

Are We Being Conned About Gold Confiscation?

08/07/2009
By Doug Hornig, Editor, Casey's Gold & Resource Report
http://www.kitcocasey.com/articles/2909/ar...-confiscation?/

There's a lot of Internet chatter these days about the possibility of the U.S. government seizing its citizens' private gold holdings.

What are the chances?

Well, it's always good to bear in mind that there is no telling what the government might do. It's already doing things that were unthinkable just a few years ago. If President Obama believes there is political hay to be made from seizing your gold – or even if he sincerely thinks such a move would be "good for the country" – we're sure he won't hesitate to make the grab. After all, his favorite predecessor, Franklin Roosevelt, set the precedent.

Many Americans don't even realize that private gold ownership was forbidden for forty years, but it was. The relevant edict is Presidential Executive Order 6102 of April 5, 1933, which begins:

Forbidding the Hoarding of Gold Coin, Gold Bullion and Gold Certificates By virtue of the authority vested in me by Section 5(B) of the Act of October 6, 1917, as amended by Section 2 of the Act of March 9, 1933, entitled

An Act to provide relief in the existing national emergency in banking, and for other purposes, in which amendatory Act Congress declared that a serious emergency exists,

I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do declare that said national emergency still continues to exist and pursuant to said section to do hereby prohibit the hoarding of gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates within the continental United States by individuals, partnerships, associations and corporations …

There was, of course, no constitutional peg on which to hang such an outrageous crime against the people, so FDR decided to fall back on the 1917 Trading with the Enemy Act, which he claimed gave him the authority to do this in order to prevent gold from falling into the "wrong" hands. If that seems a flimsy argument, it is.

But it echoes eerily today. How much of our personal freedom have we already been asked to sacrifice to the Forever War on Terrorism? And note also the reference to an "existing national emergency in banking" that requires extreme measures. Sound familiar?

So, no question that Obama could follow in the footsteps of his mentor, if he wanted to. That said, though, the likelihood of a new gold confiscation is remote, for a number of reasons.

2009 is not 1933. Back then, the money supply was constrained by the gold standard. As Roosevelt concocted the New Deal, he ran smack up against that wall. He needed more money than he had, couldn't raise taxes in a depression, and couldn't print dollars that weren't gold-backed.

His solution may have been reprehensible, but it was elegant. First, make the private possession of gold illegal, paying those who surrender their metal the official price, $20.67 per ounce. Then revalue gold to $35 per ounce. Voilà: Instant inflation, lots of new money, problem solved. And the New Deal was off and running.

But we have long since abandoned the gold standard, and Obama doesn't face FDR's constraints on monetary inflation. However much money is needed to finance his New Deal Redux, he can have it. All he has to do is rev up the printing press or turn an unlimited number of bits and bytes into electronic cash.

Given this kind of clout, what does he need gold for?

An argument can be made that the yellow metal is still useful. It runs like this: Creating money out of thin air is inflationary, and a large stash of gold, even if it doesn't officially back anything, serves as a sort of counterweight. People around the world will have greater confidence in your currency knowing that, as a last resort, you can pay your bills in gold. And the more gold you have, the better.

Furthermore, confiscating gold and assigning it a fixed dollar value would also prevent the kind of runaway gold price that the coming massive inflation is bound to trigger. As those who argue that the gold price is already suppressed correctly point out, the government has decided to sacrifice the dollar in order to avert deflation. Thus a lower-than-free-market gold price helps obscure the damage that's been done to the currency. People feel richer with more, albeit inflated, dollars in their pockets; a rapidly escalating gold price shows them that they're not.

These two arguments aren't empty, but they're not convincing. Most folks in government subscribe to the "barbarous relic" school of thought about gold. Precious metals probably cross the minds of Obama's economists only when they're out buying jewelry.

And most American citizens have never even seen a physical gold coin, much less own one. Reeling in all the bullion out there will, in reality, do the government little if any good.

One final point. In the 1930s, when people were asked to turn in their gold, compliance was quite high. Americans believed their government when told that it was for the greater good. Imagine.

Today, that attitude seems laughably naïve. Those who have gold know that it is an unequaled storehouse of value. That they would meekly part with it at the government's behest requires a belief that naïveté still rules the land.

Far more likely is that gold owners would resist. And since they also tend to be gun owners, there could be serious confrontations. The government doesn't want mass resistance to one of its orders, nor an escalation of the domestic violence it will probably get anyway, when unemployment rises to Depression-era levels. It's simply not worth it.

Never say never where government stupidity is involved. But all things considered, a modern-day gold confiscation is not high on our list of financial worries.

Physical gold and silver, as well as select gold-related investments, are the go-to assets in times of uncertainty. One of our favorite gold stock winners – a great low-risk pick for prudent investors – has been generating 54% returns, at the same time the Dow and the S&P 500 fell through the floor in 2008.

IloveJFKJr - August 13, 2009 01:08 AM (GMT)

Okay, so I'm 19 years old and I have never once held a job before. The only thing close to a job in which I got a check was working at a state election polling place in June 2008 (I have applied for jobs this year). My check amounted to a total of $105.00 dollars which is the only thing that I have in my (student) bank account. My sister opened an account for me on January 2nd of this year. Anyway, I also have some more saved here at home.

So how would I go about getting gold and/or silver?

db45 - August 13, 2009 02:20 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (IloveJFKJr @ Aug 13 2009, 01:08 AM)
>
> Okay, so I'm 19 years old and I have never once held a job before. The only thing close to a job in which I got a check was working at a state election polling place in June 2008 (I have applied for jobs this year). My check amounted to a total of $105.00 dollars which is the only thing that I have in my (student) bank account. My sister opened an account for me on January 2nd of this year. Anyway, I also have some more saved here at home.
>
> So how would I go about getting gold and/or silver?

I would find out if there is a local coin store in your town. You want to go somewhere in person. there is a lot of fraud with internet gold and silver purchases.
also, a lot of the companies that sell gold want you to store their gold with them. Turns out many of those companies just take your money and never actually buy gold. they just hope that not everyone tries to redeem their gold.

I would tell anyone to start off with about 10% to 15% of their money in gold and silver. probably your best idea would be to buy silver coins such as US silver half dollars (1964 and before) and silver quarters (1964 and before). The 1964 coins were the last time they used silver in US coins (dimes, quarters, halves). They put JFK on the half dollar since that is what they do after "they" take down a big leader. same with Lincoln.

Some coin dealers might try to sell you collectible coins. don't go for them. they have high markups and all you are looking for is the metallic content.

if you have any questions let me know. hopefully there is a coin store close to you.

Insurgent - August 13, 2009 03:34 AM (GMT)

AMPEX <<Best that I know and use

BullionDirect

db45 - August 13, 2009 05:01 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Insurgent @ Aug 13 2009, 03:34 AM)
>
> AMPEX <<Best that I know and use
>
> BullionDirect

not sure if those have delays or not.
the thing is to get the gold and silver in a timely manner.
earlier in the year i heard of big delays in gold and silver orders. don't know about now though...

craig-oxley - August 13, 2009 12:50 PM (GMT)

http://trustedbullion.com

craig-oxley - August 13, 2009 02:58 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PqFpl31UwPI

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/PqFpl31UwPI&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xcfcfcf&feature=player_embedded&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/PqFpl31UwPI&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xcfcfcf&feature=player_embedded&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Insurgent - August 13, 2009 04:14 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (db45 @ Aug 13 2009, 05:01 AM)

> QUOTE (Insurgent @ Aug 13 2009, 03:34 AM)
>
> AMPEX <<Best that I know and use
>
> BullionDirect

not sure if those have delays or not.
the thing is to get the gold and silver in a timely manner.
earlier in the year i heard of big delays in gold and silver orders. don't know about now though...

Yes true there were delays, but they even stated that on their websites. Now I do not see any such warnings. So I guess it will be shipped out in a timely manner.

IloveJFKJr - August 14, 2009 03:48 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (db45 @ Aug 12 2009, 07:20 PM)
>
> I would find out if there is a local coin store in your town. You want to go somewhere in person. there is a lot of fraud with internet gold and silver purchases.
> also, a lot of the companies that sell gold want you to store their gold with them. Turns out many of those companies just take your money and never actually buy gold. they just hope that not everyone tries to redeem their gold.
>
> I would tell anyone to start off with about 10% to 15% of their money in gold and silver. probably your best idea would be to buy silver coins such as US silver half dollars (1964 and before) and silver quarters (1964 and before). The 1964 coins were the last time they used silver in US coins (dimes, quarters, halves). They put JFK on the half dollar since that is what they do after "they" take down a big leader. same with Lincoln.
>
> Some coin dealers might try to sell you collectible coins. don't go for them. they have high markups and all you are looking for is the metallic content.
>
> if you have any questions let me know. hopefully there is a coin store close to you.

Thanks, db45. I'll be searching around for some coin stores. Regarding the metallic content, how much of that content should one look for?

db45 - August 14, 2009 04:17 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (IloveJFKJr @ Aug 14 2009, 03:48 AM)
>
> > QUOTE (db45 @ Aug 12 2009, 07:20 PM)
> >
> > I would find out if there is a local coin store in your town. You want to go somewhere in person. there is a lot of fraud with internet gold and silver purchases.
> > also, a lot of the companies that sell gold want you to store their gold with them. Turns out many of those companies just take your money and never actually buy gold. they just hope that not everyone tries to redeem their gold.
> >
> > I would tell anyone to start off with about 10% to 15% of their money in gold and silver. probably your best idea would be to buy silver coins such as US silver half dollars (1964 and before) and silver quarters (1964 and before). The 1964 coins were the last time they used silver in US coins (dimes, quarters, halves). They put JFK on the half dollar since that is what they do after "they" take down a big leader. same with Lincoln.
> >
> > Some coin dealers might try to sell you collectible coins. don't go for them. they have high markups and all you are looking for is the metallic content.
> >
> > if you have any questions let me know. hopefully there is a coin store close to you.
>
> Thanks, db45. I'll be searching around for some coin stores. Regarding the metallic content, how much of that content should one look for?

the quarters and dimes from the year 1964 and before that are 90% silver.

the half dollars from those years are a little less...

i would concentrate on getting those coins.

i also like tenth of an ounce gold coins and quarter of an ounce gold coins. however, they are expensive with tenth of an ounce coins going for around $100 and quarter ounce coins going for around $250.

if you find a local coin store look around for good values.

if you can't find find any coin stores in the area then go on that website that is recommended on here.

Insurgent - August 14, 2009 04:18 AM (GMT)

BTW they are running a contest, who knows, try your luck.

https://www.apmex.com/CoinContestHome/defau...gn=CoinGiveAway

db45 - August 14, 2009 04:57 AM (GMT)

Why gold in the Kondratieff Winter?

*The following lays out the sequence of the events following the 1929 stock market crash.

Phase 1
"A flight from questionable securities into strong securities." This occurred during the initial stock market crash in 1929. The stock market recovered 50% of its losses into April 1930. Then as the bear market resumed, all securities, except for the gold shares, were sold regardless of quality. Following the stock market peak in October 2007, this flight from questionable securities into strong securities gathered momentum into November 2008. Following a probable stock market partial recovery into April 2009, all securities, except for gold shares, will likely be sold, as the bear market resumes with a vengeance.

Phase 2
"An intense liquidation of inventories and commodities" Then, 1930-1933; now, starting in July 2008 and continuing into a deflationary bottom, perhaps by 2012.

Phase 3
"The liquidation of commercial real estate, houses and farms, both through foreclosures and sacrifice sales at a fraction of prior values." Then-1930-1939; now, houses-starting in July 2007; commercial real estate just beginning; and farms to follow.

Phase 4
"The flight from banks into cash and gold (which ultimately caused the whole US banking system to collapse.)"-Then-1930-1933; now, mid-2008, perhaps until mid-2009; by which time US T-Bills are likely to become suspect monetary investments, which would make gold the ultimate store of value.

Phase 5
"The flight from the dollar to gold."-Then, October 1931-March 1933. In 1933, President Roosevelt stopped the flight to gold by suspending gold convertibility for the dollar and confiscating all privately held gold. Thereafter, the only way Americans could own gold was by investing in gold company shares. Nevertheless, the value of Homestake Mining shares had already tripled prior to the confiscation. This 5th stage is still pending, awaiting the demise of the dollar.

*Hoppe Donald, Donald Hoppe Analysis, January 1985, P.11.

link: http://www.longwavegroup.com/fivephases/fivephases.htm

servant of truth - August 14, 2009 05:23 AM (GMT)

I hope it follows the same course as I am more than 50% in gold shares (planning to buy more soon waiting for best timing, which may be now?) just wondering if gold shares will also suffer in the initial stages of t he sharemarket collapse or will rise at the same time as everything else is going down.

The good thing about gold stocks/siler stocks it there is far greater returns than just holding gold/silver, and the high likely hood that there will be future Dividends as the gold producers will be awash with cash from high demand and price.

some gold stocks have come off more than 500% of their lows my best buy has increased 350% (was at 400% at one stage) too bad I sold over half my position at 150% imagine what they will do if gold hits $5000?? which is likely in US$ terms.

One just needs to find a good company to invest in, although even bad companys will do well so you cant go to wrong as long as they have gold in the ground..

One good company in Austalia (ASX) is Perseus mining (PRU) good gold reserves, have good cash reserves and are a producer, and good management.. cant go too wrong at all with them except perhaps some short term volatility.

db45 - August 14, 2009 09:25 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (servant of truth @ Aug 14 2009, 05:23 AM)
>
> I hope it follows the same course as I am more than 50% in gold shares (planning to buy more soon waiting for best timing, which may be now?) just wondering if gold shares will also suffer in the initial stages of t > he sharemarket collapse or will rise at the same time as everything else is going down.
>
> The good thing about gold stocks/siler stocks it there is far greater returns than just holding gold/silver, and the high likely hood that there will be future Dividends as the gold producers will be awash with cash from high demand and price.
>
> some gold stocks have come off more than 500% of their lows my best buy has increased 350% (was at 400% at one stage) too bad I sold over half my position at 150% imagine what they will do if gold hits $5000?? which is likely in US$ terms.
>
> One just needs to find a good company to invest in, although even bad companys will do well so you cant go to wrong as long as they have gold in the ground..
>
> One good company in Austalia (ASX) is Perseus mining (PRU) good gold reserves, have good cash reserves and are a producer, and good management.. cant go too wrong at all with them except perhaps some short term volatility.

gold stocks will probably go down with other stocks in the next crash.
at least initially.
after that, who knows?

i like physical gold and silver best, because ultimately paper is still paper. even if it is paper stock in gold and silver companies.

i think half gold and silver and the other half of your money in cash, such as t-bills, dollars under the mattress, euros, and yen is the way to go.

you want to have a portfolio that will do will as more assets deflate and you also wants to protect against possible hyperinflation...

physical gold and silver are good hedges. as our common change such as nickels, quarters and dimes.

even physical cash could be a good investment in hyperinflation if you need something to roll your cigar or start a fire on a cold day with... :lol:

smashstuff - August 15, 2009 10:10 AM (GMT)

In the UK lately there are lots of adverts in the papers and on TV to send your gold in exchange for money. Looks like they're trying to shut down any alternative currencies.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: LATEST SILVER/GOLD PRICES

The Unhived Mind Ii > Precious metal investment & true wealth > LATEST SILVER/GOLD PRICES

Title: LATEST SILVER/GOLD PRICES
Description: [JUST REFRESH FOR CONSTANT UPDATES]

craig-oxley - September 27, 2009 01:41 PM (GMT)

[dohtml]
 <img src="http://www.kitco.com/images/live/silver.gif" border="0" alt="">

[/dohtml]

craig-oxley - September 27, 2009 01:43 PM (GMT)

[dohtml]
 <img src="http://www.kitco.com/images/live/gold.gif" border="0" alt="">

[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Hathaway - Gold Breakout & Subsequent Trading

Title: Hathaway - Gold Breakout & Subsequent Trading Description: Encouraging

TheUnhivedMind - July 21, 2011 04:36 AM (GMT)

Hathaway - Gold Breakout & Subsequent Trading Encouraging

Jul 20 2011
http://kingworldnews.com/kingworldnews/KWN...ncouraging.html

With gold and silver consolidating recent gains, today King World News interviewed one of the most respected institutional minds in the gold world, John Hathaway, Portfolio Manager of the Tocqueville Gold Fund. When asked about the action in gold Hathaway stated, “Well we have had a breakout five or six percent above the $1,550 area which had capped previous rallies, that’s very encouraging. I think everybody’s holding their breath on this debt ceiling debate in Washington. Certainly the money going into gold is nervous about both Europe and the possibility of a US default. So this to me is still a very pregnant moment and we’ll just have to wait and see.”

Hathaway continues:

“We’re getting down to that deadline of August 2nd and there’s a new plan every minute. I don’t think we will default, we will pay our interest on outstanding government debt. So for me this is just a moment where you hold your breath. We could go to $2,000, but I’d be careful. I mean we haven’t sold anything, we are long, we’ve covered shorts where we could be short. So we are very much positioned for further advances in the gold price and more importantly further advances in gold mining stocks.

My assessment of the market here is that there are tremendous worries that things will not go well (in Washington) and if things don’t go well then we will get to $2,000 before you know it. Anywhere in the world you are not getting a return on saved money and that’s an explosive, very constructive situation for capital to seek out tangible safety in gold. So as long as we have negative rates, which I think we are going to have as far as the eye can see, gold is poised to go higher."

When asked about the action in the gold shares Hathaway responded, "It's terrific, we are starting to see relative strength. Whether gold goes up another $100 or not, I don't think that's important for mining stocks. You are about to see some sensational earnings reported over the next couple of weeks.

The issue for investors is, is $1,500 gold sustainable? I don't think that's an issue anymore....

"...so I'm looking for gold stocks in general to be re-priced over the next several months. Gold stocks have tremendous catch-up potential. I don't know whether that's 30% or 25% or 40%, but it's something like that because of what kind of earnings they report.

Let's say the government does start to cut medicare benefits and social security and all of that sort of thing, which is very politically difficult, that's very deflationary. So what that would mean is that the economy is going to be at best in a stall mode and so corporate earnings won't be that great.

The only sector that would be an exception to that will be precious metals. So mining stocks will be producing great earnings, where the rest of the economy is stalling out. Just by exception, people will have to look at them, that to me will be very positive for mining stocks I think for the next 6 to 12 months."

When asked if silver could get on a tear again Hathaway said, "Sure, I think that will be more determined by the action in gold, but in my mind silver has more work to do to burn off the excesses that got it up to $50, the emotional excess that got it up to $50 earlier this year. But as far as a silver company goes, $40 silver is nirvana. As with the gold stocks, they are going to be making a lot of money and I think the market will start to take notice of that."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold Confiscation Act in the Works

Title: Gold Confiscation Act in the Works
Description: [JUST POSSIBLE SCARE TACTICS]

TheUnhivedMind - July 21, 2011 03:15 AM (GMT)

Gold Confiscation Act in the Works

http://www.moneyteachers.org/gold+confiscation+act.htm

POSTMASTER: PLEASE POST IN A CONSPICUOUS PLACE.—JAMES A. FARLEY, Postmaster General

UNDER EXECUTIVE ORDER OF THE PRESIDENT

Issued April 5, 1933

all persons are required to deliver

ON OR BEFORE MAY 1, 1933

all GOLD COIN, GOLD BULLION, AND GOLD CERTIFICATES now owned by them to a Federal Reserve Bank, branch or agency, or to any member bank of the Federal Reserve System.

Executive Order

FORBIDDING THE HOARDING OF GOLD COIN, GOLD BULLION AND GOLD CERTIFICATES.

I just received information from an inside source that they are in fact writing the legislation for a new gold confiscation act. I expect this to happen this fall. Here is how I see things playing out:

1. Executive Order, signed by Obama, that makes the ownership of gold a criminal offense.

2. Those that own gold will be instructed to surrender it in exchange for a set dollar amount.

3. Gold Confiscation will be sold to the general public as a necessary step to stabilizing the dollar and a return to the gold standard.

4. Ownership of gold will be sold as "unpatriotic" and "anti-American".

5. The act will be enforced by the United States Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service.

The Satanic Psychopaths have stolen our homes, our jobs and our life savings, placing many Americans on the receiving end of a government check. Those that they control through our tax dollars, and those that work for the Federal government will embrace this legislation. They will see it as a way to continue their current source of income.

The Satanists also use jealousy and class warfare as their favorite weapon. Gold owners will be treated as "domestic terrorists" that want to bring down the United States economy.

As I have said repeatedly. Sell your gold and buy silver. Email me at pdrockton@aol.com.

Insurgent - July 21, 2011 03:56 AM (GMT)

HAhahahahahahahahah hey IRS you dirty pigs, I may have sold my gold but I do have my silver coins and bricks. "Come on down!!!!!!!" as the old fart on The Price Is Right used to say.

Maybe those braindead useless eaters in the 30's so called GREATEST GENERATION were dumb enough, but not us, ohhhh no. There will be blood on the streets to the knee height.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Is Gold Taking the Stairway To Heavenly Prices?

Title: Is Gold Taking the Stairway To Heavenly Prices?

TheUnhivedMind - July 21, 2011 02:58 AM (GMT)

Is Gold Taking the Stairway To Heavenly Prices?

Jul 19, 2011 - 04:06 PM
By: Eric_McWhinnie
http://www.marketoracle.co.uk/Article29367.html

It was a historic day for the financial markets on Monday. As the Dow (NYSE:DIA), S&P 500 (NYSE:SPY), and Nasdaq (NASDAQ:QQQ) headed lower, one sector continued its rally. Precious metals (NYSE:DBP) such as gold (NYSE:GLD) and silver (NYSE:SLV) surged higher on Monday.

Gold reached a new all-time high above $1600/oz, and silver climbed back above $40/oz. Ongoing default fears and currency devaluation continues to give investors a reason to hold precious metals. It also didn't help that Moody's (NYSE:MCO) is now suggesting that the United States simply remove the debt ceiling, in order to avoid default (despite S&P saying the US could still default with a debt ceiling raise). With the current monetary policy and confusion, it's easy to see how gold reached a new all-time high, but let's look how gold reached these new highs on a technical level.

Despite not being able to eat gold, investors still run to it in times of uncertainty. The chart below shows gold's steady step ladder rise since the beginning of July. Gold's rise on the chart is in a staircase pattern, which is known as a "swiss stair accumulation." This technical formation is very bullish for gold. As you can see, the swiss stair formation has taken gold from $1480, to a new all-time high above $1600. In fact, gold has climbed higher for 10 straight trading sessions.

With gold's historic run, investors may be wondering when a pullback may occur. Although the gold bull cycle is still intact, pullbacks do occur. Considering the swiss stairway formation on the chart, investors should be cautious if gold falls below $1576. This was the previous low of the last large step. If gold falls below $1576, the stairway will be in jeopardy of collapsing.

Investors looking to hold precious metals in their portfolio may want to consider gold plays such as AngloGold (NYSE:AU), Newmont Mining (NYSE:NEM), or Market Vectors Jr Gold Miners ETF (NYSE:GDXJ). Hot silver plays include First Majestic Silver (NYSE:AG), Endeavour Silver (AMEX:EXK), and Global X Silver Miners ETF (NYSE: SIL).

For more analysis on our support levels and ranges for gold and silver, consider a free 14-day trial to our acclaimed Gold & Silver Investment Newsletter.

Disclosure: Long AGQ.

By Eric_McWhinnie

http://wallstcheatsheet.com

Wall St. Cheat Sheet : Only days after the S&P 500 crashed to the depths of hell at 666, the Hoffman brothers launched Wall St. Cheat Sheet: one of the fastest growing financial media sites on the web. Like a samurai, our mission is to cut through the bull and bear shit with extraordinary insights, a fresh voice, and razor-sharp wit. We provide the highest quality education and information for active investors, financial professionals, and entrepreneurs.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold to Rise on $14.3 Trillion U.S. Debt Limit

Title: Gold to Rise on $14.3 Trillion U.S. Debt Limit Description: Increase

TheUnhivedMind - July 21, 2011 02:56 AM (GMT)

Gold to Rise on $14.3 Trillion U.S. Debt Limit Increase – Bloomberg Chart of the Day

Goldcore Bullion and Wealth Management Company | Jul. 20, 2011
http://www.businessinsider.com/gold-to-ris...-the-day-2011-7

Gold is flat in U.S. dollars and New Zealand dollars but marginally lower in most currencies today as increased risk appetite has seen risk assets rally despite poor fundamentals. Most Asian indices were higher, except the Chinese and Indian markets, and European indices have also risen.

Gold is trading at USD 1,587.00, EUR 1,116.1, GBP 983.50 and CHF 1,302.10 per ounce.

user posted image
Bloomberg Chart of the Day from Korea Investment

Respite has also been seen in Eurozone debt markets with bond yields falling. Rumours of ECB intervention through peripheral bond buying have helped steady things but the ECB has not given any indication that it is supporting vulnerable European sovereign debt markets.

For now markets appear more interested in Apple's massive profits than Uncle Sam's massive debts.

user posted image
Cross Currency Rates

The Republican controlled U.S. House, defying a veto threat, voted last night (234-190) to slice federal spending by $6 trillion and require a constitutional amendment for a balanced budget to be sent to the states in exchange for averting a threatened Aug. 2 government default.

Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner has said the government will run out of options to prevent a default by August 2 – in 13 days time.

Standard & Poor's Ratings Services and Moody's Investors Service have said they are likely to downgrade the U.S.'s credit rating if Congress doesn't act.

An increase in the $14.3 trillion U.S. debt ceiling is inevitable and is a question of when rather than if.

The Bloomberg Chart of the Day (see above) shows how gold in dollars is correlated with increases in the U.S.'s debt limit, particularly in the last 10 years.

user posted image
Bloomberg Composite Gold Inflation Adjusted Spot Price – 1970-2011

Julia Yoo, a Seoul-based analyst at Korea Investment told Bloomberg that "gold's rally is quite explosive."

"Increasing the debt limit means you print more dollars, which will weaken the dollar and consequently lift the gold price," adding to gains this year that were driven by demand from countries including China."

Gold is 12% higher in dollar terms so far in 2011 and is the best performing currency in the world in the last 12 months.

Gold has risen 33% against the U.S. dollar over the past year, outpacing all of the more than 150 currencies tracked by Bloomberg.

user posted image
United States Debt Ceiling 1940-2011

However, over the long term gold remains undervalued or at worst fairly valued.

Admittedly, gold has risen by nearly 6.5 times in the last 11 years.

However, in the last bull market in the 1970s, gold rose 24 times from $35/oz to over $850/oz in 9 years. Gold remains well below its 1980 record high of $2,400/oz when adjusted for inflation.

The macroeconomic conditions today are even more conducive to gold than they were in the 1970s.

Most industrial nations such as the US, Japan, Germany etc were creditor nations in the 1970s.

Today they are debtor nations with the US the largest debtor nation the world has ever seen. The fiscal situation in the US is appalling and deteriorating – with a National Debt of nearly $14.5 trillion and unfunded government liabilities of between $60 trillion and $100 trillion.

As long ago as 2003 we said that this inflation adjusted high price from 1980 would likely be reached and surpassed. We said that at that stage gold could be in a bubble and it would be time to reduce allocations while keeping a core financial insurance holding in gold.

In 2005, we said that the growing property bubbles in the UK, the U.S. and the massive debt levels in the western world (household, mortgage debt and in the banking system) would likely lead to a deterioration in government balance sheets and sovereign debt crises which in turn could lead to currency crises.

We are entering the late intermediate to final stage of this process and the real risk of a currency crises in any one of the major fiat currencies rises by the day.

Please follow Money Game on Twitter and Facebook.
Follow Goldcore Bullion and Wealth Management Company on Twitter.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Heirs Lose Fight With Govt to Keep Rare Gold Coins

Title: Heirs Lose Fight With Govt to Keep Rare Gold Coins
Description: [DONT TELL GOVERNMENTS NOTHING!]

TheUnhivedMind - July 21, 2011 02:39 AM (GMT)

Heirs Lose Fight With Gov't to Keep Rare Gold Coins

By Maryclaire Dane
Wednesday, Jul 20, 2011
http://www.nbcphiladelphia.com/news/local/...-125908579.html

A jury has decided that a set of rare gold coins found in a bank deposit box rightfully belongs to the U.S. government.

The decision, made on Wednesday, caps an unusual civil case that combined history, coin collecting and whether the set of rare $20 "double eagles" should have ever let the U.S. Mint in 1933.

Federal prosecutors had asserted that the coins never circulated when the country went off the gold standard. Most of the batch was instead melted down.

But Joan Langbord, the daughter of a Philadelphia jeweler, said she found the 10 coins in her father's bank deposit bank after he died.

She said that her father could have acquired them legally, perhaps through a trade of gold scrap.

One 1933 double eagle sold for $7.6 million in 2002.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Newedge Sees Gold at $1,800 in 2011, Silver at $70

Title: Newedge Sees Gold at $1,800 in 2011, Silver at $70
Description: by March on Asia Demand

TheUnhivedMind - July 21, 2011 12:30 AM (GMT)

Newedge Sees Gold at $1,800 in 2011, Silver at $70 by March on Asia Demand

By Yi Tian and Debarati Roy - Jul 21, 2011 12:18 AM GMT+0100
http://www.bloomberg.com/news/2011-07-20/n...sia-demand.html

Gold prices will surge to $1,800 an ounce by the end of this year, and silver will soar to $70 an ounce by March as physical demand climbs in Asia and investors seek a haven asset, Newedge USA LLC said.

“Gold is an excellent hedge in troubled times” as European and the U.S. leaders struggle to resolve debt woes, Mike Frawley, the global head of metals, said yesterday in an interview in New York. Demand for gold and silver will be “very strong long-term from Asia, and the economic trend in the West is improving,” he said.

The gold forecast indicates a 13 percent rally from current levels. The metal climbed to a record $1,610.70 on July 19. The silver estimate means prices will jump 77 percent from yesterday’s closing price. Newedge, based in New York, was the biggest futures-commission merchant by a measure of customer assets on deposit as of May.

Record investment demand for gold in India will keep climbing as higher incomes spur buying, Reliance Capital Asset Management, the operator of the country’s second-biggest fund backed by the metal, said last week. Chinese demand, which increased 32 percent in 2010, may double in the next 10 years, according to the World Gold Council.

Industrial metals such as aluminum and copper will also benefit from robust demand in emerging markets, Frawley said. Aluminum may climb to $3,000 a metric ton in the first quarter, and copper will rise above $10,000 a ton, he said.
‘Very Positive’ Outlook

“Millions of Chinese people are moving from the countryside to cities annually and that migration is leading to new jobs and new wealth, and the money is being invested in various opportunities,” Frawley said. “And you add to that the growth and modernization of India. The outlook for metals is very positive.”

Yesterday, gold futures for August delivery fell $4.20, or 0.3 percent, to $1,596.90 on the Comex in New York. This month, the price rose for 10 straight sessions, the longest rally in 31 years, as debt concerns in the U.S. and Europe escalated.

Gold will climb to $1,900 by October, John Taylor, the founder of FX Concepts LLC in New York, the world’s largest currency hedge fund, said yesterday in an interview in London. His firm manages $8 billion.

Silver futures for September delivery dropped 66.3 cents, or 1.6 percent, to $39.558 yesterday. In January 1980, the metal climbed to a record $50.35. The price reached $49.845 on April 25.

On the London Metal Exchange, copper for delivery in three months declined $85, or 0.9 percent, to $9,755 a ton yesterday. On Feb. 15, the metal reached a record $10,190. Aluminum dropped $14, or 0.5 percent, to $2,536 a ton.

To contact the reporters on this story: Yi Tian in New York at ytian8@bloomberg.net; Debarati Roy in New York at droy5@bloomberg.net

To contact the editor responsible for this story: Steve Stroth at sstroth@bloomberg.net

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Precious Metals Ready for Big-Time Run as Global

Title: Precious Metals Ready for Big-Time Run as Global Description: Breakdown Begins

TheUnhivedMind - July 20, 2011 12:41 AM (GMT)

Precious Metals Ready for Big-Time Run as Global Breakdown Begins

-- Posted Monday, 18 July 2011 | Share this article | Source: GoldSeek.com
By Jordan Roy-Byrne, CMT
http://news.goldseek.com/GoldSeek/1311012392.php

An important shift in global markets is taking place and it bears introspection. Gold has broken to a new high while Silver has established a bottom. Precious metals stocks have rebounded significantly from support. At the same time, important global stock markets are in the early stage of a technical breakdown. We don't foresee a repeat of 2007-2008, yet odds are good that global stock markets are beginning a cyclical bear market and unlike the last cycle this is coming at a time when precious metals are set to accelerate to the upside.

In the following chart we show important global markets. From top to bottom: India, Hong Kong, Australia, Brazil and the Europe 50 Index. The last three have broken below a no longer rising 400-day moving average while Hong Kong is quite close to reaching the same fate. More importantly, most of these markets do not have strong technical support nearby to prevent a selloff that builds downside momentum.

The S&P 500 looks okay, but why? In the chart below we compare the S&P 500 against the S&P 500 priced in a basket of foreign currencies excluding the greenback. The market priced in foreign currencies reached only a marginal new high in 2011 and is currently trading below its 2010 high. Meanwhile, in US$ terms, the market is trading comfortable above its 2010 high.

The S&P 500 is holding up okay in relative terms but thats only because global markets have had a head start. The S&P 500 may only be six months behind. One reason to think that is the precarious circumstances of the banks. Below we graph the Bank Index which looks like crap. Sorry, it is an apt description. The Banks have broken below a 400-day moving average which has stopped rising. The Banks have some support from 42-45 and if that is broken, look out below.

Next we look at Gold and the gold shares. From top to bottom we graph Gold, GDX (large caps) and GDXJ (large juniors). The horizontal line on each chart marks the previous (2007-2008) all time high resistance. GDXJ's is based on a re-balancing of the index pre-2009. Anyway, we see that Gold has broken to another all-time high while the shares rebounded strongly from important support. Moreover, the precious metals complex is trading beyond the former highs, while important global markets failed to do so. GDX and GDXJ can explode when they surpass the 2010-2011 highs.

Before we conclude, we need to make some distinctions between today and 2008. Today's credit stress is primarily with governments. The stress and liquidation from the private sector dominated dominated the landscape in 2007 and 2008. Governments have absorbed many of those losses and now it is the credit quality and creditworthiness of governments that is come into question. Remember, when you or I have credit problems, it is deflationary as we have to sell things to raise cash. For governments, it is inflationary as debt crisis' always become currency crisis'.

Secondly, if you've followed our recent editorials you'll know that sentiment indicators for precious metals are very encouraging. In recent weeks, speculative long positions in both metals were near multi-year lows. Public opinion in both Gold and Silver are nowhere near the highs. Also, assets in the Rydex Precious Metals fund were recently at a two-year low. All of this, with the sector trading near record high. Back in 2008 the sector was trading near record year highs and the speculation and optimism reflected that.

Finally, in analyzing bull markets lasting 15-20 years, we've noted that an acceleration in trend usually begins in the 11th or 12th year and is obvious by the end of the 12th year. Gold is in its 12th year while the 12th year for gold stocks would begin in Q4 of this year. Note that Gold has broken to a new high ahead of the typical breakout in September. That is another hint at what is to come. The next 18 to 24 months figure to be quite exciting and extremely profitable for those invested in this bull market. If you'd like to learn more about how to profit, manage risk and have a professional guide you, then you can learn more about our service here.

Good Luck!

Jordan Roy-Byrne, CMT
Jordan@TheDailyGold.com

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Hong Kong Mercantile Exchange to launch silver

Title: Hong Kong Mercantile Exchange to launch silver Description: futures on July 22

TheUnhivedMind - July 20, 2011 12:31 AM (GMT)

Hong Kong Mercantile Exchange to launch silver futures on July 22

Mon Jul 18, 2011 7:47am GMT
http://af.reuters.com/article/metalsNews/i...E7II0W920110718

SINGAPORE, July 18 (Reuters) - The Hong Kong Mercantile Exchange (HKMEx) said on Monday it will start trading a dollar-denominated silver futures contract on July 22, hoping to tap into the growing demand for the metal in China.

The silver contract will trade in lots of 1,000 troy ounces and be delivered in Hong Kong, the exchange said in a statement.

Silver demand rose 67 percent in China and 17 percent globally between 2008 and 2010, the exchange said, citing market data it has compiled.

"The new contract will enable buyers and sellers in China to trade effectively with their counterparts across the world, while at the same time, allowing investors to gain exposure to silver price movements and broaden their investment portfolio," said HKMEx president Albert Helmig in the statement.

The exchange rolled out a dollar-denominated gold futures contract in May.

The exchange also plans to launch yuan-priced gold and silver futures to capitalise on growing investor demand for China's strengthening currency, with further ambition for products in base metals, energy and agriculture, Helmig told Reuters earlier this month.

Spot silver traded at $39.89 an ounce by 0707 GMT, down 19 percent from a record of $49.51 hit on April 28. The metal, notorious for price volatility, surged 60 percent earlier this year to the peak before dropping 33 percent over six sessions in early May.

(Reporting by Rujun Shen; Editing by Ed Lane)

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold price climbs to new record on debt uncertaint

Title: Gold price climbs to new record on debt uncertaint

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 06:28 PM (GMT)

Gold price climbs to new record on debt uncertainty

Gold prices have been rising because of continued concerns over Europe's debt crisis

19 July 2011 Last updated at 16:03
http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/business-14195981

The price of gold has hit a new record price of $1,610 an ounce as debt worries in the US and Europe have intensified.

It climbed above $1,600 for the first time on Monday, capping a record-breaking rally of 11 days of gains.

Gold is considered a safe investment and usually gains at times of global economic uncertainty.

But Spanish and Italian bond yields eased and banking shares rose, reversing large falls seen on Monday.

Government borrowing costs are continuing to rise, though. A Spanish bond auction was oversubscribed, but the government was forced to offer sharply higher returns to sell 4.45bn euros (£3.9bn) of bonds.

On the 12-month bonds, the average rate soared to 3.7% from 2.7% at the last such auction on 14 June. For 18-month bonds, the yield was up to 3.9% from 3.3% last time.
Bank rises

However, Italian and Spanish bond yields eased on Tuesday. The rate on Italian 10-year bonds fell to 5.7% having topped 6% on Monday, while the rate on the Spanish equivalent fell 0.15 percentage points to 6.12%.

On Monday, yields had risen in a sign that financial markets were sceptical that governments would be able to bring an end to the debt crisis.

European banking shares also rose on Tuesday, buoyed by the bond market and helped by a better performance from US bank shares late on Monday.

Shares in Lloyds Banking Group rose 4.1% in London, while French banks Societe Generale, Credit Agricole and BNP Paribas also rose by between 3.5% and 4.5%.
'More advances'

The record breaking gold price comes ahead of Thursday's summit of eurozone leaders in Brussels where they will once again try to contain the growing debt crisis.

Investors are concerned that Greece may default on its debt, and countries such as Italy and Spain, who are also struggling with high debt levels, will get pulled into the crisis.

"Gold hit another milestone... at $1,600 as investors lose confidence in the ability of politicians to get a grip with the debt problems weighing down on sentiment," said Michael Hewson from CMC Markets, a trading group.

"More advances look likely," he said.

As well as gold hitting a new record, silver also continued to climb, to above $40 an ounce, its highest price for two months.

US default?

Meanwhile in the US, politicians are struggling to reach an agreement on a deficit reduction plan in time to avoid a debt default before the deadline of 2 August.

There are also worries about the strength of the US economy and of the dollar.

Nicholas Brooks, the head of investment strategy at ETF Securities, told the BBC: "I think the concern is that if we see another round of so called quantitative easing, it's basically de-basing the US dollar. It's putting new dollars into the system and that of course makes investors concerned about holding on to US dollars.

"When they look at the alternative, the euro and the issues that are now affecting the euro, they look for alternatives and gold of course is one of the first places they go, along with other so-called hard commodities," he added.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Negative Interest Rates, Euro Disintegration, Fuel

Title: Negative Interest Rates, Euro Disintegration, Fuel
Description: GOld's Historic Rally

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:51 AM (GMT)

Negative Interest Rates, Euro Disintegration, Fuel Gold's Historic Rally

By Gary Dorsch

The Federal Reserve has just ended its $600-billion Treasury bond-buying program, known as QE-2, and already, traders are trying to figure what new tricks the Fed might in the months ahead, in order counter a significant correction in the US-stock market in the second half of 2011. Including QE-1 and QE-2, the Fed pumped $2.35-trillion into the coffers of the Wall Street Oligarchs. Together with near-zero interest rates, and the printing of trillions of dollars the Fed fueled a speculative stampede into the commodity and stock markets, enabling traders to record bumper profits,while doing little to reduce the jobless rate.

Significantly, upon launching QE-2 in Nov '10, the Fed said that it was deliberately seeking to raise the inflation rate in a calculated bid to encourage a further sell-off of the US-dollar's exchange rate. One result of the Fed's QE-2 scheme was triggering a flood of hot money into the currencies of the Emerging economies, such as Brazil, China, Chile, Russia, and Korea, (BRICK), where interest rates are much higher than in the G-7 markets. Central banks in the BRICK countries are now caught in a vicious cycle, forced to lift interest rates, to fend off the inflationary pressures that are blown their way, by QE in England, Japan, and the US.

The latest explosion in commodity prices has lifted the Continuous Commodity Index to new all-time highs.

A good portion of the global surplus of cheap cash is being funneled into crude oil, copper, cotton, Gold and Silver, and food staples such as wheat, corn, rice and soybeans. The world's most actively traded commodity, - crude oil, has risen to dangerously high levels that if sustained, could derail the global economy, and knock the European, Japanese, and US economies into recession. Despite desperate maneuvers by the US-government to cap the rise of crude oil, such as releasing 30-million barrels of crude from the strategic petroleum reserve in the month of July, the price of North Sea Brent, the world's benchmark, is resilient, trading above $110 /barrel, and could climb to $140 /barrel, if the Fed launches QE-3.

By locking the fed funds rate near zero-percent, and vastly expanding the supply of US-dollars into the banking network, the Fed was able to engineer a doubling of the value of the S&P-500's Index from its March 2009 lows, and lifted the Dow Jones Industrials, to as high as the 12,800-level, to levels that prevailed shortly before the collapse of Lehman Brothers. Yet when seen through the prism of Gold, and measured in "hard money" terms, the US-stock market's rally was in essence, - a monetary illusion. In fact, 1-share of the Dow Industrials can only fetch 7.8-ounces of Gold today, little changed since the lows of March 2009.

The Fed was aiming for a "wealth effect" that could lift the animal spirit of US-households, as their brokerage portfolios increased in value, and thereby encouraging them to spend more money in the economy. The Fed got a lot of bang for its buck with QE-2, lifting the S&P-500 index +35% higher. Unfortunately, the stock market gains went disproportionately to the wealthiest 10% of Americans, who own more than 80% of outstanding stock. For the remaining 90% of Americans there was little trickle down from QE-2. Last month, a CNN poll found that 48% of Americans believe another Great Depression is somewhat or very likely.

According to a recent opinion poll of 24 bond dealers that trade directly with the Fed, only 20% though the Fed would unleash QE-3 within the next 12-months. St. Louis Fed chief James Bullard said on June 30th, it could take up to a year for the Fed to correctly gauge the effects QE-2 on the US- economy. So it came as a bit of a shock, when on July 13th, Fed chief Ben "Bubbles" Bernanke telegraphed to the markets, that the Fed stands ready to launch QE-3 if the US-stock market runs out of gas, and needs more high octane fuel.

"The possibility remains that the recent economic weakness may prove more persistent than expected and deflationary risks might reemerge, implying a need for additional policy support," Bernanke told the House of Representatives on July 13th. "Given the range of uncertainties about the strength of the recovery and prospects for inflation over the medium term, the Fed remains prepared to respond should economic developments indicate that an adjustment in the stance of monetary policy would be appropriate," he said.

By opening the door to QE-3, as early as the fourth quarter of 2011, the Fed chief ignited a powerful surge in the precious metals markets, lifting gold towards $1,600 /oz, and snapping the silver market back to life, - surging higher above $40 /oz. Precious metal investors can hardly believe their good fortune, - the Fed chief is QE addict. Just two weeks since the end of QE-2, the Fed chief was already begun to feel the ill effects of QE withdrawal symptoms, and has an itchy finger to print more money.

"Quantitative Easing" (QE), is the nuclear option of central banking. Central banks that experiment with the hallucinogenic QE-drug are in fact, monetizing debt, and attempting to keep long-term bond yields locked at artificially low interest rates, regardless if the underlying inflation rate surges sharply higher, due to the expansion of the money supply. The Bank of Japan (BoJ) for instance, has succeeded in driving the yield on Japan's 10-year government bond (JGB) to as low as 1.05% this week, even though the supply of Japan's debt, has mushroomed to 230% of Japan's GDP, - and its debt rating has been cut to AA-.

"Even with the federal funds rate close to zero, we have a number of ways in which we could act to ease financial conditions further," Bernanke added. What's little recognized by the unsuspecting public is that with QE-2, the Fed ventured deep into new unexplored territory, by the slashing yield on the 1-year US T-bill a stunning -250-basis points, to a record low of (negative) 3.40-percent. The "real" rate of interest fell sharply as consumer and wholesale prices turned sharply higher, fueled by booming commodity prices. At the same time the Fed was slashing the real rate of interest by 250-bps, it was also pumping $600-billion of "high powered" money into the coffers of Wall Street's Oligarchic banks and hedge funds, that in turn, pumped the ultra-cheap money into commodities, equities, and Gold and Silver.

It's not just in the US-money markets, where the "real rate of interest," adjusted for inflation, is dropping sharply lower. In Shanghai, the inflation adjusted yield on China's 1-year T-bill rate has plunged to (negative) 3%, from positive +12-basis points, about 1-½ years ago. Five quarter-point rate hikes by the People's Bank of China (PBoC), lifting its one year loan rate to 6.56% on July 6th, have only acted to stem the slide in the real rate of interest on Chinese T-bills, and short-term bank deposit rates, since the PBoC is lingering far behind the increase in the underlying rate of inflation in China.

China's annual inflation has accelerated to a 3-year high of +6.4% in June, leaving inflation-adjusted interest rates deep in negative territory. Thatencourages savers in China to funnel their money into inflation hedges such as Gold. Worryingly, there are signs that a weak US-dollar and expectations of QE-3, is still buoying key global commodity prices near record high levels. Furthermore, traders generally suspect that Beijing typically understates the true rate of inflation in the country, while overstating the strength of its economy, when reporting its statistics. So with a backdrop of deeply negative interest rates, the price of Gold has risen dramatically in Shanghai, to a record 10,400-yuan /oz, up nearly +50% from a year ago.

The State Information Centre said in a lengthy report in the official China Securities Journal on July 13th, that rising food prices are hurting consumer confidence and squeezing their spending power, thereby undermining the economy. "China's real deposit rate has been negative for 16-months and prices are still climbing. We suggest the central bank increase interest rates further by one or two percentage points, to change the negative returns on household savings," the centre said. Yet the PBoC is expected to limit further increases in short-term T-bill rates to 50-basis point higher than today, in order to prevent the appearance of an inverted yield curve, and toppling its economy into a hard landing.

Gold is Safe haven from Disintegration of the Euro

After slumping in the month of January to as low as $1,300 /oz, the price of Gold in New York has been climbing steadily higher, - and tracking the upward spiral in Greek bond yields. While Euro-zone politicians have tried to pull every magic trick out of the book to put worries over Greece's insolvency to rest, the bond vigilantes have blow the lid off the Greek bond market. The upward spiral in Greece's 2-year note yield to an all-time high of 33.40% in July, is all the information a gold trader needs to know, - where there's smoke, there is fire. The Greek wildfire has already engulfed Ireland and Portugal, and is now spreading to the Spanish and Italian bond markets, putting more than $2-trillion of bond holdings at risk of devaluation.

Prospects for a disastrous, disorderly outcome to the Greek debt crisis are beginning to show up in the currency and precious metals markets, even though wildly bullish investors in the stock market do not believe it will actually happen. The result is that today's soaring bond yields in Greece, Ireland, and Portugal, may only be a taste of what could come if Euro zone leaders fail ring-fence the weaker peripheral bond markets. Regardless of what Euro-zone central bankers and politicians have to say, the rapidly escalating yields for Greece's bonds, is a clear signal that Athens is heading for default, and there's little faith that the IMF can cobble a successful bailout. In the Euro zone, there's no central government authority, and politicians have opposing interests. So more often that not, very little gets resolved without a crisis.

A disorderly default in Greece would bring steep losses to bond holders, especially for the Euro-zone's Oligarchic banks and the ECB itself. Over the past year, the main targets of banks and speculators have been smaller economies on the periphery of the EU, such as Portugal, Ireland and Greece. But now, Europe's escalating debt crisis is on the verge of engulfing by far its biggest victim: Italy, the world's seventh-largest economy, whose sheer size could thwart any scheme to bail it out. The addition of Italy to the so-called PIGS of Europe - Portugal, Ireland, Greece and Spain, marks a serious escalation of the crisis.

Italy's total debt outstanding of nearly €1.8-trillion dwarfs that of Greece (€340-billion) and is more than two-and-a-half times bigger than the total amount (€750-billion) available in the EU bailout fund. Italy's bond market is the third largest in the world, after the US and Japan. A large-scale withdrawal of funds from Italian bonds would have enormous repercussions for the international banking system. As a result, Italy has been described as a country that's "too big to fail," and at the same time "too big to save."

An IMF staff report issued July 13th, sharply criticized leading Euro zone politicians for failing to develop unified measures to contain the debt crisis, thereby raising the possibility of a contagion wildfire spreading to other European nations. The main source of friction is Berlin's insistence that the banks and private bondholders accept part of the pain of any new bailout for Greece. European banks may have to raise as much as €80-billion ($113-billion) of additional capital, to cover the losses in their trading books with 10-year Greek government bonds trading at about 51-cents on the Euro.

Uncertainty over the financial health of the Euro-zone's banking system, and lingering fears that countries such as Greece, Ireland, and Portugal might eventually be forced to leave the Euro currency itself, has led many depositors in the Club-Med countries to seek safer havens in the Swiss franc and the Gold market. Foreign currency traders have bid-up the value of the Swiss franc to a record high against the Euro, while closely tracking the direction of weaker Euro-zone bond markets, including Italy's bond yields. Since the start of 2011, the yield on Italy's 2-year note has jumped by roughly 2% to as high as 4.78% this week. Most of that increase in yield occurred in the month of July, - lifting the Swiss franc to 0.88-Euros.

The European Banking Authority said July 15th, that only eight banks out of the 90 failed a so-called "stress test," in the event of a severe downturn in the economy. Yet traders thought the report was seriously flawed, because theEBA didn't include a scenario in which Greece defaulted on its debts, even though the credit default swap market is pricing in a 90% chance of a Greek default. The total loss for all banks in the test on sovereign debt in their trading books was just €10.5-billion. That compares to a total net direct sovereign exposure to Portugal, Ireland, Italy, Greece and Spain of €687-billion.

Italian banks, which easily passed the EBA's "stress tests" and were pronounced to be in good health by the Bank of Italy, resumed their sharp downward slide on July 18th, falling more than lenders elsewhere and driving Milan's main stock market index into bear market territory. Adding to the sense of fear was that the sharp slide of Intesa Sanpaolo SpA, Italy's largest lender, whose shares plunged -4.2% in midday trading. Other banks, such as Unicredit, Banco Popolare and Banca Monte dei Paschi di Siena were all tumbling lower, as yields on Italy's 2-year note jumped to 4.70%, and its 10-year yield hit 6-percent.

Italian banks have €164-billion in exposure to domestic government debt on their books, but a bigger €1.26-trillion in private debts that would likely lose value in step with a sovereign default. Regardless of sovereign default prospects, the cost of borrowing for the private-sector is rising sharply at a time when Italy's economic growth prospects are weak.

Another big worry is Spain where regional and local banks could be sitting on an explosive amount of unacknowledged losses relating to a real-estate bust. If they are, it could require a takeover of the Spanish banking sector's bad debt by the Spanish government, a scenario that's similar to Ireland. Official figures show that the badloans held by Spanish banks are around €112-billion. Closer examination reveals further losses, as loans to the stricken construction and real estate sector stood at €440-billion at the end of 2010.

There is no guarantee that investors will continue to buy Spanish bonds when its economy is contracting. Spain's jobless rate has soared to 21.3%, the highest in the industrialized world, with the jobless rate for youth under the age of 25-years reaching 43-percent. If Spanish interest rates continue to rise, it would deepen the credit crunch. Should Spain lose its ability to borrow from global lenders at affordable rates, it would need a loan package worth about €350-billion, dwarfing the €275-billion total for the Greek, Irish, and Portuguese bailouts.

Following the vicious shakeout in the Silver market in the first week of May, several bottom fishing rallies were turned back through the end of June. The EU's short-term bailout maneuvers for Greece were successful in buying a few weeks of time, before the facade blew off. However, with the latest upward explosion in Spanish and Italian bond yields, there's been a mad rush for safety into the "poor man's" version of gold. Measured in Euros, the price of Silver soared +25% higher so far in the month of July, to as high as 28.95-euros /oz today, amid fears that Europe's banking system will be badly hobbled for years to come.

The infamous bond vigilantes that used to wreck havoc on the G-7 bond markets in the 1980's and 1990's, appeared to have been dead and buried, for most of the past decade. But apparently, the bond vigilantes were tunneling their way under the Atlantic Ocean, far beneath the radar screens of regulators in Europe and the US. Suddenly, at the start of 2010, the bond vigilantes began to surface in the Mediterranean Sea, and launched a surprise attack on the Greek bond market, and moved quickly to the shores of Ireland, and Portugal. One and half years later, the bond vigilantes are attacking Spain and Italy.

Bond markets in England, Japan, and the US, are kept artificially afloat, by ultra-low short-term interest rates, and in fact, deeply negative interest rates when discounting for inflation. There is a sense of complacency in the G-7 government bond markets that might also be misplaced. The world of finance has changed radically since the financial crisis of 2008, but the precious metals were the big winners over the past few years, mainly because they are increasingly recognized as the only form of real money in the world's economy.

This article is just the Tip of the Iceberg of what's available in the Global Money Trends newsletter. Subscribe to the Global Money Trends newsletter, for insightful analysis and future predictions about the (1) top stock markets around the world, (2) Commodities such as crude oil, Gold, copper and base metals, (3) Foreign currencies, such as the Australian and Canadian dollars, Brazil real, the Euro and Japanese yen, (4) Central bank interest rates and global bond markets, (5) Central bank Intervention techniques (6) and hard to get charts of key Credit Default Swap markets.

GMT filters important news and information into (1) bullet-point, easy to understand reports, (2) featuring "Inter-Market Technical Analysis," with lots of charts displaying the dynamic inter-relationships between foreign currencies, commodities, interest rates, and the stock markets from a dozen key countries around the world, (3) charts of key economic statistics of foreign countries that move markets.

Subscribers can also listen to bi-weekly Audio Broadcasts, posted Monday and Wednesday evenings, with the latest news and analysis on global markets. To order a subscription to Global Money Trends, click on the hyperlink below, or call toll free to order, Sunday thru Thursday, 8-am to 9-pm EST, and on Friday 8-am to 5-pm, at 888-808-7978. Outside the US call 561-391-8008. This article may be re-printed on other internet sites for public viewing, with links required to: http://www.sirchartsalot.com/newsletters.php

Gary Dorsch,
Editor, Global Money Trends

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold hits record $1600 and silver back through $40

Title: Gold hits record $1600 and silver back through $40
Description: in London

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:49 AM (GMT)

Gold hits record $1600 and silver back through $40 in London - GSR 40:1

Gold hit $1600 in London this morning and silver $40, although both fell back thereafter. But the barrier has been breached which would seem to be paving the way for further rises ahead.

Author: Lawrence Williams
Posted: Monday , 18 Jul 2011

LONDON - Gold cracked the $1600 barrier, albeit briefly initially, this morning in London, while silver moved back up through the $40 mark as the safe haven aspects of the precious metals began to take hold once more on perhaps the increased understanding by the whole investment community of the global economic perils ahead. Whether this $1600 level can be returned to, and increased, through the day - and in the U.S. - obviously remains to be seen, but the fact remains that a psychological barrier has been overcome. Past patterns suggest that the metals may trade at close to this level and either make a substantial breakthrough, or consolidate at just below.

Silver back through $40, and the further small fall in the gold:silver ratio (GSR) to a fraction below 40:1 does seem to be a further indication that investor interest in this metall is again coming to the fore with the April fall-off quickly being forgotten. But silver's reputation as the ‘devil's metal' as far as investment is concerned should act as a cautionary warning, but as long as gold stays strong silver downside is small. But if gold should see even a temporary fallback then the corresponding drop in silver could be sharp.

Silver's proponents point to the increasing uses of the metal in such spheres as biocides and water purification as being a major positive factor, but it is both speculative and safe haven investment that is the driving force here - industrial usage is currently only a minor part of the silver equation. As Rhona O'Connell points out in today's article on Mineweb - see Comex silver longs bound higher - but much of it is short covering extraneous technical commodity market factors may well be distorting the picture here as well.

The European debt crisis is definitely not going to go away and if one of the more vulnerable European economies is actually allowed to default (and one does not see how some kind of default can be avoided for Greece) then the knock-on effects on the other crisis hit countries and the banking system as a whole, could be dire. The emergency funding for Greece that was recently agreed appears only to be sufficient to postpone the inevitable and we could be looking to an autumn of ever escalating financial meltdown. If Greece defaults then one finds it difficult to conceive that Ireland and Portugal would not follow suit almost immediately, and then the pressures on the much more significant economies of Italy and Spain would be close to overwhelming. European banks would crash like ninepins and with the interconnections within the global banking system many non-European banks would collapse as well.

There is a sideshow in the U.S. at the moment too which is helping gold as Democrats and Republicans are playing a game of brinkmanship over the U.S. debt ceiling. If agreement can not be reached on raising the ceiling, and failing a Presidential bending of the rules, the U.S. itself could go into technical default in two weeks' time and the psychological financial repercussions of this could also be enormous. One suspects that a compromise will be reached at the 11th hour, but if intransigence on the part of the parties involved means that this drags on beyond the deadline then the effects on the financial system could be worse than the Lehman Brothers collapse.

Governments and central bankers are aware of the perils ahead and one suspects that they will somehow manufacture a solution that will ward off the seemingly inevitable, although whether they can do so to the satisfaction of the credit ratings agencies remains to be seen. Ratings downgrades lead to higher interest rates being applied and at current debt levels the amounts involved in resultant increased payments just make the likelihood of pulling out of the downward spiral almost impossible.

These are difficult - indeed exceedingly dangerous - times for the global economy and whether or not the politicians and central bankers can bring us back from the brink has to be questionable. In such times of uncertainty gold is likely to maintain its historical pattern of being the investment choice to preserve wealth, however anomalous this may seem in this day and age, and silver will likely follow suit on gold's back.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Comex silver longs bound higher - but much of it

Title: Comex silver longs bound higher - but much of it
Description: is short covering

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:48 AM (GMT)

Comex silver longs bound higher - but much of it is short covering

Specs are buying silver again and there has been some renewed nibbling in the silver ETFs but, there has also been some substantial short-covering which could see this latest move prove deceptive

Author: Rhona O'Connell
Posted: Monday , 18 Jul 2011

LONDON - It is arguable, just, that the non-commercial and non-reportable positions on COMEX are dominated by speculators, while the ETF constituency is much more closely allied to investors with longer-term time horizons and stickier hands. This was palpably not the case in just under five weeks from late April to late May, when the larger silver ETFs suffered heavy liquidation. "Investors" voted with their feet, removing just over 1,880 tonnes of the metal, for a net disinvestment of $1.8bn. In fact the liquidation started in size before the price buckled, as some took the view that $50 was unlikely to be breached - which it wasn't.

To put this into a different context, on the basis of the daily average rate of sale over the period, these funds would have been emptied in just 37 weeks, undoing all the work of the previous five years. They weren't of course, and the sales have slowed substantially and while it is possible that the funds may be about to start absorbing metal again (last week saw just over 100 tonnes taken up), silver's habit of biting investors where it hurts was only too clearly illustrated in May when the price fell by $16 or 33% in just over a week. That particular week (29th April - 6th May) saw the major ETFs lose almost 1,200 tonnes of metal, or over $1.5bn and after a little bargain hunting (silver bouncing towards $38 at that stage) the sales started again.

Non-commercial and non-reportable silver positions (which are only reported on a weekly basis) started falling earlier than the ETFs, with the net position peaking at 8,773 tonnes on 5th April, with the outright long position at 13,047 tonnes. By 28th June the net "speculative" long position had fallen to 4,536 tonnes, with the outright long falling to 8,575 tonnes, a drop of 34% or 4,695 tonnes. Silver fixed on that day at $33.96. Since then silver prices have bounced towards $40, fixing on Friday 15th July at $38.17 and the net speculative long position has been rising. The net speculative long on COMEX on 12th July stood at 5,830 tonnes, compared with an average since the start of the fierce bull market (late August 2010) of 7,653 tonnes. The record net long was 14,185 tonnes, back in December 2004 when silver was just $7.84 and heading lower.

The non-commercial and non-reportable silver positions on COMEX (tonnes)

The gain in the net position over the past fortnight has thus been 1,295 tonnes, but the current position is well below the recent average, suggesting that the speculative overhang has been substantially reduced. There is, however, an important point to note here as the move is not necessarily as impressive as it looks. The outright speculative long position has risen by 702 tonnes, but the outright short has decreased by 593 tonnes to 3,223 tonnes a fall of 16% and compared with an average since late August of 4,017 tonnes.

Short-covering has therefore been assisting the recent silver rally towards $40 and this most recent move may yet prove to be deceptive. The silver market is still nervous and while the US' economy stutters and Europe labours under the threat of debt contagion it is likely to remain so.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold and silver longs increase and GLD value hits

Title: Gold and silver longs increase and GLD value hits
Description: new record

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:48 AM (GMT)

Gold and silver longs increase and GLD value hits new record

Gold and silver futures and ETF values have been increasing along with higher metals prices, with GLD hitting a new record in value terms if not in gold tonnage held.

Author: Lawrence Williams
Posted: Saturday , 16 Jul 2011

LONDON - The recent increases in precious metals prices have been stimulating gold and silver investment in the U.S. again as the price drivers are seen as now persisting into the foreseeable future. This has become particularly noticeable in the case of COMEX futures positions with money managers increasing their long exposures in precious metals, and also a return to an increase in gold holdings by the SPDR Gold Trust - GLD - (comfortably the world's biggest gold ETF).

Firstly - COMEX futures: The latest figures from the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) show that in the last recorded week to July 12th, as the gold price was beginning to take off again, gold net long positions held on COMEX rose substantially by 44,393 lots to 222,184 lots. With the gold price remaining strong for the rest of the week - with the final New York spot price at $1,594 - there is a strong likelihood that net longs will have increased further by Friday's market close.

Silver futures and options net longs also picked up again at 20,703 lots - up by 1,875 contracts - as the metal started to regain some of the ground lost in the heavy falls in late April/early May. Silver ended the week comfortably above $39 - still some way off its April high when the price soared to over $48 an ounce, but suggesting that the market's short term memories of the price crash are diminishing. However silver always tends to be more volatile than gold on the way up (and even more so on the way down) and while many commentators recently have suggested that investment interest in gold may be stronger than that in silver, one suspects that as gold rises, silver will, in fact, move even faster as it has in the past.

Already the gold:silver ratio (GSR) has moved down from around 43 only a week ago to 40.55 at close of New York business indicating the latter's higher leverage.

As for the SPDR Gold Trust ETF (GLD), its holdings rose another 0.9 percent to 1236.023 tonnes by July 15, from 1225.419 tonnes on July 14. Holdings had been rising again during the second quarter after fairly strong falls early in the year. The graph below from ETF Trends shows how the GLD holdings have been performing, hitting new records in value terms taking account of the higher gold prices, although in terms of tonnes of gold the holdings are still 6% below peak levels of last year - on June 29th and 30th 2010 they totalled 1320.44 tonnes, while the gold price has risen 28% over the same period.

SPDR GOLD SHARES (GLD) Holdings

Source: ETF Trends

Overall the World Gold Council reckons gold ETFs increased their holdings by 45.6 tonnes in the second quarter of the year and they now hold just over 2,155 tonnes of gold worth over $1 trillion.

Precious metals are not the only metals to have seen increased interest on COMEX. Copper futures have also risen by by 5,129 contracts to 27,030 contracts over the past week.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: How Gold Performs In Deflation

Title: How Gold Performs In Deflation

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:47 AM (GMT)

How Gold Performs In Deflation

Cliff Droke
16 July 2011

Despite the undue attention that has been paid to the chimera of inflation this year, it should be clear by now that deflation is the far greater structural problem. One clue that deflation, not inflation, is the main issue can be seen in the biggest form of savings and investment among the U.S. middle class, namely real estate.

Real estate is an excellent asset to own during the inflationary phase of the long-term cycle of inflation/deflation but it's one of the worst assets to own during hyper deflation. As an illiquid asset, housing prices tend to depreciate in the final years of the deflationary winter season, as many have discovered. This is one of the biggest proofs that the economic long wave, or Kondratieff Wave, is still in its deflationary phase and hasn't bottomed yet.

Consider the following real estate prognosis from Doug Ramsey, an analyst with the Minneapolis investment firm Leuthold Group. Ramsey has calculated that single-family housing starts would have to increase from 60 to 70 percent from their current 50-year low of 419,000 annual rate just to reach the average low of the past six housing busts since 1960. Needless to say this would be asking a lot for even an energetic housing market.

Ramsey, who is an avid student of financial history and has studied numerous financial bubbles, has said that every housing statistic he follows has so far matched the price pattern following the bursting of other asset bubbles. According to Ramsey, asset bubble collapses tend to follow a similar pattern, including most famously the 1929 stock market crash and Japan's 1989 Nikkei crash. He says it starts with a steep decline lasting three to four years followed by a brief rally that is followed by years of stagnation. He points out that the Dow Jones Industrial Average took 35 years to return to pre-crash levels. Japan's Nikkei stock market index, meanwhile, trades at less than a third of its 1989 peak.

Ramsey concludes, "The housing decline will be a long, multiyear process, and the multiplier effect across the economy will be enormous." Until housing prices bottom investors are safe in assuming that deflation is the dominant trend underscoring the economy, notwithstanding occasional periods of Fed-induced (QE) pockets of inflation.

Many investors have asked, "If deflation is the main problem facing the economy, why should I own gold?" Gold, they reason, is an inflationary hedge and if that be so, how can it possibly benefit from deflation?

Gold is more than an inflationary hedge, however. As Samuel Kress has shown in his cycle work, gold benefits from both extremes of the 60-year cycle, namely hyper inflation and hyper deflation. During the inflationary period of the current 60-year cycle in the 1970s, gold benefited from the extreme inflation as the cycle was peaking. In more recent times gold has benefited from deflation while the cycle is declining. Consequently, investors look to the precious metal for financial safety in times of uncertainty.

Gold has in fact become the new long-term investment vehicle of choice for retail investors. Traditional forms of savings such as real estate have become depreciating assets and no longer offer protection against the ravages of the long-term cycle. Meanwhile savers are punished with extremely low interest rates while the value of the currency diminishes through central bank money printing schemes. It's no wonder then that investors are turning to the yellow metal as the safe haven du jour during the "winter" season of the 60-year/120-year cycle.

Gold is in the unique position of benefiting from Fed-driven inflation, as the recent quantitative easing program proved. Yet it also derives strength from uncertainty in the global financial and economic outlook. Certainly there have been more than a few instances of this in recent years. A survey of the year-to-date alone would suffice to provide enough examples of how gold has benefited by the recurrence of worry. The current worry among investors is how a potential Greek debt default would impact global markets. In the last few days since this worry has made headlines, the gold price has managed to climb from its June correction low of $1,483 to its latest high of $1,563.

The current leadership of the Federal Reserve are committed to fighting against the forces of long wave deflation and have shown a steely determination in carrying out an anti-deflationary policy. This can be clearly seen in the Fed's first and second "quantitative easing" programs, a dignified term for fighting deflationary pressure by increasing debt. The latest round of quantitative easing (QE) ended on June 30, yet on Tuesday, July 12, the Fed released the minutes of its June meeting and hinted that a third round of QE may be in the offing. The minutes suggested that most members of the Fed's board of governors would favor another round of QE if the economy continues to show signs of weakening. This may have been one reason behind gold's spike to new highs on Tuesday.

Gold should ultimately benefit from either course of action, whether it be the uncertainty that accompanies long wave deflation or the artificial boost in asset prices brought about by quantitative easing. This is one reason why gold remains the investment safe haven du jour in the final years of the deflationary cycle.

Gold & Gold Stock Trading Simplified

In my latest book, "Gold & Gold Stock Trading Simplified," I remove the mystique behind gold and gold stock trading and reveal a completely simple and reliable system that allows the small-to-mid-size trader to profit from both up and down moves in the mining stock market. It's the same system that I use each day in the Gold & Silver Stock Report - the same system which has consistently generated profits for my subscribers and has kept them on the correct side of the gold and mining stock market for years. You won't find a more straight forward and easy-to-follow system that actually works than the one explained in "Gold & Gold Stock Trading Simplified."

The book is now available for sale at:

www.clifdroke.com/books/trading_simplified.html

Order today to receive your autographed copy and a FREE 1-month trial subscription to the Gold & Silver Stock Report newsletter. Published twice each week, the newsletter uses the method described in this book for making profitable trades among the actively traded gold mining shares.

Clif Droke is the editor of Gold & Silver Stock Report, published each Tuesday and Thursday. He is also the author of numerous books, including most recently, "Gold & Gold Stock Trading Simplified." For more information visit www.clifdroke.com

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Turk - Expect a Tidal Wave of Buying & Short

Title: Turk - Expect a Tidal Wave of Buying & Short Description: Covering in Gold

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:46 AM (GMT)

Turk - Expect a Tidal Wave of Buying & Short Covering in Gold

July 19, 2011
http://kingworldnews.com/kingworldnews/KWN...ng_in_Gold.html

With gold hitting new all-time highs in all major currencies and silver breaking above $40, today King World News interviewed James Turk. When asked about the action in gold Turk stated, “I wouldn’t be surprised to see $2,000 (gold) very quickly. It’s just a question of how the European bank crisis unfolds or the US debt limit unfolds or any one of these number of trouble spots around the world unfolds. Any one of those could light a fire under the gold market and you could see $2,000 very, very quickly. You could also see silver over $50 very quickly. That’s the way the trend is going so just position yourself and ride the trend.”

Turk continues:

"It’s all very positive Eric, it’s still within my bigger point of view that the summer is going to be spectacular. It has started out that way and I still think there is a lot more left. There are really two types of gold buyers, you’ve got the accumulators and you have the momentum players.

What the London Trader (KWN interview earlier today) was saying is that the accumulators have basically been out of the market, which is reflected by the discount to spot price on a number of the Asian markets where a lot of the physical accumulation takes place.

Now the interesting thing is you can drive prices higher if either one of those players are in the market, and while the accumulators are out, the momentum buyers are in there. I still think these momentum buyers are going to take gold and silver much higher and that's basically what the London Trader was referring to by saying there was going to be a lot of short covering once we get over $40 (in silver) and $1,600 (in gold), which is what we did today on a closing basis in New York.

People are looking for the safety of gold and exiting national currencies. Exiting the dollar, exiting the euro, exiting the British pound, gold is at record highs against all three of those currencies."

When asked about Felix Zulauf's KWN interview where he discussed the simultaneous inflation and deflation Turk said, "If you look in terms of the dollar we are actually seeing inflation, prices are going up all around us. But if you actually look at prices in terms of gold, prices are going down. So you've got deflation when prices are measured in gold and you've got inflation when prices are measured for the dollar.

We're in a 1930's type of situation with regards to deflation, if you measure that deflation in terms of gold. Gold's purchasing power went up in the 1930's as the huge debts that were accumulated during the boom years of the 1920's were eventually reconciled.....

"They were either repaid or written off as bad loans. It's the same thing that's going on now, the only difference now is that the dollar is no longer tied to gold as it was back in the 1930's.

My view is that we still have a long way to go before this bust that we have been in plays itself out. This boom and bust cycle that we go through in monetary history, you have to look at it from a big picture point of view because it doesn't happen over weeks or months, it happens over decades.

For example, in the 1920's you had the boom, you had the bust in the '30's. In the '50's and ’60’s you had the boom, you had the bust in the ’70’s. In the ’80’s and the ‘90s you had the boom and we are currently in a bust, and this bust is not going to be over until all of the bad loans that were made in the ’80’s and in the ’90’s are eventually reconciled.

They will be reconciled in one of two ways, they will either be repaid or they will be written off. While we are going through this financial bust, people should avoid financial assets and focus on tangibles. That’s the way you are going to get through this bust with as much of your wealth intact as possible.”

When asked about Ben Davies $2,000 target on gold within 4 months Turk responded, “Maybe that $2,000 Ben Davies has talked about is going to be happening pretty soon. All we need is a little bit of a fuse on any one of these monetary events going on around the world to just put a tidal wave of buying into the precious metals.

Because the market is so tight still, any kind of huge buying of physical metal is going to send these prices much higher. Then if you add in what the London Trader is talking about, short-covering coming in, it’s got the potential for an upside explosion.”

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: London Trader - Potential for Major Short Covering

Title: London Trader - Potential for Major Short Covering Description: in Gold

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:45 AM (GMT)

London Trader - Potential for Major Short Covering in Gold

Jul 18 2011
http://kingworldnews.com/kingworldnews/KWN...ng_in_Gold.html

With gold hitting new all-time highs and silver hovering around $40, a trader out of London told King World News today, “The all important thing to watch is the pit close (Comex). If we get a pit close today in the US above either $1,600 gold or $40 silver, then you are going to see some huge capitulation by the shorts. $40 silver is the trigger, there is a significant amount of money which did not want to enter the silver market until it cleared $40.”

The London Trader continues:

“So you essentially have two critical factors to watch if we get a strong close today in silver. A close today above $40 leaves those stops highly vulnerable to getting tripped (they will cover their shorts). In the meantime you are also going to get funds who have been out of the silver market popping back in once it closes above $40. These two competing buyers could create a quick and somewhat violent short-term move to the upside.

Right now silver is looking very bullish because the open interest is so small. It appears there is a lot more room on the upside for silver vs gold because of the current structure, but I am not saying gold is anywhere near the top.

A close above $1,600 on gold, similar to silver closing over $40, would create a huge bunch of short-covering. The commercials have been adding short positions in gold, but should we get a close above $1,600, I think you will find the smaller of those shorts are going to start covering their shorts because it's going to be too much pain. This could result in a $50 move overnight.

There is plenty of physical demand, no one is letting up....

"but there has been a slight reduction in demand out of Asia as the price of gold has been rising recently. There have been a few discounts going on since gold pierced $1,580 (US), but nothing significant. However, silver demand out of Asia has been staying extremely strong.

Don't forget we have option expiration in gold taking place in eight working days. There are about 2.3 million ounces of short bets sitting at $1,600 and currently there are only about 1.5 million ounces in registered inventory. If these call holders in options, and there are still about 24,000 of them as of Friday, if even a chunk of those stand for delivery you will see some real fireworks to the upside.

You can expect war at that point because that's too big a bet by a couple of small entities, and even though they will shoot themselves in the foot on a short-term basis, they will not be able to come up with the metal without driving the price of gold through the roof. So I would say expect a bit of a war at the $1,600 level as we hit option expiration and shortly thereafter.

So prices could explode to the upside and I think silver could easily jump up $2 or $3 from here in the blink of an eye. Again, if we get a close above $40, that kind of short-covering, plus new investment, we could get $2 or $3 to the upside easily in one session. I would add that this would also cause additional pain for anyone on the wrong side of that trade."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Russell - Gold Market is Saying Bernanke to Print

Title: Russell - Gold Market is Saying Bernanke to Print
Description: Money

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:44 AM (GMT)

Russell - Gold Market is Saying Bernanke to Print Money

Jul 18 2011
http://kingworldnews.com/kingworldnews/KWN...rint_Money.html

With gold breaking above $1,600 and silver over $40, the Godfather of newsletter writers Richard Russell had this to say in his latest commentary, “If you held gold or silver, it was a pretty good week. If you own your own house, it pretty much amounts to where you live. If you live in Vegas or Phoenix, you bought in the wrong area. If you bought in San Diego or San Francisco you've done right. If you saved your dollars for "a rainy day," you probably wonder what you can buy with your dollars. If you saved your gold for your old age, you've probably already sold your gold for dollars, and what the hell, “let it rain.”

Russell continues:

“I've said for years that the hardest single thing to do in investing is to buy great values early in a bull market, and then STAY with those early investments, through thick and thin, until they become absurdly overvalued near a bull market top.

I have thousands of investors who signed up with me back in the '60s and '70s. Many (I hope most) are still with me. I don't know how many of these loyal subscribers bought gold and gold stocks ten years ago when I first insisted that gold and gold stocks were "a screaming buy." However, I do get e-mails from many of these veterans who thank me for nagging and badgering them into buying bullion and gold shares at a fraction of their current price.

I keep writing because I love to write and I love the markets, and sometimes I even get the idea that my writing does people some good. I've even had some subscribers write to tell me that my writing and my thoughts have changed their lives, which isn't that unusual because in the 53 years I've been writing Dow Theory Letters my life has changed or I should say I've changed my life.

I'll tell you a secret. I'd give away every penny I own if I could be 35 again and know what I know now. America adores youth. I understand that in Asia old age is revered because in Asia the people appreciate wisdom. Old people have usually had many experiences and out of experience, hopefully, comes wisdom.

And I compare it with the government we have today. It's too bad that the US is now led by men whose chief desire is to be re-elected. I doubt if the Founding Fathers ever planned it that way. Today we need men who are ready to sacrifice their sacred honor and their wealth to run the nation. This may be the fatal flaw in Democracy. We lack men of great character. We lack men and women who will die for the honor of making this a great and better nation.

During World War II I fought with young men (hailing from all over the nation) who were ready to die for freedom and Democracy and America. Who in Congress could match these young men today?

...The market is wondering whether Dr. Bernanke is ready to open the money spigots once again. The Russell guess -- Yes, he will continue to stimulate this lagging economy.

Gold seems to be more certain. Having climbed into all-time record territory, it's backing and filling (fluctuating) in the territory above 1580. Even the gold mining shares are finally showing signs of life. GDM is higher as I write, as are GDX and GDXJ.

Recently Professor Bernanke was asked “if gold was money.” His answer was “NO.” In that answer we can capture the essence of Dr. Bernanke. In his heart, he is a Fed advocate and an advocate of fiat (Fed-created currency). On his answer alone, I would agree with Presidential candidate Dr. Ron Paul -- “Get rid of the Federal Reserve and everybody even remotely connected with it.”

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Jim Sinclair - Gold Milestone at $1,764 Paves Way

Title: Jim Sinclair - Gold Milestone at $1,764 Paves Way
Description: to $12,000

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:44 AM (GMT)

Jim Sinclair - Gold Milestone at $1,764 Paves Way to $12,000

Jul 15 2011
http://kingworldnews.com/kingworldnews/KWN...036;12,000.html

With gold hitting new all-time highs yesterday in dollars, euros and pounds, today King World News interviewed legendary trader Jim Sinclair and Dan Norcini to get their take on where things stand in the gold market. When Sinclair was asked about the action in gold he stated, “Gold at $1,764 is as important as gold at $524.90, and above $524.90 the gold market went into a runaway. It’s the exact same setup at $1,764, but having said that $1,764 should bring in some significant supply.

However, a move above $1,764 would be the equivalent of $524.90 in the sense that you would go from the runaway that was born at $524.90, into a hyperbolic market. The key to all of this is $1,764 and you will go above that level, but what that does is lock in five figures on the price of gold. A move above $1,764 brings into focus prices as high as $12,000, so we are are approaching the most critical milestone in the entire gold bull market.”

Sinclair continues:

“The Republicans want to raise the debt ceiling, but not enough to take the US through the next election. When Obama walked out of the meeting two days ago it was just on that point where he slammed his chair into the table and walked out. It’s being talked about as if that were standard procedure, as if that was the way things are, and in truth it is the way things are.

The debt crisis has resolved itself unto a political platform and the political platform is not in the economic best interest of the nation, but rather in the best interest of the timing of another election and as a result of that the market (in gold) yesterday broke to a new high. This situation could be one of the catalysts to take out $1,764. It will be reasonable to assume that every effort will be made not to allow gold to get through that price.

When it gets through that level gold will start jumping $100 to $200 a day. $1,764 should put up the biggest battle of the entire bull market. The number where confidence is lost is $1,764. Through that level you trigger Martin Armstrong and Alf Fields maximum numbers which will be $10,000 to $12,500, therefore expect that price level ($1,764) to be defended vigorously."

Dan Norcini gives his thoughts on the summer breakout in gold, "As you know Eric gold is not known for having a lot of strength during the summer months, it's usually a period of seasonal weakness. What makes the move higher so significant is the summer time frame of the breakout, particularly as you have all-time highs in three currencies, euros, pounds and US dollars.

What the market is saying is that there is an extreme lack of confidence in the monetary authorities of these respective nations. Gold is acting completely as a currency of last resort and its role as a commodity is not at all significant right now. It's a currency that's being pushed higher because there is demand for it based on a total lack of confidence in the monetary authorities of these Western nations.

This all goes back to the issues that are driving the gold price in the first place with one example being these sovereign debt woes in Europe. They are being temporarily papered over, and so what happens is as the fear level subsides somewhat, you see a little less urgency to buy gold on the part of participants. At that point the market doesn't move quite as strongly, but then another eruption occurs and things take off again.

Another worry is that if you continue to see the US economy slow, there will be increasing pressure on Bernanke. His comments today notwithstanding, he is trying to back away from QE3, but basically the Fed can't walk away from their own minutes from the FOMC. So there will come a time where the Fed will try to come in and liquify the markets again and you are going to get that liquefaction process by the Federal Reserve in conjunction with the issues that have not been resolved in Europe and there's no telling what could happen as far as investor's fear levels.

Investors could generally begin to panic and that could have an outsized impact on gold and corresponding price movements. The conditions are in place for a very rapid acceleration in gold if the confidence levels on the part of investors continues to deteriorate. It would not take much to break that fragile confidence and send people fleeing out of paper and into gold."

Well ahead of this move King World News has had many written and broadcast interviews with four of the great ones, Jim Sinclair, John Embry, John Hathaway and James Turk, all telling KWN readers and listeners to anticipate this summer breakout to the upside. While professionals are on the beach or otherwise away from their trading desks, this breakout in gold has begun to unfold leaving many market participants in a bit of shock.

Volatility and expected pullbacks aside, if the upside movement in gold continues over the coming weeks it will be the first time in three decades that we have seen this type of action in gold during the summer months. If Sinclair and Norcini are correct this could be paving the way for a break in confidence that could send gold into the stratosphere.

Sinclair's father Bert Seligman was business partners with legendary trader Jesses Livermore. Keep in mind Livermore's saying as we move through this bull market, "Men who can be both right and sit tight are uncommon. I found it one of the hardest things to learn. But it is only after a stock operator has firmly grasped this that he can make the big money."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Ben Davies - Gold to Break Above $2,000 in the Title: Ben Davies - Gold to Break Above $2,000 in the Description: Next 4 Months

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 03:43 AM (GMT)

Ben Davies - Gold to Break Above $2,000 in the Next 4 Months

14 July 2011
http://kingworldnews.com/kingworldnews/KWN...t_4_Months.html

With gold closing in on $1,600 and silver attacking the $40 area, today King World News interviewed Ben Davies, CEO of Hinde Capital. When asked about the breakout to new highs occurring in summer Davies stated, “This has the smell of 1998 when I was trading US government bonds and everyone was away on holiday and problems were beginning to brew. Stock markets were beginning to get violent in reaction to Russia’s problems and it all kicked off in the summer months and people were being called back to their desks.

I just have that same kind of feeling now. This is not one I want to fight, the market is a little bit rich now in the short-term, but this could be the baby that takes us over the course of the next four months to that very tantalizing level above $2,000. I really think this is the move.”

Davies continues:

“People are really beginning to realize that it (gold) is the currency of first resort. As a prudent risk manager I’m always looking for the sucker punch, but I just don’t see it here. I think that Ben Bernanke has come out again and tacitly said that QE3 or some change of policy along those lines is definitely in the cards. I think deep down we’ve all known that would be the case.

The events in Europe have just been unfolding like a nightmare and policy-makers have realized that you cannot have a banking system or a financial system that is predicated on lending based off of a risk provision of zero for sovereign debt. Clearly that sovereign debt, as we are finding out with the periphery debt, isn't worth the paper it's written on.

This has completely undermined fractional reserve banking that's been with us for nearly a hundred years, it's been found completely wanting. No wonder politicians are going to the edge before making serious policy decisions on resolutions.

I think we are going to see in Europe as I've maintained from the start, there will be a default. We already have a default in process, what remains to be seen is, is it going to be disorderly? This is all highly conducive for gold."

When asked if he was signaling that the gold market was ready for an explosion Davies said, "I think there's a really high chance, this is the year that you do not want to fight the gold market. This is a trend that you just have to bite the bullet and be invested and go with it, I feel very strongly about that.

Various liquidity is going to be coming from all corners of the world. At no time has gold pulled back throughout any of this credit tightening process, the market is going higher. We are in my opinion going to see a $2,000 handle this year."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Poor Man's Gold is Breaking Out -- Sell Your House

Title: Poor Man's Gold is Breaking Out -- Sell Your House
Description: and Buy Silver?

TheUnhivedMind - July 18, 2011 06:24 PM (GMT)

Poor Man's Gold is Breaking Out -- Sell Your House and Buy Silver?

Nick Levis, Hedgephone | Jul. 17, 2011
July 16, 2011 nsl www.hedgephone.com http://www.businessinsider.com/poor-mans-g...y-silver-2011-7

Investors have pushed silver above the recent channel high at around $39 or so per ounce and I fully expect a retest of $50 if any more talk is given about QE3 — Silver rises because of the rising digital money supply, not from speculation. Owning cash is speculative whereas owning metals is conservative or a safe haven at current prices.

Many people will tell you that silver and gold are in a bubble but the fact is that commodities in general are one of the only asset classes that work here because the consolidated banking system is holding our economy hostage and Bernanke is solely focused on saving the banks. Right now, shorting European banks and going long silver and gold looks to be about as good of a “trade” as possible — investors are essentially betting that Europe will face massive credit problems because of the obvious insolvency of Greece, Italy, Portugal, Spain, and Ireland.

The next shoe to drop is the US… We are facing the exact same issues as Greece. Japan is also a debt zombie and has been for years now. Their deflationary spiral is confusing to say the least, but they are essentially bankrupt as well in my view.

Low global interest rates are the only thing holding the current order afloat, but any hike in interest rates could derail the system and for that reason owning real assets outside of the financial system makes a good deal of sense.

I would normally be getting bullish on real estate, but the oil prices and gasoline prices make suburbia look unsustainable. If you want to buy a house make sure to buy in a market where prices are down 50% or more from the peak… I think the stock market bubble is finally about to pop, but there is no objective way to predict the exact timing of the ultimate collapse.

What's clear to me is that there will be a stock market collapse but this time oil and commodity prices will not fall along with stocks. The reason for this is the debasement of currency as a solution to the collapsing economy -- globalization and robots make this time different from the depression as corporate profits are in a bull market without the need for workers. While we may see those profits continue to rise, I view the fact that margins are at all time highs as a one time or short term gain with the possibility of mean reversion in the future. Stocks are up 100% or so and investors usually do better when buying when others are fearful (keep in mind that the fears should be about a falling stock market not legitimate fears like the fact that only 63% of US men have a job). Real estate would normally be a safe place to invest, and even if interest rates go up with higher inflation then buying a house in Florida that is down 65% from the peak would seem like a good place to invest. That said with Freddie (FMCC 0.36 ↓-1.91%) and Fannie (FNMA 0.34 ↑0.00%) in free fall and with the banks holding years of inventory on their books it's clear that the supply and demand factors are in control of the pricing mechanism and that higher interest rates may not actually help this "inflation hedge." If nobody can get a loan and no one has the money to pay cash for a 2 bedroom 2 bath home, Foreclosure Street may extend a lot further than many believe.

Another reason that real estate is not working as an inflation hedge this time around (RE was a great investment in the 1970′s and 1980′s for example) is that the banking system is nearly insolvent and the demographic situation in America has completely changed. The US is not producing enough children to replace the elderly who are dying off and the boomers are heading towards old age.

Gen X and Gen Y are not having kids at the same rate as the boomers. Times have changed. The younger generations grew up with fear mongering, the cold war, environmental concerns, nuclear fears, etc.. etc… They are less likely to have kids because of some of these fears and that fact has made real estate a less attractive investment than past recessions.

I still believe real estate will be a better long term investment than equities, for example, as the recent pump and dump QE policies have simply created a bubble again which will pop. Ultimately, those with dry powder in a diversified basket of commodities, cash, gold, foreign stocks and bonds, foreign currencies, etc… will be able to buy stocks on the cheap, but in my view real estate at present levels makes more financial sense. In the end, real estate has been a debt financed purchase for decades but uncertainty and stagflation make this asset a tough call for the medium term but a decent investment for the longer term. If the dollar is devalued and rents skyrocket, those with large mortgages will benefit. Conversely, if the economy contracts and inflation hawks keep a lid on oil and gold prices, real estate will muddle through as long as banks will lend and gas prices don't rise too far from current levels. Many people like to say that gas prices are cheap compared to Europe, but anyone who has driven through Texas can see that America is a fundamentally different place than England with its strong public transportation system and densely populated cities.

Please follow Money Game on Twitter and Facebook.
Follow Nick Levis on Twitter.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold Could Hit $1,700 by End of the Year: Analyst

Title: Gold Could Hit $1,700 by End of the Year: Analyst
Description: [AND THE REST...]

TheUnhivedMind - July 18, 2011 06:24 PM (GMT)

Gold Could Hit $1,700 by End of the Year: Analyst

Published: Monday, 18 Jul 2011 | 7:04 AM ET
By: Shai Ahmed
http://www.cnbc.com/id/43791856

Gold is likely to hit $1,650 an ounce by the end of the year and could even hit $1,700, according to one analyst.

"The continuing sovereign debt crisis in Europe, and in the U.S. there is the possibility of further stimulus, so all this generates an environment that is positive for gold," Ong Yi Long, investment analyst at Phillip Futures told CNBC Monday.

Spot gold [XAU= 1603.89 10.59 (+0.66%)] has had its longest winning streak in four decades, and it surged above $1,600 an ounce earlier Monday, rising for the second consecutive week as weak confidence in the global economic environment saw investors seek security.

Ong told CNBC that silver [XAG= 40.27 1.00 (+2.55%)] could benefit from the rally in gold prices, despite many investors piling into the metal, only to see prices plummet back in May.

"A lot of investors got their fingers burnt when there was the huge fall in silver prices," Ong said. "Investors are understandably cautious and time is needed for them to come back to the market, but with gold prices traded near record highs investors will look towards an alternative and perhaps silver could be the natural choice."

Traditionally, the summer months tend to be a lull for gold as the monsoon season grips

India—the largest consumer market for the precious metal—as a halt to weddings and festivals leads to weaker demand.

Ong advised any investors keen to hold gold to assess their risk profile before investing.

"Which instrument you choose, whether it's an ETF or spot gold, really depends on your risk profile, if you want short-term fluctuations in gold prices and to play on that then perhaps spot gold or futures would be best but if you want to be longer-term player, an ETF could be a possible choice," she added.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold Rallies to Record in Best Run Since 1980

Title: Gold Rallies to Record in Best Run Since 1980

TheUnhivedMind - July 18, 2011 05:27 PM (GMT)

Gold Rallies to Record in Best Run Since 1980

By Pham-Duy Nguyen and Nicholas Larkin - Jul 18, 2011
http://www.bloomberg.com/news/2011-07-18/g...since-1980.html

Gold rose to a record $1,607.70 an ounce, heading for the longest rally in 31 years, as debt concerns in Europe and the U.S. boosted demand for the metal as a haven.

President Barack Obama is pressing congressional leaders for a multitrillion-dollar agreement in talks on cutting the deficit. A default would cause more panic than the collapse of Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc. in 2008, Larry Summers, a former Treasury Secretary, told CNN in an interview broadcast yesterday. The euro fell as European leaders plan to meet again on the debt crisis.

“There’s just a lack of confidence in government and currency,” Frank Lesh, a trader at FuturePath Trading LLC in Chicago, said in a telephone interview. “There’s a flight-to-safety into gold. When Europe fixes their house and the U.S. fixes our house, maybe then there’ll be in a correction in gold.”

Gold futures for August delivery rose $9.60, or 0.6 percent, to $1,599.70 at 10:35 a.m. on the Comex in New York. The metal climbed for the 10th straight session, the longest rally since January 1980, when the price rose to $873, a record at the time.

UBS AG said in a report that its Zurich sales desk on July 15 had the biggest gold-coin demand in a year. The metal denominated in euros and pounds jumped to records after European Central Bank President Jean-Claude Trichet reiterated his opposition to any restructuring of Greek debt.
‘Fearful’ on Euro

"Europeans primarily are fearful about the future of their currency and are exiting positions there for Swiss francs and gold," Dennis Gartman, an economist, said in his Suffolk, Virginia-based Gartman Letter. "Were we a German lawyer, or doctor, or small business owners, we'd be buying gold."

Gold has doubled since early December 2008 as the Federal Reserve kept interest rates at a record low and governments spent trillions of dollars to prop up the economy after the most-severe global recession since World War II.

The Treasury Department has warned the U.S. debt ceiling must be lifted by Aug. 2 to avoid default. Standard & Poor's and Moody's Investors Service may downgrade the government's credit rating if Congress doesn't act.

Silver futures for September delivery rose $1.574, or 4 percent, to $40.645 an ounce. The price jumped 9.6 percent in the previous three sessions. On April 25, the price reached $49.845, a 31-year high.

Palladium futures for September delivery rose $10.80, or 1.4 percent, to $780.65 an ounce on the New York Mercantile Exchange. Platinum futures for October delivery rose $19.60, or 1.1 percent, to $1,775.10 an ounce.

To contact the reporters on this story: Nicholas Larkin in London at nlarkin1@bloomberg.net; Pham-Duy Nguyen in Seattle at pnguyen@bloomberg.net.

To contact the editor responsible for this story: Steve Stroth at sstroth@bloomberg.net

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Central Banks' First-Half Gold Buying Surpasses

Title: Central Banks' First-Half Gold Buying Surpasses
Description: 2010 Total

TheUnhivedMind - July 18, 2011 12:56 AM (GMT)

Central Banks' First-Half Gold Buying Surpasses 2010 Total

Published: Thursday, 14 Jul 2011 | 10:29 PM ET
http://www.cnbc.com/id/43763980

Central banks have bought more gold in the first half of this year than in all of 2010 as a long-anticipated reversal in so-called "official sector" sales gathers pace, a gold group reported on Thursday.

The World Gold Council provided no specific figures, but the rise will be little surprise after the so-called "official sector" became net buyers of bullion last year for the first time in two decades as a means to diversify their dollar holdings, a trend that has aided a long price rally.

"It was not a sudden shift. It was a trend that was gathering in pace as Europeans were starting to sell less and emerging markets and developing nations were starting to acquire more," Juan Carlos Artigas, WGC's investment research manager, said prior to the release of its quarterly Gold Investment Digest.

Mexico has led the charge this year in ramping up its gold reserves, buying over $4 billion of bullion in early May, while the International Monetary Fund has ended a one-year effort to sell down its stocks at the end of last year.

Global central banks as a whole bought 73 tonnes of gold in 2010, according to metals research firm GFMS, which has not released figures for this year. Net official-sector sales were 34 tonnes in 2009 and 235 tonnes in 2008.

Renewed central banks' interest in gold have powered the metal's record rally in the past few years, as lingering economic uncertainties and market stimulus by policymakers increased bullion's appeal as an alternative investment.

Central banks as a group became net buyers for the first time in the second quarter of 2008. On a yearly basis, official-sector buying swung to positive in 2010, the first time in more than two decades.

"In the same way, investors look to diversify their portfolios and find a way to manage risks effectively, gold has been one of the choices with central bankers especially in developing economies to create that balance," Artigas said.

Gold's average volatility was 13.4 percent for the second quarter, well below its long-term 20-year average of 15.8 percent, according to the WGC report.

WGC is a trade group funded by gold mining companies to spur bullion demand. It also sponsors SPDR Gold Trust [GLD 155.20 0.66 (+0.43%)], the world's largest gold-backed ETF which the group helped launch in 2004.

Artigas said that the positive trend of official-sector buying will likely continue in the near future.

"We believe that as a whole, central bank net buying is a result of the structural shift in reserve asset management," he said.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: COMMERCIAL SHORTS LOSING CONTROL ON THE SILVER

Title: COMMERCIAL SHORTS LOSING CONTROL ON THE SILVER
Description: PRICE MANIPULATION

TheUnhivedMind - July 17, 2011 11:31 PM (GMT)

COMMERCIAL SHORTS LOSING CONTROL ON THE SILVER PRICE MANIPULATION

July 13, 2011
http://lonerangersilver.wordpress.com/2011...e-manipulation/

The commercial shorts are fighting a losing battle in controlling the price of silver. The chart above comes from Jim Willie's most recent article "The Silver Platter Opportunity". Willie makes the point that this is one of the four best buying opportunities of the past eight years….according to the COT structure. Even though this is true, I find the overall trend in commercial short/long vs. the price action more interesting.

To simplify the chart above for those investors who are not that familiar with the COT Report, the RED line shows the commercial short positions divided by the commercial longs. The BLUE line shows the price of silver. According to Ted Butler, silver has had the highest commercial short to long position in history compared to every other commodity. The commercial shorts have been able to control the silver market by mere size and leverage of their positions forcing the weaker spec longs to capitulate time and time again.

The one thing that Willie fails to mention in his article is the overall trend of the commercial shorts since 2005. In 2006 we see that the commercials had over 5 times more shorts to longs. Below is a comparison of the Jan 31, 2006 COT Report to the most recent COT Report of July 5th, 2011.

JAN 31, 2006 COT REPORT (SILVER $9.91)

COMMERCIAL SHORTS = 98.383
COMMERCIAL LONGS = 19,688
NET SHORT/LONG = 4.99

JULY 5, 2011 COT REPORT (SILVER $34.76)
COMMERCIAL SHORTS = 66,999
COMMERCIAL LONGS = 33,548
NET SHORT/LONG = 1.99

Now that silver is nearly $25 higher than it was in JAN 2006, the net commercial short/long is almost at the same level it was when silver hit $9.00 in OCT 2008. This is extremely bullish….but this is only part of the good news.

Hardly anyone in the investing community took notice that something very interesting took place in the month of Oct 2010. We can see for the first time the RED line falls below the BLUE price line. This indeed is a significant event. It is my contention that the commercial shorts no longer have the leverage to control the price of silver. Furthermore, the failure of the commercial shorts to control the price led to the CME and other Exchanges to raise margin requirements to help assist in bringing the price of silver down.

Even though I have written about this in previous comments on the SGS blog, I wanted to put it on a chart so everyone could see just how obvious silver was taken down. The chart starts on April 4th and ends on May 5th. The dates on the bottom highlighted in yellow correspond to the closing of the COT REPORT on each Tuesday.

The first thing we notice is the pathetic attempt to take silver down on April 8th. During the week the commercials liquidated 3,700 contracts even as the overall price of silver moved up $0.76 to close at $40.06. In the following two weeks, there must have been panic in the commercials as they liquidated 8,000 more short contracts with an additional $5.40 move higher in silver. In those three weeks the commercials liquidated 11,530 short contracts as the price moved up $6, but only a lousy 5,094 contracts as the price declined the following week….a most dismal performance indeed.

We can see that on April 26th the first CME Silver Margin Hike was announced which brought the price of silver down $1.40. As the price of silver continued higher over the next two days the CME announced the second Silver Margin Hike to take place on Friday, April 29th. At the end of trading on Friday the price of silver fell a lousy $0.55 to close at $47.87.

The third CME Silver Margin Hike was announced to take place on close of trading on May 3rd to be followed by the fourth to occur on May 5th (not to forget the fifth margin hike on May 9th). It was these five CME margin hikes in coordination with several other hikes by other exchanges that the price of silver was finally taken down to the low $30's. This was not to limit a speculative frenzy as the nitwits on CNBC touted or as the CME reported, but to stop the bleeding of commercial shorts from an ongoing short squeeze orchestrated by strong hedge fund buying.

It is now evident…the damage has been done to the commercial shorts. There is no heading back. With the pathetic 28 million ounces in the Registered Dealer category, the commercial shorts do not have the ammo to increase their positions to any degree without severe risk. We must remember the Fed and US Treasury want silver to behave like a commodity and not a precious metal. When its price finally explodes higher due to fundamentals, any remaining confidence in the dollar will be lost.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: NH Electric Co. Offers 10K Reward Over Copper

Title: NH Electric Co. Offers 10K Reward Over Copper Description: Thefts

TheUnhivedMind - July 16, 2011 02:08 AM (GMT)

NH Electric Co. Offers 10K Reward Over Copper Thefts

July 15, 2011
http://boston.cbslocal.com/2011/07/15/nh-e...-copper-thefts/

LACONIA, N.H. (AP) — The New Hampshire Electric Cooperative is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of whoever stole copper from two substations recently.

Copper wire was stolen from a substation in Bridgewater on June 25 and from a substation in Meredith on July 9.

A utility spokesman says in both cases the thieves cut through a chain-link security fence then cut and removed copper ground cables which under the electrical equipment. Both thefts resulted in a loss of power during repairs and damage to $25,000 voltage regulators.

Authorities say the copper is likely being sold for scrap as it can fetch $3 to 4$ per pound.

The utility has warned that stealing from a substation can result if serious injury or death.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: They steal supermarket trolleys and wheelchair

Title: They steal supermarket trolleys and wheelchair
Description: ramps - and risk blowing up homes by hac

TheUnhivedMind - July 16, 2011 12:18 AM (GMT)

They steal supermarket trolleys and wheelchair ramps - and risk blowing up homes by hacking through gas pipes... Can anyone stop the scrap metal thieves stripping Britain bare?

By Tom Rawstorne
Last updated at 4:04 PM on 14th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...itain-bare.html

One small step. But for Gordon Parsons, the foot-high drop from the front door of his house to the garden path was a step too far.

Confined to a wheelchair with multiple sclerosis, the 65-year-old from Watford relies on a mobility ramp so he can get out and about.

Then, three weeks ago, in broad daylight, thieves brazenly stole the sloping 10ft-long metal ramp to sell as scrap. And ever since Gordon has been a prisoner in his own home.

‘I can’t put into words the anger and disgust I feel,’ he says.

His wife Sue is equally aghast. ‘Stealing from the disabled?’ she says. ‘It’s just callous. Whoever took it must have known what it was for. Are there any depths to which people won’t stoop?’

Ask Laura Crowson and her partner James Newitt and the answer is a resounding ‘No’.

One night last month, the couple were disturbed from their sleep by the sound of banging outside their house in Plymouth. They went to investigate, but couldn’t see anything amiss.

But the next morning they woke to an over-powering smell of gas — thieves had stolen the 15m of external copper piping through which their gas supply ran.

‘The pipes that connect the gas boiler at the top of the house to the meter at the front were on the side of the house,’ says Laura, who has a three-year-old daughter and a five-year-old son.

For seven hours the gas leaked out, putting the lives of the family at risk.

‘We’ve since been told that all it would have taken for the house to be demolished in a gas explosion was a flick of a light switch,’ says Laura, 25, a receptionist.

‘That’s how close we came to death. It’s unbelievable that someone would be so stupid as to risk a family’s life for the sake of a few quids’ worth of scrap copper.’

To right-thinking people, such behaviour is beyond contempt — and comprehension.

For criminals determined to cash in on the soaring global demand for metal, there are no depths to which they will not stoop in this illicit £800million-a-year trade.

At Prime Minister’s Questions yesterday, David Cameron highlighted a case in his Witney constituency where the lead from a church roof was stolen.

Last week, it was reported that an Asda supermarket in Essex was stripped of 800 trolleys, stolen from the car park over 12 days. Apparently, the thieves inserted £1 coins to unlock them.

The trolleys, which were worth £64,000 new, would fetch only £2,500 as scrap metal. That’s because no scrapyard in this country could accept them legally, so the thieves would have to ship them abroad.

Not only have shoppers been inconvenienced, but no doubt the cost of replacing them will be passed on to customers.

Trolleys are one thing. What about the railways, electricity sub-stations and telecommunications networks suffering record levels of metal theft?

What about the churches, schools and hospitals whose roofs are being stripped of lead?

‘If it shines, they’ll take it,’ is the way one police officer put it last week. ‘Forget gold fever; it’s all about scrap metal.’

The metal recycling industry in Britain is a £5billion business. And as fast-expanding economies of the emerging world such as China, India and Brazil buy up huge quantities of iron, copper and aluminium, scrap metal prices have gone through the roof in recent months.

Today, on the London Metal Exchange, a tonne of copper is worth more than £5,600. At the beginning of 2009, it was worth less than £1,900.

Lead is trading at more than £1,500 a tonne, compared to less than £650 two years ago. As for aluminium, the cost of a tonne has doubled over the same time.

As the price of metal rises so, too, do the number of metal thefts. Police say the correlation is such that a graph of the two would be almost identical, the only difference being that theft levels tend to lag a month behind price spikes.

And so it is that over recent months police forces across Britain have been struggling to cope with a doubling in the number of incidents.

Last month in Gloucestershire, in one night, 26 drain covers were stolen from a single lane. It was only by chance that the gaping holes left behind did not cause serious injury to road-users.

In Surrey, thieves stole a 125-year-old bell from a village school. In Kent, a 20ft slide at a half-finished children's playground was cut down and stolen. In Caithness, a half-ton Salvation Army clothes bank was stolen with a forklift truck.

As for homeowners, in any town or village there will be those who have had lead flashing taken from their roofs or wheelbarrows stolen from their gardens.

Petty thefts perhaps, but ones that cause deep bitterness and anger. They also have a demoralising effect on entire communities, engendering a sense of despair that is most keenly felt by those whose places of worship have been targeted.

Specialist insurer Ecclesiastical says its clients report four thefts of metal from churches every single day. In the past three years, 8,000 insurance claims worth £23million were made for lead theft. One church was targeted 14 times.

But in terms of disruption, it is the theft of cabling from railways, the electricity network and telecommunications firms that is most widely felt.

Cancelled train services affect hundreds if not thousands of passengers. In 2006, 622 incidents of metal theft were reported on the railways. By last year, that had risen to 2,765.

And it looks as if 2011 will easily outstrip that, with 1,748 crimes reported in the past six months.

In the past financial year alone, the cost of these thefts to Network Rail rose by more than 50 per cent to £16.5million. Passengers suffered 6,000 hours of delays as a result.

Thieves most commonly target power and signalling cables for their copper content, but they also steal track, overhead line equipment and the clips used to hold rails in place.

Such crimes not only put the public in danger, but the criminals themselves can suffer serious injury or even death through electrocution. But it seems that many are willing to risk their life for a few pounds.

‘The majority of thieves stealing metal are the type who would have been stealing car stereos five years ago,’ says a spokesman for British Transport Police.

‘They are low-level offenders who want to turn over quick cash.’

Insight into the mentality of cable thieves was provided by a court case in April when a six-strong gang was jailed at Derby Crown Court.

Over 18 months, they stole 32 tonnes of cable, costing Network Rail almost £1 million in replacements and repairs.

Their actions caused 322 hours of train delays. And yet the scrap was sold for less than £80,000.

Lee Bamford, 34, the gang’s ring-leader, boasted they had frittered away the money on ‘drugs, McDonald’s and cigarettes’.

The court heard they used satellite maps on Google to pinpoint targets and then entered the co-ordinates into their sat-navs to get to their destinations across the country.

Some of the cable they cut with hacksaws. On other occasions, they simply pulled it across the track and waited for a passing train to sever it, risking a derailment.

Having pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to steal, the gang was jailed for a total of 20 years.

In many ways, they could be said to have escaped lightly. Only a few days ago, a 16-year-old boy was electrocuted during a suspected attempt to steal copper cable at a disused Leeds power station.

The dead boy and three other youths are said to have ignored signs warning ‘Danger of death’.

Also in Leeds, and only slightly more fortunate, was 22-year-old James Sorby, who suffered a 22,000-volt electric shock in January as he allegedly attempted to steal cable from an electricity substation.

He was left unconscious after the charge hit his body, burning away part of his skull and exposing his brain. His injuries were so horrific that his three-year-old daughter did not recognise him.

After six months in hospital he still can't move one of his hands.

In 2010, there were three fatalities and 31 serious injuries to criminals attempting to steal cable.

Tim Field is a spokesman for the Energy Networks Association (ENA), a body that represents firms behind the 'wires and pipes' distribution of gas and electricity.

'There were well over 6,000 thefts last year and so far this year we are 100 per cent up,' he says.

'Quite clearly there is a huge increase in what is happening and people are putting themselves at great risk for a tiny return.

'But the knock-on effect is the amount it costs for the damage they cause to be put right. We had about £25 worth of copper taken from a sub-station in Kent. It cost £125,000 to put right the damage.

'And then there are the 135 power cuts caused by metal thieves. These could have affected schools, hospitals and the elderly.'

The ENA, Network Rail and other industries plagued by these thefts are desperately trying to find a way to stem the trade in stolen metal.

One approach is to mark metal and cable with so-called smart water. This can't be removed by burning or stripping outer casings. When viewed under ultra-violet light, it allows the items to be traced back to where it was stolen from. But for this to be effective it requires those receiving the metal — the scrap yards — to co-operate.

While no one would question that the vast majority are legitimate businesses that would not handle stolen goods, there are concerns that the way in which the industry is regulated under a law introduced in 1964 needs to be overhauled.

'The legislation is from a time of Steptoe & Son,' says Mr Field. 'It needs updating with greater police powers to close down the illegal scrap metal dealers.'

There are also demands for a move to a cashless system. Anyone selling metal to a scrapyard would have to be paid via a bank transfer, making them traceable. However, those within the industry are not convinced by these suggestions.

Ian Hetherington is director general of the British Metals Recycling Association, which represents the 300 metal recyclers who process 95 per cent of the scrap in Britain.

He believes the focus should be on identifying and closing down unlicensed operators, rather than increasing regulation on law-abiding scrap merchants.

‘They represent a major thorn in the side of legitimate businesses because they provide a cheap alternative,’ says Mr Hetherington.

‘The larger scrapyards have to leap through hoops complying with complex regulations and yet they are being undercut by unregulated operators who get away with it.’

Nor, he says, would the proposed changes stop criminals shipping stolen scrap metal abroad.

Mr Hetherington believes this is what will have happened to the Essex supermarket trolleys.

‘If compacted, you would get 50 trolleys to the tonne,’ he said.

‘No legitimate scrapyard is going to handle that. They’ll be put in a container, declared as something else and be on their way abroad.’

Few doubt that if scrap metal prices continue to rise, many more containers will follow in its wake. And many more people like Gordon Parsons and Laura Crowson will suffer as a result.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Next: They Steal Your Gold

Title: Next: They Steal Your Gold
Description: [GOOD COMMENTS ON SILVER}

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 10:21 PM (GMT)

Next: They Steal Your Gold

http://www.moneyteachers.org/Gold+Confiscation.htm

The following was reported in the MSM today:

"It is very scary: the flight to gold is accelerating at a faster and faster speed," said Peter Hambro, chairman of Britain's biggest pure gold listing Petropavlovsk.

"One of the big US banks texted me today to say that if QE3 actually happens, we could see gold at $5,000 and silver at $1,000. I feel terribly sorry for anybody on fixed incomes tied to a fiat currency because they are not going to be able to buy things with that paper money." (Source)

Of course, they only want to help. In the words of a Satanist Insider on Henry Makow's site:

"Satanists, whether adepts of the Alpha Lodge or not, have only ever wanted one thing: Everything!

And we want what's best for the sheeple. Indeed, we are the only ones who give the sheeple what they want....

Essentially we have merged crime with policy; stealing with government. We will continue to take whatever wealth remains to be handed to us by the preposterous populace we serve..."

So now they are talking about putting us on an International Gold Standard to complete their thefts.

"There is no depth of market in these other currencies, so gold is the obvious play," said Neil Mellor from BNY Mellon.... Step by step, the world is edging towards a revived Gold Standard as it becomes clearer that Japan and the West have reached debt saturation. World Bank chief Robert Zoellick said it was time to "consider employing gold as an international reference point." The Swiss parliament is to hold hearings on a parallel "Gold Franc". Utah has recognised gold as legal tender for tax payments. (Source)

Gold confiscation and a ban on public or private gold transactions will be justified as necessary, to save the (fill in the blank)'s currency. Owning gold will become a crime and sold by the Satanic Psychopaths to the impoverished masses as a have vs. have not scenario. They will make gold ownership anti-Patriotic and gold owners the scapegoat for their currency collapses worldwide.

This, my friends, is why I like silver. Too many other uses and unable to be banned and/or confiscated. If they were to do so, you would have to turn in your cell phone, computer and tooth fillings, just to name a few.

A New Gold Standard means gold confiscation in exchange for worthless FRNs that will continue to depreciate. They will tell you how many worthless FRNs you get with each ounce of gold they take from you, last time it was $35.00.

Who knows, maybe they'll be more generous this time around. I wouldn't count on it. Buy silver coins, bars and rounds through Drockton Bullion. Email pdrockton@aol.com

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Changing Nature of Gold Investing

Title: The Changing Nature of Gold Investing

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:40 PM (GMT)

The Changing Nature of Gold Investing

Hard Assets Investor, 12 Jul '11

How much gold should you have in your portfolio...?

DR. STEVEN CUNNINGHAM is director of research and education at the American Institute for Economic Research (AIER).

In this interview with Hard Assets Investor, Steven Cunningham discusses the changing role of He recently sat down with HAI and discussed gold's changing role in the investment world.

Hard Assets Investor: AIER has been an advocate of Gold for some time now, no?

Steve Cunningham: The founder of the AIER, Colonel Harwood, was a professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1928 he predicted the economic and financial crisis that became the Great Depression. That gave him some credibility and his understanding of the economy and financial markets.

Harwood recognized the value of gold and other metals and made recommendations accordingly. We have a long history of involvement with assets like gold.

HAI: One of the interesting things about the role of gold and monetary policy has been how dramatically that has shifted just in our lifetimes. We've seen gold go in and out of favor as a secondary currency.

Now, we have plenty of commentators saying that gold has ceased to be that store of wealth and has become just another risky asset. Would you agree with that, or would you disagree with that?

Steve Cunningham: I agree that gold has come to be viewed a little bit more differently in the economy than it once was. Gold demand is not driven by industrial demand. It's still driven by individuals and investors. So it can be somewhat volatile.

Gold as an investment vehicle is different from gold as a basis for a monetary system. That's certainly true. Once you disengage it from the monetary system, then of course it's going to gain more volatility.

Gold works well as an anchor to monetary policy, but only when there's responsible monetary policy in conjunction with it. It isn't enough just to have gold as an anchor to monetary policy. There still has to be some responsible policy. It takes both.

HAI: And certainly in the US we don't actually have any direct, official monetary policy relationship with gold anymore...

Steve Cunningham: That's right we don't. There are assets held by the Federal Reserve against currency, but there are no direct links to gold. And there have been proposals for gold standard. There have been proposals for commodity standards. I remember former US Treasury secretary Donald Regan in the Reagan administration talked about using a basket of commodities as a basis for monetary policy.

But I haven't seen anybody really take these things so seriously. Although with the problems we've had recently, I think there's a little bit more interest.

HAI: We had Dennis Gartman on our site a little while ago talking about gold's role as reserve currency. In the absence of any nation state really adopting gold, do you feel that the industrial complex can do that on its own without government intervention?

Steve Cunningham: I find it very hard to see. I get the spirit of it — there's something to be argued about there. But I think the core of money is trust. There has to be the sense of a mutual contract that we're all going to accept this money, say for goods and services, with the understanding that if we accept the money for goods of a certain value, that we expect to be able to buy things later of a similar value.

There's a social element to money. And in order to enforce any sense of universality, you've got to have some sort of generalized agreement. Usually that only comes through some sort of arrangements between governments.

So I just don't see the industrial complex being able to pull this off independently until there is that sort of buy-in from governments. I'm afraid that Gold Prices will continue to be relatively volatile, which would make gold's use in the private sector separate from the government as a source of money problematic.

HAI: To what extent do you think that volatility represents the presence of these new ways to access gold, like ETFs. Do you feel they have changed the nature of gold?

Steve Cunningham: Oh definitely. There are just so many transaction costs associated with dealing in physical gold. With ETFs, it becomes easy to move in and out of gold very freely, just like you would in and out of stocks. And this has opened up the market to people who previously wouldn't have gone there.

It also put gold into portfolios with other securities. For example, we have seen an increased correlation with gold and securities. In the past we looked at gold in portfolios as a way to offset risk and diversify.

But since the invention of these ETFs, we've seen a growing correlation with other assets. For example, in the first couple of months of 2011, SPDR gold shares (GLD) saw net outflows of $2.4 billion Dollars, which is significant. If you're looking at something on the order of $50-60 billion Dollars in total assets, that's enough to start to affect pricing. And we think that it was largely driven by rebalancing efforts at the end of the year.

In fact the response in gold and silver has been different enough that there are a lot of researchers saying, "We really can't look at gold and silver as being in the same asset class. They're very different."

HAI: Does this acceptance of gold as a corollary security in a portfolio change how we look at gold from a research perspective? If I'm trying to draw conclusions about gold in a relationship with inflation, the period in which I'm looking — if I go back and go over a study in the 70s — is that even relevant anymore? Or are we actually in one of those dangerous periods where we say "this time it's different?"

Steve Cunningham: I think we have to start to look at gold a little bit differently. People are motivated to hold gold for similar reasons as they always were. That's not changing. But certainly the availability of new vehicles is going to have to change the demand side of the market. They just have to. And we've got to be aware of that.

I think there's going to be a lot of growth in gold and in securities portfolios. I think that trend is going to continue. And then you're going to see more correlation with other kinds of assets. So I'm inclined to think that we've got to look at it a little bit differently. You're going to see some shifts in the way that gold responds to macroeconomic news.

If there are changes in monetary policy, for example, that are going to imply a shift in securities prices, that may cause a response in Gold Prices. Whereas that might not have happened in the past.

There may be linkages there that we have to explore. And we have the problem, as you point out, that you've got a break in the series. We don't have a long data series available to us since the growth and popularity of these ETFs. That makes analyses very difficult. And as you point out, the older series aren't entirely valid anymore.

HAI: If you're saying that gold has gone from being a kind of off-balance sheet investment, to one that people think of right along with stocks and bonds, that's got to be pretty bullish for long term Gold Prices.

Steve Cunningham: I think it does imply long-term demand. I think there's little doubt about that. One of the problems with gold in the past — well, if you're a day trader I guess it's a good thing — is it's volatile. And if you can play it right you can make a lot of money. But for most people it doesn't make sense to try to day trade something like gold. They're just not up to the task.

But with these ETF's, you can just put it in a security portfolio. And a lot of studies have shown, including our own, that if you allocate 5% to 10% of your portfolio to gold that you actually improve the returns and reduce the risk in your portfolio. So you're not as trapped into that volatility.

For most people that's a much more comfortable position. They're taking advantage of the good qualities in gold and not having to try to spend the inordinate amount of time it may take to track gold and trade it successfully. Before, they would not have gone there because they couldn't handle the volatility.

HAI: One concern folks have expressed with the rise of ETFs, not just in gold, but really in all commodities, is that this is the realm of serious professional traders, exposing investors to sharks they may not have experienced before. Is that something you think that it's a valid concern? Or do you think that's always been the case?

Steve Cunningham: Certainly I think that people who are not experts find a lot of danger in trying to engage in this market. In the past there were huge transaction costs as well, but investors have always had to deal with the specialized nature of the market.

But now because of the lower transactions costs, it's tempting and you're going to bring in some investors who are not really ready to take on those risks. As you say they're going to be try to swim with the sharks, and it's going to be a dangerous go for them. But this is one of the main reasons why we don't recommend people try to trade in and out of the market.

We find that the average investor will tend to buy late and stay in too long. They'll do everything wrong. They'll be providing the profits to the others in the marketplace. But if they simply allocate, like I said, 5% to 10% of their portfolio to gold, it's going to improve their returns, reduce the risk.

They're not going to have to be that agile. The limit of their adjustments is going to be standard rebalancing efforts periodically, which allows them to essentially do profit-taking and to move into other securities that haven't performed as well. And hopefully make returns there.

It's a more sensible way for the average investors to function I think.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Why a Gold Standard is Wishful Thinking

Title: Why a Gold Standard is Wishful Thinking

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:40 PM (GMT)

Why a Gold Standard is Wishful Thinking

Whiskey and Gun..., 12 Jul '11

Those advocating a return to the gold standard are overlooking the politics...

SPEAKING TO Human Events, publisher Steve Forbes recently predicted "a return to the gold standard by the United states within the next five years". Why? Because it would "help the nation solve a variety of economic, fiscal, and monetary ills", writes Robert Blumen for Whiskey and Gunpowder.

The article continues:

Such a move would help to stabilize the value of the Dollar, restore confidence among foreign investors in US government bonds, and discourage reckless federal spending, the media mogul and former presidential candidate said.

If the gold standard had been in place in recent years, the value of the US Dollar would not have weakened as it has and excessive federal spending would have been curbed, Forbes told HUMAN EVENTS.

[...] the idea "makes too much sense" not to gain popularity as the US economy struggles to create jobs, recover from a housing bubble induced by the Federal Reserve's easy-money policies, stop rising gasoline prices, and restore fiscal responsibility to US government's budget, Forbes insisted.

With a stable currency, it is "much harder" for governments to borrow excessively, Forbes said.

That's all good stuff, Steve. But really? Are you kidding?

In politics, things generally don't happen because they "help the nation" or "make too much sense". If we lived in that kind of world, and the 19th century gold standard had so much going for it, then why was it abandoned in favor of the present system?

It was abandoned for political reasons. Factors leading to the demise of the gold standard were the desire of governments to spend in excess of politically tolerable levels of taxation, the desire to finance World War I and other wars, and the wishes for a lender of last resort to bail out over-leveraged banks when they had insufficient reserves to cover their losses.

Political reasons have a logic of their own quite different from the kind of logic that Forbes is using in which good things happen for good reasons. In politics, interest groups organize to gain influence over the government and implement policies for their own benefit, at the expense of the rest of society.

But why does political logic defeat common sense? The public choice school of economics has given us an explanation of the insidious process by which the few exploit the many. They point out that concentrated benefits and dispersed costs lead to rational ignorance. Translating, "concentrated benefits" are the large returns earned by the privileged groups through subsidies or bailouts.

For each one of us tax payers, the cost of any individual bailout or welfare program is quite small, hence "dispersed costs". In looking at political action to fight the system, the individual taxpayer faces the following set of tradeoffs: the time and effort to understand even one piece of legislation or policy is substantial, and even if opposition to a particular program were effective, it would only save a few Dollars per individual in taxes.

This leads to "rational ignorance", the decision by most taxpayers that the return to working harder at your job or just enjoying life is much greater than the return to political organizing.

Given outcomes that are dominated by public choice logic, the monetary system will not be reformed when "it makes too much sense" to do so. It will not be reformed because it would put government finances on a sound footing, nor to restrain war-making.

Stabilizing the Dollar won't do it either. The current monetary system (or as James Grant calls it, non-system) will be replaced, eventually, because it will fail, catastrophically.

What will the alternative to the current regime of central banks, floating exchange rates, and unbacked fiat money look like? Here I must reject the wishful thinking that "things need to get worse so people will be really angry and insist on something better". Things do not necessarily get better when there is a crisis. Things can get worse and stay worse, or get worse and then go even further downhill.

What exactly Steve Forbes has in mind is nebulous because the term "gold standard" is used differently by different people. The most conventional definition is a system of national currencies exchanging at fixed rates, with central banks, each one having some gold as a reserve asset.

In this world, central banks are obligated to provide a form of convertibility, though reserves held may be less than 100%. Individual nations may, under some conditions, be able to devalue their own national currency relative to the fixed rates and to gold.

For adherents to Murray Rothbard's theory of banking, the gold standard means gold as money proper with banks holding 100% reserves against demand deposits. Under these conditions there is no necessity or even any purpose to having a central bank and devaluation is a form of default.

What does Forbes have in mind? He has been associated with supply side economics, whose economists have their own so-called "gold standard". So-called because it is not much of a gold standard at all, only a rule that the central bank is supposed to manage the inflation of the fiat money system in line with the Gold Price.

Under this system, gold is not money proper, it is a good whose price is considered the best indicator of the looseness or tightness of monetary policy. As Frank Shostak points out, this system offers none of the advantages of using real gold as money. And why should anyone expect that when push comes to shove, the Fed will follow any rule when the situation seems to demand improvements?

As Murray Rothbard wrote in his critique of a similar money supply growth rule advocated by Milton Friedman, "Of course, Friedman would then advise the Fed to use that absolute power wisely, but no libertarian worth the name can have anything but contempt for the very idea of vesting coercive power in any group and then hoping that such group will not use its power to the utmost."

When the current system fails, there are two primary barriers to the adoption of a better system. The first is the political actors who moved to abandon the gold standard the first time around haven't gone away. The vested interest of powerful groups who wish to use the fiat money printing press are still around; if a new opening appears, the usual suspects will apply for their jobs back. That which has not killed them has made them stronger.

But the deeper obstacle is ideology. Most economists and central bankers actually believe that a) an economy cannot grow without an increasing quantity of money, B) the gold standard caused the Great Depression, c) The Fed determines monetary policy, a necessary and beneficial function and, d) the banking system needs a lender of last resort in the case of financial crises, you know, those crises that just sort of happen, that come out of no-where with no warning and hit us when we least expect.

None of the preceding propositions are true, but as long as they are accepted factoids, the next monetary system is likely to look a lot more like the current one with extra lipstick than anything that existed in the 19th century.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold/Silver Market Update

Title: Gold/Silver Market Update

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:33 PM (GMT)

Gold Market Update

Clive Maund

On Wednesday gold broke out from a 10-week long box or rectangular consolidation pattern to commence its next major upleg. Fundamentally this coincided with noises emanating from the US to the effect that it is recognized that there is no alternative but to continue with QE. Denials later in the day caused the broad stockmarket to lose much of its gains, but the fact is that there is no alternative to QE, except a global systemic economic implosion, and thus, there is no alternative to QE, although attempts may be made to disguise the extent of it.

On our 6-month chart we can see gold's breakout and how, after 7 days of gains, it is starting to become overbought. However, apart from brief pauses to partially unwind the overbought condition, it is expected to continue to advance strongly in coming weeks and months, overbought or not, and this positive outlook is reinforced by the strongly bullish picture for silver and Precious Metals stocks.

There has been talk in some quarters about gold "being in a bubble", but our long-term chart for gold going back to before the start of the bullmarket, shows that such an assertion is ridulous - gold has been in a steady uptrend as it has moved simply to compensate for the destruction of the purchasing power of fiat. What we are seeing here is real money, which gold is, standing out in an ocean if increasingly worthless fiat. Since gold has not been in a bubble and has not attracted the attention of speculators to any great degree it can be said to have an almost full tank of "bubble power", and if, in addition to its continued rise to compensate for the relentless attacks on fiat by central bankers and politicians, it does attract the attention of the investing public at large, its rate of rise could very easily accelerate rapidly and it could go into an ascending parabolic arc. This development is actually viewed as inevitable as we move ever closer to the fiat endgame of hyperinflation, but as we can see on the chart, it hasn't even started yet.

Speaking of gas in the tank, the last COT chart showed a setup similar to that which existed back at the start of February - before a $260 runup in the price of gold - so the impications of this chart are obvious.

We are going to end this Gold Market update by briefly summarizing the "global playbook" - once you grasp what is set out below you will understand why the continued advance in the prices of gold and silver are inevitable, and why their rate of advance is set to accelerate...

There is no way of resolving the Global Debt Crisis in a direct and honest manner - any attempt to tackle it head on would result in a global economic implosion and deep depression - and very possibly a state of total anarchy. The "de facto" decision has already been taken to inflate it away. While this will ultimately result in hyperinflation and possibly depression anyway, the transition to that state will be a lot smoother by taking the inflationary approach than it would be by taking the draconian root and branch approach.

There will still be small to medium size defaults such as Greece, then Portugal, and after that probably Spain and Italy, but what will happen in each of these cases as they arise is that imminent default will be headed off at the last minute by them being bailed out and propped up, and whatever money is needed to patch things up and keep the system limping along will be forthcoming. In the United States, after much ritual wrangling, the debt ceiling will be raised - again and again and again, and the Fed will continue to backstop the Treasury market, and there will be QE3, QE4, QE5 and on and on, even if disguised under other names, and money will be manufactured in ever increasing quantities to keep eveything pumped up. For an investor it is crucially important to grasp what this means - it means that every default scare of this kind that spooks the markets will present another buying opportunity, as just happened with Greece, especially in commodities and in particular in gold and silver. A country such as Portugal will verge on default, bankers and politicians will run around like headless chickens for a few weeks, markets will drop, then suddenly - hey presto - the necessary funds to "kick the can down the road" yet again will be forthcoming and markets will breathe a sigh of relief and rally - and inflation will continue to build as the debt bill is pushed ever more onto the populace. The middle and lower classes of the world have been targeted to pay down the debts through ever increasing inflation that will reduce most to a state of penury. The good news is that if you understand the game THAT DOES NOT HAVE TO INCLUDE YOU.

The continuing debasement of fiat currencies around the world means that the bullmarkets in gold and silver are set to continue and to accelerate. Up until now both gold and silver having been moving higher in large part simply to compensate for the destruction of the purchasing power of fiat caused by inflation, but there is going to come a point when IN ADDITION to these important drivers, speculative interest in both metals is going to ramp up, as speculators are increasingly attracted to both metals simply because their prices continue to rise, with no prospect of them ceasing to do so. In addition there will be an ever increasing flow of funds into the Precious Metals by those desperate just to preserve their purchasing power in the face of the demise of fiat. This increasing influx of funds both from desperate investors and from speculators will eventually power the acclerating ramp in both gold and silver.

While it is true that China and Europe have been playing a dangerous game of chicken in recent weeks by raising interest rates, it is presumed that they will wake up soon and "come on side" and fully partake in the money pumping game, because if they don't the dollar will collapse relative to their currencies and their own economies will implode.

Silver Market Update

Clive Maund

Yesterday's high volume breakout above its 50-day moving average marked completion of the intermediate basing pattern and the start of the next major uptrend in silver. Everything in now in place for a substantial uptrend to develop in coming months that should take silver comfortably to new highs. Fundamentally yesterday's breakout was due to the realization in the markets that QE is set to continue, whether called QE or not, and in fact it must continue, as any attempt to apply the brakes at this late stage would result in a global systemic economic collapse. Hyperinflation will be the inevitable end result, as will prices for gold and silver at levels that many now would consider to belong solely in the realms of fantasy. We already had a foretaste of this coming ramp in Precious Metal prices earlier this year with the big runup in silver prices, before powerful interests decided the time was right to put the boot into the little guy by repeatedly hiking margin requirements over a short period. This served big money interests in 2 ways - first of all it crashed the silver price so that they can move in and scoop up more of it. Secondly big money is not all at concerned about margin requirements, since being wealthy in the first place they don't need to bother with margin at all, although it suits them to use it at times to maximise leverage. What the hiked margin requirements did do was to throw the little guy off the train, and like one of those old westerns big money is stood at the open end of the train carriage lighting up a cigar and grinning with satisfaction as the little guy rolls down the embankment and is left lying in the dust as the train chugs off into the distance without him.

Our 6-month chart for iShares, which is a good proxy for silver, shows the now extraordinarily bullish setup for silver. For some weeks it was not clear whether the C wave of the now completed A-B-C correction would take the silver price below the A wave low in May, which for iShares was exactly at $32, and had Greece not been bandaged up it would have, of course. The first sign of improvement was the breakout from the C wave downtrend channel about a week ago, after which the price was temporarily restrained by unfavorably aligned (falling) 50-day moving average, which forced a test of support at the top line of the channel, which we correctly anticipated. Then just yesterday the price blasted through the 50-day moving average on the highest volume for weeks, the importance of the resistance in the vicinity of this average being illustrated by the way the price gapped above it - a bullish "breakaway" gap. This is what we have been waiting for. This marks the end of the intermediate base building phase and the start of the next major uptrend.

The picture could not be more bullish. The price and its 50-day moving average have corrected back almost to the rising 200-day moving average which is now coming into play to support a major advance. The volume pattern during the base building process has been positive, with volume contracting, and the Accum-Distrib line shown at the top of the chart rising, indicating accumulation. Finally the COT charts are at their most bullish for ages with Commercial short and Large Spec long positions being at their lowest levels for a very long time.

SILVER COT
Large Spec
Small Spec
Commercial
Open Interest
The little guy was booted off the train by the rapid succession of margin hikes in April and has rolled down the embankment and is lying face down in the dust. This is demonstrated by the remarkably low Open Interest (green line) which is perhaps better labelled as "Open Disinterest".
The sudden rise in the Commercial's short positions last week, admittedly from a very low level - and they can be presumed to have risen further later in the week - may be the precursor to a minor reaction back from the 50-day moving average ahead of the expected major uptrend.
11/02/10
11/09/10
11/16/10
11/23/10
11/30/10
12/07/10
12/14/10
12/21/10
12/28/10
01/04/11
01/11/11
01/18/11
01/25/11
02/01/11
02/08/11
02/15/11
02/22/11
03/01/11
03/08/11
03/15/11
03/22/11
03/29/11
04/05/11
04/12/11
04/19/11
04/26/11
05/03/11
05/10/11
05/17/11
05/24/11
05/31/11
06/07/11
06/14/11
06/21/11
06/28/11
07/05/11

The lower COT chart is courtesy of the renowned Scarborough Bullion Desk in England.

Clive Maund, Diploma Technical Analysis support@clivemaund.com www.clivemaund.com

Copiapo, Chile, 14 July 20

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold & Silver Picking Up Steam Relative to Stocks

Title: Gold & Silver Picking Up Steam Relative to Stocks

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:29 PM (GMT)

Gold and Silver Picking Up Steam Relative to Stocks

14 July 2011

Before we check in on the current status of gold (GLD) and silver (SLV), it is helpful to review their fundamental appeal to investors. Studying the performance of silver relative to gold is not just for gold bugs; it can help us monitor the health of the 'risk on trade' relative to the 'risk off trade' in many markets, including stocks (SPY) and commodities (DBC).

While gold (GLD) and silver (SLV) are often grouped together in investment discussions, gold has more of an Armageddon appeal and silver has more of an industrial appeal. Generally, when the gold/silver ratio is rising, it signals higher levels of fear and concern about the economic outlook. Notice how gold was much more attractive in the minds of market participants during the 2008 portion of the last bear market (see below).

Silver tends to be in greater demand relative to gold during economic expansions and bull markets. Gold tends to be in greater demand when concerns rise about economic downturns or geopolitical events. These basic investment tenants describe how investors can benefit from monitoring the gold-silver ratio (shown above), which is simply a study of the demand for gold relative to the demand for silver.

Today, we will flip the ratio and look at silver relative to gold (SLV divided by GLD). We sold all our silver in early May and kept our gold, which turned out to be a fortunate move since silver has continued to lag gold for the last ten weeks (see right side of chart below).

The Relative Strength Index (RSI) of silver relative to gold is shown near point A below. RSI has remained below 50 since early May, which tells us silver has been generally bearish relative to gold. A possible bright spot for silver is RSI did recently break above 50 for the first time in nine weeks. This is a subtle change and one that tells us to watch silver a little more closely. Point B shows the silver-gold ratio did find support at its 200-day moving average (green arrows). If silver is going to pick it up vs. gold, making a stand near the 200-day is logical, since 200-day moving averages often serve as bull/bear lines of demarcation.

Notice the silver-gold ratio did muster a higher high and higher low recently (near point B). This is the first sign of a possible trend change and another reason to watch silver. ADX (point C) can help us better understand trends and the strength of trends. When ADX red is higher than ADX green (see red arrow), it gives the nod to the bears. The black ADX line currently shows a weak trend or sleepy market, which means conditions are in place for a bigger move (up or down) in the silver-gold ratio. The Wm %R has made a series of higher lows (see blue arrows near point D), which indicates a reduction in the desire to sell silver relative to gold.

Since peaking in late 2009, gold has experienced relatively tame performance vs. the S&P 500. The chart below shows gold's performance relative to the S&P 500 Index (GLD divided by the S&P 500). There are several positive shifts occurring on the chart below indicating now is a good time to consider adding to our positions in gold (emphasis on consider).

RSI often leads price. Near point A, RSI recently broke above a downward-sloping trendline, which is a bullish signal for gold relative to stocks. Point B shows price is also trying to complete a move above the downward sloping blue trendline. Notice the gold-S&P 500 ratio was able to hold above line B-2 recently, which is another check on the bullish side of gold's ledger.

Moving to the bottom portion of the chart below, the orange lines (O-1 and O-2) indicate a somewhat tepid interest in gold relative to stocks since late 2009. Point C shows MACD is trying to make a positive turn. In terms of being bullish on gold, we would like to see the black line cross the red line near point C. Rate of Change (ROC) is shown near point D. Another good sign for gold relative to stocks is ROC has moved back above zero.

The last important point in the chart above relates to the moving averages (thin colored lines). Moving averages help smooth out trends by removing some day-to-day volatility. The notation on the chart above points out three times when the gold-S&P 500 ratio broke above a tight band of moving averages, an area where support and resistance can be strong. Notice the ratio picked up momentum in a bullish manner after a break above the tight moving average bands. Near point B, the ratio recently broke above, and held above, a tight band of the moving averages, which leans bullish for gold relative to stocks.

It should be noted that the chart above is a monthly chart. The bullish developments in gold relative to stocks become much more meaningful if they can hold into the end of July.

How can all this help us? It is a good time to monitor gold and consider adding to our positions, especially if the gold ETF (GLD) can see gains on impressive volume. It is also a good time to keep an open mind about a possible re-entry point for silver. If you own stocks and commodities, you would prefer to see silver win the battle relative to gold. Strength in silver relative to gold tends to occur during economic expansions and periods when the 'risk on trade' is in favor.

Chris Ciovacco
Ciovacco Capital Management

Chris Ciovacco is the Chief Investment Officer for Ciovacco Capital Management, LLC. More on the web at www.ciovaccocapital.com

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold tallies nine-session gain of nearly $108

Title: Gold tallies nine-session gain of nearly $108

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:28 PM (GMT)

Gold tallies nine-session gain of nearly $108

http://www.gold-eagle.com/dmr1.php

NEW YORK (July 15) Gold futures finished higher Friday to score a gain of 3.2% for the week, as lingering concerns over the potential for U.S. and euro-zone debt defaults helped prices tally a nine-session gain of nearly $108 an ounce.

Gold for August delivery rose 80 cents to close at $1,590.10 an ounce on the Comex division of the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Prices, which have climbed $107.50 since they closed at $1,482.60 on July 1, marked a fresh record settlement price.

Gold has hit a string of record high levels this week, as the possibility of more stimulus being pumped into the U.S. economy and global debt worries supported buying.

Prices, however, remain well below the previous record high for gold in real terms of around $2,400 on Jan. 18, 1980, according to a research note from Capital Economics.

“All of the underlying factors are simply continuing to work in favor of gold,” said Brien Lundin, editor of Gold Newsletter. “It’s enjoying the status as an asset of choice in either a ‘risk on’ or ‘risk off’ environment.”

Results of the European bank stress tests did little to sway gold prices in either direction. After the European markets closed Friday, the European Banking Authority said eight banks failed its stress tests, with a combined capital shortfall of 2.5 billion euros ($3.5 billion). A further 16 banks narrowly passed the tests. Read more about the stress test results.

“As to bank stress tests, it’s the fox rendering opinions on other foxes,” said Steven Evanson, chief executive officer at Evanson Asset Management. “The elephant in the room is the CDS [credit default swap] exposure banks carry and other non-transparent balance-sheet delights.”

Still, “the dollar is essentially flat today, with the stress tests results removing some of the greenback’s appeal as a safe haven for the moment,” according to Lundin.

Gold tends to trade inversely with the U.S. dollar. The dollar was last at 75.122 versus 75.245 late Thursday. Read more about currencies action. U.S. debt watch

The fall-out from a temporary default by the U.S. government has less serious implications than the euro-zone sovereign-debt crisis, although it would “probably see gold prices spike higher too,” analysts at Capital Economics said.

Late Thursday, new urgency was injected into the ongoing U.S. debt negotiations, when S&P said it put U.S. sovereign ratings on formal credit watch. Read more about U.S. debt ceiling negotiations and the S&P warning.

The warning came one day after Moody’s Investors Service put the U.S. government’s Aaa bond rating on review for possible downgrade because it fears “a small but rising risk” of a short-lived default.

“From a market perspective, there are several things hold the precious metals in check right now, not the least of which is the U.S. debt discussion in Congress -- that coupled with profit taking, after a $100 streak up since July 1,” said Steve Gillette, president of Cirrus Commodities Exchange.

The U.S. debt ceiling crisis discussions “have begun to crystallize the thinking about what people have been told with respect to precious metals as an asset class and money alternative,” said Gillette.

The broader metals complex diverged Friday, with silver and copper higher, but platinum and palladium losing ground.

The September silver contract, or 1%, to end at $39.07 an ounce and September copper added 3 cents, or 0.8%, to close at $4.41 a pound.

Platinum for October delivery, or 1.1%, to end at $1,755.50, while the September contract for palladium rose $6.00 to finish at $788 an ounce.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: 11 Silver Investor Mentality Shifts

Title: 11 Silver Investor Mentality Shifts

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:27 PM (GMT)

11 Silver Investor Mentality Shifts

Chris Duane

We are going to see a huge shift in silver investor mentality

(By the looks of today's action it could be today.) Silver buyers will no longer be "nerdy" guys talking about Austrian Economics or "momentum monkeys" trying to make a quick buck trading metals. It will be wide eyed panic buying as people wake up to the fact they everything they have ever worked for is being destroyed by the massive money creation from the world's central banks. Once people see that the only answer the bankers have is to print more money and that the only answer the politicians have is to spend more money, they will see that there is no safe place on earth to store their wealth other than real tangible assets. And of course the best real tangible asset is silver. (Read the Silver Bullet and the Silver Shield.)

I predicted that silver,at one point, would not be available at any dollar price

You can throw away all of your $50, $100, $500 price targets, because society would finally see the enormity of the fraud in the silver market. Once this fraud exposed, no person on earth would dare let go of their silver for fiat paper money. Sure a couple of ounces might be available at the local shop, but the vast majority of the silver markets will be as barren as the shelves of a post collapse Soviet Union grocery store. This global mentality shift in asset values will lead to a paradigm shift where the world no longer wants debt money. Only real money will do in the new paradigm.

1. Physical investors who have been stacking physical silver will be stunned by the sudden appreciation

It will be akin to someone winning the lottery. They will shocked at the enormity of their new found wealth which occurs at the same time the economy becomes an absolute horror show. A shift in the perception of wealth will confirm that they are holding something truly precious. The years of being told they are crazy for buying silver will finally give way to, "you were right." After the shock wears off, these newly minted kings will seek to make the most off of this once in a life time opportunity. These men were astute enough to buy silver when everyone said they were nuts, they are certainly now not going to give up what they have for some dirty dollars that they did not want years ago. They will wait for something much, much better. They will not see immediately many opportunities to invest their new wealth in, because the final throes of the debt based economy will be horrific. No one will invest when it is not certain what will happen to humanity. They will have no choice but to wait until the act plays out and the music stops.

2. Long term paper investors who have been sitting on the sidelines, will rush to buy silver this time around

I cannot tell you how many people I know that are literally dragging their feet buying silver. (You know who you are.) They understand why to buy, but it is just so hard for them to pull the trigger. Unfortunately, it will not be until much higher prices that they will finally pull the trigger. When they do buy, they will be joining a fast and furious rush as those fence sitters finally panic for the exits. They will see that Europe's debt problem, is the world's debt problem. We cannot solve debt with more debt. They will see a world awash in more debt/money. They will see that no paper asset is safe with the amount of money printing that will occur this next round of "too big to fails." This time the "too big to fails" won't be some puny, billion dollar company, it will be trillion dollar nations. I have said that there is quadrillions of dollars in paper assets and only a few million ounces of real physical silver on the market. Right now, there is probably less than 1% of people invested in silver,what will the price of silver be if it went back to 15% of the population like it did in the 80′s? Don't forget the last time precious metals went up it was really only the Western nations that participated in that bull run. This time, it is truly a global reality with China leading the way.

3. Silver retailers will be stunned as people throw their fiat dollar for real tangible metals

Some retailers will celebrate and sell everything they have at higher and higher prices. They will expect to buy back in at a lower price, but this time instead of correcting, it keeps going up. After a short while these former precious metals players will see that the world changed and that they were on the wrong side of the trade. They will then become one of those panic buyers that they once celebrated selling to.

4. The smart silver retailer will see mentality shift of these silver buyers and take silver off of the market

They will see a mentality that is not one of a monetary or freedom "nerds". It is not the mentality of a momentum monkey trying to make a quick buck trading metal. It will be one of wide eyed sudden panic that people's entire life's savings are at risk and that they need to buy silver (or other real assets.) These new buyers will not be letting go of their silver anytime soon, because they will no longer trust the dollar, the stock market, the banks, or the government. The smart retailer will now see that the real money is not selling the metal, but in holding the metal. The longer they hold it, the more that they may never sell the metal for paper money again. They will join the rest of the strong handed investors that will not sell until there is a new monetary paradigm established or they can sell/leverage their silver directly for other income producing assets.

5. Momentum monkeys, who play the paper markets on real assets, will seize upon the new mentality a drive the paper markets higher as they smell blood in the silver short water

Hedge funds will jump all over this market as they seek to squeeze every dollar out of the silver market. Vast paper wealth will be made in a very short time. These momentum monkeys will fail to see that while they were right on the trade but they were in the wrong vehicle. The paper market will cheat them of their ultimate reward of wealth. The mentality shift in asset values that will send real assets soaring at the same time all paper asset markets fail. Even if the momentum monkeys are "right" with their long silver bet…
there is nothing stopping the CRIMEX from changing the rules for paper traders capping their gains.
there is nothing stopping a failure of their brokerage account or their bank as the paper markets seize.
there is nothing stopping people from not accepting their paper "winnings" for the real physical silver.
there is nothing stopping the very dollars they "won" from not having any value at all.

6. JP Morgan the ultimate silver buyer?

In the final act I do not expect JP Morgan to fall on the sword to defend a failing system. JP along with many other banks know full well the reality of the physical silver market. They have been perpetuating this fraud on a massive scale for years. They have kept the regulators at bay by having their boys actually become the regulators. They know full well that they are trading 100 paper ounces to 1 physical ounces. They are doing this because it is easy money to make now. During this mentality shift they will change with the wind and be first in line for the real metal that they are in control of. These banksters will most likely shift their losing silver short positions on to some other shell company, pension fund, the Federal Reserve or most likely the tax payers. These former silver shorts could ride the physical silver market all the way up. (I may have to change my Blythe Masters Rides The Silver Rocket pictures to ones of ecstasy…)

7. Institutional silver sellers will take their silver off the market

Most people do not realize that the recent depletion of silver on the CRIMEX from 41 million ounces to 28 million ounces has NOT been from people buying and taking delivery of physical silver. It has been from cancellation of warrants of sellers no longer wishing to sell. This is a huge factor from the supply side of silver that will push the price up further.

8. Miners will no longer seek to rush to push more real metal into the paper markets

If they do sell their metal they will most likely sell it in Asia where there will be a huge demand for the metal. These miners will also see that like OPEC or DeBeers, there is great power in restricting output of their product. Most silver is merely a byproduct of mining other metals. Smart miners would be wise to sell their zinc or other metals and keep their silver byproduct as profit. This silver would grow in value and not be taxed. Since they never sell it, there is no tax on its increasing value. This increasing value would be monetized through the appreciation of their stock price as their balance sheet becomes more and more attractive. (Somewhere, someone is smiling at this thought…)

9. Corporations who were once comfortable with paper contracts guaranteeing delivery of their metal, will only want immediate physical delivery.

Silver is such a strategic metal and is used in such small quantities. There are billions of dollars in corporate valuations at risk if corporations cannot secure the basic components for their products. Companies like Apple computer will whip out the big check book for only the real thing. Corporations will use their power to create a stock pile which will add further demand. Most likely they will bypass the paper markets all together and deal directly with the corporations who mine the silver. What a power shift that will be when tech giants have to go hat in hand to a small mining company to get their metal. Who knows, maybe these tech giants will use their wealth and just buy the whole mining company…

10. Mining nations will make their move

So many mines are in nations that can and will, at the drop of a hat, nationalize mines. Nations will be facing tremendous social upheaval and will not hesitate to steal wealth from the mines that rest in their lands. China once the largest exporter of silver only 5 years ago is now the largest importer of silver. Bolivia was on the verge of nationalizing their mines last May, they could pull the trigger anytime they want. Even in the United States,do you really think the thieves in Washington will not steal the mines in America? Or the CRIMEX or the SLV? Or even it's citizens?

For the record, I do not think they will go for the little guys like us

First the majority of silver holders are smart enough to hide their silver beyond the sight the Federales. Second, the majority of silver owners I know are former military, gun owners who don't trust the government. They would never willingly give up their silver anymore than they would give up their guns, food or children. If they won't give it up, what are they going to do send in the SWAT team to grab some Mercury dimes? Finally, I believe that the government will have much bigger problems on its hands with riots and starvation to mount any effort for confiscation. All of this assumes that these bozos even understand how important silver is.

11. The Anti-Hegemon makes it's move

I have written that there is a group of nations that have not benefited from the current world order and are seeking a way to end it. They have been very wise to not agitate the mortally wounded beast of the Anglo American Empire. They have been sitting on the side lines sharpening their knives waiting for the right time to carve up the remains. China is leading these nations with their huge reserves and the opening up of new markets like the Pan Asian Gold Exchange and the Hong Kong Mercantile Exchange. These nations have been using their paper assets to buy real assets all over the world. China is now in every continent buying oil, farms, and mines. They do not waste their wealth on frivolous showcase properties like the Japanese did when they bought golf courses and Manhattan sky scrapers. They are buying assets that will be the basis of power in the new paradigm of real wealth.

This mentality shift in real asset values will ultimately lead to a paradigm shift in power

Those that have the real assets will be the ones making the rules. Those investors who hold the physical metal will finally have the upper hand over the paper manipulators. Those miners will finally become more valuable then these frivolous companies like Facebook. Those nations that have the natural resources will have the upper hand economically over nations that have nothing else to offer but debt and death. This shift is power will be from those that produce nothing to those that produce something. Reality will take hold and the day of something for nothing will be over for good.

When the game changes you will see that the counter party risk becomes the most important aspect of investing Paper assets rely on another party to fulfill their end of the bargain, real assets do not. When the world is panicking, it will be every man for himself. There are many more powerful people higher up the food chain that will get theirs before you get yours. A very wise man, Ponce, once said. "if you don't hold it, you don't own it." When this shift happens, will you be in the right place, at the right time? Got physical?

dont-tread-on.me

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Scrap copper market supply squeezed by U.S.

Title: Scrap copper market supply squeezed by U.S.
Description: building slump

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:25 PM (GMT)

Scrap copper market supply squeezed by U.S. building slump

A continued slump in industrial demolition rates as a result of the prolonged downturn in the U.S. housing sector has tightened supplies in the U.S. copper scrap market

Author: Chris Kelly (Reuters)
Posted: Friday , 15 Jul 2011

NEW YORK (Reuters) - Supplies in the U.S. copper scrap market remained tight at the start of the third quarter, as a lingering slump in industrial demolition rates made material, especially higher-grade material, harder to come by.

The prolonged downturn in the housing sector has squeezed supplies, along with a general reluctance from producers and owners to release more metal into the marketplace as smaller quantities of the secondary scrap metal have limited their ability to quickly fill shipment containers.

"The generation is a little bit less because housing demolition continues to not be there, so your insulated wire units and clean, high-grade copper are just not as prevalent as they had been in the past during the summer months," said Matthew Heitmeier, director of non-ferrous metal marketing with Louis Padnos Iron & Metal Co.

"People don't want to sell until they know that they have a full load to ship."

It was not clear whether this slower business trend will extend into the autumn.

"I don't see anything that would portend a significant increase in the flow of copper scrap, unless there is a very dramatic price rise and some quantities that may still be withheld hit the street and start to move," said Robert Stein, vice president of nonferrous marketing and trading with Alter Trading Corporation.

While higher grades of scrap have become harder for buyers to get their hands on, lesser grades have flourished, with the lion's share of this material heading over to Asia.

"There has been tremendous buying of electric motors and insulated copper wires ... the lower-grade items, whereas the higher grade material has not picked up," said Marc Kaplan, president of Mews Metals Trading in New Jersey.

As a result, the spreads or discounts that the secondary metal tends to own against the benchmark COMEX futures price HGU1 have barely budged over the last 30 days, dealers said.

Spreads for Bare Bright copper, often regarded as the highest grade of copper scrap, stood at 5 to 12 cents below the COMEX futures price, unchanged from the beginning of June.

No. 2 copper scrap, which typically consists of a mixture of wire and tubing with a 96 percent copper content, was quoted at 40 to 45 cents under, in a bit from an early-June range of 42 to 48 cents under.

"Spreads are staying the same because buyers are having trouble finding material, so they can't widen them," one East Coast dealer said.

This doesn't seem to be the case in China. June import data showed shipments of copper scrap into China climbed to 420,000 tonnes, their highest level so far this year. (Graphic: r.reuters.com/xyr32s)

While China will remain a net importer of copper in both its primary and secondary forms, buying patterns could become erratic as unfavorable arbitrage opportunities between the Shanghai and COMEX markets and Beijing's clamp down on credit and lending standards limit the metal-consuming giant's market presence.

"It will become a tug-of-war between the higher market price and the need for the resource," said David Chiao, vice president at Atlanta-based recycler Uni-All Group Ltd. (Reporting by Chris Kelly; Editing by David Gregorio)

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Extreme times for central bankers - a time for Title: Extreme times for central bankers - a time for Description: gold

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:24 PM (GMT)

Extreme times for central bankers - a time for gold

The huge upwards swing in the gold price this week relates to loss of confidence in currencies with central banks in 'preserving-their-gold mode' with Greek default still looming.

Author: Julian Phillips
Posted: Thursday , 14 Jul 2011

BENONI - In the last year, according to the B.I.S.'s annual report Central banks have pulled 635 tonnes of gold from the Bank for International Settlements, the largest withdrawal in more than a decade. The move, disclosed in the BIS's annual report, marks a sharp reversal from the last year when central banks added to deposits of gold at the so-called "bank for central banks".

The Bank for International Settlements did not disclose the reasons why the Gold/ Currency swaps were initiated in the first place, nor have they disclosed why these transactions were reversed...

v Some have speculated that they did not earn enough on the gold they lent out. Lending gold for six months earned a rate of 0.1% recently, according to benchmark market assessments published by the London Bullion Market Association. This is certainly not worth any risk at all.

v Some say that it was central bank desires to keep their gold inside their vaults and not loaned outside it.

v Some say that the gold is now being lent to the private sector for a better yield. This may well be true, but we note that the risks have heightened well beyond the rewards they may earn.

To know for sure, we need to be told by the B.I.S. themselves, and that is not likely to happen. Few except ourselves have suggested it had been loaned out as collateral. The return of the gold to the central banks involved -in the light of the worsening international debt situation and the risks to international banks-could easily have played a part.

The BIS confirmed that the fall in the value of gold deposits disclosed in its annual report represented, ‘a shift in customer gold holdings away from the BIS'. Comparisons with previous annual reports showed the withdrawal was the largest in at least 10 years. This implies that more than improved yields were involved. In our opinion, the return of gold to its original owners reflects the higher risks out there for the banking system. No central bank will want it to be known that they have a creditor that cannot return their gold. Should the worst happen that the Eurozone membership changes, then the ensuing financial chaos calls for central banks to be able to cope with any dramas that might come their way.

It would be prudent for all such guardians of national reserves ion such extreme times to have their assets in house. To us, this seems the most plausible reason and one all central banks would never dare express!

EXTREME TIMES AND GREECE

One of the most difficult definitions to make is the definition of extreme times for central bankers. Are we in extreme times for most gold holding central banks based in Europe? We would think so, as the abilities of European Finance Ministers are falling short of what's needed to rectify the Eurozone debt crisis. Matters are worsening every day, and we haven't seen the worst yet. If matters do decay any further, or if Greece leaves the Eurozone and the Drachma is reinstated, then it will need all the help it can get from its central bank.

While the Greek government cannot instruct the central bank to compromise its independence (unless it leaves the Eurozone) in extreme times the central bank may, on its own initiative, step into the breach of international trade and use gold as collateral, to keep international trade flows moving. That is what really extreme times means.

With Greece, Ireland, Portugal, Spain and now Italy on the danger list of debt-distressed members of the Eurozone we are in extreme times in Europe. This would be gold's time!

So what can happen to make gold serve as more than its dollar value? Gold is money as a last resort amongst bankers. What would make them activate it?

DEPARTING FROM THE E.U.

We have to do more than sit and wait to see what happens. At the moment the gold price has shot up to €1,107 at Tuesday's Gold Fix in London, a record almost €30 higher than the previous peak. Confidence in the euro is crashing. It is clear that even Europe's Finance Ministers recognize that Greece is completely bust. Whichever way the country goes -whether it is into austerity for the next decade or perhaps into a booming exit from the E.U.-it is going to have an extremely hard time. If it does leave the E.U. then what does it do?

Take a look at Argentina, when it left the dollar peg and let the Peso drop. Argentina is still not welcome in the markets, but it benefitted more than it would have suffered if it had kept the dollar ‘peg'. If Greece followed the same road it would have to reinstate the Greek Drachma at a hugely lower rate per Euro, so that its cheapness would attract euro-bearing tourists in droves. The banks would need to be saved by the forcible conversion of euro deposits to Drachmas at a lower level. Capital flows would have to be stopped or heavily penalized through a deep discount to the Drachma used for commercial transactions.

This would give rise to a Financial Drachma and a Commercial Drachma. New investors in Greece would be rewarded with the deep discount that would prevent money flowing out of Greece. Commercial transactions would follow the value of the Drachma established in trade with Greece. If foreign banks wanted to remove the blocks on their capital they would be asked to invest it in 10-year government bonds or bank deposits before it could be repatriated.

The big advantage to new investors would be that they would not simply earn good interest on their deposits but would see a capital profit of the deep discount at the end of 10 years, a boost to their interest income in the amount of the deep discount as income would leave the country as a commercial transaction.

With an economy not built to perform well by itself, the benefits of these changes would enhance the performance of the economy remarkably. Property investments would enjoy the deep discount on capital alongside the new tourist boom. Under any long term bailout none of these benefits would come to Greece.

Julian Phillips is a long time specialist analyst of the gold and silver markets and is the principal contributor to the Gold Forecaster - www.goldforecaster.com - and Silver Forecaster- www.silverforecaster.com - websites and newsletters iPad Version: Picture - Greek Finance Minister Venizelos addresses journalists during a news conference in Athens: John Kolesidis / Reuters

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: China’s Inflation Problem, the Commodities Bubble

Title: China’s Inflation Problem, the Commodities Bubble
Description: and Silver Prices

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:23 PM (GMT)

China’s Inflation Problem, the Commodities Bubble and Silver Prices

Thu, Jul 14, 2011
By Melissa Pistilli—Exclusive to Silver Investing News
http://silverinvestingnews.com/7752/china’...ver-prices.html

China has been heralded as the global economic savior whose explosive growth-fueled appetite for natural resources will push worldwide commodities markets higher and higher, pulling many economically mangled nations out of their financial hole.

The Asian powerhouse’s appetite is so large that the People’s Bank of China has seen fit to raise interest rates yet a fourth time since October 2010 in order to cut back domestic consumption and reign in rising consumer prices. China is facing its strongest inflationary pressure in three years as consumer prices rose 5.5 percent in May. Even more telling, The China Securities Journal has opined that “curbing inflation should remain the top agenda for the government,” and government advisers are calling for further interest rate hikes. On Tuesday, Premier Wen acknowledged that controlling inflation is the top priority of the Chinese government.

Many silver bugs are understandably gushing about what rising inflation in China could mean for global gold and silver prices, as precious metals are historically viewed as a safe-haven during periods of high inflation. Even a recent article on Silver Investing News discusses the potential upside for silver prices if Chinese inflation problems should continue.

But, let’s not pull out the party hats and champagne glasses just yet. Are we forgetting that silver is not solely a precious metal, like gold, but at times even more beholden to the same fate as its industrial cousin, copper?

The reason I’m not ready to jump into the party is I’m an eternal pessimist, which always leaves me asking “But, what if . . . ?”

And my “what if” this time centers on a few recent articles by A. Gary Schilling warning that China is on the verge of a “hard landing” that could “prick the global commodity bubble,” and send oil and industrial metals markets like copper into a downward spiral.

As it turns out, China’s financial concerns aren’t limited to rising inflation. Moody’s Investor Services recently said that the “scale of problem loans at Chinese banks could be closer to the ‘bleaker’ range of estimates.” The firm put the number of Chinese bank loans that could eventually garner the label “non-performing” between 5 to 8 percent. Massive debt problems in local governments nationwide amount to $1.6 trillion, a figure China’s National Audit Office says can be paid back only by taking on more debt. And of course, there’s that real estate bubble threatening to pop.

Shilling, a seasoned economist, who was among the few who foresaw the U.S. housing market meltdown and eventual global financial crisis, isn’t buying the idea of ‘China as World Economic Panacea.’

“When someone expresses awe and admiration for China’s economic miracle, I’m reminded of Japan in the late 1980s. Back then, many Americans believed they’d soon be run out of business by Japanese firms or end up working for them,” writes Shilling. “Instead, Japan’s stock and real estate bubbles collapsed. Japan entered a deflationary depression that continues today.”

While his foreboding piece on China’s “hard landing” gave me pause, I was really struck by his more recent article on the very real threat the Asian nation’s economic woes pose to the global commodities markets.

“Talk about bubbles! If commodities haven’t been in one, I don’t know what a bubble looks like. And I’ve studied a lot of them over the years and concentrated on predicting their demises,” says a confident Shilling.

He sees evidence of the collapse in commodities markets already occurring, especially in copper, silver, crude oil, cotton and grains. Despite the warning signs, “commodity bulls . . . have maintained their long positions in copper, crude oil, corn, and even plunging silver,” he writes. “But markets anticipate, so it looks to me that the recent declines in commodities are foreshadowing a hard landing in China, with the effects spreading globally.”

Industrial demand for silver makes up about 46 percent of its total demand, making it highly susceptible to fluctuations in perceptions of global economic growth. “While this helped silver in 2009 and 2010, the recent weakness of global growth indicators has worked against silver in 2011,” says a recent Precious Metals Weekly report from ETF

Securities.

A look at silver’s price movements over the past few months does show that the sometimes precious, sometimes industrial metal is behaving more like a classic physical commodity market in its reactions to outside market pressures. Commodities markets in general have been quite volatile after surging early on in the second quarter of this year as the outlook for a global economic recovery turns cloudy. There are fears economic growth is slowing in the US, Europe and even Asia.

On Monday, those fears and a rising US dollar led to selling in the commodity markets, including copper and silver. Early in the trading session Tuesday, the price of silver continued to trade like a physical commodity market, dropping over a dollar below its NY Monday closing price of $35.75 an ounce.

However, the bulls were given some much needed relief later in the day following the release of minutes from the Federal Reserve’s June 21 monetary policy meeting. The price of silver on the COMEX hit a six-week high and closed up nearly 6 percent to $38.33 an ounce Wednesday on fresh headlines Europe’s financial crisis and speculation that the Fed may embark on a third round of QE measures (don’t hold your breath, say some analysts).

Yet, copper prices didn’t fair as well, leaving some doubt as to whether silver may follow in gold’s path or once again be pulled down by projected weak industrial demand. The need for QE3 would also mean the US economy is failing, putting further pressure on commodities markets.

Not Everyone is so Pessimistic

Despite the kill-joy prophecies of sage oracles like A. Gary Shilling, there are those with just as much market experience who remain overwhelmingly optimistic and find such warnings as Shilling’s ludicrous.

“China’s the next greatest country in the world. If you sold America in 1911 you might have looked good for a year or two, but you’d look pretty foolish over the next seven to eight years. Why should I sell? I don’t follow other people,” balks famed investment guru Jim Rogers. “Every country, every family, every individual has setbacks as they rise. China is going to have some horrible setbacks. America had unbelievable setbacks as we rose.”

To be fair to Shilling, he isn’t entirely long-term bearish on China, concluding his discussion of the Asian nation’s potential collapse he said, “None of this suggests that the long-run growth story for China is wrong. It’s just that its stop-go economic policy will keep the ride volatile, and that current enthusiasm for the Middle Kingdom is way overdone.”

A Reuters report out Wednesday showed that the Asian giant’s economy grew by 9.5 percent in the second quarter, slightly above a recent Reuters poll forecast of 9.4 percent. “We had this batch of better-than-expected Chinese data, even though the Chinese economy is slowing which is of course weighing on base metals demand, it was not as much as feared,” commented Danske Bank analyst Christin Tuxen.

And it’s not all doom and gloom for silver. TD Securities expects silver to top $40 an ounce in the second half of 2011. The financial firm recently forecast an improving global economic outlook, especially in the U.S. and Japan, for Q2 2011, which could lead to increased demand for industrial metals like silver. The price of silver may reach $40 an ounce and beyond by the end of this month if the fight in Washington over the US debt ceiling continues.

All this uncertainty and clash of opinions is what makes the silver market so volatile in nature, giving it the status as one of the riskiest investment classes. What other commodity has as much hostility between the bulls and the bears? The silver market is not for the faint of heart.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: JP MORGAN - WHY GOLD COULD SOAR FURTHER

Title: JP MORGAN - WHY GOLD COULD SOAR FURTHER

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:22 PM (GMT)

Why gold could soar further – and when it could stop by Max Julius on Jul 14, 2011

http://webcache.googleusercontent.com/sear...ww.google.co.uk

Soaring gold prices likely have further yet to run as investors fret over a host of macroeconomic woes, a senior member of JP Morgan Asset Management's natural resources team has said.

Neil Gregson, who works with Ian Henderson on his JP Morgan Natural Resources fund, a Citywire Selection pick, made the comments in a video interview shortly before gold hit a fresh record high of $1,578.5 per ounce.

He said the end of instalment in the US Federal Reserve's latest massive bond-buying programme, seen as a major driver of the yellow metal's ascent, did not signal any immediate declines in gold prices.

Pointing out that while it was still unclear as to whether the Fed would provide more stimulus, he said recent US data suggested monetary policy would in any event remain 'very stimulating… that interest rates will stay low, will not be increased – and this is a good environment for gold.'

Gregson added: 'In the short-term, with all the concerns in the world, we would be positive on the outlook for gold prices.'

Suki Cooper, analyst at Barclays Capital, said the metal's recent rise followed a downgrade to Ireland's credit rating by Moody's and evidence of a split between Fed policymakers as to the 'factors that would necessitate policy easing or tightening.'

'Gold prices continue to flourish amid the macro uncertainty as a flight to safety boosts interest,' she pointed out in a research note.

Nonetheless, Gregson noted that when the US economic recovery is more certain, the dollar stabilises and interest rates go up, 'that is going to be a significant headwind for gold.'

He also said large miners should increase their dividend payments, amid criticism that despite strong profits due to high commodity prices, the companies have not returned enough cash to shareholders.

'Divided yields could be higher,' Gregson said. 'The companies are raising their dividends, but they're still fairly low; there are buy-backs from the likes of BHP Biliton and Rio Tinto, but they also… are spending a significant amount on capital expenditure.'

He continued: 'So, really the question is: is that money being spent wisely?'

UK-listed miners are among the top holdings in JP Morgan Natural Resources, including Rio (RIO.L), BHP (BLT.L), Xstrata (XTA.L), and Anglo American (AAL.L).
1

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Silver 'biscuits' taking off in India

Title: Silver 'biscuits' taking off in India

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 09:18 PM (GMT)

Silver 'biscuits' taking off in India

India's consuming class has taken to high denomination silver currency notes and dollar bills of the white metal in favour of staid old silver coin as a gifting alternative to expensive gold.

Author: Shivom Seth
Posted: Friday , 15 Jul 2011

MUMBAI - It is a custom in India to give silver coins as gifts. They are not very expensive, they come in handy for every festive occasion and are a sure-fire winner as a give-away present at the birth of a child or on any small occasion. In a bid to tap the increasing demand for silver coins, bullion dealers in India have gone a step further and are bringing in innovation and creativity.

For the first time in the country, bullion dealers have introduced a 1 kilo silver biscuit, on the lines of the gold biscuit, with a .999 finnese. High denomination currency notes, made out of silver, are also the flavour of the season, say traders.

Adesh Kumar Jain, bullion retailer in Mumbai called it a new trend amongst the youngsters and said that people were buying both the silver notes made to look like Indian currency, as well as silver dollars, which look like a $5 bill or a $10 bill.

"The silver notes are looked upon as a good gifting option, with the denomination of the note equivalent to its weight in silver. For example, a Rs 50 note is equivalent to 50 grams of silver," added Jain.

With silver prices easing off slightly, retailers say that notes of various denominations such as Rs 500 and Rs 1,000 are being made out of silver to cater to an ever-increasing demand from aspirational middle-class Indian families.

"Many families come to use for a unique gifting option and want something new for marriages and birthdays. Earlier, the only bulky item that would be sold by most retailers would be silver bars, between 800 gram to 1,400 gram. Now, the silver note, with its sleek, personalised look, has given way to these bars as well as smaller silver coins," said Satishbhai Zaveri, bullion retailer.

Lalit Jagawat, proprietor of Nakoda Bullion Ltd and Director of the Bombay Bullion Association. whose firm has introduced the silver biscuits said: ``Most families are not bothered about the swings in the price of silver on a regular basis. They are not investors. They just buy coins or small items of both the previous metals because it is the `in thing' to do and is a great gifting product," he said.

The metal has found renewed interest with many Indian families he said, adding that the demand for silver would continue ``as long as it finds an application in prayers and in industries," despite the fact that silver plummeted to $1,280 per kg from $1,685 per kg trading in April.

Traders also point to the fact that many devout Indians, who would normally go to temples and make an offering, are now placing these silver notes instead of hard cash in the priest's hand. ``Inflation is high, people need help more than ever and many are donating silver in a big way. Silver coins, placed in the donation plates have given way to silver notes," said a bullion analyst, adding that soaring donations of the white metal were a sign that investors were stepping up precious metal purchases.

Silver, the second best performing commodity over the past year, rallied to a record in April 2011, when the price increased by more than 150% over a 12-year period. Though these silver notes have an excessive premium charge, the heightened orders being placed with retailers is an indication that the creativity by the jeweller has been accepted by the Indian customer.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Return of the Gold Standard as world order unravel

Title: Return of the Gold Standard as world order unravel

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 06:34 PM (GMT)

Return of the Gold Standard as world order unravels

As the twin pillars of international monetary system threaten to come tumbling down in unison, gold has reclaimed its ancient status as the anchor of stability. The spot price surged to an all-time high of $1,594 an ounce in London, lifting silver to $39 in its train.

By Ambrose Evans-Pritchard
9:28PM BST 14 Jul 2011
http://www.telegraph.co.uk/finance/comment...r-unravels.html

On one side of the Atlantic, the eurozone debt crisis has spread to the countries that may be too big to save - Spain and Italy - though RBS thinks a €3.5 trillion rescue fund would ensure survival of Europe's currency union.

On the other side, the recovery has sputtered out and the printing presses are being oiled again. Brinkmanship between the Congress and the White House over the US debt ceiling has compelled Moody's to warn of a "very small but rising risk" that the world's paramount power may default within two weeks. "The unthinkable is now thinkable," said Ross Norman, director of thebulliondesk.com.

Fed chair Ben Bernanke confessed to Congress that growth has failed to gain traction. "Deflationary risks might re-emerge, implying a need for additional policy support," he said.

The bar to QE3 - yet more bond purchases - is even lower than markets had thought. The new intake of hard-money men on the voting committee has not shifted Fed thinking, despite global anger at dollar debasement under QE2.

Fuelling the blaze, the emerging powers of Asia are almost all running uber-loose monetary policies. Most have negative real interest rates that push citizens out of bank accounts and into gold, or property. China is an arch-inflater. Prices are rising at 6.4pc, yet the one-year deposit rate is just 3.5pc. India's central bank is far behind the curve.

"It is very scary: the flight to gold is accelerating at a faster and faster speed," said Peter Hambro, chairman of Britain's biggest pure gold listing Petropavlovsk.

"One of the big US banks texted me today to say that if QE3 actually happens, we could see gold at $5,000 and silver at $1,000. I feel terribly sorry for anybody on fixed incomes tied to a fiat currency because they are not going to be able to buy things with that paper money."

China, Russia, Brazil, India, the Mid-East petro-powers have diversified their $7 trillion reserves into euros over the last decade to limit dollar exposure. As Europe's monetary union itself faces an existential crisis, there is no other safe-haven currency able to absorb the flows. The Swiss franc, Canada's loonie, the Aussie, and Korea's won are too small.

"There is no depth of market in these other currencies, so gold is the obvious play," said Neil Mellor from BNY Mellon. Western central banks (though not the US, Germany, or Italy) sold much of their gold at the depths of the bear market a decade ago. The Bank of England wins the booby prize for selling into the bottom at €254 an ounce on Gordon Brown's orders in 1999. But Russia, China, India, the Gulf states, the Philippines, and Kazakhstan have been buying.

China is coy, revealing purchases with a long delay. It has admitted to doubling its gold reserves to 1,054 tonnes or $54bn. This is just a tiny sliver of its $3.2 trillion reserves. China's Chamber of Commerce said this should be raised eightfold to 8,000 tonnes.

Xia Bin, an adviser to China's central bank, said in June that the country's reserve strategy needs an "urgent" overhaul. Instead of buying paper IOU's from a prostrate West, China should invest in strategic assets and accumulate gold by "buying the dips".

Step by step, the world is edging towards a revived Gold Standard as it becomes clearer that Japan and the West have reached debt saturation. World Bank chief Robert Zoellick said it was time to "consider employing gold as an international reference point." The Swiss parliament is to hold hearings on a parallel "Gold Franc". Utah has recognised gold as legal tender for tax payments.

A new Gold Standard would probably be based on a variant of the 'Bancor' proposed by Keynes in the late 1940s. This was a basket of 30 commodities intended to be less deflationary than pure gold, which had compounded in the Great Depression. The idea was revived by China's central bank chief Zhou Xiaochuan two years ago as a way of curbing the "credit-based" excess.

Mr Bernanke himself was grilled by Congress this week on the role of gold. Why do people by gold? "As protection against of what we call tail risks: really, really bad outcomes," he replied.

Indeed.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Collapse of Paper Money & the Vertical Move of Title: The Collapse of Paper Money & the Vertical Move of Description: Gold

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 05:33 PM (GMT)

The Collapse of Paper Money & the Vertical Move of Gold

Darryl Robert Schoon
Posted Jul 14, 2011
http://www.321gold.com/editorials/schoon/schoon071411.html

Money in capitalist economies is an IOU, an IOU that can't be repaid

Paper money, invented by the Chinese, first appeared in the West in the 13th century. Brought back from China by Marco Polo and his uncles, author Ralph Foster describes the West's reaction to the hitherto unseen phenomena of money as a piece of paper.

Upon returning to Italy, Polo showed off some Chinese currency notes and explained how they were used… An article in the November 1995 issue of 'The Bank Note Reporter' describes the Venetian reaction:

The Emperor of China (who we call Kubalai Khan) gave the Polos a camel loaded with 1,000 cash paper notes as a gift from their sovereign. The doge (chief magistrate of Venice) and the cardinal (the Pope's cousin) looked at these…notes in awe and dismay.

The hen-scratched writing was not in Latin or Greek but in a secret language, most likely the language of the Devil. They proceeded to burn these notes and accused Polo of heresy.- pg 38, Ralph Foster, Fiat Paper Money: the History and Evolution of our Currency, 2nd ed.

In retrospect, the disturbed reaction of the Venetians was not without cause. For when paper money was later issued in the West, it was to assume a far more sinister guise—no longer was money a savings-based instrument of exchange as it had been throughout human history. In the West, paper money was to become an integral part of a scheme to profit by the spread of debt, i.e. usury.

DEBT-BASED CAPITALISM AND THE RISE OF MODERN BANKING

The human species, according to the best theory I can form of it, is composed of two distinct races, the men who borrow, and the men who lend.- Charles Lab, Essays of Elia, 1833

The above quote is from Will Slatyer's The Debt Delusion, Evolution and Management of Financial Risk (2008). In his remarkable book, Slatyer traces the origins of debt to before the coinage of gold and silver.

Slatyer notes: In ancient times, interest was rarely charged on advances of precious metals … However, if one did not pay the loan back as agreed, interest was charged at very high rates …The word 'interest' refers to the compensation under Roman law which was due to the debtor who had defaulted, i.e. compensation. (pg 12)

Debt distinguished the West's paper banknotes—issued from central banks in the form of loans—from China's paper money issued by the state. In the West, however, debt was to replace savings as the basis of commerce.

Although it was two Scots, William Patterson and John Law, who introduced paper money to the West, paper money as debt, i.e. capitalism, can be traced to the Jews who had observed the earlier use of paper money and paper financial instruments in the East

Ralph Foster notes: Jews doing business in China observed and studied the use of promissory notes, vouchers, draft notes, and negotiable certificates of deposit. They saw how this paper circulated freely among the general population rather than only among merchants. Eventually, they adapted these financial instruments to their own use—long before the first Christian travelers had even heard of them.

Europe was thus an indirect beneficiary of eastern financial knowledge. Max Weber, the famous sociologist, recognized the importance of Jewish contributions to the development of capitalism and lectured on their common oriental origin. - pg. 34, Ralph Foster, Fiat Paper Money: the History and Evolution of our Currency, 2nd ed.

HOW CHINA'S FIAT MONEY BECOME DEBT-BASED PAPER BANKNOTES IN THE WEST

Ralph Fosters' Fiat Paper Money: the History and Evolution of our Currency explains how China's paper money came to the West: Those who benefit from fiat money's devious gifts would rather its origins remain forgotten. Thanks to Ralph Foster's scholarship, however, the history of fiat money is now known.

Note: To order Fiat Paper Money send check or money order for $29.95 to Foster Publishing, 2189 Bancroft Way, Berkeley, CA 94704, free shipping in USA, Global Priority mail outside USA $18.00, email: tfdf@pacbell.net

When the Scot, William Patterson, proposed his idea of a central bank to King William III of England, banks and paper money were unknown, at least in the West. In the East, paper money had for 600 years led to reoccurring episodes of runaway inflation and the collapse of dynasties. Finally in 1661, China outlawed paper money; and thirty-three years later, in 1694, paper banknotes became accepted as money in England.

Patterson's central bank combined paper money with usury, i.e. money-lending. In Patterson's scheme, money would henceforth be issued as loans from banks, i.e. if all loans were repaid, all money would disappear. Earlier, the Venetians had feared China's paper money was the work of the devil. They were wrong. Patterson's money was.

The underlying purpose of Patterson's central bank was not to replace gold and silver with paper money (although it eventually did) but to instead profit by the charging of interest on the loaning of paper banknotes as if they were gold or silver.

Debt-based money issued from central banks on which interest accrues is the basis of capitalist economies. In capitalist economies, central banks are engines of credit which emit debt just as internal combustion engines emit carbon dioxide.

Debt accruing from money issued by central banks constantly compounds and unless capitalist economies also constantly expand, constantly compounding debt eventually overwhelms all economic activity, resulting in 'parcus nex', i.e. economic death.

It is the charging of interest on money issued as loans from a central bank that is the foundation of capitalism. It should be noted that prior to capitalism, charging interest on money lending was considered immoral by Christians, Muslims and Jews alike.

Outlawed by Islam, considered by the Catholic Church to be a sin and contrary to the Law of Moses, because of William Patterson's combination of money and debt, money lending is now the basis of all modern economies.

BE CAREFUL WHO YOU SHUN

Jews, barred from all trade guilds in Medieval Europe, were allowed only two avocations in the Middle Ages, that of money lending and the selling of used clothing. It is not without irony that the once shunned practice of money lending has now catapulted Jewish bankers to their pre-eminent position of power and wealth in the world today.

The Catholic Church's ban on usury, i.e. money lending, came originally from Talmudic law which banned Jews from lending money at interest to other Jews. Jews, however, interpreted this ban as still allowing them to lend money to non-Jews.

In Hebrew law, an indulgent perception of usury meant that one could loan at usury to a racial alien or one not of the Jewish faith…In early Palestine, loans with interest had been allowed to gentiles and Samaritans, and the practice had spread to Europe. - pg 17, Slatyer, The Debt Delusion, Evolution and Management of Financial Risk (2008).

Today, some three hundred years after William Patterson introduced central banking's debt-based paper money in the West, the centuries-long prohibition against money lending is as long-forgotten as China's 600 year history with paper money, hyperinflation and dynastic collapse.

Oh laddie of the highlands
What changes you have wrought
With your bubkes paper banknotes
Governments you have bought
You fueled a Tower of Babel
Where banks and bankers rule
With nations now the victims
Of your monetary tools

When capitalism—institutionalized money lending in debt-based economies—became the world's predominant economy, bankers found themselves temporarily on top. The operant word is temporarily because where credit and debt is concerned, that which goes up always comes down.

In 1971, capitalism began to unravel when the US was forced to suspend the convertibility of the US dollar to gold. Without gold's constraint on the money supply, governments—especially the US—began printing and borrowing money virtually without limit. Today, that limit has been reached.

William Patterson's 300 year-old house of cards and credit is now collapsing as defaulting debt consumes what's left of savings. Despite the efforts of governments to save the system that allows them to spend money they don't have, the end of the banker's reign is near.

Since the advent of paper money, bankers have tended to form an unholy alliance with elected governments to expand debt. Both prosper until the time when debt cannot be repaid. - pg. 32-33, Slatyer, The Debt Delusion, Evolution and Management of Financial Risk, 2008

WAR AND THE RISE AND FALL OF CAPITALISM

The chartering of the Bank of England changed the course of history. Central banking allowed governments to go to war on credit, an advantage England parlayed into world dominion over the next 150 years.

In Dollars & Sense show 8, I describe what happened when central banking transformed both England and the US. But the ability to arm the military on credit would ultimately indebt nations beyond their ability to repay and, in the end, would contribute to the end of capitalism itself, see here.

Since WWII, the US has maintained a costly war footing in peacetime and in so doing dissipated the greatest hoard of monetary gold in history. John Exter, a central banker, tells what happened when the US removed the gold-backing of the US dollar in 1971:

The final link between the dollar and gold was broken. The dollar became nothing more than a fiat currency and the Fed [and especially the banks] were then free to continue monetary expansion at will. The result... was a massive explosion of debt - p. 77, Ferdinand Lips, Gold Wars, 2001

Gold was the cotter pin that held capitalism's scheme of debt and usury together for almost 300 years. In 1971, the removal of gold from paper money caused the rapid expansion of the money supply and debt, and ultimately, the end of capitalism itself

GOVERNMENTS WILL FALL AND GOLD WILL RISE

The collapse of Chinese dynasties caused by the excessive issuance of fiat money is about to be repeated, albeit in a modern iteration and on a much wider scale. The recent and unprecedented increase of credit in China and the negative interest rates in much of the world are no less consequential than the excessive printing of fiat money that caused the serial collapse of five Chinese dynasties.

The slowing of the global economy in 2008 was met with an immediate flood of fiat money from China hoping to reverse the severe economic contraction. It worked, albeit temporarily and at a perhaps fatal cost.

The flood of fiat money in 2008/2009 set in motion inflationary forces that will dwarf the inflation of the late 1970s that in the US sent gold surging almost 2300 % between 1971 and 1980 (9 years); shaming the Dow's historic rally between 1982 and 2000, an increase of 1500 % over 18 years.

The rise in gold and silver prices has been underway since 2001. The process itself has been underway since 1971. There is further to go and the price rise will be steeper. In an interview with Ralph Foster, I discuss this process with the noted author and gold and silver dealer, see here.

China may well play the unfortunate role for the world economy that it did for its own for five successive dynasties. China is once again issuing excessive amounts of fiat money. Then, governments fell. Today, they will fall again; and when they fall, the price of gold will rise vertically.

YOU CAN'T EAT GOLD

The study of capitalism is like the study of religion in a time of idolatry

"You can't eat gold" is a sophomoric assertion intended to dismiss the value of gold in times of severe economic crisis. Professor Antal Fekete who lived through such times, i. e. the post-WWII Hungarian inflation, simply dismisses this absurd statement by answering, "You can always eat what gold will buy".

I was fortunate to learn much about the Austrian school of economics from Professor Fekete. The Austrian school holds that human choices and interaction play causal roles in economies, i.e. Human Action by Ludwig von Mises.

I recommend that for those interested in matters of economics, there is no better venue for discussion than with Professor Fekete, a man of towering intellect, humor, compassion and a concomitant love for discourse and argument.

From August 20-29 in Munich, Germany, Professor Fekete will lecture on The Austrian Theory of Interest and Discount. He will be joined by Sandeep Jaitly whose study of the gold and silver basis, an area first explored by Professor Fekete, has led to the basis as a strategy for profitably trading gold and silver.

Note: For inquiries about Professor Fekete's seminar, email nasoe@kt-solutions.de

The Austrian school of economics emerged at a time when communism and socialism were offered as alternatives to the capitalist model. Because of the central role of government inherent in communist and socialist models, the potential for tyranny was obvious.

That capitalism, however, offered the same potential is less obvious. The threat of capitalism to human freedom is even more insidious because of its covert agenda and global presence, an agenda described by Carroll Quigley in his seminal work, Tragedy and Hope (1975)

Quigley was a professor at Princeton and Harvard Universities, and later at the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University where he was a mentor of Bill Clinton. Quigley's observations are to be valued as they are an insider's look at the activities of powerful elites who use government and commerce to accomplish their aims and disguise their activities.

Because of his position as an academic and scholar, Quigley had access to individuals and elite groups who influence events and activities far outside the purview of others; and, in Tragedy and Hope, he exposes the hidden agenda of these elites:

The powers of financial capitalism had another far reaching aim, nothing less than to create a world system of financial control in private hands able to dominate the political system of each country and the economy of the world as a whole. This system was to be controlled in a feudalist fashion by the central banks of the world acting in concert, by secret agreements, arrived at in frequent private meetings and conferences. The apex of the system was the Bank for International Settlements in Basle, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the worlds' central banks which were themselves private corporations. The growth of financial capitalism made possible a centralization of world economic control and use of this power for the direct benefit of financiers and the indirect injury of all other economic groups.

The global economic collapse is perhaps humanity's greatest hope for escaping the debt slavery the world's financiers and bankers have planned for the world. However, to escape slavery one must first know he is a slave.

Debt is the slavery of the free -Publilius Syrus, Sententiae, c 50 BC

Man's wisdom is most conspicuous where he is able to distinguish among dangers and make choice of the least. -Niccolò di Bernardo dei Machiavelli, The Prince, 1513

The above quotes are from Will Slatyer's The Debt Delusion, Evolution and Management of Financial Risk (2008)

###

Darryl Robert Schoon
email: info@drschoon.com website: www.drschoon.com website: www.survivethecrisis.com
Schoon Archive

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Hidden Yen Signal & Gold Breakout

Title: Hidden Yen Signal & Gold Breakout

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 05:32 PM (GMT)

Hidden Yen Signal & Gold Breakout

By: Jim Willie CB, GoldenJackass.com
-- Posted Thursday, 14 July 2011 | Share this article | Source: GoldSeek.com
http://news.goldseek.com/GoldenJackass/1310673600.php

Take a short break from all the hubbub in the United States over the faltering USEconomy, the reckless politicians pretending to come to a USGovt budget agreement (small or large), and the tacit admission by USFed Chairman Bernanke that indeed QE3 is very likely. The June Jobs Report confirmed my forecast of a moribund economy in deterioration. The Republicans will not budge on their refusal to approve tax increases. The Democrats will not budge on their refusal to approve entitlement cuts. The Pentagon through hidden pressures has managed to keep the sacred war off the table for discussion, even though it stands as the largest factor in the federal deficits. But the queer item is that President Obama spent most of his time in the last six weeks raising $86 million for his re-election campaign. His taking the high road in the budget discussion reeks of hypocrisy. The absence of leadership in the executive branch is matched by an equal absence in the Congress. The leadership at the US Federal Reserve is clear, but the incompetence and lost credibility has rendered the bumbling professor chairman a mere Wall Street tool whose ample tools dole out capital destruction. Bernanke must react to the USTreasury Bond market pressures as much as his own long string of steadily wrong forecasts. My forecast was for QE3 to come by summer. The blueprints are on the table. The head fake and diversion drivel spouted by Helicopter Ben were ignored by the Jackass, just like the Green Shoots and Exit Strategy and No QE2 distractions in the last two years. Quantitative Easing will go viral next, enough to call it Global QE. Gold & Silver will react, gold first with solid gains, then silver with massive gains to follow. The common theme is the ruin of money. Watch Italy for an extremely robust toxic powerful addition to the entire dangerous mix. Its nation is very large, whose debts are huge.

In March the earthquakes and tsunami struck with a vengeance. Amidst the rubble came a financial response of obscure variety, reminiscent of the Kobe earthquake of 1995. The response was an emergency G-7 Meeting of finance ministers to soak up all the USTreasury Bonds dumped en masse by the Japanese collectively. Not just the Bank of Japan, but the many insurance companies and financial firms were into the act, raising huge sums of money. Reconstruction claims, stock market swoons, and corporate relocation costs mounted. They all sold from the hoard of USTBonds accumulated over the decades from the Yen Carry Trade. Twenty years of near 0% rates in Japan, contrasted to semi-normal rates in the United States made for a grand carry trade for speculators, the Japanese financial entities being the expert. The coordinated sponge effect of the Western nations to take what Japan sold, to do so off the grid of the FOREX markets. That enabled the Japanese Yen to fall from the flashing signal at 128 down to a tame 117. All was fixed, all cured, crisis averted. Not so fast!! The reconstruction in Japan, along with a wide array of related costs, would not go away so easily. It is back!!

GLOBAL QE

In a Jackass piece entitled "Currency Deadend Paradoxes" from late April, warning was given in the form of a forecast. The Yen currency would rise, contrary to conventional thinking. It has done precisely that, a correct call, but the best part of the move has yet to come. The rationale for the forecast was sale of foreign assets to finance reconstruction, to cover the newly arriving trade deficit, and to alleviate political pressures against further wreckage of the government budget. Two decades of stimulus failed to achieve much economic rebound and recovery from the 0% dead end on the monetary road, a lesson the Americans never learned. Their heads are too steeped in arrogance to bother to learn basic economics and finance. In April, the Jackass harsh words were "The dull blades posing as economists in the United States fail to observe the Japanese lesson that a nation never emerges from the 0% corner. To admit this is to admit a failure of the monetary system and central bank franchise control tower." The words still apply. Revisionist history prevailed, just like with Professor Bernanke and his aberrant revisionist account of the Great Depression. We are learning that mass deployment of the electronic money printing machine has indeed a wicked cost, hardly free, in the form of a rising global cost structure and powerful profit squeeze. The result is an economy in permanent recession. My description of the G-7 Accord to sell down the Japanese Yen via backroom purchase of USTBonds was GLOBAL QE. With the mushroom of European sovereign debt ruin, the contagion to Italy and soon Greece, the declaration of junk status for Portugal and Ireland in addition to the toxic paper blowing from Mt Olympus, the new dawn of Global Financial Crisis part II has hit.

THE JAPANESE YEN BREAKOUT

My eye never stopped watching the J-Yen currency exchange rate since May. A couple of feints were cut off at the pass. But here in July, at the supposed ordered end of QE2, the game is on again. The 125 resistance level has been shattered on the third attempt since April. This time, another Global QE will be needed to stop the Yen from rising more. The reconstruction is underway. Insurance firms are cashing in to raise funds urgently needed. The financial firms are recognizing yet another important liquidation phase in the Yen Carry Trade. Those who delay in liquidation will face huge losses. This is an important unrecognized short cover squeeze on the Yen currency. It is the hidden signal. Look for rising price inflation on imports to the USEconomy. Add Japan to China as the source of rising prices to US retail shelves on finished electronic products.

The April analysis included many important points in my view, enough to warrant this article as followup. The most salient points are worth repeating. They apply in spades here and now. The recent action in the Japanese flagship Nikkei stock index below 10,000 has sparked a torrent of USTBond sales for rescue funds outside the Japanese walls. A weak stock market has conspired with reconstruction costs due. Foreign asset sales finally hit critical mass. The article from the spring made these points. The paradox finally has hit the billboards in plain view. Domestic disruption to the vast industrial and car supply sector can next combine with a slower USEconomic demand to bring the trade deficit into view.

The after effects in Japan will work in numerous hidden ways to lift their Yen currency. Its steady stubborn rise will confuse the constantly wrong-footed economists. The next phase inside Japan will include an unspoken emphasis of foreign asset sales in order to fund the staggering costs and to avert price inflation. Additional debt with Yen markings risks a surge in domestic price inflation. In the next year, the Japanese trade balance will turn into an outright deficit. The trade deficit will not keep down the Yen exchange rate down. The deficit will send into reverse the process of suppressing the Yen currency for 20 to 30 years. No longer will the Japanese financial institutions, led by the BOJ, purchase the USTBonds.

The critical point was reached three weeks ago when an emergency G-7 Meeting was convened. Its purpose was coordination to buy USTBonds and keep the Yen down, ergo Global QE. The Yen Sale Pact was never called Global QE but that is the proper interpretation, since all major central banks became USTBond buyers of last resort. The Gold & Silver market properly interpreted the event, and surged to breakout levels. The effect of the G-7 desperate clumsy pact was temporary. The trade deficit will not keep down the Yen exchange rate down. Contrary to standard economic theory, their trade gap will push up the Yen currency. Such a Jackass forecast goes directly contrary to their broken standard theoretical concepts, few if any have shown to contain much validity or sinew to hold together the broken planks of their financial theory. The Japanese Yen currency will continue to rise even though a trade deficit comes. Their trade surplus used to enable vast funds to suppress the Yen, now gone. The Japanese will sell foreign assets to cover the deficits. They will have to avoid price inflation by selling available foreign assets, in particular the plentiful US$-based assets. Banks will lead the final phase of the Yen Carry Trade unwinding process. Insurance companies will unload US$-based assets in order to finance claims. The financial firms will unload US$-based assets so as to protect Japanese stock values.

A SOUR EURO: THE NEW FACTOR

A new factor has joined in the push to breakout. Emerging market nations are storing reserves more and more in the Japanese Yen. Either a rising Euro or the toxic Euro-based sovereign debt has deterred investment of reserves. No longer do the emerging market nations regard the Euro currency as a fine upstanding alternative to the increasingly suspect USDollar. The USDollar is sliding in the role at asset held in FOREX reserves. Its reserve currency status is widely questioned. In a single decade, the USDollar share of reserve assets fell by over 11%, a huge amount. In the last twelve months, the share fell by another 1%. In the meantime, the Japanese Yen, Aussie Dollar, and Canadian Dollar are relied upon more. One can understand the movement to the other dollars with their strong resource and mineral riches. The rising commodity price trend has given strong support to the Aussie and Loonie. The revolt continues, as confidence is eroding. The USDollar share of global reserves continues to decline, and its reserve status has been called into question. An Intl Monetary Fund report was released in late June. The Composition of Official Foreign Exchange Reserves (COMFER) lists reserves held at central banks in 33 developed economies and 105 emerging and developing economies. Further confirmation came that the USDollar is gradually losing its reserve status. The USDollar slipped. The Euro slipped. But the Japanese Yen, the Aussie Dollar, and the Canadian Dollar gained. Gradual diversification is happening. Gaping USGovt deficits, debt limit roadblocks, profound bond fraud, protection of big US insolvent banks, and outright hyper monetary inflation by the USFed to cover the deficits have contributed to the USDollar decline. China was not part of the sample, curiously or intentionally.

The US share of allocated reserves fell by the end of 1Q2011 to 60.69%% from 61.53% in Q4 2010. Central Bank reserves would have been steeper if China was included in the sample. The decline has been signicant over the last decade, a full 10% less. One year ago, the greenback share stood at 61.64%, almost one percent less. In 1Q2001, ten years ago, it stood at 72.3%, over 11% less. No longer is the greenback dominant. Nations are scurrying to diversify, in an act of self-preservation and bank system survival. In local discussions and at conferences such as the G-20, talks are held about a move toward a multi-currency system, which the US and UK leaders attempt to stall and sidetrack. The USDollar remains first among peers, but times are changing. Deflationist morons fail to notice, surely not its effect on costs. The global financial crisis has altered banking practices in a profound manner. Emerging and developing nations accumulated foreign reserves in high volume during the first quarter. Capital flows from the older economies has been huge. The data is shocking. Richer older nations added $65.5 billion in reserves, of those $1.6 billion in US$ terms. The data is staggering. Emerging markets added $366.3 billion in reserves, of those $65.8 billion in US$ terms. The Japanese Yen was a primary beneficiary of emerging market diversification. Their central banks accumulated $6.6 billion in new JPY reserves in the first quarter, lifting the allocation to 2.9%. The Canadian and Australian Dollars were other beneficiaries, whose share climbed to 5.8% from 5.1% in 4Q2010.

Emerging markets spot the European crisis unfolding in full glory. They have moved out a little from the Euro currency, where its share fell to 28.2%. But globally the Euro share rose to 26.6%, up a tiny amount. Nomura analysts reason that central banks reacted to the Euro strength as an opportunity to move into the Yen and other currencies. One can infer that the Yen is seen as a mature currency (yet it yields nothing on bonds), and the two other Dollars are resource currencies with strong national commodity supply. Expect the data in July to show less affection for the Euro, given the contagion has spread to Italy, and given the downgrade of Greece, Portugal, and Ireland to junk status. The COMFER report produced by the IMF continues to support the thesis that the USDollar is losing its reserve status. In a very gradual process of erosion, central banks rely upon stable allocations but they clearly are depending less and less on the greenback.

SNAPSHOT OF SWISSY

Gold bullion (along with Silver bullion) is the latest key reserve asset being vigorously pursued by central banks. Within the European continent, great distress is generated by the entire sovereign debt crisis. The government bonds from the Southern nations in Europe are equally toxic as the mortgage bonds of the United States. The other common thread is woven from the hand of Goldman Sachs, caught red-handed in corrupted currency swap contracts to conceal the Greek debt volume. Given the differentiation of Euro Notes from strong nation to weak nation, where bond yields vary wildly among the entire group of sovereign entities, the Euro currency has been able to trade on interest rate alone. The Euro Central Bank last week hiked rates by 25 basis points to 1.50% which gave more support to the common Euro currency. The entire sovereign debt crisis and strain on European banks, if not the EU economy, has opened the door for a paper wealth exodus to Switzerland. The small nation of 7 million people remains a haven for storing funds safely. The same cannot be said for gold bullion in private allocated accounts. Regardless of raids to allocated accounts, and massive footdragging on delivery upon demand, complicated by numerous multi-$million lawsuits, the move to Switzerland for storing funds in safe haven has been vast. While the Aussie Dollar and Canadian Dollar might be the resource plays in the currency market, the Swissie is the big fiat paper play in the FOREX. The Swissie has broken out above the 120 level. It is up 20% to 25% since the 2009 and 2010. The range for 2009 was SWF from 84 to 100. The range for 2010 was 86 to 106. The Swissie is the fiat paper story, while Gold is the metal story.

GOLD BREAKOUT IN MAJOR CURRENCIES

The gold breakout slams the Western bankers with all their chicanery in naked shorts of Gold & Silver, chicanery in dumping crude oil from reserves, chicanery in debt monetization of USTBonds, and chicanery in doctored economic reports. The crumbling monetary system continues. The sovereign debt contagion is in the process of jumping from Greece to Italy, a major escalation of bank risk and regional crisis. Spain is next. For context, consider that Italy is three times larger than Greece, Portugal, and Ireland combined. Italy has the largest debt burden and highest debt ratio in all of Europe. Italy has almost 60 million in population, six times larger than Greece. The grand daddy of all risk is the United States. Apart from the baseline risk of exceeding a rigidly enforced debt limit, the US looks remarkably like Greece in debt ratios. To be more accurate, the US is Greece times one hundred. Just as insolvent as a nation like Greece, just as absent in a fundamental industrial base. The second half recovery mantra nonsense in the USEconomy has been blatant propaganda for five years running. The second half will feature a powerful Gold & Silver breakout rally that will blow the socks off the public and investment community, and blow brown particulate matter with excretory chunks on banker faces. The keys are debt virus hitting Italy and Spain in Europe, and the recession accelerating in the United States. The US housing market is stuck in terminal decline, dragging down the big US banks which have toxic homes on their balance sheets. The kicker is the debt limit debate, and gross incompetence and lack of leadership exhibited within the USGovt.

Gold has broken out in US$ terms. The Gold price has extended gains to $1594 today. It is a CH away from $1600. Notice the wonderful W-shaped bullish reversal pattern. The double bottom has been established and retested. With a boxed low of 1475 and high of 1565, look for a target of 1655 in gold. Discount all talk from Wall Street on the Gold price. They are defending attacks on their own bunkers loaded still with toxic paper, together with court attacks to win restitution on mortgage bond fraud, even raiding their Loan Loss Reserves to augment profit stories. The clownish Bernanke actually told the USCongressional committee this week that gold was not money, contrary to a Greenspan position. Bernanke is an utter dolt, a hack financial engineer, a mad paper merchant, an ink salesman, a journeyman paper shuffler, a destroyer of capital. Gold is banking system ballast, absent since 1971, when the cost of the Vietnam War forced the Nixon Admin to abandon the Gold Standard and to defy foreign claims. The offshore exodus of Intel and other tech firms to the Pacific Rim produced a trade gap that forced the issue. The US is officially isolated. The Euro Central Bank is focused on price inflation, hiking rates. The USFed is focused on growth, stuck at the 0% rate. A great monetary schism is in progress. The rating agencies have decided reluctantly to do their job. To have USGovt debt at AAA is like calling a hurricane a bright sunny day, like giving the stupidest kid in class straight A grades, like having Ugly Betty win as the prom queen, like naming the Pittsburgh Pirates as baseball's best.

Gold has broken out in Euro currency terms. It is powerful and convincing, not too surprising since the sovereign debt crisis has its center stage in Europe. Notice the gigantic bullish triangle that has formed over the last several months. An impulse low of 9.65 and resistance of 10.85 yields a target of 1200 for Gold in Euro terms. A gap exists between 10.85 and 11.0, which should fill, maybe not, but probably yes. That is the European final entry opportunity for Gold investors. The Gold breakout in US$ terms and Euro terms makes for a strong confirmation. A potential wild card ugly might lie on the money market horizon in Europe, based in USDollars. It is on the verge of blowing up.

Gold has broken out in British Pound currency terms. That completes the trifecta in gold breakout in three major currencies. The UK banking system is in ruins. The UKEconomy is in deadly decline. Price inflation has arrived. Rupert Murdoch has provided a nice distraction in London, much bigger than Manchester United. The Gold price is flirting with a breakout in Canadian Dollar terms. There is no semblance of Gold breakout in either Swissie terms or Aussie Dollar terms, where the currencies are too strong. Prepare for a massive bull rally in both Gold & Silver from July through January. The yellow metal as usual will fight the political and banker battles and clear the path for the white horse metal to sprint. The Silver price gains in US$ terms will continue to triple the Gold price gains, but Silver must be given a little time to overcome the spiked springtime top near $50. All in time. The Commitment of Traders report on commercial positions indicates that Silver is ready to rock & roll once again. A very hot autumn is coming from precious metals, their annual strong season. Fireworks a plenty are in store. The global monetary system is crumbling, whose sovereign debt foundation is collapsing. It is that simple.

Money is in ruins. Greece and Italy serve as detonation.

THE HAT TRICK LETTER PROFITS IN THE CURRENT CRISIS.

home: Golden Jackass website

subscribe: Hat Trick Letter

Jim Willie CB, editor of the “HAT TRICK LETTER”

Use the above link to subscribe to the paid research reports, which include coverage of critically important factors at work during the ongoing panicky attempt to sustain an unsustainable system burdened by numerous imbalances aggravated by global village forces. An historically unprecedented mess has been created by compromised central bankers and inept economic advisors, whose interference has irreversibly altered and damaged the world financial system, urgently pushed after the removed anchor of money to gold. Analysis features Gold, Crude Oil, USDollar, Treasury bonds, and inter-market dynamics with the US Economy and US Federal Reserve monetary policy.

From subscribers and readers:

At least 30 recently on correct forecasts regarding the bailout parade, numerous nationalization deals such as for Fannie Mae and the grand Mortgage Rescue.

"I look forward to your newsletter more than all the rest each month as you seem to have the best grasp of what is going on."

(ScottN in Washington)

"When I initially read your writings, they provoked a wide range of emotions in me from fear and anger to outright laughter. Initially some of your predictions ranged from the ridiculous to impossible. Yet time and again, over the past five years, I have watched with incredulity as they came true. Your analysis contains cogent analysis that benefits from a solid network of private contacts coupled with your scouring of the internet for information."

(PaulM in Missouri)

"Your analysis is absolutely superior to anything available out there. Like no other publication, yours places a premium on telling the truth and provides a true macro perspective with forecasts that are uncannily accurate. I eagerly await each month's issues and spend hours reading and studying them. Many times I go back and re-read the most current issue just make sure I did not miss anything the first time!"

(DevM from Virginia)

Jim Willie CB is a statistical analyst in marketing research and retail forecasting. He holds a PhD in Statistics. His career has stretched over 25 years. He aspires to thrive in the financial editor world, unencumbered by the limitations of economic credentials. Visit his free website to find articles from topflight authors at www.GoldenJackass.com. For personal questions about subscriptions, contact him at JimWillieCB@aol.com

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: 'Big Bank claims Gold could see $5,000 and Silver

Title: 'Big Bank claims Gold could see $5,000 and Silver Description: $1,000 an Ounce on QE3

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 05:26 PM (GMT)

"One of the Big US Banks Texted Me Today to Say that If QE3 Actually Happens, We Could See Gold at $5,000 and Silver at $1,000. I Feel Terribly Sorry for Anybody on Fixed Incomes Tied to a Fiat Currency Because They are Not Going to be Able to Buy Things with that Paper Money"

Thursday, July 14, 2011
http://www.washingtonsblog.com/2011/07/one...e-today-to.html

Ambrose Evans-Pritchard writes:

"It is very scary: the flight to gold is accelerating at a faster and faster speed," said Peter Hambro, chairman of Britain's biggest pure gold listing Petropavlovsk.

"One of the big US banks texted me today to say that if QE3 actually happens, we could see gold at $5,000 and silver at $1,000. I feel terribly sorry for anybody on fixed incomes tied to a fiat currency because they are not going to be able to buy things with that paper money."

China, Russia, Brazil, India, the Mid-East petro-powers have diversified their $7 trillion reserves into euros over the last decade to limit dollar exposure. As Europe's monetary union itself faces an existential crisis, there is no other safe-haven currency able to absorb the flows. The Swiss franc, Canada's loonie, the Aussie, and Korea's won are too small.
"There is no depth of market in these other currencies, so gold is the obvious play," said Neil Mellor from BNY Mellon. Western central banks (though not the US, Germany, or Italy) sold much of their gold at the depths of the bear market a decade ago.

***

Step by step, the world is edging towards a revived Gold Standard as it becomes clearer that Japan and the West have reached debt saturation. World Bank chief Robert Zoellick said it was time to "consider employing gold as an international reference point." The Swiss parliament is to hold hearings on a parallel "Gold Franc". Utah has recognised gold as legal tender for tax payments.

A new Gold Standard would probably be based on a variant of the 'Bancor' proposed by Keynes in the late 1940s. This was a basket of 30 commodities intended to be less deflationary than pure gold, which had compounded in the Great Depression. The idea was revived by China's central bank chief Zhou Xiaochuan two years ago as a way of curbing the "credit-based" excess.

For background, see this, this, this and this.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: 2011 World Gold Salesman of the Year

Title: 2011 World Gold Salesman of the Year

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 05:15 PM (GMT)

2011 World Gold Salesman of the Year

By John Galt
July 13, 2011
http://johngaltfla.com/wordpress/2011/07/1...an-of-the-year/

I've known quite a few gold, silver, and coin dealers in my lifetime. I've met some of the best, talked to some brilliant souls, discussed the economy, inflation, precious metals, and history with individuals who astound me with their knowledge. Two gentlemen I can call friends in this world, Steve Quayle and Bobby from Just Measures, are outstanding precious metals salesmen yet sadly they pale in comparison to one man.

There is no doubt as to who wins the award in 2011:

Since Chairman Bernanke came into office in 2006, the gold market has been performing better than every financial investment class bar none:

To give one some idea of just how good a salesman he is, check out gold's performance today, as he opened his piehole and spoke more and more, gold skyrocketed over $20 per ounce:

For this achievement, despite the dilution and destruction of the American way of life, our economy, our future, and that fiat funny Monopoly money known as the Federal Reserve Note, the precious metals dealers of America thank you for your efforts, your speaking ability, and incompetence. Those who have heeded the warnings shall prosper and to the rest who were naysayers of negativity and nonsense:

Go eat a carbon credit.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Italy's 2400 tons of gold: Real target of 'IMF

Title: Italy's 2400 tons of gold: Real target of 'IMF
Description: Terrorists'? [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - July 14, 2011 03:09 AM (GMT)

Italy's 2400 tons of gold: Real target of 'IMF terrorists'?

http://revolutionarypolitics.tv/video/view...?video_id=15698

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 03:54 PM (GMT)

[DOHTML]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/P1HKr5qDXlA?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/P1HKr5qDXlA?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/DOHTML]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold price hits all-time high on US debt concerns

Title: Gold price hits all-time high on US debt concerns

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 02:07 AM (GMT)

Gold price hits all-time high on US debt concerns

Bronywn Curtis from HSBC says there is 'brinkmanship' over debt in the US

14 July 2011 Last updated at 15:05
http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/business-14150879

The price of gold has risen to a fresh all-time high of $1,594.16 an ounce, and the dollar has fallen, on concerns the US may default on its debts.

The moves came after ratings agency Moody's said it may cut the debt rating of the US, warning there was a "rising possibility" it will default.

To avoid default, US politicians have to agree to raise the country's debt limit by 2 August.

Democrats and Republicans are currently in dispute over how best to do this.
'Shockwaves'

The spot price for gold rose to a record high of $1,594.16 an ounce in Thursday trading, before easing to $1,590.66.

Gold is seen as the number one haven purchase in times of economic uncertainty, but analysts said its rise was also caused by the fall in the dollar, which makes the precious metal more affordable for holders of other currencies.

Against the Japanese currency the dollar fell to 78.45 yen at one point, its lowest level since March, before recovering to 79.00 yen.

The dollar also declined against the European single currency, down 0.2% to 0.70430 euros. The greenback also fell slightly against the pound, with sterling rising 0.1% to $1.61240.

European share indexes were slightly lower in Thursday trading, with both Germany's Dax and the UK's FTSE 100 down 0.4%. Japan's Nikkei earlier lost 0.3%.

The market falls were limited because investors assume that US policymakers will eventually do a deal to prevent a default, BBC business editor Robert Peston concluded.

They believe that President Obama and the Republicans will reach an accommodation on spending cuts that would allow the amount that the state can borrow to be increased, he said.
'Shockwaves'

Federal Reserve chairman Ben Bernanke warned that a default by the US on its debt would cause a "major crisis".

Speaking before Congress on Wednesday, he said it "would send shockwaves through the entire financial system".

Ben Bernanke said a default on the US debt would be "a major crisis"

As tough negotiations continue on Capitol Hill about raising the debt limit, President Barack Obama reportedly told a top Republican: "Enough is enough."

Talks between Republicans and Democrats are due to resume on Thursday.

"It's a very political environment right now and that's causing all this volatility," said Elke Schoeppl-Jost, chief investment officer at BEA Union Investment in Hong Kong.

Ms Schoeppl-Jost added that markets were concerned about the prospect of further stimulus spending in the US.

On Wednesday, Mr Bernanke said that this remained a possibility if the US economy worsened.
Chinese concerns

China, the largest holder of US debt, reminded Washington of its need to protect investors.

"We hope the US government adopts responsible policy and measures to ensure the interests of investors," said Foreign Ministry spokesman Hong Lei.

China holds about $1.15tn (£713bn) of US debt.

Chinese government economist Yu Bin, who works for China's Development Research Centre, also expressed concern at the prospect of further stimulus spending by the Federal Reserve.

He said such a move could "have a major impact on China's economy" because it would likely increase global commodity prices, most of which are traded in dollars.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Facebook gold game; signs of a bubble or a mindset

Title: Facebook gold game; signs of a bubble or a mindset
Description: shift?

TheUnhivedMind - July 14, 2011 03:42 AM (GMT)

Facebook gold game; signs of a bubble or a mindset shift?

First gold vending machines, and now a facebook trading game with bullion as the prize, gold bears are looking hard for signs of a bubble but, could there be something else at work?

Author: Geoff Candy
Posted: Wednesday , 13 Jul 2011

GRONINGEN - There is a story as old as the market, about Joe Kennedy who, on receiving stock tips from a shoeshine boy in 1929 knew it was time to get out of the market because clearly the top had been reached and the bubble was about to pop.

The story is wheeled out every so often when experienced investors believe that a particular asset class is in a bubble because, the implication is, when the uninitiated and uninformed begin to get in on the action prices go up without so much as a passing nod to fundamental values before eventually crashing back to earth.

One of the most recent applications of the story came in regard to the gold market and, more particularly, at the launch of a gold vending machine in Dubai. The timing of the entrepreneur who installed the machine at the Emirates Palace Hotel in Abu Dhabi couldn't have been better as it coincided with the yellow metal dramatic rise through $1,000. Many commentators in the market, however, took it as an indication that the level of gold investment had reached a fever pitch and could have to come crashing back to earth sooner rather than later.

Since May 13, 2010 when gold fixed at $1,235.00, the yellow metal has continued its upward trajectory, and is currently flirting again with the all time high of $1,577.20 it made in May in dollar terms, while breaking new ground in euros and pounds.

In line with the continued rise in gold prices in various currencies, calls of a bubble from the bear camp have got louder, And, one can't help but think that American Express's announcement earlier this week of a virtual gold trading game on Facebook, with a grand prize of £20,000 in "real gold bullion" will add voice to those calls.

On one hand the a virtual trading game makes perfect sense, especially if at least part of your intended audience is used to spending hours in Farmville virtually reaping and sowing, or, indeed, possibly even mining virtual gold to help pay his or her next quest. But, it does beg the question, has gold become a legitimate reward again?

To the average Westerner, I would argue, gold, for a long time was rather anachronistic. Yes it looked good in jewellery form but, as an investment, it seemed clunky. It required at least a safety deposit box and, usually a safe. Indeed, one of the selling points of ETFs, the staggering growth of which can be seen in the graph below, is the lack of "hassle-factor". The ability to own gold without actually having to take possession of it had a large appeal.

But, while the growth of investment in ETFs has been rapid, one could argue that the loss of faith in financial institutions in the wake of the 2008 financial crisis and the ongoing economic calamity that is unfolding in both the US and Europe has been far swifter.

Which brings us back to the point about the value of gold. In a world where people are literally rioting in the streets in protest against the management of a country's finances, (Greece) and politicians are arguing about the value of changing the constitution to get the country into more debt (America) have the ad execs at American Express just tapped into a bubble in the making, or, have they noticed that people, especially people in search of a new financial tool, are looking for something a little more permanent than cold, hard cash.

If the answer is the latter, then gold bugs should be smiling because, given the parlous state of the global macro economy, there is every possibility that demand for the yellow metal is likely to continue upwards.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gold and silver last assets standing: new economic Title: Gold and silver last assets standing: new economic Description: theory

TheUnhivedMind - July 14, 2011 03:41 AM (GMT)

Gold and silver last assets standing: new economic theory

Ken Gerbino comes up with a new economic theory that excess money supply begets ultimate illiquidity and market crashes and gold and silver become the ultimate financial assets.

Author: Kenneth J. Gerbino
Posted: Wednesday , 13 Jul 2011

BEVERLY HILLS - In 2008, a horrible financial and economic contraction occurred that destroyed asset values, bankrupted financial institutions, had devastating effects on real estate and sent the world banking system into a tailspin.

This was a liquidity crisis. Since then, I have been thinking through the illogical and difficult concept of; how could there be a liquidity crisis when so much money had been printed beforehand? With money and credit available in abundance how could a liquidity problem even be possible? One would think that the more money the more liquidity. What was wrong with this picture? After a lot of thought, I have found the answer.

In the twenty years leading up to the 2008 U.S. crisis, the U.S. money supply (M1) increased by 87% and the M2 money supply by 171%. By any past standards these were huge increases in money supply. In Europe the monetary expansion was even more, with M1 increasing by 145% in only 10 years leading up to 2008. The great western world industrial countries were awash in cash, money, credit and liquidity. So how could a liquidity crisis materialize and asset values plummet almost everywhere?

The answer to this puzzle is actually a new economic theory; a discovery that I am naming The Gerbino Principle of Liquidity

I have figured out the reason why more money can actually lead to less liquidity- not more - in a modern fiat paper money economy! I have named this new economic discovery, some may say, in an egotistical manner for two reasons; 1) I want to make sure that the source of this new economic principle is known - after all someone has to claim authorship, and 2) If anyone wants to refute it they will know who to go to.

This new theory has overwhelming importance to anyone who owns investments at this time, especially stocks, because the panic of 2008 is going to repeat again and possibly soon for reasons I will discuss later.

A liquidity crisis is not the credit cycle or a credit crisis, a business slowdown, a boom and bust economic cycle, a recession, or the business cycle. I will explain the differences of these events later in this text.

This Economic Principle or Law is something very different and never before explained by the philosopher/economists of the past or present.

Below is the Gerbino Principle and the explanation and logic behind this new economic discovery.

THE GERBINO PRINCIPLE OF LIQUIDITY
Liquidity is eventually destroyed, not created by increases of fiat money.
A financial liquidity crisis will always follow a prolonged period of fiat money creation.
The more "paper" money printed or created by fiat the more severe the liquidity crisis will be.
Future "offsets" * to the created fiat money supply could also create a liquidity crisis.

* Offset is a term used by central banks when they sell treasury securities to dealers (specific banks). As the dealers are required to pay for the securities they are sending money to the central bank. When these funds arrive at the central bank they have been taken out of the U.S. money supply. This money is now deducted from money in circulation. This is an offset. They have offset a past increase in the money supply. It is hard to believe that modern man would allow bureaucrats to not only create money out of thin air but to then have the authority to destroy it.

A liquidity crisis is when there is not enough money to satisfy the orderly liquidation of financial or real assets without creating a massive destruction of those asset values.

In simple terms: The Gerbino Principle is: The more fiat money the less financial liquidity.

A liquidity crisis is caused by too much money being created in an economy, not too little money. This is explained below.

A liquidity crisis is not a credit crisis. A credit crisis is a problem of solvency not liquidity. A credit crisis is when lenders are not lending to weak businesses, institutions or governments because of risk aversion. A credit crisis could start a liquidity crisis as assets are sold to meet short term insolvency problems and the selling begets more selling. But in the absence of fiat money a liquidity crisis would be impossible.

A liquidity crisis is not a business slow down or recession. This is where an over expansion has taken place by businesses and they now have to cut back and downsize.

The boom and bust economic cycle is also caused by an artificial expansion of money and/or excessive credit expansion. Fiat money causes this event also, but this is not a liquidity crisis. This is part of the business cycle which is caused by investment and overexpansion of plant and equipment by businesses usually induced by fiat money being pumped into an economic system but this is not a liquidity crisis.

The liquidity crisis relates to all of the above economic events but is unique in its short term and long term effects on real and financial asset values.

In 2006 and 2007 when the real estate markets in the U.S. and Europe started to top out there was no recession and no general business slowdown. But a liquidity crisis was born and became acute in 2008.

THE GERBINO PRINCIPLE EXPLAINED

With a paper or fiat money system, the more money that is injected into an economic system the higher the eventual price of consumer goods (inflation) and during this time the higher the prices of real estate and stock values - both values also responding to the new circulating money supply. More debt is also created (taken on by people, institutions and governments). If the money supply goes up by 5% consumer goods will go up by 5%, also increasing the prices of other assets like real estate and stock prices usually by 5%. Sometimes these real and financial assets increase even more as the increased money and credit create abnormal speculation.

It is counter-intuitive that more money would create less liquidity and this is why this concept has remained hidden from economic thinking in the past and in the modern era.

HOW THE PRINCIPLE WORKS

The new money drives up the prices of financial and real assets at somewhat the same rate of increase as consumer goods but since these financial assets have so much more market value to begin with, the per cent rate is not the key, it is the increase in the monetary value that is the key. Let me explain.

In the United States the values of the four main financial and real asset classes are as follows:
All US Stocks
$13.4 trillion

All Government and Commercial Debt
$36.0 trillion

Commercial Real Estate
$ 6.5 trillion

Residential Real Estate
$20.0 trillion

Total:
$75.9 trillion

This huge monetary value of asset classes is supported by the circulation of only $1.9 trillion of the current U.S. money supply, M1 (cash plus checkable deposits). The ratio of these asset values to real liquidity (cash plus checking accounts) is basically 40 to 1. So if confidence is lost in the economy, financial structure or banking system and too many people who own these assets want to "lighten up" and "get liquid" there is literally not enough money to satisfy this desire.

You cannot fit $76 trillion of assets into a $1.9 trillion bottle.

In a panic mode, this leverage of asset values to actual money available creates a crisis of liquidity. This in turn acts to create a downward spiral of prices from the liquidations (selling) and brings on more panic as balance sheets deteriorate and margin calls become the order of the day on Wall Street.

The increase of fiat money has distorted the ratio of money in circulation to asset values. This distortion becomes the Achilles Heel of asset values when confidence is lessened or severely impacted by economic or political reasons.

If there are more sellers than buyers of any asset class, even as little as 1-2% more sellers who are determined to "get out", then as long as this small but determined group persists to sell an asset the further prices will erode. Eroding prices also begets more sellers and this continues until the sellers who want to cash out are satisfied or the asset prices become so low that new buyers come into the market and absorb the selling pressure with buying pressure, stabilizing the asset price.

As more money is created to handle a liquidity crisis (bailing out the politically connected as in 2008-2011), it sows the seeds for the next crisis as the new liquidity eventually pushes up prices of financial and real assets to a level that again cannot be sustained when for some future reason general business or economic confidence is lessened and another panic ensues. These panics can start from many causes:
Loss of confidence in economic expansion and a fear of recession.
Political mismanagement of economies.
Inflation rates that are higher than expected and increasing, causing the liquidation of stocks and bonds.
Large bankruptcies from overleveraged financial institutions as in 2008.
Excessive speculation in asset classes like residential real estate in the decade leading up to 2006.
International events like an oil embargo or major war.

WHEN TIMES WERE BETTER

In 1960, the United States had a more stable monetary system with much less currency debasement. The prior 10 years saw a relatively modest increase by today's standards of 26%.

The value of stocks, government and commercial debt and residential real estate was only $1.7 trillion in 1960, and the money supply (M1) was $144 billion. This was only a 11.8 to 1 ratio of liquidity to these assets compared to a 40 to 1 ratio today.

Note: I have left out of this 1960 example, commercial real estate as it is the smallest component of the four major categories discussed earlier, as this value was impossible to verify in the 1960 period.

Since 1960 a 1,250% increase in money supply (1960 - 2011) has created an almost 4,000% increase in asset values. It proves the point that creating more money has allowed for a somewhat manageable ratio of liquidity to asset values of approx. 1 to12 that persisted in 1960 to an untenable ratio of 1 to 39 today (note again that 1960 commercial real estate values are left out of this example).

The Late 50's and early 60's were pretty good times in America. Families were prospering, savings rates were up, new cars were affordable every 3-4 years, middle class wage earners could actually send their kids to college. A household with two working parents was the exception. Money and wages bought you a lot of goods and services.

One of the key distortions of fiat money is that it robs the purchasing power of the lower and middle income earners. Since 1960, teachers (a typical middle income earner) salaries have increased 9.7 times, but home values (even today) are still up 21 times. One can almost find any good or service and it will also be up 20-30 times.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

It's a simple list; Liberals and Conservatives, Republicans and Democrats. They have all been duped by the banking elites and Keynesian economists.

DO NOT BE SCARED OF THE FUTURE

It is important to remember that money does circulate and sometimes in much greater amounts than the overall value of the money supply. In other words there could be $10 trillion of financial transactions in one week with only $1 trillion in money available. These liquidity crises are actually rare but will become more prevalent as more fiat money is created because the increase of the asset values far outpace the underlying per cent increase of the money supply.

Investor A, panicking out of IBM, for instance, and dumping the stock at any price, will end up with cash in his/her account. But that money will most likely go into a money market fund or be invested in U.S. Treasuries or a corporate bond. It will not sit there. Someone else who sells the Treasuries or the corporate bond to Investor A will now have that cash and now in turn can go and buy some other assets, maybe even IBM if he/she feels the price is right.

If Investor A's cash from selling IBM is placed in a money market account, these funds in turn will be invested or lent to various institutions by the money market managers to earn an interest rate on the capital in the fund. If an Investor buys US Treasuries directly from the U.S. Treasury it will be spent by Uncle Sam and put into the system by government expenditure.

It is because of the money supply circulating in an economic system that some equilibrium of asset prices can usually be maintained. Selling by Joe is met by buying by Tom. Historically this has worked to restore prices to an economic equilibrium but with a cash to asset value ratio bloated by fiat money the equilibrium becomes distorted dramatically and invites a major sell off when confidence in the value of asset prices becomes widespread or a panic starts. Then a liquidity crisis develops.

At this time I would like to add that an equilibrium point in the value of an asset or asset class is reached when buyers and sellers are satisfied and most likely the return on the asset (rent, interest, dividends) is reasonably compared to the world one lives in. In other words, a condo valued at $200,000 that can't be rented for even a 1% return is probably overpriced. Subjective and logical reasoning based on everyday life experiences and choices by buyers and sellers will eventually arrive at an equilibrium value in a normal economic environment. But in a liquidity crisis these values can be distorted dramatically.

FIAT MONEY A BAD SOLUTION FOR INVESTORS

With a cash to asset value ratio bloated by fiat money the equilibrium becomes dramatically distorted and invites a major sell off when confidence in the value of asset prices becomes widespread or a panic starts. Then a liquidity crisis develops. The start of the liquidity crisis can be caused by many factors but the underlying reason it persists is caused by fiat money.

The more money that is created the more ballooned are the values of various investment asset classes. A relatively small per cent increase in money supply can increase the value of these mentioned financial and real assets well beyond the increased per cent of the money supply.

A 5% increase to a money supply of $1.9 trillion is $95 billion more in circulation. As that $95 billion circulates within the economy it will eventually raise consumer prices by 5%, but it will also raise the value of real and financial assets. This 5% increase applied to the above $76 trillion of asset values (including commercial real estate) mentioned earlier can become $3.8 trillion (5% of $76 trillion) of increased asset values.

The arbitrary and artificial increase in the money supply creates a never ending problem of asset values expanding and then collapsing. Too much money creates too little liquidity when there is a loss of confidence in financial assets.

Today these asset classes, except real estate, are now more susceptible to a panic or asset sell off or another liquidity crisis. Real estate has been so battered because of the illiquidity of the sector to begin with coupled with the liquidity crisis of 2008 and beyond, that it may be close to an equilibrium level.

The fiat money system that creates liquidity crises also destroys purchasing power of the lower and middle class. No where is this more pronounced than the last 50 years. In 1960 typical middle income wage earners were school teachers. Their salaries in 1960 were $5,175. The average home in 1960 was $12,700. Since then school teacher salaries have gone up approx. 10 times. But the average home price, even after the sell offs of the last few years, as of last month have increased 21 times. Fiat money has destroyed the purchasing power of the average American.

This Principle of Liquidity also is another reason why gold is going up, as it is the ultimate liquid financial or monetary asset. If one wants liquidity with no strings attached, gold is it. The asset class that will be left standing in any crisis will be precious metals - gold and silver.

THE MINI LIQUIDITY CRUNCH IN THE PRECIOUS METAL MINING STOCKS

I believe the gold and silver mining stocks which are presently very undervalued against the high prices of gold and silver are currently experiencing a mini liquidity crunch (a distant cousin of a crisis) within the realm of gold and silver mining investors.

These investors have only so much inclination and money at their disposal to buy these mining stocks. But the supply of new mining deals, IPO's, new financings and private placements have stretched and somewhat overwhelmed the buying power of this relatively small group of international players (individual investors and institutions with an appetite for mining stocks).

An exhaustion of capital allocated to this sector by these players has occurred and has also been diluted further because of the newly created family of associated asset classes like uranium, base metal and rare earth companies. It is simply a matter of a limited amount of money and too many companies. Until more players (and capital) come forth on this stage, this sector could languish at what appears to be excellent and undervalued stock prices. Only the best growth and value mining stories will do well until new players arrive with more capital to invest.

This Principle may also explain why U.S. Treasuries (1-5 year paper) is relatively very strong while it is paying so little interest. It could be because buyers of these bills and bonds can rely on being able to cash them in at a fixed value at maturity as opposed to not knowing what the price of IBM or a duplex apartment will be worth in another full scale crisis or sell off.

THE NEXT CRISIS

What will cause the next liquidity crisis is unknown, but the U.S. and Europe are being set up for one to occur because of the continued reliance of fiat money to bail out debtors, the banking system, and government deficits.

German, French and British banks have $1 trillion of exposure to Portugal, Ireland, Greece and Spain, the so-called PIGS. A large per cent of these loans are suspect and due to this a race to liquidity in Europe could start at any time.

After the 2008 crisis another stock market rally occurred, 2009-2011. This was because massive amounts of fiat money were injected into the U.S. economy by the Fed. From January 2008 to May 2011, the U.S. money supply has seen the greatest short-term increase in history, 41%.

Because of this, financial assets again will rise and eventually real estate will also rise probably very slowly (based more on supply and demand as opposed to the rampant speculation of the last pre-2008 decade).

FINAL THOUGHTS

The lesson to be learned is that the more money created the more severe the next liquidity crisis will be and that the more money created the less liquidity there will be for financial and real assets to withstand any sort of liquidation panic as the extra money cannot come close to the asset monetary value created by the circulation of that extra fiat money. This is the Gerbino Principle of Liquidity.

This phenomenon has been in plain sight for decades and our good friend Sir Arthur Conan Doyle said it best....

"There is nothing more illusive than an obvious fact." - Sherlock Holmes.

These liquidity crises are disruptive and dangerous and are caused solely by fiat money which has caused major distortions in modern economies. End fiat money creation and you will end future liquidity crises that disrupt and cause havoc to modern economies.

Ken Gerbino heads Kenneth J. Gerbino & Company. The company manages portfolios for individuals, pensions, trusts and corporations - www.kengerbino.com

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

23dcf

PLEASE MOVE OVER TO THE NEW SITE:

http://z15.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mind_III/

18 JULY 2011 .. GOLD HITS NEW HIGH OF $1604 AS SILVER RAISES TO $40.38 PER OUNCE. THE OVERT DEPRESSION IS ON, ALL READY FOR THE COMING COLLAPSE BETWEEN OCT 2011 - OCT 2012! THE LIKES OF WHICH HAS NEVER BEEN WITNESSED BEFORE WORLDWIDE, ARE YOU READY? MENTALLY? YOU SURE? GET HARDENED NOW AND PREPARE ASAP.....

THE UNHIVED MIND
This site is dedicated to the truthsayers assassinated such as William Cooper, Jim Arrabito, Alberto Rivera, Joe Vialls, Brian Downing Quig, Phil Schneider etc.

KING 'FARNESE' CARLOS
World War III
The Unhived Mind

THE KNIGHTS OF MALTA
DEUTSCHE VERTEIDIGUNGS DIENST
HOMELAND
DEPARTMENT
AGENCY
CARPATHIA HOSTINGS INC CYBERNAZIS

CARDINAL RATZINGER
And his Oslo Accords
UHM

C.I.A (D.V.D) PREPARE TO
TESLA ATTACK U.K
EXERCISE ORION
SEPTEMBER 2010
UHM

WTC nuclear demolition
Dimitri Khalezov

WATCH OUT MIDDLE EAST
KING JUAN CARLOS IS
IN RUSSIA 24/25 FEB

LATEST INFO

The Unhived Mind Ii->WORLD CONTROL->The Lower Races

Pages: (7) [1] 2 3 ... Last »

NEW TOPIC NEW POLL

		The Lower Races
		Topic Title	Topic Starter	Replies	Views	Last Action
		Important Topics
		Pastor David Manning tells the truth about the lower race [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	69	5th July 2011 - 09:32 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		EXAMPLE OF THE AFRICANISED MIND [MP3] (Pages 1 2) BEWARE TERRIBLE LYRICS	TheUnhivedMind	19	1,592	25th July 2010 - 01:15 PM Last Post by: Red-09
		Forum Topics
		Lower Race shows why they should stick to fires and not use cookers [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	2	134	21st July 2011 - 07:56 AM Last Post by: IloveJFKJr

		Jamaican bride dumps new husband 20 MINUTES after arriving in the UK... and guess who paid	TheUnhivedMind	0	32	21st July 2011 - 02:17 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Housing official at Lambeth 'squatted in my flat and trashed it'	TheUnhivedMind	0	32	17th July 2011 - 11:12 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		African Jig kills white woman and wounds 2 others welcome to Apelanta Georgia USA !	Ken Ardel	0	42	17th July 2011 - 06:43 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		LOWER RACES GO CRAZY FOR HOUSING VOUCHERS [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	1	140	17th July 2011 - 04:12 AM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Photographer mugged by negroes don't let your guard down near savages	Ken Ardel	0	52	16th July 2011 - 07:22 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Lower Race destruction at Denny's [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	64	16th July 2011 - 02:26 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lower Race Lee claims the debt ceiling problems is because Obama is a half Lower race [BLAH	TheUnhivedMind	0	35	16th July 2011 - 02:13 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Hispanic births overtake immigration in U.S. [BULL OF BORGIA]	TheUnhivedMind	0	22	16th July 2011 - 12:33 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Minority Feelings and Violent Facts	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	15th July 2011 - 05:03 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Knockout Game: Racial Violence and the Conspicuous Silence of the Media	TheUnhivedMind	0	20	15th July 2011 - 05:02 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		More lower races rob mobs Dallas style	Ken Ardel	0	51	13th July 2011 - 10:04 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Lower races attack 5 Dubliners in an orgy of violence	Ken Ardel	2	70	12th July 2011 - 11:09 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Bicycle gang hunted over teenage boy's knife murder	TheUnhivedMind	0	20	12th July 2011 - 05:32 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Third World London [WHITES MUST DESERT WHILST YOU CAN]	TheUnhivedMind	0	43	12th July 2011 - 05:31 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lower race flash rob mob [Vd]	Ken Ardel	0	55	11th July 2011 - 11:15 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Head's killer 'robbed man in respect row'	TheUnhivedMind	0	44	11th July 2011 - 06:24 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Retarded lower race rapes woman twice	TheUnhivedMind	0	73	8th July 2011 - 05:21 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Teenage girl 'lured two 16-year-olds into rape ordeal with three Asian men in their thi	TheUnhivedMind	0	84	6th July 2011 - 06:18 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Perfect example that a lower race will hump anything supposedly female	TheUnhivedMind	2	120	6th July 2011 - 05:21 PM Last Post by: Alexandra

		UK girls at risk of mutilation abroad	TheUnhivedMind	0	37	5th July 2011 - 11:47 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lower race cost the NHS £200,000 and works illegally as an Avon Lady	TheUnhivedMind	0	47	4th July 2011 - 11:52 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Father 'raped his six-month-old son and infected him with HIV [HIV DOESN'T EXIST HAHAHA]	TheUnhivedMind	0	44	4th July 2011 - 11:45 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Negro rapes unconscious woman, though she was dead	Ken Ardel	2	94	4th July 2011 - 03:29 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Lower race gets upset by Clarkson joke	TheUnhivedMind	0	95	3rd July 2011 - 06:36 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Detroit riots of '67 [Vd] in 3 parts Summer in the Motor City in 1967	Ken Ardel	5	109	3rd July 2011 - 12:10 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		The teenage boy, 16, stabbed to death in London street at 5pm for cell phone [GET RID]	TheUnhivedMind	0	52	3rd July 2011 - 01:55 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Jamaica would be better off as a British colony independent since '62 but screwed by TNB	Ken Ardel	8	172	1st July 2011 - 01:10 AM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		UK population sees biggest increase in half a century [ALL LOWER RACES]	TheUnhivedMind	0	39	30th June 2011 - 03:25 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Teens in a mob assault and rob Center City patrons	TheUnhivedMind	0	36	30th June 2011 - 12:20 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Disproportionate number of child sex offenders 'are Asian men'	TheUnhivedMind	0	45	29th June 2011 - 05:10 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lower race goes crazy at D.C. Caribbean Festival 2011 [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	3	134	28th June 2011 - 03:39 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Somalians ponder an escalator	Alexandra	10	175	28th June 2011 - 10:37 AM Last Post by: Alexandra
		U.S. soccer team booed in their own country as Mexican fans turn LA into an 'away' game	TheUnhivedMind	0	45	28th June 2011 - 04:09 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Muslim woman sues Abercrombie & Fitch over hijab	TheUnhivedMind	0	22	28th June 2011 - 01:45 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		MIGRANT CHEAT GETS LEGAL AID TO FIGHT FRAUD BILL	TheUnhivedMind	1	114	27th June 2011 - 07:14 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Peoria Mob: "Kill all white people!" Things are heating up	Alexandra	2	113	27th June 2011 - 11:52 AM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Woman tries to stop 3 negro thieves [Vd]	Ken Ardel	0	44	25th June 2011 - 04:22 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Census shows whites lose US majority among babies	TheUnhivedMind	0	48	25th June 2011 - 04:01 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Savage nig nog gangs attack white people [Vd] Iowa State Fair racial attacks	Ken Ardel	6	157	24th June 2011 - 04:48 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Britain has THIRD WORLD schools riddled with lower races [POOR POOR WHITE CHILDREN]	TheUnhivedMind	0	56	22nd June 2011 - 05:43 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Trouble with Herman Cain	TheUnhivedMind	0	48	22nd June 2011 - 12:50 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		NOW BLOODY STAY THERE !	TheUnhivedMind	1	102	21st June 2011 - 04:34 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		One-fifth of men accused of sex grooming are Asian	TheUnhivedMind	0	57	20th June 2011 - 03:47 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Swedish Racemixing State Propaganda [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	3	97	20th June 2011 - 11:24 AM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Shelby County, TN sees rise in lesbian gang rapes. [TIME TO RID OUR LANDS OF LOWER RACES]	TheUnhivedMind	0	71	20th June 2011 - 02:46 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Another Toronto negro thug makes good	Ken Ardel	2	118	18th June 2011 - 12:21 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		'Find a river to dump her in': Chilling note found in car near to home of singer Joss Stone	TheUnhivedMind	0	78	16th June 2011 - 02:35 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'Sex gang groomed girls of 13': Men accused of luring teens and turning them into prost	TheUnhivedMind	0	88	15th June 2011 - 03:12 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		McDonald's funny bit says a lot in many ways	Ken Ardel	0	114	14th June 2011 - 08:34 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		A filthy and vile african practice [Vd] in the USA !	Ken Ardel	3	195	14th June 2011 - 02:19 PM Last Post by: Wolveshater
		Worst Liquor Store Robbery Ever [Vd] funny stuff	Ken Ardel	0	80	12th June 2011 - 01:02 AM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Negroes chop tree down to steal cheap bike [Vd] to ride it for 5 minutes then dump it	Ken Ardel	0	94	11th June 2011 - 04:25 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Lower races at it again, primitive DNA [Vd] [IF YOUR WHITE & IN THE CITY, GET OUT!]	TheUnhivedMind	2	150	11th June 2011 - 02:36 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Lower Races kick off as their Primitive DNA kicks in [Vd] [THIRD WORLD U.S.]	TheUnhivedMind	0	78	11th June 2011 - 01:18 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lower races show their primitive DNA mindset [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	54	11th June 2011 - 01:12 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Negro thug killed by another negro thug	Ken Ardel	1	214	10th June 2011 - 05:41 AM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Brother and sister teachers accused of sexually assaulting students at Christian school	TheUnhivedMind	0	81	10th June 2011 - 12:19 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Black Power Wanes Amid Rising Hispanic Clout [HISPANICS ARE PREFERRED]	TheUnhivedMind	0	54	9th June 2011 - 03:32 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Female boons gone wild at Wendy's [Vd]	Ken Ardel	2	99	9th June 2011 - 02:53 AM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Shot teenager was a 'charming hard-worker'	TheUnhivedMind	0	43	8th June 2011 - 05:20 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Four robbed, attacked by mob of young men in Streetville	TheUnhivedMind	1	94	7th June 2011 - 04:49 AM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Feces & Urine Problem In Downtown El Paso	TheUnhivedMind	2	54	6th June 2011 - 11:58 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Newark, Pre-Crime, and Summer of 2001	Alexandra	0	71	5th June 2011 - 09:24 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Negro Pastor charged with sexual assault	Ken Ardel	2	183	4th June 2011 - 07:49 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		This is what happens when blacks are given food stamps	TheUnhivedMind	8	325	3rd June 2011 - 12:26 PM Last Post by: Terminus Est
		Egyptian Muslim cleric: 'When I want a sex-slave, I go to the market and buy her'	TheUnhivedMind	0	88	3rd June 2011 - 03:01 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Drug testing in Florida for Welfare debate [Vd] negress does not want it, i wonder why?	Ken Ardel	0	90	2nd June 2011 - 12:45 AM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Poet Gunned Down In N. Miami	TheUnhivedMind	0	44	31st May 2011 - 10:01 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		1000 Lower Races Fight at Carson Beach [BLACKS BEING FREQUENCY MANIPULATED?]	TheUnhivedMind	0	61	31st May 2011 - 09:59 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lower race wants police for McDonalds [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	1	69	31st May 2011 - 08:47 PM Last Post by: snooze
		Surveillance released of Miami Beach shooting [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	1	42	31st May 2011 - 06:33 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Revealed: Witnesses to girl's shooting	TheUnhivedMind	0	55	31st May 2011 - 05:22 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Ex-Tory peer who cheated on expenses jailed for a year	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	31st May 2011 - 05:21 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Paedophile illegal immigrant is finally thrown out of Britain after claiming deportation wo	TheUnhivedMind	0	30	30th May 2011 - 06:13 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'Is it 'cos I'm black?' What F1 driver Lewis Hamilton asks race officials after penal	TheUnhivedMind	1	170	30th May 2011 - 04:04 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		'Bradford is very inbred': Muslim outrage as profe professor warns first-cousin marriages i	TheUnhivedMind	0	54	30th May 2011 - 03:55 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Jamaican policing at its finest [Vd]	Ken Ardel	0	97	29th May 2011 - 01:05 AM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Negro infecting women with non existing disease desparate women get jaboon's juju	Ken Ardel	0	82	28th May 2011 - 06:23 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Woman goes on rampage at WalMart after being asked for receipt	Alexandra	5	147	27th May 2011 - 09:34 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		21 year old negro shot to death in Toronto today I love the reader's comments	Ken Ardel	4	185	27th May 2011 - 06:56 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Negro rapist fingered by DNA	Ken Ardel	0	84	26th May 2011 - 09:47 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Lower Race Worried of Escalator [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	114	25th May 2011 - 09:28 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lower Race licks his shoes on subway [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	85	25th May 2011 - 09:25 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lower race desperation [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	84	25th May 2011 - 09:23 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Teens Riot In Manhattan Businesses [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	1	90	25th May 2011 - 12:27 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'Possessed' teenager who stabbed her mother 5x is allowed to walk free because of occult	TheUnhivedMind	0	78	24th May 2011 - 10:13 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Blacks trash Manhattan Dunkin' Donuts	Alexandra	0	80	24th May 2011 - 06:58 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Moment a teenage hitman, 15, murdered a helpless mother for just £200	TheUnhivedMind	0	97	23rd May 2011 - 10:31 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The taste of multiculturalism [Vd] [TASTES LIKE PAPACY SHIT TO ME!]	TheUnhivedMind	0	87	23rd May 2011 - 04:51 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Grandmother kidnapped from bingo hall, burned body found in car trunk	Alexandra	1	116	23rd May 2011 - 12:51 PM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Savage cooks her month old Kid of Satan in a microwave oven	TheUnhivedMind	3	168	22nd May 2011 - 03:18 AM Last Post by: Phazon
		Virginia inmate wins legal jihad, submits prison to all kinds of Sharia	TheUnhivedMind	0	46	21st May 2011 - 03:30 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Savage nig nog attacks 93 yr old woman to steal $4	Ken Ardel	0	96	20th May 2011 - 10:16 AM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Princeton's West takes shot at Obama	TheUnhivedMind	0	65	18th May 2011 - 09:53 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'Black women less attractive' storm at LSE	TheUnhivedMind	0	104	18th May 2011 - 09:32 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		UK ethnic population has risen 40 per cent in the last eight years	TheUnhivedMind	0	44	18th May 2011 - 09:31 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Sheriff says illegal aliens ruining his county with murder, rapes, home invasion	TheUnhivedMind	0	76	17th May 2011 - 05:51 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

Showing 100 of 671 topics sorted by last post date in descending order from the beginning Go!

Pages: (7) [1] 2 3 ... Last »

NEW TOPIC NEW POLL

Open Topic (new replies)

Open Topic (no new replies)

Hot Topic (new replies)

Hot Topic (no new replies)

Poll (new votes)

Poll (no new votes)

Locked Topic

Moved Topic

Search this forum: Enter Keywords Go

- The Lower Races Go

Mark this forum as read

Hosted for free by InvisionFree (Terms of Use: Updated 2/10/2010) | Powered by Invision Power Board v1.3 Final © 2003 IPS, Inc.
Page creation time: 0.0539 seconds | Archive

The Orsini Skin by Bunthius Zeta Board mods

0

View Full Version: The Lower Races

51. 'Sex gang groomed girls of 13': Men accused of
52. McDonald's funny bit
53. A filthy and vile african practice [Vd]
54. Worst Liquor Store Robbery Ever [Vd]
55. Negroes chop tree down to steal cheap bike [Vd]
56. Lower races at it again, primitive DNA [Vd]
57. Lower Races kick off as their Primitive DNA kicks
58. Lower races show their primitive DNA mindset [Vd]
59. Negro thug killed by another negro thug
60. Brother and sister teachers accused of sexually
61. Black Power Wanes Amid Rising Hispanic Clout
62. Female boons gone wild at Wendy's [Vd]
63. Shot teenager was a 'charming hard-worker'
64. Four robbed, attacked by mob of young men in
65. Feces & Urine Problem In Downtown El Paso
66. Newark, Pre-Crime, and Summer of 2001
67. Negro Pastor charged with sexual assault
68. This is what happens when blacks are given food
69. Egyptian Muslim cleric: 'When I want a sex-slave,
70. Drug testing in Florida for Welfare debate [Vd]
71. Poet Gunned Down In N. Miami
72. 1000 Lower Races Fight at Carson Beach
73. Lower race wants police for McDonalds [Vd]
74. Surveillance released of Miami Beach shooting [Vd]
75. Revealed: Witnesses to girl's shooting
76. Ex-Tory peer who cheated on expenses jailed for a
77. Paedophile illegal immigrant is finally thrown out
78. 'Is it 'cos I'm black?' What F1 driver Lewis
79. 'Bradford is very inbred': Muslim outrage as profe
80. Jamaican policing at its finest [Vd]

81. Negro infecting women with non existing disease
82. Woman goes on rampage at WalMart
83. 21 year old negro shot to death in Toronto today
84. Negro rapist fingered by DNA
85. Lower Race Worried of Escalator [Vd]
86. Lower Race licks his shoes on subway [Vd]
87. Lower race desperation [Vd]
88. Teens Riot In Manhattan Businesses [Vd]
89. 'Possessed' teenager who stabbed her mother 5x is
90. Blacks trash Manhattan Dunkin' Donuts
91. Moment a teenage hitman, 15, murdered a helpless
92. The taste of multiculturalism [Vd]
93. Grandmother kidnapped from bingo hall,
94. Savage cooks her month old Kid of Satan in a
95. Virginia inmate wins legal jihad, submits prison
96. Savage nig nog attacks 93 yr old woman to steal $4
97. Princeton’s West takes shot at Obama
98. 'Black women less attractive' storm at LSE
99. UK ethnic population has risen 40 per cent in the 100. Sheriff says illegal aliens ruining his county

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Lower Races

101. India mothers accused in honour killing of two
102. Boy, 15, stabbed to death in street
103. LOWER RACES GONE WILD AS BLACKS END UP UNDER CAR
104. Barack Obama Is Wrong: 18 Facts Which Prove That
105. Lower races in third world U.S. ramsack store
106. Acid attack on mother as she picked up her
107. Cheerleader must compensate school that told her
108. $1000 chairs for Detroit library
109. Dead negro tally for Toronto so far for 2011
110. Belgium moves closer to banning burqa in public
111. 'Where are the black people?' asks Sherri Shepherd
112. Files suggest elder Obama forced to leave Harvard 113. Royal wedding: Vanuatu tribe soon to hold 'world's
114. White Man Sucker Punched and Robbed By Black Thug
115. German speaks truth about moslem Germany [Vd]
116. McDonalds Attack Victim Speaks Out [Vd]
117. Horde of teens attack, rob MARTA passengers
118. Murdered for queue-jumping in McDonald's?
119. Black Panther rallies scheduled for April 23
120. Islamic Malmo Sweden [Vd]
121. Girl 11 lured into park bathroom by gang of
122. Negress makes ghetto lobster
123. Florida gun deaths suspect named as Shawn Tyson
124. Met holds ceasefire talks with gangs in bid to
125. She dreamed of going to Oxford. She died in hail
126. Love thy neighbour? Vicar jailed for scalding and
127. Boy, 13, sees his brother killed by knife gang in
128. Moozlems and nignogs in France & Europe {vd}
129. Philip Lawrence killer 'boasted about head's murde
130. Pakistani brothers 'dug up corpse and made it into

131. More Black Men Now in Prison System than Were
132. Moozlems go apeshit in Afghanistan & kill 8
133. Is the countryside racist? Villages 'that want to 134. Africentric high school proposal stirs controversy
135. GIRL, 5, SHOT IN CHEST AS GUNMAN FIRES AT GANG
136. Toronto police officer charged in teenboy sex case
137. More nignog moozlems invade Europe. Vd
138. Murder police: Do you know these people?
139. "Lower Races" concept unbiblical/Satanic
140. Somali negroes attacking St. Paul Mn residents
141. Lower race resists detainment [Vd]
142. Tree surgeon knifed by passerby in safety row
143. Brawl at Burger King
144. Lower race blacks were the best slavemasters [Vd]
145. Perfect example of the lower race blacks [Vd]
146. Young 11yr old raped by gang of lower race blacks
147. 15yr old killed in bedroom by lower race black
148. Greece - Athens : Muslim immigrants clash with
149. Six footballers jailed over gang rape of 12yr old
150. Stoke-on-Trent Muslim sexual abuse cleric jailed

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Lower Races

151. Man takes a dump in shopping mall [Vd]
152. Kneecapped by a hooded hitman: First picture of
153. 18 Black Students Rape 11 year old girl.
154. Commuters beware: Massive surge in iPhone muggings
155. White Kids Dancing At School With A Bunch Of Black
156. Black in America
157. The Afrocentric Inferiority Complex [Vd]
158. 12 year old white girl assaulted by black boys
159. 'Pram rage' thug drags mother off bus by her hair
160. Woman goes ballistic over towing bill
161. Four men slashed teacher's face and left him with
162. Bouncer Abusing Power
163. Boy, 16, 'attacks mother with claw hammer before
164. Father accused of stabbing son and daughter to
165. Children were beaten and kept as slaves in pastor'
166. Nursery teacher 'sprayed pupils with air freshener
167. Secret filming at Muslim schools in Birmingham and
168. Multiculturalism has failed, says French president
169. Prime Minister under fire after controversial
170. Girl lashed to death
171. Machete-wielding thief robs teen
172. Wild Brawl In The Parking Lot Of An Ocala, Florida
173. Blacks cause trouble at NY restaurant [Vd]
174. Wild Scene At Denny’s [Vd]
175. McDonalds Brawl In San Francisco [Vd]
176. Blacks at it IHOP Brawl [Vd]
177. Vicious Attack on Wendy's Worker [Vd]
178. Elderly NYC couple viciously attacked
179. Thug gets 25 years for machete attack at store
180. 'Teenagers armed with samurai sword and knives'

181. WHITE CHILDREN IN BIRMINGHAM U.K. NOW A MINORITY
182. Police release photo of HIV positive suspect
183. Boy, 15, killed and three friends hurt in stabbing
184. Blinded by liquid eye liner and burnt with cigaret
185. I was kept prisoner by the Asian sex gang predator
186. Someone knows who shot my son, says mother
187. French Police chased out of muslim no go area
188. Haitian negroes males doing what they do best
189. ISLAM THREATENS OUR NATIONAL IDENTITY SAY FRENCH
190. Top detective blasts 'culture of silence' that
191. 2001: “ISLAMO-CHRISTIAN” EUROPE EMERGES
192. Woman accused of murdering boy and burning his
193. Mother chokes three-year-old son to death 'in
194. Illegal Zimbabweans given amnesty in South Africa
195. Nicolas Sarkozy to target Muslim prayers
196. BBC DJ Lubna Qazi to be sentenced for benefits
197. Plane returns to Heathrow because of praying muzzy
198. Muslims en masse pray in St.Petersburg, Russia on 199. Religious ritual believed to be behind death of 200. Dallas ghetto lobster

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Lower Races

201. Asylum seeker who left girl, 12, to die after
202. Austrian, 63, fined £700 after Muslim neighbours
203. Life for ‘gangster’ who stabbed chef at concert
204. Mother who killed son with bleach to be assessed
205. Large white family, large black family
206. My brother has brought this white freakish animal
207. Teacher who told youth 'You are nothing but white
208. Asian attacks poor dog [Vd]
209. Father-in-law of Time's disfigured Afghan cover
210. 'If I am deported to Nigeria I will face death for
211. Obama's America awash in black on white crime
212. SA White family killed by savage nig nogs
213. Killer chopped mother's hand off and hacked her to
214. Pregnant again, the mother with five children in
215. NOW CUTS ARE LEAVING KILLERS TO STRUT OUR STREETS
216. Black Friday shopper accused of gun threat
217. Muslim pupils learn to cut off hands of thieves
218. Mother-of-eight still waiting for home after 10yrs
219. Pictured: The moment a gunman killed pub landlord'
220. Crazy negress bothering people in train car
221. Asian gang raped girls as young as 12 after
222. Toronto's Negro killing Negro web site
223. MPS’ ANGER AFTER THEY ARE SECRETLY SERVED HALAL
224. Ghetto Halloween fight at Denny's
225. Toy pig removed from farm set to avoid offending
226. Sergeant who helped run brother's drug gang jailed
227. Black child slapped by white teacher
228. Manning admits blacks never build nothing [Vd]
229. Mother killed autistic son, 12, with bleach after
230. Muslim 'parallel society' within Canada a threat

231. Islamic Paris: a foretaste of liberalism
232. Savage negroes kill woman in home invasion
233. Someone must know who this sex killer is, say poli
234. Islamic TV channel rapped for advocating marital
235. U.K. POLICE TO TACKLE WHITES WITH FORCE WHILST
236. POLICE SERGEANT WITH DOUBLE LIFE AS A CRIME LORD
237. Asian Gang Jailed for abusing white 12 year olds
238. Young Negro punks rob disabled 10 yr. old
239. Killer who raped two women while on the run jaile
240. Bushwick Bill speaking some truths [Vd]
241. A Tour of Detroit's Ghetto
242. 'Jesus was HIV-positive': South African pastor
243. Election season in Charlottesville VA
244. Thug seen on CCTV punching pregnant woman in the 245. Transvestite Prostitute Gets Life In Prison For
246. New Race War Movie
247. 'Businessman' with a taste for supercars is a drug
248. Multiculturalism fails in Europe as public mood
249. Inbreeding, cousin incest in moozlem marriage
250. Birmingham acid douse woman unlawfully killed daug

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Lower Races

651. Liddle under fire over 'racist' blog
652. Libya follows Iran in warning against Swiss minare
653. MIGRANTS USE 'JOKE' DEGREES TO LIVE IN BRITAIN
654. £10,000 reward offered for tip-off on 'despicable'
655. 'Unprovoked' attack on jogger left with severe
656. Prostitute claims man was fine before alleged assa
657. 90 illegal immigrants arrested at 2012 Olympics si
658. Common Purpose 'Race Mixing' Propaganda
659. Amir Khan: ‘I’d be a superstar if I was white’
660. Prison for heroin smuggling pair
661. Britain's first Asian woman magistrate admits road
662. DAD JAILED FOR BENEFIT SWINDLE
663. Brighton take-away handed fine for filthy kitchen
664. Councillor is arrested after drugs incident
665. Baroness Scotland blames immigrant scandal on
666. Lord Taylor of Warwick claimed thousands in
667. Men charged with murder and kidnap
668. Driver who killed my daughter must go - Darwen dad
669. Blacks plotted killing 15 year old pregnant girl
670. The Thug Report
671. Mr Ashraf shot dead 'robbed of £10,000'

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Pastor David Manning tells the truth about the Title: Pastor David Manning tells the truth about the Description: lower race [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - July 5, 2011 09:32 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=17m8OnHC7dQ

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/17m8OnHC7dQ?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/17m8OnHC7dQ?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: EXAMPLE OF THE AFRICANISED MIND [MP3]

Title: EXAMPLE OF THE AFRICANISED MIND [MP3]
Description: BEWARE TERRIBLE LYRICS

craig-oxley - December 4, 2009 03:22 PM (GMT)

A perfect example of how 75% of blacks think of themselves. They call themselves niggars whilst anyone else who does this is labelled a racist. Its pathetic and the lyrics are sickening. This says it all folks and by the way its really racialist! -Craig

[dohtml]<embed src="http://thatradio.podhoster.com/FlowPlayerLight.swf?config={embedded:true,videoFile:%27http://blip.tv/file/get/Craigoxley-AfricanisedMusicOfViolenceSexAndRacism600.mp3%27,initialScale:%27scale%27,controlBarBackgroundColor:%270x778899%27,autoBuffering:false,loop:false,autoPlay:false}" width="400" height="25" scale="fit" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" pluginspage="http://www.macromedia.com/go/getflashplayer"></embed>[/dohtml]

Download MP3 Direct HERE (Right Click, Save as)

craig-oxley - December 4, 2009 03:29 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vTOYS1tgL6c

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/vTOYS1tgL6c&hl=en_GB&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/vTOYS1tgL6c&hl=en_GB&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

craig-oxley - December 4, 2009 03:31 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ZvT6GJXMn6o

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/ZvT6GJXMn6o&hl=en_GB&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/ZvT6GJXMn6o&hl=en_GB&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

craig-oxley - December 4, 2009 03:33 PM (GMT)

[DOHTML]
<CENTER>[/DOHTML]
ARE YOU WORRIED ABOUT OUR

FUTURE SOCIETY YET?

DO YOU WANT YOUR CHILDREN

AROUND THESE TYPES OF BEINGS?
[DOHTML]
</CENTER>[/DOHTML]

Ken Ardel - December 4, 2009 09:04 PM (GMT)

A dangerous predatory failed species that thrives hanging around the white race they hate so much.
They should try mooching off the chinese or japanese to see how far they will get.
The orientals will boot their trouble making ape ass all the way to Africa.

Alexandra - December 5, 2009 02:10 PM (GMT)

I hear Orientals aren't brainwashed by political correctness and will put blacks in their place.

Someone on AmRen referred to blacks as a "beggar race."

craig-oxley - December 5, 2009 02:34 PM (GMT)

The only race I'm happy to live around is the Oriental race. These have a superior brain to the white man by at least one inch. These people keep themselves to themselves. They also have excellent knowledge of body healing and their very useful indeed for this. A race which has a purpose as I see it.

Etznab - December 22, 2009 08:14 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (Ken Ardel @ Dec 4 2009, 09:04 PM)

A dangerous predatory failed species that thrives hanging around the white race they hate so much.
They should try mooching off the chinese or japanese to see how far they will get.
The orientals will boot their trouble making ape ass all the way to Africa.

they cant smooch of the orientals because the orientals are too busy been subservient to their government. The whites brought the african to america to be slaved to the white man after 200 or so years how would you think the generations that come after them will feel if the first african slaves felt hatred towards their owners for the beating, raping of their women. of course its going to be a burden they will always follow. Been in jail in modern day time is the same way been caged up like an animal makes a person become unsatisfactory to engage society in anyway as for your mooching comment..... Guy read William coopers work and you will understand that WHITE America or WHITE elitist have made this habit or drug called welfare for these FAILED species. they cant go up the ladder of success even in school because its not part of the architects plan so the masons believe. so they live off w.e they can which unfortunately is robbing, dealing, pimping, etc.

Etznab - December 22, 2009 09:20 AM (GMT)

:D

Etznab - December 22, 2009 09:23 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Dec 4 2009, 03:22 PM)

A perfect example of how 75% of blacks think of themselves. They call themselves niggars whilst anyone else who does this is labelled a racist. Its pathetic and the lyrics are sickening. This says it all folks and by the way its really racialist! -Craig

[dohtml]<embed src="http://thatradio.podhoster.com/FlowPlayerLight.swf?config={embedded:true, videoFile:%27http://blip.tv/file/get/Craigoxley-AfricanisedMusicOfViolenceSexAndRacism600.mp3%27, initialScale:%27scale%27,controlBarBackgroundColor:%270x778899%27,autoBuffering:false,loop:false, autoPlay:false}" width="400" height="25" scale="fit" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" pluginspage="http://www.macromedia.com/go/getflashplayer"></embed>[/dohtml]

Download MP3 Direct HERE (Right Click, Save as)

niggas- they use that term is calling friend or homie...truthfully go to africa and see if you find any niggas out there you wont only in america. thats just the sad truth of that race been lied too.....

Etznab - December 22, 2009 09:34 AM (GMT)

Craig you seem to only look at mainstream type rap which is what brainwashes this present day society into the following things: getting money, demeaning women, looking fresh(trying to have the best and cleanest clothes), cool looking cars, and so on, which also teach women to only look at the material side of life. but thats MAINSTREAM which many true BLACK,WHITE,HISPANIC,ORIENTAL hip hop, rap, music enthusiast will always spit on the floor of any mainstream music lover. the following is true music, truth sayers, and revolutionary rappers. not that garbage you pulled out to make your point of how AFRICANISED the mind is....the point im making is that these kids see this in the media and them living in the hoods only way to make is thru dealing drugs, robbing, been the toughest guy in the street because face its a dog eat dog world out there its what has been set into motion for us the middle and poor class. we are to destroy ourselves while they attempt to destroy all religions, demean Christ and his teachings. and bring about the new cashless system of pagan one world religion based on a fascist, socialist, communist republic one world government, among others to be chipped and tracked so nothing gets out of hand again.

RAP- Retards Attempting poetry, because these retards couldn't fit into what society looks at a person and think they should be like, but they can sure tell a good damn story like their ancestors did before them.

Look for the song "close your eyes" by NyOll black man who speaks on social and economic issues thru rap

Sage Francis small Rhode island white townee who also uses hip hop but more of a straight edge approach towards social issues.

Hispanic/Negro male with a political science degree chose to educate the people of who they truly are instead of just been another thug rapping NIGGA is the correct term.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qggxTtnKTMo http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qggxTtnKTMo...player_embedded [dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/qggxTtnKTMo&hl=en_US&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/qggxTtnKTMo&hl=en_US&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

A white rapper by the name of diabolic(don't be scared by the name he shouts out the basic truth of the elite, remember the mind of society is to fragile to be exposed to Vatican/Jesuit control over the world.)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Z8QDxfFOUpk

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/Z8QDxfFOUpk&hl=en_US&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/Z8QDxfFOUpk&hl=en_US&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Same hispanic male speaking on revolution and the romanticizing of in America.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8150Xep93_M

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/8150Xep93_M&hl=en_US&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/8150Xep93_M&hl=en_US&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

This is what is considered underground rap/hiphop/spoken word the africanised mind comes from mainstream media, and social engineering. mainstream rappers are forced to say things like the above list because the wouldnt have a job or career to fall on like been on tv worshiped by children. the uneducated Negroes in America will follow because they are black maybe thats how blacks should another, former rapper by the name of professor griff spoke on this on a book he read that states give the population their heroes and they will follow. he also stated how illuminati uses hollywood as their pagan religion to further involve mainstream artist to mystery religions such as Freemason satanist jay-z and his black familia to further agendas.
As for superior brains comment, ima say that...its BULLSHIT no science can prove that. Orientals from a young age a forced into school and keeping their heads in the books with strict parents, just take a second in your superior brain of yours and think what that can do psychologically to a child. i've had a few Chinese kids come to my class to finish high school these kids are smart as hell i wont lie i give them that credit, a bit anti social, anti american, and when asked about his country he spoke with such respect of it but you can sense the fear of letting his country down he could never return...sound a little communist fear in there but i could be wrong whites aren't anymore superior then blacks cuz they brought blacks here for labor and when they thought it was time to let them go they forgot what are they going to do with them now. my father once said " You can get accepted into Harvard, Yale any of these great school and that proves you to be intelligent, But you stick your cock inside a women unprotected and whether you pull out or not and she still becomes pregnant, does that still prove that your intelligent"- Whites brought slaves to America to do manual labor against their will, then set them free and think that's the end of all their problems, since the civil war became such success for all Americans in the south and north....yea Craig i have a lot of respect for you and your work i really do honest mean that. i still have not found anyone who can speak on Jesuits and Vatican exposure like you and Eric and countless folks I've found here, But you might need to fine tune your social issues just a bit on this subject.

Etznab - December 22, 2009 09:53 AM (GMT)

QUOTE (craig-oxley @ Dec 4 2009, 03:33 PM)

[DOHTML]
<CENTER>[/DOHTML]

ARE YOU WORRIED ABOUT OUR

FUTURE SOCIETY YET?

DO YOU WANT YOUR CHILDREN

AROUND THESE TYPES OF BEINGS?

[DOHTML]
</CENTER>[/DOHTML]

Your kids and my future kids if i decide will always be exposed to them whether you like it or not. Unless you plan on keeping them indoors in your sights forever then hey will never learn to repel these types of influences on their own thus them becoming dependent on someone who does know.
society is turning in this [dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/T1cO-yoDiVk&hl=en_US&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/T1cO-yoDiVk&hl=en_US&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

and this
[dohtml]<object width="560" height="340"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/3S95Mh4-BX8&hl=en_US&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/3S95Mh4-BX8&hl=en_US&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="560" height="340"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

one of the worst mainstream rapper who's worshiped by many, in the beginning of the vid that car is bought by his satanic demon worshiping homo adoptive father birdman for his partner/homo GF Lil'Wayne(pic online of them both sharing a quick kiss) for hitting the 2 million mark on sales cd's. they hugged on the :24 mark [dohtml]<object width="560" height="340"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/eTF6N7EWzOA&hl=en_US&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/eTF6N7EWzOA&hl=en_US&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="560" height="340"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

this is his adoptive father with his brand new tattoo i feel like i was just slapped in the face by the mainstream music industry when they seem to openly allow this type of behavior. but as the days of Noah it shall be.... just listen to the lyrics and you will see the diffrence between the messege mainstream and the other videos i've put up on this post have to say. Music is the great communicator, whether to the soul, subconscious or whatever. It effects all of our lives.

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/TcDpeVewhuE&hl=en_US&fs=1&"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><param name="allowscriptaccess" value="always"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/TcDpeVewhuE&hl=en_US&fs=1&" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

This is what our children will be exposed to every time they tune in the radio, tun the tv on, visit youtube, friends, concerts, school, clubs, mall. these things are everywhere. Not the black people but what they have been MARKED with.

Etznab - December 22, 2009 10:02 AM (GMT)

;) sorry i posted it twice and idk how to delete....

golden_oil - December 22, 2009 10:32 AM (GMT)

I've had Chinese friends growing up, have been to China, just got back from a second trip to Hong Kong two weeks ago, and have been to Africa for a time so have had lots of opportunity to observe these peoples.

By comparison, the Chinese have a far superior in intellect, yet at the same time are humble, easier to reason with. I have found Africans have a basic problem with pride and self, and are unable to respond to reason.

Etznab - December 22, 2009 12:20 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (golden_oil @ Dec 22 2009, 10:32 AM)
>
> I've had Chinese friends growing up, have been to China, just got back from a second trip to Hong Kong two weeks ago, and have been to Africa for a time so have had lots of opportunity to observe these peoples.
>
> By comparison, the Chinese have a far superior in intellect, yet at the same time are humble, easier to reason with. I have found Africans have a basic problem with pride and self, and are unable to respond to reason.

if your going to compare intellect the Chinese seem to overlap all of course thats without a doubt. the Chinese government has worked very hard for that even if it means restricting some liberties. But look at the issue with Africa if the Brazilian Amzon is the lung of the Earth the Africa is the anus because they have been colonized by more white countries, warlords who seem to be back by unknown parties keep switching power between each other, its a 24 hour defcon 4 in there, with no end anytime soon, BLOOD diamonds ring any bells? more natural resources are found in Africa then anywhere in the world. yes Africans have a problem with pride, self, and reason but i wonder why :huh:, the american blacks are loud scandoulus with clothing, words, and behavior but i wonder why? you have to look at the situations each culture is in to understand the bigger picture of why they all seem to act like they do. now what part of Africa did you visit because there is a difference between going to the actual Africa where you witness families been slaughter on a daily basis in front of you because they refused to moved their huts for paramilitary forces, or refused to work in mines o any type of slave labor. and are forced to live in refugee camps with no food or clean water, and shelter. Or the africa colonized by wealthy businesses with stolen land midsized hotels and a nice run down street where you get a clean African booty for only 10 dollars.

Etznab - December 22, 2009 12:23 PM (GMT)

:blink:

snooze - December 23, 2009 03:47 AM (GMT)

Heres Tupac Im sure he knew of them but this was like 92

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VAmhM3ZMQEQ

Alexandra - January 16, 2010 10:25 PM (GMT)

They're the same in Africa as in America. I keep hearing reports of the crime rates going up where they've imported Somalis.

RTbar - March 9, 2010 01:07 AM (GMT)

lol...only white kids listen to "underground hip hop" thats who its marketed to

Red-09 - July 25, 2010 01:15 PM (GMT)

Just thought i'd put this in here for anyone under the impression that 100% of Africa's problems were made by the white man.

vid * click click *

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lower Race shows why they should stick to fires

Title: Lower Race shows why they should stick to fires
Description: and not use cookers [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 05:25 PM (GMT)

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/7G1y23J-lso?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/7G1y23J-lso?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

Alexandra - July 19, 2011 07:57 PM (GMT)

I thought it was going to be about their habit of using BBQ grills indoors.... :P

IloveJFKJr - July 21, 2011 07:56 AM (GMT)

hahaha how ridiculous. The planking stuff was getting out of hand, but it is funny.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Jamaican bride dumps new husband 20 MINUTES after

Title: Jamaican bride dumps new husband 20 MINUTES after Description: arriving in the UK... and guess who paid

TheUnhivedMind - July 21, 2011 02:17 AM (GMT)

Jamaican bride dumps new husband 20 MINUTES after arriving in the UK... and guess who paid for her £5k visa

Heartbroken charity worker believes she 'joined boyfriend with whom she planned scheme'
He paid £5,000 for her visa

Last updated at 12:50 PM on 19th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...20-MINUTES.html

A charity worker who spent £5,000 bringing his new Jamaican bride to the UK was left heartbroken after she abandoned him within 20 minutes of walking through his front door.

Johnny Gannon spent thousands arranging a visa for 24-year-old Patrice Chambers so they could live in marital bliss in his council flat in Perth, Scotland.

But as soon as Patrice arrived in Perth, she sent trusting Mr Gannon, 57, out to buy Pot Noodles. When he returned she grabbed her bags and told him she was going.

False pretences: Mr Gannon pictured with his new wife after their wedding in Jamaica

Within 20 minutes of arriving through his front door she had flagged down a car and caught a train. He found out she had also run up a £500 bill on his mobile phone.

Heartbroken Mr Gannon, who married Patrice in Jamaica early this year, believes his new wife fled to Bristol to meet a Jamaican boyfriend with whom she had organised the scheme.

He told the Daily Mirror: 'I was looking forward to spending the rest of my life with Patrice but I think she had planned all along to do this.

'My relationship with her wasn't something I'd done by mail order. I've known her for two years and it seemed very much like the real thing to me. She has used me and I feel humiliated.

'I had a vision of happiness laid out. I feel like a bit of a fool.'

Mr Gannon takes regular holidays in Jamaica and met Patrice there two years ago.

A friend set them up on a blind date but despite the 33-year age gap he fell in love with her after their first meeting in a romantic bar in the resort of Treasure Beach.

As the couple watched dophins playing in the water he believed he had found the girl of his dreams.

'She ran a little bar and I'd hang out with her there,' he said. 'She was intelligent and I myself thought she had the potential to be a great life partner.

'Of course I was pinching myself over how lucky I'd been to end up with such a beautiful young woman. But the relationship was getting better over time so I wasn't suspecting any kind of sting operation.'

He heard from a friend that she had a boyfriend back in the UK but when challenged she said it was in the past.

His love for her meant that he trusted her and he continued to see her on trips to Jamaica.

In fact, it was her who first brought up the subject of marriage and a ceremony was organised on one of his trips to the country.

He had paid for her dress and hair on the big day and when he returned to Scotland worked on getting a visa for her.

In the end he sent her £700 for paperwork in Jamaica and even more money when she said it had been stolen.

This year alone he has spent more than £4,000 on her.

Friends met the couple off the plane and they flew to Edinburgh to start their new life together but she told him she didn't want to be with him and when he returned from shopping for her he took her to the railway station.

He has reported her to police and plans to contact the UK Border Agency and now he is considering how he will tell his mother.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Housing official at Lambeth 'squatted in my flat

Title: Housing official at Lambeth 'squatted in my flat
Description: and trashed it'

TheUnhivedMind - July 17, 2011 11:12 PM (GMT)

Housing official at Lambeth 'squatted in my flat and trashed it'

Mark Blunden and Miranda Bryant http://www.thisislondon.co.uk/standard/art...d-trashed-it.do
15 Jul 2011

A woman told today of her "10 months of hell" trying to evict squatters after her home was taken over by a council housing officer and her partner.

Naomi Koningen rented out her garden flat during a working trip to New York but when she returned her tenants refused to let her back in.

She claims they owe her £6,000 in unpaid rent and have trashed the property in Streatham by smashing windows, changing locks, and spraying paint on walls, as well as leaving bills unpaid.

Ms Koningen says being locked out of the two-bedroom flat has left her sleeping on friends' sofas, and the unpaid rent means she cannot afford to travel home to Australia to visit her 63-year-old mother, who was recently diagnosed with breast cancer.

She suspects the couple- Lambeth housing officer Venetia Bailey and Ernest Henderson, also a former Lambeth employee - are using their legal expertise and knowledge of squatting laws to drag out the case.

The singer-songwriter said: "It's been 10 months of hell. I have sleepless nights most nights and if I wasn't blonde I'd have a full head of grey hair through the stress.

"They are tenants who went bad and are now squatting in my home. They've trashed my beautiful apartment and some mornings are so difficult that I'm in tears.

"My mum today just came out of hospital and I just want to be back there for the chemotherapy but I can't afford the flight."

Ms Koningen, who is in her thirties, let out the Victorian flat in Angles Road in September. The tenants were supposed to be paying £1,130 a month in rent direct to her after finding the property through agency Townends.

Ms Koningen served the couple an eviction notice in January over the alleged rents arrears and damage. She now intends to pursue the case through the courts. She has also set up a website detailing the dispute, at iwantmyhomeback.tumblr.com

When Ms Bailey was confronted by ITV London Tonight, she claimed Ms Koningen had "reneged on her contractual agreement" by not maintaining the property, specifically the boiler and central heating.

Ms Bailey's daughter, who asked not to be named, said: "There was a lot of damage already there when they moved in. My mother is a respectable woman and certainly didn't trash the place." As well as the boiler and central heating, she claimed there was damage to the kitchen door and the oven was broken, which they replaced at their own expense.

A spokeswoman for Lambeth Living, which manages the council's housing stock, confirmed Ms Bailey works for them and that Mr Henderson is a former employee. She said: "This is a private matter between two individuals. However, we demand the highest standards of our staff." She added that the case was being "thoroughly investigated".

Ms Bailey was due back at work at North Lambeth area housing office in Kennington today. She did not return requests for comment, but told London Tonight they would leave Angles Road in a week.

It comes days after squatters were evicted from a block of 21 Lambeth council flats in Brixton that had been occupied for more than a decade.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: African Jig kills white woman and wounds 2 others

Title: African Jig kills white woman and wounds 2 others Description: welcome to Apelanta Georgia USA !

Ken Ardel - July 17, 2011 06:43 PM (GMT)

http://www.myfoxatlanta.com/dpp/news/local...-20110715-pm-sd

One woman dead, two others injured

Updated: Friday, 15 Jul 2011, 11:11 PM EDT
Published : Friday, 15 Jul 2011, 12:51 PM EDT

ATLANTA, Ga. - Atlanta police have made an arrest in a triple shooting in a midtown parking garage on Friday that left one woman dead and two others injured. Investigators say 22-year-old Nkosi Thandiwe is charged with murder and two counts of aggravated assault in the lunchtime shooting.

Investigators believe Thandiwe targeted 26-year-old Brittany Watts inside a parking deck at Crescent Avenue and 14th Street, and the two injured women may have been innocent bystanders. They say Thandiwe turned himself in on Friday evening after consulting an attorney.

It happened around noon when police say Thandiwe, dressed in business clothes and driving a Toyota Prius, may have waited for Watts on the third floor of the parking deck. Meanwhile, office workers spilled out of surrounding buildings for their lunch hour.

Many witnesses told FOX 5 they heard shots being fired, but didn't know where the noise was coming from.

Police say the suspect shot Watts inside the garage, and then fled the scene. The other two women were shot outside the garage. Both women were taken to Grady Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Police said Friday afternoon that Thandiwe worked as a security guard in the building across from the parking garage. The company that employed him, AlliedBarton Security Services, released the following statement about the shootings:

"AlliedBarton Security Services extends our most heartfelt sympathy and prayers for the victims and their families involved in this tragic incident. We are providing our full support and cooperation to the Atlanta Police Department.

We are shocked and saddened that one of our employees has been implicated in this incident.

Facts are still being developed because this is an active police investigation. We can confirm the man arrested was employed with us a little less than a year. AlliedBarton conducted a thorough background screening, which included a fingerprint analysis, under the Georgia Bureau of Investigation's strict security personnel clearance requirements. His pre-employment background check revealed no prior incidents."

Officers did not release the names of the injured victims, but the company the two women worked for issued a statement Friday evening that revealed they are Lauren Garcia, a 23-year-old intern, and Tiffany Ferenczy, a 24-year-old assistant account executive.

Meanwhile, Ferentzy's grandmother said two women were walking to lunch when they heard shots being fired. Carol Smith says Ferentzy did not immediately know she had been shot, and ran to take cover behind a car when she discovered she had been hit in the leg.

MSL Group, where the two injured women work, issued the following statement about the incident on Friday evening:

"At noon today, two of our Atlanta employees were wounded in a senseless shooting outside our office in Midtown Atlanta. The rest of our employees are 100% accounted for and safe.

Both our employees, Lauren Garcia, a 23-year-old intern and Tiffany Ferenczy, a 24-year-old assistant account executive were taken immediately to Grady Memorial Hospital's trauma unit. Their families have been notified and were joined at Grady by MSL Atlanta senior leadership. At this time, we don't know the extent of their injuries, but thankfully we know that they are both alive and in stable condition. We are cooperating with the Atlanta Police Department in their investigation.

This situation is unimaginable, but we remain positive and our thoughts and prayers are with our Atlanta colleagues, their families and our staff."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: LOWER RACES GO CRAZY FOR HOUSING VOUCHERS

Title: LOWER RACES GO CRAZY FOR HOUSING VOUCHERS
Description: [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 11:52 PM (GMT)

[DOHTML]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/37J8uYEZHJY?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/37J8uYEZHJY?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/DOHTML]

Alexandra - July 17, 2011 04:12 AM (GMT)

Kind of looks like Black Friday at Walmart.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Photographer mugged by negroes

Title: Photographer mugged by negroes
Description: don't let your guard down near savages

Ken Ardel - July 16, 2011 07:22 PM (GMT)

http://www.mercurynews.com/breaking-news/ci_18486328

At this point, Larry Houser cares only about replacing his stolen cameras and equipment. That and getting back the use of two fingers on his left hand.
The freelance photographer is supposed to shoot a dream wedding at an 18th-century adobe church in Taos, N.M., on July 29. To be denied that chance, he said, "would be the biggest crime of all."
The Lafayette resident said he really isn't too concerned about police catching the four men who robbed him in broad daylight at the Emeryville Marina last month.
"That would be gravy," he said. "Don't get me wrong. It would be great to see some divine action occur and see them brought to justice. "... But this whole situation has been really, really humbling. I'm not happy it happened, but I'm grateful for what's taken place since it happened."
What happened June 3, Houser and police said, is that the 42-year-old went to Marina Park to shoot photos of Sumer Morenz, an aspiring model and actress from Alameda. Two others attended the photo shoot, which began at Marina Park and was interrupted when two men briefly stopped to observe the proceedings.
After the men left, the group moved to the Emeryville Marina. As the shoot began, Houser spotted the same two men and two others approaching.
One pulled a gun and two others attacked Houser, ripping his camera equipment from his hand, tearing the tendons in two fingers that required surgery to reattach. A fourth man drove a getaway car during the brazen early afternoon assault.

"It was very bold to do it then. That's one of the scariest things about it," Houser said.

"You know, they basically won. They were organized, they knew what they wanted, and they got it from us."
Emeryville police Detective Jason Krimsky said such organized targeting of victims is rare and it was likely that Houser and Morenz simply were in the wrong place at the wrong time.
"They needed money, probably for drugs," he said. "But this wasn't an organized gang crime."
After the theft, Morenz and her brother created a website called www.camerasforlarry.com, and visitors have donated more than $3,200 toward the $5,000 he needs to replace his equipment.

That gesture, Houser said, was just as significant to his healing as the hand surgery he underwent June 17. He has even regained some movement in his fingers.
In the initial aftermath of his mugging, Houser said he was ready to sell his remaining camera equipment and bid farewell to that hobby. But the online support, he said, left him feeling he still may shoot his friends' New Mexico wedding after all.
As for the investigation, Krimsky continues to follow leads. He said all four suspects are between 16 and 20 years old, two are about 6 feet tall and thin, and the other two are between 5-foot-5 and 5-foot-7, and between 130-140 pounds. All four suspects are African-American.
While there are few leads, Houser said the events have changed his life.
"It's brought back the faith I have that most people are good," Houser said. "It's like a greater good is happening. "... The only word I keep coming back to is 'humbling.' I'm just very humbled by all of it."

Contact Rick Hurd at 925-945-4780.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lower Race destruction at Denny's [Vd]

Title: Lower Race destruction at Denny's [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - July 16, 2011 02:26 AM (GMT)

[dohtml]<embed width="485" height="385" quality="high" bgcolor="#000000" name="main" id="main" allowscriptaccess="always" allowfullscreen="true" src="http://video.godlikeproductions.com/modules/vPlayer/vPlayer.swf?f=http://video.godlikeproductions.com/modules/vPlayer/vPlayercfg.php?fid=96c4b069593c5adc6e9" type="application/x-shockwave-flash"/></embed>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lower Race Lee claims the debt ceiling problems is Title: Lower Race Lee claims the debt ceiling problems is Description: because Obama is a half Lower race [BLAH

TheUnhivedMind - July 16, 2011 02:13 AM (GMT)

Jackson Lee: Congress complicating debt ceiling because Obama is black

By Josiah Ryan - 07/15/11 03:02 PM ET http://thehill.com/blogs/floor-action/hous...-obama-is-black

Rep. Sheila Jackson Lee (D-Texas) on Friday strongly suggested that members of Congress are making it difficult for President Obama to raise the debt ceiling because of his race.

"I do not understand what I think is the maligning and maliciousness [toward] this president," said Jackson Lee, a member of the Congressional Black Caucus. "Why is he different? And in my community, that is the question that we raise. In the minority community that is question that is being raised. Why is this president being treated so disrespectfully? Why has the debt limit been raised 60 times? Why did the leader of the Senate continually talk about his job is to bring the president down to make sure he is unelected?"

Earlier in her speech, Jackson Lee said Obama has been targeted unlike any other president.

"I am particularly sensitive to the fact that only this president — only this one, only this one — has received the kind of attacks and disagreement and inability to work, only this one," said Jackson Lee from the House floor.

"Read between the lines," she continued. "What is different about this president that should put him in a position that he should not receive the same kind of respectful treatment of when it is necessary to raise the debt limit in order to pay our bills, something required by both statute and the 14th amendment?"

Jackson Lee concluded by saying that she hoped someone would step up and say that what appears obvious to her is not in fact true.

"I hope someone will say that what it appears to be is not in fact accurate," said Lee. "But historically it seems to be nothing more."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Hispanic births overtake immigration in U.S.

Title: Hispanic births overtake immigration in U.S.
Description: [BULL OF BORGIA]

TheUnhivedMind - July 16, 2011 12:33 AM (GMT)

Hispanic births overtake immigration in U.S.

By Tim Gaynor | Reuters – Thu, Jul 14, 2011
http://news.yahoo.com/hispanic-births-over...-164815518.html

PHOENIX (Reuters) - For the first time births have overtaken immigration as the main driver of dynamic growth in the U.S. Hispanic population, according to a new study released on Thursday

The Pew Hispanic Center survey found the new trend especially evident among Mexican-Americans, who account for almost two thirds of the U.S. Latino population.

The study, which drew on U.S. Census Bureau data and other government sources, noted the Mexican-American population grew by 7.2 million as a result of births in the decade to 2010, while new immigrants added 4.2 million people.

"For Mexican-Americans, births were more important for their population growth during the decade than immigration," said Mark Lopez, an associate director of the Pew Hispanic Center and a co-author of the report.

"That's actually a departure from what we saw in the previous two decades," he added.

The study found growth in the Mexican-American population in the 1990s was split equally between births and new immigration, which each added 4.7 million people.

A decade earlier in the 1980s, by contrast, the Mexican-American population gained 3.1 million people through new immigration, while births added another 2.7 million.

The study found the surge in births among Mexican-Americans was largely down to the immigration wave that has brought more than 10 million immigrants to the United States from Mexico since 1970.

Hispanics are the largest and fastest growing minority in the United States, totaling 50.5 million in 2010, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. Mexican-Americans comprised 63 percent of that total.

A previous Census Bureau projection forecast ethnic and racial minorities in the United States to become the majority by 2050, by which time nearly one in three U.S. residents will be Latino.

(Reporting by Tim Gaynor; Editing by Jerry Norton)

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Minority Feelings and Violent Facts

Title: Minority Feelings and Violent Facts

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 05:03 PM (GMT)

Minority Feelings and Violent Facts

By John T. Bennett
July 8, 2011
http://www.americanthinker.com/2011/07/orw...l_violence.html

What is the most important thing about mobs of black teens attacking and seriously injuring innocent pedestrians and businesses? The feelings of teenagers who share the race of the attackers, according to Chicago's local CBS affiliate.

That's right: Mobs of teenagers have unleashed terror in the streets of Chicago and other cities in "flash mobs," and the best thing CBS in Chicago has to say about that is that black teenagers are worried about racial profiling.

George Orwell would shudder after reading this headline: "Some Worry Mob Attacks Are Encouraging Racial Profiling." In the story, a journalist interviews young black teens hanging out at North Avenue Beach, the scene of one of the mob attacks. We learn that some in this group "feel targeted as potential troublemakers because of recent attack mobs in the city." No one is alleging that profiling has occurred as a result of the flash mobs, just that it might, and that possibility bothers some teenagers. That's the subject matter of an entire news story in our post-racial America.

The subjective opinions of black teens matter as much as those of all other teens. But do those feelings matter enough to warrant a news story? Compare the triviality of that story with the full scope of flash mob attacks in Chicago:

In early June, witnesses reported that "gangbangers" were pushing people off their bikes at a Chicago beach. One witness told NBC local that "[t]hey were being rude and abusive and throwing trash around and defecating" and beating people. Also, in just one weekend in early June, twelve attacks involving large groups of "young men" were reported. These attacks in the normally placid North Side gained attention. The chosen victims: a 68-year-old white doctor, a 34-year-old white insurance salesman, a Thai man, a Filipino nursing student, and a 42-year-old Japanese doctor. All were either beaten, robbed, or both. Those arrested: three young black men, a fact we only know because of mugshots since it is the official policy of the Chicago Tribune to censor the race of criminal mobs in its journalism, if not its commentary section.

These attacks might just seem like fun and games, but now some of the attackers are armed. In two incidents the first weekend in June, 8 to 15 teens boarded a bus without paying and "began hitting people," according to the Chicago Tribune. Three of those teens are charged with armed robbery, one with unlawful use of a weapon. A week later, a boy with no race was attacked by "a group of seven male teens," all "black," according to news reports, and one with a handgun.

There were also flash mob robberies in January 2011 when mobs of teens raided and robbed at least three stores. In February, Loyola University Chicago warned students and staff about "flash mob offenders" stealing from retail stores near campus. In April 2011, a group of 70 "youths" invaded a McDonald's and "created a disturbance" according to a news report. So there is a troubling trend towards mob violence perpetrated by black teens. Despite all of this, of all the topics CBS Chicago could have chosen, they chose to ruminate about the feelings of young black teens.

The problem with the CBS story is that there will be no corresponding story about victims' feelings. There certainly will be no similar story about the subjective opinions of non-blacks regarding predominantly black mobs. It's not just that there is a double standard; it's that there is a suffocating level of deception involved in these news stories.

How did we reach the point where the only group whose feelings need to be consulted are minorities? Liberalism. Part of liberalism is the notion that minorities need special help, attention, and heightened sensitivity. Along with that, liberalism promotes white guilt and the peculiar desire to "help people" at any cost. The result is that the media gives credence and coverage to mere feelings when real people are being attacked. Of course, the worse the violence gets, the more sensitive we'll have to be. The flash mobs and mob attacks will require the utmost sensitivity from us, as they are only going to increase. They've already occurred in Atlanta, Kansas City, Boston, Nashville, Charlotte, St. Paul, Minnesota, Washington, D.C., Las Vegas, Columbia, South Carolina, and even in Iowa on what was called "beat whitey night ."

We face the nightmarish reality of low-level ethnic conflict. If these violent mob attacks worsen, they will be a precursor to severe racial tension. These flash mobs already constitute the worst acts of racist violence in recent American history. Now, how do we go from that reality to a story about black teens' feelings? The answer is that society has twisted priorities about race and social responsibility. Given the white guilt saturation that young people receive in our educational system, it's easy to see why the media would give such frivolous treatment to flash mobs. One of the great successes of modern liberalism is that it has constrained our public debate about racial issues. A sheep-like media, craven politicians, and thoughtless academics have all failed in their duty to grapple with this social problem. With enough layers of guilt piled upon us, we can't even see the problem staring us in the face. The media is creating an atmosphere of passive ignorance towards racial violence, and that ignorance places all of us at risk.

If there was this level of racial tension and violence in a situation where the races were reversed, there would be a nationwide clamor for healing, compensation, and awareness. Instead, we're treated to sappy stories about teenagers' feelings. "Some Worry Mob Attacks Are Encouraging Racial Profiling," says the news. One waits for the article entitled "Some Worry Mob Attacks Are Encouraging Anti-white Violence."

John Bennett (MA, University of Chicago, MAPSS '07) is a veteran, writer, and law student at Emory University living in Atlanta, GA.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Knockout Game: Racial Violence and the Title: The Knockout Game: Racial Violence and the Description: Conspicuous Silence of the Media

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 05:02 PM (GMT)

The Knockout Game: Racial Violence and the Conspicuous Silence of the Media

By John T. Bennett
July 14, 2011
http://www.americanthinker.com/printpage/?..._the_media.html

By now, almost everyone has seen one of the semi-amusing videos of black teen mobs rampaging through a store. Maybe we've even seen the non-amusing pictures of the victims, or heard their stories. Most Americans have heard of recent violent "flash mobs," which are the bands of black teens that attack mostly white victims and white businesses, as even the New York Times once noted.

But the flash mobs, which are more accurately called "race riots" or "racial mob violence," are not the only interesting topic to cover in our national conversation about race. There is also the "knockout game," which is stunning in its brutal simplicity and stark racial significance.

The knockout game involves "unprovoked attacks on innocent bystanders," according to police who have had to deal with it. A retired officer explained, "Normally it was a group of black males, one of which would strike him as hard as he could in the face, attempting to knock him out with one punch," says retired Sgt. Don Pizzo. The victims are typically not robbed, but simply punched with no provocation. Such attacks have been reported in Illinois, Massachusetts, Missouri, and New Jersey.

The knockout game has claimed at least one life so far. In St. Louis this year, 72-year old Hoang Nguyen was walking with his wife, Yen, when four "young people" attacked. The attacker pushed the old man's face to the side to make a "clear target for his fist," recalled his wife. Nguyen was punched so hard that he fell to the ground and struck his head. Then the attacker turned on Nguyen's 59-year-old wife, punching her so hard that she suffered a broken eye socket. She could only watch as her husband was then kicked repeatedly. Hoang succumbed to his injuries later that day. A young black male, 18-year-old Elex Murphy, is charged with first-degree murder.

In addition, a mob of young black males can be seen playing the game here. The video shows the group attacking a young white man named Adam Taylor, who was left with internal bleeding, bruising of the brain, severe whiplash, and scratches on his face when he was beaten in Columbia, MO in 2009.

Sgt. Pizzo noted that the attacks fit a pattern: "black attackers on a white victim -- and the victim was often an older person walking alone." In a thorough and sensible piece on the subject in a local arts and entertainment magazine, eight of the victims interviewed were white, one was black, and one was Latino. All of the attackers, or "players," were black. Some witnesses claim that they have white relatives who play the game and that therefore the game is not a racial issue. But anyone who reviews the reporting -- when race is revealed, at least -- will see that the attackers are predominantly if not exclusively black.

As one player of the game says, "[w]e used to walk to where a lot of people be at and hit 'em. If one of the homeboys didn't knock him out, then the other would come. Whoever knock him out would be king."

Local media outlets have failed to report on the racial aspect of the attacks. At best, the media will allow the race of attackers to be revealed by mugshots, or quotations from police or victims. This follows a conscious policy of self-censorship that has been openly admitted by major newspapers.

A New York Times editor says that his paper will report on race "only if it's relevant to the story" or if readers would "learn something" from the description. The Chicago Tribune's editor, Gerould Kern, explains his paper's "approach" to concealing the truth: "We do not reference race unless it is a fact that is central to telling the story." Of course, no guilt-ridden white liberal editor will ever admit that race is relevant, unless of course a white is attacking minorities. The Los Angeles Times explains that the media will not report race because they don't want to "unfairly stigmatize racial groups." The Washington Post ombudsman openly admits that the Times's staff "worried about hyping a story that involved race" when blacks brawled on the Metro. Instead of stigmatizing racial groups, the liberal media prefers to condemn minorities via low expectations and preferential, secretive reporting -- which only creates a cloud of ominous suspicion over the race issue. But at least racial groups aren't being stigmatized.

A senior reporter from the Houston Chronicle admits, "We don't ever include race normally -- unless race is made an issue by other people." In other words, if racial interest groups make something of the issue, race will become part of the story. And we all know which racial groups advocate on their own behalf, and which one doesn't.

The liberal media policy of resolute silence about race and crime may strike a reasonable observer as troubling, given the violence and obvious racial aspect of the knockout game and flash mob attacks. The net effect of this Orwellian reporting is to place minority feelings above the public interest in safety. For those of us who are curious about our society and group behavior, who should be able to rely on the professional media, the reporting is worthless.

When the liberal media does touch on the topic of race and flash mobs, it is only to condemn conservative blogs for mentioning race at all. The Village Voice, for instance, thoughtlessly dismisses the concerns about racial mob violence, reasoning that because crime is falling, racial mob violence shouldn't be criticized. The progressive tendency will be to define these stories as isolated incidents -- it is easy extrapolate a social problem, but that could be misleading in the big picture.

But the knockout game must be seen in the context of black-on-white violence in America. The big picture is that black-on-white violence is a social problem that deserves more attention, regardless of whether the overall crime rate is rising or falling. Department of Justice statistics show that 33% of white murder victims are killed by a non-white, while only 8% of black murder victims are killed by a non-black1. Even greater disparities exist in violent crime and robbery2.

Some of those who work with these kids blame boredom and the kids' need to prove their toughness. Those causes will be present for a long time, thus the problem will remain. Moreover, the problem will predictably get worse, as some of the mobs are armed.

Hoang Nguyen will not receive the same attention as Matthew Shepard and James Byrd, Jr. After all, Hoang was not the victim of white hatred, so he is not a household name...but he should be.

Notes

1Violent State Prisoners and Their Victims, Department of Justice Bureau of Justice Statistics 5, July 1990 quoted in James B. Jacobs and Kimberly Potter, Hate Crimes: Criminal Law and Identity Politics 17 (1998).

2Ibid., 17.

John Bennett (MA, University of Chicago, MAPSS '07) is a veteran, writer, and law student at Emory University living in Atlanta, GA.

Page Printed from: http://www.americanthinker.com/articles/..... _the_media.html at July 15, 2011 - 11:33:28 AM CDT

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: More lower races rob mobs Dallas style

Title: More lower races rob mobs Dallas style

Ken Ardel - July 13, 2011 10:04 PM (GMT)

http://www.wfaa.com/news/crime/Mob-rushes-...-125191254.html

by JASON WHITELY

DALLAS - The upkeep and cleanliness of Sam Farah's convenience store could rival any in North Dallas.
"You don't think this store is in Oak Cliff," Farah said proudly of his investment.
But, crime is crippling his investment in the 3000 block of East Illinois Ave.
"Shoplifting is killing me," Farah added. "Shoplifting is killing me."
He said it costs him about $3,000 a month.
With 16 surveillance cameras inside and out, he has the video to prove it. Last week, a mob of people descended on his store all at once after midnight .
"They start trashing the store [and] eating," Farah said while watching surveillance video of the incident. "It's like they're robbing the store."
While several paid, the rest ate, drink and stole before police could get there, Farah said.
"We had to clean up for two hours," he said. "Plus, merchandise is gone. A bunch of merchandise is gone."
Farah estimated he lost up to $500 that night.
Shoplifting is common. Farah shared one clip from earlier this year that showed a man stealing a package of incense from a stand by the front door then running through the parking lot.
Customers have also attacked employees, according to video reviewed by News 8.
Plus, cashiers are seeing more counterfeit money. Someone passed a $100 bill recently that had a watermark of Abraham Lincoln, meaning it's really a $5 bill.
But someone apparently bleached Abe away and reprinted it with Ben Franklin and $100 markings.

Part of Farah's problem, officers said, is that three large apartment complexes are nearby his store.
Dallas police said officers have responded to 26 calls for help from his store this year, most coming within the last month for crimes like shoplifting, disorderly conduct and even aggravated assault.
DPD has made seven arrests. But, Farah wants zero tolerance and even posted a "Wall of Shame" outside his store that shows crooks his cameras caught.
"I worked hard," Farah explained. "I worked very hard to cut down on these crimes. I want somebody else to work with me."
Farah is spending money to build a restaurant, barber shop and cell phone store next door. He said he can't afford to hire off-duty police now, and short of keeping customers out or closing at dusk, he's beginning to wonder whether it's really worth investing in south Oak Cliff.
On Sunday, another store owner was murdered across the street from Farah's property. Police arrested one suspect and are still looking for two others.
Despite problems at Farah's store, Dallas police said crime in this part of town is declining. The rate is down 4 percent this year compared to last.
Overall, since Dallas police opened the South Central Station in 2007, a lieutenant said crime is down 38 percent.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lower races attack 5 Dubliners in an orgy of Title: Lower races attack 5 Dubliners in an orgy of Description: violence

Ken Ardel - July 12, 2011 06:38 PM (GMT)

http://www.herald.ie/national-news/city-ne...ce-2815510.html

'Race hate' gang in Temple Bar orgy of violence

Ray Cullen
VIOLENCE IN CITY: Rampage in Temple Bar area

Thursday July 07 2011

A MOB went on a wave of random race violence on Temple Bar, which left five Dubliners with horrific injuries.

One man -- a Dublin DJ -- was almost killed in the attack as he suffered serious head injuries when he was set upon by the gang.

The level of violence has shocked gardai and the many witnesses to the race hate orgy -- believed to be the first of its kind in the city.

One member of the African gang was arrested today in pre-dawn raids by detectives across the capital.

Five Dubliners, all aged in their 20s, were left with horrific injuries in the October 2010 attacks, which have only come to light now.

Shocked

The gang -- all aged in their late teens -- savagely attacked six Irish people in the Temple Bar area of the capital in the early hours of October 10 last.

The gang, who are heavily involved in other street robberies and beatings, are all expected to appear in court.

Sources say that even seasoned detectives were left "horrified and shocked" by the extreme level of violence used in the attacks which occurred in the Eustace Street and Curved Street areas of Temple Bar at around 3.30am on the date in question.

A senior source explained: "We believe that what happened on the night was motivated by racism -- that is racism against white people.

"When the suspects were first questioned they tried to use racism as a defence -- they tried to say that they had been racially abused by the victims for being black.

"But absolutely no evidence of that was ever uncovered and gardai are satisfied that the culprits were not racially abused."

Dozens of people witnessed the shocking chain of events which started when two young men and a woman were randomly attacked at Eustace Street.

In the space of less than three minutes, five people were left with terrible injuries as bottles, punches and kicks were used to hurt the victims.

In the most serious incident, a DJ who was standing on Curved Street was set-upon and almost killed by the gang of thugs.

A source explained: "The DJ was standing outside a premises while other assaults were going on around him. His DJ bag -- with records in it -- was on the ground beside him.

"One of the gang picked up the DJ's bag and ran off, with the victim running after him. Then the attacker turned around and punched the victim, knocking him unconscious.

"When the DJ hit the floor, the culprit stamped on the man's head in what was a ferocious display of violence.

"This victim is very lucky to be alive -- the entire left side of his head was broken because of that stamping incident. The victim ended up having to have a metal plate inserted into his head -- if this did not happen he would have lost his eyesight."

Sources have revealed that another victim suffered a fractured skull in an incident in which gardai believe a glass bottle was used.

The gang are now expected to face a huge number of charges, including multiple serious assault charges, violent disorder, theft and production of an offensive weapon.

Trafficking

The arrest was made this morning after a massive investigation by detectives from Pearse Street Garda Station.

Other suspects were being hunted today.

The mother of one of the suspects has a conviction and served jail time for trafficking children into France from Nigeria.

The gang is suspected of being involved in other street assaults and have links to a criminal who was involved in robbing head shops and has been convicted of hijacking a Dublin taxi.

hnews@herald.ie

- Ken Foy

Alexandra - July 12, 2011 10:29 PM (GMT)

Sounds like flash mobs aren't just an American problem!

Ken Ardel - July 12, 2011 11:09 PM (GMT)

The Irish should turf out these Jesuit sponsored africans out of their island before they multiply and spread and poison that whole nation with their typical Negro Problem ™.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Bicycle gang hunted over teenage boy's knife

Title: Bicycle gang hunted over teenage boy's knife
Description: murder

TheUnhivedMind - July 12, 2011 05:32 PM (GMT)

Bicycle gang hunted over teenage boy's knife murder

Justin Davenport and Rob Parsons
12 Jul 2011
http://www.thisislondon.co.uk/standard/art...knife-murder.do

Detectives investigating the murder of a teenager stabbed to death in a row over a BlackBerry phone have issued a £20,000 reward in a bid to arrest a gang of killers.

Police are hunting a group of masked youths on bicycles in connection with the attack on 15-year-old Negus McClean in Edmonton.

The teenager was attacked by a mob armed with knives and a metal bar as he tried to protect his 13-year-old brother, Elijah.

The pair were chased after they went out for a takeway on a Sunday night in April. Negus suffered stab wounds to his chest and leg and collapsed as his brother wept at his side. He died later in hospital.

Local residents claim Edmonton has been overrun by teenage gangs.

Negus's sister Candice and his mother Ingrid made a new appeal today for help from the public in solving the murder. Detectives say they are hunting about seven young black men who chased Negus. They have released a CCTV image of the youths on bicycles shortly before the attack.

One suspect is believed to have been wearing a dark-coloured, possibly black, hooded jumper with a large "Franklin and Marshall" logo on the front.

Detective Chief Inspector Stephen Clayman, who is leading the inquiry, said: "People may think that incidents such as Negus's murder are not their problem but they have a devastating effect on family, friends and the community as a whole.

"If you know something, no matter how insignificant it may seem, please don't hold this back. I would urge anyone with information about the murder of Negus McClean to come forward and speak to my team."

So far 12 people have been arrested including two 14-year-old boys. Details of the £20,000 reward will be released tonight.

Anyone with information should call 020 8345 3775 or ring Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Third World London

Title: Third World London
Description: [WHITES MUST DESERT WHILST YOU CAN]

TheUnhivedMind - July 12, 2011 05:31 PM (GMT)

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lower race flash rob mob [Vd]

The Unhived Mind Ii > The Lower Races > Lower race flash rob mob [Vd]

Title: Lower race flash rob mob [Vd]

Ken Ardel - July 11, 2011 11:15 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9u_07qTuqNY

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/9u_07qTuqNY?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/9u_07qTuqNY?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Head's killer 'robbed man in respect row'

Title: Head's killer 'robbed man in respect row'

TheUnhivedMind - July 11, 2011 06:24 PM (GMT)

Head's killer 'robbed man in respect row'

11 Jul 2011

Paul Cheston, Courts Correspondent
http://www.thisislondon.co.uk/standard/art...-respect-row.do

The man who killed headmaster Philip Lawrence bragged about the murder as he robbed a victim a few months after his release from prison, a court heard today.

Learco Chindamo asked "Do you know who I am?" then demanded compensation for "disrespect" when his victim failed to recognise him as the killer.

Chindamo used his notoriety from the murder in 1995 as a "badge of honour", the jury was told.
He had laid in wait for robbery victims by a cash machine in Camden with two friends - one of whom, Gregory Jananto, was convicted of intimidating a witness in the Lawrence trial.

Oliver Glasgow, prosecuting, told the court Mr Sexton had been aware of three men hanging around near the cashpoint machine so he only withdrew £20.

"One of the three men, Chindamo, asked if he knew who he was," said the prosecutor.

"Mr Sexton had no idea at the time but Chindamo was quick to point out he had been responsible for the murder of Philip Lawrence, the headmaster in Maida Vale, and he demanded compensation from Mr Sexton for disrespecting him."

Mr Glasgow added: "Chindamo appeared to regard his murder conviction as a badge of honour and had tried to use this previous conviction as a means of frightening Mr Sexton."

Mr Sexton's friend Seamus Delahunty recognised Chindamo as the killer of Mr Lawrence after seeing the recent publicity of his release from prison a few months earlier.

"He told Chindamo he knew who he was but Chindamo rounded on him and said: 'What do you mean, you don't know me, you know nothing about me."

Said Mr Glasgow: "In a chilling warning to Mr Sexton Chindamo turned towards his friend Jananto and said: 'This is my guy, from the day he stabbed up my witness from last time.'

"It was clearly a reference to Jananto's conviction for witness intimidation which had arisen when Jananto and others had sought to interfere in the prosecution of Chindamo for the murder of Mr Lawrence by trying to intimidate one of the key witnesses from testifying.

"Not only was Chindamo proud of what he had done in the past it seems he was similarly impressed with what his friend Jananto had done."

Surrounded by three intimidating figures Mr Sexton handed over the £20 he had just withdrawn and the three men walked off, the court heard.

The whole incident was captured on CCTV and Chindamo was arrested 10 days later.

When interviewed he handed detectives a prepared statement admitting he had been by the cashpoint machine but claiming Mr Sexton had shouted "killer" at him.

The court heard that Chindamo claimed he had "lectured (Mr Sexton) on why I was not proud of what I had done".

He denied using any threats or demanding any money.

Jananto also denied using threats but admitted his behaviour had been "not very appropriate".

He claimed Chindamo was often recognised in the street but had never reacted to any taunts.

Jananto had brandished a bottle as the trio threatened 20-year-old David Sexton outside a supermarket in Chalk Farm Road last November - four months after Chindamo had been released from his life sentence for killing Mr Lawrence.

Chindamo, 30, of Catford, Jananto, 32, of Shepherd's Bush and Saeed Akhtar, 32, of Camden, have all pleaded not guilty to robbery. The case continues.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Retarded lower race rapes woman twice

The Unhived Mind Ii > The Lower Races > Retarded lower race rapes woman twice

Title: Retarded lower race rapes woman twice

TheUnhivedMind - July 8, 2011 05:21 PM (GMT)

Man guilty of raping same woman twice 'is retarded'

Paul Cheston, Courts Correspondent
8 Jul 2011
http://www.thisislondon.co.uk/standard/art...be-sentenced.do

A man who raped a stranger on two occasions has been remanded for psychiatric assessment.
Onile Huggins, 20, is mentally retarded, the Old Bailey heard today.

He was convicted of two counts of rape. He attacked the 22-year-old woman in April last year in Stockwell as she made her way home at midnight.She did not report it to police but three months later he attacked her again after spotting her in the same area. She recognised him as the man who had raped her previously.

After her ordeal, the woman fled and reported the rapes to the police. Detectives from the Metropolitan Police's Sapphire Command launched an investigation and with the assistance of the victim produced an e-fit of the suspect.

Forensic science officers searched the scene of the second rape and they identified DNA matching Huggins and the victim. This was submitted to the national database where a match was made to Huggins.

Huggins was arrested in October by officers in Lambeth who recognised him walking near the scene of the first rape. Detective Inspector Helen Hamilton said: "I would like to pay tribute to the victim, who was incredibly brave in reporting both the rapes to the police. She suffered a terrible ordeal but had the courage to give evidence in court."

Huggins, of Lambeth, was remanded until August 5.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Teenage girl 'lured two 16-year-olds into rape

Title: Teenage girl 'lured two 16-year-olds into rape
Description: ordeal with three Asian men in their thi

TheUnhivedMind - July 6, 2011 06:18 PM (GMT)

Teenage girl 'lured two 16-year-olds into rape ordeal with three Asian men in their thirties'
17-year-old described alleged attackers as 'my boys'

Last updated at 3:10 PM on 6th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...-Asian-men.html

A teenage girl lured two other youngsters into a terrifying rape ordeal after providing them for sex to three Asian men she referred to as ‘my boys,’ a court heard.

Stephanie Knight, then 17, invited the two 16-year-old girls for a night out clubbing during which they were plied with vodka and drugs and introduced to the group, it was claimed.

Later the girls were taken by Shahid Hussain, 37, his brother, Amjad Hussain, 34, and their cousin, Tanveer Butt, 39, to a dark and empty house without electricity in Accrington, Lancashire, where they were sexually abused, a jury was told.

The three men were said to have taken it in turns to abuse one of the teenagers who was repeatedly raped in different rooms of the house which one of the men used to live in, Burnley Crown Court was told.

Knight, who was to tell police she was Amjad Hussain's girlfriend, was said to have stopped one of the teenagers from going to her friend's help as she was raped three times by Shahid Hussain.

Knight was also alleged to have threatened the frightened second girl when she refused to perform sex acts on the men, the hearing was told.

Shahid Hussain, of Drake Street, Butt, of St Albans Street, both Rochdale, Amjad Hussain, of Sharples Street, Accrington, and Knight, now 19, of Preston New Road, Blackburn, all deny two counts of conspiracy to rape, between December 4 and 7, 2009.

Butt also pleads not guilty to three charges of rape against one of the girls and aiding and abetting Shahid Hussain to rape her, Knight also denies aiding and abetting rape, Shahid Hussain also pleads not guilty to three counts of rape against the girl and Amjad Hussain also denies two allegations of raping the girl and rape and assault by penetration against the second girl.

Nick Courtney, prosecuting, told the court the girls were provided with alcohol and drugs before they became the victims of a number of sexual offences.

The first girl was allegedly raped orally, vaginally and anally and the second girl was subjected to a sex act and oral rape by Amjad Hussain in a car.

Mr Courtney said Knight, who had known the girls for about a week, invited them out for the evening, on December 5. During the evening out she was heard to say ‘Got them’ in a mobile phone conversation and named the girls.

On trial: Amjad Hussain (left), Tanveer Butt (centre) and Shahid Hussain (right) allegedly sexually abused two 16-year-old girls

At about 10pm, they were picked up by Amjad Hussain, driven from Blackburn to Accrington, and then all got into a large 4x4 vehicle, with Butt at the wheel.

Drink was bought in Accrington and the car was parked at Asda, Burnley and was captured on CCTV. Amjad Hussain added vodka to some bottles of coca cola before giving them to the girls, who were also given drugs to smoke.

Both girls made the men aware they were 16 but both had a lot to drink.
Mr Courtney said: ‘They all had a drink but both girls felt they had a great deal of alcohol to drink. One recalled she was 'feeling smashed' and the other said that on a scale of one to 10 of drunkenness she rated a 10.’

They were then driven to Amjad Hussein's former home where Shahid Hussain was waiting upstairs.

'When they went into the house all of the lights were off,' said Mr Courtney. 'There was some carpet but no furniture downstairs. It looked empty and Stephanie Knight told them there was no electricity.'

The house in Accrington where the alleged crimes took place

The prosecutor said the first girl went upstairs to use the bathroom. Butt went in, refused to leave and forced her to give him oral sex.

When she came out of the room, the Hussain brothers were on the landing, she was pulled in different directions and dragged into a bedroom by Shahid Hussain, who slid a wardrobe against the door and raped her.

The other girl then argued with Knight as she heard screams from her friend, the court was told. 'Knight told her if she did not give "her boys" a blowjob she would bang her in the back alley,' said Mr Courtney.

'Knight went on to tell her "she is chilling with my boys" when she continued to show concern.'

Amjad Hussain allegedly took the first girl into the attic, gave her another cannabis joint and forced her, whilst she was crying, to perform a sex act. Butt was then also said to have raped her again.

Mr Courtney told the jury the two girls were taken home in the early hours by Amjad Hussain, who had locked the car doors.

On the way, he allegedly orally raped them both and committed a sex act on the second girl, after pulling a knife on her. She had put the blade up her sleeve, refused to perform a sex act on him, but he had got mad, grabbed her and forced her.

The prosecutor said the alleged victims made complaints to the police that day. The first girl was found to be cut and bruised when she was medically examined. The defendants were arrested. None of them accepted they were guilty of the allegations.

Amjad Hussain claimed he had been with the girls on that night and had consensual sexual encounters with each of them.

Knight initially told a police constable that she was 'trying to arrange blowjobs and sex for friends I have just met in Accrington'.

But when interviewed by detectives she later denied she had made the comment and added that the girls knew they were going to a house with her friends, including her boyfriend, Amjad Hussain.

Mr Courtney said: ‘The other two defendants' case is that they were not with Amjad Hussain, Stephanie Knight and the complainants that night and that they had never met either of the complainants, let alone been involved in any sex of any kind with them.’

The prosecutor alleged: ‘The defendants' accounts in interview are untrue. The agreement was that Stephanie Knight would provide girls for the defendants to have non-consensual sex with that night.’

One of the girls told police in a video link interview how she had only known Knight for a week and added: ‘She hangs around with a load of Asian lads.'

The trial continues.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Perfect example that a lower race will hump

Title: Perfect example that a lower race will hump
Description: anything supposedly female

TheUnhivedMind - July 6, 2011 12:04 AM (GMT)

© James Ambler / Barcroft USA

TheUnhivedMind - July 6, 2011 12:06 AM (GMT)

By Count Richard N. Coudenhove Kalergi - published in Vienna 1925.

http://balder.org/judea/Richard-Coudenhove...Vienna-1925.php

Europeans to become negroid mongrels

The man of the future will be a mongrel. Today's races and classes will disappear owing to the disappearing of space, time, and prejudice.

The Eurasian-Negroid race of the future, similar in its outward appearance to the Ancient Egyptians, will replace the diversity of peoples with a diversity of individuals. [22]

Christianity, ethically prepared by the Jewish Essays (John), spiritually prepared by the Jewish Alexandrians (Philo), was regenerated Jewry. Insofar as Europe is Christian, it is in a spiritual sense Jewish, insofar as Europe is moral, it is Jewish.

Almost all of European ethics are rooted in Jewry. All protagonists for a religious or non religious Christian morality, from Augustine to Rousseau, Kant and Tolstoy, were Jews of choice [Wahljuden] in a spiritual sense. Nietzsche is the only non Jew, the only European heathen moralist.

In the East the Chinese people are the ethical par excellence [..] - in the West it is the Jews.

God was the head of state of the ancient Jews, their moral laws civil law, sin was crime.

Through the ages Jewry has remained faithful to the theocratic idea of the identification of politics and ethics: Christianity and Socialism are both attempts to create an earthly paradise. [lit.: a State of God]

Two thousand years ago, the ancient Christians - not the Pharisees and Sadducees - were the revivers of the Mosaic tradition; today it is neither the Zionists nor the Christians, but the Jewish leaders of Socialism: because they wish, with the most exalted unselfishness, to erase the original sin of capitalism, to free the people from injustice, violence and subservience and to change the redeemed world into an earthly paradise. [27]

From Moses to Weininger ethics have been the main problem for Jewish philosophy.

In this ethical basic attitude to the world lies one origin of the exceptional greatness of the Jewish people - at the same time also the danger that Jews who have forgotten their belief in the ethics sink to become cynical egoists: while people with another mentality - even after losing their ethical attitude - still retain some amount of chivalrous values and prejudices (man of honor, gentleman, cavalier etc.), which protects them from the fall into the abyss of values.

What mainly separates the Jews from the average city dwellers is the fact that they are inbred people.

Strength of character paired with sharpness of the mind predestinates the Jews in their most excellent specimen to become the leaders of urbane humanity, from the false to the genuine spiritual aristocrats to the protagonists of capitalism as well as of the revolution. [28]

Now we stand at the threshold of the third epoch of the new times: Socialism.

Also socialism is supported by the urban class of industrial workers, led by the aristocracy of revolutionary writers.

The influence of the aristocracy by blood, the influence of the aristocracy of the mind is growing.

This development, and with it the chaos of modern politics will only then find its end, when a spiritual aristocracy seizes the means of power of society: [gun] powder, gold, ink, and use them for the blessing of the general public. [32]

Alexandra - July 6, 2011 05:21 PM (GMT)

I think that woman is trying to reach 1000 pounds and make the book of world records or something.

Sick, sick, sick.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: UK girls at risk of mutilation abroad

Title: UK girls at risk of mutilation abroad

TheUnhivedMind - July 5, 2011 11:47 PM (GMT)

UK girls at risk of mutilation abroad

By Jessica Elgot
Monday, 4 July 2011
http://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-...ad-2306288.html

Thousands of British schoolgirls as young as eight face being taken abroad this summer to have their genitals mutilated and stitched up to preserve "purity".

A campaign by the Metropolitan Police and Foreign Office will suggest that more than 22,000 girls under the age of 15 risk being taken abroad by their family for "cutting", based on data from The International Centre for Reproductive Health.

Campaigners say the victims are being failed by a lack of awareness from teachers and neighbours.

Girls may have their outer genitals removed and stitched up to preserve their virginity, with an opening as small as a matchstick head, meaning it can take up to 20 minutes to urinate.

Female genital mutilation (FGM) is most common in Muslim areas, from North Africa to the Far East, although Koranic scholars have proclaimed it incompatible with Islam. Engaging or assisting in it carries a prison sentence of up to 14 years in the UK.

A specialist with the Metropolitan Police, Detective Sergeant Vicky Washington, said: "There are no legitimate cultural or religious reasons for FGM – it's child abuse."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lower race cost the NHS £200,000 and works

Title: Lower race cost the NHS £200,000 and works
Description: illegally as an Avon Lady

TheUnhivedMind - July 4, 2011 11:52 PM (GMT)

Nigerian mother who cost NHS £200,000 is working illegally as an Avon Lady

By Nick Mcdermott
Last updated at 11:54 PM on 4th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...-Avon-Lady.html

The Nigerian who cost the NHS up to £200,000 after travelling to Britain while expecting quintuplets has been illegally working as an Avon lady.

Bimbo Ayelabola, 33, applied for a six-month visitor's visa soon after discovering she was pregnant, travelling to the UK without her husband to visit her three sisters.

She gave birth to two boys and three girls in April after a complex Caesarean section and remained in hospital for almost two weeks, paid for by the taxpayer.

Within days of returning to her sister's flat in Poplar, East London, she began distributing catalogues and selling Avon's make-up, perfume and beauty products.

But under the terms of her visa, which expired last month, she is unable to work in the UK or claim benefits.

She is now fighting to remain in the country. Yesterday a neighbour said: 'She has dropped at least two Avon booklets through the door in the past couple of months. I'm sure she has visited other homes in surrounding streets.

'She's definitely working for Avon because I bought something from her last month. She never let on that she was not allowed to work in this country.'

A Home Office spokesman said last night: 'The UK Border Agency will thoroughly investigate any reports of anyone breaking the terms of their visa.'

Mrs Ayelabola is registered as a full-time mother on her children's birth certificates.

She says she was unaware she would have as many as five babies when she arrived in Britain late last year.

The multiple births are likely to be a result of double doses of fertility drug Clomid, which she took for eight times longer than recommended after buying the pills over the counter in her home city of Lagos.

The total bill to the taxpayer for Mrs Ayelabola's care is expected to reach £200,000.

Foreign nationals should be charged for the full cost of their treatment, but Mrs Ayelabola is not able to pay. The five babies, who were born prematurely at 32 weeks, were treated in a special-care unit, where the cost of a week's stay for the family would be £35,000 alone.

The case has once again raised the issue of ‘health tourism’, in which foreigners come to take advantage of Britain’s state-funded health system. It is estimated to cost the NHS £200million a year.

Mrs Ayelabola was treated at Homerton hospital in Hackney, east London.

Andrew Boff, Hackney resident and Conservative member of the Greater London Authority, said: ‘You can’t refuse to give someone treatment once they’re in the country, as we’re talking about human life.

‘But what this case does point out is that this country does not have a good immigration policy.

'It does need to be stricter in its application. Our health system should be for those who live in the UK.

'It can’t be open to anybody who comes in speculatively. That’s because UK people fund it.

‘It should be a requirement for anyone coming in that they have an adequate travel insurance policy, to prevent such occurrences in future.’

Mrs Ayelabola has applied for an extension to her visa as she claims the children – two boys, Tayseel and Samir, and three girls, Aqeelah, Binish and Zara – are still too frail to travel.

She said in an interview: ‘I had already had miscarriages and couldn’t bear the stress another pregnancy would cause. I thought I would stand a much better chance of avoiding another miscarriage in a calmer place with friends and family.’

Her 37-year-old husband, Ohi Ilanbare, a civil engineer, remains in Nigeria.

The children do not have an automatic right to British citizenship, despite being born in the UK.

To qualify, they would need at least one parent who is British, or who has indefinite leave to remain in the country.

An Avon spokesman last night said the firm would investigate how Mrs Ayelabola became a saleswoman for the brand. Mrs Ayelabola was unavailable to comment.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Father 'raped his six-month-old son and infected

Title: Father 'raped his six-month-old son and infected
Description: him with HIV [HIV DOESN'T EXIST HAHAHA]

TheUnhivedMind - July 4, 2011 11:45 PM (GMT)

This shows you the sick minds of these lower races and the best of it is that hiv doesn't exist, its never been isolated although they love to show mythical mathematical 3D renderings to scare the peoples. But for a father to do this to his son its digusting, is it any wonder these lower races rape constantly in their native lands? We don't need them in our Western nations. Now through the use of the false positive riddled hoax hiv test this son will now be depopulated under U.N. Agenda 21 via The Worshipful Company of Apothecaries and their highly poisonous quack ARV treatments. One less drug dealer, pimp or murderer I suppose!

QUOTE

Father 'raped his six-month-old son and infected him with HIV'

Last updated at 8:08 PM on 3rd July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...fected-HIV.html

Lenny Love, 29, admitted to police that he raped his son when he had HIV

A father has been arrested for raping his six-month-old son and infecting him with HIV.

Police say that Lenny Love, 29, from Silverton, Ohio, knew he had the virus when he raped his son in March.

He was arrested on Friday and charged with two counts of rape, one count of felonious assault and one count of possession of marijuana.

Police say he admitted the assault to them.

He is being held at the Hamilton County Justice Center while he awaits trial.

Police in Clarksville are currently hunting for a 28-year-old man who also knowingly infected a woman he met online with HIV.

Joseph Daundrey Thomas confessed to the woman the following day after sleeping with her in May and told her he had done it before and once spent three years in prison for the crime.

In 2009 a Texas man was sentenced to 45 years in prison for knowingly infecting his partner with HIV.

He was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Negro rapes unconscious woman, though she was dead

Title: Negro rapes unconscious woman, though she was dead

Ken Ardel - July 3, 2011 06:23 PM (GMT)

http://www.wdam.com/story/15010576/man-rap...conscious-woman

Alexandra - July 4, 2011 01:38 PM (GMT)

"Oops, she wasn't dead? My bad!"

facepalm

Ken Ardel - July 4, 2011 03:29 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Alexandra @ Jul 4 2011, 01:38 PM)
>
> "Oops, she wasn't dead? My bad!"
>
> facepalm

missed the letter t in the title.

She will be dead after that afro disease injection.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lower race gets upset by Clarkson joke

Title: Lower race gets upset by Clarkson joke

TheUnhivedMind - July 3, 2011 06:36 PM (GMT)

Jeremy Clarkson under fire after making 'racist joke' about comic Lenny Henry

Last updated at 3:57 PM on 3rd July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...enny-Henry.html

Top Gear host Jeremy Clarkson has sparked a race row after an 'offensive' joke about comic Lenny Henry being black.

The BBC presenter complained that an energy-saving mode on his new TV made the screen so dark 'every programme looks like it is being presented by Lenny Henry in a cave.'

Clarkson was accused of 'crossing the line' with the jibe in his Saturday newspaper column.

Grenada-born Johnson Beharry, who won a Victoria Cross fighting for Britain in Iraq, said the remark wasn't funny.

He told the People newspaper: 'People think it's acceptable to poke fun at people without thinking about the consequences.

'Clarkson needs to be stopped from saying things like this. They legitimise racism.'

Race campaigner Lee Jasper branded 51-year-old Clarkson's comment 'gratuitous' and claimed it could lead to playground taunts and racist insults in the street.

He added: 'People think, "Well, if Clarkson can have a joke at the expense of someone's race then so can I."'

Labour MP Dennis McShane said the remark was 'unpleasant and offensive.'

This isn't the first time Clarkson has caused controversy with his 'jokes'. In the past he has said that anyone who is offended by him lacks a sense of humour.

Korean car giant Hyundai complained after Clarkson's 'bigoted and racist' claim that company staff had 'eaten dog.'

He caused another furore by doing mini Nazi salutes as he talked about the German design of a new Mini.

Clarkson had to apologise to the Mexican ambassador after branding its citizens 'lazy.'

While in Australia in February, 2009, Clarkson made disparaging remarks aimed at Prime Minister Gordon Brown, calling him a 'one-eyed Scottish idiot.'

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Detroit riots of '67 [Vd] in 3 parts

Title: Detroit riots of '67 [Vd] in 3 parts
Description: Summer in the Motor City in 1967

Ken Ardel - July 2, 2011 04:28 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GXqSYgO9vFg http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fIxp-3Qnctk&feature=related http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=v2C8zPu-kZ8&feature=related

Alexandra - July 2, 2011 10:35 PM (GMT)

My dad lived through it. He was working down the street from where it started, couldn't go home for three days, it was so bad.

Ken Ardel - July 2, 2011 10:47 PM (GMT)

It looked bad Alexandra, some excellent footage there in these videos that I never seen before as I remember this riot in 1967 as we would watch Buffalo NY News on channel 7 with Irv Weinstein as the newscaster .

These folks started getting uppity a few years after the LBJ Great Society when no one catered to their whims, unlike today.

Imagine how bad a riot would be in Chicago or St. Louis now a days?

They burnt down their own neighbourhoods, how smart is that.

They thought whitey is coming back to build them better public housing in Detroit, they gambled and lost big time as most all the whites left Detroit and never came back and left them to their own afro jungle jim behaviour to tear the place down ala deepest darkest Africa, really doing what they do best.

Ken Ardel - July 3, 2011 12:00 AM (GMT)

This is kind of sad, Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh narrates a promotional film(circa 1965) on his fine city to entice a bid for the 1968 Olympics .

Little did he know that in two years the horrific Negro Bomb™ would destroy his lovely city and it would never be the same again. Actual a hydrogen bomb would have caused less damage and Detroit would have been rebuilt, but it was never meant to be.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=linwiQ1Lfp4

Alexandra - July 3, 2011 05:45 AM (GMT)

By the 70s Detroit was on the way down. I was born in 1973, we lived in Detroit, not too far from Tiger Stadium, until 1976, when we moved to the suburbs. It was pretty bad even back then from what I heard. My dad was disabled and waiting for worker's comp and everything to kick in so we were on welfare for a while...then we got off it and bought a house from my maternal grandparents.

Ken Ardel - July 3, 2011 12:10 PM (GMT)

That is the idea of welfare, it is a leg up for temporary use, not a generational way of life.

I think if Detroit had a more diverse industrial base and less savage negroes and gotten away from electing Democrats for city hall from 1961 onwards then it might have had a chance at re-building.

Once white flight happened, the place became Africaville, even when the auto industrial base was still of considerable size up to the early to mid 1970s, it was curtains for this fine city unfortunately .

(* you can see a shot of Tiger Stadium in the last video when it was known as Briggs Stadium.)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7MNpokiKog4

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QdUyn5SzJMs&feature=related http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cYB1w77amGA&feature=related

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The teenage boy, 16, stabbed to death in London

Title: The teenage boy, 16, stabbed to death in London Description: street at 5pm for cell phone [GET RID]

TheUnhivedMind - July 3, 2011 01:55 AM (GMT)

Pictured: The teenage boy, 16, stabbed to death in London street at 5pm for his mobile phone

By Daily Mail Reporter
Last updated at 10:33 PM on 2nd July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...bile-phone.html

An investigation is under way into the murder of a teenage boy who was stabbed to death in a south east London street.

Onlookers described blood 'pouring' out of 16-year-old Yemurai Lovemore Kanyangarara's neck moments after he was knifed in broad daylight yesterday.

One witness said he watched the boy's life 'slip away' as he lay on the pavement on Upper Wickham Lane in Welling.

Police attended the scene at about 5pm following reports of the stabbing, but ambulance crews, including an air ambulance, were unable to save Yemurai and he died later in hospital.

A male was arrested in connection with the stabbing and is in custody at a south London police station, Scotland Yard said.

A web page set up in Yemurai's memory said the teenager, from Belvedere, Kent, enjoyed playing football and attended St Columba's School in Bexleyheath.

Sam Pope, 19, who works at Bartletts florist next door to the Superdrug, told how she discovered the teenager bleeding to death on the street and saw three boys fleeing the scene.

'I had just gone outside for a cigarette when I saw blood on the ground,' she said.

'It was not a very nice scene. The boy was standing up and I saw blood absolutely pouring out of his neck.'

She helped him down to the floor and called emergency services.

While waiting for them to arrive, her colleague flagged down an ambulance, she said.

'The ambulance was on its way to hospital but it stopped and the paramedics helped him,' Miss Pope said.

But it was too late to save the boy.

'He was silent and had his eyes open,' Miss Pope said.

'It all happened so quickly.'

Angela Read, 48, who owns the florist and joined Miss Pope at the scene, described the futile efforts she and other local shop workers made to save the teenager's life.

'Someone from inside Superdrug threw out kitchen towels and a woman from Loose Linen [a shop across the road] brought out some towels,' she said.

'We tried to suppress the bleeding but if you had been a top professional you wouldn't have saved the lad.

'There was blood all over the pavement and we watched his life slip away in front of us.'

David Walker, 83, said a bike and crash helmet lay on the ground within the area being guarded by police.

'We were horrified,' he said.

'Nobody could say it's quiet around here but nothing like this has happened here before.'

Last night a senior detective described the killing as 'about as bad as it gets'. Detective Chief Inspector Mark Dunne said Yemurai's murder was among the worst he had investigated in 25 years.

DCI Dunne told reporters: 'You've got someone 16-year-old, a schoolboy, being stabbed in broad daylight in a busy street in front of many many shoppers out enjoying the afternoon. It's about as bad as it gets.

'It's among the very worst I've investigated in 25 years, the sheer brutality against a defenceless schoolboy.'

The officer told how the victim, who was brought to Britain from Zimbabwe when he was a toddler, stepped off a 96 bus with a friend and was attacked, probably within a matter of seconds.

Three boys who had been in a group of five or six who had got off another 96 at an earlier stop a few minutes before had walked to the stop where Yemurai and his friend got off their bus.

Yemurai and his friend had been in a group of four but the other two got off the bus shortly before.

'The three boys off the first bus approached them, and one has taken a weapon out of his clothing and stabbed the victim just once in the neck. This has caused catastrophic injuries, it seems he has died very quickly after that,' DCI Dunne said. He was unable to confirm whether the weapon was a knife.

Police so far have no clear motive for the attack, but DCI Dunne said it was suspected that the people who attacked Yemurai knew him.

'It would be wrong to suggest this was a random attack, our belief is that they were known to each other, but we don't know how,' he said.

According to police, Yemurai had been living with his father in Leicester, but had returned to his mother in London to take his GCSE exams.

Police asked anybody with any information to call 0300 123 1212.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Jamaica would be better off as a British colony

Title: Jamaica would be better off as a British colony
Description: independent since '62 but screwed by TNB

Ken Ardel - June 29, 2011 01:00 AM (GMT)

www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-latin-america-13952592

Jamaicans would have been better off British - poll

Jamaica has seen debate as to whether or not to keep the British monarch as its head of state
Continue reading the main story
Related Stories
Timeline: Jamaica
Country profile: Jamaica
How Commonwealth sees the Queen
A survey for a Jamaican newspaper suggests most islanders believe the country would have been better off if it had remained a British colony.

The poll, commissioned by The Gleaner, found that 60% of respondents backed this view. But 17% disagreed.

A thousand people took part in the survey, out of a population of 2.7m. The poll has a reported margin of error of plus or minus 4%.

Jamaica is due to celebrate 50 years of independence next year.

It is not clear what main reasons the respondents had for their choices.

But the island has struggled with high levels of poverty and crime.

The Gleaner has interpreted the results as suggesting "six in every 10 Jamaicans...long for 'the good old days'".

Cut royal links?
It is also not clear how this finding sits in the context of a long-running debate on whether the island should become a republic.

Continue reading the main story
“

Start Quote
If I am to have a queen, it must be a Jamaican queen”
Bruce Golding
Jamaican Prime Minister
The Jamaican Prime Minister, Bruce Golding, has said he would like the island to cut its links with the British monarchy in time for the 50th anniversary.

The island achieved full nationhood on 6 August, 1962.

Mr Golding believes the time is right for a referendum on a platform of constitutional change.

As reported last month by the Jamaican Labour Party, this would involve coming to a consensus on issues such as how a new head of state would be appointed, and what would replace the United Kingdom Privy Council as the island's court of final appeal.

Whatever decisions may be reached, Mr Golding is certain of one thing.

"I have long believed that if I am to have a queen, it must be a Jamaican queen," he has declared.

SatanHatingClown - June 29, 2011 05:34 AM (GMT)

TNB? Are you a member of chimpout.com , too?

Ken Ardel - June 29, 2011 12:52 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (SatanHatingClown @ Jun 29 2011, 05:34 AM)
> TNB? Are you a member of chimpout.com , too?

No, "TNB" as an acronym is found in the Urban Dictionary.

Short and sweet and to the point, perfect for use in a title where only a limited amount of words are allowed.

TNB is mainstream, it is used by readers commenting in online news papers like the Toronto Sun and it is understood by all and it is a beautiful assessment of a corrosive segment found in the negroid race and their anti social savage behavior in modern society especially when commenting on crimes like the shootings in Toronto were 95 % of the perps are of Jamaican negro origin when negroes are not even 8% of the population in Toronto and 40 years ago as immigrants, they were less than 1/2 of a %.

Check out crime stats in major american cities or South Africa or Jamaica or Haiti, or Brazil or Brixton UK or Sierra Leone or Liberia etc. and you will find TNB to be rampant and a major contributing factor to the chaos, anarchy, systemic rape, out of wedlock births, professional Lollygagging and crime and grime in these places. Bulldoze the places and replace the population with ethnic europeans ONLY from any single european nation of your choice and watch the place prosper with law and order and cleanliness and safety for all its citizens.
This is the european caucasoid brain at work compared to the primitive negroid brain. The proof of the pudding is in the eating .

this:
!

versus this:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=T6WKMNmFsxM

Alexandra - June 29, 2011 02:55 PM (GMT)

And ever since LBJ's "Great Society" they've been getting more and more uppity.

I don't have an issue with blacks that behave themselves and don't have a chip on their shoulder. But they're the exception to the rule. For the most part they're taught, cradle to grave, to hate whitey...and at the same time have their hand out for freebies.

Ken Ardel - June 29, 2011 03:26 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Alexandra @ Jun 29 2011, 02:55 PM)

> And ever since LBJ's "Great Society" they've been getting more and more uppity.
>
> I don't have an issue with blacks that behave themselves and don't have a chip on their shoulder. But they're the exception to the rule. For the most part they're taught, cradle to grave, to hate whitey...and at the same time have their hand out for freebies.

This is so true Alexandra, the Great Society was a disaster for the whites and the negroes, these last 47 years the american negro has actually regressed not advanced in spite of all the affirmative action and free range and PC laws.

Jamaica and South Africa and Zimbabwe are the same under negro rule, that is why the negroes themselves wish and long for the orderly days of white colonial rule in these places.

Look at what is happening in Peoria Illinois just now.
The free range negro is a menace.

http://blackpeoria.wordpress.com/tag/peoria-riot/

http://blackpeoria.wordpress.com/2011/06/2...e-white-people/

Alexandra - June 29, 2011 04:08 PM (GMT)

I hear they're pulling the same crap in Philadelphia now.

Ken Ardel - June 29, 2011 04:34 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Alexandra @ Jun 29 2011, 04:08 PM)
>
> I hear they're pulling the same crap in Philadelphia now.

Yes, and Chicago, St Louis, Denver and Cleveland

A lady editor of the Onion News had her leg broken in an unprovoked savage attack by 30 or 40 nig nog young males a few days ago.

http://www.thegatewaypundit.com/2011/06/ph...aks-womans-leg/

Imagine the monkeyshines and savage ape behavior if Obongo does not get re elected in 2012 !

They all would be doing the Ubangi stomp in the streets !

I would find a way to get a gun and a box of ammo if I lived in Chicago no matter what.

Alexandra - July 1, 2011 01:00 AM (GMT)

Heh. "Bongo parties."

Makes me even more glad I got out of Detroit when I did.

Can't help but think, though, that the Amish would be easy targets for any shenanigans, given their pacifism.

Ken Ardel - July 1, 2011 01:10 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Alexandra @ Jul 1 2011, 01:00 AM)
>
> Heh. "Bongo parties."
>
> Makes me even more glad I got out of Detroit when I did.
>
> Can't help but think, though, that the Amish would be easy targets for any shenanigans, given their pacifism.

The Amish could still use a member of the "Mahogany Mob" as farm equipment.

Might learn a thing or two about real life as a bonus.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: UK population sees biggest increase in half a

Title: UK population sees biggest increase in half a Description: century [ALL LOWER RACES]

TheUnhivedMind - June 30, 2011 03:25 PM (GMT)

UK population sees biggest increase in half a century

The difference between numbers of births and deaths is the main driver of UK population growth

30 June 2011 Last updated at 12:26
http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...showtopic=38814

The UK population increased more last year than at any time in almost half a century, according to figures from the Office for National Statistics.

By mid-2010 the estimated resident population was 62,262,000, an increase of 470,000 (0.8%) on the previous year.

The growth rate is the highest since 1962, during the "baby boom" years.

'Natural change' - the difference between the numbers of births and deaths - accounted for 52% of the population growth.

The number of births in the UK is now at its highest since 1991, with 797,000 during the year to mid-2010.

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) says two factors are significant - rising fertility among UK-born women and more inward migration of women of childbearing age.

'Natural change' has been the main driver of growth for the last three years (2007-10), having narrowly overtaken net migration, which was the dominant factor for the previous nine years.

Net migration - the difference between long term migration into and out of the UK - shows a positive figure of 230,000 for 2009-10.

Overall, the ONS says the UK population has increased by 3.1 million people between 2001 and 2010.

The House of Commons library, in response to a question by James Clappison MP, recently estimated that the figure could exceed 70 million by 2026, three years earlier than previous official estimates.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Teens in a mob assault and rob Center City patrons

Title: Teens in a mob assault and rob Center City patrons

TheUnhivedMind - June 30, 2011 12:20 AM (GMT)

Teens in a mob assault and rob Center City patrons

By Mike Newall
Posted on Wed, Jun. 29, 2011
http://www.philly.com/philly/news/20110629...ty_patrons.html

The two young women were sitting at a window table inside the Max Brenner restaurant on 15th Street, near Walnut, sharing chocolate fondue after some shopping.

The streets were vibrant. The weather was nice.

"The city had a good vibe," remembered one of the women, Maria, who requested her full name not be printed.

But their night on the town was about to become frightening.

Heading their way was a pack of teens roving through Center City after leaving a North Philadelphia music festival.

They were part of about 100 or more young people who had left Saturday night's event, police said, committing a series of violent assaults and robberies, including one against Maria, 25, of North Philadelphia, and her cousin Cecilia, 29, of Havertown.

Donta Holdclaw was in the crowd of teens that night. On Tuesday afternoon, he stood on the front step of his mother's North Philadelphia apartment and said the group was bound for South Street.

"They were holding fireworks," he said. "That's what we were going to see."

He had gone to the Susquehanna Community Festival, along Susquehanna Avenue near Broad Street, with his older brother, Aleek Hamilton, 19. Last week, Hamilton graduated from Mastbaum Vocational/Technical High School, with plans to attend college and become a mechanic, said his mother, Letitia Washington. He also was working at a West Philadelphia thrift shop.

Hamilton is now in jail, charged with robbing Cecilia.

Erica Rockymore, 18, of North Philadelphia, was also among the teens, police said. Last week, she graduated from the Philadelphia Electrical and Technology Charter High School, her family said. Her 14-year-old sister asked her to take her to the festival. Rockymore is in jail, too, charged with assaulting Maria.

Maria and Cecilia were enjoying their dessert at Max Brenner, with its large, open bay doors. Afterward, Maria, an interior and industrial designer, had planned to visit a Northern Liberties art exhibit. Cecilia was heading home.

The women had spent the afternoon dress shopping. Maria is getting married soon.

About 10 p.m., Maria said, she saw a shirtless teenager run past the restaurant.

"He was running in the middle of the street and looked like he was running away from someone," she said.

Maria tucked away her phone and wallet, which had been sitting on the table.

She grew up in Brazil, she said, and was more street-smart than her cousin.

Before she could tell Cecilia to put her cell phone away, another teen reached through the window and snatched it.

Maria ran out after him.

She was on the sidewalk, starting to scream "thief," she said, when someone from behind punched her in the jaw.

She said she turned, jaw throbbing, to see the girl who had hit her standing with five other teens. "What are you going to do?" she said the girl who had punched her yelled.

The teens were laughing, she said. "They were fearless. It seemed like they weren't taking anything serious."

Maria ran into another restaurant and called 911.

The girls in the group called her a slut as they left, she said.

The police arrived quickly. Another customer at Max Brenner, a 32-year-old woman from Delaware who was with her 7-year-old daughter, had also been robbed. Someone had reached in through a window and snatched her phone, according to police reports.

"Would you be able to identify them if we find them?" an officer asked Maria, referring to the teens.

Yes, she said.

The three women and the young girl got in the back of a police cruiser.

At 11th and South Streets, they saw the pack. The teens didn't run. "They were laughing," Maria said, "like nothing was happening."

Maria identified Hamilton and Rockymore for police. One of the teens had already sent a text from Cecilia's phone, she said. "Hangin in the da hood," it read.

Terrance Howard, 20, of Frankford, was arrested after being found to have the Delaware woman's phone, police said.

Police are still investigating two other attacks by teens leaving the festival, including one that left a woman hospitalized with a broken leg.

Officials rejected characterizing Saturday's attacks as "flash mob" assaults, because, they said, they had not been coordinated through social media. Police Commissioner Charles H. Ramsey promised the department would pursue stiff penalties for similar teen violence.

"If they get caught and they get charged, they're going to have a problem," Ramsey said.

Paul Levy, president of the Center City District, called for a zero-tolerance approach.

Maria said Tuesday that her jaw was still sore. She and her fiance had planned to start a family in Philadelphia. She said she still might.

She was more surprised, she said, than frightened.

"I didn't expect something like that in Center City."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Disproportionate number of child sex offenders

Title: Disproportionate number of child sex offenders
Description: 'are Asian men'

TheUnhivedMind - June 29, 2011 05:10 PM (GMT)

Disproportionate number of child sex offenders 'are Asian men'

Study carried out in wake of conviction of grooming gang in Derbyshire

Last updated at 5:24 PM on 29th June 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...-Asian-men.html

Peter Davies, director of the CEOP, warned that the data was not comprehensive enough to draw firm conclusions. He said: 'Focusing on this problem simply through the lens of ethnicity does not do it service.'

A disproportionate number of child sex offenders 'are Asian men' a survey appears to suggest.

The report was undertaken after the conviction of the ringleaders of a grooming gang in Derbyshire which preyed on girls aged between 12 and 18.

Half of the 2,379 offenders identified in the research revealed today by the Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre gave their ethnicity, with 26 per cent of those being Asian and 38 per cent white.

This compares with the general population of the UK which is around 90 per cent white and about four per cent Asian.

Controversy erupted over the ethnicity issue when former justice secretary Jack Straw accused some Pakistani men in Britain of seeing white girls as 'easy meat' for sexual abuse.

In January, Mr Straw said child sex grooming was a 'specific problem' in the Pakistani community which needed to be 'more open' about the reasons behind it.

However, Peter Davies, director of the CEOP, warned that the data was not comprehensive enough to draw firm conclusions.

He said: 'Focusing on this problem simply through the lens of ethnicity does not do it service.'

And the report added: 'Caution should be taken in drawing conclusions about ethnicity due to the relatively small number of areas where agencies have been proactive around this particular type of crime'.

A breakdown of the offenders recorded since the start of 2008 found most were men aged 18 to 24. Ethnicity had only been identified in half the cases.

Of these, 26 per cent were Asian, 38 per cent were white, 32 per cent were recorded as unknown, three per cent black and 0.2 per cent Chinese.

Around 90 per cent of the victims were white.

The catalyst for the study was the conviction of the Derbyshire paedophile gang leaders in January.

A court heard Abid Saddique and Mohammed Liaqat, who were each married with a child, cruised the streets of Derby in a car looking for victims while their unsuspecting families waited at home for them.

The vulnerable children were plied with vodka stored under the seats of the car and were taken to parks, hotel rooms or houses, where they were sometimes offered cocaine before being pressured into sex.

The CEOP report is based on testimonies from victims, police and child protection workers, as well as a review of existing research.

Some of the victims were runaways, and CEOP has found that missing children or those who run away from home are the most susceptible to grooming.

The CEOP research released today also found that two thirds of protection services provided by local councils failed to hit national recommendations and failed to put in place 'basic processes' to stop sexual abuse.

Mr Davies said he was 'shocked, surprised and disappointed' at the lack of action.

"This is a horrific kind of crime. It involves systematic, premeditated rape of children and needs to be understood in those stark terms. It needs to be brought out of the dark'

Speaking about some council children's boards, Mr Davies said: 'They do not appear to have set up the basic processes that are expected in the national guidelines to tackle child sexual exploitation.'

He described the abuse of children as a 'horrific systemic crime that is designed to take place under their radar'.

The report is based on testimonies from victims, police and child protection workers, as well as a review of existing research.

Mr Davies said: 'This is a horrific kind of crime. It involves systematic, premeditated rape of children and needs to be understood in those stark terms. It needs to be brought out of the dark.'

The study found that victims had trouble engaging with police and were 'hugely reluctant' to give evidence against their 'ruthless' abusers in court.

Mr Davies said: 'They did not expect to be believed, they did not expect to be supported.'

Victims are cut off from their normal support networks in the grooming process, are left 'disorientated' and are emotionally manipulated as part of the abuse.

Children's charities called for action to provide a clearer picture of the scale of the problem.

John Grounds, director of the NSPCC's Child Protection Consultancy, said: 'This is an important piece of work as it has underlined some vital issues around the street grooming of children.

'Worryingly it is virtually a hidden problem - as this report highlights - there is very little data to give a clear picture of how extensive it is.

'We would like to see better and more consistent data collection and improved training for professionals working in this field.

'Hopefully this research by the Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre will encourage the relevant agencies to adopt a much more coordinated approach to this type of grooming.

'It puts vulnerable children at risk of serious sex abuse and leaves them at the mercy of unscrupulous men who pretend to be their friends but in reality are dangerous predators.'

The Children's Society's policy director Enver Solomon called for a greater focus on the 100,000 children under 16 who run away each year.

He said: 'For far too long child grooming has been a hidden issue, with dangerous perpetrators targeting vulnerable girls and boys in the shadows of our society.

'The CEOP assessment exposes the significant challenges faced in stamping out this shocking abuse. Critically it highlights that children who run away are particularly vulnerable to exploitation yet professionals are often unaware of this.

'Child grooming cannot be addressed without actively looking at the issue of children running away.'

Terina Keene, chief executive at Railway Children, said: 'A much better grip on the numbers and evidence must be the first major step in tackling child sexual exploitation and grooming.

'The brakes also need to be put on the indiscriminate cuts into youth provision, otherwise a vital frontline link to those most at risk will be lost and the clearest possible picture of the problem will become a blur to both Government and police, making the safeguarding of these children pot luck.'

Mr Davies said more research will be carried out into the type of people guilty of sexually abusing children, including their ethnicity. Their motivations will also be examined.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lower race goes crazy at D.C. Caribbean Festival

Title: Lower race goes crazy at D.C. Caribbean Festival
Description: 2011 [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 12:31 AM (GMT)

Honestly please sit down and think hard what is going to happen in the Cities shortly when the economy collapses. The lower races just aren't civilized even the 20% which are somewhat will soon alter in the panic. Sit, watch and imagine whats coming. If you're white get out of black areas now.

QUOTE

http://www.worldstarhiphop.com/videos/video.php?v=wshhafNEnJmHv3Sr08EL

[dohtml]<object width="448" height="374"> <param name="movie" value="http://www.worldstarhiphop.com/videos/e/16711680/wshhafNEnJmHv3Sr08EL" /> <param name="allowFullScreen" value="true" /><param name="quality" value="high" /> <embed src="http://www.worldstarhiphop.com/videos/e/16711680/wshhafNEnJmHv3Sr08EL" quality="high" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowFullscreen="true" width="448" height="374"></embed> </object>[/dohtml]

Alexandra - June 28, 2011 10:38 AM (GMT)

2011 seems to be the year of the "flash mob" too.

Ken Ardel - June 28, 2011 12:02 PM (GMT)

They all like to jump up and down like a bunch of bobble-headed Watusi.

You cannot take the jungle out of these Bantu, it is genetic.

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 03:39 PM (GMT)

Remember that Washington D.C. has something like a 12% literacy rate.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Somalians ponder an escalator

Title: Somalians ponder an escalator

Alexandra - June 24, 2011 11:43 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IgzbxklbyGo...player_embedded

Ken Ardel - June 25, 2011 12:39 AM (GMT)

Dear God.. see with these Jesuits and their coadjutors saddle europeans with !

I am sure Fatima will pop out nine Muhammads and Ali Hussains while living on welfare in public housing while her husband drives a taxi for cash under the table.

tommetass - June 25, 2011 01:29 AM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Ken Ardel @ Jun 25 2011, 12:39 AM)
>
> Dear God.. see with these Jesuits and their coadjutors saddle europeans with !
>
> I am sure Fatima will pop out nine Muhammads and Ali Hussains while living on welfare in public housing while her husband drives a taxi for cash under the table.

There was so much racism in that post that I don't know what to say...

Is this seriously how you guys think?

I mean.. I've been coming to this board for a long time now. And I really respect a lot of it. But this lower races thing is just so unnecessary.

I really don't see the point.. At least not with a post like that..

(For your information: I'm white and I'm from Norway... And I'm a bible believing christian)

Alexandra - June 25, 2011 12:48 PM (GMT)

You might want to review what went on with Ham and Canaan after the Flood, then.

We are not all equal. Some races are better in certain things than others. It's a fact.

Racism is not inherently hateful. I consider myself a race realist. I recognize the differences in the races instead of falling for the lie that "we're all the same, just different skin color."

What IS hateful is deliberately harming someone for no reason other than they're of a different race.

Wolveshater - June 25, 2011 01:38 PM (GMT)

I never trusted them damn revolving stairs either, scare the crap out of me, just imagine if they opened up and dumped you into all those gears and thingys under them, ouch, but I learned many years ago never turn your back on iron, never. And then what happens if they stop and I'm only half way up or down, how uncool would that be, what would people think, seeing me huffing and puffing because I climbed up or down five yards. I'm white, a cowboy, and I eat animals, so I'm not a pantheist. Maybe those Somalians were really pondering how lazy some whites are.

Alexandra - June 25, 2011 01:46 PM (GMT)

They looked fascinated with it, I think. "Ooh...shiny thing moves!"

tommetass - June 27, 2011 05:41 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (Alexandra @ Jun 25 2011, 12:48 PM)
>
> You might want to review what went on with Ham and Canaan after the Flood, then.
>
> We are not all equal. Some races are better in certain things than others. It's a fact.
>
> Racism is not inherently hateful. I consider myself a race realist. I recognize the differences in the races instead of falling for the lie that "we're all the same, just different skin color."
>
> What IS hateful is deliberately harming someone for no reason other than they're of a different race.

I do see your points. But I do think that a person given the same set of experiences, teachings etc growing up no matter the race has the potential to become a smart individual.

I mean, you have smart white people, and you have smart black people.
You have dumb white people, and you have dumb black people.

Alexandra - June 27, 2011 07:12 PM (GMT)

You should check out the Bell Curve.

You're going to have far more genius white people than genius black people...and far more dumb blacks than dumb whites.

wades77 - June 27, 2011 08:45 PM (GMT)

If you grow up around them, like I did in England. As a Christian, I take everyone as I find them on a personal level. I generally find that some of the Indian Hindu sikh types to be very smart shrewd people. Hard working. Many of them have integrated well, as my colleague did because he was 2nd generation. The blacks from jamaica many tend to be lazy and arrogant, and many end up in crime and having kids out of wedlock. Then theres now lots of muslims like these somalis, but they dont integrate. Racist or so-called these attitudes stem from people getting sick of seeing them cos they have nothing in common with us white folk who were born and raised here. We are sick of their filthy islam and all the rest of it. But what we need to remember is that we must focus are anger on the real enemy who has brought this on us. Remember we were never asked if we wanted them in our lands. And also as a christian God also has genuine saints of every race, so we count those individuals as our brethren.

Ken Ardel - June 27, 2011 09:30 PM (GMT)

If you have to deal with these people like in family court you quickly realize what scammers they really are. It is all take and no give.
In the case of the Somalis, if the choice is between telling a lie or telling the truth, the lie always wins.
They know to the dollar exactly what they are entitled to in social services and welfare and taxpayer paid public housing before the airplane lands at Pearson Airport, they are far from naive or stupid.

Go try living near them on Dixon Road in Toronto to see what shits they are.
They think all whites are suckers and to a point they are right, but now they are going to Alberta as drug dealers and end up dead because the white bikers (French Canadians mostly with ties to the Italian Mafia of Quebec) who control the drug trade in oil rich and cash soaked Fort McMurray are not pushovers or PC.

Alexandra - June 28, 2011 10:37 AM (GMT)

I don't doubt that there are black Christians, but they're pretty hard to find (same with true Christians of any race, really).

But about 80% of them are savages. Their culture has no place in civilized society.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: U.S. soccer team booed in their own country as Title: U.S. soccer team booed in their own country as Description: Mexican fans turn LA into an 'away' game

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 04:09 AM (GMT)

U.S. soccer team booed in their own country as Mexican fans turn LA into an 'away' game
Majority of 93,000 fans supported Mexico

U.S. goalie Tim Howard swears after trophy ceremony in Spanish

Last updated at 3:50 PM on 27th June 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...California.html

If the U.S. soccer team were hoping for the home advantage during Saturday's Gold Cup final then they were in for a nasty surprise.

Despite being the 'home' side in California's Rose Bowl stadium, the majority of fans - most of them American born of naturalized Mexicans - booed and jeered the U.S. team.

The surprising scenes were followed by angry outbursts from U.S. team goalkeeper Tim Howard, who was visibly shaken after the entire post match ceremony was conducted in Spanish.

Speaking after the game, Howard said: '[tournament organisers] CONCACAF should be ashamed of themselves.

'You can bet your ass that if we were in Mexico City, it wouldn't be all in English'

'I think it was a [expletive] disgrace that the entire post match ceremony was in Spanish.

'You can bet your ass that if we were in Mexico City, it wouldn't be all in English.

'It never ceases to amaze me all that stuff.'

Tempering his comments, the ex-Manchester United keeper added: 'It was a good crowd today.

'They were up for it, doing the wave, it was what we expected. We know it's going to be like this.'

Speaking to the LA Times, Mexican supporter Victor Sanchez said: 'I love this country, it has given me everything that I have, and I'm proud to be part of it.'

The 37-year-old Monrovia resident reflected the sentiment of most of the 93,000 strong crowd when he added: 'But yet, I didn't have a choice to come here, I was born in Mexico, and that is where my heart will always be.'

Despite the remarkable support for the Mexican side, head coach of the U.S. team Bob Bradley told reporters after the game his team were expecting the hostile crowd.

'Obviously … the support that Mexico has on the night like tonight makes it a home game for them.

'It's part of something we have to deal with on the night.'

Speaking to the Times, American fan Roy Martinez was one of the few supporters present actually supporting the U.S.

He said: 'I know, it's strange, and when we got here, we were a little worried.

Wrapped in an American flag he led USA cheers outside the stadium, trying to gee up the home side.

The game came after it emerged this week ethnic minorities now make up the majority of babies in the United States.

It is the first time that this has been the case and the change reflects a growing age divide between mostly white, older Americans and predominantly minority youths that could reshape government policies.

Preliminary census estimates also show the share of African-American households headed by women - made up of mostly single mothers - now exceeds African-American households with married couples, a sign of declining U.S. marriages overall but also continuing challenges for black youths without involved fathers.

The findings, based on the latest government data, offer a preview of final 2010 census results being released this summer that provide detailed breakdowns by age, race and householder relationships such as same-sex couples.

Demographers say the numbers provide the clearest confirmation yet of a changing social order, one in which racial and ethnic minorities will become the U.S. majority by the middle of the century.

Currently, non-Hispanic whites make up just under half of all three-year-olds, which is the youngest age group shown in the Census Bureau's October 2009 annual survey, its most recent.

In 1990, more than 60 per cent of children in that age group were white.

Long after the game finished Mexico supporters remained, bouncing up and down as they chanted and cheered for their team.

The American's were not even spared in the trophy ceremony after Mexico's 4-2 win - booed for one final time as they were announced as runners up.

Speaking after the game, another fan summed up the mood for many American-Mexican fans.

He said: 'We're not booing the country, we're booing the team.

'There is a big difference.'

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Muslim woman sues Abercrombie & Fitch over hijab

Title: Muslim woman sues Abercrombie & Fitch over hijab

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 01:45 AM (GMT)

Muslim woman sues Abercrombie & Fitch over hijab

By JASON DEAREN, Associated Press – Mon Jun 27, 6:02 pm ET http://old.news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20110627/ap...eadscarf_firing

SAN FRANCISCO – A former stockroom worker for Abercrombie & Fitch Co. sued the clothing retailer in federal court Monday, saying she was illegally fired after refusing to remove her Muslim headscarf while on the job.

Hani Khan said a manager at the company's Hollister Co. store at the Hillsdale Mall in San Mateo hired her while she was wearing her hijab. The manager said it was OK to wear it as long as it was in company colors, Khan said.

Four months later, the 20-year-old says a district manager and human resources manager asked if she could remove the hijab while working, and she was suspended and then fired for refusing to do so.

It's the latest employment discrimination charge against the company's so-called "look policy," which critics say means images of mostly white, young, athletic-looking people. The New Albany, Ohio-based company has said it does not tolerate discrimination.

Still, Abercrombie has been the target of numerous discrimination lawsuits, including a federal class action brought by black, Hispanic and Asian employees and job applicants that was settled for $40 million in 2004. The company admitted no wrongdoing, though it was forced to implement new programs and policies to increase diversity.

"Growing up in this country where the Bill of Rights guarantees freedom of religion, I felt let down," Khan, now a college student studying political science, said at a news conference. "This case is about principles, the right to be able to express your religion freely and be able to work in this country."

Abercrombie defended its record in a comment provided to The Associated Press, saying diversity in its stores "far exceeds the diversity in the population of the United States."

"We comply with the law regarding reasonable religious accommodation, and we will continue to do so," said Rocky Robbins, the company's general counsel. "We are confident that when this matter is tried, a jury will find that we have fully complied with the law."

The lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court in San Francisco comes after the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ruled in September that Khan was fired illegally. Khan's lawsuit was filed in conjunction with the EEOC's lawsuit.

It is not the first time the company has been charged with discriminating against Muslim women over the wearing of a hijab.

In 2009, Samantha Elauf, who was 17 at the time, filed a federal lawsuit in Tulsa, Okla., alleging the company rejected her for a job because she was wearing a hijab.

The EEOC filed another lawsuit for the same reason, saying the company denied work to a hijab-wearing woman who applied for a stocking position in 2008 at an Abercrombie Kids store at the Great Mall in Milpitas, Calif.

Khan's attorney said her client is looking to get Abercrombie to change its "look policy" to allow religious headscarves to be worn by employees, and for unspecified damages. The lawsuit alleges violations of federal and state civil rights and employment laws.

"Abercrombie prides itself on requiring what it calls a natural classic American style. But there's nothing American about discriminating against someone because of their religion," said Araceli Martinez-Olguin, an attorney with the Legal Aid Society-Employment Law Center.

"Such a look policy cannot be squared with our shared values. No worker should have to choose between their religion and their job."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: MIGRANT CHEAT GETS LEGAL AID TO FIGHT FRAUD BILL

Title: MIGRANT CHEAT GETS LEGAL AID TO FIGHT FRAUD BILL

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 04:48 PM (GMT)

MIGRANT CHEAT GETS LEGAL AID TO FIGHT FRAUD BILL

Molly Ganyo, 34, used forged papers

Saturday June 25,2011
By Andy Russell
http://www.express.co.uk/posts/view/254841...ight-fraud-bill

AN ILLEGAL immigrant nurse is using legal aid to fight a court order to pay back nearly £7,000 which she defrauded from taxpayers.

Nigerian Molly Ganyo, 34, admitted using forged papers to win £25,000 in grants to train as a nurse.

She was ordered to pay back only £10,000 to the NHS because that was said to be all she could afford. But now the mental health agency nurse is using the taxpayer-funded legal aid system to appeal against the compensation order.

Her husband Prize Ganyo, 35, who defrauded the NHS of more than £3,000 as part of the same scam, is also disputing the amount he has been ordered to pay.

Mrs Ganyo, a mother of two, pleaded guilty to fraud at Manchester Crown Court.

Judge Iain Hamilton ordered that she repay £10,000 at £100 a month and rejected a defence application that the compensation should be restricted to three years of repayments, totalling only £3,600.

Mrs Ganyo now claims she should only have to pay back the £3,600 because previous compensation rulings have been on the basis that the amount should not exceed what a defendant can afford over a three-year period.

Last night Sir Andrew Green, of MigrationWatch UK, said: “This is absurd. If this case succeeds, it will give outright encouragement to many more illegal immigrants to defraud the taxpayer.”

A spokesman for the TaxPayers’ Alliance said: “This is completely unfair. It is money she wrongly took from taxpayers, who will be left further out of pocket.”

Mrs Ganyo and her husband, of Beswick, Manchester, came to the UK in the late 1990s on student visas then obtained forged papers which falsely stated they had the right to stay in the country. The couple then used these papers to get NHS bursaries.

Mr Ganyo took more than £3,000 but dropped out of his radiography course after less than a year. Mrs Ganyo completed her nursing course.

By the time the fraud was discovered, Mr and Mrs Ganyo had both been granted indefinite leave to remain in the country by the Home Office, which was unaware of what they had done.

The couple admitted the fraud charges. Mrs Ganyo was sentenced to 200 hours’ community service and her husband has been sentenced to perform 100 hours.

Alexandra - June 27, 2011 07:14 PM (GMT)

They should be deported ASAP.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Peoria Mob: "Kill all white people!"

Title: Peoria Mob: "Kill all white people!"
Description: Things are heating up

Alexandra - June 27, 2011 05:26 AM (GMT)

http://freerepublic.com/focus/f-bloggers/2740188/posts

This is a reprint from the Peoria Chronicle's web site. It was posted by CJ, the sites owner and written by Paul Wilkinson. Paul is the President of the Altamont Park Neighborhood Association. I know Paul and he is the most straight forward person I've met. He has no need to embellish or to lie. That means this is true and it's an outrage. I hope Mr. Jackson of the local NAACP reads this and responds. That will be interesting. This is nothing more than hate and race war against whites.

Here is the posted letter:

Tonight, around 11 p.m., a group of at least 60-70 African American youth marched down one of the side streets (W. Thrush) to the 4 lane main drag (Sheridan). They were yelling threats to white residents. Things such as we need to kill alll the white people around here. They were physically intimidating anyone calling for help from the police. They were surrounding cars. Cars on the main drag had to slam on their brakes to either avoid the youth blocking not only all four lanes, but a large section of the side street as well. fights were breaking out among them. They were rushing residents who looked out their doors, going on to porches, yelling threats to people calling the police for help.

Cars were doing U turns on the streets just to avoid the mob, mostly male. One youth stated his grandfather was white and several assaulted him on the spot. One police officer answered the call. The youth split into two large groups, one heading north, the other south. They were also yelling racial threats to the police officer but he was outnumbered. Another police car did not show up until after the youth finally dispersed and the patty wagon (van) also eventually showed up.

Residents are very shaken, both black and white alike. This is the fifth large mob action in about a month with smaller groups of 10-12 are out threatening children and adults a few evenings a week or later into the night. The times vary, even occuring during the day. In talking to the police officer, they are short staffed. Residents were advised to simply keep inside and to lock their doors. In other words buckle down, it's not even safe to sit on your porch or go into your yards.

My take? These are the same youths that run our schools and these are the same that make our schools unsafe, can't make state standards, and assault teachers and staff. Why? Because there are no repercussions for their actions. At District 150, many are slapped on the wrist or told they suffer econmic let down or whatever and must need help. Even the Chief of Police who tried to correct this type of mob action on the south side streets by issuing J-Walking tickets a few years back, slapped them by removing the tickets. Why? Because the NAACP bitched up a storm. These were poor mis-understood children.

Time has come for us to step up. Us, I mean law abiding citizens and no, I don't mean grab the rifles and pitchforks. Two wrongs don't make a right. No, I mean it's time we citizens hold our elected leaders responsible and make, no, demand they take action and end this shit once and for all. I don't care if they have to stuff 10 to a cell, but if they are doing this type of crap in our streets, then lock them up.

Aw, but our City Leaders are too damn busy balancing the budget, raising our taxes, making up new fees, paying developers for hotels so Peoria can join the cliché and have walkways to the Civic Center. They do this by laying off cops, fireman, and city street workers.

If we were smart, we would band together, rent a real nice bus from Peoria Charter coach, put some Rap videos on the tvs on the bus, pull up to Thrush and Sheridan and load these poor mis directed youth onto them and drive them deep into the 5th District and let them out near Picture Ridge. Watch how fast this is taken care of then.

Credit: To the Peoria Chronicle and Paul Wilkinson, author

Ken Ardel - June 27, 2011 10:24 AM (GMT)

Gangs of simian fuzzy wuzzies are also attacking white folks in Chicago too.

An armed white population would take care of theses savage nig nogs.

Funny how a lot of US cities now don't have the money for policing and fire brigades, you would swear that things are being set up for a racial war to usher in the age of fascism.

Alexandra - June 27, 2011 11:52 AM (GMT)

If I remember right, Illinois has the strictest gun-control laws.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Woman tries to stop 3 negro thieves [Vd]

The Unhived Mind Ii > The Lower Races > Woman tries to stop 3 negro thieves [Vd]

Title: Woman tries to stop 3 negro thieves [Vd]

Ken Ardel - June 25, 2011 04:22 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2nCTkQXMWcQ

[dohtml]<iframe width="640" height="390" src="http://www.youtube.com/embed/2nCTkQXMWcQ" frameborder="0" allowfullscreen></iframe>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Census shows whites lose US majority among babies

Title: Census shows whites lose US majority among babies

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 04:01 AM (GMT)

Census shows whites lose US majority among babies

By HOPE YEN, Associated Press – Thu Jun 23, 2:32 pm ET http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20110623/ap_on_...W5zdXNzaG93c3c-

WASHINGTON – For the first time, more than half of the children under age 2 in the U. S. are minorities, part of a sweeping race change and a growing age divide between mostly white, older Americans and fast-growing younger ethnic populations that could reshape government policies.

Preliminary census estimates also show the share of African-American households headed by women — mostly single mothers — now exceeds African-American households with married couples, reflecting the trend of declining U.S. marriages overall.

The findings, based on the latest government data, offer a preview of final 2010 census results being released this summer that provide detailed breakdowns by age, race and household relationships.

Demographers say the numbers provide the clearest confirmation yet of a changing social order, one in which racial and ethnic minorities will become the U.S. majority by midcentury.

"We're moving toward an acknowledgment that we're living in a different world than the 1950s, where married or two-parent heterosexual couples are now no longer the norm for a lot of kids, especially kids of color," said Laura Speer, coordinator of the Kids Count project for the Baltimore-based Annie E. Casey Foundation.
[For complete coverage of politics and policy, go to Yahoo! Politics]

"It's clear the younger generation is very demographically different from the elderly, something to keep in mind as politics plays out on how programs for the elderly get supported," she said. "It's critical that children are able to grow to compete internationally and keep state economies rolling."

Currently, non-Hispanic whites make up just under half of all children 3 years old, which is the youngest age group shown in the Census Bureau's October 2009 annual survey, its most recent. In 1990, more than 60 percent of children in that age group were white.

William H. Frey, a demographer at the Brookings Institution who analyzed the data, said figures in the 2009 survey can sometimes be inexact compared with the 2010 census, which queries the entire nation. But he said when factoring in the 2010 data released so far, minorities outnumber whites among babies under age 2.

The preliminary figures are based on an analysis of the Current Population Survey as well as the 2009 American Community Survey, which sampled 3 million U.S. households to determine that whites made up 51 percent of babies younger than 2. After taking into account a larger-than-expected jump in the minority child population in the 2010 census, the share of white babies falls below 50 percent.

Twelve states and the District of Columbia now have white populations below 50 percent among children under age 5 — Hawaii, California, New Mexico, Texas, Arizona, Nevada, Florida, Maryland, Georgia, New Jersey, New York and Mississippi. That's up from six states and the District of Columbia in 2000.

At current growth rates, seven more states could flip to "minority-majority" status among small children in the next decade: Illinois, North Carolina, Virginia, Colorado, Connecticut, South Carolina and Delaware.

By contrast, whites make up the vast majority of older Americans — 80 percent of seniors 65 and older and roughly 73 percent of people ages 45-64. Many states with high percentages of white seniors also have particularly large shares of minority children, including Arizona, Nevada, California, Texas and Florida.

In California, for instance, the median age for whites jumped from 40.3 in 2000 to 44.6 years old, even as the state's overall median age remained one of the nation's lowest at 35.2 due to minority births — a sign of the rapid race change under way, according to 2010 census data released Thursday. California's minorities now make up 58 percent of the state's population, up from 51 percent in 2000.

"The recent emergence of this cultural generation gap in states with fast growth of young Hispanics has spurred heated discussions of immigration and the use of government services," Frey said. "But the new census, which will show a minority majority of our youngest Americans, makes plain that our future labor force is absolutely dependent on our ability to integrate and educate a new diverse child population."

Kenneth Johnson, a sociology professor and senior demographer at the University of New Hampshire, noted that much of the race change is being driven by increases in younger Hispanic women having more children than do white women, who have lower birth rates and as a group are moving beyond their prime childbearing years.

Because minority births are driving the rapid changes in the population, "any institution that touches or is impacted by children will be the first to feel the impact," Johnson said, citing as an example child and maternal health care that will have to be attentive to minorities' needs.

The numbers come amid public debate over hotly contested federal and state issues, from immigration and gay marriage to the rising cost of government benefits such as Medicare and Medicaid, that are resonating in different ways by region and demographics.

Alabama became the latest state this month to pass a wide-ranging anti-immigration law, which in part requires schools to report students' immigration status to state authorities. That follows tough immigration measures passed in similarly Republican-leaning states such as Georgia, Arizona and South Carolina.

But governors in Massachusetts, New York and Illinois, which long have been home to numerous immigrants, have opted out of the federal Secure Communities program that aims to deport dangerous criminals, saying it has made illegal immigrants afraid of reporting crimes to police. California may soon opt out as well.

States also are divided by region in their attitudes about old-age benefits and gay marriage, which is legal in five states and the District of Columbia.

Among African-Americans, U.S. households headed by women — mostly single mothers but also adult women living with siblings or elderly parents — represented roughly 30 percent of all African-American households, compared with the 28 percent share of married-couple African-American households. It was the first time the number of female-headed households surpassed those of married couples among any race group, according to census records reviewed by Frey dating back to 1950.

While the number of black single mothers has been gradually declining, overall marriages among blacks are decreasing faster. That reflects a broader U.S. trend of declining marriage rates as well as increases in non-family households made up of people living alone, or with unmarried partners or other non-relatives.

Female-headed households make up a 19 percent share among Hispanics and 9 percent each for whites and Asians.

Other findings:

_Multigenerational households composed of families with grandparents, parents and children were most common among Hispanics, particularly in California, Maryland, Illinois, Nevada and Texas, all states where they represented roughly 1 in 10 Latino households.

_Roughly 581,000, or a half percent, of U.S. households are composed of same-sex unmarried couples, representing nearly 1 in 10 households with unmarried partners. Unmarried gay couples made up the biggest shares in states in the Northeast and West, led by the District of Columbia, Oregon, Delaware, Massachusetts, Maine and Vermont. The largest numbers were in California and New York, which is now considering a gay marriage law.

_Minorities comprise a majority of renters in 10 states, plus the District of Columbia — Hawaii, Texas, California, Georgia, Maryland, New Mexico, Mississippi, New Jersey, Louisiana and New York.

Tony Perkins, president of the Washington, D.C.-based Family Research Council, a conservative interest group, emphasized the economic impact of the decline of traditional families, noting that single-parent families are often the most dependent on government assistance.

"The decline of the traditional family will have to correct itself if we are to continue as a society," Perkins said, citing a responsibility of individuals and churches. "We don't need another dose of big government, but a new Hippocratic oath of `do no harm' that doesn't interfere with family formation or seek to redefine family."

___

Online:

http://www.census.gov

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Savage nig nog gangs attack white people [Vd]

Title: Savage nig nog gangs attack white people [Vd]
Description: Iowa State Fair racial attacks

Ken Ardel - June 23, 2011 06:40 PM (GMT)

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7qeMslmDBxY...player_embedded

Wolveshater - June 23, 2011 07:09 PM (GMT)

Those darkies better be careful, they might get caught up in hang nigga night.

Alexandra - June 23, 2011 11:35 PM (GMT)

Problem is, people are too scared to stand up to them for fear of being branded as "racist." Not to mention that blacks seem to be a kind of "protected species."

You guys should check out Stuff Black People Don't Like. The blogger there even thinks that black behavior will be used as an excuse to bring in martial law. And Alberto Rivera said that what was needed was riots and anarchy--and it looks like we're well on our way.

http://stuffblackpeopledontlike.blogspot.com/

Ken Ardel - June 24, 2011 12:15 AM (GMT)

That is a good site Alexandra.
Looks like Alberto Rivera was right, but he was an ex jesuit priest so he had the inside scoop on the plan for fascism.

Mind you cleaning up these monkeyshines is not a bad thing.
Apartheid is the only way out of a bloodbath.

Alexandra - June 24, 2011 12:45 PM (GMT)

I like the site because it doesn't go "extreme" like the modern KKK (who wouldn't like me anyway due to my Cherokee ancestry).

I also like American Renaissance for the same reason (amren.com).

Wolveshater - June 24, 2011 12:51 PM (GMT)

The NFL story was amazing, how many of them end up broke after having millions. boggles the mind.

Alexandra - June 24, 2011 04:48 PM (GMT)

They can't manage their money.

Blacks tend to lack foresight and the ability to delay gratification. So--money burns a hole in their pocket, no doubt spent on shiny stuff, and these same traits are no doubt the reason why they're hit so hard with STDs and why so many are born out of wedlock.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Britain has THIRD WORLD schools riddled with lower

Title: Britain has THIRD WORLD schools riddled with lower Description: races [POOR POOR WHITE CHILDREN]

TheUnhivedMind - June 22, 2011 05:37 PM (GMT)

This is the purposeful destruction of the white race amongst serfs who're the only race along with the Judaic who can fight the enemy at the Vatican and its Sabbatean Hofjuden vermin. This is the purposeful dumbing down of the populace allowing an acceptance of military dictatorship which is coming in fast in the post-democratic society. Just check out 'Practical Idealism' from Richard Coudenhove-Kalergi back in 1925 and now look whats happening. Once everyone becomes a mulatto then multiple mulatto on mulatto breedings will take place. The DNA genetics of the human being will be degraded and destroyed leading to licensing and controls over who can breed. Eventually leading to laboratory kids of Satan only. May I remind you that this homosexuality parenting propaganda is a conditioner hoping for future acceptance of all kids of Satan coming from outside the relationship.

QUOTE

One in four primary school pupils are from an ethnic minority and almost a million schoolchildren do not speak English as their first language

Last updated at 4:40 PM on 22nd June 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...h-language.html

One in four primary school pupils in Britain today are from an ethnic minority - and almost a million schoolchildren do not speak English as their first language.

Official figures from the Department for Education show the numbers in both categories have soared in the last five years.

More than one in four (26.5 per cent) primary school pupils are from an ethnic minority, compared with 21.9 per cent in 2007.

Shock figures: One in four primary school children are from an ethnic minority research by the Department for Education shows. (Posed by models)

Around 150,000 more youngsters than in 2007 do not have English as their mother tongue.

Overall, the data shows that 957,490 pupils in primary, secondary and special schools, as well as pupil referral units (PRU) have a first language that is known or believed to be other than English.

In 2007, five years ago, this figure was just under 800,000. This does not include PRUs.

The figures are higher in primaries than in secondaries, with around one in six (16.8 per cent) of primary pupils speaking another language at home - 547,030 in total.

In secondary schools, that figure is around one in eight (12.3 per cent), some 399,550 children.

And in secondary schools, over one in five (22 per cent) of pupils are from an ethnic minority background, compared to 17.7 per cent five years ago.

A DfE spokesman said: 'Having English as a second language doesn't always mean that English skills are necessarily poor.

'It only shows the language to which the child was initially exposed to early on at home, irrespective of whether they speak English fluently later on.

'The evidence is clear that once English is established, children catch up and even overtake their peers.'

The statistics give a snapshot of the makeup of England's state schools in January this year.

They reveal that rising numbers of pupils are eligible for Free School Meals (FSM) - a measure of poverty - and more youngsters are taking them up.

In state secondary schools, 15.9 per cent of youngsters - 450,275 children are eligible and claiming the dinners.

This figure has risen for the third year in a row, meaning an extra 37,000 pupils are now on free meals than in 2008.

The numbers of FSM pupils in primary schools has also risen, with almost one in five (19.2 per cent), or 743,255 youngsters, now taking up the dinners.

This is 106,000 more than three years ago.

QUOTE

76 LANGUAGES UNDER ONE ROOF

In geography lessons, pupils at Southfields Community College (pictured above, last year) have a natural advantage. Choose any corner of the globe and you are likely to find at least one child from that region.

Youngsters at the South London comprehensive speak 76 languages between them, with their families coming from as far afield as Kazakhstan, Iraq, Congo, Burma and Afghanistan.

Many have fled war zones and some have not even been to school before.

The languages they speak include German, Mandarin and Arabic as well as lesser-known tongues such as Tigrinya, spoken in Eritrea and Ethiopia, and Ibo, originating from Nigeria.

Languages also include Twi, spoken in Ghana, and Tagalog, a language of the Philippines.

The 1,400-pupil school was hailed an inspirational success story after Ofsted inspectors gave it their highest possible grade - outstanding. The education watchdog praised the school in 2007 for enabling pupils to make 'remarkable' progress.

The over-subscribed comprehensive has become adept at catering for children still learning to speak English.

Those who join the school at 15 or 16 have just months to learn the language before sitting their GCSEs. Some have such little English they rely on picture books.

The school has a team of specialist language staff who between them speak more than a dozen languages.

They call on community leaders if a child arrives speaking a language that is not represented in the staff room.

Primary school place appeals rocket

Rising birth rates have contributed to a growing demand for primary school places. (Posed by models)

The numbers of parents appealing against primary school places has rocketed.

Tens of thousands of families lodged appeals last year after their children were refused places at their favoured school.

The DfE statistics show that 42,070 appeals were lodged against primary school admissions in 2009/10, a 10.5 per cent rise on the 38,080 appeals in 2008/09.

The figures also show that the numbers of appeals against primary places have almost doubled since 2005/06, when they stood at 21,995.

It is thought that intense pressure on primary school places, due to the rising birth rate, is fuelling the hike in appeals.

Today's statistics show that 85,165 appeals were lodged by parents against primary and secondary school allocations in 2009/10, slightly down from 88,275 the previous year.

Of these, 60,855 were heard by independent panels, with 18,110 cases decided in favour of the parents.

Schools minister Nick Gibb said: 'It is clear that rising birth rates are increasing demand and pressure on primary places, with more parents unhappy with the lack of choice open to them.

'The education system has rationed places in good schools for too long, which is why our reforms are designed both to drive up standards in the weakest performers and allow more children to go to the best.'

The Government is encouraging more groups to set up free schools, and 200 of the worst primaries are to be turned into academies, he added.

All parents have the right to appeal if any school they applied to refuses their child a place.

The system allows parents to argue that schools broke official admissions rules or that there are 'compelling' extra reasons why their child deserves a place.

> QUOTE
>
> SUCCESSFUL APPEALS UP 9% FOR PARENTS
>
> • Of the primary school appeals, 28,715 were heard by independent panels, with 7,045 decided in favour of the parents. This is a 9 per cent increase on the 6,460 decided in favour of parents in 2008/09
>
> • Families lodged 43,095 appeals against secondary school admissions, a drop from 50,195 in 2008/09
>
> • Of these, 32,135 were heard by appeals panels
>
> • A total of 11,065 secondary school cases were decided in favour of the parents, down slightly from 12,600 the year before.

Rising numbers of infants are being taught in 'large classes', above the legal limit, according to separate DfE figures published today.

The statistics show that 43,065 five to seven-year-olds are now taught in classes with more than 30 pupils.

This figure has risen by more than a third since last year, when it stood at 31,265 pupils, and almost doubled in five years. In 2007, the figure was 23,210 pupils.

Overall, 2.5 per cent of infant classes in England - 1,370 in total - have more than 30 pupils, up from 1.8 per cent in 2010.

Under current rules, there are certain circumstances in which schools can legally have an infants class of more than 30, for example if a parent wins an appeal for a place.

The figures show that 1,060 classes are considered 'lawfully' large, up from 855 last year.

It means that almost 10,000 pupils are being taught in the 310 'unlawfully' large classes. This has doubled in the space of a year, from 4,475 pupils taught in 140 classes in 2010.

The most common reasons for school legally exceeding the statutory limit on class sizes was pupils being admitted after a decision by an independent appeal panel, or because a pupil had originally been refused entry to a school in error.

The average class size for five to seven-year-olds is now 26.9 pupils, up from 26.6 last year.

For seven to 11-year-olds the average class size is 27 pupils, up from 26.8 in 2010, while in secondary schools it is 20.4, down from 20.5.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Trouble with Herman Cain

Title: The Trouble with Herman Cain

TheUnhivedMind - June 22, 2011 12:50 AM (GMT)

The Trouble with Herman Cain

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xl_RXM8Kt6g

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/xl_RXM8Kt6g?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/xl_RXM8Kt6g?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: NOW BLOODY STAY THERE !

The Unhived Mind Ii > The Lower Races > NOW BLOODY STAY THERE !

Title: NOW BLOODY STAY THERE !

TheUnhivedMind - June 21, 2011 12:11 AM (GMT)

Alexandra - June 21, 2011 04:34 PM (GMT)

Send Obama over there too...a village in Kenya is missing its idiot.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: One-fifth of men accused of sex grooming are Asian

Title: One-fifth of men accused of sex grooming are Asian

TheUnhivedMind - June 20, 2011 03:47 PM (GMT)

One-fifth of men accused of sex grooming are Asian, claims report that highlights 'failures of authorities' to help young girls

Last updated at 2:54 PM on 20th June 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...perts-warn.html

One in five men accused of grooming under-age girls for sex is Asian, according to a report.

It found that many more British children 'than thought' are falling into the clutches of sexual predators because they are not being adequately protected by the authorities.

The thousands of victims who were groomed for sex by adults in the past three years are believed to be the 'tip of an iceberg' with many more suffering, experts have warned.

New advice given to Government ministers shows the number of children being abused is being seriously underestimated by police, social services and charities.

Authorities are failing to properly investigate the problem, which the Child Exploitation and Online Protection Centre (Ceop) has described it as a 'hidden issue' in British society.

But the problem cannot be pinned on a particular ethnic group, the report may say later this month.

More than 2,000 young victims of grooming have been identified since January 2008 - but they are likely to form just a fraction of the total number affected the report is expected to reveal, The Times said today.

Abid Saddique and Mohammed Liaqat, who were each married with a child, cruised the streets of the city for victims while their unsuspecting families waited at home for them.

The vulnerable children were plied with vodka stored under the seats and taken to parks, hotel rooms or houses, where they were sometimes offered cocaine before being pressured into sex.

Some of the victims were runaways, and Ceop has found that missing children or those who run away from home are the most vulnerable to grooming.

Keith Vaz, chairman of the Commons Home Affairs Select Committee, said much more work needed to be carried out to find out the scale of grooming across the country.

'The findings are a cause for enormous concern because it appears to be a much larger issue than originally imagined,' he said.

Peter Davies, Ceop's chief executive, launched the investigation into localised grooming after former home secretary Jack Straw accused some Pakistani men in Britain of seeing white girls as 'easy meat' for sexual abuse.

But, speaking at the time, Mr Davies said: 'Child sexual exploitation is not exclusive to any single culture, community, race or religion - it cuts across all communities.

'Neither can it be simplified along ethnic lines where the victims constitute one ethnicity and offenders another.

'We need to continue to build our understanding about the different types of threats faced by children across a range of environments.'

In January, Mr Straw said child sex grooming was a 'specific problem' in the Pakistani community which needed to be 'more open' about the reasons behind it.

He spoke out after the ringleaders of a gang which subjected a string of vulnerable girls to rapes and sexual assaults were jailed indefinitely.

Children's charity Barnardo's, Muslim youth group The Ramadhan Foundation and retired detective chief superintendent Max McLean, who led a previous investigation into sexual exploitation involving young girls in Leeds, all said Mr Straw was wrong to highlight one community.

This year members of a Midlands sex gang were jailed for bringing a ‘reign of terror’ on Derby's streets as they targeted and groomed young girls for horrific sexual abuse.

New figures show 842 of the 2,083 victims since 2008 ran away from home or a council-run children's home, for example.

Ann Coffey, the Labour chairperson of the all-part parliamentary committee on runaway and missing children said: 'What is clear is that children are being trafficked across local police force borders, from flat to flat, for sex. Sometimes it is only for a short period but it is happening.

'Some of these children are from care homes and that is particularly disappointing as they are people we, the state, have taken into care because they are at risk and then they suffer this.'

Tomorrow Ms Coffey will start a debate in the Commons about the link between runaways and sexual exploitation of children.

In particular she will highlight how numbers of missing children are not recorded well enough, with councils not having to report children missing until after 24 hours and others failing to do so at all.

The Government's Children's Minister Tim Loughton and Crime Minister James Brokenshire are preparing an action plan because of increasing concerns about the sexual grooming and trafficking of British children.

Key to this will be the improved recording of these crimes and keeping better track of missing children.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Swedish Racemixing State Propaganda [Vd]

Title: Swedish Racemixing State Propaganda [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - June 20, 2011 02:34 AM (GMT)

Swedish Racemixing State Propaganda

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3u-mihtgTm0

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/3u-mihtgTm0?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/3u-mihtgTm0?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

The government of Sweden paid for this video and is broadcasting it in Sweden and is promoting race mixing. It shows a woman having sex with a Negro while singing the Swedish National Anthem. The Jew (Hittites) are promoting this filth and soon they will be promoting this race mixing filth world wide in a more aggressive manner soon. Race mixing is a tool of the Communists that they use in order to destroy nations. "Thou shalt not commit adultery," basically forbids race mixing and sleeping with another man's wife.

Race mixing is forbidden in scripture! The AntiChrist (Hittites) are trying to destroy God's original creation. The White Race is God's original creation, the first word of man in Genesis in a concordance is actually Adam, which means a Human Being, to flush, and to show blood in the face. Only the white race can flush, blush, and show blood in the face! The other races was not created by God. So people get a clue, nonwhites cannot be saved because they are the AntiChrist along with the Jew (Hittite).

Phazon - June 20, 2011 04:15 AM (GMT)

QUOTE

The other races was not created by God. So people get a clue, nonwhites cannot be saved because they are the AntiChrist along with the Jew (Hittite).

So who were they created by then?

"For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him." - Romans 10:12

"And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth..." - Acts 17:26

"Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?" - Malachi 2:10

"Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons:
But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him." - Acts 10:34-35

"For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another. For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this; Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." - Galatians 5:13-14

I agree that there is an obvious agenda to race-mix us in order to destroy our race, culture and heritage, but the above statement is ludicrous. People of whatever race/ blood can be saved through Jesus Christ.

and if I had a choice between kicking out of my country all the people who are not of the white race or all of the people who don't believe in Jesus Christ, I would choose the latter, because it's the rich white men in our nations that are controlling the corporations that are enslaving us and the white secular/atheist left-wing indocrinated sheeple who go along with them who are causing the most damage to our nations.

A majority of our race today are as thick as bricks, which is why we're in this mess.

CommanderKeen - June 20, 2011 10:14 AM (GMT)

[dohtml] <iframe width="480" height="390" src="http://www.youtube.com/embed/VYeZW-WcSlc" frameborder="0" allowfullscreen></iframe> [/dohtml]

Alexandra - June 20, 2011 11:24 AM (GMT)

I've seen a site that claimed blacks can't be saved. Yes, they can.

I recall the account of Philip and the Ethiopian. Note that the Ethiopian didn't hang around Judaea, but rather went back to his own country with the gospel.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Shelby County, TN sees rise in lesbian gang rapes.

Title: Shelby County, TN sees rise in lesbian gang rapes.
Description: [TIME TO RID OUR LANDS OF LOWER RACES]

TheUnhivedMind - June 20, 2011 02:46 AM (GMT)

Shelby County, TN sees rise in lesbian gang rapes.

Police in Shelby County say an armed gang of black females has committed a large number of gang rapes in area high schools as well as other crimes.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6t3a7fXjgKI

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/6t3a7fXjgKI?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/6t3a7fXjgKI?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Another Toronto negro thug makes good

Title: Another Toronto negro thug makes good

Ken Ardel - June 18, 2011 03:47 AM (GMT)

http://www.torontosun.com/2011/06/17/jane-...d#disqus_thread

TORONTO - Murder victim Andrew Stewart was an up-and-coming rapper who spoke about life in the Jane and Finch area and was looking forward to spending Father's Day with his five-year-old daughter.

Instead, his grieving family is planning his funeral service.

"He was looking forward so much to see his daughter," Stewart's mom, Angela Wilson, said on Friday. "She will never get a chance to see her father again."

Wilson was in church praying when Stewart, 26, was shot multiple times.

"They didn't tell me until afterwards," she said. "I am devastated and in shock."

Wilson was at the 2901 Jane St., complex on Friday to see where her son was slain. She examined bloodstains on a walkway that was being stepped over by residents.

Emergency crews were called to the complex just after 10 p.m. on Thursday to find Stewart suffering from gunshot wounds to the chest and abdomen.

More than 40 people gathered at the scene before he was rushed to hospital where he died, police said. Few witnesses have come forward to police with information.

"He was starting to go places with his music and wanted to make a better life for his daughter," Wilson said. "He had turned his life around and was doing well."

Stewart, who went by the stage name kd, for the Kraft Dinner he loved, had released a first CD last month called “kd in da hood,” which his friends said was doing well on YouTube.

“He always rapped about Jane and Finch and the hard life up here,” Wilson said. “That is the only life that he knew.”

She said her son had run-ins with Toronto Police over drugs but had turned his life around and was making a name for himself.

“He leaves a little girl behind,” Wilson sobbed. “What is going to happen to her?”

Family member Sharon Stewart said he had made plans to spend Sunday with his daughter.

“His daughter meant so much to him,” Stewart said. “How do we explain this to her.”

Neighbour Babita Sudama said she heard three shots and looked outside on Thursday.

“People were crying and screaming his name,” Sudama said. “They were saying ‘Stay with us K.D. Don’t die.’”

She said her family is still shaking by the incident. Even before the shooting, they seldom left their home when it was dark.

Police said a vehicle was seen speeding away from the scene. The suspect is described as a brown man, about 5-foot-7, with a thin face and build. He wore his hair in short braids.

Police are asking anyone with information to contact Det.-Sgt. Brian Borg at 416-808-7377, Det.-Sgt. Ed Boyd at 416-808-7251 or Crime Stoppers anonymously at 416-222-TIPS (8477).

READER'S COMMENTS »

Showing 1-20 of 77 comments

archroyal
Following the generosity of our now deceased and former Prime Minister, our Canada threw out the welcome mat to all and sundry wishing to settle our lands. Previously entry to Canada was conditional and selective. Most applicants who applied without a recognized vocation or profession or, with no sponsor to support their entry for at least the first year, were denied. The government of that day refused to accept any certain to become additions to the social assistance and/or welfare rolls.

With the changes implemented by the late Pierre E. Trudeau our country became a haven for every fraud, cheat, and criminal who was able to manipulate entry to Canada. It seems Toronto and Vancouver absorbed most of the cast offs other nations were pleased to get rid of. Jamaica ranks among the top nations who took advantage of our 'open door' policy.

In Toronto the ghetto of Jane and Finch was born. The area became notorious for the gangs and guns of the immigrants from Jamaica. Frequent death by violence has lived in this location ever since. But the thugs and killers from Jamaica thrive and grow in numbers. They've spread out into pockets throughout Toronto. They've been joined by the Asian rejects who have manged to evade rejection at points of entry.

Our Canada no longer resembles the peace loving symbol it once was. We depend on growing numbers of police forces, security/safety officers , residential alarm systems to protect our way of life and our person. Night life is reserved for the young , thieves, assault artists, killers, and those who enjoy destroying peace and tranquility. We build larger prisons. We revise and add more laws to our criminal justice system. More powers to our police and military.

The flow of the unwelcome continues unabated. The murder and mayhem continues on our streets.
A Liked Reply
1 hour ago 10 Likes

the_moderator
Well done.
Like Reply
3 minutes ago in reply to archroyal

Ron Aitken
One less punk-a*s piece of crap sub-human to worry about. Good riddance to bad rubbish!
A Liked Reply
10 hours ago 37 Likes

Carro Biverman
Agreed. So long as the scum keeps wiping each other out with no collateral damage I am all for it. Well, deporting them by the planeload would be better.
Like Reply
1 hour ago in reply to Ron Aitken 2 Likes livedieyoung

Unless you know the guy, and he committed some sort of indecency against you...

There is something seriously wrong with you. Seek mental help. You're just way too angry.
Like Reply
9 hours ago in reply to Ron Aitken 5 Likes

Billy Baily
Ron 18 likes - onelove27 1 like. I guess everyone else feels the same way.
Like Reply
7 hours ago in reply to livedieyoung 2 Likes

Onelove27
Easy there Ron! Did you know this victim to make sure a horrible comment?
Think first before writing such negative comments, because you look like a real fool.
Like Reply
9 hours ago in reply to Ron Aitken 5 Likes

TonCrook
they only clicked "like" because you cant see them... and noone knows who there are... forget their ignorances
Like Reply
1 hour ago in reply to Onelove27

anonymous8301
Thats so horrible of you to say .You should be ashamed of yourself and seek mental help immediately.People like you are just as dangerous as the sub human crap you just spoke of..Where is your humanity? That was a pretty subhuman statement to make . Im honestly appalled and disgusted that you would say that about a fellow human being.Is this what societies come to? Are we really that desensitized? I feel sorry for you. You must be a real miserable prick.
Like Reply
5 hours ago in reply to Ron Aitken 1 Like

5Litam8
Totally agree! A family is in grief. They believe he was trying to change; turn his life around. What about the first-class citizens that provide the dope and guns? Frank do you play a major role in the organization? It includes politicians, police, doctors, engineers, lawyers, nurses, teachers and family members. Some children will never have a chance in this sick, sinister society.
Like Reply
8 minutes ago in reply to anonymous8301

Onelove27
Easy there Ron! Did you know this victim to make such a horrible remark?
Like Reply
9 hours ago in reply to Ron Aitken 1 Like

Terry_Springbody
How do 35 people like this piece of shit statement i dont know
Like Reply
1 hour ago in reply to Ron Aitken

Michael Thomas Paquette
"Up and coming rapper". "Seeing his daughter". Any chance any of these guys was an up-and-coming computer programmer, entrepreneur, teacher, historian... No? How about a hamburg flipper? Do I sound angry? Yes, I'm tired of paying such high taxes to support a school system that is ineffective in the face of a broken social contract (pls, no poverty B.S.) by generations of people whose only obvious and dubious contribution to society is their high birth rate. Still, I guess with so much time on their hands... This is not about "community" but about a lot of people whose values simply aren't mine.
A Liked Reply
2 hours ago 9 Likes

Carro Biverman
'Any chance any of these guys was an up-and-coming computer programmer, entrepreneur, teacher, historian...'

A rhetorical question presumably.
Like Reply
1 hour ago in reply to Michael Thomas Paquette 1 Like

ClarkWendel
I'm moving. It's time to strap one of these "brown men" to the grill of my car and keep driving north until someone says " What the fawk is that"? That's where i'll build my house.
A Liked Reply
9 hours ago 26 Likes

Carro Biverman
Hahahaha
A Liked Reply
1 hour ago in reply to ClarkWendel 3 Likes

Jerko Mcjerkerson
wow I am shocked! the suspect is described as brown with braids? Stop the presses! at least they are shooting each other and not the rest of us.

Like Reply
10 hours ago 20 Likes

Steve
They shot and killed Jane Creba a few years ago and she wasn't one of them!!
A Liked Reply
10 hours ago in reply to Jerko Mcjerkerson 12 Likes

CARLTORONTO
Steve, Ms. Creba was NOT a target. She was a victim of a stray bullet during a shoot out between gangs. There is a difference.
Like Reply
9 hours ago in reply to Steve 4 Likes

jubejube
But had they not been out there shooting at eachother in the first place, Jane Creba would be alive today. Whether the bullet was meant for someone or not, people are dying because there are people out there who have no regard for human life.
A Liked Reply
8 hours ago in reply to CARLTORONTO 3 Likes
1 2 … 4 Next →

Job 228 - June 18, 2011 11:11 AM (GMT)

Hmmm, I guess you're one of those who believes that people with dark skin are behind ALL violence and misery on this planet. It seems to be the only thing of which your philosophic posts are about.

The lower races?! (lessez moi rire :lol:) So you believe in the theory of evolution too?!

Perhaps you should do some family research. It might turn out that there are some of your ancestors who had dark skin...

What a horrible thought! :blink:

Ken Ardel - June 18, 2011 12:21 PM (GMT)

QUOTE (Job 228 @ Jun 18 2011, 11:11 AM)

> Hmmm, I guess you're one of those who believes that people with dark skin are behind ALL violence and misery on this planet. It seems to be the only thing of which your philosophic posts are about.
>
> The lower races?! (lessez moi rire :lol:) So you believe in the theory of evolution too?!
>
> Perhaps you should do some family research. It might turn out that there are some of your ancestors who had dark skin...
>
> What a horrible thought! :blink:

Race is more than dark skin.

The negro population in Toronto is less than 8 per cent, yet are responsible for violent crimes that are also well way beyond their proportional numbers.

These folks are immigrants and children of immigrants that only started to exist in any numbers from less than 40 years ago in Toronto.

As immigrants they had all the benefits available to them and then some to better themselves, but the inner drive for chaos of the negro mind is too strong of a pull. They produce crap and mayhem like there is in Africa or the Caribbean or inner city USA or Brixton UK or anywhere else you find them.

20 out of 26 Toronto police's most wanted fugitives are negro males.

Negroes bring crime and misery anywhere they go, the proof of the pudding is in the eating, look at any major US city with a high negro population and you see the same thing over and over.

Dark skin is not the problem, low intelligence, high testosterone, laziness, unwarranted self entitlement, whacked or non existent family values and a society that panders to their monkeyshines is .

If you do not like the title of this category listing on this forum, take it up with Mr. Oxley.
If you do not like me to contribute to this category listing called "Lower Races" too bad, tough shit. It is there and I use it. If you do not like it then do not read it.

I advocate separate nations for separate races.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: 'Find a river to dump her in': Chilling note found

Title: 'Find a river to dump her in': Chilling note found Description: in car near to home of singer Joss Stone

TheUnhivedMind - June 16, 2011 02:35 PM (GMT)

'Find a river to dump her in': Chilling note found in car near to home of singer Joss Stone after police investigate 'plot to rob her'

Last updated at 1:31 PM on 16th June 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...er-dump-in.html

A chilling note found in a car close to Joss Stone's home allegedly contained details of a plan to 'find a river to dump her in'.

The soul singer, who has an estimated £9million fortune, was apparently the target of a plot to attack and rob her.

Other handwritten notes found in the vehicle used the words 'rob and kill, money in the safe, Joscelyn rob,' it was claimed.

Detectives probing the case also apparently found a Samurai sword, knives a hammer, gloves and balaclavas in the small red vehicle which was parked close to the 24-year-old's £500,000 Devon home.

Miss Stone, a good friend of Prince William, uses the gated house in Ashill, near Uffculme, as a UK base when she is not touring or working in the U.S..

Today Junior Bradshaw, 30, and Kevin Liverpool, 33, both from Manchester, were remanded in custody after appearing before Magistrates in Exeter accused of conspiracy to rob and cause grievous bodily harm.

The men, who spoke only to confirm their identities during the hearing, will next appear at Exeter Crown Court on July 1.

They arrived at the court casually dressed, Liverpool in a black T-shirt and Bradshaw, who had dreadlocks pulled into short pigtails, wearing a grey sweatshirt.

They were later remanded in custody after a hearing which lasted around 40 minutes. No members of the Stone family were in court for the hearing.

Accused: Kevin Liverpool, 33, left, and Junior Bradshaw, 30, appeared before Exeter Magistrates' Court today charged with conspiracy to commit grievous bodily harm and to rob

The singer, whose hits include Super Duper Love and Fell In Love With A Boy, was keen to reassure fans after her rural home became the focus of a police investigation involving up to 20 detectives.

She said yesterday: ‘I’d like to thank everyone for their concern but I’m absolutely fine and getting on with life as normal while the police continue with their inquiries.’

Her home was cordoned off and under police guard while detectives from the major crime unit investigated.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

23c10

PLEASE MOVE OVER TO THE NEW SITE:

http://z15.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mind_III/

18 JULY 2011 .. GOLD HITS NEW HIGH OF $1604 AS SILVER RAISES TO $40.38 PER OUNCE. THE OVERT DEPRESSION IS ON, ALL READY FOR THE COMING COLLAPSE BETWEEN OCT 2011 - OCT 2012! THE LIKES OF WHICH HAS NEVER BEEN WITNESSED BEFORE WORLDWIDE, ARE YOU READY? MENTALLY? YOU SURE? GET HARDENED NOW AND PREPARE ASAP.....

THE UNHIVED MIND
This site is dedicated to the truthsayers assassinated such as William Cooper, Jim Arrabito, Alberto Rivera, Joe Vialls, Brian Downing Quig, Phil Schneider etc.

KING 'FARNESE' CARLOS
World War III
The Unhived Mind

THE KNIGHTS OF MALTA
DEUTSCHE VERTEIDIGUNGS DIENST
CARPATHIA HOSTINGS INC CYBERNAZIS

CARDINAL RATZINGER
And his Oslo Accords
UHM

C.I.A (D.V.D) PREPARE TO
TESLA ATTACK U.K
EXERCISE ORION
SEPTEMBER 2010
UHM

WTC nuclear demolition
Dimitri Khalezov

WATCH OUT MIDDLE EAST
KING JUAN CARLOS IS
IN RUSSIA 24/25 FEB

LATEST INFO

The Unhived Mind Ii->WORLD CONTROL->The Homosexuality Agenda

Pages: (4) [1] 2 3 ... Last »

NEW TOPIC NEW POLL

The Homosexuality Agenda

		Topic Title	Topic Starter	Replies	Views	Last Action
		BBC axed gay scene from Torchwood [HOMO COMMON PURPOSE]	TheUnhivedMind	0	57	19th July 2011 - 06:07 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Planned Pedophilia, UN Style	TheUnhivedMind	0	39	18th July 2011 - 05:48 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Christian preacher arrested for saying homosexuali is a sin	TheUnhivedMind	0	58	17th July 2011 - 11:03 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Appeals Court Temporarily Reinstates 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell' Policy	TheUnhivedMind	0	19	17th July 2011 - 03:24 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Are Indian doctors turning girls into boys for parents who wanted a son? [RADIATION]	TheUnhivedMind	0	39	15th July 2011 - 06:54 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		'I would be compromising my moral conscience if I participated': N.Y. clerk quits over pas	TheUnhivedMind	0	21	15th July 2011 - 04:19 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Payout for gay BBC man who hassled worker	TheUnhivedMind	0	48	13th July 2011 - 06:00 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Cities move toward transgender health care	TheUnhivedMind	0	21	13th July 2011 - 02:42 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Kid Meets First Gay Couple	TheUnhivedMind	0	30	13th July 2011 - 02:16 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Make your mind up! Cross dresser who stole £12,000 benefits turns up at court dressed as a	TheUnhivedMind	0	34	12th July 2011 - 11:03 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The U.S. city set to pay gay employees more than straight	TheUnhivedMind	0	44	11th July 2011 - 10:38 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Playboy and the (Homo) Sexual Revolution	TheUnhivedMind	0	37	11th July 2011 - 10:05 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Rio de Janeiro aims to become world capital of gay tourism [NUKE THE HELL HOLE!]	TheUnhivedMind	0	24	11th July 2011 - 05:15 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		U.S. court tells military to stop discharging gays	TheUnhivedMind	0	17	11th July 2011 - 12:48 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Brits are fed up with gay mind-reframing TV from hell [COMMON PURPOSE HELL DROSS]	TheUnhivedMind	0	28	10th July 2011 - 11:14 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		What HAVE they done to Corrie? [COMMON PURPOSE]	TheUnhivedMind	0	55	9th July 2011 - 01:08 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		HOMOSEXUAL GANGSTERS RUN BULLYBOY LONDON'S SOUTHWARK COUNCIL [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	9th July 2011 - 12:19 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		More lesbian couples getting 'married' than gay men for the first time [NOT MARRIAGE]	TheUnhivedMind	0	18	8th July 2011 - 11:03 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		California set to put US gay and lesbian history on public school curriculum [DISGRACE!]	TheUnhivedMind	0	43	6th July 2011 - 06:09 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Opera North denies homophobia	TheUnhivedMind	0	37	5th July 2011 - 05:43 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Homophobia persists in India despite court reforms	TheUnhivedMind	0	15	5th July 2011 - 04:05 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Hunt: Politicians Lag U.S. Voters on Same-Sex Marriage [THIS IS NOT MARRIAGE]	TheUnhivedMind	0	30	4th July 2011 - 05:09 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Billy Elliot creator protests at 'homophobic' decision to scrap his community opera	TheUnhivedMind	0	17	4th July 2011 - 04:51 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Philip Hensher: The struggle for gay rights is far from over	TheUnhivedMind	0	32	3rd July 2011 - 02:24 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Church of England to reconsider stance on gay bishops [THIS IS NOT THE HOUSE OF GOD]	TheUnhivedMind	0	36	1st July 2011 - 06:00 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Attack on Heterosexuality is Satanism	TheUnhivedMind	0	55	30th June 2011 - 05:47 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Cuba's gay pride parade: big debut, few marchers	TheUnhivedMind	0	46	30th June 2011 - 12:23 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Feds find fix was in on 'study' of homosexuality in ranks	TheUnhivedMind	0	21	30th June 2011 - 12:00 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		I Certainly Do Not Want To Wake Up Next To This Joker [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	88	29th June 2011 - 03:23 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Feds find fix was in on 'study' of homosexuality in ranks	TheUnhivedMind	0	86	28th June 2011 - 07:03 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS "SAME SEX" MARRIAGE	TheUnhivedMind	0	43	28th June 2011 - 06:54 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Cowell backs Walsh over claims	TheUnhivedMind	1	28	28th June 2011 - 05:55 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		You're all equal here: Swedish school bans 'him' and 'her' in bid to stop children fallin	TheUnhivedMind	0	43	28th June 2011 - 04:08 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Financiers Who Helped Back N.Y. Gay Marriage Campaign	TheUnhivedMind	0	21	28th June 2011 - 03:52 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Girls as young as ONE 'forced to have sex change operations in India	TheUnhivedMind	1	59	27th June 2011 - 06:06 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		No 'him' or 'her' preschool fights gender bias	Halvor	0	35	27th June 2011 - 11:06 AM Last Post by: Halvor
		Scottish Government's controversial Sectarian Offences Bill to tackle Homophobic crime	TheUnhivedMind	0	28	25th June 2011 - 06:07 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lewisham Council and Lewisham Police marked Internation Day Against Homophobia	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	25th June 2011 - 06:00 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Child "friends" found in sex offenders home, court told	TheUnhivedMind	0	22	25th June 2011 - 05:59 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		London council urges gay couples to become foster parents	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	25th June 2011 - 05:59 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		HOMOSEXUAL LAWS BROUGHT IN UNDER GUISE OF SECTARIANISM [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	33	25th June 2011 - 05:34 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		New York state approves gay marriage	TheUnhivedMind	0	18	25th June 2011 - 04:52 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		"Vagina Monologues" - Porn Play Debased Women	TheUnhivedMind	0	39	25th June 2011 - 03:39 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		California to require homosexual/transgender Americans added to school textbooks	TheUnhivedMind	0	47	24th June 2011 - 04:41 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		David Cameron urges sporting bodies to help tackle homophobia	TheUnhivedMind	0	24	24th June 2011 - 04:08 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Same-Sex Household Growth 6x that of Hetro	TheUnhivedMind	0	29	24th June 2011 - 03:19 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gay tolerance teaching mandatory in Toronto school Sodomites run the show	Ken Ardel	0	62	22nd June 2011 - 11:55 AM Last Post by: Ken Ardel
		Make or break for gay marriage as rival camps clash ahead of vote over New York same-s	TheUnhivedMind	0	47	22nd June 2011 - 03:28 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		USDA gay-sensitivity training seeks larger audienc	TheUnhivedMind	0	22	22nd June 2011 - 12:25 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Obama Mulling Endorsement of Same-Sex Marriage	TheUnhivedMind	0	29	20th June 2011 - 09:31 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Church clears the way for celibate gay bishops	TheUnhivedMind	0	36	20th June 2011 - 12:40 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Anne Robinson attacked for teasing vicar about his 'gay' shirt during The Weakest Link show	TheUnhivedMind	1	61	18th June 2011 - 05:52 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		UN issues first resolution condemning discriminati against gay people	TheUnhivedMind	0	32	18th June 2011 - 12:36 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		France rejects same-sex marriage bill [FOR NOW]	TheUnhivedMind	0	61	16th June 2011 - 06:18 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gay Christian embarks on homophobic 'hurt' pilgrim [NO SUCH THING AS A GAY CHRISTIAN]	TheUnhivedMind	0	62	16th June 2011 - 03:08 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The High Cost of Insulting a Canadian Lesbian	TheUnhivedMind	0	67	13th June 2011 - 03:19 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gay couples urged to become foster parents to halt care crisis [MAKE THEM GAY TOO!]	TheUnhivedMind	0	55	10th June 2011 - 09:44 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Tel Aviv's Gay Pride parade draws thousands to the City [CFR & FORD FOUNDATION HATE ISRAEL]	TheUnhivedMind	0	38	10th June 2011 - 09:33 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		US bishop ends ban on blessing of same-sex couples [KICK HIM OUT THE CHURCH NOW!]	TheUnhivedMind	0	42	9th June 2011 - 03:12 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Q&A gets Weird [video]	Phazon	0	101	7th June 2011 - 04:18 AM Last Post by: Phazon
		Gay softball league limit on straight players OK'd	TheUnhivedMind	0	36	7th June 2011 - 01:30 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Schools to kids: You can be boys or girls or both	TheUnhivedMind	0	76	6th June 2011 - 01:03 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		France stands with Spain in Solidarity [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	62	3rd June 2011 - 05:12 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Illinois Gay Families Celebrate Start of Civil Unions	TheUnhivedMind	0	45	2nd June 2011 - 10:48 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Objections fly with rainbow flag	TheUnhivedMind	0	39	2nd June 2011 - 10:46 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Denying the Homosexual Link	TheUnhivedMind	0	78	1st June 2011 - 02:46 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gay Student Crowned Prom Queen at Va. High School	TheUnhivedMind	0	66	31st May 2011 - 10:16 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Brazilian President Pulls Anti-Homophobia Kits From Schools	TheUnhivedMind	0	55	29th May 2011 - 04:19 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Male Daughters	Narrow_Is_The_Way	0	152	27th May 2011 - 01:07 AM Last Post by: Narrow_Is_The_Way
		Gaming's Most Beautiful Transgender Gamer Releasing Semi-Nude Photo Book	Narrow_Is_The_Way	0	206	27th May 2011 - 01:01 AM Last Post by: Narrow_Is_The_Way
		Feminists hopping mad over Bunny Girls	TheUnhivedMind	1	120	25th May 2011 - 07:03 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Homosexual Chris Bryant bringing in homosexuality into Britain [COMMON PURPOSE]	TheUnhivedMind	0	114	23rd May 2011 - 05:45 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Church of Scotland votes to allow gay ministers	TheUnhivedMind	0	48	23rd May 2011 - 04:07 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'I'm glad I'm out as gay,' says David Laws	TheUnhivedMind	0	108	18th May 2011 - 09:35 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Bisexuals	TheUnhivedMind	0	210	13th May 2011 - 01:07 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		House panel OKs defense bill, votes to delay law allowing gays to serve openly	TheUnhivedMind	0	29	12th May 2011 - 10:43 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Ugandan parliament drops bill that would jail gay people for life	TheUnhivedMind	0	57	11th May 2011 - 05:43 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Navy says chaplains may perform same-sex unions	TheUnhivedMind	0	72	10th May 2011 - 12:47 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		South Africa gay rights activists warn of homophob attack after murder	TheUnhivedMind	0	81	3rd May 2011 - 06:14 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Calm down, ladies! Ellen DeGeneres and Lady Gaga kiss after she performs new song on her	TheUnhivedMind	0	231	30th April 2011 - 02:00 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'My father liked being called gay,' admits Cary Grant's daughter in new memoir	TheUnhivedMind	0	132	29th April 2011 - 12:13 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Two Dads and now Lady Gaga as Godmother [VOMITATION, PUKE AWAY!]	TheUnhivedMind	3	221	26th April 2011 - 03:12 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		Comedian, Vancouver restaurant ordered to pay for insults against Lesbian	TheUnhivedMind	0	55	24th April 2011 - 01:59 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Women to sue hotel that 'banned them because they're gay'	TheUnhivedMind	0	42	24th April 2011 - 01:58 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Case study: 'My son was six when he first demanded a sex change	TheUnhivedMind	3	117	21st April 2011 - 06:18 PM Last Post by: Alexandra
		J. Crew Ad With Boy's Pink Toenails Creates Stir	Halvor	1	135	20th April 2011 - 10:48 AM Last Post by: Halvor
		Puberty blocker for children considering sex chang	TheUnhivedMind	0	121	16th April 2011 - 12:12 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		California set to teach gay history and rights in schools [HOMESCHOOL ONLY!]	TheUnhivedMind	0	56	16th April 2011 - 12:10 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Soho's John Snow pub shuts doors before 'gay kiss-in'	TheUnhivedMind	0	99	15th April 2011 - 06:20 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'I want to spank Britney Spears': Rihanna whips up interests in her duet with fellow pop st	TheUnhivedMind	0	98	12th April 2011 - 03:40 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Dame Helen Mirren promoting Lesbianism	TheUnhivedMind	0	175	11th April 2011 - 02:13 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Outrage as top Italian history professor blames fall of Rome on Rise of homosexuality	TheUnhivedMind	0	125	9th April 2011 - 02:16 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		FEMINISM, DEFINING THE FEMINIST PROBLEM [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	131	6th April 2011 - 06:18 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Censored gay sex in From Here to Eternity restored for new edition	TheUnhivedMind	0	146	5th April 2011 - 05:08 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Coronation Street lesbians pose in the bath	TheUnhivedMind	0	467	2nd April 2011 - 04:35 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Waterloo Road 'CinderFELLA' play [BBC COMMON PURPOSE AGAIN!]	TheUnhivedMind	1	267	31st March 2011 - 12:36 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Taylor Momsen puts on raunchy stage dance with female fan	TheUnhivedMind	0	142	28th March 2011 - 02:29 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'ARE YOU GAY' QUIZ FOR 11-YEAR-OLDS	TheUnhivedMind	0	189	28th March 2011 - 02:00 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Lucia René: Unplugging the Patriarchy - a Project Avalon Interview	Halvor	0	159	27th March 2011 - 01:58 PM Last Post by: Halvor
		French gay couples condemn discriminatory laws	TheUnhivedMind	0	77	26th March 2011 - 01:34 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

Showing 100 of 339 topics sorted by last post date in descending order from the beginning Go!

Pages: (4) [1] 2 3 ... Last »

NEW TOPIC NEW POLL

Open Topic (new replies)

Open Topic (no new replies)

Hot Topic (new replies)

Hot Topic (no new replies)

Poll (new votes)

Poll (no new votes)

Locked Topic

Moved Topic

Search this forum: Enter Keywords Go

- The Homosexuality Agenda Go

Mark this forum as read

Hosted for free by InvisionFree (Terms of Use: Updated 2/10/2010) | Powered by Invision Power Board v1.3 Final © 2003 IPS, Inc.
Page creation time: 0.0520 seconds | Archive

The Orsini Skin by Bunthius Zeta Board mods

0

View Full Version: The Homosexuality Agenda

51. Church clears the way for celibate gay bishops
52. Anne Robinson attacked for teasing vicar about his
53. UN issues first resolution condemning discriminati
54. France rejects same-sex marriage bill
55. Gay Christian embarks on homophobic 'hurt' pilgrim
56. The High Cost of Insulting a Canadian Lesbian
57. Gay couples urged to become foster parents to halt
58. Tel Aviv's Gay Pride parade draws thousands to the
59. US bishop ends ban on blessing of same-sex couples
60. Q&A gets Weird [video]
61. Gay softball league limit on straight players OK'd
62. Schools to kids: You can be boys or girls or both
63. France stands with Spain in Solidarity [Vd]
64. Illinois Gay Families Celebrate Start of Civil
65. Objections fly with rainbow flag
66. Denying the Homosexual Link
67. Gay Student Crowned Prom Queen at Va. High School
68. Brazilian President Pulls Anti-Homophobia Kits
69. Male Daughters
70. Gaming’s Most Beautiful Transgender Gamer
71. Feminists hopping mad over Bunny Girls
72. Homosexual Chris Bryant bringing in homosexuality
73. Church of Scotland votes to allow gay ministers
74. 'I'm glad I'm out as gay,' says David Laws
75. Bisexuals
76. House panel OKs defense bill, votes to delay law
77. Ugandan parliament drops bill that would jail gay
78. Navy says chaplains may perform same-sex unions
79. South Africa gay rights activists warn of homophob
80. Calm down, ladies! Ellen DeGeneres and Lady Gaga

81. 'My father liked being called gay,' admits Cary
82. Two Dads and now Lady Gaga as Godmother
83. Comedian, Vancouver restaurant ordered to pay for
84. Women to sue hotel that 'banned them because
85. Case study: 'My son was six when he first demanded
86. J. Crew Ad With Boy's Pink Toenails Creates Stir
87. Puberty blocker for children considering sex chang
88. California set to teach gay history and rights in
89. Soho's John Snow pub shuts doors before 'gay
90. 'I want to spank Britney Spears': Rihanna whips up
91. Dame Helen Mirren promoting Lesbianism
92. Outrage as top Italian history professor blames
93. FEMINISM, DEFINING THE FEMINIST PROBLEM [Vd]
94. Censored gay sex in From Here to Eternity restored
95. Coronation Street lesbians pose in the bath
96. Waterloo Road 'CinderFELLA' play
97. Taylor Momsen puts on raunchy stage dance with
98. ‘ARE YOU GAY’ QUIZ FOR 11-YEAR-OLDS
99. Lucia René: Unplugging the Patriarchy
100. French gay couples condemn discriminatory laws

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Homosexuality Agenda

101. Retired lecturer murdered in his own home is third
102. HOMOSEXUAL BISHOP EDDIE LONG GETS STICK FROM DIVA
103. Female drama teacher 'plied bullied pupil, 13,
104. Lesbian couple open country's first fertility
105. Malaysia's first film with gay lead characters
106. East End gay march scrapped as organiser is
107. Gay couples may sue govt. for immigration
108. More gay nonsense
109. Old Homosexual Warning Video [Vd]
110. Gay vicar retires from church after his 'tart
111. Gay couple drop cash appeal against Christian
112. Lady Gaga cancels Target deal over gay rights
113. Corrie Lesbians and the Conditioning to gay sex
114. Top Obama foe vows defense of gay marriage ban
115. Feminism: What does the F-word mean today?
116. And this year prisoners will be wearing... make-up
117. THE WICKED SIN OF SODOMY AND THE HOMOSEXUAL AGENDA
118. 1st call for impeachment by member of Congress
119. St Paul's Cathedral School master sexually abused
120. Order Blocking Gay Marriage Should Be Lifted,
121. Court backs decision to bar Christian foster coupl
122. STORM OVER NHS JUNKET FOR GAY STAFF
123. Gay weddings will never take place in church
124. India to ban gay couples from surrogacy clinics
125. BREAKING: DOJ Will No Longer Defend Section 3 of
126. US closer to recognising gay marriage after White
127. Gay rights critic fights to lead David Cameron's
128. Facebook adds 'civil union' to relationship status
129. Just say no ... to robot marriage? [Vd]
130. Pinch yourself! A Tory Prime Minister is upholding

131. Next Oscar Best Pic a Lesbian Home Movie?
132. Why, Mr Broken Reed, is being controversial a
133. U.K. CHURCHES 'COULD HOST CIVIL UNIONS'
134. Bill Gates and the Pansexual Agenda
135. Gay rights champion aims to become Republican
136. U.S. Supermarket doesn't want to promote homosexua
137. Teenage boy who wanted to join Girl Guides accuses
138. 'Presenters should not be recruited to fill lesbia
139. Huge rise in anti-gay attacks sparks call to fight
140. I'm victim of PC vendetta, says Christian drug
141. TORY DOMINIC RAAB STATES 'FEMINISTS' ARE OBNOXIOUS
142. Theresa May dresses down "feminist bigots" slur
143. Three men in court charged with stirring up hatred
144. Here comes the 'femiman' bride
145. Second gay couple sue B&B after being turned away
146. The TV shows and movies that promoted homosexualit
147. The therapist who claims she can help gay men go
148. Yes, gays have often been the victims of prejudice
149. Gay messages built into school maths lessons for
150. Government drug adviser under fire over views on

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Homosexuality Agenda

151. 12-Year-Old Boy Japan's Youngest Transsexual
152. The Christian hotelier found guilty of gay bias
153. Degenerate Elton John attacks ban on Gay marriage
154. UK JUDGE (NO JURY) BACKS HOMOSEXUALS AGAINST
155. Gay people paint beleaguered banks as pinkest
156. Woman, 26, 'poses as man for nine years to trick
157. Outrage as gay man and straight woman get married
158. Heterosexual Society is Under Siege
159. Feminism in a nutshell
160. Few Gays Opt to Marry
161. Playboy and the (Homo) Sexual Revolution
162. DRUG DEALER IS SPARED JAIL SO HE CAN GET A SEX
163. NWO Agenda: Homosexual Indoctrination [Vd]
164. Blonde riot jail governor 'in a lesbian relationsh
165. I'm so proud of my 'Princess Boy' says mother who
166. Shameless to screen lesbian sex scenes featuring C
167. Gay Promotion Proves Illuminati Are Real
168. Transsexual wins legal-aid court fight for £8,000
169. Straight sexism
170. MILLIONAIRE PAIR WHO LED WAY FOR GAY SURROGATE
171. Autistic boy, 16, allowed to become a woman but 172. Richard Chamberlain urges gay actors to hide their
173. Officer won't sign order for troop indoctrination
174. Men with historic gay sex convictions to have
175. Barack Obama signs gay military law
176. Barack Obama signs gay military law
177. GEORGE OSBORNE'S PANTOMIME 'GAY SLUR' Latest Video
178. 60 MINUTES IS PROMOTING THE HOMOSEXUALITY AGENDA
179. Same-sex marriage ban challenged
180. Gay rights campaigners furious as UN drops

181. Kenji Yoshino: The best argument against gay
182. ‘Homosexuality is a sin’ street preacher wins £7k
183. US Senate lifts 'don't ask, don't tell' gay
184. I'm gay and fed up with living a lie, says Tory MP
185. Too much va-va-voom! Racy Renault car advert
186. Anti-Gay Group Wants Its Rainbow Back
187. Jimmy Carter Says America is Ready for a Gay
188. House passes 'don't ask, don't tell' repeal
189. Brazil Grants Social Security Survivor Benefits to 190. We were set up, claim staff at Christian B&B sued
191. Sodomite Makes Kiddie Porn At Work
192. UK Law forces Christian Adoption Agencies to close
193. Brazilian senate approves $178 million to promote
194. EU wants end to Czech practice of making 'gay'
195. Payout for anti-gay preacher over arrest: Landmark
196. Lesbian couple in bitter court battle with sperm
197. Gay Marriage Opponents Ask Appeals Court to
198. Illinois Legalizes Same-Sex Civil Unions
199. Satanism & the Homosexual Agenda
200. Gay sperm donor father can see lesbian's children

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Homosexuality Agenda

201. Clinics are helping lesbian couples become parents
202. Tory grandee calls police after gay doggers target
203. The Lesbian and gay studies reader By Henry Abelov
204. A third of pupils aged ten view pornography on the
205. Gay Activism Part of Illuminati Conspiracy
206. Aleister Crowley and the Gay Agenda [Vd]
207. Advisor 'sacked for refusing to let gay couples
208. Glasgow push for lesbian lovers
209. Tribunal fight for Christian doctor axed by panel
210. Gays in military: Supreme Court ends bid to block
211. 'Yes we kiss': Barcelona gays [Vd]
212. The gay father, the lesbian partners and a battle
213. Now straight couple fight ban on civil partnership
214. Millionaire BBC TV presenter Kristian Digby
215. Lesbian mother takes custody battle with gay sperm
216. [vd] Labyrinth of Truth pt.36 (The Return of
217. "Bill's New Frock" : Teaching Gender Confusion
218. Feminism is Anti-Family, Anti-Father, and Encourag
219. Mother sparks child welfare debate after posting
220. Abusive emails sent to lesbian pastor fighting for
221. Bishop brands his liberal critics 'little Englande
222. Iowans dismiss three justices
223. Israel’s Strictly Come Dancing has same-sex partne
224. Lesbian couple vow to take battle for same-sex
225. Social Services Dominated by Lesbian Man-Haters
226. Lesbians Replacing Masons as Prison Guards
227. Gay Fry attacks women at sex
228. John Travolta’s Gay Spa Scandal [Img]
229. Britney Spears seeks to new homosexual lows
230. Military recruiters told to accept gay applicants

231. Barack Obama video supports gay teenagers
232. European Court Fines Russia for Blocking Gay
233. Pink parenting boom in London as more same-sex
234. 'Purple October': 'The View' Ladies Show Support
235. Harry Crossdresser: Daniel Radcliffe appears in
236. US military accepting gay recruits
237. Is 'Gay' Contagious? Study Claims Homosexuals Have
238. Boy, three, thinks he is a girl
239. Bitter Spirits, Bad Attitudes and Bossy Wives
240. Why Germaine Greer is so wrong about rape
241. US ban on openly gay military personnel suspended
242. SEX EDUCATION AND THE PERVERTS BEHIND IT.. FROM
243. Carl Paladino: Don't Be 'Brainwashed' Into Thinkin
244. Mark Zuckerberg Joins The North American Man-Boy
245. NAMBLA Exposed!
246. Police and Anti-Gay Protesters Clash in Belgrade
247. Warning on Nambla homosexual paedo's [Vd]
248. Same-sex marriage off Oz Labor agenda
249. GOVERNOR CANDIDATES IN ANTI-GAY ROW
250. Female Gender Confusion is in the Jeans

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Homosexuality Agenda

301. Gay vicar, 65, to 'marry' Nigerian male model half
302. LESBIANISM - HERMETIC SEXUAL AGENDA PROMOTED BY
303. CONSERVATIVE COUNCILLOR CHARGED OVER SEX ACT
304. Charity's appeal over gay adoption fails
305. Tori Spelling gets the kids involved in same-sex
306. Gays are still persecuted in Africa [Vd]
307. Star cadet quits U.S. military because she is
308. Allegations of homosexual murder dog Obama!
309. Gay agenda Super-Bowl commericial
310. Richard Nixon on Homosexuality
311. Warsaw prepares to stage big gay rights rally
312. Kenneth Anger: The Link Between Homosexuality and
313. Lesbian shouted homophobic abuse then attacked gay
314. Lib Dems to vote on full marriage rights for gay
315. HOMOCON Coming to New York, Bringing Ann Coulter
316. Ex-vicar banned from being a foster parent after
317. Senate Confirms 2nd Jewish Lesbian to Court
318. 'Gay' judge decides future of homosexual 'marriage
319. Lawsuit Claims College Ordered Student to Alter
320. Adam becomes Alexandra: The WPC who used to be a
321. Lesbian vicar has ruined my life says bull-breeder
322. LADY GAGA'S NEW GAY ANDROGYNOUS VIDEO
323. Gay charity supports Lord Browne's call for more
324. Peter Mandelson 'proud' to blaze a trail for gay
325. Google Pays Gay People More
326. Pentagon surveys US troops on attitude to gay
327. Feltham prison told to show ‘positive images’ of
328. Gay dean is blocked from being Bishop of Southwark
329. Harrow School teacher keeps job after gay porn d/l
330. Girls’ school ‘asked theatre group to cut out gay

331. Gay Mag Goes Undercover To Out Minn. Pastor
332. Police officer and former Mr Gay UK charged with
333. British Spies: Licensed to Be Gay
334. More than half of US declares gay is OK. This is "
335. What's Wrong With Gays in the Military?
336. [vid] McDonald's New Gay-Friendly Ad

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: BBC axed gay scene from Torchwood

Title: BBC axed gay scene from Torchwood
Description: [HOMO COMMON PURPOSE]

TheUnhivedMind - July 19, 2011 06:07 PM (GMT)

BBC axed gay scene from Torchwood

Evening Standard Updated 15:43pm on 19 Jul 2011
http://www.thisislondon.co.uk/showbiz/arti...om-torchwood.do

John Barrowman's on-screen gay romp in 'Torchwood' has been axed.

The actor plays racy bisexual Captain Jack Harkness in the BBC One drama and during one raunchy moment in the latest series, he enjoys a tryst with a hunky barman, which was due to go out just 20 minutes after the 9pm watershed.

While scene has already been shown on US cable channel Starz - which co-founded the drama - BBC bosses have decided to axe it amid fears of a viewer backlash.

A source said: "It wasn't that it was a gay scene that worried people, but just the fact it was such an explicit sex scene, full stop. You can get away with scenes like that on American cable channels, but you can't on primetime BBC One.

"Even though the show airs after the watershed, it has a lot of young fans who would have been shocked at the graphic nature of the sex."

A BBC spokeswoman confirmed the romp had been axed along with a gruesome scene later in the series.

She told The Sun: "The UK and US versions of 'Torchwood' are slightly different. However, these differences do not change the story in any way and the strong storylines are first and foremost to the series."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Planned Pedophilia, UN Style

Title: Planned Pedophilia, UN Style

TheUnhivedMind - July 18, 2011 05:48 PM (GMT)

Planned Pedophilia, UN Style

International Planned Parenthood kicks off international blitz at U.N. conference on "Sex Rights for Children."

"This story is really about preventing parents from protecting their children from sexual predators - including the State."

by Richard Evans
July 17, 2011
http://www.henrymakow.com/uns_planned_pedophilia.html

The International Planned Parenthood Federation are now advocating the "right" to consent to sex acts become a plank the platform of the United Nations "Rights of the Child" Treaty. The international abortion NGO released two documents to be used by child sex advocates as part of a media blitz, directing children of any age to "explore avenues of sexuality", and directly attacking the protective role of the parents.

This UN council plans on punishing "violators and abusers of the rights of the child" as defined by UN tribunal.
http://www.un.org/News/Press/docs/2011/sc10319.doc.htm

Planned Parenthood, fronting for gay and pedophile NGO's, want heterosexual values such as chastity and age of consent, ruled a violation of children's "sexual rights."

LifeNews/CFAM writes; "The sexual rights guide "Exclaim!" calls for a cornucopia of sexuality and gender protections and entitlements under the guise of international law."

"Governments must respect, protect and fulfill all sexual rights for young people," the publication states. The guide is designed to help young people become sex advocates."

"Young people are sexual beings." and "...All people under 18 should enjoy the full range of human rights, including sexual rights..."

It goes on to demand the removal of parental and spousal consent laws that prevent minors from "seeking reproductive health services" without parental knowledge and consent. The documents encourage children as young as ten to "become sexual rights advocates".

This "Exclaim!" text is drawn from the "Basic Sexual Rights" manifesto of the "Institute for Advanced Study of Human Sexuality," headquartered in San Francisco. It refers to under-aged as sexually "disadvantaged."

"The recognition by society that every person, partnered or unpartnered, has the right to the pursuit of a satisfying consensual sociosexual life free from political, legal or religious interference and that there need to be mechanisms in society where the opportunities of sociosexual activities are available to the following: disabled persons; chronically ill persons; those incarcerated in prisons, hospitals or institutions; those disadvantaged because of age..."

If you have any doubt they're not referring minors and children, please watch The Kinsey Syndrome and see the Institute's website

The Institute for Advanced Study of Human Sexuality was founded as a satrap of the Kinsey Institute in the 1950's. It trains 'sex educators' to prepare public school teachers to teach children contraception and homosexual/lesbian techniques and how to masturbate and use pornography.

Kinsey and his Institute aided an international network of pedophiles. One reason for the astounding immunity of such "child sexual rights advocates" is the covert support of highly placed perverts in government, including the blackmail of some very important men.

This story is really about preventing parents from protecting their children from sexual predators - including the State.

Meanwhile, last week California Governor Jerry Brown signed a bill that mandates "Gay History Lessons in Public Schools."

What IPPF's "Sex Rights for Children' means is that a 12-year-old can get an abortion through Planned Parenthood without the parents knowledge or approval. It also affirms the child's "right" to "gay" lessons on the tax payers dime at school. Finally, it affirms the "right" to consent to sexual "explorations" with anybody, regardless of age or gender "choice".

Does a child's :"rights" include opting out of sex classes promoting masturbation and bisexuality, or even the "gay" history curriculum in California?

No, it doesn't. "Human Rights" is a euphemism for satanic social engineering and perversion.

Related-

"Why are Babies being vaccinated for STD's?"

Condoms Disguised as Lollipops

-----LINKS-----

Judith Reisman was way ahead of what's been going on now. It was all planned out by Kinsey Institute and funded from the beginning by the Rockefeller Foundation.
Kinsey Myths
http://www.drjudithreisman.com/archives/20...ies_and_vi.html

Secret History: Kinsey's Paedophiles
A 1998 documentary, aired on Channel 4 in the U.K.. See the original press release. Secret History: Kinsey's Paedophiles is referred to in this revealing chapter from the book Kinsey, Crime & Consequences. Watch Secret History: Kinsey's Paedophiles here:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=htAUysRPvNs...player_embedded

MUST SEE - Kinsey's Fraud
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=rAvF23WvoUc&feature=related Or here,
http://drjudithreisman.org/archives/2009/0..._videos_on.html

International Planned Parenthood "EXCITE Campaign" web page
http://www.ippf.org/en/Resources/Guides-toolkits/Exclaim.htm

UN Children's Rights Convention
http://www.mercatornet.com/family_edge/view/6147/

Obama appointee lauded NAMBLA figure http://washingtonexaminer.com/blogs/beltwa...d-nambla-figure

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Christian preacher arrested for saying homosexuali

Title: Christian preacher arrested for saying homosexuali
Description: is a sin

TheUnhivedMind - July 17, 2011 11:03 PM (GMT)

Christian preacher arrested for saying homosexuality is a sin

A Christian street preacher was arrested and locked in a cell for telling a passer-by that homosexuality is a sin in the eyes of God.

By Heidi Blake
1:05PM BST 02 May 2010
http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/religion/7...y-is-a-sin.html

Dale McAlpine was charged with causing “harassment, alarm or distress” after a homosexual police community support officer (PCSO) overheard him reciting a number of “sins” referred to in the Bible, including blasphemy, drunkenness and same sex relationships.

The 42-year-old Baptist, who has preached Christianity in Workington, Cumbria for years, said he did not mention homosexuality while delivering a sermon from the top of a stepladder, but admitted telling a passing shopper that he believed it went against the word of God.

Police officers are alleging that he made the remark in a voice loud enough to be overheard by others and have charged him with using abusive or insulting language, contrary to the Public Order Act.

Mr McAlpine, who was taken to the police station in the back of a marked van and locked in a cell for seven hours on April 20, said the incident was among the worst experiences of his life.

“I felt deeply shocked and humiliated that I had been arrested in my own town and treated like a common criminal in front of people I know," he said.

“My freedom was taken away on the hearsay of someone who disliked what I said, and I was charged under a law that doesn't apply.”

Christian campaigners have expressed alarm that the Public Order Act, introduced in 1986 to tackle violent rioters and football hooligans, is being used to curb religious free speech.

Sam Webster, a solicitor-advocate for the Christian Institute, which is supporting Mr McAlpine, said it is not a crime to express the belief that homosexual conduct is a sin.

“The police have a duty to maintain public order but they also have a duty to defend the lawful free speech of citizens,” he said.

“Case law has ruled that the orthodox Christian belief that homosexual conduct is sinful is a belief worthy of respect in a democratic society."

Mr McAlpine was handing out leaflets explaining the Ten Commandments or offering a “ticket to heaven” with a church colleague on April 20, when a woman came up and engaged him in a debate about his faith.

During the exchange, he says he quietly listed homosexuality among a number of sins referred to in 1 Corinthians, including blasphemy, fornication, adultery and drunkenness.

After the woman walked away, she was approached by a PCSO who spoke with her briefly and then walked over to Mr McAlpine and told him a complaint had been made, and that he could be arrested for using racist or homophobic language.

The street preacher said he told the PCSO: “I am not homophobic but sometimes I do say that the Bible says homosexuality is a crime against the Creator”.

He claims that the PCSO then said he was homosexual and identified himself as the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender liaison officer for Cumbria police. Mr McAlpine replied: “It’s still a sin.”

The preacher then began a 20 minute sermon, in which he says he mentioned drunkenness and adultery, but not homosexuality. Three regular uniformed police officers arrived during the address, arrested Mr McAlpine and put him in the back of a police van.

At the station, he was told to empty his pockets and his mobile telephone, belt and shoes were confiscated. Police took fingerprints, a palm print, a retina scan and a DNA swab.

He was later interviewed, charged under Sections 5 (1) and (6) of the Public Order Act and released on bail on the condition that he did not preach in public.

Mr McAlpine pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing on Friday at Workington magistrates court and is now awaiting a trial date.

The Public Order Act, which outlaws the unreasonable use of abusive language likely to cause distress, has been used to arrest religious people in a number of similar cases.

Harry Hammond, a pensioner, was convicted under Section 5 of the Act in 2002 for holding up a sign saying “Stop immorality. Stop Homosexuality. Stop Lesbianism. Jesus is Lord” while preaching in Bournemouth.

Stephen Green, a Christian campaigner, was arrested and charged in 2006 for handing out religious leaflets at a Gay Pride festival in Cardiff. The case against him was later dropped.

Cumbria police said last night that no one was available to comment on Mr McAlpine’s case.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Appeals Court Temporarily Reinstates 'Don't Ask,

Title: Appeals Court Temporarily Reinstates 'Don't Ask, Description: Don't Tell' Policy

TheUnhivedMind - July 17, 2011 03:24 AM (GMT)

Appeals Court Temporarily Reinstates 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell' Policy

The Obama administration supports repeal of the policy.

3:31 p.m. PDT, July 16, 2011
http://www.ktla.com/news/landing/ktla-dont...0,5056919.story

SAN FRANCISCO -- A federal appeals court has reversed itself and temporarily reinstated the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy on gays in the military, but it has blocked the Pentagon from significant enforcement of the policy.

In an order issued late on Friday, a three-judge panel of the San Francisco-based 9th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals sided with a request by President Barack Obama's administration to temporarily reinstate the policy against allowing openly gay men and women to serve in the military.

The government has said it needs more time to prepare for an end to the controversial policy.

Sign up for KTLA 5 Breaking News Email Alerts

Obama signed legislation in December to repeal "Don't Ask, Don't Tell," but the bill gave the Pentagon an unlimited time frame to implement the change, leading up to a final "certification" of the repeal.

In the meantime, a separate challenge to the policy had advanced in the federal court system, where last week the 9th U.S. Circuit Court panel upheld a lower-court decision declaring "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" unconstitutional and ordered the military to immediately lift the ban.

In their latest ruling, the judges said that, based on information provided by government lawyers, senior military officials have made plans to end "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" and that certification will be presented to Obama by the end of July or in early August.

The judges' three-page order also states that only one military service member has been discharged for being openly gay since the passage of the repeal act in December.

The judges stated that "in order to provide this court with an opportunity to consider fully the issues presented in light of these previously undisclosed facts" it was temporarily reinstating the policy.

But the order also blocks the military "from investigating, penalizing or discharging anyone from the military pursuant to the Don't Ask, Don't Tell policy."

The policy dates from 1993, when then-President Bill Clinton signed the directive into law as a compromise with the military to end an outright ban on gay service members that had been in force for decades.

More than 13,000 men and women have been expelled from the military under the policy since it was instituted by Clinton.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Are Indian doctors turning girls into boys for Title: Are Indian doctors turning girls into boys for Description: parents who wanted a son? [RADIATION]

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 06:54 PM (GMT)

Are Indian doctors turning girls into boys for parents who wanted a son?

July 13, 2011
http://www.bioedge.org/index.php/bioethics...s_article/9625/

If you are looking for perverse consequences of India's worsening gender ratio, look no longer. Millions of girls are missing, aborted because of a deeply entrenched preference for sons. The consequence shortage of women has reportedly led to practices like kidnapping brides and wife-sharing. But in the north India city of Indore in Madhya Pradesh something even more bizarre is happening, according to the Hindustan Times. Couples are paying surgeons to do sex change operations on infant girls to transform them into boys.

This seems altogether too lurid to be true. The newspaper did not interview parents who commissioned the operation or doctors who performed them. However, it still claims that there have been between 200 and 300 of these operations on girls aged 1 to 5. Afterwards the children are pumped full of male hormones.

The Indian government is taking the allegations seriously. The National Commission for the Protection of Child Rights ordered the Madhya Pradesh government to investigate the story swiftly. Inspectors have already visited four hospitals, checked records and interviewed doctors. The president of the Indian Academy of Paediatrics in Indore, Dr V. P. Goswami, described the claims as "shocking news". "We will be looking into it and taking corrective measures," he said.

The doctors accused of performing the procedure denied that they had been doing it for social reasons. They said that only girls with genital abnormalities were eligible for the procedure. However, it appears it would not be illegal, anyway, due to a loophole in Indian law.

Campaigners for girls' rights were horrified, naturally, and said that this showed that girls were not even safe after they had been born. ~ London Telegraph, Jun 27; Hindustan Times, June 26

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: 'I would be compromising my moral conscience if I

Title: 'I would be compromising my moral conscience if I Description: participated': N.Y. clerk quits over pas

TheUnhivedMind - July 15, 2011 04:19 PM (GMT)

'I would be compromising my moral conscience if I participated': N.Y. clerk quits over passage of gay marriage

Last updated at 7:36 PM on 13th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...y-marriage.html

A town clerk in upstate New York says she's resigning over her religious opposition to gay marriage.

Laura Fotusky resigned Monday, saying her religious beliefs prevent her from signing a marriage certificate for a gay couple - something she'd be required to do as a municipal clerk.

The 56-year-old Republican has served since 2007.

She says she'll step down on July 21, three days before New York becomes the sixth and largest state to allow gay nuptials.

Ms Fotusky said in her letter, dated July 11, she said she believes the Bible takes precedence over man-made laws.

'The Bible clearly teaches that God created marriage between male and female as a divine gift that preserves families and cultures. Since I love and follow Him, I cannot put my signature on something that is against God,' she wrote.

'I would be compromising my moral conscience if I participated in the licensing procedure,' she wrote.

The letter was published on the website of the Christian lobbying group New Yorkers for Constitutional Freedoms who said she is the first clerk in the state to resign over objections to same-sex nuptials.

Governor Andrew Cuomo signed the same sex marriage law last month after the bill narrowly passed the Republican-led state Senate.

Its approval in New York is seen as a catalyst for gay marriage elsewhere as well as helping push the issue to the forefront nationally ahead of the 2012 elections.

Gov Cuomo, who made the legalization of same-sex marriage a top priority this year, told reporters he agreed with Ms Fotusky's decision to resign

Much of the debate in New York focused on the scope of protections for those opposed to same-sex marriage.

The new law exempts religious groups from performing same-sex marriages but does not extend those protections to individuals, including government employees.

But she is not the first to raise concerns.

Two weeks ago, the town clerk in the Syracuse suburb of Volney cited her own religious objections and requested that outside help be brought in to sign same-sex marriage licenses.

Gov Cuomo, who had made the legalization of same-sex marriage a top priority this year, told reporters on Tuesday that he agreed with Ms Fotusky's decision to resign because government workers have a responsibility to enforce the law.

'When you enforce the laws of the state, you don't get to pick and choose the laws,' the Governor said.

Conscientious objection among government employees has been an issue in some other states that allow gay marriage.

In Massachusetts, more than a dozen justices of the peace threatened to resign in 2004 after a state court ruled that barring same-sex marriages was unconstitutional, and at least one resigned.

In 2000, the town clerk in Tunbridge, Vermont resigned even though state law would have allowed her to appoint someone else to sign marriage licenses.

Robin Fretwell Wilson, a professor at Washington and Lee Law School in Virginia, has lobbied lawmakers in New York and other states to exempt individuals, including government employees, from providing services to same-sex couples.

She is not the first government employee to conscientiously object

In a 2010 paper, she argued that the religious beliefs of marriage officers should be accommodated as long as they pose no hardship to same-sex couples.

'Forcing a public employee with a religious objection to facilitate a same-sex marriage would be intolerant in the extreme when little is to be gained by such rigid demands,' wrote Ms Wilson, who was not available for comment on Tuesday.

Barker, where Ms Fotusky worked is 10 miles north of Binghamton.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Payout for gay BBC man who hassled worker

Title: Payout for gay BBC man who hassled worker

TheUnhivedMind - July 13, 2011 06:00 PM (GMT)

Payout for gay BBC man who hassled worker

Rob Parsons
13 Jul 2011
http://www.thisislondon.co.uk/standard/art...ssled-worker.do

A BBC picture editor who was sacked for waging a campaign of gay harassment against a colleague has been awarded £4,000 compensation - because the corporation failed to take account of his bipolar disorder.

Jonathan Steer, who worked with political editor Nick Robinson and John Simpson, claimed he could not remember sending messages to the man, identified only as Andrew.

He lost his claim for unfair dismissal after a tribunal found the BBC was within its rights to sack him.

But he was awarded £4,000 after the tribunal found BBC bosses should have made "reasonable adjustments" under the Disability Discrimination Act.

The Central London tribunal accepted the BBC had "no real alternative" but to dismiss Steer after his behaviour "became more than just unwelcome, reaching the point it was threatening". The saga began when Andrew rejected the 42-year-old's advances after the pair went to dinner in December 2008. He told the hearing Steer, who worked on Newsnight and News at Ten, insisted on paying for dinner - and then implied to colleagues something had happened between them.

Steer went on to bombard him with emails and late-night phone calls referring to their "sexual chemistry" and also contacted Andrew's parents.

A BBC spokesman said: "The BBC welcomes the tribunal's conclusion that Mr Steer's dismissal was fair and not discriminatory."

After the hearing Mr Steer said: "I'm happy to win my tribunal for discrimination of my bipolar condition. But I'm still saddened by the lack of understanding and humanity shown by the BBC towards my mental health condition."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Cities move toward transgender health care

Title: Cities move toward transgender health care

TheUnhivedMind - July 13, 2011 02:42 AM (GMT)

Cities move toward transgender health care

By Tracy Loew, USA TODAY
Updated: 07/11/2011 8:46pm
http://m.usatoday.com/article/yourlife/49293458

Ten years after San Francisco became the first local government in the nation to offer transgender health care benefits for their employees, other public employers are beginning to follow suit.

Last month, city commissioners in Portland, Ore., voted unanimously to offer employees insurance covering gender reassignment surgery. Portland is in Multnomah County, which began providing similar benefits a year ago.

Berkeley, Calif., officials are working with the city's providers to offer transgender health care, spokeswoman Mary Kay Clunies-Ross said. Similar discussions are underway in Seattle and Fort Worth.

In 2008, the American Medical Association passed a resolution supporting public and private health insurance coverage for treatment of gender identity disorder as recommended by a physician, but most public-employee insurance plans still exclude that coverage.

Opponents say they fear increased costs and don't believe the care is medically necessary, said Mara Keisling, executive director of the National Center for Transgender Equality.

"You still have to have a doctor say that it's necessary," Keisling said.

In Portland, resident Kelsey Grout spoke against providing the coverage, saying public employees already have too many benefits.

"City employees have Cadillac dental and vision plans," Grout told city commissioners. "I'm struck by the arrogance of asking for anything more."

The cost to add coverage for sexual reassignment surgery to insurance plans next year will be about $32,000, an increase of less than one-tenth of 1%, city spokeswoman Amy Ruiz said.

In Fort Worth, transgender health coverage was among 20 recommendations made by the city manager's Diversity Task Force in late 2009. The city has adopted the other 19 but decided to postpone the insurance question until next spring, city spokesman Bill Begley said.

In Seattle, Mayor Mike McGinn committed in May to working to remove transgender exclusions in all health care plans offered to city employees, spokesman Aaron Pickus said.

Businesses, colleges and universities are also increasingly providing transgender health coverage, according to research by the Human Rights Campaign, a gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender civil rights organization.

This year, 39% of Fortune 500 companies offered transgender-inclusive health benefits, up from 1% in 2004, the research showed, and at least a dozen colleges had employee health plans with the coverage.

Both the Human Rights Campaign and the National Center for Transgender Equality say there is really no way of knowing how many employees, public or private, need this coverage. In a February nationwide survey of transgender individuals completed by the center, 19% reported being refused care.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Kid Meets First Gay Couple

Title: Kid Meets First Gay Couple

TheUnhivedMind - July 13, 2011 02:16 AM (GMT)

Kid Meets First Gay Couple

First Posted: 7/11/11
http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2011/07/11/k...e_n_894728.html

Update:
Unfortunately, the video has been removed due to a copyright violation, and the rightful owner has chosen to no longer make the clip available. It's a shame, as we thought the message of the video was extremely special.

Original Post:
If only everyone had such a reasonable reaction to gay marriage. This kid meets his first gay couple, deconstructs what marriage means, is surprised but cool with it, then invites the guys to play ping pong with him.

Foreign diplomats could learn a thing or two from this boy.

Also, the idea that being married means you love someone is probably one of the more wholesome messages a child can receive. So thumbs up to the kid, his parents and his new ping pong friends.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Make your mind up! Cross dresser who stole £12,000

Title: Make your mind up! Cross dresser who stole £12,000
Description: benefits turns up at court dressed as a

TheUnhivedMind - July 12, 2011 11:03 PM (GMT)

Make your mind up! Cross dresser who stole £12,000 benefits turns up at court dressed as a man - after begging to be sent to a women's prison

Benefits cheat ordered to pay back just £5 a week
Transsexual took on 7 jobs over 3-year period

Last updated at 9:49 PM on 12th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...ens-prison.html

Transsexual odd job man Roy Pittilla, 50, appeared at Oldham magistrates court in Greater Manchester under the name Janet Williams dressed in men's trousers, boots and a leather jacket

A cross-dressing odd job man who stole £12,000 in state benefits escaped jail today.

Transsexual Roy Pittilla, who insists on being called Janet Williams by friends and neighbours, turned up at court today dressed as a man - despite insisting to be sent to a women's prison if convicted.

The 50-year-old, who is regarded as a 'she' despite yet going through with a full sex-swap operation, took on seven jobs over a three-year period while illegally pocketing disability handouts to get a 'positive feeling'.

She worked as an office temp, a warehouse operator, and as a house cleaner pulling in sums of up to an extra £750 a month on some of the jobs.

Today the defendant appeared at Oldham magistrates' court in Greater Manchester under the name Janet Williams dressed in men's trousers, boots and a leather jacket yet escaped jail - after earlier claiming she shouldn't go a men's prison.

She was ordered to pay back the remaining £11,000 she owes to the public purse at a rate of £5 a week - which means she will be 92 when she finishes paying off the money in the year 2053.

Before the hearing she ran at a photographer when he took her picture - only to then trip up and fall over.

At earlier hearings she turned up in a skirt and blouse and full make-up, claiming that she had lived as a woman for 31 years.

The court heard Williams claimed incapacity benefits after suffering mental health problems as a result of a pulmonary embolism - a blood clot in the vessels which connect to the lungs - in 2003.

But she worked casually for seven different companies during that time - without notifying the Department for Work and Pensions.

Before the hearing the defendant ran at a photographer when he took a picture - only to then trip up and fall over

Williams was overpaid disability allowance from 4 April 2004 to 15 July 2007, when she failed to notify the Department of Work and Pensions of changes to her circumstances and was working casual jobs while still receiving the payments.

Over the three-year period, she received £11,898.65 illegitimately while working seven jobs, many involving physical effort.

Prosecuting Vincent Carr said: 'She claimed incapacity benefits on the basis of sickness.

'There was an obligation to notify the DWP of change in circumstances but there were seven different periods of employment over the course of which Ms Williams was claiming benefits.'

At earlier hearings 'she' turned up in a skirt and blouse and full make-up, claiming to have lived as a woman for 31 years

Williams, of Coppice in Oldham, was given a 12-month community order, a 12-month supervision with curfew of 9pm to 7am and was ordered to pay prosecution costs of £250, in addition to repaying what she owes at a rate of £5 a week.

She said: 'This is the first time in my benefit history that I acted in an illegal fashion.

'I hope that the court considers that my disturbed behaviour contributes to the offence and I acted while I was psychotic and can only apologise.

'Even though I carried out the offence I am very sorry and can only blame myself for my actions.'

But magistrate Graham Eckersall told her: 'The principal fact is that benefit fraud is not a victimless offence. It impacts every mum, woman and child in this country, everyone suffers the consequences of people who cheat the system.'

Williams' defence lawyer Chris Fallows said: 'The reason to not notify the DWP of a change in her circumstances was not an attempt to feather her nest. She lives in a modest one-bedroom flat that could not be called luxurious.

'It was for her own mental well-being. She wanted to put a foot on the ladder for her own peace of mind. She wanted to give herself the positive feeling that was needed to further her life, instead of just being on benefits.'

He noted that she had already begun paying the money back and now owed less than £11,000 and that she would begin to receive Employment and Support Allowance instead of disability allowance, out of which the repayment of £5 a week could be taken.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The U.S. city set to pay gay employees more than Title: The U.S. city set to pay gay employees more than Description: straight

TheUnhivedMind - July 11, 2011 10:38 PM (GMT)

The U.S. city set to pay gay employees more than straight

Last updated at 6:51 AM on 11th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...l#ixzz1Ro6xGTNt

Cambridge, Mass will start to provide gay employees with a financial stipend

A Massachusetts city will start paying its gay employees a stipend so it can offset an unequal federal tax.

When the city of Cambridge issues paychecks to its public employees, 22 gay workers find a federal tax on their income that their heterosexual colleagues don't have to pay.

Like many people, these school and city workers chose to put their spouses on their employer-provided health insurance.

Because they're in a homosexual relationship, the federal government taxes that health coverage.

As a result, this month Cambridge will be the first in the country to pay its public employees a stipend to defray the cost of the federal tax.

The city employees hit by the extra tax pay an additional $1,500 to $3,000 in taxes a year and officials estimate the stipends would cost the city an additional $33,000.

'This is about equality,' said Marjorie Decker, a Cambridge city councilor. 'This is a city that models what equality really means.'

The stipend will offset a federal tax deemed unfair and discriminatory. This comes at the same time as New York legalizes gay marriage

Of the thousands of legally married gay and lesbian couples in Massachusetts, none can receive the federal benefits offered to heterosexual married couples because the federal government doesn't recognize same-sex marriages.

Those benefits include Social Security survivors' benefits, immigration rights, family leave and the ability to file joint tax returns.

The council approved the measure last month after looking for a solution since January.

'This is ultimately a fairness issue. Two people who do the exact same job should be paid exactly the same for what they are doing at work,' said Leland Cheung, a Cambridge City Councilor who pushed for a proposal.

The councilors said the funds needed are a minor cost from the city's more than $500 million budget.

Others disagree: 'It's a travesty of using taxpayer monies to circumvent a national policy,' said Kris Mineau, of the anti-same-sex marriage group Massachusetts Family Institute.

The Defense of Marriage Act, which defines marriage as between a man and a woman, is coping heavy criticism from many, including President Obama

The Defense of Marriage Act defines marriage as between a man and a woman, allows states to deny recognition of same-sex unions performed elsewhere and prevents the federal government from recognizing gay marriages.

This provision prevents even gay and lesbian couples married legally from receiving any federal benefits.

This aspect of the Act was ruled unconstitutional in the state by a U.S. District judge in Boston last year - a decision currently under appeal.

President Obama also criticised the law in February, ordering the Justice Department to stop defending it's constitutionality.

Mary Bowe-Shulman, a staff attorney at the Massachusetts Court of Appeals, said she loses $7,800 a year to federal taxes on health insurance for her wife of 6 years, money she would rather be putting in a college fund for the couple's two children.

'It just makes me feel like my family is being treated differently than everyone else's,'she said.

Still she doesn't like the system: 'I think it's just ridiculous that the state would have to expend some of its limited dollars to make up for this discriminatory policy.'

More...
Will euro debt crisis swallow Italy next? EC fears Rome will follow Athens, Dublin and Lisbon
'I can win a national election': Sarah Palin insists she could be president... but still won't reveal if she's going to run

While Cambridge is known for its liberal policies and has had three consecutive openly gay mayors, the city is not the only employer offering additional pay.

Since 2009, at least 17 companies have supplemented employees' income to cover the tax. Some of those companies include Mountain View, Google Inc., Palo Alto, Facebook and the Boston Consulting Group.

The number of same-sex spouses and partners receiving health benefits will soon increase as New York became the sixth and largest state to legalize gay marriage, joining Iowa, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts.

Sens. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., and Susan Collins, R-Maine, are proposing to eliminate the tax at a national level.

They say this change will help individuals and reduce payroll taxes of the employers that offer benefits to same-sex partners and spouses without forcing employers to recognize domestic partners.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Playboy and the (Homo) Sexual Revolution

Title: Playboy and the (Homo) Sexual Revolution

TheUnhivedMind - July 11, 2011 10:05 PM (GMT)

Playboy and the (Homo) Sexual Revolution

by Henry Makow Ph.D.
June 17, 2011
http://www.henrymakow.com/000165.html

What kind of man is this?

He is fastidious about his appearance, his home and his possessions. He wants as much sex as possible and chooses sexual partners mostly on the basis of appearance. He is self-absorbed and doesn't want emotional involvement or commitment. He thinks a woman would stifle him and children would be a burden.

Does this sound like many gays? It is also the masculine ideal purveyed by Playboy magazine to men since the 1950's.

The essence of manhood is to lead and support a family. But in 1972, 3 out of 4 male college students got their ideas about masculinity from Playboy, at an incalculable price to themselves, women, children and society.

The similarity between the Playboy and homosexual ideal is no coincidence. "The Kinsey Report" (1948) shaped current mainstream attitudes to sex. It championed unfettered sexual expression and became the manifesto of the counterculture. It inspired Hugh Hefner to start Playboy in 1953.

Essentially "The Kinsey Report" said that aberrant sexual behavior was so common as to be normal. Thanks to psychologist Dr. Judith Reisman, we now know that Alfred Kinsey was a homosexual and the "Kinsley Report" was a fraud.

Kinsey, a University of Indiana zoologist, pretended to be a Conservative family man. In fact, he seduced his male students and forced his wife and associates to perform in homemade pornographic films. To prove that children have legitimate sexual needs. Kinsey and his fellow pedophiles either abused 2,000 infants and children and/or relied on data obtained in Nazi concentration camps. (Judith Reisman, Kinsey: Crimes and Consequences, 1998, p.312)

Reisman concludes: "America's growing libidinous pathologies...taught in schools...and reflected in our fine and popular arts, the press, law and public policy largely mirror the documented sexual psychopathologies of the Kinsey team itself."

Sponsored by the Rockefeller Foundation, Kinsey's goal was "to supplant what he saw as a narrow procreational Judeo Christian era with a promiscuous "anything goes" bi/gay pedophile paradise." (Reisman, Crafting Gay Children: An Inquiry, p.4 He cruised Times Square looking for subjects. More than 25% of his sample were prostitutes and prison inmates including many sex offenders. Kinsey, who died prematurely of disease associated with impotence and self-mutilation (orchitis, Reisman p. 278), said 10 per cent of American men were gay when in fact only two per cent were.

Hugh Hefner said the Kinsey Report "produced a tremendous sexual awakening, largely because of media attention..." This shows how the elite orchestrates social change using media hype. (See Reisman, Kinsey, p.307)

With messianic fervor, Playboy took its gospel of sexual freedom to the American male who in the 1950's-1960's still consecrated sex for marriage. Playboy's aim, the aim of all pornographers, was to hook men on the glossy fantasy. To do this, they had to prevent them from finding true satisfaction in marriage.

In Reisman's words, "Playboy was the first national magazine to exploit college men's fears of women and family commitment. Playboy offered itself as a reliable, comforting substitute for monogamous heterosexual love." (Judith Reisman, "Soft Porn Plays Hardball," p 47)

Thus sworn enemies, Playboy and radical feminists, found common ground in hatred of the nuclear family. As a result, society now suffers from epidemics of family breakdown, pornography, impotence, child sexual abuse, sadosexual violence, teen pregnancy, a cocktail of STD's and, of course, AIDS. The birthrate has plummeted by 50% since 1960 and is barely at replacement level.

Homosexuality is a developmental disorder defined by the failure to establish a permanent bond with a member of the opposite sex. Psychologist Richard Cohen, in "Coming Out Straight: Understanding and Healing Homosexuality" (2000) argues it is caused when a male child fails to bond with his father. By having sex with men, the adult gay is trying to compensate for father-love denied in adolescence.

Cohen was gay and is now married with three children. He attributes lesbianism to a woman's reaction to being rebuffed or abused by her father. He has assisted hundreds of homosexuals, but is under constant attack for undermining the gay political agenda, (i.e. to redefine societal norms.)

Psychiatrist Jeffrey Satinover has pointed to another cause of homosexuality. A 1990 survey of 1000 gays shows that an older or more powerful partner physically assaulted 37% of them before the age of 19. ("Homosexuality and American Public Life," 1999, p.24). In addition, according to Anne Moir in "Why Men Don't Iron," some men may be "born gay" due to foetal hormone imbalances. They seem to be a minority.

For many decades, gays were told that they were "sick" and cruelly and wrongly persecuted. The gay activist solution: convince the world that, in fact, it is heterosexuals who are sick. In 1973, they bullied the American Psychological Association into proclaiming homosexuality normal. Together with feminist activists (who believe heterosexuality is inherently oppressive) gay activists began to dismantle all heterosexual institutions: masculinity, femininity, marriage, the nuclear family, the boy scouts, sports, and the military.

Backed by the financial elite, gay activists and their supporters now largely dictate our cultural sensibility. They are responsible for the puerile pornographic obsession that pervades television, music videos and the Internet. This state of arrested human development is characteristic of many homosexuals. But straights have been homosexualized too. With women acting like men, and vice versa, we can't establish a "permanent bond with a member of the opposite sex" either. The elite's purpose is to promote social dysfunction and depopulation. See "Feminism and the Elite Depopulation Agenda".

Gay liberation manuals talk about "normalizing" their sexuality and "de-sensitizing" straights by flaunting it. I was livid in 1997 when I took my 10-year-old son to see Adam Sandler's movie "Billy Madison" and heard one teenage male youth in the film casually ask another: "Would you rather bone Pamela Anderson or a young Jack Nicholson?"

On TV's "Will and Grace," Jack who is gay dons an apron that says "Kiss the cook" pretending he thought the second "o" was a "c". Just as Communists once conned do-gooders to think radicalism was chic, gay activists define trendy for gullible liberals today.

Gay and feminist activists think traditional morality was invented to perpetuate an unjust status quo. In fact, morality is the accumulated wisdom of mankind regarding what is healthy and ultimately fulfilling. Perversion is deviation from what is healthy.

Heterosexual morality places sex in the context of love and/or marriage because it is healthy and human. It ensures that the most profound and intimate physical act between two people expresses a commensurate emotional-spiritual bond. Promiscuous sex is a desperate plea for love. Love and marriage answer that call and provide for the natural and necessary outcome of sex, children.

With Hugh Hefner's help, Alfred Kinsey detached sex from love and procreation. He reduced it to another physical function like urinating. Homosexual activists champion anonymous sex: a majority of gays have 10s-100s of partners each year. In less extreme form, heterosexuals have adopted this model. Recently a social columnist enviously described straight friends whose relationships have ended: "they're out partying, having the time and the sex, it seems of their lives."

In conclusion, the "sexual revolution" was really a triumph of an elite program of arrested development. See also "The CIA, Homosexuality and Underdevelopment." The elite agenda is to redefine healthy as deviant and vice-versa and they have succeeded. In 40 short years, almost all sexual constraints have dissolved and heterosexual society is reeling. The cultural and social breakdown will only get worse unless there is a counterrevolution.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Rio de Janeiro aims to become world capital of gay

Title: Rio de Janeiro aims to become world capital of gay
Description: tourism [NUKE THE HELL HOLE!]

TheUnhivedMind - July 11, 2011 05:15 PM (GMT)

Rio de Janeiro aims to become world capital of gay tourism

Brazilian city's diversity week follows series of gay-friendly government schemes to capitalise on growing market

Tom Phillips in Rio de Janeiro guardian.co.uk, Monday 11 July 2011 17.15 BST
http://www.guardian.co.uk/travel/2011/jul/...iro-gay-tourism

The theatre lights dim and a Brazilian supermodel takes to the stage, tanned legs emerging from a skintight miniskirt.

In the audience, an A to Z of Rio de Janeiro's great and good: pop stars, sports stars, soap stars and would-be stars, flanked by an army of local paparazzi. Clutching a microphone, the model addresses the crowd. "My name is Lea and I am a transsexual," she says, triggering a frenzy of applause and whistles.

The model in question is Lea T, Brazil's first transsexual supermodel. And this is the champagne-soaked launch party for Rio's inaugural diversity week – a celebration of the city's cultural and ethnic differences and an attempt to position Rio as the global capital of gay tourism.

"Rio is a city without prejudice," beams Eduardo Paes, the city's mayor, as he arrives at the event. "It is an open city that accepts everything with an open heart."

Recent months have seen an avalanche of new lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT)-friendly initiatives in Rio: vocational training courses for transvestites, anti-bullying projects aimed at gay and lesbian students and new legislation outlawing discrimination in the city's nightclubs.

In February the mayor announced the creation of a special diversity secretariat headed by Carlos Tufvesson, a gay, multilingual fashion designer.

Rio, says Tufvesson, is not only "the sexiest destination on Earth" but also a place where tolerance is natural. Just as the city staged important protests against the military dictatorship during the 1960s, Rio is again blazing a trail for civil rights, he believes.

The initiatives are also a potential moneyspinner. Last year, 25% of Rio's tourists, or around 880,000 people, were gay. The city's tourist board hopes to drive that number even higher and has published glossy, rainbow-coloured brochures packed with pictures of muscle-bound men and slogans urging tourists to "live the Rio sensation".

"Personally I think that anyone who wants to make money could open any kind of gay establishment in Rio because it is a dead cert return," says Tufvesson. "There is a big demand for this market still. Rio is now part of the gay calendar."

In 2007 Buenos Aires stole a march on Rio, opening what it claimed was Latin America's first luxury gay hotel.

But Rio is a "naturally" LGBT-friendly city, Tufvesson says, making "ghettoisation" unnecessary.

"Do we need to have gay restaurants? Gay food? Gay waiters? Here in Rio, my love, you can [kiss anywhere]. Otherwise we'll go there and close them down. Our municipal laws are strong."

Resistance to the government's progressive stance remains, predominantly among the religious right. Earlier this month, one Catholic MP attacked attempts to alter state legislation that would criminalise discrimination.

"Look, if we are all equal, with the same rights, I also have to have the right to not want a homosexual employee in my company," the MP said, before being forced to make a public retraction by fellow politicians.

Silas Malafaia, a prominent local evangelist, went a step further last year, erecting 600 advertising hoardings around Rio emblazoned with the phrase "In defence of the family and the preservation of the human race: God made men and women".

But activists' irritation at such actions is matched by praise for the government's increasingly vocal support for gay rights.

"It's really incredible that Brazil – a place that they call a third world country – is doing something that few first world countries have done," Lea T says back at the launch of Rio's diversity week, which has come weeks after the state government organised what it called "the largest gay wedding in the world".

At the reception local politicians and 43 ecstatic newlywed couples celebrated with a rendition of Frank Sinatra's Theme from New York, New York. The singer? Jane Di Castro, one of the city's best-known transvestites.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: U.S. court tells military to stop discharging gays

Title: U.S. court tells military to stop discharging gays

TheUnhivedMind - July 11, 2011 12:48 AM (GMT)

U.S. court tells military to stop discharging gays

Bob Egelko, Chronicle Staff Writer
Thursday, July 7, 2011
http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?...type=gaylesbian

SAN FRANCISCO -- A federal appeals court ordered a halt Wednesday to the armed forces' policy of discharging openly gay service members, citing the impending demise of "don't ask, don't tell" and the Obama administration's escalating criticism of antigay laws.

Congress has already voted to repeal "don't ask, don't tell," the 1993 law that barred military service by gays and lesbians who disclose their sexual orientation. But the repeal was due to take effect only after the Pentagon certified that the change in the law would not interfere with military readiness or recruiting, a finding the Obama administration had projected for the end of this year.

On Wednesday, however, the Ninth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco - which had previously allowed the government to follow its own timetable - reinstated a federal judge's injunction that had briefly barred enforcement of the law last fall before it was suspended.
Circumstances changed

"The circumstances and balance of hardships have changed," said the three-member panel, which consisted of Chief Judge Alex Kozinski, a Republican appointee, and Democratic appointees Kim Wardlaw and Richard Paez.

The court cited government reports that most troops should be ready for the new policy by midsummer. The judges also noted that Obama administration lawyers have not defended the constitutionality of "don't ask, don't tell," but argued only that courts should defer to congressional judgment on military matters.

In addition, the panel said, President Obama has become increasingly critical of laws that discriminate against gays and lesbians. Obama withdrew legal support in February from a law denying federal benefits to married same-sex couples, and his lawyers now argue that all such laws should be declared unconstitutional unless they serve some vital government need.

Gay-rights advocates celebrated the court order.

"Finally, people who wish to serve our country are going to be allowed to do so without regard to their sexual orientation," said Dan Woods, lawyer for Log Cabin Republicans, the group that challenged the 1993 law.

Kate Kendell, executive director of the National Center for Lesbian Rights in San Francisco, cited other recent victories, including New York's legalization of same-sex marriage last month.
A historical moment

"For the first time in our nation's history, we are within sight of a time when LGBT people can participate in all aspects of society without fear of being singled out for stigma and discrimination by their own government," she said.

Woods and others nevertheless advised gays and lesbians in the military to be cautious about disclosing their sexual orientation in the near future, because the administration could ask the Supreme Court to reinstate the law.

Justice Department spokeswoman Tracy Schmaler said the department is reviewing the ruling.

U.S. District Judge Virginia Phillips of Riverside issued an injunction against enforcement of "don't ask, don't tell" in October after a trial that included testimony by gay and lesbian ex-service members about the harassment and coercion they faced under the policy.

Phillips had ruled in September that the 1993 law violates service members' privacy and freedom of speech and reduces military effectiveness by removing skilled personnel. A different appeals court panel suspended her injunction eight days after it took effect.

The administration is still appealing Phillips' ruling. The appeals court scheduled arguments for the week of Aug. 29 in Pasadena.

E-mail Bob Egelko at begelko@sfchronicle.com.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Brits are fed up with gay mind-reframing TV from Title: Brits are fed up with gay mind-reframing TV from Description: hell [COMMON PURPOSE HELL DROSS]

TheUnhivedMind - July 10, 2011 11:14 PM (GMT)

Corrie faces ratings crisis as viewers switch off outlandish storylines with 'too many' gay characters

By Liz Thomas
Last updated at 10:30 PM on 10th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/tvshowbiz/artic...characters.html

Since 1960 it has been one of the best-loved shows on television. But only six months after celebrating its 50th anniversary, Coronation Street is facing a ratings crisis.

More than a quarter of viewers have switched off amid complaints about outlandish storylines.

Actors and viewers have criticised the move away from the show's roots, depicting the gritty reality of life in a typical working class street in Manchester, and replacing it with black comedy.

Cast and crew have also questioned why producer Phil Collinson, who took the helm last year, has brought in so many gay characters.

Figures for ITV1's flagship soap slumped by 29 per cent from 10.4million at the end of May to 7.4million last week.

Writing in the Daily Mail last week, art critic Brian Sewell asked: 'Is it true that the lives of heterosexual Mancunians are haplessly intertwined with transvestites, transsexuals, teenage lesbians and a horde of homosexuals across the age range?'

And Jean Alexander, who played Hilda Ogden for more than 20 years until 1987, said in a recent interview that the show is becoming far-fetched.

She said: 'Every community has people who are gay and they are very nice people. I'm not running the Street down - and let's not forget its creator Tony Warren is gay – but three couples seems excessive.'

Coronation Street currently features two gay couples, one lesbian couple and a transsexual.

Nick Cochrane, who played Andy McDonald, said the show was becoming 'unrealistic'.

He said: 'How many streets in Britain would have schoolgirl lesbians, gay married couples, a transsexual and children to gay couples? It is a little bit far-fetched.'

There has also been criticism of the arrival of actress Michelle Collins, still best-known for playing Cindy Beale in rival BBC1 soap EastEnders, as the new boss of the Street's pub the Rovers Return.Fans have panned her Manchester accent.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: What HAVE they done to Corrie?

Title: What HAVE they done to Corrie?
Description: [COMMON PURPOSE]

TheUnhivedMind - July 9, 2011 01:08 AM (GMT)

What HAVE they done to Corrie?

Is it true that the lives of heterosexual Mancunians are haplessly intertwined with transvestites, transsexuals, teenage lesbians and a horde of homosexuals across the age range

Last updated at 1:43 PM on 6th July 2011
By BRIAN SEWELL
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/tvshowbiz/artic...s-lesbians.html

For fully half a century, Coronation Street has formed the nation's view of Lancashire. Life is gritty; men are tough; in their devious ways women have achieved equality — if not downright dominance — and society is sterlingly working-class.

And perhaps life was like this in Oldham, Rochdale or Manchester, the metropolis of the north, when houses were back-to-back, the bathroom was the kitchen sink and the lavatory was a lean-to outhouse in the yard. It seemed realistic to me.

Today, however, the soap that was once pure Salford, that took the paintings of L. S. Lowry and brought them to life on TV, that fortified the great divide between the noble North and the soft and silly South of England, has departed from reality. Squalor, grime and poverty have been replaced by shoddy, tinsel-edged glamour.

Modern plots: Jason Grimshaw won Mr Gay Weatherfield in one storyline - and is part of countless gay, lesbian and transsexual characters that are flooding the soap

Today, all the characters are showered, prinked and perfumed — particularly the men. Every hair is in place, every eyelash twice normal length, the cosmetics thick as plaster masks (only the ginger boy has spots) and the clothes are straight from Primark, Next and Topshop.

This Coronation Street is not good old grubby Lancashire, but just a turning away from Footballers' Wives — a fantasy world of a working class with money to burn. Is this really the Lancashire of now, the new truth about the sturdy North? Are these well-washed denizens of the Street really the ordinary people there, leading their ordinary lives?

Is it true that the lives of heterosexual Mancunians are haplessly intertwined with transvestites, transsexuals, teenage lesbians and a horde of homosexuals across the age range? Is Manchester now the Sodom of the North?

Coronation Street has a gay scriptwriter, Damon Rochefort. Fine. Nothing wrong with that. Indeed, its very first writer, its inventor in 1959, Tony Warren, was gay and open about it when homosexuality was still illegal and the penalties dire — and had a tough time with homophobia.

But the pendulum has swung to the other extreme, and where once we had no gaiety at all, we now, perhaps, have rather too much.

Too far? Lesbian teenagers Sophie Webster and Sian Powers are just some of the main cast characters that appear in the soap

Among the main cast, we have lesbian teenagers Sophie Webster and her girlfriend Sian Powers — whose relationship was revealed when they were caught in flagrante by Sophie's mum Sally.

There's also homosexual Sean Tully, the part-time barman in the Rovers Return, who is set to tie the knot with boyfriend Marcus Dent later this year in what will be the show's first civil partnership.

And middle-aged cross-dresser Marc Selby, who was involved in a love triangle with hairdresser Audrey Roberts and her glamorous friend Claudia Colby. And factory worker Hayley Cropper, who became the first transsexual in a British soap when she appeared on screens in 1998.

There are also countless peripheral gay characters. Ted Paige, the father of long-suffering Gail Platt, revealed he was gay, while Ken Barlow's long-lost grandson James, who appeared in the show last year, also turned out to be homosexual — much to the distress of James's homophobic father Lawrence.

Clean-cut Todd Grimshaw, who cheated on his pregnant girlfriend Sarah Platt with a man in one of the soap's most watched storylines, also pops up from time to time.

When confronted with this, the sane man may feel his nose is being rubbed in it.

There's too much, not only of gay men — who are estimated to make up just 6 per cent of the population, but who dominate the storylines in the soap — but also of lesbians, bisexuals, the trans-gender community, cross-dressers and everyone else with some sexual quirk or fetish.

It is not just Coronation Street — EastEnders is at it, too, with, last month, boys in bed together, apparently naked.

Love triangle: Cross-dressing Marc Selby became involved with Audrey Roberts, right, and Claudia Colby in one storyline

The dear old egalitarian BBC protested that its policy is to portray gay and hetero-sexual relationships in exactly the same way, both equally suitable for pre-watershed viewing. But are they equally suitable?

Are soaps, watched by pre-pubescent children — who may still have some tattered remnant of innocence that we should cherish — really a proper platform for sexual propaganda and special pleading?

TV's most notorious exposure of gay life at its most promiscuous was Queer As Folk in 1999 — a show that shocked viewers with its depictions of gay life in Manchester, including graphic sex scenes — but which was an unashamedly genuine assault on prejudice and ignorance.

Its title told parents loud and clear what it was about and properly it was broadcast after the watershed. Properly, it informed. Properly, it caused serious argument.

But the cause for reform might, as with Coronation Street, have been better served by intellectual debate.

Soap first: Hayley Cropper, played by Julie Hesmondhalgh, was the first transsexual character when she appeared on screens in 1998

So is there some connection between the nature of the new characters in Coronation Street and Damon Rochefort's open homosexuality?

A new book, Primetime Propaganda by Benjamin Shapiro, argues that in California an exclusively liberal TV establishment shapes taste, style, politics and family life and attitudes, complaining that gay writers, directors and actors admit to promoting their own gay rights agendas.

It is what people do when they have position, power and patronage — they favour their own prejudices, be these of minority, race or sexual direction.

There are mafias in every field of activity — commercial, aesthetic and intellectual.

Scots favour Scots, Irishmen favour the Irish, Armenians exiled in the Twenties were notorious for assisting other Armenians, Jews once considered favouring Jews a duty to their race, and homosexuals have always favoured other homosexuals.

It's how minorities — who are often, but not always, persecuted — gain strength and influence. The compulsion to favour is all but irresistible.

W e have constructed a society that surrenders to the will of minorities that shout. We see it among ethnic minorities and sexual minorities, in the disabled lobby and in the funding, patronage and promotion of the arts.

And giving these minorities a huge voice is fundamental to the philosophy of those in charge of TV. As a result, TV is far too politically correct. It fosters all minorities and gives them a disproportionate amount of airtime.
In every kind of programme — be it drama, news, debate or for children — in this land of equal opportunities, minorities are given the opportunity to punch above their weight.

This is precisely what has happened in Coronation Street — and the result is a minority preaching to us from some supposed moral high ground.

Long before the series was a glint in Tony Warren's eye, the Campaign for Homosexual Equality was founded in Manchester by Allan Horsfall — a dear old duck — and it might reasonably be claimed it was he who established the city as a centre of homosexual unrest.

How it should be: Coronation Street should revert back to old as an urban version of the Archers, meaning it can continue to be broadcast before the watershed

Coronation Street's writer Damon Rochefort is continuing the tradition, widening its parameters to embrace the fringe interests of the transvestite and transsexual — but in doing this he upsets the balance of the Street and abandons the homely, traditional values that have attracted millions of viewers.

Some would argue this is the duty of the dramatist.

Coronation Street is not a real back street in Salford, and all its characters are as fictional as James Bond and Mary Poppins, if not quite so convincing.

Why shouldn't Rochefort introduce disruptive characters and issues?

Why not bring in not just cross-dressers, but those who subscribe to leather fetishism, bondage and flagellation? They exist. But if this is to be the case, then we must address the issue of the watershed.

It is simple. If, in Coronation Street, the audience prefers an urban version of The Archers — agreeable, benign and mostly heterosexual — then the Street must revert to the past, abandon this campaigning and continue to be broadcast before the watershed.

If the audience responds to the proselytising and is happy for the street to swarm with gloomy lesbians and happy homosexuals engaged in relationships ranging from intensely monogamous to brief, shallow and promiscuous, then it must be broadcast after the watershed. ITV must make up its mind.

Alternatively, the audience, fearful of a descent into moral turpitude, must press a button and turn off the programme.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: HOMOSEXUAL GANGSTERS RUN BULLYBOY LONDON'S

Title: HOMOSEXUAL GANGSTERS RUN BULLYBOY LONDON'S Description: SOUTHWARK COUNCIL [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - July 9, 2011 12:19 AM (GMT)

HOMOSEXUAL GANGSTERS RUN BULLYBOY LONDON'S SOUTHWARK COUNCIL

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/xjZlIt-lpE8?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/xjZlIt-lpE8?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: More lesbian couples getting ‘married’ than gay

Title: More lesbian couples getting ‘married’ than gay
Description: men for the first time [NOT MARRIAGE]

TheUnhivedMind - July 8, 2011 11:03 PM (GMT)

More lesbian couples getting ‘married’ than gay men for the first time

By Anna Edwards
Last updated at 2:33 PM on 8th July 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...y-men-time.html

Women have overtaken men in the number of same-sex unions for the first time since civil partnerships were legalised in 2005.

The number of lesbian couples tying the knot has steadily increased, with 2010 being a record year as 51 per cent of all partnerships were female couples.

Figures released by the Office for National Statistics show this amount crept up from 49 per cent of female same-sex unions in 2009 and 40 per cent in 2006, the first full year of the legislation.

Same-sex couples formed 6,385 civil partnerships in the UK in 2010, with 3,119 male and 3,266 female, an increase of 1.7 per cent compared with 2009.

The number of civil partnerships in 2010 increased by 1.7 per cent overall to 5,536 in England and 9.8 per cent to 268 in Wales.

Yet in Scotland the number of civil partnerships fell by 6.6 per cent to 465.

However, in Northern Ireland the numbers increased by 21 per cent to 116.

But with the increase of civil partnerships came a steep rise in the number of dissolutions of the unions.

There were 509 civil partnership dissolutions granted in the UK in 2010, of which 203 were to male couples and 306 to female couples.

The number of civil partnership dissolutions has sharply increased by 44 per cent since 2009 when there were only 353.

Male civil partners in the UK remained, on average, older than female civil partners in 2010.

For men, the average age fell from 41.2 years in 2009 to 40.6 years in 2010 and for women, from 38.9 to 38.4 years.

Graph from the Office for National Statistics

Brighton and Hove Unitary Authority had the most same-sex unions in 2010, with 129 male and 97 female partnerships, followed by the London Borough of Westminster carrying out 154 male and 68 female partnerships.

The Civil Partnership Act 2004 came into force on 5 December 2005 in the UK, the first day couples could give notice of their intention to form a civil partnership.

The Act enables same-sex couples aged 16 and over to obtain legal recognition of their relationship.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: California set to put US gay and lesbian history

Title: California set to put US gay and lesbian history
Description: on public school curriculum [DISGRACE!]

TheUnhivedMind - July 6, 2011 06:09 PM (GMT)

California set to put US gay and lesbian history on public school curriculum

Governor Gerry Brown must make final decision on issue that has upset religious and conservative groups

Ed Pilkington in New York guardian.co.uk, Wednesday 6 July 2011 18.32 BST
http://www.guardian.co.uk/world/2011/jul/0...ools-curriculum

California is poised to become the first state in America to make the teaching of positive contributions made by gay and lesbian people to US history and society compulsory in public schools.

The governor of California, Jerry Brown, must decide whether to incur the wrath of religious and conservative groups lined up against the move and approve a bill that has now cleared both houses of the state assembly. If signed into law, it would require the rewriting of school textbooks and redrawing of the social science curriculum to include lesbian, bisexual, gay and transgender history – a move that could have wide ramifications given that California's school roll of 6.2 million children is the largest in the country.

Supporters argued that it would give gay teenagers role models to aspire to and help combat homophobic bullying in schools. It would redress the imbalance in state schools that are already required to teach about women, entrepreneurs and labour and several minority ethnic groups including African, Mexican, Asian, European and Native Americans.

"We gain a greater appreciation for what it means to be an American," John Pérez, the first openly gay speaker of the Californian assembly, told the San Francisco Chronicle.

During debate about the bill, supporters gave examples of historical figures they said would be featured, including Friedrich von Steuben, a military adviser to George Washington forced out of Prussia because he was gay, and the British mathematics genius Alan Turing.

Opponents, including all but one of the assembly's Republicans, criticised the bill as provocative and objectionable. "Our founding fathers are turning over in their graves," Republican Tim Donnelly told Associated Press, adding that the curriculum would teach children that a homosexual "lifestyle is good".

Some opponents, such as the campaigning website SaveCalifornia.com, are encouraging parents to take their children out of state schools and teach them at home.

A similar bill was vetoed by the previous California governor, Arnold Schwarzenegger. So far Brown, who took over the post earlier this year, has given no indication whether he will sign or veto the legislation. Once he receives the bill, probably this week, he will have 12 days to make his decision.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Opera North denies homophobia

Title: Opera North denies homophobia

TheUnhivedMind - July 5, 2011 05:43 PM (GMT)

Opera North denies homophobia

Playwright Lee Hall and Opera North director Richard Mantle discuss the controversy

5 July 2011 Last updated at 10:45
http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/entertainment-arts-14029148

An opera company has denied being motivated by homophobia after scrapping a work by Billy Elliot writer Lee Hall.

Opera North has cancelled community opera Beached, which featured a gay character and 400 school children in Bridlington, East Yorkshire.

It said claims it was homophobic were "unacceptable" and that it could not proceed because a school pulled out over concerns about the language.

Hall described it as "a very simple issue about discrimination".

Beached tells the story of a single father trying and failing to have a quiet day at the beach.

Hall had toned down some of the language that Bay Primary School in Bridlington, which was due to have 300 children in the performance, deemed offensive.

But the writer refused to remove the lines: "Of course I'm queer/That's why I left here/ So if you infer/That I prefer/A lad to a lass/And I'm working class/I'd have to concur."

Mike Furbank, East Riding of Yorkshire Council's head of improvement and learning, said the school did not have a problem with a gay character or using drama to explore related issues.

But the school could not accept the language and tone of the passages, he said.

"It was made very clear to the writer there were certain elements the school found offensive... including references to drug-taking, sexual conduct and the use of homophobic name-calling," Mr Furbank said.

"Although the language was toned down, it was still deemed as unacceptable for four to 11-year-olds to be exposed to."

Hall said he "couldn't possibly agree" to removing the lines in question.

"Opera North are in a very difficult position but at the end of the day it's a very simple issue about discrimination, it's about silencing gay people and wanting to wipe them out of being in this play," he added.

Opera North general director Richard Mantle said the school's withdrawal was "the fundamental and only reason" for cancelling the performance.
'Demeaning' decision

"We regret that some people associated with the project have decided to view the decision not to proceed with performances as being based on a homophobic fear on the part of Opera North," he said.

"This is utterly at odds with the reality of the company's ethos about inclusivity, diversity and access to all, indeed Opera North prides itself on its stance towards sexuality.

"Opera North feels that the decision by Lee Hall to suggest that the production was cancelled due to a homophobic stance on the part of the company is unacceptable.

"It is so at odds with the reality of our views on the issue, and so publicly misrepresents the situation in such a demeaning way."

As a result of the cancellation, the Leeds-based company is set to lose £15,000, the commissioning fee for the opera, as well as months of rehearsal time.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Homophobia persists in India despite court reforms

Title: Homophobia persists in India despite court reforms

TheUnhivedMind - July 5, 2011 04:05 PM (GMT)

Homophobia persists in India despite court reforms

Homophobia remains rampant across India despite the 2009 court ruling overturning a colonial law declaring homosexuality to be a crime punishable by 10 years in jail.

By Rahul Bedi, New Delhi
1:39PM BST 05 Jul 2011
http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/...rt-reforms.html

A recent countrywide survey by the CNN-IBN television news channel revealed that as many as 73 per cent of Indians believe homosexuality should be illegal.

The poll, which was conducted in urban neighbourhoods, showed that 83 per cent of respondents felt that homosexuality was not part of Indian culture whilst 90 per cent said they would not rent their houses to a gay or lesbian couple.

The majority of Indian homosexuals – many of whom still live with the parents – refer to their partners as “friends” for fear of being disowned by their families.

Many are forcibly married off, trapped in a cycle of pretence and deception and facing social ridicule if they attempted to come out.

And those who can live together do not advertise their sexuality, for fear of being evicted by landlords or preyed upon by the corrupt police who extort money from them on threat of exposure.

Over the past decade there have been several press reports of lesbian and gay couples exchanging marriage vows, but these stories invariably excite crude humour.

More recently hundreds of homosexuals from both sexes have attended pride parades in Delhi and Bangalore to lobby their cause.

In one march men wore sparkling saris, women sported rainbow boas and hundreds of people chanted for gay rights on a short walk through Delhi's centre. But fear of ostracism was evident amongst many marchers who preferred to wear masks to conceal their identity.

Even mainstream political and religious groups venomously oppose homosexuality.

Former MP B P Singhal from India's main Opposition Hindu nationalist Bharatiya Janata Party believes homosexuality to be an "evil exported from the West" - a view echoed by many other parliamentarians.

And Father Dominic Emanuel of India's Catholic Bishop Council reacted angrily when the legal ban on gays was lifted saying that the church did not "approve" of homosexual behaviour as it did not consider it "natural, ethical or moral".

The Kerala Catholic Bishops Conference in southern India went a step further by declaring that homosexuality was against Indian culture.

"We will oppose it and since our country is a democratic one, there is no way that this can be legalised through legislation. The church's views will have to be sought" conference spokesperson Father Stephen Alathara said.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Hunt: Politicians Lag U.S. Voters on Same-Sex

Title: Hunt: Politicians Lag U.S. Voters on Same-Sex
Description: Marriage [THIS IS NOT MARRIAGE]

TheUnhivedMind - July 4, 2011 05:09 PM (GMT)

Hunt: Politicians Lag U.S. Voters on Same-Sex Marriage

Illustration by Zut Alors!
By Albert R. Hunt Jul 3, 2011
http://www.bloomberg.com/news/2011-07-03/p...lbert-hunt.html

Almost 30 years ago, I flew around New York State with its new governor, Mario Cuomo. He told me that at a gay and lesbian advocacy dinner that week he and Bella Abzug, a firebrand left-wing former congresswoman, were the only straight people in attendance.

I offhandedly remarked that the issue made me a little uncomfortable. Cuomo pounced. Every time you think about that, he said, assume that your young son is gay and ask yourself how you would want him to be treated.

That conversation flashed back vividly last month when Cuomo's son, Andrew, now himself the governor of New York, signed legislation making gay marriage legal in the state. America has come a long way on this issue, and many people now believe the government has no business prohibiting them or their sons or daughters or friends or colleagues or anyone else from getting married because of their sexual orientation.

Only seven years ago, in the aftermath of the legalization of same-sex marriages in Massachusetts, President George W. Bush's strategist, Karl Rove, used the issue to scare voters in Ohio and elsewhere. It worked.

About that time, the most respected Republican pollster, Bob Teeter, noted that while the U.S. was becoming much more tolerant generally, it would probably remain divided on gay marriage for a long time. The late Mr. Teeter, like many of us, would be surprised at how rapidly attitudes are changing. Today, many surveys show majority support for gay marriage; less than a decade ago it was almost 2-to-l against. Then, the public was divided on civil unions for gays and lesbians; there are strong majorities in favor now.

Massachusetts Precedent

The politics around the issue have evolved, too. When a Massachusetts court legalized gay marriage there, many politicians expressed outrage. By contrast, there mainly was support or silence after the action by the New York State Legislature.

Most American politicians still express opposition to gay marriage. Among them is President Barack Obama, who says his views are evolving.

Among leading Republicans, with their social-conservative base, opposition is almost mandatory. Yet the party's top presidential candidates -- former Massachusetts Governor Mitt Romney, former Utah Governor Jon Huntsman and former Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty -- dodged the issue, and made no statements. Nor was there any mention on their campaign websites.

It was the same with the party's congressional leaders such as House Speaker John Boehner of Ohio and Senate minority leader, Mitch McConnell of Kentucky.

'Burden of Discrimination'

Perhaps they watched the contortions of some who did comment. Former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani said he still believes marriage is defined as "between a man and a woman." He went on to praise the state legislature for lifting the "burden of discrimination against gays and lesbians" and credited the "leadership" of Governor Andrew Cuomo.

Even the blunt-talking Minnesota Congresswoman Michele Bachmann, a favorite presidential candidate of many in the religious right, equivocated. It is appropriate that this is a matter of state law, she said. Then she added that she would support a federal initiative to overturn the decisions of the states.

Count on Senator Rick Santorum, who argues that there is no right to privacy in sexual matters, to go against the grain. On one of his presidential campaign treks to Iowa, the former Pennsylvania senator said actions such as New York's are part of a left-wing plot to "cheapen" heterosexual marriage and "devastate kids."

Traditional Marriage

The change in attitude reflects the public's growing rejection of critics' claims that gay marriage threatens traditional marriage, are destabilizing to society, and are antithetical to the central purpose of marriage, to have children.

In those few states where same-sex marriages have been allowed, none of these dire consequences came to pass. An aide to Massachusetts Republican Senator Scott Brown said the lawmaker still supports the Defense of Marriage Act, which bans federal recognition of gay marriage. At the same time, he suggested the debate over the issue is so yesterday: “It’s time to move on,” the aide said. “Senator Brown’s focus is on jobs.”

Still, there remain difficult issues.
State Law

Clearly, the gay marriage movement is about state law. Religions are and should be largely free to set their own standards. The New York measure specifically forbids forcing any religion to recognize gay marriages.

Nevertheless, there are thorny issues such as public funding for religious-affiliated groups that discriminate against gays on the marriage question.

There would be an outcry if public funds were provided to a group that practiced racial discrimination as there was not too long ago about Bob Jones University. The shrill and demagogic attack on same-sex marriage from some Catholic bishops has been counterproductive.

Still, recognizing the rights of gays and lesbians to marry should minimally impede the work of important faith-based groups such as the Catholic charities that often work in partnership with government.

Most every study suggests it’s better for parentless children to be adopted by gay or lesbian couples than to be stuck in a frightful foster-care system. The Catholic Church is an invaluable adoption agency, and probably would leave the field if forced to approve gay adoption.

Further, the matter isn’t settled politically.

Obama, a progressive Democrat, still tries to straddle the line. He’s for civil unions, and in favor of granting health insurance and inheritance rights to same-sex couples, and says the Defense of Marriage Act is unconstitutional. But he hasn’t embraced same-sex marriage.

That’s an illogical position: Same-sex couples can act exactly like those in traditional marriages; they just can’t call their relationship a marriage.

The president’s evolving views are rooted in politics. He will endorse gay marriage; the only question is whether he will do so before (probably) or after the 2012 election.

Moreover, referendums to allow gay marriage were rejected, though narrowly, in recent years in California and Maine, two of the more socially progressive states. There are likely to be similar initiatives soon in Minnesota, North Carolina and elsewhere.

If so, some will succeed, others won't. There will be, however, a continuum toward more tolerance.

(Albert R. Hunt is the executive editor for Washington at Bloomberg News. The opinions expressed are his own.)

To contact the writer of this column: Albert Hunt in Washington at ahunt1@bloomberg.net

To contact the editor responsible for this story: Max Berley at mberley@bloomberg.net.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Billy Elliot creator protests at 'homophobic'

Title: Billy Elliot creator protests at 'homophobic'
Description: decision to scrap his community opera

TheUnhivedMind - July 4, 2011 04:51 PM (GMT)

Billy Elliot creator protests at 'homophobic' decision to scrap his community opera

A community opera written by Lee Hall, the creator of Billy Elliot, has been cancelled after parents complained about its homosexual content.

By Anita Singh, Showbusiness Editor
1:56PM BST 04 Jul 2011
http://www.telegraph.co.uk/culture/culture...nity-opera.html

Beached, the culmination of a £170,000 project staged by Opera North, was due to feature 280 children from the local Bay Primary School in Bridlington. The main character, a retired painter, is gay.

On the eve of the production and after six months of rehearsals, Opera North has withdrawn its support for the project after parents voiced their disapproval.

The local education authority said the content was inappropriate for children as young as four and "goes against everything we teach in school".

A furious Hall accused the local education authority of homophobia. "I am fighting to keep the opera on. It will be a scandal if it is not performed - not just because of the public money wasted, but because ignorance and timidity will have won the day," he wrote in The Guardian.

"That a play about tolerance, community and civic values could founder over this seems unbelievable.

"Effectively, I feel I am not being allowed to represent a gay person. The idea that being gay is something inappropriate for a child to witness is insupportable - as if gay people weren't fathers or mothers or sisters or brothers.

"That an opera company or a school could make this mistake seems extraordinary."

Mike Furband, head of improvement and learning for East Riding of Yorkshire Council, said: "Since the school received the full script at the end of May, it was made very clear to the writer there were certain elements the school found offensive.

"These included references to drug taking, sexual conduct and the use of homophobic name-calling - behaviour that goes against everything we teach in school. Of particular concern and offence was a character who groomed and abused children in his early days in Ibiza.

"It was made explicitly clear to Mr Hall that we did not have an issue with having a gay character - it was the language and tone of the scene that were problematic."

Mr Furband added: "I am sure that any parent would not want their child exposed to or to take part in such scenes from the original script, including, 'You're a fat little queer... I like a bit of rough... Are you taking the ----'.

"Although the language was toned down, it was still deemed as unacceptable for four- to 11-year-olds to be exposed to. One of our primary roles is to safeguard children. Children have the right to be protected from offensive language and behaviour.

"Having said this, we still believe that this could be resolved through judicious and sensitive reworking of elements of the scene in question."

Hall has started a Facebook group and urged supporters to email the chief executive of Opera North to register their anger at the decision.

A cast of 400 were involved in Beached and Opera North said that £15,000 has been wasted as a result of the decision. It was planned as the finale of the company's Sing Up Bridlington project, which began in September 2009 as a way of regenerating the seaside town and has so far cost £170,000.

A spokesman for Opera North said it was "a huge disappointment" that the row had overshadowed the project. "Opera North respects Lee's rights as an author and Beached is a wonderful piece about bringing all different sections of the community together. On the other hand, we can appreciate the viewpoint of the school.

"Lee has raised a hugely valid debate and Opera North wants to be part of this. We have a fantastic reputation for building relationships between artists and communities and are really disappointed that on this occasion it has failed."

A replacement performance will go ahead on July 15 at the same venue, the Royal Hall at The Spa in Bridlington. Mr Hall will not attend.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Philip Hensher: The struggle for gay rights is far

Title: Philip Hensher: The struggle for gay rights is far Description: from over

TheUnhivedMind - July 3, 2011 02:24 AM (GMT)

Philip Hensher: The struggle for gay rights is far from over

Violence against gay people is on the increase, and there is an undeniable culture of homophobia in the media

Saturday, 2 July 2011
http://www.independent.co.uk/opinion/comme...er-2305629.html

I suppose I've been going to Gay Pride for somewhere between 20 and 25 years – my memory for the exact figure, as with so many things connected with this annual festival/ march/piss-up, is a bit vague.

That qualifies me for seen-it-before Old Queen status, though not for Militant Veteran. It started in July 1972, preceded by a march in 1970 against police provocation in Highbury Fields, and has been going, more or less, ever since. Occasionally it's renamed, from Gay Pride to Mardi Gras (cue camp sick-making noises) and then to Pride, for whatever reason. The march moves its route around from time to time. It gains or loses a festival in some park starring Hazel Dean, some off-colour drag queens and a boyband on the make. But Pride goes on.

There have been some memorable ones over the years. There was the one where a lady standing in a window in a five-star hotel in a bathrobe gave way to the crowd's enthusiasm and performed an impromptu strip – known forever afterwards as the year of the "Tits at the Ritz." There was the year when, despite freezing weather, a boy pranced ahead of us all the way in a yellow feathered jockstrap and nothing else – I said, "God, will you look at that silly tart," before realising that it was someone I worked with, normally in a blue serge suit.

Legendarily, it always rains, causing someone in the gang to observe at some point "God hates the gays". We always have a passionate and quite personal argument with those gay jobsworths who police the route, shouting at anyone who gets even slightly out of line or stops walking at the approved pace. ("This is not the way for you to get off with anyone," is the usual rebuke). There's always great enjoyment at what we call Christian Corner. The appearance of the placards quoting Leviticus incites a traditional drunk gay chant of – well, do you know what, I don't think I'm going to repeat it. It is all more fun than I can really say.

"Well," you might say. "I can see what the point of it was in 1972. But do you really need to block the traffic and make a proper spectacle of yourselves once a year any more?" Certainly, in 1972, things were quite different. The sexual offences bill that legalised homosexuality was passed only five years before, and inequality would remain in place for decades. You couldn't work in parts of the civil service, in the armed forces; you could be sacked from any job without recourse to the law; you could lose your home; be refused service in a shop, restaurant or hotel; there was no legal recognition of any relationship you might form, which could only be with someone over 21; and you were liable to be arrested for showing affection to someone in any public place. (That didn't mean sex – well into the 1980s, people were arrested for kissing at bus stops).

All those things have now changed, and when a gay couple is refused a hotel room, it makes headlines just as it would if it happened to a black person. There are pockets of intolerance – violence against gay people is on the increase, and there is an undeniable culture of homophobia in the media, of the ill-natured homophobic joke on television and in the workplace which is resistant to any kind of legislation. But things are so much better. Why march? Why have Pride at all?

Five months ago, David Kato, the Ugandan gay rights activist, was beaten to death in his own home. Gay people are often vulnerable to attack in much of Africa, but there was something particularly horrible about this death.

It followed a campaign by the Ugandan magazine Rolling Stone, in which homosexuals were identified and vilified, their photographs printed. The editor of the magazine, after Kato's death, supporting a disgusting proposed crime of "aggravated homosexuality", said: "We want the government to hang people who promote homosexuality, not for the public to attack them."

It will be a long time, in the wake of these events, before there is a gay pride march in Kampala. But in many other countries, Pride has had a very difficult history. The first Moscow Pride was attempted as late as 2006; every year from 2006 onwards, permission to hold the festival has been refused by the Moscow authorities. In 2007, the Mayor of Moscow, Yuri Luzhkov, said Gay Pride "cannot be called anything but satanic".

Repeatedly, those attempting to make themselves visible have been viciously attacked by far-right groups while the police look on. In 2007, eminent visitors, such as Peter Tatchell and the Italian MP Marco Cappato, were attacked: the police arrested 10 or so participants in the rally, letting the assailants go free.

Gay people in Uganda, or Russia, or any of the 80 countries of the world where homosexuality is partly or wholly proscribed, are not going to want to make themselves visible in the way we take for granted. But, these days, a very large number of them have access to computers. They can read about a wonderful place, far away, where gay people can walk hand in hand, can have a street party, can get off with each other and wear yellow feathered jockstraps in the street. The wonderful place is called Soho, as it happens.

I can tell you, most of those gay people who hear about Pride from Uganda or Moscow won't start thinking, "I must start up our own Kampala Pride." They will start thinking "How on earth can I get myself to London?" Those gay people who give up on their countries and head to ours on the strength of Gay Pride, we have to say this to them: your route was hard. You're extremely welcome. Your countries don't deserve you. So let's put on our dancing shoes. And let's march.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Church of England to reconsider stance on gay

Title: Church of England to reconsider stance on gay
Description: bishops [THIS IS NOT THE HOUSE OF GOD]

TheUnhivedMind - July 1, 2011 06:00 PM (GMT)

Church of England to reconsider stance on gay bishops

House of Bishops to review its policy on civil partnerships and same-sex relationships

Riazat Butt, religious affairs correspondent guardian.co.uk, Friday 1 July 2011 16.14 BST
http://www.guardian.co.uk/world/2011/jul/0...nce-gay-bishops

The Church of England has said it is reviewing its approach to same-sex relationships and whether gay priests in civil partnerships should become bishops, its most significant work on the subject for years.

According to a statement from the House of Bishops, there is a "theological task to be done to clarify further understanding of the nature and status of these partnerships".

The bishop of Norwich, Graham James, said the "last substantive engagement" with the issue of homosexuality was in 2005.

"Contrary to popular perception the House of Bishops has spent very little time in recent years discussing homosexuality. The House has now agreed the time has come to commission two new pieces of work."

There will be a moratoria on nominating gay clergy for the episcopate to avoid "pre-empting the outcome of the review" said the statement. The review will glean information from an initiative launched in 1998 designed to listen to the experiences of gay and lesbian Anglicans around the world.

Recent months have seen fresh debate within the Church of England about the issue of homosexuality, which has riven the Anglican Communion.

The Guardian revealed in May how the House of Bishops were unable to agree if a gay priest would ever be eligible for nomination to the episcopate.

Last month, in a legal response to the government's consultation on civil partnerships in places of worship, the church said it would only allow such ceremonies if and when its General Synod agreed. Both instances, predictably, inflamed tensions between liberals and conservatives.

The latest announcement comes days after the launch of a traditionalist group, Anglican Mission in England, "dedicated" to setting up new churches. Its aim, it said, is to support "those who have been alienated so that they can remain within the Anglican family" and offer alternative leadership where Anglicans are "in impaired communion with their diocesan bishop".

The group has announced it has three clergy, ordained in Kenya, who are ready to minister to disaffected conservative evangelicals.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Attack on Heterosexuality is Satanism

Title: Attack on Heterosexuality is Satanism

TheUnhivedMind - June 30, 2011 05:47 PM (GMT)

Attack on Heterosexuality is Satanism

The essence of satanism is to substitute the perverted mindset of the Luciferian central bankers for God-given reality.

This means that all that is natural and healthy must be deemed sick; all that is true is false; and all that is good is evil.

This applies to the promotion of homosexuality and the disparagement of heterosexuality.

by Henry Makow Ph.D.
June 29, 2011
http://www.henrymakow.com/gender_differenc...re_not_ste.html

Recently a tiny state-funded daycare in Stockholm was in the news for adopting heterophobic policies including the promotion of gender confusion and homosexuality.

The action of a lesbian daycare director with 33 pre-schoolers is not significant. Significant is that the Illuminati mass media heralded it as a "progressive" experiment rather than child abuse. The same thing happened in May when Marxist trendies in Toronto decided to mess with their newborn's mind by denying his/her gender.

The promotion of heterophobic acts without labeling them as such is a veiled assault on heterosexual society. It is an ongoing psy op designed to destabilize society and weaken its resistance to the NWO.

It also reveals the true Communist and satanic nature of the NWO. Yes, the NWO is designed to concentrate all wealth and power on the hands of the Illuminati central bankers.

But more than that, it is a state of mind, a satanic spell characterized by homosexuality, pornography, money-lust, violence, deception and death. We are all being inducted into this satanic cult which is based on the Kabbalah.

SATANISM

The essence of satanism is to substitute the perversions of Lucifer-loving bankers for God-given reality. This means that all that is natural and healthy must be deemed sick; all that is true is false; and all that is good is evil. And vice versa.

Thus, we have a vicious mindless attack on gender, and male-female love, things that are healthy, natural, god-given and necessary.

Male and female gender spans all of nature. Gender differences are documented in science.

"There has seldom been a greater divide between what intelligent, enlightened opinion presumes - that men and women have the same brain - and what science knows: that they do not," writes Neuropsychologist Dr Anne Moir.

"Conclusive scientific research presents an irrefutable truth: The difference between men and women is not merely physical. It is neurological, too. Male and female human brains are wired differently, causing us to think, feel, react and respond in strikingly different ways."

Common sense tells us that women are different because they have babies. Children must be conceived in love and raised in a secure and wholesome environment. Men and women have complementary roles based on different skills and temperaments.

The satanist Illuminati attack on gender is an attack on heterosexuals and on love itself. Obviously, the economic elite and media are complicit. They are controlled by the Illuminati banking cartel.

COMMUNISM = SATANISM = NWO

Under Communism, science and art were repressed if they did not conform to "revolutionary" truth. Revolutionary refers to the overthrow of God (reality, truth, morality) and the replacement with the rule of Illuminati bankers fronted by the State.

These perverts are instituting their Communist satanism in the form of the NWO. You can see this by the pervasiveness of "political correctness" a term that is Communist in origin.

You can see it in their denial and suppression of God and Intelligent Design.

You can see it in their promotion of promiscuity and deviance ("sexual liberation,") pornography, satanism, violence and obscenity in the mass media.

You can see it in their brutish "feminism" which pretends to champion women but, in fact, despises femininity and deprives women of natural fulfillment as wives and mothers.

You can see it when male and female genders are deemed "stereotypes" except when they are reversed, i.e. women acting like men or vice-versa. When gay men pretend to be female or transsexuals switch sexes, then somehow they are no longer "stereotypes."

You can see it in the bankers' financing of gay marriage, which implies homosexuals and heterosexuals are identical.

Apparently heterosexuals do not have human rights. It's fine to deny a helpless child his gender identity, but don't interfere with a youth who is gay.

"Human rights" and "gay rights" clearly are ruses to deny human rights to the vast heterosexual majority.

But that's typically satanic, communist and kabbalist. Light ("The Enlightenment") is darkness. Lucifer, the Light-bringer, is God. "Human rights" are a mode of human re-engineering and enslavement.

Yes, this reality shift extends to language. The term homophobic is widely recognized. The term heterophobic is not. Heterophobia garners 250,000 references on Google Search. Homophobia over 10 million - 40 times as many to denote opposition to practices of 1/50th of the population.

We are being brainwashed by the mass media, inducted into a sinister satanic cult whose goal is to enslave mankind, spiritually, mentally and physically. This is the true nature of the New World Order.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Cuba's gay pride parade: big debut, few marchers

Title: Cuba's gay pride parade: big debut, few marchers

TheUnhivedMind - June 30, 2011 12:23 AM (GMT)

Cuba's gay pride parade: big debut, few marchers

Jun 28 2011
http://www.breitbart.com/article.php?id=CN...&show_article=1

There were just a handful, but the dozen Cubans who took part in the country's first Gay Pride rally Tuesday celebrated one more step on the country's road to gay rights recognition.

"We are not asking for anything, we're only celebrating the fact that Cuba voted at the United Nations in favor of recognizing the rights of the gay community," said Ignacio Estrada, one of the leaders of the Cuban Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgendered People's Rights Watch Group.

The short march -- along the 500 meters (1,600 feet) of Prado Avenue towards the seaside boulevard, the Malecon -- took place without incident and broke up amid music and dancing under the amused eye of passers-by and tourists.

Cuba's Center for Sexual Education, directed by Mariela Castro, the daughter of President Raul Castro, celebrates a "day against homophobia" every year, but this was the first time a Gay Pride march was held in downtown Havana.

It is not an insignificant whiff of tolerance in a country in which the Communist Party singlehandedly controls the government, the media and almost all of the cash-strapped economy.

For decades under the Americas' only one-party communist government, gays faced both traditional social and government ostracism, and often tried to hide. Some wound up in prison, and many went into exile.

That began to change mainly in the past decade, with more modern official media education about gays and lesbians.

Yet, said Leannes Imbert, another director of the rights watch group, "discrimination unfortunately still exists in Cuba, we are turned down for certain jobs, and there are hassles of all other kinds as well.

"We're trying to do the real work of a revolution, to 'change what must be changed,'" said Imbert, quoting an expression made famous by Cuban revolutionary Fidel Castro.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Feds find fix was in on 'study' of homosexuality

Title: Feds find fix was in on 'study' of homosexuality
Description: in ranks

TheUnhivedMind - June 30, 2011 12:00 AM (GMT)

Feds find fix was in on 'study' of homosexuality in ranks

Inspector General says executive summary written before troops surveyed

Posted: June 27, 2011
By Bob Unruh
http://www.wnd.com/index.php?fa=PAGE.view&pageId=316273

A previously undisclosed report by the inspector general of the Department of Defense concludes that the fix – maybe even handed down by the White House – was in before the military ever started asking soldiers and sailors about how opening the ranks to homosexuals would affect the nation's defense.

The 33-page report is marked "For Official Use Only" and describes an "Investigation of improper disclosure of For Official Use Only information from the Comprehensive Review Working Group draft report."

It was that report that famously was quoted as affirming "70 percent" of the nation's military members believe the repeal of the long-standing "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" practice of allowing homosexuals to serve as long as they kept their sexual lifestyle choices to themselves would have either "a neutral or positive impact on unit cohesion, readiness, effectiveness and morale."

Take a guided tour into the future of the U.S. military once homosexuality is welcomed with open arms. Read Whistleblower's special issue, "DROPPING THE 'H'-BOMB," online FREE here!

However, the inspector general documents how the co-chair of the commission working on the assessment, Jeh Johnson, "read portions of 'an early draft' of the executive summary … to a former news anchor, a close personal friend visiting Mr. Johnson's home" three days before service members even were given the survey.

A source provided the IG report, which aimed to determine who prematurely released information about the study, to Elaine Donnelly of the Center for Military Readiness. Donnelly analyzed the documentation and warned that it suggests Congress was deceived, probably deliberately, by those with a pro-repeal agenda.

Congress then voted during its lame-duck session last winter for the repeal.

Donnelly told WND that Obama has promised to "certify" the results – that there would be no significant complications from repeal of the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy – as early as this week. And then the law is scheduled to change 60 days later.

"Contrary to most news accounts, the 'Comprehensive Review Working Group' process was not a 'study,'" she told WND. "Its purpose was to circumvent and neutralize military opposition to repeal of the law."

She agreed that military personnel who participated in the process in good faith "will feel betrayed and justifiably angry" by the results.

Their time was misused for political purposes," she said.

According to her analysis, the study "was a publicly funded pre-scripted production put on just for show."

"The … report, completed on April 8, 2011, reveals improper activities and deception that misled members of Congress in order 'to gain momentum in support of a legislative change during the 'lame duck' session of Congress following the November 2, 2010, elections,'" she wrote.

Donnelly explained that days before the survey was distributed, Johnson "was seeking advice from a 'former news anchor' on how to write the report's executive summary more 'persuasively.'"

Further, "The DoD IG report concluded that someone who 'had a strongly emotional attachment to the issue' and 'likely a pro-repeal agenda' violated security rules and leaked selected, half-true information to the Washington Post," she explained.

That was the "70 percent" figure that has been discussed as the percentage of active-duty and reserve troops "not concerned about repeal of the law."

"The DoD did not correct the unauthorized 'spin,' which was widely publicized and cited on the floor during Senate debate. The ultimate result of this travesty was a rushed vote to repeal the law regarding homosexuals in the military."

However, the actual responses were that military members who believe the change would impact units "very positively" totaled 6.6 percent, "positively" 11.8 percent, "mixed" 32.1 percent, "negatively" 18.7 percent, "very negatively" 10.9 percent and "no effect" 19.9 percent.

The only way the 70 percent figure can be reached is to combine "very positively," "positively," "mixed" and "no effect." But this combination counts people with "neutral positions" as favoring the change, she noted.

Donnelly's research explained that taking those same figures and putting them on the other side, that is, lumping them with "negatively" and "very negatively," would produce a total of almost 82 percent of the soldiers who believe the results of the change would be "negative or neutral."

The IG said exactly that:
We considered that the primary source's likely pro-repeal sentiment was further demonstrated by his/her inclusion of the key 70 percent figure in the information provided to the Washington Post. … Had [the source] desired to further an anti-repeal bias for the article, he/she could likewise have combined four results categories from that same survey question to conclude that "82 percent of respondents said the effect of repealing the 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell' policy would be negative, mixed or no effect."

"The DoD IG analysis is consistent with what the Center for Military Readiness, the Family Research Council, and other analysts not involved in the project were saying at the time," Donnelly's report said.

The IG report said 96 of the 101 people with access to the report before it was released were interviewed and all denied under oath releasing information to the newspaper. The only five not interviewed were in the White House.

"The 112th Congress should question White House officials who were not interviewed previously, and do everything possible to repair the damage done to our military," Donnelly suggested.

"The administration knew that support for the controversial gays-in-the-military cause would be difficult to find in the armed forces, particular in the combat arms, so an unnamed Pentagon or White House official apparently released selected information from the DoD Working Group Review of the issue in order to create an illusion of military support."

The report revealed that one of the White House officials was James Messina, Obama's primary liaison to the homosexual activists, who just before the Washington Post story based on skewed results had been criticized "for not doing enough to repeal the 1993 law."

While the repeal failed earlier, when the Senate voted for repeal following the release of the skewed results, "Human Rights Campaign President Joe Solmonese praised Messina as 'one of the great unsung heroes' of the gays-in-the-military campaign," Donnelly reported.

The actual results, she noted, "found that about 60 percent of Army land combat troops and 67 percent of combat Marines said that repeal would undermine military effectiveness. Significant numbers of military personnel said they would decline re-enlistment if Congress repeated the 1993 law."

The critical documentation in the IG report was of Johnson's discussion with the unnamed "former news anchor."

The meeting took place July 4 weekend last year, and the IG report notes the anchor "told the IG that he was struck by how many members of the United States Armed Services thought that repeal of the 1993 law was 'just fine,'" Donnelly said. "The comment was peculiar, since the company contracted to do the survey (Westat) did not transmit the instrument electronically to almost 400,000 active-duty and reserve troops until July 7."

The report said the executive summary was written to "have no negative impact" no matter "what the official survey responses said."

"Members of the 112th Congress should conduct a further investigation with immediate hearings that call as witnesses the five White House officials … Members also should inform President Obama that they will not accept 'certification' of a new LGBT law and associated policies that required deception and dishonesty to pass," Donnelly said.

"Finally, the general public should consider whether the tactics used were a political payoff related to the 2008 campaign, or the re-election campaign in 2012. President Obama has misused the military to please civilian activists of the LGBT Left," she said.

The IG report was unable to conclude exactly who released the secret information to the Washington Post at the time, but the result was one of "repressing the voices of combat troops and Marines who strongly opposed the repeal," Donnelly told WND.

WND reported in April on the results of a WND/WENZEL Poll done by the public-opinion research and media consulting company Wenzel Strategies.

The scientific telephone survey, conducted April 19-21, found that more than 51 percent of Americans, including nearly one in four individuals who identify themselves as "liberal," said the military's "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" practice should be reinstated or never should have been repealed.

"On the question of whether it was right for the federal government to repeal the compromise known as 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell' that allowed gays to serve in the U.S. Armed Forces as long as they kept their sexual orientation to themselves, 51 percent said either that the rule should be reinstated or that Congress was wrong to repeal it last December in a lame duck session of Congress," explained Fritz Wenzel, chief of the polling company, in his analysis.

"The vote came after the November elections in which the Democrats lost control of the U.S. House of Representatives and suffered significant losses in the U.S. Senate. Had this measure been delayed until the newly elected Congress could consider it, the repeal of Don't Ask Don't Tell would almost certainly have failed, and this survey data shows the public would have supported continuation of that policy," he said.

"Don't Ask, Don't Tell" was a policy ordered by former President Clinton after Congress passed a law banning homosexuality in the military. Under the Clinton policy, if homosexual soldiers didn't make a public issue of their sexual lifestyle, the military would not make inquiries about it, despite the ban.

The poll question was, "Congress recently repealed the U.S. military's long-standing prohibition against homosexuals openly serving in the armed forces, a policy known as 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell.' Which of the following statements best reflects your thinking about the repeal of 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell.'"

While 43 percent of the respondents said it is time for change, 31.2 percent said it was wrong to adopt the repeal, and another 19.3 percent said it should be reinstated.

The issue was one that Obama had promised to address while he was garnering support from homosexual organizations during the 2008 campaign.

"Much of what was done in that lame duck session last December was seen as a final payoff to liberal interests before liberals lost power in Congress in January, and they clearly supported this measure. Among liberals, 74 percent favored repeal of 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell,'" Wenzel's analysis said.

"Among those who have either served in the armed forces or have an immediate family member who is serving or has served, just 38 percent favored repeal of the measure, while 58 percent opposed it or favor its reinstatement," the analysis said.

"Asked whether American soldiers should be required to bunk and shower with open homosexuals, 27 percent said they should, while 53 percent said they should not. Another 20 percent said they were unsure on the question. There was little difference in sentiment on this question between those with military experience in their immediate family and those with none, as both groups opposed the bunking and showering with open homosexuals by about a two-to-one margin," Wenzel said.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: I Certainly Do Not Want To Wake Up Next To This Title: I Certainly Do Not Want To Wake Up Next To This Description: Joker [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - June 29, 2011 03:23 AM (GMT)

I Certainly Do Not Want To Wake Up Next To This Joker

Monday, June 27, 2011 at 10:01PM Gilad Atzmon
http://www.gilad.co.uk/writings/i-certainl...is-joker-1.html

Israel's "pinkwash" makes cynical use of gays & gay rights

Israel's latest hasbara schtick falls flat in days

A couple of days ago, a Youtube video of some guy calling himself Mark popped up. Mark claimed to be an American gay rights activist who decided to broaden his horizons and, going all hog, decided to join the Gaza flotilla, representing the gay rights group of which he is a member. He sent an email to the flotilla organizers, but – alas! – after waiting for quite a while, received a negative reply. Upon which Mark experienced a Road to Damascus moment, the scales fell from his eyes, and he saw the bright, shining light of truth: The flotilla is organized by Hamas-supporting Islamists, all of whom are good friends with Ismail Hanyieh.

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/vhmBbGFJleU?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/vhmBbGFJleU?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Feds find fix was in on 'study' of homosexuality

Title: Feds find fix was in on 'study' of homosexuality
Description: in ranks

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 07:03 PM (GMT)

Feds find fix was in on 'study' of homosexuality in ranks

Inspector General says executive summary written before troops surveyed

Posted: June 27, 2011
http://www.wnd.com/index.php?fa=PAGE.view&pageId=316273

A previously undisclosed report by the inspector general of the Department of Defense concludes that the fix – maybe even handed down by the White House – was in before the military ever started asking soldiers and sailors about how opening the ranks to homosexuals would affect the nation's defense.

The 33-page report is marked "For Official Use Only" and describes an "Investigation of improper disclosure of For Official Use Only information from the Comprehensive Review Working Group draft report."

It was that report that famously was quoted as affirming "70 percent" of the nation's military members believe the repeal of the long-standing "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" practice of allowing homosexuals to serve as long as they kept their sexual lifestyle choices to themselves would have either "a neutral or positive impact on unit cohesion, readiness, effectiveness and morale."

Take a guided tour into the future of the U.S. military once homosexuality is welcomed with open arms. Read Whistleblower's special issue, "DROPPING THE 'H'-BOMB," online FREE here!

However, the inspector general documents how the co-chair of the commission working on the assessment, Jeh Johnson, "read portions of 'an early draft' of the executive summary … to a former news anchor, a close personal friend visiting Mr. Johnson's home" three days before service members even were given the survey.

A source provided the IG report, which aimed to determine who prematurely released information about the study, to Elaine Donnelly of the Center for Military Readiness. Donnelly analyzed the documentation and warned that it suggests Congress was deceived, probably deliberately, by those with a pro-repeal agenda.

Congress then voted during its lame-duck session last winter for the repeal.

Donnelly told WND that Obama has promised to "certify" the results – that there would be no significant complications from repeal of the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy – as early as this week. And then the law is scheduled to change 60 days later.

"Contrary to most news accounts, the 'Comprehensive Review Working Group' process was not a 'study,'" she told WND. "Its purpose was to circumvent and neutralize military opposition to repeal of the law."

She agreed that military personnel who participated in the process in good faith "will feel betrayed and justifiably angry" by the results.

Their time was misused for political purposes," she said.

According to her analysis, the study "was a publicly funded pre-scripted production put on just for show."

"The … report, completed on April 8, 2011, reveals improper activities and deception that misled members of Congress in order 'to gain momentum in support of a legislative change during the 'lame duck' session of Congress following the November 2, 2010, elections,'" she wrote.

Donnelly explained that days before the survey was distributed, Johnson "was seeking advice from a 'former news anchor' on how to write the report's executive summary more 'persuasively.'"

Further, "The DoD IG report concluded that someone who 'had a strongly emotional attachment to the issue' and 'likely a pro-repeal agenda' violated security rules and leaked selected, half-true information to the Washington Post," she explained.

That was the "70 percent" figure that has been discussed as the percentage of active-duty and reserve troops "not concerned about repeal of the law."

"The DoD did not correct the unauthorized 'spin,' which was widely publicized and cited on the floor during Senate debate. The ultimate result of this travesty was a rushed vote to repeal the law regarding homosexuals in the military."

However, the actual responses were that military members who believe the change would impact units "very positively" totaled 6.6 percent, "positively" 11.8 percent, "mixed" 32.1 percent, "negatively" 18.7 percent, "very negatively" 10.9 percent and "no effect" 19.9 percent.

The only way the 70 percent figure can be reached is to combine "very positively," "positively," "mixed" and "no effect." But this combination counts people with "neutral positions" as favoring the change, she noted.

Donnelly's research explained that taking those same figures and putting them on the other side, that is, lumping them with "negatively" and "very negatively," would produce a total of almost 82 percent of the soldiers who believe the results of the change would be "negative or neutral."

The IG said exactly that:
We considered that the primary source's likely pro-repeal sentiment was further demonstrated by his/her inclusion of the key 70 percent figure in the information provided to the Washington Post. … Had [the source] desired to further an anti-repeal bias for the article, he/she could likewise have combined four results categories from that same survey question to conclude that "82 percent of respondents said the effect of repealing the 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell' policy would be negative, mixed or no effect."

"The DoD IG analysis is consistent with what the Center for Military Readiness, the Family Research Council, and other analysts not involved in the project were saying at the time," Donnelly's report said.

The IG report said 96 of the 101 people with access to the report before it was released were interviewed and all denied under oath releasing information to the newspaper. The only five not interviewed were in the White House.

"The 112th Congress should question White House officials who were not interviewed previously, and do everything possible to repair the damage done to our military," Donnelly suggested.

"The administration knew that support for the controversial gays-in-the-military cause would be difficult to find in the armed forces, particular in the combat arms, so an unnamed Pentagon or White House official apparently released selected information from the DoD Working Group Review of the issue in order to create an illusion of military support."

The report revealed that one of the White House officials was James Messina, Obama's primary liaison to the homosexual activists, who just before the Washington Post story based on skewed results had been criticized "for not doing enough to repeal the 1993 law."

While the repeal failed earlier, when the Senate voted for repeal following the release of the skewed results, "Human Rights Campaign President Joe Solmonese praised Messina as 'one of the great unsung heroes' of the gays-in-the-military campaign," Donnelly reported.

The actual results, she noted, "found that about 60 percent of Army land combat troops and 67 percent of combat Marines said that repeal would undermine military effectiveness. Significant numbers of military personnel said they would decline re-enlistment if Congress repeated the 1993 law."

The critical documentation in the IG report was of Johnson's discussion with the unnamed "former news anchor."

The meeting took place July 4 weekend last year, and the IG report notes the anchor "told the IG that he was struck by how many members of the United States Armed Services thought that repeal of the 1993 law was 'just fine,'" Donnelly said. "The comment was peculiar, since the company contracted to do the survey (Westat) did not transmit the instrument electronically to almost 400,000 active-duty and reserve troops until July 7."

The report said the executive summary was written to "have no negative impact" no matter "what the official survey responses said."

"Members of the 112th Congress should conduct a further investigation with immediate hearings that call as witnesses the five White House officials … Members also should inform President Obama that they will not accept 'certification' of a new LGBT law and associated policies that required deception and dishonesty to pass," Donnelly said.

"Finally, the general public should consider whether the tactics used were a political payoff related to the 2008 campaign, or the re-election campaign in 2012. President Obama has misused the military to please civilian activists of the LGBT Left," she said.

The IG report was unable to conclude exactly who released the secret information to the Washington Post at the time, but the result was one of "repressing the voices of combat troops and Marines who strongly opposed the repeal," Donnelly told WND.

WND reported in April on the results of a WND/WENZEL Poll done by the public-opinion research and media consulting company Wenzel Strategies.

The scientific telephone survey, conducted April 19-21, found that more than 51 percent of Americans, including nearly one in four individuals who identify themselves as "liberal," said the military's "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" practice should be reinstated or never should have been repealed.

"On the question of whether it was right for the federal government to repeal the compromise known as 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell' that allowed gays to serve in the U.S. Armed Forces as long as they kept their sexual orientation to themselves, 51 percent said either that the rule should be reinstated or that Congress was wrong to repeal it last December in a lame duck session of Congress," explained Fritz Wenzel, chief of the polling company, in his analysis.

"The vote came after the November elections in which the Democrats lost control of the U.S. House of Representatives and suffered significant losses in the U.S. Senate. Had this measure been delayed until the newly elected Congress could consider it, the repeal of Don't Ask Don't Tell would almost certainly have failed, and this survey data shows the public would have supported continuation of that policy," he said.

"Don't Ask, Don't Tell" was a policy ordered by former President Clinton after Congress passed a law banning homosexuality in the military. Under the Clinton policy, if homosexual soldiers didn't make a public issue of their sexual lifestyle, the military would not make inquiries about it, despite the ban.

The poll question was, "Congress recently repealed the U.S. military's long-standing prohibition against homosexuals openly serving in the armed forces, a policy known as 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell.' Which of the following statements best reflects your thinking about the repeal of 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell.'"

While 43 percent of the respondents said it is time for change, 31.2 percent said it was wrong to adopt the repeal, and another 19.3 percent said it should be reinstated.

The issue was one that Obama had promised to address while he was garnering support from homosexual organizations during the 2008 campaign.

"Much of what was done in that lame duck session last December was seen as a final payoff to liberal interests before liberals lost power in Congress in January, and they clearly supported this measure. Among liberals, 74 percent favored repeal of 'Don't Ask, Don't Tell,'" Wenzel's analysis said.

"Among those who have either served in the armed forces or have an immediate family member who is serving or has served, just 38 percent favored repeal of the measure, while 58 percent opposed it or favor its reinstatement," the analysis said.

"Asked whether American soldiers should be required to bunk and shower with open homosexuals, 27 percent said they should, while 53 percent said they should not. Another 20 percent said they were unsure on the question. There was little difference in sentiment on this question between those with military experience in their immediate family and those with none, as both groups opposed the bunking and showering with open homosexuals by about a two-to-one margin," Wenzel said.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS "SAME SEX" MARRIAGE

Title: THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS "SAME SEX" MARRIAGE

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 06:54 PM (GMT)

THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS "SAME SEX" MARRIAGE

By: Devvy
June 27, 2011
http://www.newswithviews.com/Devvy/kidd502.htm

Warning: Explicit language

A man sent me an email after my last column on the queering of America's churches saying I shouldn't be so explicit in my use of words. Wrong. This country needs some reality and not just more propaganda wrapped up in fuzzy, politically correct words like "gay." Oh, John and Bill are wonderful gays. Sam and Tom are gay. Well, exactly what does that mean? That the sum total of their sexual preferences are kissing and holding hands? Do people understand how they are being manipulated by words, images and repeated lies?

Is describing what homosexuals do offensive? I have yet to hear one single person say that having sex in someone else's rectum and feces is normal and healthy. Criticizing the filthy practice of sodomy is called "hate speech." How else should one describe sodomy practiced by "gays"? Perhaps I should call it buggery, but it doesn't change the act.

Late Friday night, June 24, 2011, New York became the sixth state of the Union to "legalize" marriage for sexual deviants. The world was immediately flooded with live media feeds of debauchery in several major cities. New York City saw "lots of celebrations." Men who have sex in each other's feces were kissing and groping. Females who slobber in each other's vaginas and other perversions, kissing and hugging. I find that highly offensive. Oh, I know the old argument on this issue about "tolerance" - especially from Libertarians. My personal opinion, which always gets me in trouble with libertarians, is that they confuse licentiousness with liberty.

The cultural war regarding sexual deviants has been waged with increased fervor since AIDS came to the attention of the American people. THAT is when the push really began for "tolerance" and "social justice" regarding sexual deviants. A deadly disease that was infecting and killing thousands spread by men having dangerous sex. Of course, the spread of AIDS and HIV could have come to a near complete stop had men stopped the practice of sodomy. They didn't back in the 80s, and, sadly, the rest is history.

Four Republicans sold out to promote the death of Western civilization and a nation which used to adhere to Christian and moral standards. They need to be booted out of the NY State Senate in 2012: James Alesi, Roy McDonald, Stephen Saland, and Mark Grisanti.

"Sen. Mark Grisanti, a GOP freshman from Buffalo who also had been undecided, also voted for the bill. Grisanti said he could not deny anyone what he called basic rights. "I apologize to those I offend," said Grisanti, a Roman Catholic. "But I believe you can be wiser today than yesterday. I believe this state needs to provide equal rights and protections for all its residents," he said." Grisanti is a Catholic in name only because he spit in God's face with his vote. It was a no brainer morally bankrupt Gov. Andrew Cuomo would sign the bill calling it "social justice."

"Social justice" is just more communist propaganda. I know I'm repeating myself, but it is and has been for more than eight decades the goal of the communists and let me quote Jeri Lynn Ball from her book, Masters of Seduction:

"Communist masters who ran the “former” Soviet Union and East Bloc nations during the Cold War are still in control of these hapless countries today and that they are waging psychological warfare, using the same powerful secret weapon to subjugate Americans that they used to enslave their own people. The Russian totalitarians, Red Chinese, and their globalist American “partners” are using this secret ideological weapon, among other things, to achieve world domination....

"Nikolai Bukharin had previously written “that the revolution's principle task was to ‘alter people's actual psychology.’” In 1928 Bukharin stated that “one of the first priorities is the question of the systematic preparation of new men, the builders of [totalitarian] socialism.” In his book, Soviet Civilization, Andrei Sinyavsky states that the “idea of the new man is the cornerstone of Soviet civilization.”

The communists have never wavered from their goals:

26. Present homosexuality, degeneracy and promiscuity as "normal, natural, healthy."

27. Infiltrate the churches and replace revealed religion with "social" religion.

Change the way people think and believe. Destroy the traditional family and marriage between only a man and woman. Replace with two daddys or two mommies. Promote and condone, as the United States government is doing at every level, the filth of sodomy and all the horrible diseases suffered by sodomites. Sell "gay" regarding lesbians to soften the abomination they commit in God's eyes. Remember: Communism can only flourish in a Godless country; take a good long look at China and North Korea. Next came allowing sexual deviants to adopt precious children and brain wash them with the big lie: Born that way. Sexual deviants adopting children is child abuse condoned by political animals in the state houses more worried about votes from a small minority with an agenda than the welfare of children.

Marriage for more than 5,000 years has always been between a man and woman, not sexual deviants. The psychological warfare that has been underway in this country for decades has been successful in distracting the American people from the core issue regarding sexual deviants and so called "social justice." Throughout history, men who have sex in each other's rectums and feces were identified as homosexuals or queers. They still are and the Internet is replete with web sites proclaiming "We're queer and we're here."

In order to take the stench away from what homosexuals do and the horrible number of preventable deaths from AIDS in the early 80s, clever marketing began in earnest. Homosexuals were now "gay" due to their "sexual orientation." The first really big battle came in 1992 when the voters passed Amendment Two out in Colorado that would would have prohibited "all legislative, executive, or judicial action at any level of state or local government designed to protect the status of persons based on their 'homosexual, lesbian or bisexual orientation, conduct, practices or relationships'."

Advertisement

Of course, lawsuits followed and a preliminary injunction from the trial court prevented the will of the people from ever being law. That injunction was upheld by the Colorado Supreme Court, who along with the trial court, sided saying the rights of sexual deviants was violated regarding participation in the political process. All based on a lie: Born that way.

Next up in the judicial cesspool we had Lawrence v Texas. A total set up to test sodomy laws here in Texas. I read Sex Appealed: Was the US Supreme Court Fooled? by Judge Janice Law. She accurately describes how sexual deviants staged a sodomy event so they would be arrested. Now, this is important: If you read no other book on this, read How to Dethrone the Imperial Judiciary by Dr. Edwin Vieira. It's not one of this 1,000 page tomes, but it is critical in understanding how the courts have driven a stake through the heart of traditional morals in this country. Oh, and that other "out dated" argument about God calling sodomy and women who defile their bodies with each other as an abomination.

READ that book to clearly and fully understand what that U.S. Supreme Court did to this country AND the subversion of our laws. Part I of Dethrone the Imperial Judiciary is: The Illegitimate Insinuation of Foreign Law and Amorialty Into America's Constitutional Jurisprudence. For those conservatives who think Sandra Day O'Connor was a "great" justice of the Supreme Court, I submit that you don't have a clue. Quoting from page 26: "On the other side, Justice O'Connor did not deny that homosexuality is a voluntarily chosen lifestyle..."

There you have it. It doesn't matter sodomites and lesbians are not "born that way" as screeched by the sluttish pop diva "Lady" Gaga. I guarantee you that once you are finished with Edwin's book, you will have a complete education on our rotten judicial system and why favorable decisions to promote sexual deviants is rampant. SHAME on the "conservative" Republicans in the Outlaw Congress (most still in office) who have done nothing to throw activist federal judges off the bench when they've had complete control of Congress over the Democrats.

Is the battle over just because New York has passed such a toxic "law"? Can it be challenged? Yes, but it won't be easy. First, there are religious exemptions.

But, how about business owners who refuse to recognize "same sex marriage"? Let's say Countryside Bank (fictional name) in Madison, NY refuses to open a bank account for Mr. and Mr. Sexual Deviants because the owners of the bank refuse to flush their moral code down the commode. Or, a family who owns a motel refuses to rent a room for the night for Mr. and Mr. or Mrs. and Mrs. Sexual Deviant. The first thing that will happen is the America hating ACLU will jump in and sue. That is why you must read How to Dethrone the Imperial Judiciary.

Every member of every state legislature who is against the massive effort to normalize sodomy, lesbian sex and "same sex" marriage needs to read that book. If you're a state legislator, buy ten copies and give them to your colleagues because I guarantee you: that very small minority will not stop until they are stopped once and for all.

Legislators must understand how foreign law is being used to usurp the rights of the states and their citizens on this issue. If I had the money, I would send a copy to every Republican in all 50 state houses along with a copy of a factual scientific analysis proving "born that way" is a lie: "This is the Way God Made Me"- A Scientific Examination of Homosexuality and the "Gay Gene"

The whole argument for sexual deviants is "civil rights" and "born that way". In the article above, that propaganda is shredded by scientific truth, not politically correct propaganda and THAT is the hammer that must be used in fighting back the massive push to legalize marriage between sexual deviants. This isn't about "social justice" or "marriage equality" it's about lies promoting filthy and dangerous sexual preferences.

I refuse to use the word "gay" when writing about sexual deviants. I will never recognize "same sex" marriage and I don't care how many laws get passed by some legislature or the Outlaw Congress. If you play the game by the enemies rules, they win. If you don't understand past court rulings by activist judges, legislatures will not be able to defeat bills and the same applies for future lawsuits that will come from sexual deviants marrying in another state and then coming back to the one they reside in and demand New York's law be upheld. It goes without saying that NY will become a magnet for sexual deviants from other states getting "married". This is going to be a nightmare that needs to be fought with the right legal argument. The American people also need to stop electing the same damn "conservative" representatives to the Outlaw Congress who do nothing about impeaching activist judges who use foreign laws in our court system.

Starve the sponsors. Earlier this month, "Gay" Pride Week in Boston paraded in the streets; photos here. Think those types of parades will only stay in the big cities like SF and Boston? Think again. Where was Cardinal Seán O'Malley from the Archdiocese of Boston? The only response to the toxic "same sex" marriage "law" in New York from the Catholic Church was they found it "disturbing". By all that's holy, Cardinal O'Malley should have been out there on the street at that parade denouncing sin!
Subscribe to the NewsWithViews Daily News Alerts!

Enter Your E-Mail Address:

Starve the sponsors. This is a list of corporations that put big bucks into sponsoring sexual deviants and supporting their agenda. If you don't make your voice heard through your purchasing power, nothing will change. Add Home Depot to the list.

As for the issue of hating homosexuals and lesbians, that is not in my heart. I feel pity and great sadness for those who have been lured into a dangerous and immoral "alternative lifestyle." I hope you can read the uplifting story below about Michael Glatze and why he left the homosexual lifestyle.

Licentiousness: sexually unrestrained; lascivious; libertine; lewd. Unrestrained by law or general morality; lawless; immoral.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Cowell backs Walsh over claims

Title: Cowell backs Walsh over claims

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 05:58 PM (GMT)

Cowell backs Walsh over claims

Press Association – Fri, Jun 24, 2011
http://uk.news.yahoo.com/cowell-backs-wals...-100047684.html

X Factor supremo Simon Cowell has said he will support Louis Walsh "100 per cent" after allegations he indecently assaulted a 24-year-old man.

Police were called in after the alleged incident in a nightclub in Dublin, according to reports.

Cowell said: "I have known Louis Walsh for 20 years and I don't believe for a second that these allegations are true."

He told the Sun: "Like all of his close friends I will support him 100 per cent."

The Irishman became a household name in 2004 when he became a judge on the X Factor, and is the only remaining member of the original panel.

He has managed a number of groups and performers, including boybands Boyzone and Westlife.

A spokeswoman for Walsh, 58, said he had not been contacted by police about the claims.

She said: "He vigorously denies all of the allegations.

"If contacted by the police he will willingly co-operate with any investigation.

"Louis categorically denies any wrongdoing and will fight to clear his name."

She added: "The fact of the matter is the police have made no contact with Louis whatsoever."

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 05:55 PM (GMT)

Louis Walsh cleared over claims of sexual assault in lavatory

28 Jun 2011
http://www.thisislondon.co.uk/standard/art...-in-lavatory.do

X-Factor judge Louis Walsh spoke of his relief today after being told that police have dropped a sexual assault case against him.

A 24-year-old man claimed last week that the Irish music mogul had groped him in the lavatories of a Dublin hotel. But police sources said the alleged victim's statement was not backed up by CCTV footage and he is said to have changed his story during interviews.

In a statement, Walsh, 58, said: "While I obviously welcome today's confirmation from the Garda that the matter has been dropped I remain outraged that this story ran in the first place in the Sun and I have instructed my libel lawyer to vigorously pursue legal action against the paper."

He added: "This has been a hugely distressing time for me but I would like to thank all my friends and colleagues for their support."

Former X Factor judge Simon Cowell and members of the band Westlife were with Walsh on the night of the alleged assault and spoke out in his defence.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: You're all equal here: Swedish school bans 'him'

Title: You're all equal here: Swedish school bans 'him'
Description: and 'her' in bid to stop children fallin

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 04:08 AM (GMT)

You're all equal here: Swedish school bans 'him' and 'her' in bid to stop children falling into gender stereotypes

Last updated at 12:46 PM on 27th June 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...tereotypes.html

A pre-school in Sweden has decided to stop calling children 'him' or 'her' in a bid to avoid gender stereotypes.

The Egalia preschool, in the Sodermalm district of Stockholm, has made the decision as part of the country efforts to engineer equality between the sexes from childhood.

As well as the decision to stop using the words, the taxpayer-funded school also carefully plans the colour and placement of toys and the choice of books to assure they do not fall into stereotypes.

The school opened last year and is on a mission to break down gender roles - a core mission in the national curriculum for Swedish pre-schools.

The option to implement the rules is underpinned by a theory that society gives boys an unfair edge.

'Society expects girls to be girlie, nice and pretty and boys to be manly, rough and outgoing,' says Jenny Johnsson, a 31-year-old teacher.

'Egalia gives them a fantastic opportunity to be whoever they want to be.'

At the school, boys and girls play together with a toy kitchen, waving plastic utensils and pretending to cook. One boy hides inside the toy stove, his head popping out through a hole.

Lego bricks and other building blocks are intentionally placed next to the kitchen, to make sure the children draw no mental barriers between cooking and construction.

Meanwhile, nearly all the children's books deal with homosexual couples, single parents or adopted children. There are no 'Snow White,' 'Cinderella' or other fairy tales.

Director Lotta Rajalin notes that Egalia places a special emphasis on fostering an environment tolerant of gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people.

Rajalin says the staff also try to help the children discover new ideas when they play.

'A concrete example could be when they're playing 'house' and the role of the mom already is taken and they start to squabble,' she says. 'Then we suggest two moms or three moms and so on.'

Egalia's methods are controversial, with Rajalin claiming the staff have received threats from racists apparently upset about the preschool's use of black dolls.

But she says that there's a long waiting list for admission, and that only one couple has pulled a child out of the school.

Jukka Korpi, 44, says he and his wife chose Egalia 'to give our children all the possibilities based on who they are and not on their gender.'

Staff at the school try to shed masculine and feminine references from their speech, including the pronouns him or her – 'han' or 'hon' in Swedish. Instead, they've have adopted the genderless 'hen'.

'We use the word "Hen" for example when a doctor, police, electrician or plumber or such is coming to the kindergarten,' Rajalin says.

'We don't know if it's a he or a she so we just say "Hen is coming around 2pm"; then the children can imagine both a man or a woman. This widens their view.'

Jay Belsky, a child psychologist at the University of California, Davis, said he's not aware of any other school like Egalia, and he questioned whether it was the right way to go.

'The kind of things that boys like to do - run around and turn sticks into swords - will soon be disapproved of,' he said.

'So gender neutrality at its worst is emasculating maleness.'

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: The Financiers Who Helped Back N.Y. Gay Marriage

Title: The Financiers Who Helped Back N.Y. Gay Marriage Description: Campaign

TheUnhivedMind - June 28, 2011 03:52 AM (GMT)

The Financiers Who Helped Back N.Y. Gay Marriage Campaign

MICHAEL J. DE LA MERCED, On Monday June 27, 2011, 6:46 am EDT
http://ca.finance.yahoo.com/news/The-Finan...-887215990.html

Much of the attention around the legalization of same-sex marriage in New York has revolved around the back-room politicking involved: the deals, the cajoling, the organizing.

But as The New York Times reported over the weekend, a crucial fount of support came from a seemingly unusual source: Wall Street donors known in large part for conservative leanings.

According to The Times, Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo sought the backing of three financiers: Paul E. Singer, the founder of Elliott Management and an ardent Republican donor; Clifford S. Asness, the head of the quant fund AQR Capital; and Daniel S. Loeb, the leader of Third Point.

From The Times:

Would the donors win over the deciding Senate Republicans? It sounded improbable: top Republican moneymen helping a Democratic rival with one of his biggest legislative goals.

But the donors in the room -- the billionaire Paul Singer, whose son is gay, joined by the hedge fund managers Cliff Asness and Daniel Loeb -- had the influence and the money to insulate nervous senators from conservative backlash if they supported the marriage measure. And they were inclined to see the issue as one of personal freedom, consistent with their more libertarian views.

Within days, the wealthy Republicans sent back word: they were on board. Each of them cut six-figure checks to the lobbying campaign that eventually totaled more than $1 million.

Mr. Singer's backing of Republican causes is well-known, as is his friendship with politicians like Rudolph W. Giuliani.

Both Mr. Asness and Mr. Loeb backed Barack Obama in the 2008 presidential race, only to have since raised substantial criticisms of the president. Two years ago, Mr. Asness wrote a widely disseminated jeremiad against Mr. Obama's treatment of hedge funds in the Chrysler bankruptcy case, while Mr. Loeb used his famously acidic pen against the president last year.

But the news isn't as surprising as it may seem. Both Mr. Singer and Mr. Loeb have lent support to gay-marriage efforts in the past, including at an American Foundation for Equal Rights event last fall.

The Times's Frank Bruni found a direct quote from Mr. Singer about the issue:

At a fund-raiser for same-sex marriage last year, he recalled leafing through the wedding album of "my son and son-in-law," married in Massachusetts. "At the moment they are pioneers," he said, according to a transcript, "although I felt like a loving father and father-in-law, not a pioneer, as we were looking at the pictures."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Girls as young as ONE 'forced to have sex change

Title: Girls as young as ONE 'forced to have sex change
Description: operations in India

TheUnhivedMind - June 27, 2011 06:05 PM (GMT)

Girls as young as ONE 'forced to have sex change operations in India'

Last updated at 3:49 PM on 27th June 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...ions-India.html

Girls as young as one are being forced into sex change operations in India by parents desperate for a son.

Surgeons in the city of Indore are reported to be 'converting' hundreds of girls a year, who are subsequently pumped full of hormone drugs.

A report in the respected Hindustan Times newspaper said the 'shocking, unprecedented trend, catering to the fetish for a son, is unfolding at conservative Indore's well-known clinics and hospitals on children who are one to five years old.

'The process being used to 'produce' a male child from a female is known as genitoplasty.'

Indian society places a strong value on producing a son and heir, with daughters often seen as an expensive burden to be married off.

Sex determination tests during pregnancy are illegal in India to try to prevent the common practice of women choosing to abort female foetuses.

In some states such as Punjab the ratio of women to men has dropped as low as seven to ten.

Wealthy parents from Delhi and Mumbai are reportedly flocking to Indore, a city in the centre of India, for the relatively low cost £2,000 treatment to surgically 'correct' their daughters.

News of rampant abuse of the surgery - normally used to correct genital abnormality in fully-grown patients - led to a furious backlash on Twitter and other social networking sites on Sunday.

The author and feminist Taslima Nasreen led the outrage, tweeting: 'Shocking! Not only do people kill unborn girls, they turn girls into boys by genitoplasty.'

She added: 'Doctors who practice illegal Female Foeticide & Genitoplasty should get life in prison.'

The National Commission for Protection of Child Rights today announced it had asked the state government of Madhya Pradesh to investigate the doctors and the hospitals named in the report.

Parents have allegedly pressed for the surgeries despite being told by doctors that the 'converted' male would be infertile.

The procedure involves doctors 'building' a penis using tissue from female organs, with the child then being fed hormonal medicine.

Seven genitoplasty experts in Indore boasted each of them had turned 200 to 300 girls into 'boys' so far, with only one being older than 14, the legal age of consent to such an operation.

Doctors claimed the operations were performed on children whose internal organs do not match their external genitalia - most commonly, girls born with some internal male organs.India has no system to monitor that claim.

'When the child grows up, he or she would be confused about the gender he or she belongs to. This surgery can stop the child from having sex-determination disorder and psychological problems,' said Dr Milind Joshi, a paediatric surgeon who performs the procedure at a city hospital.

A parent whose child underwent such a surgery at the age of two told the Hindustan Times on the condition of anonymity: 'I think my child would not be confused over his gender when he grows up and can live a normal life as he would not have any memories of the surgery.'

Another Indore paediatric surgeon performing the procedure, Dr Brijesh Lahoti, said, 'In India, there is no problem in performing these surgeries as only the consent from parents and an affidavit is required.

These are reconstruction surgeries where sex of the child is determined based on its internal organs and not just on the basis of external genitalia.'

With no proper laws to protect rights of the child that young, the practice might have a larger social ramification, say medico-legal experts.

'The surgery can have profound, long-term psychological effects on an individual, who might not accept the gender assigned by parents and doctors before age of consent,' said Suchitra Inamdar, a counsellor from Mumbai.

Calling it a highly sensitive issue, Dr Joshi said people should be sensitised about these surgeries.

Asked about consent of the child, he said, 'In India, consent is sought from parents till the child is 14.' This raises a lot of questions about rights of these children, who might grow up to believe that they wanted to be the way they were born and not corrected surgically.

'The Medical Council of India and the health ministry should look into the matter. There has to be some guideline or law on how a child who is barely old enough to talk can undergo a life-changing surgery at the parents' will,' said IMA secretary, Indore branch, Dr Anil Bhadori.

TheUnhivedMind - June 27, 2011 06:06 PM (GMT)

This will go on more and more as the radiation cuts back on masculines and all thats being born is feminines. Check out the diabetes levels in India to see how bad the radiation is already and make note of the Sellafield Nuclear Plant attack against that region via the ocean.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: No 'him' or 'her'

Title: No 'him' or 'her'
Description: preschool fights gender bias

Halvor - June 27, 2011 11:06 AM (GMT)

No 'him' or 'her'; preschool fights gender bias

http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20110626/ap_on_...er_neutral_tots

By JENNY SOFFEL, Associated Press – Sun Jun 26

STOCKHOLM – At the "Egalia" preschool, staff avoid using words like "him" or "her" and address the 33 kids as "friends" rather than girls and boys.

From the color and placement of toys to the choice of books, every detail has been carefully planned to make sure the children don't fall into gender stereotypes.

"Society expects girls to be girlie, nice and pretty and boys to be manly, rough and outgoing," says Jenny Johnsson, a 31-year-old teacher. "Egalia gives them a fantastic opportunity to be whoever they want to be."

The taxpayer-funded preschool which opened last year in the liberal Sodermalm district of Stockholm for kids aged 1 to 6 is among the most radical examples of Sweden's efforts to engineer equality between the sexes from childhood onward.

Breaking down gender roles is a core mission in the national curriculum for preschools, underpinned by the theory that even in highly egalitarian-minded Sweden, society gives boys an unfair edge.

To even things out, many preschools have hired "gender pedagogues" to help staff identify language and behavior that risk reinforcing stereotypes.

Some parents worry things have gone too far. An obsession with obliterating gender roles, they say, could make the children confused and ill-prepared to face the world outside kindergarten.

"Different gender roles aren't problematic as long as they are equally valued," says Tanja Bergkvist, a 37-year-old blogger and a leading voice against what she calls "gender madness" in Sweden.

Those bent on shattering gender roles "say there's a hierarchy where everything that boys do is given higher value, but I wonder who decides that it has higher value," she says. "Why is there higher value in playing with cars?"

At Egalia — the title connotes "equality" — boys and girls play together with a toy kitchen, waving plastic utensils and pretending to cook. One boy hides inside the toy stove, his head popping out through a hole.

Lego bricks and other building blocks are intentionally placed next to the kitchen, to make sure the children draw no mental barriers between cooking and construction.

Director Lotta Rajalin notes that Egalia places a special emphasis on fostering an environment tolerant of gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people. From a bookcase, she pulls out a story about two male giraffes who are sad to be childless — until they come across an abandoned crocodile egg.

Nearly all the children's books deal with homosexual couples, single parents or adopted children. There are no "Snow White," "Cinderella" or other classic fairy tales seen as cementing stereotypes.

Rajalin, 52, says the staff also try to help the children discover new ideas when they play.

"A concrete example could be when they're playing 'house' and the role of the mom already is taken and they start to squabble," she says. "Then we suggest two moms or three moms and so on."

Egalia's methods are controversial; some say they amount to mind control. Rajalin says the staff have received threats from racists apparently upset about the preschool's use of black dolls.

But she says that there's a long waiting list for admission to Egalia, and that only one couple has pulled a child out of the school.

Jukka Korpi, 44, says he and his wife chose Egalia "to give our children all the possibilities based on who they are and not on their gender."

Sweden has promoted women's rights for decades, and more recently was a pioneer among European countries in allowing gay and lesbian couples to legalize their partnerships and adopt children.

Gender studies permeate academic life in Sweden. Bergkvist noted on her blog that the state-funded Swedish Science Council had granted $80,000 for a postdoctoral fellowship aimed at analyzing "the trumpet as a symbol of gender."

Jay Belsky, a child psychologist at the University of California, Davis, said he's not aware of any other school like Egalia, and he questioned whether it was the right way to go.

"The kind of things that boys like to do — run around and turn sticks into swords — will soon be disapproved of," he said. "So gender neutrality at its worst is emasculating maleness."

Egalia is unusual even for Sweden. Staff try to shed masculine and feminine references from their speech, including the pronouns him or her — "han" or "hon" in Swedish. Instead, they've have adopted the genderless "hen," a word that doesn't exist in Swedish but is used in some feminist and gay circles.

"We use the word "Hen" for example when a doctor, police, electrician or plumber or such is coming to the kindergarten," Rajalin says. "We don't know if it's a he or a she so we just say 'Hen is coming around 2 p.m.' Then the children can imagine both a man or a woman. This widens their view."

Egalia doesn't deny the biological differences between boys and girls — the dolls the children play with are anatomically correct.

What matters is that children understand that their biological differences "don't mean boys and girls have different interests and abilities," Rajalin says. "This is about democracy. About human equality."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Scottish Government’s controversial Sectarian

Title: Scottish Government’s controversial Sectarian Description: Offences Bill to tackle Homophobic crime

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 06:07 PM (GMT)

Scottish Government’s controversial Sectarian Offences Bill to tackle Homophobic crimes, possibly songs of sex with sheep says QC Paul McBride

Friday, June 24, 2011
http://scottishlaw.blogspot.com/2011/06/sc...troversial.html

The debate on the highly controversial Offensive Behaviour at Football and Threatening Communications (Scotland) Bill which aims to tackle acts committed at Football matches in Scotland and ‘threatening communications’ on the internet has taken a new twist with claims in a televised debate from famous QC Paul McBride the legislation will also tackle homophobic crimes, and, in response to points raised by a former Law Society President, songs relating to football fans seeking sexual relationships with animals.

Ian Smart, solicitor & former President of the Law Society of Scotland asked Mr McBride for a practical example of an act which will be criminalised by the new bill which is not already a crime covered by current legislation. Mr Smart remained unconvinced after responses from Mr McBride who gave the example of homophobic abuse involving Paul Hartley for Hearts, where someone was alleged to have shouted homophobic remarks from the crowd, were prosecuted for breach of the peace and the court held it was not a breach of the peace under current legislation,.

Mr McBride said the bill would cover sectarianism, homophobia and other forms of …. its offensive behaviour … it defines offensive behaviour sectarianism, homophobic behaviour and other types of behaviour involving racism, that's quite clear to most people. Mr McBride went onto say Breach of the Peace was being constrained & defined by the courts.

When asked about the clause in the bill regarding "intersexuality", Mr McBride said the clause was designed to deal "with attacking people's sexual orientation in a vile way…". Ian Smart in response used an example of where Aberdeen fans are used to being serenaded with songs suggesting 'sexual relations with a sheep', and asked if those songs were to be criminalised too. Mr McBride said it was a possibility… (Mind the sheep then ! – Ed)

Is it sectarian or homophobic legislation ? Ian Smart & Paul McBride debate Offensive behaviour at football matches in Scotland. (Click image below to view video)

The section of THE BILL dealing with "intersexuality" as highlighted in the above interview, refers to the interpretation of what is to be classed as "offensive behaviour" :

(3) In section 1(4)—
(a) "disability" means physical or mental impairment of any kind,
(B) "transgender identity" means any of the following—
(i) transvestism,
(ii) transsexualism,
(iii) intersexuality,
(iv) having, by virtue of the Gender Recognition Act 2004 (c.7), changed gender,
(v) any other gender identity that is not standard male or female gender identity.

(So, if I read this right, only R2D2 could be subject to offensive behaviour at a football match, unless it claims a gender at some stage … heck I might have committed an offence just saying that much ! – Ed)

Asked about whether the bill would deal with homophobic offences, a Scottish Government spokesman speaking to one of our reporters on the subject of Mr McBride's remarks, said : "On the Paul McBride comments, absolutely. The offensive behaviour bill relates to all forms of hatred. Any behaviour which is threatening, which would be offensive to any reasonable person, or which expresses or incites religious, racial or other forms of hatred can result in a conviction of up to five years in prison under the proposed new legislation."

The Scottish Government's Press Release on the bill, from earlier this week stated :

Tough new laws on sectarian and offensive behaviour
Bigots will face five year jail terms

Tough new laws to crack down on sectarian and other forms of hatred in Scotland should be in place in time for the new football season after Ministers introduced a draft Bill to the Scottish Parliament.

The legislation seeks to create two new offences relating to offensive behaviour that can incite religious, racial or other forms of hatred, in and around football grounds and on the internet.

If approved, the ‘Offensive Behaviour at Football and Threatening Communications (Scotland) Bill’, will mean bigots will face up to five years in prison upon conviction and the possibility of a football banning order.

The Bill is being fast-tracked through the parliamentary process to ensure the new powers are in place in time for the new football season.

The Minister responsible for tackling sectarianism, Minister for Community Safety and Legal Affairs Roseanna Cunningham said: “Racism, bigotry and sectarianism are not welcome in Scotland, it is totally unacceptable, and those who perpetuate this hatred will be punished through the full force of the law. These new laws will send out a clear message that there is no place for bigots in a modern-day Scotland.

“From the start of the new season, anyone who peddles sectarian hatred - in any football stadium in Scotland, on the way to or from a game, or hiding behind a computer screen - could now face up to five years in jail. The events of last season were unprecedented and they need to be met with an unprecedented response. Actions which are threatening, offensive and which incite hatred and public disorder simply cannot be allowed to happen again. That is why this Government is taking decisive and immediate action to ensure law enforcement agencies have the additional tools in their armoury to crack down upon these individuals with full force.”

”However, clearly laws alone won’t solve this problem and convictions should be the last resort. We need a wholesale change in attitudes amongst those who spout offensive or threatening rhetoric in the name of football. And these new laws need to be supplemented by a united effort on behalf of all involved in football, from the football clubs, fans, police, government, and the football authorities. That is why the Joint Action Group is working to deliver upon the eight commitments agreed at the Football Summit in March. Along with the Bill, this will bring about real and lasting change. This legislation is just the start, we are in this for the long term, and we will not hesitate to bring forward further action over the five year parliamentary term if required.”

“If we are to rid Scotland of sectarianism, we need to come together as a country and I hope that MSPs from all sides will support this Bill as it progresses through the parliamentary process. Sectarianism has huge consequences for individuals who are threatened, major consequences for communities, and it undermines the very fabric of a Scotland that we want to be tolerant, respectful and forward looking. Sectarianism is a hate crime, it has got to stop, and it will stop.”

Roseanna Cunningham told the Scottish Parliament's Justice Committee making the sign of the cross & singing God Save the Queen might also be sectarian offences (Click image below to view video)

After Ms Cunningham's appearance before the Justice Committee on Tuesday, and Scotland's Lord Advocate Frank Mulholland clarifying which songs wont be sectarian the following day, the bill which was to be rushed through in two weeks has now been delayed for six months, clarified in an announcement from the First Minister Alex Salmond during a statement to the Scottish Parliament.

Background

The Bill provides for two new offences: Offensive Behaviour related to football and Threatening Communications.

"OFFENSIVE BEHAVIOUR"

Intended to deal with sectarian and other offensive chanting and threatening behaviour likely to cause public disorder. The offence covers behaviour likely to lead to public disorder:
* Expressing or inciting religious, racial or other forms of hatred.
* Threatening behaviour or behaviour which would be Offensive to any reasonable person
* Covers behaviour at and on the way to or from a "regulated football match", which includes league, European and international matches.
* Definition based on football banning orders (FBO) legislation, which means there is the potential for an FBO to be imposed in every case.
* Also covers anywhere a match is being broadcast in a public place, and travel to and from such places.
* Covers a wide range of behaviours with appropriate penalties up to a maximum of 5 years in prison and an unlimited fine.

OFFENCE B – "THREATENING COMMUNICATIONS"

Intended to deal with threats of serious harm and threats which incite religious hatred. The offence covers:
* Threats of serious harm intended to cause fear and alarm, or reckless as to whether they do. This includes implied threats (e.g. the posting of bullets or images depicting serious harm).
* Threats intended to incite religious hatred.
* It is a defence that the behaviour was in the situation "reasonable". This is intended to exclude artistic performance etc.
* Maximum penalty of 5 years in prison and an unlimited fine.

The offence will NOT:
* Stop peaceful preaching or proselytising.
* Restrict freedom of speech including the right to criticise or comment on religion or non-religious beliefs, even in harsh terms.
* Criminalise jokes and satire about religion or non-religious belief.

A copy of the Offensive Behaviour at Football and Threatening Communications (Scotland) Bill can be found HERE

The Scottish Parliament’s Justice Committee is seeking views on the Offensive Behaviour at Football and Threatening Communications (Scotland) Bill.

The Bill was introduced to the Scottish Parliament on 16 June 2011 and was subsequently agreed to be considered as an emergency Bill. Because of this expedited procedure, the Justice Committee issued a call for written evidence on 16 June and took oral evidence at meetings on Tuesday 21 June and Wednesday 22 June in order to help inform the Bill’s consideration by the Parliament. After its Stage 1 debate on Thursday 23 June, the First Minister announced that the Scottish Government would seek to extend the Bill's timetable (date to be confirmed) to allow further scrutiny by the Justice Committee. As there is now more time available for the Justice Committee to consider the Bill, the Convener has agreed to extend the call for written evidence to noon on Friday 26 August 2011.

The Committee is interested in the views of any organisations, bodies and individuals on the Bill’s proposals and their likely impact and about any issues that respondents consider may have been omitted from the Bill.

How to submit written evidence

It would be helpful for your submission to clearly highlight your views on the broad thrust of the policy proposals and to also flag up any particular areas of concern you may have.

Before making a submission, please read the Parliament’s policy on treatment of written evidence by subject and mandatory committees.

Written submissions should normally be limited to around 4 sides of A4 but, if they need to be much longer than this, they should be accompanied by a short summary of the main points. Submissions should be set out in numbered paragraphs. Where the submission refers to existing published material, it is preferable to provide hyperlinks or full citations (rather than extensive extracts). The Committee welcomes written evidence in English, Gaelic or any other language.

The Committee prefers to receive written submissions electronically (preferably in Microsoft Word format). These should be sent by e-mail to: justice.committee@scottish.parliament.uk

However you may also make hard copy written submissions to: Justice Committee, Room TG.01,The Scottish Parliament, Edinburgh, EH99 1SP

Any queries about written submissions should be addressed in the first instance to the Justice Committee clerking team at the above e-mail address or on (0131) 348 5047.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Lewisham Council and Lewisham Police marked

Title: Lewisham Council and Lewisham Police marked Description: Internation Day Against Homophobia

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 06:00 PM (GMT)

Lewisham Council and Lewisham Police marked International Day Against Homophobia

By Kelly Smale »
http://www.streathamguardian.co.uk/archive...nst_Homophobia/

Lewisham Council and Lewisham Police marked International Day Against Homophobia by raising a rainbow flag outside the Town Hall.

Sergeant Mark McLellan and Councillor Damien Egan hoist the rainbow flag outside Lewisham Town Hall

More than 50 people attended the event including the borough's primary and secondary schools.

The council's Equalities Board and the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender (LGBGT) Staff Forum met to discuss the issue of homophobic bullying and harassment.

Raising the rainbow flag over the Town Hall, Councillor Damien Egan, whose cabinet responsibility include equalities, said: "This year's theme of the International Day Against Homophobia is the same sex couple.

"It's time here in Britain we set an example by joining many other countries in ending the last great form of LGBT discrimination by introducing marriage equality for same sex couples."

He added: "While we remember how far LGBT rights have leapt forward in Britain, we mustn't forget millions of gay and lesbian people in the world don't share the same experience."

Lewisham Council and Lewisham Police relaunched their hate crime reporting system last year by adding even more places where people can report hate crimes.

The borough now has 15 community organisations where hate crimes can be reported as well as via the council and Police Community Safety teams.

For a full list of organisations, visit lewisham.gov.uk/hatecrime

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Child "friends" found in sex offenders home, court

Title: Child "friends" found in sex offenders home, court
Description: told

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 05:59 PM (GMT)

Child "friends" found in sex offenders home, court told http://www.streathamguardian.co.uk/archive...me__court_told/

Children were found at the home of a sex offender who described them as his "friends", a court document claims.

They show the mother of an 11-year-old boy called the police from the home of Pollards Hill man Stephen Govier, where she said she had been locked in after finding her son and another child with the adult.

The document from Wimbledon Magistrates' Court, which handed Govier an interim sexual offences order earlier this month, said the 11-year-old had gone to Govier's house in Glamorgan Close because the man claimed to have his cat. Police would not give any more details of the incident.

It said officers were called to the house on November 23 last year. They add: "Police found two children present at the house that Mr Govier referred to as his 'friends'."

The court listing also said Govier approached a group of boys playing football in a park two months ago, and on another occasion had been found semi-naked by police officers in the same area.

He is said to have been drinking beer on a bench on Streatham Common on April 16 this year when he kicked a stray football back towards a group of boys, and then tried to begin a conversation with them.

The documents said the incident gave "reasonable cause" to believe an order was necessary.

On November 21 last year he allegedly told police that he visited the common to find men to have sex with, and earlier this year was found in the area by police officers with his trousers down and genitals exposed.

The interim order made on June 6 bans Govier from exposing himself or associating with children for 65 days. He is set to appear at the Alexandra Road court again on August 8, when an application for a more long-term order will be made.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: London council urges gay couples to become foster

Title: London council urges gay couples to become foster
Description: parents

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 05:59 PM (GMT)

London council urges gay couples to become foster parents

by Jessica Geen
10 June 2011
http://www.pinknews.co.uk/2011/06/10/londo...foster-parents/

A London council is appealing for more gay couples to come forward to foster children in need of homes.

Lambeth council says it particularly needs carers for teenagers, disabled children and those on remand.

Cllr Pete Robbins, Lambeth Council Cabinet Member for Children and Young People Services, said he was concerned that so few gay couples in the borough are coming forward.

He said: “We are worried that gay couples in the borough think they can’t apply but this is simply not the case. There are many myths around who can be a foster carer, so this Fathers’ Day, we are urging single men, gay men and gay couples to come forward and find out more about fostering. The ability to provide a stable and loving environment for a child is the first qualification.”

Same-sex couples have been allowed to adopt or foster children jointly since 2005. However, only 3.75 per cent of children adopted in England in 2010 were adopted by gay couples. London is suffering a city-wide shortage of foster carers, especially those who can look after teenagers.

Mr Robbins added: “We are looking for foster carers from diverse backgrounds to provide children with a stable environment until it's time for them to return home, move to a new permanent family or move to independent living. You do not have to be married, own your home or have children.

"At Lambeth, we are particularly in need of carers who can offer care for teenagers and young people who have been remanded to Lambeth by the courts. As well as carers for babies, children with a disability, and children who need a break from their natural parents (respite care)."

Lambeth council is inviting anyone interested in fostering to attend an information meeting in room 101 of the Town Hall on June 28th, between 4.30pm and 5.45pm. For more information, call 020 7926 8710.

Case study: 'We're better parents for fostering'

Simon and his partner have been foster parents with Lambeth council for four years.

He said: "Many gay people are put off applying as they don't think they will be accepted as foster parents but this is not true. Fostering is a joy and you will make a real difference to a child who needs it. The ability to offer a child a loving and stable home life is the main criteria.

"We fostered a 16-year-old who came to us lacking confidence and with very low self-esteem. He told us he 'felt worthless' and was a 'waste of space'. Eight months later he performed a song he'd written to an audience of 200 people. Through offering support, stability and a happy, loving home, he gained so much confidence and belief in himself. When you see a change like that you know exactly why you do it.

"We decided to foster through Lambeth for several reasons. We didn't like the idea of fostering through an agency because morally it felt wrong to work with an organisation that made a profit from children in care. We found Lambeth to be open, flexible, diverse and it offered great support. Since we've fostered with Lambeth, we have found that there is a brilliant support network through the Lambeth Foster Care Association.

"Through it, you meet other foster carers, share common experiences and make new friends. It also organises lots of social things, like day trips, children's parties and dinner parties, as well as training opportunities. The LFCA also has an excellent working relationship with the council, and we have regular open, candid and honest dialogue. Yes, its challenging, and a 24/7 commitment. It has tested us and our relationship, but it has also brought us closer because you make decisions together and you compromise together. We have disagreed on many things, never in front of our foster children, but we've worked through it, and the truth is we're better parents for it."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: HOMOSEXUAL LAWS BROUGHT IN UNDER GUISE OF

Title: HOMOSEXUAL LAWS BROUGHT IN UNDER GUISE OF Description: SECTARIANISM [Vd]

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 05:34 PM (GMT)

HOMOSEXUAL LAWS BROUGHT IN UNDER GUISE OF SECTARIANISM

[dohtml]<object style="height: 390px; width: 640px"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/D2oOD16rZJs?version=3"><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"><param name="allowScriptAccess" value="always"><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/D2oOD16rZJs?version=3" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" allowScriptAccess="always" width="640" height="390"></object>[/dohtml]

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: New York state approves gay marriage

Title: New York state approves gay marriage

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 04:52 PM (GMT)

New York state approves gay marriage

Supporters of same-sex marriages in New York celebrated after the vote

25 June 2011 Last updated at 07:20
http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/world-us-canada-13914013

New York has become the sixth and most populous US state to allow same-sex marriage.

The Republican-controlled state senate voted 33-29 for a bill that had earlier been approved by the lower house, which has a Democratic majority.

New York Governor Andrew Cuomo quickly signed the bill into law. Gay weddings are expected to start within 30 days.

It has become a contentious social issue ahead of next year's presidential and congressional elections.

"New York has finally torn down the barrier that prevented same-sex couples from exercising the freedom to marry and from receiving the fundamental protections that so many couples and families take for granted," Mr Cuomo said in a statement.

He kept his promise to sign the bill as soon as he received it after the Senate vote - rather than wait the usual 10 days.

Gay rights activists said the approval of the bill was a key victory for them, in what is seen as the birthplace of the US gay rights movement.

"It's about time. I want to get married. I want the same rights as anyone else," 36-year-old student Caroline Jaeger told Reuters news agency.

But New York's Catholic bishops said they were "deeply disappointed and troubled" by the passage of the bill, Reuters news agency reports.

Just four Republicans voted for the bill, but it was enough to make the New York senate the first Republican-controlled legislative chamber in the country to vote in favour of same-sex marriage.

New York now joins Connecticut, Iowa, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and also the District of Columbia, all of which allow same-sex marriages.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: "Vagina Monologues" - Porn Play Debased Women

Title: "Vagina Monologues" - Porn Play Debased Women

TheUnhivedMind - June 25, 2011 03:39 AM (GMT)

"Vagina Monologues" - Porn Play Debased Women

ESSENTIAL READING:

Lesbian porn, "The Vagina Monologues" humiliates and degrades women in the name of feminism and social progress. This is how society is inducted into the Illuminati (satanic) cult.

by Henry Makow Ph.D.
June 22, 2011
http://www.henrymakow.com/241001.html

(Updated from Oct. 24, 2001)

"The Vagina Monologues" presents a sad picture of life at the dead-end of feminism. It is an anguished cry for male love by a generation of women deceived by feminism, who now have no choice but to become lesbians.

For women who are literally starved for love, the play provides a steamy experience of sexual intimacy. For young women who don't know any better, it is an initiation into lesbianism.

Based on interviews with women, who talk about their vaginas, the play purports to rescue the female genitals from "cultural neglect." For example, the play describes a workshop in which women examine themselves with hand-mirrors.

"It reminded me of how early astronomers must have felt with their primitive telescopes," says author, Eve Ensler (who lest we forget to mention, is Jewish.) They give their vagina nicknames, dress it up in imaginary outfits, and imagine what it would say if it could talk (e.g. "Where's Brian?"). At one performance at the Madison Square Gardens, 18,000 women were whipped into a frenzy of shouting "cunt" over and over.

They should have been shouting "penis" because this is really about the loss of male love. Having lost their femininity and their youth, having rejected or emasculated men, millions of women are now left sexually high and dry.

Both sexes need validation. Men these days don't like feminists and feminists know it. Every time we turn on TV, a man is being beat-up or shown-up by a woman. Men resent that women have usurped the male role and deserted the feminine one.

This is what Ensler is actually experiencing when she says: "Our self-hatred is only the internalized repression and hatred of the patriarchal culture."

Women are justified in feeling unloved and unfulfilled. Ensler says that women want to be used for babies: "My vagina helped release a giant baby. It thought it would be used more than that. It's not."

The result is a profound sense of emptiness and need. "My vagina wants to go deeper. It's hungry for depth. It's hungry for kisses, kindness. It wants to stop being angry. It wants everything. It wants to want. It wants."

It appears that only a man can staunch this wound. Ensler describes a boyfriend, Bob, who loved to gaze at her genitals for hours and made her feel good about herself for the first time. She doesn't say what happened to Bob. The only other men in the play are Ensler's first husband, a philanderer, and some rapists in Bosnia.

Thus, "The Vagina Monologues" quickly becomes a steamy chronicle of lesbian sex. In the first place, a fixation on female genitals by women is pure homosexuality. Forgive me for what follows but I am trying to convey the pornographic flavor of this so-called play.

The author interviews a former tax lawyer who has become wealthy as a lesbian gigolo. "There are so many unfulfilled women," she says. "Women pay me to dress up like a man and dominate them." She follows with a precise description of her art ("there are four fingers inside me, two are hers and two are mine") that turns Ensler on: "Come on," I said. "Come in."

A 12-year-old girl describes how her mother entrusted her to the care of a beautiful, worldly 24-year-old woman who then betrayed this trust by having sex with her: "She transformed my sorry-assed coochie-snorcher into a kind of heaven."

Ensler regresses with children stories of the "I'll show you mine if you show me yours" variety. She asks a six-year-old girl to say what her vagina smells like (snowflakes.) She informs us that the clitoris has twice the number of nerve fibers as the penis: "Who needs a handgun when you've got a semiautomatic?" She describes finding her clitoris for the first time: "It was all warm and pulsing and ready and young and alive." I could go on but you get the idea.

ILLUMINATI BRAINWASHING

A measure of our cultural timidity, depravity and self-delusion is that no major media critic has named this play for what it is. "Ensler is an impassioned wit," says The Los Angeles Times. "A compelling rhapsody of the female essence," says The Chicago Tribune. "Spellbinding, funny and almost unbearably moving," says Variety.

The play has been performed in hundreds of American cities and universities, and in countries from Rumania to Zaire. Celebrity guest performers include Meryl Streep, Jane Fonda, Calista Frockhart, and Angelica Huston.

It was performed in Sarajevo by Marisa Tomei and Glenn Close who said Ensler is "giving women their souls back." Gillian Anderson (of the X-Files) says: "Eve Ensler is the Pied Piper. She is leading woman and the world to a different consciousness of women."

Ensler and her entourage try to position this pitiable lesbian primer in the mainstream. Gloria Steinem writes "men as well as women will emerge from these pages feeling more free within themselves and about each other."

It is typical of feminists to portray lesbianism as emancipation. Ensler (left) has "come out" as yet another survivor of sexual abuse by her father. She has tied the play to the politicized cause of violence against women.

Her hatred of heterosexuality is evident by her choice of Valentine's Day, as "V-Day" or anti-violence day, when her play will be performed. She told Molly Ivens in TIME that the patriarchal (i.e. nuclear) family is "a deadly institution."

AGITPROP

These tactics are typical of Communist agitprop and a reflection of what we have become. The nuclear family is the primary institution of heterosexuality. Before the "sexual revolution," women insisted on marriage and family, which is heterosexual behavior. This satisfied the profoundest psychological needs of both sexes and provided a safe context for raising healthy children. After the sexual revolution, men and women engaged in promiscuous sex, which had been more typical of homosexuals. Women, increasingly independent and self-righteous, were unable to form permanent marriages. Taught that they could "have it all", they are now frustrated and bitter.

The irony of "The Vagina Monologues" is that feminists who regularly complain about sexual objectification embrace the play. There is no mention of love. This tendency to view sex as recreation and physical release reflects a self-destructive trend in society. Normally heterosexuals find sexual fulfillment in marriage and are able to turn their energies to more important things. Instead, we suffer from cultural arrested development manifested as a leering adolescent obsession with sex.

Another irony is that feminists apparently think that, when lesbians do it, an adult having sex with a 12-year-old child is OK. They also think that they can violate the natural innocence of a 6-year-old girl with invasive questions.

Finally, need I mention that the play outrages and destroys the mystery, modesty and reserve that is the essence of mature femininity? Like feminism itself, "The Vagina Monologues" masquerades as an affirmation of women. In fact, it is a sickening assault on women.

We must face the fact that feminism is a homosexual movement in deadly competition with heterosexuality. It is part of a wider covert war aimed at subverting Western civilization and enslaving society.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: California to require homosexual/transgender

Title: California to require homosexual/transgender Description: Americans added to school textbooks

TheUnhivedMind - June 24, 2011 04:41 AM (GMT)

California to require homosexual/transgender Americans added to school textbooks

Posted by The Right Scoop on Jun 22, 2011 in Politics | 39 Comments
http://www.therightscoop.com/california-to...hool-textbooks/

If you are thinking you are glad you don't live in California so your kids won't have to worry about this, you might want to think again. This could affect the entire country since California is such a larger purchaser of school textbooks:

CBN News – The gay rights movement could soon find its way into U.S. history textbooks in California.

State measure SB-48 would require schools to include homosexual and transgender Americans in their curriculum.

The measure has already passed the state Senate and is now before the General Assembly.

If passed, the bill would likely have a nationwide impact. California is such a big buyer of text books that publishers often include the state's curriculum in text books sold to other states.

Supporters of the bill believe the updated textbooks will help prevent gay students from being harassed or bullied.

Critics say the measure is an attempt to brainwash students into becoming pro-gay political activists.

A similar bill has passed in California before, but former Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger vetoed it.

The video below includes good commentary on the subject from Randy Thomasson with savecalifornia.com:

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: David Cameron urges sporting bodies to help tackle

Title: David Cameron urges sporting bodies to help tackle
Description: homophobia

TheUnhivedMind - June 24, 2011 04:08 AM (GMT)

David Cameron urges sporting bodies to help tackle homophobia

• PM expresses views at Downing Street reception for 200
• We should be doing far more to help people, Cameron adds

Owen Gibson
guardian.co.uk, Thursday 23 June 2011 20.45 BST
http://www.guardian.co.uk/politics/2011/ju...ing-out-cameron

David Cameron has called on sporting bodies to do more to tackle homophobia and create an environment where more top-class sportsmen and women feel comfortable about coming out.

At a Downing Street reception for 200 sports stars and officials, the prime minister welcomed their commitment that it was "time to give sports stars who want to come out the confidence to come out", but said more should be done to help them.

Since the Welsh rugby player Gareth Thomas and the England cricketer Steven Davies came out, there has been a debate about sport's duty to enable others to follow. "There is an absolutely tiny number of sports personalities who have felt able to come out and we should be doing far more to make people feel comfortable to do that," Cameron said.

"That links to the second issue I want to mention, and that is the issue of homophobic bullying in schools, which is still a huge problem in our country, and frankly the two issues are completely linked, because young people look to role models. If we don't have enough role models and positive role models, then behaviour won't change."

In March, the government launched a "sport charter" that committed governing bodies including the Football Association, England and Wales Cricket Board, Lawn Tennis Association, Rugby Football League and Rugby Football Union to stamp out homophobia and make sport "a welcome place for everyone".

The last high-profile footballer to come out in this country was Justin Fashanu, a former Norwich City striker who took his own life in 1998. Across Europe, there is still only one footballer who has come out while still playing – the Swede Anton Hysén.

The reception was attended by the Premier League chief executive Richard Scudamore, the FA general secretary Alex Horne, the Football League chairman Greg Clarke and the PFA chief executive Gordon Taylor.

The FA was criticised last year for pulling a hard hitting anti-homophobia campaign shortly before it was due to launch. But it is believed to be working with Stonewall on a new initiative and the PFA recently launched a poster campaign.

Martina Navratilova, the nine-times Wimbledon champion who has also campaigned on lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender issues, said the UK is "way ahead" of the US in tackling homophobia in sport.

"I believe if all the gay men and women came out, the sports world and the world in general would be a lot better off. Athletes today are progressing to unprecedented levels of skill and strength," she said. "But homophobia slowly poisons the process and prevents people from realising their dreams. And as long as prejudice prevails, athletes won't get their fair due."

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Same-Sex Household Growth 6x that of Hetro

Title: Same-Sex Household Growth 6x that of Hetro

TheUnhivedMind - June 24, 2011 03:19 AM (GMT)

Same-Sex Household Growth Rate Moves California Beyond ‘Gayborhoods’

By Christopher Palmeri and Frank Bass - Jun 23, 2011
http://www.bloomberg.com/news/2011-06-23/s...yborhoods-.html

The number of households headed by gays and lesbians in California grew six times faster than those of opposite-sex spouses between 2000 and 2010, a decade when the state was shaken by battles over same-sex marriage.

The population of homosexuals living together as partners climbed 36.2 percent, and the increase for married heterosexuals was 5.7 percent, according to census data released today. Even with the gain, same-sex domestic partners make up just 1 percent of all households in the most-populous state.

While the far smaller group’s growth rate was expected to outstrip that of married couples of the opposite sex, the rise is significant because of its magnitude and what it says about the willingness of gays and lesbians to reveal their status, said William Frey, a demographer with the Brookings Institution in Washington.

“It’s indicative of a trend,” said Judith Bradford, director of the Center for Population Research in LGBT Health at the Fenway Institute in Boston. “We’re a more open society.”

Gay and lesbian couples have long felt more comfortable, and accepted, in such states as California and New York, said Gary Gates of the Williams Institute on Sexual Orientation Law and Public Policy in Los Angeles. That may be increasingly the case across the U.S.

The Census Bureau is gradually releasing details about ethnic origin, age, housing and family relationships in the 50 states -- and so far, data for Alabama show same-sex households there climbed 38.8 percent between 2000 and 2010, and that the rise was 42.1 percent in Wyoming and 55.4 percent in Kansas.

Smaller Closet

“You’ll see even bigger jumps in more conservative states,” Gates said. “The closet is getting smaller.”

Same-sex households in California totaled 125,516 in 2010, according to the census, compared with 6,213,310 led by opposite-sex spouses. While male couples slightly outnumbered female couples, the number of women as partners went up 43.2 percent, compared with a 30.3 percent rise for men.

In some suburbs -- such as Victorville outside Los Angeles and Elk Grove near Sacramento -- same-sex households tripled, the data show, suggesting gay and lesbian families are moving beyond urban areas.

“This is the Baby Boom ideology,” said Joel Kotkin, author of “The Next Hundred Million: America in 2050,” a book about U.S. demographics. “When gay people get older and have kids they don’t want to live in a hip, cool, sometimes dodgy area. They want space and peace and quiet.”
No Marriage

The rise in same-sex households came as the Legislature expanded legal protections for homosexuals. The San Francisco- based advocacy group Equality California identified 62 laws passed since 1999 giving homosexual and other unmarried couples in California many of the rights married people have.

Gays and lesbians briefly won the ability to marry in May 2008, when the California Supreme Court decided limiting marriage to opposite-sex couples was discriminatory. Six months later, voters overrode that decision with a ballot measure that was itself stuck down by a federal judge in August 2010.

The ban on same-sex marriage will remain while the case makes its way through the appeals process. In New York, a bill legalizing gay marriage, which Democratic Governor Andrew Cuomo has called a priority, is pending in the Senate. Federal law doesn’t recognize same-sex unions.

In California, there was an increase in unmarried people, gay and straight, living together. That group grew 32 percent to 902,967, the data show. Nationwide, people are delaying marriage, according to a May 18 Census Bureau report. It said almost 47 percent of women from 25 to 29 had never been married in 2009, almost double the 26 percent reported in 1986.
Leaving ‘Gayborhoods’

The same-sex marriage debate “changed the landscape,” said Jim Carroll, Equality California’s interim executive director. “People are more willing to identify as a couple. They perceive the changes in our society.”

Greg Facktor, a 49-year-old health-care consultant who lives in Los Angeles’s Hancock Park neighborhood with his partner Rob Meyers, cited other factors, including television’s acceptance of homosexuals as characters, and even stars. He said shows such as “Glee” on News Corp. (NWS)’s Fox allow young people to identify as gay earlier than in the past.

“It used to be you dated members of the opposite sex in college, moved to a big city, lived in a gayborhood and sort of relived your adolescence,” Facktor said. “Today they’re bringing their boyfriends to school functions and mainstreaming in a way that makes them more likely to settle down in parallel to their straight counterparts.”
Murrieta Record

The California cities with the most gay and lesbians living together as couples were Los Angeles, with 15,492 same-sex households, and San Francisco, with 10,384. Murrieta, 55 miles (89 kilometers) southeast of Anaheim, led the growth in same-sex domestic partners among large cities in the state, with a 237 percent jump to 192.

Althea Ingram, 67, moved to Murrieta from Chicago six years ago with her partner Theresa Greenway, 62, to be closer to their daughter and grandchildren. The couple wed in October 2008 during the window in which same-sex marriage was legal in the state.

Back then, Ingram said, lawn signs against gay marriage outnumbered pro-signs on their street by five-to-one. She said she had no idea the city of 103,000 had led the state in the growth of gay and lesbian households.

“I’m shocked,” she said. “I would love to have a party and have them all over.”

Editors: Anne Reifenberg, Pete Young

To contact the reporters on this story: Christopher Palmeri in Los Angeles at cpalmeri1@bloomberg.net; Frank Bass in Washington at fbass1@bloomberg.net

To contact the editor responsible for this story: Mark Tannenbaum at mtannen@bloomberg.net

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Gay tolerance teaching mandatory in Toronto school

Title: Gay tolerance teaching mandatory in Toronto school
Description: Sodomites run the show

Ken Ardel - June 22, 2011 11:55 AM (GMT)

http://www.torontosun.com/2011/06/21/gay-t...toronto-schools

Christian parents wanting to opt-out of the Toronto Public School Board's curriculum-wide inclusion of gay, lesbian, transgender and queer issues are being told to like it or lump it.

“We cannot accommodate discrimination,” said Ken Jeffers, coordinator of gender-based violence prevention with the board. “If a parent says 'We don't like gays and lesbians and we don't want our child to learn anything about them,' that would be, under our policies, and under Ontario Human Rights legislation, discriminatory.”

The resource guide for teachers of students in kindergarten through grade 12, titled Challenging Homophobia & Heterosexism, is meant to help educators integrate teaching moments concerning GLTQ issues into everyday discussions in the classrooms.

“As a blunt example, if we had parents who were members of the Church of the Creator, which is a white supremacist church, wishing to be exempted from anti-racism education, we wouldn't allow that either,” Jeffers said.

For some parents, however, the programming goes beyond tolerance and anti-bullying and amounts to promotion and celebration.

“They are presenting an entire secular humanist world view that contradicts the teachings of many families,” said Phil Lees, leader of the Family Coalition Party, and a former public school teacher.

Lees says parents shouldn't have to leave the public school system if they want to keep these issues from being taught to their five-year-olds.

“Other cities have alternative classes within the public system that teach in specialized ways, they focus on Ukrainians, Germans, Muslims, Christians or traditional learners,” says Lees. “Why can't we have the same thing for Christian families within the Toronto public school system, just like the Afro-Centric school?”

READER'S COMMENTS »
By adding a comment on the site, you accept our terms and conditions and our netiquette rules.

Disqus
Login
Add New Comment

Post as …

Showing 1-20 of 36 comments

Justin Sheen Lohan
Sure Johnny can't read but at least he now knows not to pick on the guy next door who's always wearing women's clothes!
Like Reply
10 hours ago 8 Likes

Florida Sun...
Justin you're succinct and correct.
As for Stanley ... you're the bigot. Approving of discriminatory policies against those that would rather be heterosexual.
Like Reply
36 minutes ago in reply to Justin Sheen Lohan

Stanley J
ignorant bigot who likes to think that gay kids should be picked on 3x - 7x as much as str8 kids, and driven to suicide. this kind of guy is the person, who if his kid came out to him as gay, would throw the kid out in the street in an act of what he would call christain love.
Like Reply
6 hours ago in reply to Justin Sheen Lohan

Justin Sheen Lohan

It's got nothing to do with that - what the hell happened to the 3 R's that kids should be learning?
Like Reply
3 hours ago in reply to Stanley J 1 Like

Ed Stanton
Now the 3R's is Reaming,Ramming and R-erections
Like Reply
23 minutes ago in reply to Justin Sheen Lohan 1 Like

Chris DiCesare
time for a voucher system for education funding - let the parents decide how and where they want their children educated - if "traditonal" family values are what ur all about u should have the right to practise your beliefs unencumbered by the state and their social engineers - it isnt discrimination it is freedom of choice
Like Reply
13 minutes ago 1 Like

Al Jones
Teachers should teach facts, not opinions. Most teachers that I have met are very naive about the realities of life outside of their secure, middle class environment and are not qualified to teach anything other than the three Rs. BTW, HIV is a fact.
Like Reply
37 minutes ago 1 Like

DarkNozomi
Here's a stupid idea: Let's stop teaching young children about sex-related stuff at all.

When I have kids, I want them to go to school for math, science, reading, geography and such. I will teach them about sexuality when I feel they are ready for it (which is not the same for each child)
Like Reply
9 hours ago 4 Likes

Stanley J
but what will you teach them about tolerance of people different then them? To discane, demonize and hate?
Like Reply
6 hours ago in reply to DarkNozomi

ace58
Mr. Jeffers must be an educated man. He will know, of course that "love" does not mean "approval" and that "tolerance" does not mean "acceptance". It would be enough if children all learned to read, write and compute effectively. Beyond that, a good teacher should equip each student with a fully functioning BS detector. Children love it when their teacher reads to them. I recommend Orwell's "Animal Farm."

Like Reply
8 hours ago 3 Likes

Stanley J
Whoa re you to decide what should be accepted and rejected. YOur bigotry speaks of religion, which is the opiate of the masses. Fortunately, by a large majority canadians support and accept gay people. If you don't I suggest you go to Iran, where they hang gay kids, and also dont like christians.
Like Reply
6 hours ago in reply to ace58 1 Like

ace58
Post script: I accept and reject all sorts of things every day. So do you. As for a chosen lifestyle, I don't care what you do, just don't do it in the street and frighten the horses.
Like Reply
6 hours ago in reply to Stanley J 3 Likes

ace58
And so values will be taught by the state ahead of the family? Since you quote Karl Marx, I assume that would be your preference.
Like Reply
6 hours ago in reply to Stanley J 2 Likes

themacguy
Who are they to force their left-wing lunatic values on our children. Gays are still considered to be immoral deviants by the vast majority of people on this planet. They make aggressive policies against reciting the Lord's Prayer in school because of the multitude of religions represented by the students and then in the same breath they want to shove gay tolerance and understanding down our kid's throats. That's completely hypocritical.
Like Reply
5 hours ago 2 Likes

ace58
And, sadly, when you try to jam any idea down adolescent throats, it often creates just the opposite effect and you end up with a backlash. It has to do with the medium, not the message.
Like Reply
5 hours ago in reply to themacguy

Michael Jamieson
This is what is wrong with our society. Children have lost the undamentals of learning how to write by doing the circles and lines but can be taught that homosexuallity is normal and acceptable.

It is not discrimination to not take the classes, it is discrimination to speak ill of what is being taught....typical PC madness.
Like Reply
10 hours ago 3 Likes

Stanley J
sounds like the hate groups havve been sending out their action alerts with their phrases for you to parrot.
Like Reply
6 hours ago in reply to Michael Jamieson

Billy Baily
These children can teach you tolerance. What if it was your child?
Like Reply
9 hours ago in reply to Michael Jamieson

Stanley J
He probably throw his kid out on the street. thats what happens in the USA when kids come out to christiand and some catholic parents. christian love means disown your gay child. Sick people.
Like Reply
6 hours ago in reply to Billy Baily 1 Like

Danielle Rowley Collapse
No, the problem with society is people like you thinking it's okay to discriminate. Obviously these children are still learning to write and read and such, but if they are learning of world issues at a young age, they sooner have a better understanding of the world. Which, in my mind, is a tiny bit more important then learning to read and write. They'll learn eventually. But teaching kids tolerance and love is whats going to make or break society.
Like Reply
10 hours ago in reply to Michael Jamieson F
1 2 Next →
M Subscribe by email S RSS

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Make or break for gay marriage as rival camps

Title: Make or break for gay marriage as rival camps
Description: clash ahead of vote over New York same-s

TheUnhivedMind - June 22, 2011 03:28 AM (GMT)

Make or break for gay marriage as rival camps clash ahead of vote over New York same-sex marriage bill

Last updated at 3:16 PM on 20th June 2011
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-20...shy-passed.html

Supporters and opponents of gay marriage clashed yesterday as lawmakers prepared to vote on making New York the biggest state to legalize same-sex marriage.

The measure to make gay marriage legal, introduced by Governor Andrew Cuomo, a Democrat and strong advocate, needs just one more vote before it can pass into the state Senate.

The state Assembly approved the bill by a wide margin last week, and Monday is the last day of the legislative session before summer recess.

Equality: Supporters of gay marriage hold up colourful signs in New York's Central Park on Saturday as they urge lawmakers to back a same-sex marriage bill

Thirty-one senators, including two Republicans, are currently in favor of the bill. Its backers need one more member to back it for it to pass.

New York's Archbishop, Timothy Dolan, reiterated his and the Catholic Church's opposition to gay marriage on Sunday, vowing to oppose 'any radical bill to redefine the very essence of marriage.'

'One has to wonder why the proponents of this radical redefinition, who claim overwhelming popular support, would not consider (a referendum) on such a drastic departure from traditional values?' he wrote on his blog.

Gov. Andrew Cuomo has become a prominent champion of legalized gay marriage, pushing his state into the centre of the national debate over an emotional and divisive issue.

In the past week, the Democrat has personally lobbied wavering Republican lawmakers and has said the extension of marriage rights to gays and lesbians is 'a matter of principle, not politics.'

'This state has a proud tradition and a proud legacy as the progressive capital of the nation,' he said last Friday. 'We led the way, and it's time for New York to lead the way once again.'

The effort carries some political peril but could be potentially rewarding, given evolving public sentiment on gay rights in New York and the nation.

'It looks like a profile in courage, and maybe it is,' said Larry Sabato, director of the Centre for Politics at the University of Virginia. 'But it also may be politically smart in the long run.'

Mr Cuomo's support for gay rights is already known to voters in New York, which would become the sixth state to legalise the issue . His efforts this past week to get the bill through the Republican-controlled state Senate - the lone roadblock to passage - make good on an issue he ran on last year. During that campaign, he took his daughters to a gay pride parade in New York City, drawing sharp criticism from his Republican opponent.

'The governor is putting skin in the game and has a steadfast commitment to the issue,' said Kevin Nix of the Human Rights Campaign, a leading gay rights group. 'That he's made marriage equality a priority for this legislative session speaks volumes about his commitment.'

As a purely political matter, advocating for gay marriage makes sense for Democrats in a state like New York, where gay groups are players in party politics. Mr Cuomo's lobbying, coming after he pushed through a fiscally conservative budget, also could burnish his image among liberals.

Mr Cuomo is an astute politician who was a key player in his father's campaigns for New York governor three decades ago, then was schooled in President Bill Clinton's Cabinet, where he served as Department of Housing and Urban Development secretary.

The lessons learned from both are at play during this debate - the lofty, inclusive idealism of his father matched by Clinton's practical politics.

He is opposed, though, by some conservative groups and religious leaders. Archbishop Dolan likened the effort to 'redefine' marriage to something that would be done in China or North Korea.

Still, polls this year have shown that more than half of voters in New York support gay marriage, with backing heaviest among Democrats. Mr Cuomo's position is also in line with New York's last two governors and its two Democratic U.S. senators. Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand has been a high-profile advocate of gay rights issues, and Sen. Charles Schumer came out in support of gay marriage in 2009.

In fact, the reason mr Cuomo can push for gay marriage is that he holds office in a relatively liberal state. Nationwide, governors supporting same-sex marriage appear to be in the minority. Among them are Democrats Deval Patrick in neighbouring Massachusetts and Jerry Brown in California.

Mr Cuomo, less than six months in office, has not said publicly that he wants to run for national office. But his ambition, record of success and relatively young age at 53, raises the question of whether his stance on gay marriage hurt him if he aspires to be president.

Brian Brown, president of the National Organization for Marriage, said the strong opposition to gay marriage around the country is proven by the 30 states with constitutional language defining marriage as between a man and a woman.

'We never lost a public vote on marriage in any state,' he said.

A Gallup poll last month found national support for same-sex marriage going up nine points from the previous year to 53 per cent (support was at 27 per cent in 1996). Support is highest among younger people, a major reason why many analysts believe the trend will continue.

Mr Sabato said that could make Mr Cuomo's issue a winner for him in the coming years, particularly since many Democratic constituencies who will choose the party's nominee favour same-sex marriage.

'The earliest he could run is 2016,' Mr Sabato said. 'And I think his gamble is that the country is evolving on this issue and moving in New York's direction.'

Mr Cuomo has actually shifted on the issue himself, at least in public.

He favoured civil unions for same-sex partners during his first, aborted run for New York governor in 2002. At that time, Vermont allowed civil unions. No states would have legal same-sex marriage until Massachusetts in 2004.

By the time he ran for attorney general in 2006, he was using the words 'gay marriage.' And he won the race easily. The New York Times had quoted Mr Cuomo as saying he had supported gay marriage in his heart during the 2002 campaign, but didn't make it an issue because the political focus then was on civil unions.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: USDA gay-sensitivity training seeks larger audienc

Title: USDA gay-sensitivity training seeks larger audienc

TheUnhivedMind - June 22, 2011 12:25 AM (GMT)

USDA gay-sensitivity training seeks larger audience

By Rowan Scarborough
Updated: 8:51 p.m. on Sunday, June 19, 2011
http://www.washingtontimes.com/news/2011/j...-govt-training/

U.S. Department of Agriculture activists want to impose their intense brand of homosexual sensitivity training governmentwide, including a discussion that compares “heterosexism” - believing marriage can be between only one man and one woman - to racism.

If accepted by the Obama administration, that move could mean more sessions for military service members already undergoing gay-sensitivity indoctrination. Critics fear additional gay-oriented training would add an unnecessary burden for combat troops and encourage some to leave.

USDA officials have asked the Office of Personnel Management (OPM), which oversees all federal employee policies, to impose its gay-awareness programs on all federal departments, according to an internal newsletter. The training includes a discussion of “heterosexism” and compares it to racism. It says people who view marriage as being between only one man and one woman are guilty of “heterosexism.”

The push for the training is coming from Agriculture Secretary Thomas J. Vilsack, former governor of Iowa. The Democrat has launched a departmentwide “cultural transformation” that includes a Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender (LGBT) Special Emphasis Program.

The USDA’s senior training coordinator, Bill Scaggs, has developed a sensitivity program far more extensive than the Pentagon’s training for the anticipated lifting of the ban on open ho[JUMP]mosexuals in the ranks. His training program, which OPM calls “groundbreaking [and a] model for other agencies,” delves more into gay issues and terminology. It also justifies pro-homosexual political positions.

Elaine Donnelly, who heads the Center for Military Readiness and opposes the repeal of the military’s ban on acknowledged gays, said it would be a mistake for the administration of President Obama to impose the USDA sensitivity training program on the Pentagon.

“There are disturbing implications for national defense in the USDA’s development of a ‘groundbreaking’ training program that is to become a model for other federal agencies,” she told The Washington Times.

She predicted that, once the ban is lifted, “training programs similar to the USDA’s LGBT Special Emphasis Program will become a growth industry within the Department of Defense.”

“This would drive out thousands of experienced troops, starting with chaplains and people of faith who do not support LGBT ideology and activism,” she said.

Eileen Lainez, a Pentagon spokeswoman, said: “Sensitivity training has not been a tenet of previous and ongoing repeal training, nor will it enter into sustainment plans.

“The key messages for sustainment will be the same as with the training servicemembers have previously received, with emphasis on leadership, professionalism, discipline and respect.”

The Pentagon has been preparing 2.2 million active and reserve troops to deal with homosexuals serving openly in the military since Congress last year repealed the so-called “don’t ask, don’t tell” policy that required gay troops to keep their sexuality private.

The Agriculture Department described its program in an internal newsletter, My USDA: A Progress Report for Employees on USDA’s Cultural Transformation.

“Due in large part to Bill’s tireless efforts, USDA is recognized as a leader among Federal departments and agencies. Mr. Scaggs has recently started working with OPM and the Federal Executive Institute, sharing the sexual-orientation and gender-identity diversity training he developed at USDA,” the newsletter said.

“OPM has called our LGBT work ‘groundbreaking’ and expressed an interest in using it as a model for other federal agencies.”

The newsletter adds: “Future collaborations with OPM are planned, with the ultimate goal of having LGBT Special Emphasis Programs across the federal government.”

Veronica Villalobos, OPM's director of diversity and inclusion, told The Times: "OPM strongly encourages all agencies to conduct diversity and inclusion training.

"USDA is one of the many agencies we are currently working closely with, and while OPM continues to encourage this type of training, the effort has not gone governmentwide."

Mr. Scaggs' briefing for USDA employees is titled "Including Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity in Diversity."

Slides used for briefing presentations reveal topics such as "courageous conversations" and "What can I do to promote workplace diversity?"

One slide on gender identity states: "Individuals are conscious of [sexual identity] between the ages of 18 months and 3 years. Most people develop a gender identity that matches their biological sex. For some, gender identity is different from biological sex (transsexuals)."

On attempts to change someone from gay to straight, the briefing says: "Usually doesn't work and may even be harmful. Can produce feelings of depression, hopelessness, shame and anxiety. Some people become suicidal."

It refers to the term "down low," noting: "Men who discreetly have sex with other men while in sexual relationships with women are said to be on the 'down low' (or 'DL' for short)."

The briefing defines "heterosexism" as an "'ism' like sexism or racism, where one is considered better than others." It gives as examples the ban on gays serving openly in the military and laws that define marriage as a union between one man and one woman.

Agriculture Department spokesman Justin DeJong said gay diversity training is part of an overall program to correct past systemic discrimination at USDA.

"USDA makes this training available as part of our commitment to ensuring that all constituents and employees are treated fairly and equally," he said. "USDA has had a policy against discriminating against people based on their sexual orientation since 1993, and this was further formalized when President Clinton signed an executive order regarding sexual orientation employment nondiscrimination in 1998."

Mr. Obama has courted the gay vote and campaigned on repealing the military's gay ban. In office, he has decided not to defend in court the Defense of Marriage Act, which Mr. Clinton signed and which defines marriage as a union between one man and one woman.

© Copyright 2011 The Washington Times, LLC. Click here for reprint permission.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Obama Mulling Endorsement of Same-Sex Marriage

Title: Obama Mulling Endorsement of Same-Sex Marriage

TheUnhivedMind - June 20, 2011 09:31 PM (GMT)

Obama Mulling Endorsement of Same-Sex Marriage

Sunday, 19 Jun 2011 02:53 PM
http://www.newsmax.com/InsideCover/BarackO...omo_code=C774-1

As he gears up for his re-election battle, President Barack Obama is considering the idea of endorsing same-sex marriage, The New York Times reports.

A Democratic strategist told the Times that high-ranking White House officials “are looking at the tactics of how this might be done if the president chose to do it.”

Another intriguing clue comes from Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., who is openly gay. He said he was asked by an Obama official, “What would be the effect if he came out for same-sex marriage?”

Obama is the prime attraction at a Gala with the Gay Community fundraiser in New York City this coming week. He also will hold a gay pride at the White House on June 29, the Times reports.

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

2482a

PLEASE MOVE OVER TO THE NEW SITE:

http://z15.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mind_III/

18 JULY 2011 .. GOLD HITS NEW HIGH OF $1604 AS SILVER RAISES TO $40.38 PER OUNCE. THE OVERT DEPRESSION IS ON, ALL READY FOR THE COMING COLLAPSE BETWEEN OCT 2011 - OCT 2012! THE LIKES OF WHICH HAS NEVER BEEN WITNESSED BEFORE WORLDWIDE, ARE YOU READY? MENTALLY? YOU SURE? GET HARDENED NOW AND PREPARE ASAP.....

THE UNHIVED MIND
This site is dedicated to the truthsayers assassinated such as William Cooper, Jim Arrabito, Alberto Rivera, Joe Vialls, Brian Downing Quig, Phil Schneider etc.

KING 'FARNESE' CARLOS
World War III
The Unhived Mind

THE KNIGHTS OF MALTA
DEUTSCHE VERTEIDIGUNGS DIENST
CARPATHIA HOSTINGS INC CYBERNAZIS

CARDINAL RATZINGER
And his Oslo Accords
UHM

C.I.A (D.V.D) PREPARE TO
TESLA ATTACK U.K
EXERCISE ORION
SEPTEMBER 2010
UHM

WTC nuclear demolition
Dimitri Khalezov

WATCH OUT MIDDLE EAST
KING JUAN CARLOS IS
IN RUSSIA 24/25 FEB

LATEST INFO

The Unhived Mind Ii->WORLD CONTROL->Mass civil unrest, disobedience, protest and strikes

Pages: (4) [1] 2 3 ... Last »

NEW TOPIC NEW POLL

		Mass civil unrest, disobedience, protest and strikes
		Topic Title	Topic Starter	Replies	Views	Last Action
		Important Topics
		THE PLANNED WORLDWIDE RIOT AGENDA (Pages 1 2 3 ...11) [JUST AS THE JTIC/METABRIDGE WISH!]	TheUnhivedMind	157	7,146	21st October 2010 - 04:25 PM Last Post by: treadingserpents
		U.K CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE & WAR (Pages 1 2)	TheUnhivedMind	20	1,016	25th April 2009 - 02:20 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Forum Topics
		Libya braces for 'Day of Anger' as protests (Pages 1 2 3 ...69) continue throughout Middle East	TheUnhivedMind	1,021	6,288	21st July 2011 - 04:42 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Bahrain protests: Demonstrators occupy Pearl (Pages 1 2 3 ...7) Square	TheUnhivedMind	99	629	21st July 2011 - 04:09 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Malawi riots spread to major cities after troops clash with protestors	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	21st July 2011 - 01:35 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Syria unrest: Tear gas fired at Deraa funeral (Pages 1 2 3 ...14)	TheUnhivedMind	198	1,456	21st July 2011 - 01:31 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		NOW YEMEN DEMONSTRATE AGAINST RUTHLESS GOVERNMENT (Pages 1 2 3 ...6) [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	84	853	21st July 2011 - 12:44 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gaddafi removal not being discussed - Tripoli	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	21st July 2011 - 12:43 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Half naked protesters attacked by Georgian embassy staff in Kiev [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	16	20th July 2011 - 02:18 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Irish police arrest eight people over dissident republican activity	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	19th July 2011 - 05:42 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Cairo protest: Police use tear gas on 'day of revo (Pages 1 2 3 ...18)	TheUnhivedMind	262	4,577	19th July 2011 - 03:26 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Tunisian police fire in air to disperse rioters	TheUnhivedMind	0	6	19th July 2011 - 02:28 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Russia criticises US for recognising Libyan rebel government	TheUnhivedMind	0	8	18th July 2011 - 05:08 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Four dead in attack on Chinese police station	TheUnhivedMind	0	5	18th July 2011 - 05:03 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Fresh protest rallies hit Moroccan cities	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	18th July 2011 - 03:33 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The fight to rescue the Arab spring	TheUnhivedMind	0	10	18th July 2011 - 01:22 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Jordan police attack anti-govt. march	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	16th July 2011 - 02:04 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Sectarian trouble flares at east Belfast's Short Strand	TheUnhivedMind	11	102	14th July 2011 - 03:05 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Vietnam Forcibly Breaks Up Anti-China Protests	TheUnhivedMind	0	10	12th July 2011 - 11:29 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Malaysia's leader warned: reform elections or risk revolution	TheUnhivedMind	1	17	12th July 2011 - 01:03 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Malaysia fires tear gas at protest, arrests 1,667	TheUnhivedMind	0	24	10th July 2011 - 03:50 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Syria: Thousands protest in restive city of Hama	TheUnhivedMind	1	32	8th July 2011 - 11:01 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		U.S. Defense Secretary In Saudi Arabia To Discuss Mideast Unrest	TheUnhivedMind	13	157	8th July 2011 - 04:38 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Oman jails 12 more protesters, bringing total to 80	TheUnhivedMind	0	11	8th July 2011 - 04:37 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Chile police tear gas education protesters	TheUnhivedMind	1	22	5th July 2011 - 06:55 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Party of ousted PM's sister wins Thai elections	TheUnhivedMind	0	18	3rd July 2011 - 11:05 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Gaddafi can retire in Libya under international supervision, rebel leader says	TheUnhivedMind	0	15	3rd July 2011 - 06:35 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Anarchy erupts in Greece as austerity bites (Pages 1 2 3)	TheUnhivedMind	34	321	2nd July 2011 - 03:39 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Will the Revolution Begin in London?	TheUnhivedMind	3	61	1st July 2011 - 09:46 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		"Stolen Elections" Battle Cry of the Color Revolut	TheUnhivedMind	0	17	30th June 2011 - 02:43 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		London strike riots alert: Police on stand-by for mass public sector walkout	TheUnhivedMind	0	39	29th June 2011 - 05:20 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Senegal deploys troops after riots over power cuts	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	28th June 2011 - 05:53 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		U2 PROTEST VIOLENTLY STOPPED BY SECURITY AT GLASTONBURY 2011 [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	34	28th June 2011 - 02:18 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		France urges UN Security Council to speak out on Syria	TheUnhivedMind	0	12	26th June 2011 - 01:04 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Protesters found in Wimbledon queue	TheUnhivedMind	0	39	25th June 2011 - 04:58 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Forecast: Spain's protests to 'go global'	TheUnhivedMind	4	48	23rd June 2011 - 02:53 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		DEFEND THE RIGHT TO PROTEST JUNE 2011 [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	27	22nd June 2011 - 03:01 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The CIA's Fake "Arab Spring" Becoming A Long, Hot Summer of War	TheUnhivedMind	0	16	22nd June 2011 - 12:23 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		'Flashmop' protest over Tesco cleaners' pay	TheUnhivedMind	0	18	21st June 2011 - 11:55 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		School walkouts planned to coincide with public sector strikes	TheUnhivedMind	0	13	21st June 2011 - 02:37 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Anti-China Protests Intensify	TheUnhivedMind	0	15	20th June 2011 - 04:50 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		China riot informers promised cash and residency for tipoffs	TheUnhivedMind	0	9	20th June 2011 - 03:42 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		China unrest as hundreds protest against Taizhou land grabs	TheUnhivedMind	0	19	18th June 2011 - 03:37 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Prince Charles and Camilla visit Morocco amid unrest	TheUnhivedMind	1	51	18th June 2011 - 12:42 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Beijing battling protest fires on all fronts	TheUnhivedMind	0	22	17th June 2011 - 01:24 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Canadian Civil Liberties Crushed by Police in Mass Tear Gas Attacks [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	36	16th June 2011 - 10:48 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Starving for protest in India [THEY LOVE DEPOPULATION SO DONT BOTHER]	TheUnhivedMind	0	26	16th June 2011 - 05:51 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Patrick Cockburn: Hopes for democracy fade as civil wars grip the Arab world	TheUnhivedMind	1	27	13th June 2011 - 03:46 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Pro-, anti-government protesters fill Iraq square	TheUnhivedMind	0	14	11th June 2011 - 03:55 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Chicago Police Brace for 'Flash Mob' Attacks	TheUnhivedMind	0	42	11th June 2011 - 01:09 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Will Our Economy Trigger Violence In U.S.? People Are Frustrated & Angry & Disgusted With	TheUnhivedMind	0	19	9th June 2011 - 06:24 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Spaniards rally outside parliament	TheUnhivedMind	0	26	9th June 2011 - 03:53 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		I can't be crushed or bought, says Baba Ramdev	TheUnhivedMind	0	37	3rd June 2011 - 10:19 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Cuba dissidents sentenced to prison for leaflets	TheUnhivedMind	0	28	2nd June 2011 - 06:56 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Massive Police Intervention against Anti-AKP Demon	TheUnhivedMind	0	43	2nd June 2011 - 03:49 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Peru anti-mining protests halted until after elect	TheUnhivedMind	1	30	2nd June 2011 - 03:43 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		IDF Purchasing Non-Lethal Weapons for September Riots	TheUnhivedMind	0	53	1st June 2011 - 03:45 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Protests break calm in China's Inner Mongolia area	TheUnhivedMind	1	50	1st June 2011 - 02:46 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Mayor, Police Chief Promise Order at Beach	TheUnhivedMind	0	22	31st May 2011 - 09:51 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Long Island Beach Riot	TheUnhivedMind	0	21	31st May 2011 - 09:50 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Police Shut Down Wave Country Due To Unruly Crowd	TheUnhivedMind	0	20	31st May 2011 - 09:48 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		70 ARRESTS 1 DEAD IN CHARLOTTE RIOTS	TheUnhivedMind	0	56	31st May 2011 - 06:21 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Police gear up towards possible September riots	TheUnhivedMind	0	49	31st May 2011 - 04:13 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Georgia Violence: Video of brutal police crackdown on Tbilisi protests [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	31st May 2011 - 12:35 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		China at a tipping point: What is the U.S. to do?	TheUnhivedMind	0	27	30th May 2011 - 09:56 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Serbia: Nationalists protest over Ratko Mladic arrest	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	30th May 2011 - 02:05 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Graphic Video Of Police Brutality On Protesters In Spain [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	34	29th May 2011 - 04:26 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Anti-US protests roll through Venezuela	TheUnhivedMind	0	17	29th May 2011 - 04:11 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Activists occupy banks in NHS demos	TheUnhivedMind	0	19	29th May 2011 - 02:02 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Air passengers in 'Lord of the Flies' mutiny after seven-hour delay	TheUnhivedMind	0	20	29th May 2011 - 02:00 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Fireworks and ammonia used to attack police at cuts protest	TheUnhivedMind	0	33	26th May 2011 - 04:02 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Yemen, Syria, Libya (and Beyond) LiveBlog: A Battle in the Capital..Expanded [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	24	25th May 2011 - 06:17 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Spain is having a revolution [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	5	127	25th May 2011 - 05:45 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Clinton Trip to Boost Democracy in Egypt, Tunisia as Libya Actions Debate	TheUnhivedMind	3	65	25th May 2011 - 05:44 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		South Korea police break up Yoosung Hyundai strike	TheUnhivedMind	0	32	24th May 2011 - 10:46 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		The Bin Laden backlash: Angry Muslims demonstrate outside Downing Street as Obama visits	TheUnhivedMind	0	30	24th May 2011 - 10:16 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Baltimore Protest Calls For Economic Justice [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	49	23rd May 2011 - 05:42 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Anti Obama protesters are evicted from Parliament Square	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	23rd May 2011 - 04:17 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		RAF BLITZ LIBYA NAVY	TheUnhivedMind	0	38	21st May 2011 - 05:57 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Thousands march against Portugal bailout	TheUnhivedMind	0	18	21st May 2011 - 01:28 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Spain bans young protesters ahead of elections	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	20th May 2011 - 04:32 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Riots in South-Eastern Turkey after Military Opera	TheUnhivedMind	0	60	19th May 2011 - 12:59 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Laurie Penny: Fight for your right to be heard	TheUnhivedMind	0	45	13th May 2011 - 12:46 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Benefits protesters to hit London's streets in defiance of welfare cuts	TheUnhivedMind	4	39	13th May 2011 - 12:37 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Russia: Most Arab regimes 'overstayed their luck'	TheUnhivedMind	0	28	11th May 2011 - 02:59 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		UK Uncut targets banks in 'emergency operation' against NHS shakeup	TheUnhivedMind	0	25	10th May 2011 - 06:11 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Thomas Cook warns of weak trading after civil unrest	TheUnhivedMind	0	38	9th May 2011 - 06:10 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Maldives police use tear gas as protesters clash	TheUnhivedMind	0	44	4th May 2011 - 03:55 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Maldives braces for new opposition protests	TheUnhivedMind	0	42	4th May 2011 - 03:55 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Anti-monarchists set fire to British flags at Cambridge University during Royal Weddin	TheUnhivedMind	0	46	4th May 2011 - 01:54 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		BREAKING ALERT: Mass Arrests, Tear Gas, Sound Weapons used Against WIU Students [Vd]	TheUnhivedMind	0	91	3rd May 2011 - 10:08 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Eight arrested at Brighton May Day protes	TheUnhivedMind	0	75	1st May 2011 - 03:55 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		20 arrests in violent demonstration	TheUnhivedMind	0	56	30th April 2011 - 02:43 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Anarchists 'planning to behead' William effigy are arrested	TheUnhivedMind	0	61	30th April 2011 - 02:35 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Masked group attack police at protest against Tesco store	TheUnhivedMind	0	67	30th April 2011 - 02:35 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Teacher branded pupils' coursework as 'sh*te' on Facebook	TheUnhivedMind	0	59	30th April 2011 - 01:44 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Uganda unrest gathers pace despite bloody governme crackdown	TheUnhivedMind	0	44	30th April 2011 - 01:44 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

		Thousands march in Hong Kong to demand release of China's Ai	TheUnhivedMind	0	37	29th April 2011 - 03:33 AM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Police hurt in violent anti-Tesco clashes in Bristol [NO ONE LIKES THE COHEN'S]	TheUnhivedMind	0	43	22nd April 2011 - 09:51 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind
		Fighting threatens Ivory Coast return to normality	TheUnhivedMind	0	28	21st April 2011 - 10:53 PM Last Post by: TheUnhivedMind

Showing 100 of 317 topics sorted by last post date in descending order from the beginning Go!

Pages: (4) [1] 2 3 ... Last »

NEW TOPIC NEW POLL

Open Topic (new replies)

Open Topic (no new replies)

Hot Topic (new replies)

Hot Topic (no new replies)

Poll (new votes)

Poll (no new votes)

Locked Topic

Moved Topic

Search this forum: Enter Keywords Go

- Mass civil unrest, disobedience, protest and strikes Go

Mark this forum as read

Hosted for free by InvisionFree (Terms of Use: Updated 2/10/2010) | Powered by Invision Power Board v1.3 Final © 2003 IPS, Inc.
Page creation time: 0.0501 seconds | Archive

The Orsini Skin by Bunthius Zeta Board mods

0

View Full Version: Mass civil unrest, disobedience, protest and strikes

51. Will Our Economy Trigger Violence In U.S.? People
52. Spaniards rally outside parliament
53. I can't be crushed or bought, says Baba Ramdev
54. Cuba dissidents sentenced to prison for leaflets
55. Massive Police Intervention against Anti-AKP Demon
56. Peru anti-mining protests halted until after elect
57. IDF Purchasing Non-Lethal Weapons for September
58. Protests break calm in China's Inner Mongolia area
59. Mayor, Police Chief Promise Order at Beach
60. Long Island Beach Riot
61. Police Shut Down Wave Country Due To Unruly Crowd
62. 70 ARRESTS 1 DEAD IN CHARLOTTE RIOTS
63. Police gear up towards possible September riots
64. Georgia Violence: Video of brutal police crackdown
65. China at a tipping point: What is the U.S. to do?
66. Serbia: Nationalists protest over Ratko Mladic
67. Graphic Video Of Police Brutality On Protesters In
68. Anti-US protests roll through Venezuela
69. Activists occupy banks in NHS demos
70. Air passengers in 'Lord of the Flies' mutiny after
71. Fireworks and ammonia used to attack police at
72. Yemen, Syria, Libya (and Beyond) LiveBlog: A
73. Spain is having a revolution [Vd]
74. Clinton Trip to Boost Democracy in Egypt, Tunisia
75. South Korea police break up Yoosung Hyundai strike
76. The Bin Laden backlash: Angry Muslims demonstrate
77. Baltimore Protest Calls For Economic Justice [Vd]
78. Anti Obama protesters are evicted from Parliament
79. RAF BLITZ LIBYA NAVY
80. Thousands march against Portugal bailout

81. Spain bans young protesters ahead of elections
82. Riots in South-Eastern Turkey after Military Opera
83. Laurie Penny: Fight for your right to be heard
84. Benefits protesters to hit London's streets in
85. Russia: Most Arab regimes 'overstayed their luck'
86. UK Uncut targets banks in 'emergency operation'
87. Thomas Cook warns of weak trading after civil
88. Maldives police use tear gas as protesters clash
89. Maldives braces for new opposition protests
90. Anti-monarchists set fire to British flags at
91. BREAKING ALERT: Mass Arrests, Tear Gas, Sound
92. Eight arrested at Brighton May Day protes
93. 20 arrests in violent demonstration
94. Anarchists 'planning to behead' William effigy are
95. Masked group attack police at protest against
96. Teacher branded pupils' coursework as 'sh*te' on
97. Uganda unrest gathers pace despite bloody governme
98. Thousands march in Hong Kong to demand release of
99. Police hurt in violent anti-Tesco clashes in
100. Fighting threatens Ivory Coast return to normality

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Mass civil unrest, disobedience, protest and strikes

101. Nigerian elections in northern states postponed in
102. 'US using chaos to break up Arab states'
103. Royal wedding: Muslim group's Abbey protest
104. Nigeria election: Riots over Goodluck Jonathan win
105. Libya conflict: UK funds to help trapped workers
106. Sarah Palin Boo'ed in Wisconsin [Vd]
107. India agrees to protesters' demand on graft panel
108. Protesters held as US lawmakers debate spending
109. Burkina Faso capital erupts in protest
110. RAW FOOTAGE TORONTO MASSIVE MARCH ON ROB FORD CITY
111. India agrees to protesters' demand on graft panel
112. Jerry Brown: California, Country Facing 'Regime
113. D.C. Mayor Vincent Gray arrested and released
114. Ivory Coast: Gbagbo and Ouattara in Abidjan battle
115. Swaziland pro-democracy protests meet teargas and
116. China pro-democracy protester sentenced to two
117. ERIC PHELPS & PRINCE YASSER CANDEEL - MIDDLE EAST
118. Anarchists plot to wreck Prince William and Kate 119. Irish police chief apologises for officers who
120. Protesters Killed as Syrian Security Cracks Down
121. Lindsey Williams Exclusive: Global DeStabilization
122. Americans to protest against US wars
123. Global strike [Vd]
124. Middle East Revolution 2011 [Vd]
125. BBC PROTEST REPORT PROVES THEY ARE THE MOUTHPIECE
126. Wisconsin, U.S. Protests [Vd]
127. Threats of violence won't stop pro-cuts march
128. Koussa meeting over Lockerbie 'could be within
129. Vietnamese rights lawyer jailed over call for
130. MILLIONS MARCH IN LONDON AGAINST SPENDING CUTS

131. Protesters plan day of occupation in Trafalgar
132. Russian police detain more than 150 protesters
133. China concerned about investments in Libya
134. Vatican stooge Shimon Peres welcomes Arab uprising
135. Arab rulers must change or risk defeat: Turkey
136. New American Revolution Warned Is Just Weeks Away
137. Saudi Arabia witnesses first signs of unrest as
138. Home Secretary Theresa May condemns protest
139. Middle East 'needs a Marshall Plan'
140. Anarchists 'plan to target royal wedding'
141. Extremists vow to hijack march and bring chaos to
142. UK lecturers' strike over pensions disrupts studen
143. Australia uses tear gas, synthetic bullets to
144. EXPECT TROUBLE FROM THUG COPS AT BIGGEST UK MARCH
145. Man of compromise takes power after military
146. Rubber Bullets Fly at Anti-Obama Protest In Rio
147. Chile protests seek Obama apology for CIA meddling
148. Moslems moaning outside downing Street [Vd]
149. RAP NEWS 7: REVOLUTION [Vd]
150. Police arrest 35 at Wikileaks demonstration

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Mass civil unrest, disobedience, protest and strikes

151. Iran opposition to hold demonstrations despite
152. Asylum seeker riots escalate in Australia
153. Christmas Island detention centre hit by riots
154. British Constitution Group Conference – Stoke On
155. In Turkey, Thousands Protest a Crackdown on Press
156. French riot police break up dock strike
157. China not to compete with US in exerting influence
158. Spaniards demonstrate for labor rights
159. 300,000 people rally across Portugal
160. Anti-Berlusconi demos held across Italy
161. Global Strike - 15th - 17th April 2011 - Peaceful
162. WEBSTER TARPLEY - THE EMPIRE TRIES TO HOLD ON BY
163. Nick Clegg tells Lib Dems protests are price of
164. BARRY CHAMISH & JOEL SKOUSEN ON THE MIDDLE EAST
165. As Arab world reels, Obama takes it country by
166. ENGLISH PROTESTORS 'ARREST' COUNTY COURT JUDGE
167. Ivory Coast: Anti-Gbagbo protesters killed in
168. Police pay protesters may take to streets
169. Turkish journalists are jailed ahead of conspiracy
170. MARCH FOR THE ALTERNATIVE (U.K.)
171. Lawful Rebellion Birkenhead wirral,peaceful
172. WILLIAM HAGUE IN TUNISIA CRISIS TALKS
173. U.S. Protests
174. Engineered Chaos In North Africa And The Middle Ea
175. US favors protecting long-term Mideast allies
176. Video of thousands clashing with police in Croatia
177. China snuffs out democracy protests
178. Former Russian Diplomat: US Trying to Misuse Regio
179. Rochdale EDL and UAF protests: 31 arrests
180. PRINCE HARRY CANCELS TRIP TO DUBAI AS UNREST IN

181. GEORGE SOROS HIGHLIGHTS THAT RUSSIA, IRAN AND
182. No to Regime Change in Arab Countries
183. Turkish crackdown on journalists in alleged coup
184. Webster Tarpley on Coast To Coast AM 1.3.2011
185. Battle for Brega could mark start of real war in
186. Former Soviet Citizen Challenges Texans to Step Up
187. Wave of revolts may impact Russia – Lavrov
188. Qatar, Saudi Arabia Promoting Joint Coordination
189. Three killed in protests against power plant in 190. Middle East unrest spreads to Oman
191. Iran Rejects Western Criticism, Says Opposition
192. Student riot molotov cocktail boy, 14, traced by
193. Paramedics held up as Camden anti-cuts protesters
194. HYPOCRITICAL WESTERN LEADERS ON THE NORTH AFRICAN
195. Sudan: Abyei ethnic clashes mar peace deal
196. Police lay on water and lavatories for kettled
197. Protesters killed in Iraqi 'day of rage'
198. Libya: thousands pour across border into Tunisia
199. Anti-government protests break out in Lebanon
200. Bank protesters turn branches into services

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Mass civil unrest, disobedience, protest and strikes

201. Iran: End Enforced Disappearance of Opposition
202. Police Officer Set On Fire In Athens Demo
203. Indian rally raises pressure on Singh
204. Mass Strike Volatility Spreading Around The Globe
205. EGYPT TODAY. EUROPE TOMORROW?
206. Scent of freedom in North Korea
207. LIBYAN PROTESTS - FEARS CRISIS WILL HIT OIL-RICH
208. U.S Army wants rapid-fire rubber bullets for crowd
209. What Does The Unrest In The Middle East Tell Us
210. NATO Secretary General convenes emergency meeting
211. Middle East Chaos: What To Learn And What To Expec
212. JCOS Mullen Visits Horn of Africa Task Force
213. Met urges MPs 'to be clear on Parliament Square
214. TAX PROTESTERS RAID BARCLAYS BANK
215. Saudi ruler offers $36bn to stave off uprising
216. Riot police and protesters in battle at town hall
217. Gaddafi is merciless: Vatican paper Friday
218. MEDVEDEV SEES 'FIRES FOR DECADES' IN ARAB WORLD
219. Medvedev rebuffs Gorbachev's warning of 'Egyptian
220. Mass strike in Greece stops flights
221. Morocco to China: A Hemisphere in Revolt
222. Britain can push democracy or weapons – but not
223. Abu Dhabi arms fair: Tanks, guns, teargas and
224. We Are Fucking Angry - The King Blues [Vd]
225. Hundreds back Facebook call for Saudi protest
226. David Cameron: History is sweeping through Middle
227. It is not wrong to sell arms, says David Cameron
228. As protests crackdowns continue, West lines up to
229. Shy U.S. Intellectual Created Playbook Used in a
230. Turkey: Tunisia revolt could be a model for others

231. Gene Sharp: Author of the nonviolent revolution
232. Asylum seekers destroy part of Brussels facility
233. Mubarak and Ben Ali: what would Tacitus say?
234. A Middle East Without America?
235. 10 wounded in north Iraq demos
236. CIA Coup-College: Recycled revolutionary "props."
237. MOBS TARGET SAUDI ARABIA
238. Morocco unrest
239. WEBSTER TARPLEY - AMERICA IS HEADING TOWARDS
240. The Middle East & then the World
241. Venezuela decries U.S. meddling
242. Webster Tarpley - CIA fuels 'Mob Rule' [Vd]
243. Thousands Protest in Bolivia Over Rising Prices
244. Morocco protests will test regime's claims to
245. Afghan bank in Jalalabad hit by suicide bomb
246. Britain cancels Bahrain and Libya arms export
247. U.N. official urges Cuba to heed events in Egypt,
248. Fighting back against Berlusconi: Italian women
249. DVD GORBACHEV WARNS OF REVOLUTION IN RUSSIA
250. Collective bargaining protesters, supporters clash

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: Mass civil unrest, disobedience, protest and strikes

301. TORY GOVERNMENT RADICALISING YOUNG STUDENTS OVER
302. Mob Destroys Vehicles, Loots Police Station in
303. Moscow police arrest dozens to avert racist riots
304. Tunisia: State of emergency declared amid protests
305. Massive anti-govt. protest held in Jordan
306. Greek mayor arrested after bulldozing toll booth
307. Riots to be a way of life in Britain by 2015
308. Passengers riot at Moscow airport
309. Met Police officers suffered 'worst violence in 27
310. Greek Politician Beaten During Riots [Vd]
311. Bangladesh: riots for higher wages
312. Russia braces for riots
313. RIOTS BREAK OUT AT U.K. COUNCIL TOWN HALL [Vd]
314. STUDENTS DEFIANT OVER BLOODY DAY OF RIOTING
315. STUDENTS RIOT OUTSIDE TORY PARTY HEADQUARTERS

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: THE PLANNED WORLDWIDE RIOT AGENDA

Title: THE PLANNED WORLDWIDE RIOT AGENDA
Description: [JUST AS THE JTIC/METABRIDGE WISH!]

craig-oxley - December 15, 2008 03:42 AM (GMT)

Greek violence spreads across Europe

David Byers
Times OnlineDecember 11, 2008
http://www.timesonline.co.uk/tol/news/worl...icle5325830.ece

Suspected anarchist protests which have dogged Greece for the last week spread outside the country today, with mobs causing violent scenes in Italy, Spain, Russia, Denmark and Turkey.

Greek diplomatic missions were vandalised in the attacks, while police, local authority and media representatives were also targeted in what appeared a co-ordinated escalation.

The upsurge took place as protests continued in Greece following the killing last Saturday of Alexandros Grigoropoulos.

Today, mobs pelted 20 police stations with rocks and bottles, overturned cars and blocked streets in central Athens. Police responded with tear gas as sporadic violence persisted amid Greece's worst rioting in decades.

Four people were detained and at least one man was hospitalised with injuries, authorities said. In a gesture which appeared designed to ease the violence, MPs held a minute of silence for Mr Grigoropoulos.

Yet what were originally relatively localised protests over the killing have since been hijacked by mobs of self-styled anarchists who authorities say are looking for trouble, and today they spread out of Greece for the first time.

In Denmark, a total of 32 people were arrested in Copenhagen after protests turned violent while, in Madrid and Barcelona, several police officers were injured and 11 people were arrested following clashes.

The violence also spread to Turkey, where a dozen protesters were reported to have painted the Turkish-flag red on the Greek consulate. In Moscow and Rome, meanwhile, petrol bombs were reported to have been aimed at Greek Embassies.

Meanwhile, a crew of television journalists from Russia were attacked by 50 youths as they filmed clashes in Exarchia, Greece, a known hotbed of student radicalism. One correspondent from the NTV television station was injured.

So far, hundreds of stores throughout Greece have been damaged or destroyed as gangs of masked youths and self-styled anarchists smashed windows with metal bars, looted stores and set up flaming street barricades in cities.

Greece's conservative government has come under intense criticism for its handling of the crisis, despite authorities' insistence that they avoided heavy handed policing to prevent bloodshed.

Costas Karamanlis, the Greek Prime Minister, whose government has a single-seat majority in parliament, has ignored growing opposition calls for early elections. However, he has promised shopkeepers affected by riots handouts of 10,000 Euros to cover short-term needs.

An opinion poll published yesterday showed that 68 per cent of Greeks disapproved of the government's handling of the crisis, however. Even before the riots, the government was already facing public discontent over the state of the economy, the poor job prospects for students and a series of financial scandals.

"We demand accountability, that this government resigns, and that this farce comes to an end," Spyros Potamias, a 28-year-old architecture student said as he demonstrated at a polytechnic in Athens.

Store owners and most of the public expressed anger, however, that the police had not been firmer with the rioters as they embarked upon what appeared to be a rampage of destruction.

"I can accept anger, I cannot accept looting," said Michael Lavdiotis, manager of a looted Athens coffee shop, where food and even furniture was stolen. "They took everything ... we're very frustrated. We didn't deserve this behaviour."

Greece's influential Orthodox Church has joined authorities in appealing for calm, as more student protests are believed to be planned for tomorrow.

"This tragedy cannot be resolved by burning and destroying the property of people who themselves have problems," said Church leader Archbishop Ieronymos.

Reformation - December 15, 2008 04:03 AM (GMT)

Burn it all.

craig-oxley - December 15, 2008 04:58 AM (GMT)

Yes I agree, the trouble is that right now this is what JTIC/SIS want :(

craig-oxley - December 22, 2008 06:30 AM (GMT)

Greek police attacked by petrol bombs

Police in Athens faced some of the worst rioting and petrol bomb attacks by Greek students following two weeks of protests.

By Our Foreign Staff
Last Updated: 9:48AM GMT 21 Dec 2008
http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/...trol-bombs.html

A laser pointer used by rioters shines through riot police in Athens Photo: AP
The attacks on Saturday night and the early hours of Sunday were launched from a university campus, which police are not allowed to enter.

Hundreds of rioters battled police in central Athens, fire-bombing a credit reporting agency and attacking the city's Christmas tree two weeks after the police shooting of 15-year-old Alexandros Grigoropoulos set off Greece's worst unrest in decades.

Saturday's violence followed a memorial gathering for the teenager in the Athens neighborhood of Exarchia.

The rioters, using the National Technical University of Athens as a base, launched attacks against police, throwing rocks and petrol bombs and erecting roadblocks.

Security forces are prevented by law from entering the university grounds unless the school administration gives

The latest clashes dashed the hopes of the government and police that protest fatigue would set in as Christmas neared.

On Saturday evening, masked men broke into the building housing the offices of Tiresias SA, a company that keeps records of delinquent debtors and cardholders, and firebombed the business. The fire was extinguished but the company's offices were destroyed.

At around 4pm, about 150 youth attacked the Christmas tree at Syntagma Square in central Athens, hanging rubbish bags from its branches before clashing with riot police who used batons on the protesters.

craig-oxley - December 22, 2008 06:31 AM (GMT)

More unrest rocks Greece ahead of key budget vote

December 22, 2008 - 1:09AM
http://news.smh.com.au/world/more-unrest-r...81222-7333.html

Street violence raged into a third week in Athens as protests sparked by the fatal shooting of a teenager fused with political tension hours from the Greek parliament's budget vote on Sunday.

Clashes between youths and police extended deep into the night after hundreds of people gathered late on Saturday in the Exarchia district, at the site of the December 6 shooting of 15-year-old Alexis Grigoropoulos.

In Athens, protesters occupying the Athens Polytechnic university hurled firebombs and rocks at police who responded with tear gas, while police cars, a government building and banks were targeted in various parts of the capital, the port city of Piraeus and the island of Crete.

The unrest flared up after youths gathered on the spot in the bohemian district of Exarcheia where Grigoropoulos fell from a policeman's bullet.

The officer who shot the teenager claims he fired into the air whilst under attack by youths, and has attributed the death to a bullet ricochet.

Investigators scoured the crime scene again early on Sunday in search for further clues.

Meanwhile, the embattled right-wing government faces a fresh hurdle when the budget -- staunchly opposed by unions, and likely to trigger more protest if adopted -- is put to a vote.

The budget makes provision for a two-percent deficit and 2.7-percent growth -- down from a current 3.1 percent.

Prime Minister Costas Karamanlis' admininistration wants to reduce Greece's national debt, which this year stands at 93.9 percent of GDP, one of the highest in Europe.

The conservative leader said last week that Greece expects to pay about 12 billion euros (16 billion US dollars) in 2009 to service its debt, amounting to over 19 percent of its revenue and nearly five percent of GDP.

The depth of anti-government sentiment witnessed over the past fortnight has also cost the government dearly in opinion polls.

For the first time, socialist leader George Papandreou has overtaken Karamanlis as the preferred man to be prime minister, pollsters Public Issue said in a survey published in the Kathimerini newspaper on Sunday.

Karamanlis -- whose government has a one-seat majority in parliament -- has consistently shrugged off opposition calls to resign, announcing financial measures to support the business and tourism sectors hard-hit by the unrest.

Hundreds of shops and banks in Athens and elsewhere have sustained damage in street violence which nearly killed off the Christmas shopping season.

Again on Saturday, the giant Christmas tree on Athens' main square outside the parliament building was targeted by protesters. It was only replaced on Tuesday after the original was torched at the height of the unrest.

Later, a group threw a petrol bomb at a building housing a banking services company.

In a western suburb of Athens, demonstrators threw Molotov cocktails at the police academy and torched six police vehicles.

Groups of youths continued to set fire to garbage cans after dark in various parts of the city.

craig-oxley - December 22, 2008 06:32 AM (GMT)

Firebombing in fresh Greek unrest

20 December 2008
http://news.scotsman.com/world/Firebombing...rest.4811020.jp

GREEK youths firebombed the French cultural institute in Athens yesterday and students marched in a 14th day of anti-government protests set off by the killing of a teenage boy by police on 6 December.

No-one was injured in the attack, in which a gang of about 20 youths smashed windows in the interior courtyard of the French Institute in Athens.

craig-oxley - December 22, 2008 06:33 AM (GMT)

'Greek Syndrome' is catching as youth take to streets

First it was Athens. Now the Continent's disillusioned youth is taking to the streets across Europe. John Lichfield reports

Saturday, 20 December 2008
http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/eu...ts-1205001.html

Europe exists, it appears. If Greek students sneeze, or catch a whiff of tear-gas, young people take to the streets in France and now Sweden. Yesterday, masked youths threw two firebombs at the French Institute in Athens. Windows were smashed but the building was not seriously damaged. Then youths spray-painted two slogans on the building. One said, "Spark in Athens. Fire in Paris. Insurrection is coming". The other read, "France, Greece, uprising everywhere".

It was a calculated and violent attempt to link disparate youth protest movements. Links between protests in Greece and France – and, to a lesser degree, unrest in Sweden – may seem tenuous, even non-existent. But social and political ailments and their symptoms transmit as rapidly as influenza in the television, internet and text-message age.

With Europe, and the world, pitching headlong into a deep recession, the "Greek Syndrome", as one French official calls it, was already being monitored with great care across the European Union. The attempt to politicise and link the disputes across EU frontiers may prove to be a random act of self-dramatisation by an isolated group on the Greek far left. But it does draw attention to the similarities – and many differences – between the simultaneous outbreaks of unrest in three EU countries.

Thousands of young Greeks have been rioting on and off for almost two weeks. They are protesting against the chaotic, and often corrupt, social and political system of a country still torn between European "modernity" and a muddled Balkan past. They can be said, in that sense, to be truly revolting.

The riots began with a mostly "anarchist" protest against the killing of a 15-year-old boy by police but spread to other left-wing groups, immigrants and at times, it seemed, almost every urban Greek aged between 18 and 30. The protesters claim that they belong to a sacrificed "€600" generation, doomed to work forever for low monthly salaries. French lycée (sixth-form) students took to the street in their tens of thousands this week and last to protest against modest, proposed changes in the school system and the "natural wastage" of a handful of teaching posts. In other words, they were engaged in a typical French revolution of modern times: a conservative-left-wing revolt, not for change but against it. The lycée students are, broadly, in favour of the status quo in schools, although they admit the cumbersome French education system does not serve them well.

But behind the unrest lie three other factors: a deep disaffection from the French political system; a hostility to capitalism and "globalism" and the ever-simmering unrest in the poor, multiracial suburbs of French cities.

In Malmo on Thursday night, young people threw stones at police and set fire to cars and rubbish bins. This appears to have been mostly a local revolt by disaffected immigrant and second-generation immigrant youths, joined by leftist white youths, against the closure of an Islamic cultural centre. As in Greece and France, the Swedish authorities believe the troubles have been encouraged, and magnified, by political forces of the far left.

There may be little direct connection between the events in the three countries but they were already connected in the minds of EU governments before yesterday's attack on the French cultural institute. The French President, Nicolas Sarkozy, forced his education minister, Xavier Darcos, to delay, then abandon his planned reform of the lycée system this week. Why the change? Largely because of the events in Greece, French officials say. There was a heated debate in the Elysée Palace last weekend. One faction of advisers and ministers wanted to push ahead with the school reforms (already much watered down). Another faction was disturbed at signs that the lycée protests, although relatively limited, were spinning out of control.

The student leaders were no longer in charge of their troops, they said. Violent elements were joining the marches from the poor, multi-racial suburbs. Far left and anarchist agitators were said to be getting involved. With the Greek riots on the TV every night, and the French economy heading into freefall, the officials feared the lycée protests could spark something much wider and more violent.

President Sarkozy agreed to give way. The lycée protests went ahead anyway. There were more students on the streets of French cities on Thursday, after the government backed down, than there were last week when the education minister insisted that he would press ahead. A few cars were burnt and overturned in Lyons and Lille and a score of protesters were arrested but the marches were mostly peaceful.

Students interviewed on the streets of Paris refused to accept that the reforms had been withdrawn. President Sarkozy was not in control, they said. He was "under orders from Brussels and Washington". The real motive was to take money out of the French education budget to "refloat the banks".

The Greek, French and Swedish protests do have common characteristics: a contempt for governments and business institutions, deepened by the greed-fired meltdown of the banks; a loose, uneasy alliance between mostly, white left-wing students and young second-generation immigrants; the sense of being part of a "sacrificed generation".

craig-oxley - December 22, 2008 06:34 AM (GMT)

Athens suffocates under barrage of tear gas

19 Dec 2008
http://www.google.com/hostednews/afp/artic...KEtLxyfaMgROb2A

ATHENS (AFP) — The Greek capital was suffocating under a barrage of tear gas Thursday as 5,000 protesters swamped riot police outside parliament, 12 days after the police killing of a teenager sparked riots.

Militant youths tried to breach a cordon guarding the Syntagma Square complex, prompting police to use teargas, an AFP correspondent said.

Later, they attacked the city's giant Christmas tree on the square -- which had only been replaced on Tuesday after the first went up in flames on December 8, the third day of rioting and looting.

Greek authorities had earlier this week sent out urgent appeals to foreign countries for fresh stocks of tear gas -- and warned the public to steer clear of the city centre after a coalition of students, teachers, unions and left-wing demonstrators vowed to step up anti-government sentiment.

When the initial attack at the parliament was repelled, protesters came back with a hail of oranges -- before setting cars, bins and pavement cafe furniture ablaze as they retreated towards their rallying point, the Athens Polytechnic university.

Firefighters descended on the student quarter as youths hurled rocks at police -- while a stone's throw away, Athenians tried to do their Christmas shopping.

The bid to burn the Christmas tree was blocked by police, but youths later climbed the giant fir to shower the scene with pamphlets.

More rallies were planned for after dark.

Triggered by the fatal police shooting of 15-year-old Alexis Grigoropoulos, the unrest intensified after the 16-year-old son of a leading official in the Greek Teachers Federation -- which backs demonstrations across Greece -- was wounded in a rifle attack overnight in an Athens suburb.

Hit in the hand as he talked with other students, police said he spent the night in hospital before undergoing an operation.

Police said none of their officers were in the area at the time of the incident, but the Greek government promised a detailed inquiry.

Protest organisers had called for backing from across Europe, but the only reported rally by late afternoon was in Germany, where about 100 people marched in Berlin.

"We want to show that the movement in Greece isn't just about youths on the rampage but is a political movement," said Sofia Bemteza, 29, a Greek artist based there.

Police had cleared streets around the key Athens flashpoints and told residents not to venture out.

At the main rally, banners read "Mourning Is Not Enough, The Struggle Goes On."

Strikes and protests organised by a public employees' union over the Greek budget and anti-racism demonstrations -- which started Thursday as evening fell -- added to the turmoil.

Activists on Wednesday hung banners along the Acropolis monument and interrupted a state television broadcast in a bid to prolong their movement.

Meanwhile, a ballistics report on the death of Grigoropoulos was handed over to an investigating judge on Thursday.

The judge summoned lawyers for the police officer charged over the killing and the victim's family to inform them of the report's conclusions, a court source said.

Preliminary conclusions by medical examiners and experts working for the victim's family indicated damage to the bullet, suggesting it had touched a hard surface before hitting Grigoropoulos in the chest.

The officer, Epaminondas Korkoneas, 37, says he killed the boy by accident. His partner, Vassilios Saraliotis, 31, was charged with being an accomplice.

craig-oxley - December 24, 2008 05:58 AM (GMT)

'Greek Syndrome' is catching as youth take to streets

First it was Athens. Now the Continent's disillusioned youth is taking to the streets across Europe.

December 20, 2008
by John Lichfield
http://www.tbrnews.org/Archives/a2903.htm#004

Europe exists, it appears. If Greek students sneeze, or catch a whiff of tear-gas, young people take to the streets in France and now Sweden. Yesterday, masked youths threw two firebombs at the French Institute in Athens. Windows were smashed but the building was not seriously damaged. Then youths spray-painted two slogans on the building. One said, "Spark in Athens. Fire in Paris. Insurrection is coming". The other read, "France, Greece, uprising everywhere".

It was a calculated and violent attempt to link disparate youth protest movements. Links between protests in Greece and France – and, to a lesser degree, unrest in Sweden – may seem tenuous, even non-existent. But social and political ailments and their symptoms transmit as rapidly as influenza in the television, internet and text-message age.

With Europe, and the world, pitching headlong into a deep recession, the "Greek Syndrome", as one French official calls it, was already being monitored with great care across the European Union. The attempt to politicise and link the disputes across EU frontiers may prove to be a random act of self-dramatisation by an isolated group on the Greek far left. But it does draw attention to the similarities – and many differences – between the simultaneous outbreaks of unrest in three EU countries.

Thousands of young Greeks have been rioting on and off for almost two weeks. They are protesting against the chaotic, and often corrupt, social and political system of a country still torn between European "modernity" and a muddled Balkan past. They can be said, in that sense, to be truly revolting.

The riots began with a mostly "anarchist" protest against the killing of a 15-year-old boy by police but spread to other left-wing groups, immigrants and at times, it seemed, almost every urban Greek aged between 18 and 30. The protesters claim that they belong to a sacrificed "€600" generation, doomed to work forever for low monthly salaries. French lycée (sixth-form) students took to the street in their tens of thousands this week and last to protest against modest, proposed changes in the school system and the "natural wastage" of a handful of teaching posts. In other words, they were engaged in a typical French revolution of modern times: a conservative-left-wing revolt, not for change but against it. The lycée students are, broadly, in favour of the status quo in schools, although they admit the cumbersome French education system does not serve them well.

But behind the unrest lie three other factors: a deep disaffection from the French political system; a hostility to capitalism and "globalism" and the ever-simmering unrest in the poor, multiracial suburbs of French cities.

In Malmo on Thursday night, young people threw stones at police and set fire to cars and rubbish bins. This appears to have been mostly a local revolt by disaffected immigrant and second-generation immigrant youths, joined by leftist white youths, against the closure of an Islamic cultural centre. As in Greece and France, the Swedish authorities believe the troubles have been encouraged, and magnified, by political forces of the far left.

There may be little direct connection between the events in the three countries but they were already connected in the minds of EU governments before yesterday's attack on the French cultural institute. The French President, Nicolas Sarkozy, forced his education minister, Xavier Darcos, to delay, then abandon his planned reform of the lycée system this week. Why the change? Largely because of the events in Greece, French officials say. There was a heated debate in the Elysée Palace last weekend. One faction of advisers and ministers wanted to push ahead with the school reforms (already much watered down). Another faction was disturbed at signs that the lycée protests, although relatively limited, were spinning out of control.

The student leaders were no longer in charge of their troops, they said. Violent elements were joining the marches from the poor, multi-racial suburbs. Far left and anarchist agitators were said to be getting involved. With the Greek riots on the TV every night, and the French economy heading into freefall, the officials feared the lycée protests could spark something much wider and more violent.

President Sarkozy agreed to give way. The lycée protests went ahead anyway. There were more students on the streets of French cities on Thursday, after the government backed down, than there were last week when the education minister insisted that he would press ahead. A few cars were burnt and overturned in Lyons and Lille and a score of protesters were arrested but the marches were mostly peaceful.

Students interviewed on the streets of Paris refused to accept that the reforms had been withdrawn. President Sarkozy was not in control, they said. He was "under orders from Brussels and Washington". The real motive was to take money out of the French education budget to "refloat the banks".

The Greek, French and Swedish protests do have common characteristics: a contempt for governments and business institutions, deepened by the greed-fired meltdown of the banks; a loose, uneasy alliance between mostly, white left-wing students and young second-generation immigrants; the sense of being part of a "sacrificed generation".

http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/eu...ts-1205001.html

craig-oxley - December 26, 2008 02:18 AM (GMT)

Greece: More Protests, Mostly Peaceful

By REUTERS
Published: December 24, 2008
http://www.nytimes.com/2008/12/24/world/eu...OTESTS_BRF.html

After a two-day lull in the worst riots to hit Greece in decades, hundreds of anarchists marched through Athens on Tuesday and a gunman opened fire at a bus carrying 19 riot police officers. Two bullets hit the bus but no one was injured in the shooting, near a university campus in Athens. The anarchists chanted “cops, pigs, murderers” and waved flags in a largely peaceful protest during the third week of antigovernment protests since a teenager was fatally shot by the police.

craig-oxley - December 26, 2008 02:19 AM (GMT)

Shots fired, police car toppled as 2,000 protest in Athens

23 Dec 2008
http://www.google.com/hostednews/afp/artic...C2VRc1B8NBL4XsQ

ATHENS (AFP) — Shots were fired at an anti-riot van in Athens on Tuesday and youths damaged a police car as some 2,000 students marched in protests that have rocked the capital since police killed a teenager.

At the start of the midday march, roughly a dozen youths toppled a police vehicle, with the officers inside escaping unscathed.

Earlier in the day, shots were fired at a riot police van in the Goudi district of Athens, missing the 23 officers on board but hitting the engine. One of the van's tyres also burst.

A group calling itself "Popular Action" claimed responsibility for the strike on Tuesday evening in an anonymous phone call to zougla.gr, the news website said.

Police said they found seven shells and two bullet remains from a 7.62 calibre rifle apparently fired from inside a park that forms part of the Athens university campus.

Greek media said a Kalashnikov rifle was used in the attack.

"All possibilities are under investigation," police spokesman Panagiotis Stathis told state television NET.

Youths have targeted police stations and torched police vehicles in three weeks of sporadic unrest over the killing of 15-year-old Alexis Grigoropoulos by a police bullet.

Around 2,000 university and high school students peacefully marched on parliament, shouting slogans against the police and the conservative government which is clinging to power by a one-seat majority in parliament.

Some protesters claimed that Grigoropoulos' death was not an accident, saying "the government, the cops and the state are guilty" and calling Prime Minister Costa Karamanlis "a fascist" who "can't stop us."

Upon reaching parliament, a group of demonstrators set fire to a large paper pig's head sporting a policeman's cap and dumped it at the feet of riot police.

Meanwhile a group of high school students staged a separate rally in front of the education ministry slated to be their last before the holidays.

The students, who are expected to decide in early January whether to continue their protests over the teenager's death, claim they still occupy about 700 schools and several universities in Greece. The education ministry claims only about 100 are occupied.

Grigoropoulos was fatally shot on December 6 by a police officer who claims he fired into the air whilst under attack by a group of youths.

The boy's death unleashed a wave of anger which initially degenerated into the worst rampage Greece has seen in decades with hundreds of stores in several cities vandalised and dozens looted in the days following his death.

The violence has since largely subsided, allowing Athenians to salvage a narrowed-down Christmas shopping season.

But skirmishes with young protesters continue around occupied university buildings which are off-limits to police under education laws dating from the restoration of democracy from the seven-year army junta in 1974.

Karamanlis's government was already in trouble from unpopular reforms and corruption scandals but the premier has vowed to stay on to help the country steer through the global financial crisis.

The depth of anti-government sentiment witnessed over the past fortnight has also cost the government dearly in opinion polls.

Socialist leader George Papandreou has overtaken Karamanlis for the first time as the preferred choice for prime minister, and a new survey by pollsters GPO on Monday said the socialists would sweep an election by a massive 22.4-percentage point margin over the ruling party.

Further trouble lies afield for the government, with university professors warning of fresh protests from January against a recent education reform and unions opposing an ongoing privatisation drive eyeing ports and Greece's cash-strapped Olympic Airlines.

The government's education reform is widely opposed as it sought to relax conditions under which police can enter and search university grounds.

craig-oxley - December 26, 2008 02:49 AM (GMT)

Riots push Greece to the edge

The riots are estimated to have cost businesses in the capital more than $1bn

By Malcolm Brabant
BBC News, Athens
Thursday, 25 December 2008
http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/world/europe/7798056.stm

Pulsating punk rock was stoking up the black-clad army of students outside the University of Athens, as, yet again, they prepared to march on parliament.

The Stranglers were singing: "Whatever happened to all the heroes? All the Shakespearoes? They watched their Rome burn."

The setting was appropriate: the Propylea, as the university's main building is known, resembles a temple from Greece's own glorious classical era.

All along Panepistimiou, or University Boulevard, security men in upscale jewellers, boutiques and the Attica department store, hastily lowered the electronic shutters.

The guards at the Bank of Greece retreated behind supposedly impregnable bronze doors, and steeled themselves for yet another assault on the symbols of wealth, prosperity and unbridled capitalism.

Since a policeman shot dead 15-year-old Alexis Grigoropoulos on 6 December, daily riots are estimated to have cost the entrepreneurs in the capital more than $1bn.

Economic crisis

In among the hooded tops Arab shawls was a man with owlish glasses and an immaculate mane of silvery, white hair.
The economic crisis is huge and Greece is showing, I think, the future for what will happen in other countries

Panos Garganas

Panos Garganas is a career protestor who has taken part in every annual 17 November march on the US embassy.

That march commemorates the day in 1973 when tanks of the US-backed military dictatorship smashed through the gates of the Polytechnic university and crushed a student uprising.

Whether it is a demonstration to support asylum seekers or to complain about the intrusion of privacy threatened by CCTV before the 2004 Olympic Games, Mr Garganas will be there.

He is a member of the hard left Socialist Workers' Party and is the total antithesis of the stereotypical rabid Trotskyite: unfailingly polite, articulate, and persuasively reasonable in his arguments.

I asked him to apply some historical context to the most serious civil disturbances in Greece since the fall of the colonels' military dictatorship 44 years' ago.

"I think we should see today's developments in terms of 1989," he replied. "Back then, it was the Eastern bloc that collapsed under the pressure of economic crisis, and popular movements in the streets. Now we are seeing the same in the West."
The unrest is fuelled by anger at high unemployment and unpopular reforms

"The economic crisis is huge and Greece is showing, I think, the future for what will happen in other countries. We could say that 2009, 20 years on, will see the collapse of Western capitalism."

I asked him if he was not simply looking at the recent unrest through the rose-tinted glasses of an old left-wing romantic.

"Well, yes, of course. I am all of those things you just said," he replied. "But this democracy is failing people and the present revolt is much deeper, it will last much longer, it will affect society much more profoundly."

"It does mean misery... in terms of people losing their jobs, their homes and their pensions. There's going to be a lot of suffering. But at the same time people are reacting, not in a resigned way, but with anger and with action and that's always hopeful."

The unrest across Greece is no longer an outpouring of youthful anger over the "martyrdom" of a schoolboy in the Athens district of Exarchia.

As Mr Garganas explained, for many protesters it is now a vigorous attempt both to topple the conservative government of Prime Minister Costas Karamanlis, and to create waves across Europe.

European fears

Further confirmation came from the mouth of Petros Constantinou, a bearded firebrand wearing wire-rimmed spectacles that might have fitted Leon Trotsky.
Many of the left-wing protesters want to see the government stand down

I asked him to justify the burning and looting of shops belonging to people not remotely connected to the death of Alexis Grigoropoulos.

"When we have revolutions, we don't drink tea in our saloons, we have fights in the streets," Mr Constantinou shouted.

So should Greece's European Union partners dismiss this talk of revolution as being little more than extremist rhetoric, or is there something more substantial to fear?

The riots have clearly unsettled France's President, Nicolas Sarkozy. He has postponed plans to reform the curriculum of secondary school pupils in case they ignite copycat protests.

"In the name of symbols, they can overthrow the country. They are regicidal," Mr Sarkozy told the French parliament. "Just look what's going on in Greece."

Dominique Strauss-Kahn, the head of the International Monetary Fund (IMF), is also deeply concerned and has advised governments to spend more money in an effort to ease the global economic crisis.

In a BBC interview, Mr Strauss-Kahn spoke of 2009 as "really being a bad year".

"I'm especially concerned by the fact that our forecast, already very dark... will be even darker if not enough fiscal stimulus is implemented," he said.
An improptu public memorial has been set up at the site of the boy's death

"The question of having social unrest has been highlighted by journalists and I can understand that, but its only part of the problem," he added. "The problem is that the whole society is going to suffer."

At present, the demonstrations across Greece are mainly attracting students, high-school pupils, veteran leftist campaigners and members of the so called 700-euro generation - disenchanted graduates who are unable to break through the ceiling of this nation's minimum wage.

The working and middle classes are staying away, perhaps because of the petrol bombs and tear gas.

There is neither a co-coordinated plan of action, nor a charismatic revolutionary leader.

But Greek trades unions and university students are now trying to mobilise sympathisers who are watching the troubles on television rather than participating.

Sleeping giant stirring

Pay attention to the old-fashioned, Marxist-Leninist Communist Party of Greece (KKE). Remember them? If you are coming to Athens in 2009, pack a gas mask with your bikini, just in case

Despite the collapse of the Berlin Wall and the Soviet bloc, the Greek hammer and sickle has never conceded the demise of its ideology and has maintained a consistent level of support across the country of about 6 or 7%.

Since 1989, the KKE has appeared something of an anachronism, but the sleeping giant is stirring.

The communists have been among the more responsible politicians over the past fortnight, condemning the violence and exerting tight discipline over their protest rallies.

Intelligently, they are doing their utmost not to alienate the masses, whereas Syriza, the coalition of the left, supported by younger voters in the last general election, has been accused of stoking the flames.

Foreign income

Pay attention also to Greece's key sources of foreign income next year. If they fail, then Mr Constantinou's revolution could attract more foot soldiers.

Tourism and shipping each contribute around 20% towards Greece's national earnings.
The Straits of Salamis are filling up with empty, unused cargo vessels

The sight of smoke obscuring the Acropolis is likely to deter American tourists doing a grand Mediterranean tour.

The collapse of sterling against the euro means that British tourists, who help sustain Crete, Corfu, Halkidiki and other package holiday destinations, may choose to get their annual sun fix in Croatia or Turkey.

The desperation of Greek hoteliers will be used by British travel companies as an excuse to drive even harder bargains.

This year, during a break in Corfu, the owner of a quaint clifftop apartment complex told me that his colleagues were struggling to break even, as they were only getting five euros per bed, per night.

The crash earlier in 2008 of British travel firm XL has left scores of Greek hoteliers close to bankruptcy.

Some had been waiting a year for XL to pay their 2007 invoices. The demise of XL will mean that some island entrepreneurs will lose two years' income.

If you fly into Athens International Airport, take a look out of the window as you cross the Straits of Salamis between the port of Piraeus and the island of Salamina.
You could get $235,000 a day for transporting iron ore - now you can barely get $3,000

George Gratsos, President of the Hellenic Chamber of Shipping

This is the location of one of what was arguably the most important sea battle of all time.

In 480 BC, the Athenian navy destroyed the armada of King Xerxes of Persia and thus ensured that Western civilisation evolved under Greek, rather than Asian, influence.

Today the straits are filling up with dozens of cargo vessels, rocking at anchor and going nowhere. Their owners can no longer afford to run them.

According to George Gratsos, president of the Hellenic Chamber of Shipping, in May of this year, when cargo rates were at their peak, you could get $235,000 a day for transporting iron ore.

"Now you can barely get $3,000," he told me.

That amounts to less than a vessel's daily running costs.

Greek ship owners, who are amongst this country's richest and most powerful people, can afford to sit on their enormous financial cushions and ride out the economic crisis.

But what about the 100,000 Greeks who depend on the shipping industry for their livelihoods?

Most middle class Greeks have been working 16-hour days to provide the bare necessities of life.
Businesses in Athens are braced for further riots and more damage

Many are now facing ruin through no fault of their own.

So how can Europeans stop Greece's social uprising escalating?

Well, for a start, they could help by taking a holiday in Greece.

Whatever the dire threats of the would-be revolutionaries, the riots are not going to reach the thousands of idyllic beaches and inspiring archaeological sites.

But if you are coming to Athens in 2009, pack a gas mask with your bikini, just in case.

craig-oxley - December 28, 2008 08:08 AM (GMT)

Government and police cars, bank attacked in Greece

27 Dec 2009
http://www.google.com/hostednews/afp/artic...yNLQOpnhfZ5eAaw

ATHENS (AFP) — A Greek government official's car was firebombed in front of his house on Friday while assailants threw a Molotov cocktail at a bank and another group attacked a police car, authorities said.

Attacks on government and banking facilities are frequent in Greece, but they have been widespread since a 15-year-old boy was killed by police earlier this month, triggering a wave of violent youth protests against authorities.

The government car used by a junior environment minister, Stavros Kaloyannis, was hit by a petrol bomb early Friday while it was parked in front of his house in the northwestern city of Ioannina.

Assailants also threw a molotov cocktail at a branch of the Greek Farm Bank in Psychiko, a suburb of Athens, causing minor damage.

In the evening, a group of youths banged up a police car that was passing in front of an Athens hospital, where they had gathered in support of a union member who was hospitalised there after being attacked by unknown assailants.

The police officers fled and no one was injured.

Late Thursday, a commuter train was hit by bullets in the Athens suburb of Tavros. Police opened an investigation into the attack, in which no one was hit.

Earlier that day, seven cars were damaged in arson attacks on three dealerships in Athens while an agriculture ministry building and a bank were also targetted.

The attacks come after three weeks of daily protests over the fatal shooting of 15-year-old Alexis Grigoropoulos by a police officer on December 6.

The teenager's death sparked youth protests which degenerated into the worst rampage Greece has seen in decades with hundreds of shops smashed or looted in Athens and other cities.

The shopowners' union in Athens announced that it would exceptionally open stores in the capital on Sunday to encourage consumer spending in the wake of the damage caused by the protests.

The workers' union opposed the move, however, saying the government was trying to eliminate Sunday as a day off.

The Athens Chamber of Commerce said the protests caused 50 million euros (70 million dollars) in damages.

craig-oxley - December 28, 2008 08:09 AM (GMT)

[dohtml]Linkin Park - Shadow Of The Day
<object width="425px" height="360px" ><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"/><param name="wmode" value="transparent"/><param name="movie" value="http://mediaservices.myspace.com/services/media/embed.aspx/m=20577105,t=1,mt=video,searchID=,primarycolor=,secondarycolor="/><embed src="http://mediaservices.myspace.com/services/media/embed.aspx/m=20577105,t=1,mt=video,searchID=,primarycolor=,secondarycolor=" width="425" height="360" allowFullScreen="true" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" wmode="transparent"/></object>[/dohtml]

http://vids.myspace.com/index.cfm?fuseacti...ideoid=20577105

craig-oxley - December 28, 2008 08:24 AM (GMT)

U.K CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE & WAR
http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...p?showtopic=908

antipope - December 28, 2008 08:50 AM (GMT)

I respect Eric and your insights Craig, but I never see any info about the lie that is Greece?
Greece. The only country in the world that claims 99% ethnic purity. Yeah right.

Language such as Kione and flag was given to this 'New' country and renamed. History has been rewritten for this country in the 1900's? Yet no info on the horrible atrocities from this country mentioned.

Dig deep. There is a lot of gems to find on this country and the imports brought from Asia Minor who were forced to change their names to greek and forced to learn how to speak Greek.

Nice British East India Company flag that greece no uses. (Who is really behind this country's creation and why?)
http://upload.wikimedia.org/wikipedia/comm...ny_flag.svg.png http://www.nationmaster.com/encyclopedia/B...t-India-Company

I would love to know more about this country.

"Modern Greeks are direct descendents of the Ancient Greeks"
(The greatest victims of Greek lies are the Greeks themselves)

How can a region in the Balkans where modern Greece is located today, which has been open to a multitude of invasions, conquests and settlements, remain homogeneous and untouched for two thousand seven hundred years?

Ironically, as the Greeks claim, how can modern Macedonia, a region neighbouring modern Greece be so heterogeneous that it has completely lost its original identity?

These are questions that every Greek should be asking!

Ever since Philip II of Macedonia conquered the ancient City States at the conclusion of the battle of Chaeronea in 338 BC, the region south of Olympus has been without borders and open to all kinds of invasions and barbarian settlements.

THE BIG GREEK LIE: "Modern Greeks are direct descendents of the ancient Greeks"

There were no "Ancient Greeks" since the word "Greek" was not coined until after the Roman conquests, approximately 600 years after the establishment of the City States and approximately 150 years after they were conquered by the Macedonians.

It is also well known that the ancient City States were never united politically and never established themselves as a single state. In fact they existed politically independent from one another and fought each other for economic dominance of the region.

The name "Greece" was imposed on the modern Greek Kingdom by the Great Powers Britain, France and Russia. Modern Greeks call themselves Hellenes (Ellines) and their state Hellas (Ellas).

By using the name "Greek" to refer to both the ancient and modern people, the Greek state falsely implies descent for the modern Greeks from the ancients.

By using the name "Greece" to refer to both the ancient and modern states, the Greek State is falsely implying;

(1) continuity between the ancient City States and modern Greece, and

(2) that there was some sort of political unity between the ancient City States themselves where one did not exist..

In reality the words "Greece" and "Greek" were popularized by modern 19th century writers. There are no ancient maps or references with the words "Greece".

The Romans may have made some references to the ancient people living in Sicily as "Grecos" but they referred to the region south of Olympus as Achaia.

During the Ottoman era the people living south of Olympus called themselves Romeos (Romans).

Greece is a newly created state which never existed before the 19th century. The Kingdom of Greece, occupying the region of Morea, present day Peloponnesus, was created for the first time in 1829. Between 1829 and 1912 the Greeks enlarged their territory to present day Greece, by conquering Epirus, Thessaly and 51% of Macedonia.

At its inception Greece stated out with a small population of less than one million people, most of whom were Albanians, Slavs and Vlahs with a small minority of other ethnicities. By the time Greece conquered Epirus and Thessaly, its population grew to three times its original size. In 1907 it registered a population of 2,600,000. After it conquered Macedonia and exchanged populations with Turkey, its population tripled. In 1928 Greece registered 6,200,000 people. 1,100,000 of them were Christians, refugees from Asia Minor.

After the Treaty of Lausanne in July 1923, and after the population exchanges with Turkey, Greece declared itself homogenous consisting of 100% pure Greeks with a very small Muslim but ethnically Greek population.

It is estimated that after Macedonia was conquered, occupied and had some of its population evicted, more than one million Macedonians still remained and were included among the Greeks.

According to Greece however, there were no non-Greeks left in Macedonia after its population exchanges. Also, according to Greece, the ancient Macedonians were extinct, killed off by the Slavs around the 6th century AD during the so-called Slav invasions.

So the question that begs to be asked here is, "What nationality were these million or so people who remained in Macedonia and became part of Greece?" Many Greeks would argue that they were Bulgarians!

If that were the case, then how can the modern Greeks claim purity and homogeneity if at least 16% of its population in 1928 was non-Greek? What about its Vlah, Slav, Albanian and Turkish elements? Clearly they are not Greeks, let alone being direct descendents of the ancient Greeks?

Even this small argument shows that there is something "fishy" about these Greek claims.

For over a century and a half Greek State institutions, organizations and individuals have been making unproven and unfounded allegations that the modern Greeks are direct descendents of the ancients. To this day they have shown no evidence to prove their claims. In fact the opposite is true. There is ample evidence that proves that this particular modern Greek claim is an outright BIG Greek lie.

This exact issue was tackled by Historian John Shea in chapter 4 of The Great Ethnic Mix of Greece, pages 77 to 96, in his book "Macedonia and Greece, The Struggle to Define a New Balkan Nation". Among other things, John Shea proves that even the ancient people were not homogeneous.

"It has been estimated that in classical times the number of slaves in Attica was roughly equal to the number of free inhabitants, or around 100,000. In Sparta there was an even greater proportion of slaves, and most of them, the helots, were Messenians. While the slaves of Athens were a wide racial mix and therefore less likely to unite on the basis of a common language, these Messenian helots of Sparta all spoke Greek, and had a kind of group self-consciousness. Thus they presented 'special problems of security for their Spartan masters, whose numbers were constantly on the decline.' Changes in the ethnic composition of Greek city-states are illustrated by the comments about the case of Piso. Piso, who had been the recipient of an unhelpful decision by a vote of the Athenian city assembly, 'made a violent speech in which he said that the latter-day Athenians had no right to identify themselves with the great Athenians of the days of Pericles, Demosthenes, Aeschylus, and Plato. The ancient Athenians had been extirpated by repeated wars and massacres and these were mere mongrels, degenerates, and the descendants of slaves. He said that any Roman who flattered them as if they were the legitimate heirs of those ancient heroes was lowering the dignity of the Roman name.' Such historical ideas make it clear that even two thousand years ago the notion of ethnic purity amongst the Greeks was difficult to sustain. The ethnic mix continued over the next two thousand years. As Nicol has observed, 'The ancient Greeks were, after all, of very mixed ancestry; and there can be no doubt that the Byzantine Greeks, both before and after the Slav occupation, were even more heterogenous'." (Pages 83 and 84, John Shea, Macedonia and Greece, The Struggle to Define a New Balkan Nation)

And there you have it!

THE TRUTH: The modern Greeks are not only NOT direct descendents of the ancients, but their Greekness is a myth, a modern 19th century creation.

antipope - December 28, 2008 08:57 AM (GMT)

MONARCHY

...of Bavarian and Danish origin.

FIRST HEAD OF STATE

'Ioannis Kapodistrias'...real name Giovanni Capo d'Istria (an Italian), of Venetian nobility residing in Corfu.

FIRST PRIME MINISTER

Josef Ludwig von Armansperg (a German), president of Otto's Privy Council.

CURRENT PRIME MINISTER

Kostas Karamanlis (an ethnic Vlach from Asia Minor).

LEGAL SYSTEM

Georg Ludwig von Maurer (a German), devised the modern Greek penal code and civil procedure.

NATIONAL FLAG

Blue, white colours and stripes (of Bavarian origin), and the cross (of Danish origin)...chosen to honor the fact that the modern Greek Royal family is...of Bavarian and Danish origin.

NATIONAL ANTHEM

Written by 'Nikolaos Mantzaros'...real name Niccoló Manzaro (an Italian), of Venetian nobility residing in Corfu.

NATIONAL DRESS

The Fustanella (Albanian).

NATIONAL MUSIC
Rembetiko - Rembetiku (Turkish), Anatolian peasant music.

NATIONAL DANCE

Zorba's dance...created in 1964 by Mexican American actor Anthony Quinn (Antonio Rodolfo Quinn Oaxaca) for the movie 'Zorba the Greek' where Quinn, in an improvised effort to portray a heavily intoxicated individual attempting to dance, unknowingly created modern Greece's national dance.

CUISINE

'Dolmades'- Dolma (middle eastern).
'Tzatziki'- Cacik (Turkish).
'Gyros/Yeeros'- Döner kebab (Turkish).
'Keftedes'- Kofta (Turkish, middle eastern).
'Loukoumades'- Lokum (Turkish).
'Baklava'- Baklava (Turkish).
'Greek Coffee'- Turkish Coffee (Turkish).
'Ouzo'- Arak (Turkish).

craig-oxley - December 28, 2008 10:26 PM (GMT)

Study who issues all these flags and see how it all ties up. The city of Athens is tied to the Akhenaton bloodlines such as the Breakspear's and others I will expose shortly. Athens is a power center along with Jerusalem and Istanbul controlled from Rome.

zenmodi - December 29, 2008 08:16 PM (GMT)

greek riots and agents provocateurs

This video shows where the violent groups in greece really come from.
Its mainly agents provocateurs destroying cars, banks and other stuff. The riots are probably just another kind of state sponsored terror to take europe into a police state dictatorship.

Also there was a greek guy posting in a german forum, that he was on a peacefull demonstration with a few thousand people and he catched a big car, that happened came around the corner with some in his opinion agents provovateurs, all black masked etc., they sprang out and made like 15 minutes extreme terror, stepped in and were gone again.

IloveJFKJr - December 29, 2008 09:00 PM (GMT)

From my blog on MySpace:
http://blog.myspace.com/index.cfm?fuseacti...riendID=4832211

Image Number 13 is my personal favorite. :)

* My Response*******
What I hope is that these Greek protesters have not given more fuel to, for and towards the Jesuit/Vatican lead NWO Cabal worldwide police state. And anarchy isn't exactly cool either.

Regarding picture number 7, left and right wing.... that's all pure b.s. Nothing but a concoction made up by that NWO Cabal/Cartel and it's one of their tools/weapons/ methods to control and enslave the people one way or another through different means.
* The Introduction to the Images & the Images Are From A MySpace Bulletin**
---------- Bulletin Message ----------
From: Anti-NWO
Date: Dec 16, 2008 8:00 PM
---------- Bulletin Message ----------
From: frEE faLL ~ Blindstein
Date: Dec 16, 2008 8:27 PM
From: JERM
From: Guinea: The 1930's Smut Peddler
From: Redarted Special Records
http://www. boston. com/bigpicture/2008/12/2008_greek_riots. html

this is an AMAZING story look at it!

2008 Greek riots..
..On the night of Saturday, December 6th, two Special Guards of the Greek police clashed with a small group of young men. The exact details of what took place are still unclear, but it is known that one of the Guards fired three shots, and one of those bullets caused the death of 15-year-old Alexander Grigoropoulos - whether the injury was made by an accidental ricochet or deliberate shot remains to be determined. The two Guards are now in jail awaiting trial, the shooter charged with homicide. This incident sparked an immediate and widespread response in the form of angry demonstrations and riots in many Greek cities that have continued at varying levels to this day - though dimming in intensity recently. Alexander's death appears to have been a catalyst, unleashing widespread Greek anger towards many issues - police mistreatment of protesters, unwelcome education reforms, economic stagnation, government corruption and more.
(37 photos total)....

..A policeman looks toward burning barricades during riots in Athens December 7, 2008.
(REUTERS/John Kolesidis) .....

.....2..

Protesters fight with riot police defending a police station in central Athens, late December 13, 2008.
(OLIVIER LABAN-MATTEI/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....3..

This undated photo made at a unknown location shows 15-year-old Alexandros Grigoropoulos. Some of the worst riots Greece has seen in years began within hours of the fatal shooting of Alexandros Grigoropoulos on Saturday night in the central Athens district of Exarchia.
(AP Photo/Eurokinissi) .....

.....4..

Mourners carry the coffin of Alexandros Grigoropoulos, 15, during his funeral in Athens December 9, 2008. In the outskirts of Athens, more than 5,000 people dressed in black gathered at a funeral for the 15-year-old boy whose shooting by police on Saturday has triggered Greece's worst riots in decades. (REUTERS/Oleg Popov) .....

.....5..

The policeman (head down) who is facing murder charges for the shooting of teenager Alexandros Grigoropoulos, 15, is escorted by police as he enters a prosecutor's office in Athens, December 10, 2008. The policeman testified that he fired warning shots in self-defence when a gang of youths threw firebombs at him, court sources said. A Greek prosecutor ordered two policemen to be sent to prison pending trial for the shooting of Grigoropoulos which has sparked five days of rioting in Greece, a court official said on Wednesday. One of the policemen has been charged with murder and the other as an accomplice. "They are both ordered to be held in prison pending trial," said the official, who declined to be named.
(REUTERS/Stringer) .....

.....6..

A protester holds a molotov coctail next to a burning barricade in athens on December 8, 2008. Fury at the fatal police shooting of a schoolboy, 15-year-old Alexandros Grigoropoulos, erupted in a third day of rioting across Greece on Monday, with youths burning banks and shops, attacking hotels and clashing with the security forces.
(LOUISA GOULIAMAKI/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....7..

Students demonstrate in front of the police headquarters of Athens, on December 15 2008. Riot squads ringed Athens police headquarters as Greek protesters targeted state institutions, while the right-wing government faced new headaches with the re-emergence of a landswap scandal.
(OLIVIER LABAN-MATTEI/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....8..

A riot policeman is immersed in fire from a thrown molotov cocktail after a demonstration in central Athens on December 12, 2008.
(Kostas Tsironis/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....9..A riot policeman in flames runs to escape - the flames soon extinguished - during a riot in Athens December 12, 2008.
(REUTERS/John Kolesidis) .....

.....10..

A protester shouts at riot police in central Athens on Tuesday, Dec. 9, 2008. Athens and other Greek cities were ravaged by three successive nights of rioting after police shot teenager Alexandros Grigoropoulos dead.
(AP Photo/Petros Karadjias) .....

.....11..

Youths vandalize the inside of a bank branch during a night of riots in Athens on December 08, 2008.
(Angelos Tzortzinis/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....12..

At the Foreign Ministry's diplomatic school in Athens, set aflame by protesters, two women wait in a smoking window for rescue by firemen on December 8, 2008. (REUTERS/Nikolas Kominis) .....

.....13..

Athens' giant Christmas tree burns in front of the Greek parliament in Athens December 8, 2008. Protesters set fire to a major department store in central Athens and torched the city's giant Christmas tree outside parliament as anti-government protests worsened.
(REUTERS/John Kolesidis) .....

.....14..

Greek riot police spray tear gas to keep protesters out of the parliament building during a demonstration in central Athens, Greece, Friday Dec. 12, 2008. (AP Photo/Bela Szandelszky) .....

.....15..

Protesters watch as a car is englufed in flames after a demonstration in central Athens on December 12, 2008.
(Kostas Tsironis/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....16..

Young students offer flowers to riot police while others blocked off Syntagma (Parliament) Square on December 13, 2008, following more than a week of clashes over the police killing of a 15-year-old.
(LOUISA GOULIAMAKI/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....17..

A Greek protester runs from tear gas used by riot police while guarding the parliament building during a demonstration in central Athens, Greece, Friday Dec. 12, 2008.
(AP Photo/Bela Szandelszky) .....

.....18..

Protesters clash with riot police during a demonstration in central Athens on December 12, 2008.
(OLIVIER LABAN-MATTEI/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....19..

A riot policeman stands outside the National Technical University of Athens Tuesday amid the thick smoke of caused by tear gas on Tuesday, Dec. 9, 2008. (AP Photo/Petros Giannakouris) .....

.....20..

A youth holds a candle and a red rose in front of the Greek Parliament during a demonstration in Athens on December 13, 2008.
(ARIS MESSINIS/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....21..

A statue of Rigas Feraios, a Greek writer and revolutionary who died in 1798, stands vandalized with an anarchy symbol outside the Athens University on December 12, 2008.
(ARIS MESSINIS/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....22..

A member of the riot police walks near flames outside Athens Polytechnic during riots on December 13, 2008 in Athens, Greece. Small bands of Greek rioters hurling firebombs attacked an environment ministry building, shops and banks in Athens during the eighth day of protests following the police killing of a teenager. (Milos Bicanski/Getty images) .....

.....23..

A riot police officer walks next a burning building in the center of Athens as riots went on for a third day in the Greek capital on Monday, Dec. 8, 2008. (AP Photo/Petros Giannakouris) .....

.....24..

Protesters, unseen, aim a green laser pointer at riot policemen during clashes between protesters and riot police in Athens, Saturday, Dec. 13, 2008. (AP Photo/Petros Karadjias) .....

.....25..

Mannequins burn during riots in the northern Greek town of Thessaloniki December 8, 2008.
(REUTERS/Grigoris Siamidis (GREECE) .....

.....26..

A firefighter puts out a fire started by rioters in the northern Greek city of Thessaloniki. Rioters smashed, burned and looted buildings in several Greek cities, Monday, Dec. 8, 2008.
(AP Photo/Nikolas Giakoumidis) .....

.....27..

A riot policeman is seen amidst a cloud of tear gas fired by police during riots in central Athens, Wednesday Dec. 10, 2008.
(AP Photo/Lefteris Pitarakis) .....

.....28..

Protesters march during a demonstration in the northern Greek city of Thessaloniki on December 10, 2008. Protesters hurled rocks today at security forces in Greece's second city of Thessaloniki and were fought off with tear gas, police said. The clashes occurred as around 2,000 demonstrators made their way towards a regional government ministry office protected by a police cordon.
(SAKIS MITROLIDIS/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....29..

A protester prepares to launch a stone with a slingshot at policemen during riots in Athens December 10, 2008.
(REUTERS/Yiorgos Karahalis) .....

.....30..

Greek riot police go after protesters, not seen, that had thrown molotov cocktails, as fire fighters spray foam on a burning vehicle during a violent protest in central Athens, Friday Dec. 12, 2008.
(AP Photo/Lefteris Pitarakis).....

.....31..

A woman writes the plate number on the hood of her burnt-out car parked opposite a burned store in Athens on December 11, 2008.
(LOUISA GOULIAMAKI/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....32..

A protester clashes with police during riots at central Athens December 11, 2008.
(REUTERS/Yiorgos Karahalis) .....

.....33..

A protester throws a stone at riot police during a demonstration outside of a regional government ministry office in the northern Greek city of Thessaloniki on December 10, 2008.
(DIMITAR DILKOFF/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....34..

Students shout at riot police outside the police headquarters during a demonstration in Athens on December 15, 2008.
(LOUISA GOULIAMAKI/AFP/Getty Images) .....

.....35..

A man's hand drips blood as he stands in front of riot policemen during a demonstration in Athens December 9, 2008.
(REUTERS/John Kolesidis) .....

.....36..

A woman, seen through a shattered storefront, clears debris inside a riot-damaged travel agency in central Athens on Tuesday, Dec. 9, 2008.
(AP Photo/Petros Karadjias) .....

.....37..

A boy stands before a burning barricade in the northern Greek city of Thessaloniki as rioters smashed, burned and looted buildings in several Greek cities on Monday, Dec. 8, 2008.
(AP Photo/Nikolas Giakoumidis)

zenmodi - January 2, 2009 04:24 PM (GMT)

its interesting how very similar the greek police logo, pic 34, is to the ihs jesuit logo. more about greek police in civil as provocateurs and rioters.

craig-oxley - January 5, 2009 12:58 AM (GMT)

Riot police called out in London as protest ends in skirmishes

By Emily Dugan, Kaarina Miles and Richard Osley
Sunday, 4 January 2009

http://www.independent.co.uk/news/uk/home-...es-1224474.html

Riot police were dispatched to the Israeli embassy in London last night as a day of protests across Europe degenerated into ugly skirmishes.

In London Israeli flags were set ablaze and surging crowds were penned back by police with shields and batons. Some protesters were in tears, claiming they were being stopped from leaving peacefully, and organisers said they would complain about police heavy-handedness. Others, growing more aggressive as news of Israel's ground invasion spread, threw missiles while police tried to drive them back. Late into the evening, several hundred were still staring down officers outside the embassy.

The London ambulance service said it had helped one man with a head injury and others with minor bruises after sending a team of 25 to the scene.

Tens of thousands initially took to the streets, even as Israeli forces were firing shells from the border of Gaza. In London, where the largest rally was held, Trafalgar Square turned to a sea of black, white, red and green – Palestinian national colours – as what organisers claimed were up to 55,000 people showed up in the largest British demonstration for the Palestinian cause. Police claimed the size of the protest was far lower.

In the crowd was the singer Annie Lennox, the comedian Alexei Sayle, Tony Benn and George Galloway. Lennox told the crowd: "We are looking at a huge human rights tragedy in front of us. The idea of an air assault combined with a ground war in such a tightly packed area as Gaza is unimaginable. It will be a bloodbath. Hopefully now we will see dialogue, dialogue, dialogue."

The thrust of the protest was aimed at the British government's inaction over the Israeli attacks on Gaza, as the onslaught started its second week. One marcher, Omar Lemrini, 45, helped to carry a fake coffin covered in images of dead civilians and children. "This is the second Holocaust," he said. "It's a question of conscience now."

Some 30 organisations, including the British Muslim Initiative, the Stop the War Coalition and the Palestine Solidarity Campaign, joined forces for the protest. Hemmed in by police, the marchers resorted to the symbolic throwing of shoes into Downing Street. Hundreds of old shoes were hurled over barriers and gates to represent the Palestinian lives lost in the bombing. The gesture echoed the protest by Iraqi journalist Muntadar al-Zaidi, who threw his shoes at President Bush last month in protest at US "war crimes".

David Carr, 45, a nurse, contorted his face in fury as he picked up his battered brown shoe and tossed it over the railings: "I helped search for the people who were injured in the London bomb blast, so I know what it means," he said. Two people broke through the police barrier to make a dash for Downing Street.

The protests were mirrored elsewhere with marches in France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Spain, Holland and Turkey. In Edinburgh and Glasgow, around 1,000 were involved in marches which police said passed peacefully. In Paris, 20,000 demonstrators descended on the city centre chanting "Israeli murder".

14april2000 - January 14, 2009 03:49 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

Wednesday, 14 January 2009

Group claims Greek police attacks

http://news.bbc.co.uk/go/pr/fr/-/2/hi/europe/7828600.stm

A left-wing militant group has claimed responsibility for shooting and seriously injuring a 21-year-old police officer last week, police say.

In a statement sent to a newspaper, Revolutionary Struggle also said it was behind a gun attack on a police bus on 23 December, in which no-one was hurt.

Revolutionary Struggle has carried out attacks before, including firing a rocket at the US embassy in Athens.

Analysts say they fear Greece's recent unrest could fuel domestic terrorism.

The attacks follow Greece's worst riots in decades, sparked by the fatal police shooting of a teenager in Athens in early December.

Link to November 17

Police said Revolutionary Struggle had sent a pamphlet to the weekly Pontiki newspaper, claiming responsibility for the 23 December attack on the bus, the 5 January shooting of a policeman, and a failed bomb attack on Shell's headquarters in Athens.

"The anti-terrorist squad has gone to the Pontiki weekly's offices and is investigating," police spokesman Panagiotis Stathis told Reuters.

It was not clear whether Revolutionary Struggle had given any reason for their attacks.

The anti-capitalist group is seen by some as Greece's most dangerous militant threat, following the break-up of the November 17 organisation in 2002.

The US state department says Revolutionary Struggle has "aligned itself with the ideology of N17" and may have incorporated some of its former members.

It believes the group is behind several attacks, including the 2004 murder of a Greek guard outside the British defence attache's residence, and a bomb attack on the Greek culture minister in 2006.

craig-oxley - February 2, 2009 01:55 AM (GMT)

Unions condemn delegates on crisis

Robin Pagnamenta
The TimesJanuary 30, 2009
http://business.timesonline.co.uk/tol/busi...icle5614520.ece

The gloom surrounding this year's World Economic Forum descended into confrontation yesterday as international labour leaders launched a withering attack on the 1,400 business executives and 41 heads of government at Davos over what the labour leaders alleged was their failure to respond effectively to a deepening crisis of their own creation.

Guy Ryder, the general secretary of the International Trade Union Confederation (ITUC), said that the current financial turmoil had triggered a social timebomb that would lead to deepening civil unrest and soaring crime.

The comments from the confederation, which represents 168 million workers in 157 countries, are the most ferocious example yet of a backlash that has persuaded many who attend frequently to stay away from Davos this year. Yesterday Alistair Darling, the Chancellor, became the latest political figure to stay away from the meeting, after a similar move by David Miliband, the Foreign Secretary.

Mr Ryder, speaking as strikes involving hundreds of thousands of workers erupted across France and Germany, told The Times: "We are on the road to serious social instability, which could be extremely dangerous in some countries to democracy itself."

Related Links
Alistair Darling pulls out of Davos
Davos diary: Daily roundup
Hurtling ride from boom to bust
He said: “Davos does not make me at all confident. I don’t see any of the leadership here that is needed to get us out of this crisis . . . There is very little contrition here.”

The ITUC warned that around the world more than 50 million jobs could be lost this year and that more than 200 million people would be driven into absolute poverty. The confederation said that the financial crisis had arisen because of “rampant speculation and financial profiteering” and that new global financial architecture needed to be established to “support regulation and ensure coherence”.

Sharan Burrow, the president of the Australian Council of Trade Unions, said that the world was now witnessing the human cost of “casino capitalism” as the impacts of rising unemployment and home repossessions and of plunges in savings and pension funds hit millions of families.

Ms Burrow said: “Why shouldn’t working people be angry? Their money is being used to stabilise the financial system, but it is their wealth, their jobs and the welfare of their children that is being stripped away.”

The ITUC said that it was calling on business and political leaders in Davos to agree on a comprehensive recovery-and-reform package to protect jobs and kick-start a recovery, including a coordinated fiscal stimulus, a strengthening of unemployment and social security schemes and emergency IMF loans for developing countries without austerity conditions.

The worsening atmosphere of blame and retribution in Davos came after the publication this week by the Geneva-based International Labour Organisation of figures which showed that global unemployment would rise to 230 million this year, or 7.1 per cent of the world’s workforce.

Stephen Roach, the chairman of Morgan Stanley Asia, said that US consumers were only at the start of a rebalancing phase that would last several years and cut spending and boost saving levels. He said that global growth would be anaemic at about 2.5 per cent for the next three years.

However, Mr Ryder issued a blunt assessment of this year’s World Economic Forum. “The certainties that have defined Davos for the past ten years have collapsed,” he said. “We are witnessing the collapse of an entire system of ideas.”

The remarks reflected a growing theme at the WEF of who to blame for the crisis – an issue that Bill Clinton sought to address at an earlier session. The former US President said: “There’s a lot of fear out there in the economy . . . But I also believe that this is not the time to pick new fights, either. We have to get out of this together.”

It came as Jean-Claude Trichet pointed the finger at financial markets calling on them to refrain from putting pressure on banks to hold on to more capital as that was aggravating the economic downturn.

The European Central Bank President said: “It is not our position, and we will do all that we can to pass the message that we are not in agreement with that. That would augment the pro-cyclicality of the present period.”

Since the collapse of Lehman Brothers last September, investors have been increasingly wary of those banks with relatively low capital ratios, thus encouraging banks to hoard funds at the expense of lending to business and investing. “What the markets are suggesting is notappropriate,” he said and called on banks to resume normal business practices and regain some of their lost confidence.

Private companies “have to get back to a normal horizon of investment,” he said.

craig-oxley - February 2, 2009 09:47 AM (GMT)

Crisis may 'spark social unrest'

Sunday, 1 February 2009

http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/business/davos/7862679.stm

Europe faces the risk of more social unrest unless measures are taken to quickly tackle the global economic crisis, France's finance minister says.

Christine Lagarde said trust in the financial system needs to be restored.

Leaders need to send a clear, understandable signal to ordinary people about how governments were intending to act, she added.

She said that action should be taken by the G20 summit taking place in London in April.

"We're facing two major risks: one is social unrest and the second is protectionism," she told the World Economic Forum in Davos.

"We need to restore confidence in the systems and confidence at large," she added.

On Saturday, hundreds of people demonstrated in Geneva and Davos to protest against the World Economic Forum.

Carrying banners reading "you are the crisis" and throwing snowballs at security guards, the demonstrators said those at the forum were not qualified to fix the world's problems.

Governments in France, Russia and Iceland have faced angry protests from citizens upset by their handling of the economic crisis.

French rail and air services were disrupted on Thursday as huge crowds took to the streets.

Iceland's coalition government collapsed on Monday under the strain of the financial crisis.

craig-oxley - February 10, 2009 01:35 PM (GMT)

Riots around the World because of skyrocketing Unemployment

http://www.videonewslive.com/view/301419/r...ng_unemployment

[dohtml]<object width="450" height="353"><param name="movie" value="http://www.videonewslive.com/movieplayer.swf" /><param name="wmode" value="transparent" /><param name="FlashVars" value="vidpath=http://www.videonewslive.com/upload_videos/1567.flv" /><embed src="http://www.videonewslive.com/movieplayer.swf" FlashVars="vidpath=http://www.videonewslive.com/upload_videos/1567.flv" width="450" height="353" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" pluginspage="http://www.macromedia.com/go/getflashplayer" /></object>[/dohtml]

craig-oxley - February 19, 2009 06:20 PM (GMT)

Remember how the Papal Bloodline wish for dissent and chaos in order to destroy this system for their new facist one. -Craig

PROMOTION OF DISENT ON CNBC
http://www.cnbc.com/id/15840232?video=1039849853

craig-oxley - February 21, 2009 04:30 AM (GMT)

Brzezinski: ‘Hell, There Could Be Even Riots’

VIDEO FLV FORMAT

Brzezinski fears class warfare. Not Mika. Zbigniew. And not Barney-Frank-on-Meet-the-Press class warfare. Real, blood-in-the-streets riots.

Jimmy Carter's former National Security Adviser expressed his concern about the possibility of riots on Morning Joe today. To stave them off, he proposes the creation of a voluntary National Solidarity Fund, whose contributors would be those who made out very well in recent times.

JOE SCARBOROUGH: You also talked about the possibility of class conflict.

ZBIGNIEW BRZEZINSKI: I was worrying about it because we're going to have millions and millions of unemployed, people really facing dire straits. And we're going to be having that for some period of time before things hopefully improve. And at the same time there is public awareness of this extraordinary wealth that was transferred to a few individuals at levels without historical precedent in America . . . And you sort of say to yourself: what's going to happen in this society when these people are without jobs, when their families hurt, when they lose their homes, and so forth?

We have the government trying to repair: repair the banking system, to bail the housing out. But what about the rich guys? Where is it? [What are they] doing?

It sort of struck me, that in 1907, when we had a massive banking crisis, when banks were beginning to collapse, there were going to be riots in the streets. Some financiers, led by J.P. Morgan, got together. He locked them in his library at one point. He wouldn't let them out until 4:45 AM, until they all kicked in and gave some money to stabilize the banks: there was no Federal Reserve at the time.

Where is the monied class today? Why aren't they doing something: the people who made billions, millions. I'm sort of thinking of Paulson, of Rubin. Why don't they get together, and why don't they organize a National Solidarity Fund in which they call on all of those who made these extraordinary amounts of money to kick some back in to [a] National Solidarity Fund?

A bit later, Zbig made his fears explicit.

BRZEZINSKI: And if we don't get some sort of voluntary National Solidarity Fund, at some point there'll be such political pressure that Congress will start getting in the act, there's going to be growing conflict between the classes and if people are unemployed and really hurting, hell, there could be even riots!

Note: This might have been Zbig's first Morning Joe appearance since he sneeringly dismissed Scarborough as "stunningly superficial." Unfortunately, from a selfish entertainment-value perspective, there was no renewal of those fireworks, all parties being on their best behavior. Mika, apparently off on vacation, is certainly relieved.

craig-oxley - February 23, 2009 12:27 PM (GMT)

Police fear UK 'summer of rage'

Monday, 23 February 2009
http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/uk/7905172.stm

Police are preparing to face a "summer of rage" in the UK as people join protests over the economic downturn, says a senior Met Police officer.

"Known activists" were likely to foment unrest, with the recession creating more "footsoldiers" to join them, Supt David Hartshorn told the Guardian.

The G20 meeting of leading and developing nations in London in April is expected to be a focus of protests.

Supt Hartshorn heads Scotland Yard's public order branch.

He is regularly briefed on potential civil unrest.

The officer said that the established activists "would be good at motivating people, but they haven't had the 'footsoldiers' to actually carry out [protests].

"Obviously the downturn in the economy, unemployment, repossessions, changes that. Suddenly there is the opportunity for people to mass protest."

He added: "We've got G20 coming and I think that is being advertised on some of the sites as the highlight of what they see as a 'summer of rage'."

The banks, particularly those that paid large bonuses despite receiving billions of pounds of taxpayers' money, had become "viable targets", Supt Hartshorn said.

The year has already seen wildcat strikes across the UK in sympathy with British workers protesting at the use of foreign labour at Lindsey Oil Refinery in Lincolnshire.

On Saturday, about 100,000 joined a march in Dublin to protest about the Irish government's handling of the country's recession.

Greece, France and Iceland have also seen protests over the economic crisis.

craig-oxley - February 23, 2009 05:46 PM (GMT)

Urban Warfare Drills Linked To Coming Economic Rage

Expectancy of riots leads authorities to prepare for mass civil unrest

Paul Joseph Watson
Monday, February 23, 2009
http://www.prisonplanet.com/urban-warfare-...nomic-rage.html

Urban warfare training drills are taking place across the country as top analysts as well as officials predict a potential “summer of rage” across Europe and America as civil unrest from the economic fallout builds.

Earlier this month, 150 U.S. troops from the U.S. Special Operations Command whizzed around the streets of New Orleans in military helicopters and even dropped bombs in what officials described as a “training event”.

An Iowa National Guard training exercise in Arcadia, Iowa, scheduled for April was originally billed as an “invasion” before public opposition caused the drill to be scaled back. The exercise included Guard troops patrolling streets, searching houses and confiscating firearms.

No less than 2,200 U.S. Marines were also involved in urban operations training in Richmond, VIrginia, throughout January, drills that involved landing troops in populated areas, allowing military pilots to “familiarize themselves with the area.”

Military choppers hovered precariously low over parking lots as citizens were acclimated to seeing active duty military assets engaged in law enforcement style activities.

Watch a clip filmed by a startled Richmond resident who wasn’t even aware that Marines were conducting drills due to scant forewarning on behalf of authorities and the media.

[dohtml]<object width="425" height="344"><param name="movie" value="http://www.youtube.com/v/2iOl3z5mpA8&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xcfcfcf&hl=en&feature=player_embedded&fs=1"></param><param name="allowFullScreen" value="true"></param><embed src="http://www.youtube.com/v/2iOl3z5mpA8&color1=0xb1b1b1&color2=0xcfcfcf&hl=en&feature=player_embedded&fs=1" type="application/x-shockwave-flash" allowfullscreen="true" width="425" height="344"></embed></object>[/dohtml]

Are such drills really for the purpose of preparing troops for foreign combat zones? Undoubtedly - but other factors indicate that the drills may very well also be aimed at preparing troops for dealing with mass civil unrest as the economic crisis worsens.

There's no question that U.S. authorities have been closely observing riots that have toppled governments in Iceland and Latvia and also threatened to do so in several other European countries. The fact that they have contingency plans in place to deal with such scenarios should they unfold in America cannot be disputed.

Indeed, before a media exposé forced them into a denial, Northcom revealed that one of the duties of at least 20,000 active duty troops that are being placed inside the United States would be dealing with "civil unrest and crowd control".

Meanwhile, millions of dollars that were set aside as part of the so-called bailout have in fact been handed over to local police departments and spent on military tools like armored vehicles, unmanned aerial surveillance drones and high-powered firearms for SWAT teams.

In addition, with many predicting that Mexico is on the verge of collapse as a result of the economic crisis and the out of control drug war, Texas officials have already established contingency plans to deal with an influx of immigrants, a program that would only address "law enforcement concerns" and not humanitarian needs.

HR 645, otherwise known as the National Emergency Centers Establishment Act, would mandate the expansion of FEMA detention camps which would likely to be used to detain illegal immigrants as well as rioting American citizens.

The prospect of widespread rioting at some stage this year is a scenario feared by many.

Police in the UK are preparing for a "summer of rage" and mass protests against the mishandling of the economic crisis by the government.

The U.S. Army War College in November released a white paper called Known Unknowns: Unconventional 'Strategic Shocks' in Defense Strategy Development. The report warned that the military must be prepared for a "violent, strategic dislocation inside the United States," which could be provoked by "unforeseen economic collapse," "purposeful domestic resistance," "pervasive public health emergencies" or "loss of functioning political and legal order." The "widespread civil violence," the document said, "would force the defense establishment to reorient priorities in extremis to defend basic domestic order and human security."

Numerous other public figures, including Senator Christopher Dodd, leading economist Nouriel Roubini, top trend researcher Gerald Celente, the head of the International Monetary Fund, the head of the World Trade Organization, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, former national security director Zbigniew Brzezinski, and Director of National Intelligence Dennis C. Blair have all warned of coming civil unrest and global instability.

Considering the expectancy for riots, it would be naive to dismiss the notion that the increasing amount of urban warfare drills taking place across the U.S. are not at least partially to prepare troops to undertake law enforcement duties should civil unrest as a consequence of the economic fallout threaten a collapse in social order.

craig-oxley - February 24, 2009 06:05 PM (GMT)

Sci-fi Raytheon riot control

http://www.yachtingmonthly.com/auto/newsde...2711ymnews.html

What has Raytheon, the USA company that made radar equipment for yachts, got in common with sci-fi riot control?

Two years ago the UK Ministry of Defence's Strategic Trends depicted an alarming futuristic scenario in which middle-class radicals could engage in revolutionary activity with violent 'flashmobs', threatening the authorities with lawless disorder.

There are growing signs that these predictions may turn true. Remember the Greek riots following the police shooting of a teenager? Recently, police confronted demonstrators protesting deteriorating economic conditions and political corruption in Latvia, Lithuania and Bulgaria. There have been smaller demonstrations in Spain, Turkey, Denmark and Italy.

'These disturbances are another consequence of the bursting of the speculative capitalist bubble and the illusion of unlimited prosperity that once sustained it,' says journalist Matthew Carr.

The US military sees the modern city as the battleground of the 21st century. Now it's reported that the Pentagon is experimenting with an array of weapons, including the Active Denial System (ADS), a microwave 'ray gun' designed by Raytheon, which directs unbearable heat on the skin from a 2km distance and is specifically designed for crowd dispersal.

Other ongoing projects include acoustic devices and Pulsed Energy Projectiles (PEPs) which hurl plasma at crowds, causing 'pain and temporary paralysis'. These weapons were originally intended for the urban battlegrounds of the Third World. 'But if Barack Obama fails to reactivate the ailing US economy, they may well find themselves deployed in the United States,' writes Carr. 'The news from Wall Street that US financiers awarded themselves a staggering $18.4bn in bonuses in 2008 hardly helps the new president's cause.'
Next time your switch on your Raytheon radar, watch out!

craig-oxley - February 26, 2009 05:17 PM (GMT)

If you live in any gheto cities riddled with savage primitive blacks then get out asap. These savages will turn on you in a blink of an eye, they are the World's greatest racists when it comes down to it. Their primitive 4" smaller brain works like a cornered rat if their not humping the cat. -Craig Racial strife in the Caribbean!

Britons flee French island of Guadeloupe as rioters turn on white families

February 19 2009
Mail Foreign Service

Britons are among thousands of tourists fleeing Guadeloupe after full scale urban warfare erupted on the French Caribbean island.

Trouble broke out on the island earlier last month after protesters began rioting over high prices and low wages.

But the situation escalated this week after protesters began turning on rich white families as they demanded an end to colonial control of the economy.

The troubles come at the height of the holiday season, with thousands of mainly British, French and American tourists on the paradise tropical island.

Guadeloupe descends into full-scale urban warfare after demonstrators riot over low wages and white control of the island's economy

Violence has escalated on the Caribbean island as protesters turn their attention to rich white families who they blame for their poor standard of living

Protesters were now targeting 'all white people', with the media in mainland France describing the situation as virtual civil war'.

Guadeloupe is a French overseas department ruled directly from Paris, and authorities in France have sent 300 extra riot police to the island in a bid to quell the violence.

Meanwhile, hundreds of protesters are roaming the streets of the capital Point-a-Pitre, looting shops and restaurants, burning cars and vandalising public buildings.

Holiday resorts along the coast have hired extra security to protect tourists, while the airport is jammed with visitors now trying to get out of the country.

Union leader Jacques Bino was the first man to die in the violence when he was caught in crossfire on Tuesday while driving a car near a roadblock manned by armed youths who had opened fire at police.

Six members of the security forces were injured during shoot-outs with the armed youths as they tried to help emergency teams who were trying to save Mr Bino's life.

Dozens more police and demonstrators have also been hurt in frequent clashes on the capital's streets - which one newspaper describing it as looking like a battlefield'.

Protesters ransacked shops and torched cars as the island descends into full-scale urban warfare

Most shops, banks, schools and government offices are now shut in Guadeloupe and the neighbouring French tourist island of Martinique - where protests are also mounting.

Guadeloupe's socialist opposition leader Malikh Boutih said: 'It is shocking to watch a police force which is almost 100 per cent white confront a population which is 100 per cent black.

'All the same elements of the riots on mainland France in 2005 are present here.

'We don't have the same concrete buildings, there are palm trees instead, but it's the same dead-end, the same "no future" for young people, with joblessness and a feeling of isolation.'

The first protests began a month ago when the left-wing union coalition, the Collective Against Exploitation, demanded a £180 a month pay increase for low-wage earners.

President Nicolas Sarkozy sent his minster for overseas departments to the island to meet with union leaders on response to the demands.

But the racial tensions which have been simmering for decades exploded into full-scale rioting, with colonial descendants who own 90 per cent of the wealth becoming the focus of the violence.

The unrest was further aggravated last week when wealthy white landowner Alain Huyghues-Despointes publicly criticised mixed-race marriages and said he preferred to 'preserve his race'.

In Paris, the violence has provoked divisions in Mr Sarkozy's cabinet with black minister Rachida Data acknowledging that Guadeloupe suffered from 'a problem with the distribution of wealth'.

Laetitia Delaprade, spokeswoman at Voyages Antillais, a Paris-based travel agency that specialises in French Caribbean, said: 'People are scared. No one wants to go there and those that are there want to get out.'

Tourism Authority chief Madeleine de Grandmaison said: 'Tourism is fragile. People are not only cancelling this week, but also for all the months of February, March and April.

'We have a huge deficit of tourists ahead of us. At least 10,000 tourists have cancelled vacations in Martinique and Guadeloupe.'

Authorities struggle to contain the anarchy which has swept across the island

The Paris-based Association of Tour Operators has now classified Guadeloupe as a 'red zone', meaning it is not endorsing it as a destination.

A spokesman said: 'Most holidaymakers to Guadeloupe are British, American and mainland French.

'None have been hurt yet but there is the threat of violence in the air and staying there no longer feels comfortable.'

Guadeloupe's Tourism Committee said that the main airport had also been temporarily closed yesterday because of a lack of workers, but had now reopened.

A spokesman added: 'It is very busy. Every flight leaving the island is is full.'

craig-oxley - February 27, 2009 01:35 AM (GMT)

Greeks shut airports, services to protest economy

Wed Feb 25, 2009
By Renee Maltezou
http://www.reuters.com/article/marketsNews...0090225?sp=true

ATHENS, Feb 25 (Reuters) - Greeks disgruntled by their country's economic woes ramped up protests against the government on Wednesday, shutting down airports and disrupting many public services.

Public schools and tax offices shut down, and services at ministries and public offices were suspended, as hundreds of workers marched to parliament with banners reading "No to pension reforms, privatisations and job cuts".

"Government policy ... only burdens workers, the unemployed and the poor," public sector umbrella union ADEDY, which represents 500,000 members, said in a statement.

The strikes are the latest in a wave of protests that have put pressure on Greece's conservative government, shaken by the worst riots in decades in December and struggling with a sharp economic downturn.

After years of 4 percent growth, Greece is seeing its economy sharply slowing down due to the global financial crisis. Workers accuse the conservative government, clinging to a one-seat majority in parliament, of only helping the rich.

"We will continue and intensify our struggle, until our demands are satisfied," ADEDY, which called the 24-hour strike, said.

National carrier Olympic airlines [OLY.UL] said 68 of its domestic and international flights were cancelled and four were rescheduled, while private rival Aegean Airlines (AGNr.AT) said 36 flights were grounded and 23 others disrupted.

The government, struggling with a huge public debt and fiscal deficits, has launched a 28-billion-euro ($36-billion) bank support plan, saying it meant to pour money into the slowing economy.

The strike was the latest in a series of public protests to hit the ruling conservatives. December riots were prompted by the police shooting of a teenager but fuelled by discontent over the economy and high youth unemployment.

In January, thousands of farmers protesting low product prices blocked border crossings, causing 11 days of travel chaos across Greece and hurting commercial transport. They ended the protest after securing a 500-million-euro aid package.

Truckers went on strike last week, demanding a crackdown on unlicensed transport companies and illegal economic immigrants, who they said were destroying goods and fighting drivers in their effort to stow away on board.

On Wednesday, they ended the five-day strike and blockades at the borders with Bulgaria and Greek ports, after transport ministry officials promised to start talks.

"Our strike is over, but only for now," said the president of Greek truck drivers federation, Apostolos Kenanides.

(Editing by Phakamisa Ndzamela)

craig-oxley - February 27, 2009 02:13 AM (GMT)

Financial crisis sparks unrest in Europe

Thu Feb 26, 2009 8:02am EST Email | Print | Share
http://www.reuters.com/article/latestCrisi...LQ87702?sp=true

Feb 26 (Reuters) - Thousands of Opel workers from around Germany took part in a mass rally on Thursday demanding parent General Motors (GM.N) scrap plans for plant closures in Europe.

The global financial and economic crisis has sparked many protests in parts of Europe. Here are some details:

* BOSNIA -- Workers of Bosnia's only alumina producer Birac protested on Feb. 9 in Banja Luka, demanding salary payments and government support to offset falling metal prices.

* BRITAIN -- British workers held a series of protests at power plants, demonstrating against the employment of foreign contractors to work on critical energy sites.

-- The protests follow a week-long dispute at the Total-owned Lindsey oil refinery in Lincolnshire, which resulted in Total agreeing to hire more British workers on the project. Workers voted to end the unofficial strike on Feb. 5.

* BULGARIA -- Police officers, banned by law from striking, have held three "silent" protests since December to demand a 50 percent pay hike and better working conditions. Bulgaria, the poorest EU nation, has been hit by protests demanding the government take measures to shore up the economy.

-- Farmers blocked the only Danube bridge link with Romania and rallied across Bulgaria on Feb. 4 demanding the government set a minimum protective price for milk and stop imports of cheap substitutes.

* FRANCE -- President Nicolas Sarkozy faced criticism from both unions and bosses on Feb. 19 over new measures to tackle the economic crisis. Sarkozy offered an additional 2.65 billion euros ($3.4 billion) of social spending in an effort to quell labour unrest over a previous stimulus package that targeted investment rather than consumers. France's eight union federations called for a day of action on March 19.

-- Up to 2.5 million protesters took to the streets of France on Jan. 29 in a day of strikes and rallies to denounce the economic crisis but the strike failed to paralyse the country and support from private sector workers was limited.

-- A union representative was killed last week and several policemen wounded by protesters on the French Caribbean island in violence over the cost of living. Guadeloupe, a region of France and part of the EU, has been brought to a standstill in February by a general strike over high prices for food.

* GERMANY -- Thousands of Opel workers from around Germany took part in a mass rally at the company's headquarters, demanding on Thursday that parent General Motors scrap plans for plant closures in Europe. Vice Chancellor Frank-Walter Steinmeier at the rally, added, "This is about more than just Opel. It's about the future of the car industry in Germany." * GREECE -- Greek farmers protesting low product prices ended a two week blockade of a border crossing with Bulgaria on Feb. 7 when their demands for compensation were met. Greece had endured days of travel chaos with thousands of angry farmers setting roadblocks across the country, but most have ended after the government pledged 500 million euros ($640 million) in subsidies on products such as olive oil and wheat. -- High youth unemployment was a main driver for rioting in Greece in December, initially sparked by the police shooting of a youth in an Athens neighbourhood. The protests forced a government reshuffle.

* ICELAND -- Prime Minister Geir Haarde resigned on Jan. 26 after protests. The first leader in the world to fall as a direct result of the financial crisis, he was replaced by Johanna Sigurdardottir, who heads a new centre-left coalition.

* IRELAND -- Nearly 100,000 people marched through Dublin on Feb. 21 to protest at government cutbacks in the face of a deepening recession and bailouts for the banks.

* LATVIA -- A new Latvian prime minister was appointed on Thursday after the four-party ruling coalition collapsed on Feb. 20 and the president called for talks to forge a new government to tackle a deepening economic crisis. The government was the second to succumb to the financial crisis.

-- Latvia's agriculture minister had already gone on Feb. 3 amid protests by farmers over falling incomes. A 10,000-strong protest on Jan. 13 descended into a riot. Government steps to cut wages, as part of an austerity plan to win international aid, have angered people.

* LITHUANIA -- Police fired teargas lon Jan. 16 to disperse demonstrators who pelted parliament with stones in protest at cuts in social spending. Police said 80 people were detained and 20 injured. Prime Minister Andrius Kubilius said the violence would not stop an austerity plan.

* MONTENEGRO -- In Podgorica, aluminium workers demanded on Feb. 9 to be paid their salaries and an immediate restart of suspended production at the Kombinat Aluminijuma Podgorica (KAP), a Russian-owned plant.

* RUSSIA -- Hundreds of angry communists rallied in Moscow on Feb. 23 in protest at the Kremlin's handling of the crisis that has rocked the Russian economy, the latest in a series of demonstrations held across Russia as the economic crisis bites.

-- The opposition rallied about 350 people in central Moscow two days earlier to demand early presidential elections.

-- On Jan. 31, thousands of opposition supporters rallied in Moscow and the port of Vladivostok over hardships caused by the financial crisis. The next day hundreds of Moscow demonstrators called for Russia's leaders to resign.

* UKRAINE - Hundreds of Ukrainians protested at separate demonstrations on Feb. 23, with some urging President Viktor Yushchenko to quit while others demanded their money back from banks hit by the financial crisis.

craig-oxley - February 27, 2009 03:03 PM (GMT)

Arsonists Torch Berlin Porsches, BMWs on Economic Woe

By Brett Neely
http://www.bloomberg.com/apps/news?pid=206...rgzo&refer=home

Feb. 27 (Bloomberg) -- When Berlin resident Simone Klostermann returned from vacation and couldn't find her Mercedes SLK, she thought it had been towed. Police told her the 35,000- euro ($45,000) car had been torched.

"They'd squirted something flammable into the car's engine block in the gap between the windshield and the hood," said Klostermann. "The engine was completely destroyed."

The 34-year-old's experience isn't unique in the German capital. At least 29 vehicles were destroyed in arson attacks this year, most of them luxury cars, according to police. The number is already about 30 percent of the total for 2008. The latest to go up in flames was a Porsche, on Feb. 14, two days after a Mercedes was set alight in a public car park.

While youths in Athens protest by throwing Molotov cocktails, in Paris by toppling barricades, and in Budapest by hurling eggs at politicians, protesters in Berlin rage at their economic plight by targeting the most expensive cars -- symbols of German wealth and power.

A group calling itself BMW -- the initials stand for Movement for Militant Resistance in German -- has claimed responsibility for several attacks in left-wing magazines and Web sites, police spokesman Bernhard Schodrowski said.

One-third of the incidents are classed as "political," prompting officers to assign a special unit to investigate, Schodrowski said. No arrests have been made. Schodrowski attributed the arson to "a protest against the world economy and rising rents."

'Quick to Attack'

German unemployment began to rise last November after almost three years of declines. Deutsche Bank AG Chief Economist Norbert Walter predicts the German economy, Europe's biggest, may shrink by more than 5 percent this year.

The worst recession since World War II is fueling anger among youths across Europe who "perceive their future as rather precarious," said Margit Mayer, a politics professor at Berlin's Free University.

"Whether you look at the Berlin events or these anarchist groups in other European cities and countries, they are all making reference to the deepening economic crisis and how the various governments are dealing with them," said Mayer, a specialist in urban social and protest movements.

Some groups are "very quick to attack whoever they can make out as responsible for having robbed them of decent life prospects," according to Mayer.

The Berlin car burnings have been concentrated in up-and- coming neighborhoods such as Prenzlauer Berg, where Klostermann's car was destroyed in May.

'Don't Move in Here'

There, new housing and building redevelopments are pushing out the squatter scene that flourished after East and West Berlin were reunited in 1990, said Andrej Holm, a sociologist at Goethe University in Frankfurt who has studied the change.

Rents that were about half the city average 10 years ago are now about 40 percent above the average, and the car attacks are an attempt to drive wealthy newcomers away, Holm said.

"It means: 'rich people, don't move in here -- your cars will be trashed, we don't want you here'," he said.

Representatives from Porsche Automobil Holding SE, Daimler AG, the maker of Mercedes, and Bayerische Motoren Werke AG declined to comment on the attacks. Daimler spokeswoman Ute von Fellberg said the matter was about security in Berlin.

Berlin Matter

"This is not a matter for the producer, rather it's a matter for the city of Berlin," BMW spokesman Alexander Bilgeri said today in a phone interview.

While Prenzlauer Berg and other central neighborhoods such as Friedrichshain and Kreuzberg are thriving, at least in parts, Berlin as a whole remains Germany's "subsidy capital" almost 20 years after the Berlin Wall fell, said Tobias Just, a real-estate economist with Deutsche Bank in Frankfurt. Unemployment, at 14.1 percent in February, is almost double the national average.

Oliver Kappelle, who moved with his wife and two children to Friedrichshain, is unfazed by the perceived threat.

One night last month, Kappelle came across a "heap of junk that used to be a Porsche the night before," he said. "I was just relieved that he didn't park in the empty space behind me."

Baader-Meinhof

Berlin has a history of political protest, with anarchist demonstrators regularly clashing with police on the streets of Kreuzberg during May 1 marches. Kreuzberg, which abutted the Berlin Wall, is represented in parliament by the Green Party's Hans-Christian Stroebele, a former lawyer who defended members of the Baader-Meinhof gang in court.

Likewise, arson attacks on cars are not new: a Web site, "Burning Cars," was set up to track the incidents in May 2007, one month before a summit in the northern German resort of Heiligendamm of the Group of Eight industrialized nations. There have been 290 attacks on cars since then, among them 55 Mercedes and 29 BMWs damaged or destroyed by fire, the site records.

"I wouldn't advise someone to park their Porsche on the street" in Kreuzberg, Berlin police commissioner Dieter Glietsch told the Taz newspaper in June last year.

As the frequency of attacks increases, Klostermann, a company manager who has lived in Prenzlauer Berg for 12 years, remains unbowed.

“I would never want to be regarded as someone who can be driven out of a place where I enjoy living,” she said.

To contact the reporter on this story: Brett Neely in Berlin bneely3@bloomberg.net.

Last Updated: February 27, 2009 07:37 EST

craig-oxley - February 27, 2009 04:05 PM (GMT)

U.S. Army To Buy $6 Million Of Riot Equipment

Published on 02-25-2009 Email To Friend Print Version
By Steve Watson
http://www.infowars.com/us-army-to-buy-6-m...riot-equipment/

The U.S. Army is to invest $6 million in riot equipment, a fact that has furthered fears that troops will be used inside the U.S. in order to quell any civil unrest resulting from the ongoing economic crisis.

The U.S. Army Contracting Agency, based at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, has a post on the Federal Business Opportunities website, requesting the equipment and has received several notices of interest from potential vendors.

The request titled “84–RIOT EQUIPMENT” outlines the need for hard polyethylene Shin and Chest Guards, shock absorbing Forearm Protectors, Interior leg brace supports as well as knee and ankle protectors.

The ACA asks that the equipment be able to “safely withstand a substantial blow… from non-ballistic weapons or flying debris”.

The Solicitation also states:

The associated North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) code for this procurement is 453998 with a small business size standard of $6M. This requirement is a [Small Business] set-aside and only qualified offerors may submit bids.

Interested vendors include Irish Brigade inc., manufacturers of hunting and safety gear with facilities located in the heart of Kansas City , Missouri. Federal and Military resource company MCLEARVISION, LLC is another interested party, as is Kentucky based U. S. CAVALRY STORE, INC.

In our article yesterday we highlighted the fact that Urban warfare training drills are taking place across the country as top analysts as well as officials predict a potential “summer of rage” across Europe and America as civil unrest from the economic fallout builds.

Are such drills really for the purpose of preparing troops for foreign combat zones? Undoubtedly - but other factors indicate that the drills may very well also be aimed at preparing troops for dealing with mass civil unrest as the economic crisis worsens.

There’s no question that U.S. authorities have been closely observing riots that have toppled governments in Iceland and Latvia and also threatened to do so in several other European countries. The fact that they have contingency plans in place to deal with such scenarios should they unfold in America cannot be disputed.

Indeed, before a media exposé forced them into a denial, Northcom revealed that one of the duties of at least 20,000 active duty troops that are being placed inside the United States would be dealing with “civil unrest and crowd control”.

The U.S. Army War College in November released a white paper called Known Unknowns: Unconventional ‘Strategic Shocks’ in Defense Strategy Development. The report warned that the military must be prepared for a “violent, strategic dislocation inside the United States,” which could be provoked by “unforeseen economic collapse," "purposeful domestic resistance," "pervasive public health emergencies" or "loss of functioning political and legal order." The "widespread civil violence," the document said, "would force the defense establishment to reorient priorities in extremis to defend basic domestic order and human security."

craig-oxley - February 27, 2009 05:26 PM (GMT)

Yes we are raging - against a Government that spies on its citizens while ignoring the crimes of greedy bankers

By James Slack, Home Affairs Editor
Last updated at 11:16 AM on 24th February 2009

Today one of Britain's most senior police officers with responsibility for public order raises the spectre of a 'summer of rage', with victims of the increasingly bitter recession taking to the streets in possibly violent protest.
Superintendent David Hartshorn, who heads the Metropolitan police's public order branch, warned that law-abiding middle-class individuals who would never have considered joining demonstrations may now seek to vent their anger through protests this year.
Thousands of workers demonstrated in Dublin on Saturday. Police fear the worsening economic situation will lead to mass street protests in the UK
Many will consider such a scenario unlikely, or point out this has not been the 'British way' over the past two decades.
Violent protests take place in Europe - in recent weeks Greek farmers have blocked roads over falling agricultural prices, a million workers in France took to the streets to demand greater protection for their jobs and wages and Icelandic demonstrators have clashed with police in Reykjavik - but not here.
But can we really be so sure? The public's rage with the banks and the Government is growing by the day.

Thousands are losing their jobs through no fault of their own because bankers who made millions during the good times are calling in the loans which their employers need to stay afloat.
Homes are being repossessed across the country, but not the penthouse flats and country piles of bank bosses who thought nothing of taking home vast seven-figure bonuses, and consider £1 million a year a modest income.
Protesters expressed anger at being made to pay for the folly of those who caused the financial collapse
The innocent are being punished while the guilty continue to lead affluent lives.
As Ken Macdonald, the former Director of Public Prosecutions says today: 'If you mug someone in the street and you are caught, the chances are that you will go to prison. In recent years, mugging someone out of their savings or their pension would probably earn you a yacht.'
Add to this a second issue highlighted by Sir Ken: the march of the surveillance state.
Ministers have been spending their time focussing on eroding our most treasured individual freedoms, while doing little or nothing to curb criminal behaviour by the banks.

The DNA database containing the samples of hundreds of thousands of entirely innocent people...the largest number of CCTV cameras in the world...anti-terrorist powers being deployed against dog foulers...restrictions on telling religious jokes...

All of these intrusive, liberty-sapping polices were developed while the banks were blowing billions on reckless sub-prime lending.

TODAY'S POLL
Will you go on a 'summer of rage' protest?
Yes No VOTE POLL RESULTS
Close All polls Click to view yesterday's poll results How much better a place Britain would be today if Labour had focussed on regulating the banks and getting a grip on the shambolic, toothless Financial Services Authority, rather than building a surveillance state.

That the public is being watched by Big Brother at every turn is deeply alarming. That the innocent were being tracked going about their every day lives while a blind eye was being turned to a financial sector apparently hell-bent on destruction is unforgivable.

Thus, the idea of the 'summer of rage' may not be as far-fetched as it first appears.

Superintendent Hartshorn talks of the banks, particularly those that still pay large bonuses despite receiving billions in taxpayer money, becoming 'viable targets'. Likewise, the headquarters of multinational companies and other financial institutions in the City which are being blamed for the financial crisis.

It is to their eternal shame that our banks should find themselves in such a position, and that Labour - while eroding the civil liberties Britain has fought so hard to defend over the centuries - was prepared to sit back and allow it to happen.

craig-oxley - February 27, 2009 06:19 PM (GMT)

AS PLANNED, CAN'T YOU JUST

SMELL THE POPE'S, COMMON PURPOSE?

QUOTE

Thousands of police to lose jobs as forces feel the pinch

Chief constables fear crimewave as recession bites

Sean O'Neill, Crime Editor
Francis Elliott, Deputy Political Editor
Richard Ford,Home Correspondent
TimesFebruary 24, 2009
http://www.timesonline.co.uk/tol/news/uk/c...icle5793087.ece

Large numbers of police forces are planning to cut thousands of officers despite the threat of a recession-driven surge in crime and disorder.

Representatives from dozens of police forces contacted by The Times last night gave a grim picture of falling numbers and "significant and painful" cuts.

One of Britain's most experienced chief constables said that forces were being dangerously weakened at a time when a strong police force could be essential to "hold the line". Timothy Brain, Chief Constable of Gloucestershire since 2001, said: "There is a risk of increased crime and disorder as a result of the effect of recession and many police forces will be made weaker as a result of the latest grant and council tax settlements."

Dorset said it would be cutting 50 officers while neighbouring Hampshire will lose more than 100.

Humberside Police has a five-year plan to replace 300 police officers with civilian staff and in Durham numbers have dropped by 120 in the past three years with further cuts expected.

Some 80 officer positions are expected to go in Gwent, North Yorkshire has dropped by 120 in the past two years and South Yorkshire Police cut 82 officers last year. Surrey is bracing itself for "significant and painful cuts" with the loss of 144 officers and staff.

Dr Brain, who must cut 60 officers in the next year, gave a stark warning that the police could be thrust into the front line, maintaining public order in the face of riots and violent strikes.

He said: "The full effect of a recession can take a long time to be felt in crime and disorder terms. Unemployment peaked in 1985 but there was no downturn in crime figures until the mid1990s. In the meantime we experienced severe social shock and it was the Police Service that held the line."

The disclosure of the cuts is likely to provoke a fierce political row over law and order, one of the most sensitive electoral issues. It will also alarm ministers who are aware of the potential political damage to Labour of heading towards a general election with police numbers in decline.

Ministers insist that the police have been given enough cash to keep strength at record levels and that any cuts in officer numbers would lead to questions about how individual forces were managing budgets and staff. Last year a Home Office memo predicted a rise in theft and burglary offences, racist attacks and terrorism. Yesterday a senior Scotland Yard officer warned of hardcore activists "intent on coming on to the streets to create public disorder".

Whitehall statistics show a 0.6 per cent increase in officer numbers across England and Wales in 2008 but those figures mask the fact that 19 out of 43 forces cut officers and that the 2009-10 budget settlement will mean further cuts. The pace of the cuts has accelerated, with 21 forces reducing off-ficer numbers in the six months between March and September 2008.

Barbara Wilding, Chief Constable of South Wales, said she was facing a £14 million deficit and might have to stop policing major events in Cardiff. She said: "We are looking at the worst case scenario and a huge funding deficit . . . if we don't get the money, we can't police it."

News of the cuts provoked Opposition anger. Chris Huhne, the Liberal Democrat home affairs spokesman, said: "Jacqui Smith warned that crime could rise during a recession. If the Home Office is not careful, it will find itself sleepwalking into a crimewave."

Chris Grayling, the Shadow Home Secretary, said: "This has to be the final nail in the coffin of Tony Blair's promise that Labour would be tough on crime. We already have many violent crimes rocketing and crimes like burglaries on the rise again."

Paul McKeever, Police Federation chairman, said: "We are at the start of what could be a prolonged economic depression where crime is likely to increase. This is of extreme concern as there is already a frontline stretch, where officers are under pressure to manage the current demands within the communities they serve.

"To reduce officer numbers is ludicrous and prioritises the pursuit of unrealistic targets over public safety."

Dr Brain, who is national police spokesman on finance, said the formula by which forces had been funded for 15 years was leading to a "two-tier police service". Forces with dense and diverse populations did well but those with more sprawling populations fared badly and were falling behind.

In the latest police funding round, 32 of the English and Welsh forces received less than the average grant increase of 2.8 per cent. Figures show that 20 forces will get an increase of just 2.5 per cent but will have to meet a 2.6 per cent pay award. If they try to make up the shortfall by raising council tax they could be capped.

The Home Office said that government funding for the police had risen by 60 per cent since 1997 and that officer numbers were at record levels. There are 140,000 sworn officers in England and Wales, an increase of more than 14,000 since 1997.

Jacqui Smith, the Home Secretary, said: "There is no reason why police strengths should reduce given the funding for the police under the three-year grant settlement for the years 2008-09 to 2010-11, which we announced in December 2007."

Where the cuts are being made: 'officers are encouraged to buy supermarket petrol to save money'

Durham

In March 2007, when Tony Blair was Prime Minister and MP for Sedgefield, Durham Constabulary had 1,705 police officers. Today it has 1,589 and there are plans to reduce that number over the next two years.

The force lost money when it no longer had to protect Mr Blair but its steady loss of officers is also due to the Home Office funding formula, which many feel penalises constabularies in rural areas. Part of Durham's loss of sworn officers is also due to "workforce modernisation", which involves civilians replacing police in some backroom posts.

Andy Metcalfe, chairman of the local Police Federation branch, said: "We have to make savings, but we don't want policing on the cheap.

"Some back-office functions can be done by civilians but we need to ensure that police officers are not just used as a battering ram when there are problems on a Friday and Saturday night. Policing is about more than that."

Dorset

One of the country's smallest forces, Dorset lost 13 officers last year and there are plans to cut another 50 posts over the next few years. The imperative is to save money, and the force claims that its service to the public will not be impaired. No matter how good they are, civilian employees cannot be deployed to frontline policing when there is a major crash, a serious murder or a violent town centre disturbance. One of Dorset's biggest challenges will be policing the Olympic sailing events at Weymouth in 2012.

The force claims that the national funding formula has taken no account of the effects of Dorset's substantial nighttime economy or the numbers of visitors to the county.

Clive Chamberlain, the local Police Federation chairman, said: "The Home Office recently warned of a likely 10 per cent increase in crime as the recession bites. It is absolute madness to cut officers when we already struggle to match resources to demand."

Essex

While others are thinking about how to make ends meet, Essex is recruiting. It aims to find £27 million to put 500 officers on the street and another 100 into detective work. Efficiency savings are the key. Officers are encouraged to fill their cars at low-cost supermarkets, saving about £50,000. The force is reviewing every penny it spends, including the purchase of 73,000 pens each year. By collaborating on work with Kent Police it hopes to save £2 million. "Every police force is looking for savings, but we think we're prepared to dig far deeper than most," said Rick Tazzini, the recruitment project director.

craig-oxley - March 1, 2009 03:09 AM (GMT)

After the Financial Crisis, Civil War? Get Ready to "Leave Your Region ..."

Published on 02-28-2009 Email To Friend Print Version
http://www.truthout.org/022709F

Will the economic and financial crisis degenerate into violent social explosions? Tomorrow, will there be civil war in Europe, the United States and Japan? That's the rather alarming conclusion that the experts of European think tank LEAP/Europe 2020 lay out in their latest bulletin dated mid-February.

In that edition, which addresses the issue of the crisis entering a phase of "global geopolitical dislocation" in the third quarter of 2009, the experts foresee a state of "generalized every man for himself" in the countries stricken by the crisis. That panic would then conclude in logical confrontations, in other words, with partial civil wars. "If your country or region is an area where firearms are in mass circulation" (among big countries, only the United States is in that situation) LEAP indicates, "then the best way to deal with the dislocation is to leave your region, if that's possible."

According to that association, made up of independent contributors from European political, economic and diverse professional circles, the most dangerous regions are those where the system of social protection is the weakest.

Thus, the crisis would be able to spark violent popular revolts, the intensity of which would be aggravated by the free circulation of firearms. Latin America, as well as the United States, are the areas most at risk. "There are 200 million guns in circulation in the United States and social violence already manifests itself through gangs," LEAP head, Franck Biancheri, reminds us. Moreover, LEAP experts already detect population flight from the United States to Europe, "where direct physical danger will remain marginal," they maintain.

Stock Up on Supplies

Aside from armed conflicts, LEAP alerts us to the risks of possible energy, food and water shortages in regions dependent on the outside for supplies, and it advises that people stock up on provisions. This apocalyptic perspective could be ridiculed had not this think tank - as of February 2006 - predicted the onset and sequence of the present crisis with disturbing accuracy. So, three years ago, the association described the coming of a "global systemic crisis," initiated by a global financial infection related to American over-indebtedness, followed by a stock market collapse, specifically in Asia and the United States (of -20 to -50 percent in a year), then the bursting of all the global real estate bubbles in the United Kingdom, Spain, France, and emerging countries. All that would bring about a recession in Europe and a "very Great Depression" in the United States.

Must we conclude from this that the global crisis could transform itself into a world war? "LEAP's forecasts are extreme, but social violence is arising," concedes Barclays's economist Laurence Boone.

One hope remains, a "last chance" according to LEAP, that would lie in the ability of the G-20 - which meets April 2 in London - to promulgate a "convincing and audacious" action plan. In that case, the world would still not be out of the woods, because - as the experts do not fail to also remind us - a severe climate crisis is also materializing.

Translation: Truthout French language editor Leslie Thatcher.

craig-oxley - March 1, 2009 03:28 PM (GMT)

You can bet 'The Unhived Mind' has been eyed by MI5 so expect it taken down when the trouble starts. -Craig

MI5 ALERT ON BANK RIOTS

[B]Roit police come under heavy attack from Poll Tax rioters

Sunday March 1,2009
By Geraint Jones Have your say(14)
http://www.express.co.uk/posts/view/86981/...t-on-bank-riots

TOP secret contingency plans have been drawn up to counter the threat posed by a “summer of discontent” in Britain.

The “double-whammy” of the worst economic crisis in living memory and a motley crew of political extremists determined to stir up civil disorder has led to the -extraordinary step of the Army being put on -standby.

MI5 and Special Branch are targeting activists they fear could inflame anger over job losses and payouts to failed bankers.

One of the most notorious anarchist websites, Class War, asks: “How to keep warm -during the credit crunch? Burn a banker.”

Such remarks have rung alarm bells in Scotland Yard and the Ministry of Defence.

Intelligence sources said the police, backed by MI5, are determined to stay on top of a situation that could spiral out of control as the recession bites deep.

The chilling prospect of soldiers being drafted on to the streets has not been discounted, although it is regarded as a last resort.

What worries emergency planners most is that the middle classes, now struggling to cope with unemployment and repossessions, may take to the streets with the disenfranchised.

The source said “this potent cocktail is reminiscent of the poll tax riots which fatally wounded Margaret Thatcher’s government in 1990”.

Last night Scotland Yard vowed it was ready to face any threat. A source said: “We do have a policing plan in place and we have riot police officers trained for such measures.”

But other senior police leaders fear the force will be unable to cope.

Were that to be the case, the -Government has a contingency plan to deploy troops on the streets of Britain’s major cities.

A senior source said: “This is a very real, and very serious, problem.

“I can tell you there have been crisis talks in Whitehall about this.

“Half the senior officers in Britain have been warning the Home Secretary about the dangerous effects that reducing police manpower may have this summer, especially in the industrial heartlands.

“We are not just talking about the problems of immigration and British jobs for British worker. We are also talking about mass unemployment.

“In many of our industrial cities, this will not be measured in the hundreds, but in the thousands. With unemployment, comes the risk of increased crime. Some forces, such as South Wales, have publically -stated they would be swamped.

“Others are keeping it quiet, but you can be sure they are trying to make the Home Secretary listen, -before it’s too late.”

The “protest season” is due to -begin on April 1 with the G20 Summit in London next month, followed by the 60th anniversary of Nato in Strasbourg a few days later. May Day is also -potentially a flashpoint.

Ministers cannot afford to allow -latent public anger at Government policy to get out of hand if they are to maintain credibility through what promises to be -Gordon Brown's most testing period as Prime Minister.

The Stop the War coalition, orchestrating the G20 protest, said: "The first week of April could be a week of world leaders will never forget."

The British authorities want to avoid a repeat of the rioting that scarred British cities in the 1980s Then, as now, the country was in recession with rising unemployment and deep public hostility to perceived social divisions.

Today that anger is focused on the banks, with their bonus culture surviving despite billions being paid in taxpayer bail-outs.

This has fomented in the outrage over news that senior executives will be rewarded for their failure.

Sir Fred Goodwin, former boss of RBS, has refused to hand back his £693,000-a-year-pension even as the ailing bank announced a £24billion loss last year, the single largest loss in British corporate history.

Early warnings of trouble ahead came from the furore over last months "British jobs for British workers" protest and wildcat strikes across the country.

This week Britain's most senior police officer warned that the summer could bring a wave of protests orchestrated by extremists in which ordinary people, fired by their own anger and fear at the economic downturn – became "foot soldiers".

Superintendent David Hartshorn, who heads the Met's public order branch, identified the G20 as the possible start of a "summer of rage".

Murray Benham, head of campaigns at the UK-based World Development Movement, accused Supt Hartshorn of "scaremongering".

"Scaremongering from the police will not stop us because the price for failing is too high.

"People are understandably angry about the impact of the economic crisis on their jobs, savings and plans for the future."

Additional reporting by James Fielding

Hosted for free by InvisionFree

View Full Version: U.K CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE & WAR

Title: U.K CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE & WAR

craig-oxley - September 21, 2008 08:26 PM (GMT)

QUOTE

The David Icke Newsletter, August 31st 2008

THE POLICEMAN WAS RIGHT ...

... ONLY 'THE WAR' IS STILL TO COME

Hello all ...

You may remember a Newsletter in March this year headed 'Is the Meter Maid Coming Into Your Home?' If not, you can find it in the Newsletter archive at Davidicke.com.

I also highlighted the information in that article in my presentations to both the media and the public at the Big Brother by-election in July. - click here to see the public event.

I explained how I had received a letter from a UK traffic warden who reads my books and had become extremely alarmed and bewildered by information he had been given in the course of his job, which involved issuing fines to motorists for illegal parking. (Women who do the same job became known as 'Meter Maids' after a Beatles song about 'Lovely Rita, Meter Maid'.)

Here is a summary of what appeared in that Newsletter of six months ago before I put it into the context of what has happened this week:

The man who wrote to me, I will call him 'Andy', has been a traffic warden for some two decades and his job has always been focussed on issues relating to traffic and parking law - nothing else - because that is all that traffic wardens were supposed to be involved with.

All was well, he said, until about five years ago when changes in management brought a whole new change of emphasis. Suddenly, it was no longer about keeping the traffic moving efficiently; it was all about issuing as many parking tickets as possible to increase dramatically the money taken from motorists in fines. Andy said that many wardens left in protest with comments like 'The heart has been ripped out of this job' and 'We are now managed by robots'.

In his letter to me, Andy described how he had been asked to see his office manager for a 'quiet word', during which he was given three cards for himself and his colleagues:

* The first card dealt with his work on parking issues. Fair enough, that's his job, but the other two left him confused and increasingly concerned at what was going on.

* Card number two was a 'Pace' card, which is short for 'Police Action and Court Evidence, with the words that police officers have to say in law when they are arresting someone:

'You do not have to say anything, but it may harm your defence if you do not mention when questioned something which you later rely on in court. Anything you do say may be given in evidence.'

Traffic wardens have no need whatsoever to know this police caution text because they are not in a position where they would - or can at present - use it. Only the police and some other government law enforcement officers have this power of arrest.

* The third card authorised Andy and his colleagues to act on behalf of the local council for the enforcement of various statutory provisions - 'including entering and inspecting premises'.

Excuse me? What on earth has entering and inspecting premises and the words said during a police arrest got to do with people who simply issue tickets to motorists illegally parked??

This was the question Andy put to his bosses when the cards were issued, but he was told that they had been ordered to distribute the cards and Andy should just keep them safe until he was told to use them.

Some time later, Andy met a police officer he knew from some years before. After a general chat among other wardens, the officer pulled Andy aside and said he wanted to speak in private.

The officer said that Andy should not breathe a word of what he was about to tell him, and he was only telling him the information because he was an old friend.

He said that for months he had been on 'special duties' coordinating a top secret operation, meeting with 'top brass' from the police and national and local government. This was happening all over the country, he said, and certain officers had been chosen - or were having to do - what he was doing.

The officer asked for another promise from Andy not to reveal details of the conversation before saying that the government was preparing for what he was about to reveal 'well, well, in advance'. They were expecting ...

'... a war, a lot of riots, a lot of very big trouble.'

The officer said that he understood that Andy and his colleagues had been given a number of cards, one with the Pace caution and one giving permission to enter various premises.

'Let's just say, I know, now, the reason you have been given them is because when all of this happens, and it will, we [the police] will be on the front line with the armed forces and people in your kind of jobs ... parking wardens, security officers, CCTV operatives and so on will be required to do our job.'

'You must be joking, that's crazy', Andy replied.

'I'm not joking', the officer said, 'this is on the level. I am just putting you wise to what will happen, but the main thing is please don't tell anyone.'

So here was a police officer, on the inside of this covert operation, saying that there was going to be a war and that the expected mass protests were going to be dealt with by the police and the military while the normal police work was going to be done by traffic wardens, private security guards, CCTV operatives and so on.

'Andy', the traffic warden, contacted me in March to tell me the story, but his conversation with the police officer happened some months earlier. So this 'war' and the preparations to meet the public response have been in the planning a long time.

A few days after I received Andy's letter and saw the cards he was talking about, the government announced that traffic wardens were going to be renamed 'civil enforcement officers' and their powers increased and expanded to include some of the tasks normally done by the police.

Now, this week, the government has revealed plans to 'accredit' a whole list of 'civilians' to do police work and these include ... security guards, council officials, car park attendants, store detectives, park wardens, even stewards at sporting events.

This is exactly what the police officer described to Andy the best part of a year ago. Two things to stress here:

1.)This is not just about the UK. Yes, in so many ways Britain is at the forefront of the rapidly unfolding Orwellian State, but what you see here is a blueprint for everywhere.

2.) The police powers being given to these people today are nothing compared with the powers they will be given when 'the war' breaks out.

This is a graphic from the UK Daily Mail (www.dailymail.co.uk) revealing the powers of the new 'civilian police' and who qualifies:

There are already 1,400 of these Orwellian-entitled 'Accredited Persons' under the 'Community Safety Accreditation Scheme' and now the numbers are going to explode. All they have to do is pay, or have their employers pay, a small fee for their next-to-no training and next-to-no background checks and off they can go onto the streets where they can stop vehicles, issue fines, take photographs of people, patrol with dogs, confiscate property and demand names and addresses.

It has reached the point where people who drop litter, no matter how minor, are being photographed when they refuse to give their names to these agents of the State and their picture printed in the local paper like a wanted poster.

For the moment 'Accredited Persons' will wear badges on their current uniforms, but the government plans eventually to have them all in special uniforms (in time for the war, no doubt, and black shirts would be most appropriate). They will join the former traffic wardens, now the Orwellian-entitled Civil Enforcement Officers, and the so-called 'Special Constables' who also do police work without the same level of training.

Together, with yet more classic Orwellian language, this little lot are being called by the government 'the extended police family'. 'Family', see; sounds cuddly and non-threatening to obscure the reality of what it really represents.

They are far more accurately being dubbed 'Jacqui Smith's Secret Police' or 'Smith's Stasi' after the notorious East German Stasi secret police and the British Home Secretary who is officially behind the policy, but, of course, isn't in truth.

As I have been stressing all these years, the few can't control the many unless the many control each other and that is what this is all about - to get people from the masses to control the masses.

Every dictatorship and tyranny from Hitler to Stalin to Mugabe to any other you can name has imposed its will on the people through inadequate idiots from within the people. And there is never a shortage of takers anywhere in the world, which is why there can be so many tyrannical regimes.

What kind of mentality will want to take up the government's offer to become an 'Accredited Person' and a member of the 'British Secret Police'? The very people who should not be allowed within a million miles of any position that involves power over others.

They will be the bullies and the mentally and emotionally insecure who seek power over others to feed their sense of self when what they really need is a good therapist; they will be the robots for whom the rule book is their brain and they will be the masochists who will use the job to feed their fetish for domination and control.

And, of course, the Shadow People behind the useful idiots like the above Jacqui Smith know exactly what sort of personalities the job will attract. That's the idea, to set loose on the people the most emotionally-retarded expressions of the people; to turn neighbour against neighbour, family against family. It's called divide and rule.

I live on a small Island with only 140,000 people and yet I have seen a dramatic increase in uniforms and luminous jackets this past seven years as the number of council enforcers has constantly expanded. When I see the mentality of these people, some with no observable evidence of neuron activity, it beggars belief that they are now being offered ever more powers to inflict themselves on other peoples' lives.

But, this is the irony. They actually have no power themselves at all. The uniform or the badge has the power, not them. When they take off the uniform or leave the job they leave their 'power' behind because they never had it in the first place - the uniform did.

And the uniform is what? An extension of the State. That's all these people are - extensions of the State, which, in turn, is an extension of the Shadow People manipulating the direction of human society.

What they should be called are 'Accredited Pawns'. If they were, how many takers would there be then? Next to none, so those who are emotionally sick enough to desire power over others must go on deluding themselves that they have power when they have none. Pathetic pawns is all they are, though few of them will ever see it - the 'cognitive dissonance' I wrote about last week will make sure of that.

Without such people the few simply cannot control the many. They are the enforcers of State power, which is the enforcer of Shadow People power, and now those in the shadows are making their final plays in their long-planned goal of global domination.

The 'Accredited Person' scam is also designed to bring into the realm of public control the endless 'private security firms' who, when you dig deep enough, so often turn out to be owned by the same people who own the governments. These private companies are being encouraged by the government to get involved with this 'Accredited Persons' scheme to 'boost their profile'. Oh, I think the motivation goes just a touch further than that.

There are the official armies and the private armies and given that both are controlled ultimately by the same force they form, in fact, one army, the army of the Shadow People.

So here we are, and I can't say it too often or loudly enough, at the crossroads for human society. What I have been warning about for so long is now daily experience and yet still the vast majority call for the sand and the bucket.

At the Big Brother by-election media conference in July I told the 'journalists' the story of the traffic warden and what his police officer friend said was going to happen. This week it happened and yet my phone has not rung with a single journalist asking for more information.

Irony, of ironies, a newspaper that broke the 'Accredited Persons' story was the London Daily Mail and in the audience at my by-election media conference last month was a Daily Mail 'star' called Quentin Letts. He wrote at the time that what I had said about Big Brother, including, therefore, the traffic warden's tale, was 'nonsense, of course'.

So much nonsense, in fact, that this week confirmation of its validity was blazed across the front page of his own newspaper.

Once again, as with the Big Brother by-election and the truly useless 'civil rights' group, Liberty, the media blamed the 'authoritarian Labour government' for the introduction of Orwell's Britain - not able, or not willing, to see that we are looking at Global Big Brother and the 'Labour government' is just a servile cog in its machine.

When the 'opposition' Conservative Party come to 'power' they will simply continue the expansion of the Big Brother society, not least because they are now, through organisations like the Henry Jackson Society, an arm of the Neocon network in the United States, which has been the puppeteer behind Bush these last eight years and before.

But 'It's the Labour government' provides the diversion to camouflage Global Big Brother.

For the last nearly two decades I have felt like someone watching a road traffic accident in slow motion. You can see the outcome, but the guy about to cross the road in front of the truck is laughing at you and saying of your warning: 'It's nonsense, of course'.

There is only one thing left to happen in what the police officer told 'Andy' and that is the war that he said all this was leading to. It is the war I have long warned is planned to create the global turmoil and catastrophe designed to justify a world government and army to 'stop such a war ever happening again'.

But, naturally, those who are behind the war will be behind the creation of a fascist world government and army 'to stop such a war happening again' - Problem-Reaction-Solution.

What is happening with regard to the United States, NATO and Russia in Georgia and the ongoing manufactured dispute with Iran are all part of the build-up to the engineered conflict that will also involve China at some point. I am not saying it will happen tomorrow, but nor do I say it is a long time away.

What is for sure is that as you see the British secret police network, sorry 'extended police family', getting ever larger with ever more powers, the ever-closer we will be to the war and thus the public response that these manipulations are designed to quell.

How much longer before we 'get' it? How much longer before we 'get' it and then do something about it? How much longer before we have a mass campaign of non-violent, non-cooperation that will show where the real power lies - with ourselves?

We can only be enslaved with OUR cooperation and we need to stop cooperating NOW.

But what if we don't act and instead do nothing?

Tick, tick, tick ...

... 'They say they're using child protection laws to impose Big Brother, honey, what is the world coming to? What's on the TV tonight, honey, is there a game show on ...?'

Tick, tick, tick ...

... 'They say they're giving the tax people the power to come in our homes, honey, what is the world coming to? What's on the TV tonight, honey, is there a game show on ...?'

Tick, tick, tick ...

... 'They say they're creating a Stasi secret police in our own community, honey, what is the world coming to? What's on the TV tonight, honey, is there a game show on ...?'

Tick, tick, tick ...

'... Hey, honey, I just heard a knock on the door. Who can that be?'

QUOTE

David Icke's information on the Traffic Wardens has been interesting and I fully believe it to be all true. I just wonder if the trouble is going to start shortly or more likely 2010 as expected from the Ministry of Defense documents, just the same as the U.S Department of Defense expects there. I then wonder if rather than Iran as such, it's more linked to the final World War with Russia. We're seeing this pan out right now as the Maltese Knights continue their play acting movie controlling both sides. Remember the film by Arthur C Clarke, 2010. In this film we see the second Sun created from the explosion. We also note it was just prior to this that the corporation United States goes to war with Russia. Seems to all tie in when we realise that Jesuit named Cassini probe will now be finished in 2010 after having a two year additional service added. Remember NASA is controlled by the Maltese Knights, through their Defense Industrial Command Security and FBI Division #5 both headquartered in Denver, Colorado. All riddled with ex-Nazi's and descendants. All thanks of course to the Dragon Ratlines put forth by the Divine Dragon (Vatican). The head of the Brotherhood of the Dragon. -Craig Oxley

QUOTE

Now I know why they were so keen on increasing the numbers of traffic wardens in the UK. Where I live, its crawling with traffic wardens.

QUOTE

Yes that may be one of the reasons but remember how we have to pay off the national debt. What with? We make almost nothing anymore thanks to Babylonian Piracy known as free trade thanks to the likes of the originator, Adam Smith (on English currency) who was part of the British East India Company. Lets not forget the modern pirate known as Milton Friedman from the Mont Pelerin Society. So basically they have to earn this money through things like traffic, bins etc etc. Eventually in the post industrial zero growth society, all you'll have is tittle tackle jobs spying on people and inspecting. The only other jobs will be cleaning (eventually computerised) and warehouse, driving (eventually computerised). Why do you think they have these self serve tills in Tesco? All gearing up for the society that lives off United Nations credits handed to them at a fixed rate monthly. All whilst the corporations steal your unlimited credit from your Maritime birth certificate whilst keeping how you can do it a secret and again fixing a limit to your credits. I've been in Tesco with just a couple of items, I've gone to a sovereign spiritual being for serving. I've had them a couple of times tell me it would have been quicker for me in the self serve tills. Well I told them "thats doing yourselves out of a job!" The same cashier will look at you as if your dumb, then maybe suddenly realise their jobs at risk. Reminds me of Alex "CIA" Jones when he went through that toll road which was half automated. He did the same with the profane feminine being on the till. She did exactly the same as what I've noticed in Tesco. These people are totally on another planet called Illusion. Anyhow I've noticed a big increase in traffic wardens here in the West Midlands. Get ready folks. With the amount of profane savage blacks and asians we have here, God help us when the crap starts to fly. Most of these people act on simply animal instincts as it is, let alone when trouble starts. Exactly the scenario that British SIS wishes of course. Just watch that socialist tyrannical clampdown when their ready of course. Whilst the profane sheople accept it simply to get rid of all the worry and hassles. Old tricks, nothing new and very stale. I can see and smell the mould. -CRAIG

QUOTE

April 13, 2007 Alan Watt blurb
Pathocrats' Conspiracy AGENDA for Upcoming Generation" (from Ministry of Defence) - mp3 - transcript

In the mp3/transcript above Watt discusses a document released by the Ministry of Defense, mentioned in The Guardian, which discusses a brainchipped population by 2035, "flashmobs", revolutionary middle classes, and the possible use of neutron bombs on the population

Someone madea video corresponding to this blurb and put it on Google Video:

Flashmobs, Revolutions and brainchips (42mins)
http://video.google.com/googleplayer.swf?d...855892537509598

QUOTE

I had a feeling rather than War this may be just for Economic Collapse procedures. Of course the two can go hand in hand right now. -Craig

Community Support officers could do more police work

Community support officers should do more police work in order to save money, Home Office officials have suggested.

By Jon Swaine
Last Updated: 10:14PM BST 02 Sep 2008
http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/2666333/Co...olice-work.html

In a further disclosure from a leaked letter to the Prime Minister from the Home Secretary, it is proposed that police community support officers (PCSOs), who receive less training and are paid less than full police officers, be used as a cost-effective way to fight the increase in crime that it predicts will result from the economic downturn.

A paragraph removed from the later draft of the letter reads: "We have a robust position on expecting the police service to maximise efficiency gains including workforce reforms that will also see changes to workforce mix, of the kind that will reduce cost pressures eg greater deployment for suitable tasks of grades such as PCSOs that are cheaper than Police Officers."

The Conservatives said the latest passage disclosed the true attitudes and priorities of Home Office staff.

Dominic Grieve, the shadow home secretary, said: "While PCSOs have a role to play they are no substitute for real officers. The Government should be cutting red tape so what officers we do have can spend more time on the beat."

Tony McNulty, a Home Office minister, who earlier confirmed it was "blindingly obvious" that crime would rise in an economic downturn, denied that there would be any reduction in police numbers. He said that he would have removed any such suggestion from the letter.

A Home Office spokesman said: "The facts are that PCSOs play a vital role in Neighbourhood Policing teams and are an established and much valued presence in local communities. The Government is totally committed to supporting both PCSOs and police constables now and in the future to build on a decade of crime fighting success."

QUOTE

GLOBAL ECONOMIC COLLAPSE SEPT-OCT 2008

http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...php?showtopic=9

QUOTE

US Treasury Strategic Directions 2009 through 2011 (July,2008) from the Office of Intelligence and Analysis
PDF FORMAT

UK Ministry of Defence "Development, Concepts and Doctrine Center" http://www.millennium-project.org/millenni...tated-scen.html

craig-oxley - September 21, 2008 08:32 PM (GMT)

Community 'army' to back police

Sunday, 21 September 2008 17:17 UK
http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/uk/7627746.stm

Thousands of "community crime fighters" are to be trained as part of a £5m package, Home Secretary Jacqui Smith has promised.

She told the Labour Party conference that 3,600 volunteers would act as a link between the public and police.

Ms Smith also announced new measures to tackle prostitution and stop youngsters joining gangs or carrying knives.

Earlier, Prime Minister Gordon Brown had said violent crime and theft could rise because of the economic downturn.

Ms Smith said the new volunteers would tell police officers what people's main concerns were, giving community groups a stronger voice in how crime was tackled in their locality.

"I can announce new funding for an army of community crime fighters, to back up the unsung heroes who want to turn the tables on graffiti, on yobs and on violent crime," she said.

"We'll give them the skills and training they need to get results. One for every neighbourhood policing team, a local voice, a direct link."

First offence

Meanwhile, men looking to pick up prostitutes on the street will be breaking the law the first time they try, she said. Currently only repeat offenders can be charged.

"In my book, once around the block is once too many," she said.

Ms Smith added that police and councils would get new powers to shut brothels, while communities would have a "stronger say" in stopping new lap dancing clubs from opening.

Community groups in 10 areas will get £3.8m to divert teenagers from joining gangs and discourage them from carrying guns or knives.

The money will be used to fund mentoring schemes and outreach programmes, as well as provide activities for youngsters on Friday and Saturday nights.

The home secretary told the conference: "These measures all have one thing in common - they build confidence in the power of communities to come together and to deal with the problems that they face."

Mr Brown had written in the News of the World that the government would have to "step up our efforts" to tackle crime.

A leaked Home Office memo earlier this month warned tough economic circumstances could prompt a rise in crime, racial tension and terrorism.

Tough policing

Mr Brown said "tough policing, tough penalties and united communities" were needed to keep crime down.

He said: "We know that, historically, in tough economic times, there has been a rise in crimes of violence and theft.

"So just as we are acting to protect the economic security of the country, we must also step up our efforts to tackle crime and keep people safe on their streets and in their homes."

He also outlined Labour's plans to increase police numbers to record levels, reduce red tape, encourage harsher sentencing and introduce local police teams to each community in England.

Mr Brown also called on ordinary citizens to support the authorities in the fight against crime.

"It requires every person in every community to come together and work with the police to drive out crime and violence."

The leaked Home Office memo was a draft letter to Downing Street, which said rising property crime and violent crime, and increased hostility to migrants, were likely.

It also forecast more smuggling of fuel, alcohol and tobacco.

The Home Office said the letter was draft advice which had not been cleared by the home secretary and had not been sent to Number 10.

Analysis carried out by the Observer newspaper found 19 out of 31 police forces in England and Wales had experienced rises in burglaries over the past year.

craig-oxley - September 28, 2008 01:08 AM (GMT)

Janet Street-Porter: Get these fake police officers off our streets

Thursday, 28 August 2008
http://www.independent.co.uk/opinion/comme...ets-910680.html

Jacqui Smith, the Home Secretary, wants to give the impression that she has increased the number of police on our streets – but has she? Last week, she announced 6,000 more special constables, although recruitment of the more controversial community support officers seems to have slowed. Special constables receive only expenses. Some would say they represent policing on the cheap. Police community support officers (PCSOs) have more limited powers. Although they work in a cosmetic fashion by offering someone in a uniform walking the streets, you have only to spend five minutes talking to one to realise they are completely ineffectual, having no powers of arrest.

Contact with my local PCSO office is by answering machine. The latest addition to this "extended family" of quasi-police officers are "accredited workers" – but the people concerned do not wear a uniform we might readily recognise, and could just be the geezer minding the car park who turns out to have the authority to demand my name and address, and then issues me with a fine if I am stroppy.

More worryingly, different standards are being used to check accredited workers. These "quasi-bobbies" operate in 33 out of the 43 police forces in England and Wales – and recruiting methods vary wildly. Some applicants merely submit to an enhanced Criminal Records Bureau check, others have their financial records inspected as well as being investigated for terrorist links.

Accredited workers wear a whole variety of uniforms, carry different ID cards and have an assortment of badges. What a recipe for disaster! These men and women can "deal" with begging, require us to identify ourselves and issue penalty notices for a wide range of offences – from graffiti to dog mess, litter, truancy and cycling on a pavement. They can issue penalties for disorder and control underage drinking. These fake bobbies have the authority (not granted to plain-clothed police officers) to order me to stop driving my car and are employed in a wide variety of jobs, ranging from park wardens, hospital security staff and council workers to guards in shopping malls and leisure centres.

These fake coppers blur the job we thought real policemen did, wear an instantly recognisable uniform and enforce the law in a consistent way. News of this new branch of Ms Smith's "extended police family" was greeted with contempt by the Police Federation, which called it "half-baked", while the former shadow Home Secretary, David Davis, described the initiative as "lazy". There are plenty of jobs we should release from the police – fines for littering and dog mess should be handled by people like traffic wardens – but the precedent already exists. It is completely unacceptable for private security firms which patrol pubs, shopping malls and leisure centres to start issuing fines and handing personal details to police. What we need are more police officers on the beat, enforcing existing laws, not a new army of law-enforcers with limited training in crowd control and dangerous situations. The police need fewer targets and less paperwork, releasing them to get on with the job on the street, instead of sitting on their backsides.

In July, two uniformed police were attacked one Wednesday by a group of 30 people after an officer ordered a 14-year-old girl to pick up litter she had dropped in Croydon. One officer was so badly bitten he had to be taken to hospital. The other was severely bruised. In that situation, would "accredited" security officers have been able to deal with the ensuing mayhem? I think not.

Dark side of a myth

What's in a name? Seriously ill with a brain tumour, he received an enthusiastic welcome at the Democrat Convention – but how will history judge Ted Kennedy? Just before they separated in 1978, I lunched with Ted and his wife Joan at a friend's house in Cape Cod. Joan was drinking heavily, homing in on my then-husband to discuss classical music (she was a talented pianist), while Ted – with a reputation as a serial flirt – was garrulous and charming, talking about local politics.

He had survived the Mary Jo Kopechne scandal nine years before, when a car he was driving crashed off a bridge near Chappaquiddick in the middle of the night, drowning his female companion. Ted swam to safety and went home, and later received a two-month suspended jail term for failing to report an accident. The judge found that negligent driving contributed to the crash, but Ted escaped manslaughter charges.

Joan suffered a third miscarriage shortly afterwards, and has endured a long struggle fighting alcoholism since she divorced Ted in 1982. Joan's children became her legal guardians amid concerns about her mental state, and she was found concussed in the street in Boston in 2005, having surgery for breast cancer a month later. Their son Patrick entered rehab for addiction to painkillers (after being stopped by police and charged with three driving offences) in May 2006. Ted still basks in the limelight, but poor Joan is a potent reminder of the dark side of the Kennedy myth.

Oh rid me of these fluttering pests

Each night this week, The One Show on BBC1 has been screening films about five of our best-known butterflies. The recent cold, wet summers have seen a decline in numbers, but one species that has bucked the trend is the cabbage white. I hate this flying pest with a vengeance. I have been known to capture them with my bare hands, trying to divert them from my precious vegetable patch by flapping my arms like a demented Worzel Gummidge. I have a rabbit-proof fence and two separate layers of netting over my lovingly nurtured brassicas. All are powerless to stop this determined butterfly, which has spawned an army of furry yellow caterpillars. Immune to bug repellents, they are methodically reducing my cabbages to filigree lace.

* I had to laugh when I heard Jeremy Paxman was at the Edinburgh Television Festival whingeing about hard-done-by, white, middle-aged men who cannot get anywhere in television. Every time I appear on Question Time, the rest of the panel generally fits that category, as does the presenter. I think Paxman has been reading the McTaggart lecture I gave to the same festival in 1995, when I complained about the "M people" – male, middle-aged and mediocre – who seemed (to me and most women I knew) to dominate the media. Has a revolution taken place in the past 30 years? Hardly. Get a life, Paxo.

craig-oxley - October 21, 2008 11:12 PM (GMT)

4th Mechanized Brigade relocates back to UK, after 27 years in Germany
http://z10.invisionfree.com/The_Unhived_Mi...?showtopic=3260

craig-oxley - November 6, 2008 02:51 AM (GMT)

-O- British troops are deployed overseas to keep them out of the UK whilst country is dismantled.

Readers Comments 05/11/2008

http://cpexposed.com/news.php

As the lady in red has commented it is becoming increasingly apparent that British regular Army and Royal Marine units are being deployed in Iraq and Afghanistan to keep them out of UK whilst the country is dismantled from within and handed over to the European Union. Similar degradation to Royal Navy and now nlp in nuclear submarines. See archives Military. The commitment of reserve forces overseas is designed to ensure that UK troops will not be available to help contain violence on the streets, which is the next phase of the EU subversion plan. Unable to cope on their own, and with the UK Army overseas, the UK police forces will be supplemented by armed European police (operating under military law), and above the law. Once here they will never leave. Penetration by common purpose into Ministry of Defence and operational higher staff, human resource and procurement staffs will ensure that common sense decision making will be blurred and obfuscated to promote the new socio political common purpose. Is government backed Common Purpose nlp training really helping to diffuse Muslim militancy? Look in the mirror. Does diversity training divide?

The betrayal of troops wounded and seriously injured in Iraq and Afghanistan and the dismantlement of quality military medical treatment facilities in UK has been designed to help destroy morale of those injured and those fighting. Are treatment clinics safe? Is nlp part of therapy? Which private firms and individuals have been given responsibility for helping these vulnerable individuals? Is the rank kernel of the matter a voice to push some over the edge? Some informed would say so.

craig-oxley - November 10, 2008 07:39 AM (GMT)

UK May Hire Foreign Soldiers To Police Country

11-02-2008
http://www.guardian.co.uk/politics/2008/no...l-crime-officer

Scotland Yard will urge the government this week to grant Gurkhas the right to remain in Britain as the Metropolitan Police seeks to recruit them in its latest attempt to tackle violent crime.

Senior commanders believe the Nepalese soldiers, who have served with distinction in the British army, would make ideal police officers, and that their discipline, strength and fearlessness would prove crucial to combating the burgeoning threat of knife and street crime.

Chief Superintendent Kevin Hurley will tell Home Office officials and MPs on the Commons

Home Affairs Committee on Tuesday that agreeing to offer thousands of Gurkhas settlement in the UK will provide an invaluable resource. 'Gurkhas would make exceptional members of the police service. Many are multilingual in languages from the Indian subcontinent, highly motivated, loyal and an excellent way of diversifying our workforce,' he said.

Senior Met officers have also revealed that previous attempts to recruit Gurkhas have been ignored by the armed forces.

The Gurkhas' courage will be highlighted hours earlier when five soldiers from the 1st Battalion, Royal Gurkha Rifles, are presented with the Military Cross at Buckingham Palace for bravery in Afghanistan.

The High Court last month ordered the government to recognise a 'debt of honour' to the men by reconsidering a refusal to allow more than 2,000 off them permission to live in Britain because they retired before July 1997.

theresa - November 10, 2008 10:46 AM (GMT)

I detest that nazi whore lizard-queen, her ugly scumbag family, pedophile pope, 'spanish-fly' nicolas and 'goat-boy kolvenbach' and others who have wrecked her. I mourn for England, my roots, the unfulfilled dreams I had of seeing her in all her splendour. I am devastated.

craig-oxley - November 17, 2008 04:02 AM (GMT)

They need as many cops as they can get, for when they create the chaos. -Craig

Cops AND robbers - Police with theft and assault convictions allowed to stay in jobs

By James Slack
Last updated at 9:24 AM on 15th November 2008
http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-10...-stay-jobs.html

Police officers with convictions for gun crimes, benefit fraud and violent attacks are still serving, it emerged last night.

The offences include discharging a firearm, possession of a cannabis plant, being drunk and disorderly, assault and theft.

Many of the crimes took place while the officers were in post, supposedly protecting the public.

Last night experts said the public would be alarmed by the revelations, which point to a fall in standards.

MPs said they raised ‘serious questions’ over whether courts can trust the evidence given by police convicted of dishonesty.

The list of crimes relates to Hampshire Police.

Among its 4,000 officers, there are 42 separate convictions. The number of offences is the equivalent of more than one criminal conviction for every 100 officers.

If such a picture were repeated nationwide, the 144,000 police in England and Wales would have more than 1,580 convictions.

The Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO) confirmed that officers convicted of serious crimes while serving could remain in their post.

Unlike members of the public who break the law, they are protected by Government rules called Police and Misconduct Regulations.

These set down a range of alternatives to dismissal – such as a reprimand, fine or reduction in rank. Decisions are left to individual forces, which opt for dismissal only in more severe cases.

Liberal Democrat justice spokesman Chris Huhne said: ‘The public will be rightly concerned that there are serving police officers who have committed crimes as serious as assault and firearms offences.

‘Serious questions arise over whether the criminal courts can trust the evidence given by police officers who have committed benefit fraud.’

David Green, director of the Civitas think-tank, said: ‘Why are people convicted of crimes against civilians being allowed to remain in the police service?

‘It is also surely inappropriate that people who have been convicted of serious crimes such as theft and dishonesty should be permitted to hold such a job.’
The revelations came to light after Mr Huhne was approached by a woman sacked from her job as a civilian worker at Hampshire Police after being cautioned for a minor crime. Mr Huhne said: ‘It appears that Hampshire Constabulary is operating a two-tier justice system when dealing with criminal convictions.

‘It is deeply unfair that police staff are being fired for minor offences, while police officers convicted of more serious offences are allowed to keep their jobs.’

A police spokesman said: 'Hampshire Constabulary adheres to national standards for the discipline procedures for both police staff and police officers. The Home Office sets procedures to be followed for officers with criminal convictions.

'Hampshire Constabulary sets and expects high standards from its officers and staff. A criminal conviction does not preclude employment, however very careful consideration is always given to people with convictions. All cases are dealt with according to their individual merits and circumstances.

'It should be noted that some of the convictions against officers were incurred many years ago, when those convicted were very young and before they joined the police service.'

A small number of other forces have disclosed having officers with previous convictions, but usually only for minor crimes. Critics said this made the Hampshire revelations even more extraordinary.

Two years ago, the Met said 74 of its officers received either a criminal conviction or caution, mainly for drink-driving, between 2000 and 2005 but were kept on.
Paul West, ACPO lead for the Professional Standards Working Group and Chief Constable of West Mercia, said: ‘The police service expects good conduct and probity from its officers and staff at all times.

‘Where wrongdoing is alleged, police officers are investigated and action taken as appropriate to each case.

It should be remembered that there are just over 140,000 police officers in the country, the overwhelming majority of whom serve the public with dedication.
‘Police staff members are subject to the ACAS code of practice on disciplinary and grievance procedures, while police officers are subject to the Police and Misconduct Regulations set by Government.

‘From December 1, 2008, new Police and Misconduct Regulations will come into effect which will simplify and speed up the discipline process and in many respects will bring it in line with procedures relating to police staff.’

Those with existing convictions for serious crimes are barred from joining the police altogether.

Alexandra - November 17, 2008 04:19 PM (GMT)

> QUOTE (theresa @ Nov 10 2008, 05:46 AM)
>
> I detest that nazi whore lizard-queen, her ugly scumbag family, pedophile pope, 'spanish-fly' nicolas and 'goat-boy kolvenbach' and others who have wrecked her. I mourn for England, my roots, the unfulfilled dreams I had of seeing her in all her splendour. I am devastated.

I have a lot of English and Scottish roots myself, Theresa. One great-great-grandfather was a Rose...think Clan Rose.

theresa - November 19, 2008 02:09 PM (GMT)

Yes, Alexandra, but you're the 'real deal', friend ;)! Luther Rose was the 'real deal'! Remember the War of the Roses, Catholics vs. Protestants? Luciferian filth Elizabeth II now wears the corrupt version.....the red rose minus the black cross of the Luther Rose.

I'm of the Clan Buchanan. I wanted to see Scotland, also, especially the little statue of Greyfriar's Bobby.

BTW, ever see the movie "The War of the Roses"? Kathleen Turner, Michael Douglas!

Alexandra - November 19, 2008 04:04 PM (GMT)

I think I may also be descended from Clan Stuart--think King James. :) I think I'm descended from at least two or three Scottish clans.

Speaking of Wars of the Roses...I'm descended from the Lancasters AND the Yorks! :D

theresa - November 19, 2008 04:33 PM (GMT)

All I know is I am linked to Smithsons, Brownings, Schmittous, Van Leers (whoever they were) but one righteous man was my Dad who was a devout Bible-Believer.

I gave up the search for my ancestry after visiting the Mormon Temple in Los Angeles, seeing a long room of bodies (Gollems) hunched over screens of blue light' trying to get their ancestors into their heaven. Of course, we know the Bible teaches a man is not responsible for his ancestors or descendents sins, only his own.

My room-mate, a very nice girl, at the time was engaged to a Mormon guy who was really a gentleman, until she married him. He became a tyrant, jerked her emotionally back and forth. Treated her the same way he complained about how his father treated his mother. What a waste! Hmm....!

Alexandra - November 19, 2008 05:01 PM (GMT)

I had Butler ancestors, Richard and Samuel (father and son) who were deacons...apparently Puritans. Richard Butler helped found Hartford, Connecticut. A lot of them were in Wethersfield.

theresa - November 19, 2008 05:13 PM (GMT)

Wow! You've done your homework. Think I'm gonna visit the Mormon free ancestry site an see what I can find. There's a site in England called AllThingsSmithson I think I'll check out again. I know we're related to the gate-keepers at Smithsonian Institution.

craig-oxley - December 1, 2008 04:38 AM (GMT)

He should be gone from this country and sent back to bloody India. Don't come slagging off the ANTI-POPE/EU group known as BNP. A party fighting for National Sovereignity of this once great Reformation nation. -Craig

Close UK borders, says 'curry king'

http://uk.news.yahoo.com/21/20081130/tuk-c...ng-6323e80.html

Britain should close its borders to all immigrants for up to 10 years to prevent potential racial unrest, says one of the country's highest-profile Indian-born businessmen. Skip related content

Related photos / videos Close UK borders, says 'curry king' Sir Gulam Noon, known as the "curry king" because of his ready-meals firm, said a ban was required to prevent extremists such as the British National Party exploiting tensions.

"I strongly feel that whoever are the immigrants here, we better give them jobs and give them dignity to live here before we import some more," he told BBC1's Andrew Marr Show.

"I do not want a situation whereby a party like the BNP say that 'listen, all your jobs are being taken away by immigrants'. We have to be extremely careful. Some sort of a ban should be there."

The suggestion that the ban could last up to a decade comes from a forthcoming autobiography, the Mail on Sunday reported.

It said that Mr Noon writes in the book: "We should wait for five or ten years, until all the newcomers have been properly integrated and assimilated into the country. Until then we should just shut the door.

"We can only accommodate so many. If the room will only hold ten people, hold a meeting for ten people and not 20. It is simple logic. There is always a danger that for the sake of political correctness, or a party's political advantage, we find ourselves filling up the country with too many immigrants who will disturb the balance and upset the people, particularly the young people, of the host community."

Mr Noon escaped from the Taj Mahal Hotel in Mumbai during the recent terror attacks.

craig-oxley - December 28, 2008 08:23 AM (GMT)

[dohtml]Linkin Park - Shadow Of The Day
